—²⁰. As by 'man,' in the Word, is properly signified the inward, or spiritual man; and by 'beast,' the outward, or natural; by God's command, all beasts and birds were brought with Noah into the ark (Gen.vii.1-9) . . . By the 'beasts' brought with Noah into the ark are meant affections of the natural man which correspond to spiritual affection, and which belonged to the men of that Church.

—²¹. As by 'man' is signified the inward spiritual man, and by 'beasts,' the outward, or natural, and by 'Egypt,' the natural man separated from the spiritual, which is utterly destroyed, and is no longer man, but a beast; when the Exodus from Egypt is treated of, it is recorded that 'Jehovah caused it to rain hail, mingled with fire, and it smote everything that was in the fields, from man even to beast' (Ex.ix.22-25) . . . Also that 'Jehovah smote all the first-born in the land of Egypt, from man even to beast' (Ex.xii.29). But among the Sons of Israel, on the other hand, by whom was represented the Church, it was commanded that 'they should sacrifice to Jehovah all the first-born of man and of beast' (Num.xviii.15).

— . As these things were represented by 'man and beast;' from a holy rite in use in the Ancient Church, 'the King of Nineveh proclaimed a fast, and commanded that no man or beast should taste or drink anything, and that man and beast should be covered with sackcloth' (Jon.iii.7,8).

—²². As by 'beasts' are signified affections, in both senses, it was forbidden to make a figure of any beast' (Deut.iv.17) . . . For if they had (done so) they would have worshipped them.

— . This also was the reason why the Egyptians . . . made for themselves figures of beasts, as of calves, serpents, and many others; originally . . . for the sake of the signification.

—²⁴. As beasts signified various things of the natural man, it was sometimes commanded that when they gave cities and regions to the curse, they should also slaughter the beasts; because the beasts represented the evil and profane things which appertained to the men who were given to the curse.

— . As all species of beasts signified various things which appertain to the men of the Church, laws were laid down concerning beasts, as to what were to be eaten, and what were not to be eaten (Lev.xi). Those which were to be eaten signified goods, and those which were not to be eaten signified evils (Lev.xx.25,26).

—²⁵. From what has been said, it may be seen why it is that sacrifices of various kinds of beasts were permitted . . . Hence it was that the beasts for the sacrifices were varied according to the reasons for which they were offered.

—³⁰. By 'the beast of the field which had shade under it,' and by 'the birds of the heavens which dwelt in its branches' (Dan.iv.12) are signified affections of good, and thoughts and perceptions of truth therefrom.

—³⁸. 'The beast of the field maketh its cry unto Thee' (Joel i.20) = the grief of those who are in natural affection, and thence in longing for Knowledge of truth and of good. 730¹³.

—³⁹. 'Fear not, beasts of My fields' (Joel ii.22) . . . By 'beasts of His fields' are meant those who are affections of good, and long for instruction from the Word. 'Beasts' = those who are in affections of good of the natural man; and 'fields' = doctrinal things from the Word.

—⁴². 'Beast' (Zech.xiv.15) = affection of the natural man; and 'the plague of the beast,' the hurting and destruction of that affection.

—⁴³. By 'the beasts and the bird which shall be consumed' (Jer.xii.4) are signified affections of good, and thoughts of truth thence derived. 1100¹⁴.

—⁴⁴. By 'bird and beast' (Is.xviii.6) are signified thoughts of truth and affections of good, both rational and natural. 1100¹⁸.

—⁵⁰. In the opposite sense, 'beasts' = evil affections, which are the cupidities of adulterating and destroying the goods of the Church; and 'wild beasts,' the cupidities of falsifying, and thus destroying, the truths of the Church. Ill.

—⁶³. 'Give not the soul of the turtledove unto the beast' (Ps.lxxiv.19) = give not spiritual good to those who are in cupidities of evil.

—⁶⁴. By 'the devastation of the beasts which shall dismay' (Hab.ii.17) is signified the destruction of truths through cupidities of evil.

—⁶⁵. By 'the tooth of beasts' (Deut.xxii.24) is signified the Sensual as to cupidities of evil.

—⁶⁶. 'Behold every form of reptile and of beast, an abomination' (Ezek.viii.10.) By these things, which were shown to the prophet, are signified the direful cupidities and falsities in which the Israelites were . . .

—⁶⁷. As wild beasts and beasts signified goods of the understanding and goods of the will, which are of the affections; and representative . . . figures were made by the ancients who knew correspondences . . . which their descendants worshipped . . . wild beasts and beasts became idols, as is evident in Is.xlvi.1. 811¹⁵.

[E. 650.] By 'the beasts of the south' (Is.xxx.6) are signified adulterations of good and falsifications of truth, whence originate every kind of evils and falsities with those of the Church who are solely in external things; they are called 'beasts of the south,' because they are able to be with those who have the Word.

—^e. By 'the beasts the Lord was with' (Mark.i.13) are not meant beasts, but Hells, and evils rising up therefrom. 730⁴¹.

651. That affections of the natural, separated from the affections of the spiritual man, which are evil cupidities of every kind originating from infernal loves, would destroy them, is signified by 'the beast that ascendeth out of the bottomless pit' (Rev.xi.7).

654⁴¹. By 'the beasts of the south' (Is.xxx.6) are signified cupidities which are from the natural man, putting out the light which the man of the Church will have from the Word.

695¹². By 'beast' (Zech.viii.10) is signified the affection of natural good.

701³¹. By 'beast' (Gen.ix.10) is signified affection of good; by 'wild beast,' affection of truth; by 'bird,' what is of thought, and by 'creeping thing of the earth,' what is scientific, and which lives from those affections.

710³⁴. As by beasts are signified affections; by beasts from the herd, exterior affections, and by beasts from the flock, interior affections, the first-born of them were sanctified. (Ex.xiii.11-15; etc.).

724²⁸. That all spiritual and natural truth will be destroyed, and that all the intelligence and knowledge of truth will consequently perish, is signified by, 'I will cut off from her man and beast' (Ezek.xiv.19).

725⁸. As only falsities fight against truths and goods, and destroy them, and not evils without falsities; the women, little children, and beasts, by which, with the nations, were signified evils, were not smitten (Deut.xx.14); for evils can be tamed, amended, and reformed by means of truths.

768⁴. By 'the seed of man' (Jer.xxxi.27) is signified spiritual truth, from which man has intelligence; and by 'the seed of beast' is signified natural truth, from which man has knowledge, and according to it, life; both from affection of good. . . 'Beast'=natural affection.

774. 'I saw a beast coming up out of the sea' (Rev.xiii.1)=reasonings from the natural man which confirm the separation of faith from life. 'A beast coming up out of the sea'=those things which are of the natural man; for by 'beasts,' in the Word, are signified the affections of the natural man in both senses. 780. 782.

780⁹. By 'the four beasts coming up out of the sea' (Dan.vii) is described the successive vastation of the Church. 781¹³.

787. 'To wonder after the beast' (Rev.xiii.3), when predicated of the disagreement of the Word being apparently removed through invented conjunctions of works with faith,=acceptance by the more learned, and reception by the less learned.

789. 'They adored the dragon which gave Power to the beast' (ver.4)=the acknowledgment of salvation and justification through faith alone, fortified and strengthened through these invented methods of conjunction, and consequently received for doctrine. . . 'The Power of the beast from the dragon'=the fortification and strengthening of that dogma through invented conjunctions of faith with works.

790. 'And they adored the beast' (ver.4)=the acknowledgment of the reasonings by means of which the disagreement with the Word is apparently removed.

791. 'Who is like unto the beast?' (ver.4)=a confession that nothing is more true.

794. By 'the beast' are meant those who, by means of reasonings, separate faith from life, and they who do this, destroy the goods of the Word.

815. 'I saw another beast coming up out of the earth' (Rev.xiii.11)=confirmations from the sense of the letter of the Word in favour of faith separated from life, and consequent falsifications of the truth of the Church. 816.

— The reason that by the former beast are signified reasonings from the natural man, is that by 'the sea,' from which that beast came up, is signified the Natural of man; but the reason that by this 'beast' are signified confirmations from the sense of the letter of the Word, is that by 'the earth,' from which it came up, is signified the Church where the Word is.

— The reason falsifications of the Word are also signified by this 'beast,' is that the Word can never confirm a false dogma, unless it is falsified. . .

817¹³. Various beasts appear in the Spiritual World, but they are not such beasts as are in our world, that is, beasts which have been born; but they are correspondences of the affections and derivative thoughts of Spirits and Angels; wherefore as soon as those affections and derivative thoughts are varied and cease, they vanish out of sight.

819. 'He maketh all the Power of the former beast before it' (ver.12)=the connexion from the natural man with the sense of the letter of the Word, through which the religion of faith separated is strengthened. Ex.

821. 'He causeth the earth and the inhabitants in it to adore the former beast' (ver.12)=whence those in the Church who are in falsities and derivative evils, acknowledge at heart the agreement. . . 'The former beast,' here, =the agreement of the reasonings with the sense of the letter of the Word; because by this 'beast' are signified confirmations therefrom. . .

826. 'He seduceth them that dwell upon the earth by means of the signs which are given him to do before the beast' (ver.14)=the persuading of those who are of the Church that they are truths, by means of attestations from the Word conjoined with reasonings from the natural man. . . 'The beast' who did the signs=confirmations from the sense of the letter of the Word; and 'the beast' before which the signs were done=reasonings from the natural man, here, therefore, the conjunction of confirmations from the Word with these reasonings is signified, and when they are conjoined, they become attestations and persuadings; for reasonings in spiritual things from the natural man are not effective before the world, but when they are confirmed from the Word, they are effective . . .

827. 'Saying to them that dwell upon the earth, that they should make an image of the beast' (ver.14)=an established regulation that such things should be wholly taught in the Church. . . 'An image of the beast'=the doctrine of faith separate from good works, and worship thence derived, confirmed from the sense of the letter of the Word by means of reasonings from the natural man . . .

831. 'It was given to it to give breath to the image of the beast' (ver.15)=that through conjunction with the Word, there was something of spiritual life in it. . . 'The image of the beast'=the doctrine of faith separate from good works, which is taught and believed in the Church . . .

832. 'That the image of the beast should both speak' (ver.15)=that hence there flowed in from Heaven something accordant into the thought nearest speech, which is excited and kindled by natural love . . .

833. 'And causeth that whoever does not adore the image of the beast should be killed' (ver.15)=threats of eternal death against those who do not believe each and everything thus established. . . 'The image of the beast'=the doctrine of separated faith, and a regulation that each and everything therein established should be taught and believed. 885.

840. 'That no one should buy and sell, if he has not the mark of the beast' (ver.17)=a forbidding that anyone should teach or learn anything except what is acknowledged, and thus accepted as doctrine.

841. 'Or the name of the beast, or the number of his name' (ver.17)=or the like thereof as to life, or the like thereof as to faith.

845. 'Let him that hath intelligence reckon the number of the beast' (ver.18)=that those who are in enlightenment should investigate the character of the faith of this religiosity.

885. 'If anyone shall adore the beast and his image' (Rev.xiv.9)=that they should not acknowledge the religiosity concerning faith separated from life, or the doctrine thereof. 'The beast'=the religiosity of faith separated from life. 891.

932. 'Having the victory over the beast' (Rev.xv.2)=those who have lived the life of charity, and consequently have not falsified the Word. . . By 'the beast' are signified those who are in faith separated from charity; or, what is the same thing, who are in faith without good works, and live according to that faith . . . As by 'the beast' is also signified the confirmation from the Word of separated faith, and consequently the falsification of the Word, by 'having the victory over the beast', is signified that they have not falsified the Word. That by the two 'beasts' of the dragon are signified faith separated from the goods of life, and also the confirmation of the Word in order to confirm that faith, see above.

963. 'On the men who had the mark of the beast, and who adored its image' (Rev.xvi.2)=those who acknowledge faith alone and its doctrine, and live according to it. 'The beast'=those who are in faith alone, or in faith separated from the goods of life, and who confirm it by means of reasonings from the natural man. . . 'Its mark'=the acknowledgment, reception, and attestation of it. 'Its image'=the doctrine. 'To adore it'=to acknowledge it in heart and life.

971³. To man alone is it given to think as of himself concerning good and evil . . . so to think is not given to any beast. A beast can indeed do what is good, and shun what is evil; but not from itself; but either from instinct, or from usage, or from fear; but never from the thought that it is such good or such evil, thus from itself. Wherefore they who will that man should not shun evils as from himself . . . will that he should live as a beast.

988. 'The fifth Angel poured out his vial upon the throne of the beast' (ver.10)=the state of the Church made manifest as to the doctrine of faith. . . 'The throne of the beast'=the doctrine of faith. . . By 'the beast' is signified faith such as there is in that Church . . .

998. 'I saw out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast' (ver.13)=from the thought, reasoning, religion, and doctrine of those who are in faith alone, and in the confirmations of it from the natural man. . . 'The beast'=those who, by means of reasonings from the natural man, confirm faith alone. For there were two beasts . . . and by 'the beast out of the sea' is meant that faith confirmed by means of reasonings from the natural man; and by 'the beast out of the earth,' is meant that faith confirmed from the sense of the letter of the Word, and its consequent falsification; but here, 'the beast coming up out of the sea' is meant, thus faith confirmed by means of reasonings; because it is added 'out of the mouth of the false prophet,' and 'the false prophet' has a similar signification to 'the beast out of the earth' . . .

1038. 'I saw a woman sitting upon a scarlet beast' (Rev.xvii.3)=the dominion of that religiosity over the holy things of the Word. . . 'The scarlet beast'=the Word as to its holy things. (III.) The reason Divine Truth can be signified by 'a beast', is that many holy things of the Church are signified in the Word by 'beasts' . . . By 'the beast' here, is signified the Word, that is, the Word in the letter, where it is natural; for 'a beast' in a general sense, in the Word, signifies what is natural as to affection. 1086², Ex.

1054. 'The beast, which thou sawest, was and is not' (ver.8)=that in the beginning the Word was received and read in the Church, and was afterwards taken away from the people and not read. 'The scarlet beast'=the Word in the letter as to the holy things of it.

1055. By 'the scarlet beast' is meant the Word.

1058. 'Seeing the beast which was and is not' (ver.8)=the knowledge that the Word had been received, but yet was rejected. 'The beast'=the Word. 1059.

1067. 'The beast which was, and is not, he himself is the eighth, and is of the seven, and goeth into perdition' (ver.11)=that this truth also is profaned, that the Word is Divine, while it is rejected. 'The beast'=the Word.

1070. 'They receive Power as Kings one hour with the beast' (ver.12) . . . =those who ascribed Divine holiness to the Word, and not so much to the sayings of the Pope.

[E.] 1071. 'These have one mind, and give their power, and Power, unto the beast' (ver.17)=unanimity that the Word is Divine Truth, upon which the Church as to its doctrine is dependent. . . By 'the beast' is signified the Word.

1079. 'The ten horns which thou sawest upon the beast' (ver.16)=the truths of the Church from the Word with the Reformed, especially concerning the Divine Power of the Lord, and the Divine holiness of the Word. . . 'The beast'=the Word.

1086. 'To give their kingdom to the beast' (ver.17)=the acknowledgment of the Word as Divine, and the founding of the Church upon it. . . By 'the beast' is signified the Word received and yet rejected by those who are meant by 'the harlot,' and still maintained by others within Babylonia, and without it.

1100⁷. 'Beast and bird' (Dan.iv.12)=affections and thoughts.

—¹⁰. By 'beasts' are meant its affections (Job xii.7).

—¹⁴. By 'the birds of the heavens, even to the beast, having flown away' (Jer.ix.10) is signified that there was no thought of truth from Knowledge of it, nor affection of good.

—¹⁶. 'To consume man and beast' (Zeph.i.3)=to destroy spiritual and natural affection.

1201². On the soul of beasts. Regarded in itself, the soul of beasts is spiritual; for affection, of whatever kind, good or evil, is spiritual, for it is a derivation of some love, and derives its origin from the light and heat which proceed from the Lord as a Sun. . .

—³. The beasts and wild beasts, the souls of which are evil affections, were not created from the beginning; as mice, poisonous serpents, crocodiles, basilisks, vipers, and the like, together with various noxious insects; but originated together with Hell, in ponds, marshes, decaying and stinking waters, and where there are cadaverous, stercoraceous, and urinous effluvia; with which the wicked loves of the infernal Societies communicate. . . For in everything spiritual there is a plastic force, wherever homogeneous exhalations are present in nature; and in everything spiritual there is also a propagative force, for it forms not only the organs of the senses and motions, but also the organs of procreation, either through wombs or eggs. But from the beginning, only useful and clean beasts were created, the souls of which are good affections.

—⁴. But it is to be known, that the souls of beasts are not spiritual in the same degree as that in which are the souls of men; but they are spiritual in a lower degree. . . There are three degrees of natural affections in man, and the same in beasts; in the lowest degree are insects of various kinds, in a higher are the flying creatures of heaven, and in a still higher are the beasts of the earth which were created from the beginning.

1202². The difference between men and beasts is like that between waking and dreaming, and between light and shade. Man is spiritual and at the same time natural; whereas a beast is not spiritual, but natural. . . A beast has not will and understanding; but instead of will it has affection, and instead of understanding, knowledge.

—³. With man, the will and understanding may act as one, or not as one. . . But with a beast, affection and knowledge make one, and cannot be separated; for it knows that which is of its affection, and is affected by that which is of its knowledge. As the two faculties, called knowledge and affection, cannot be separated with a beast, a beast cannot destroy the order of its life; hence it is that it is born into the whole knowledge of its affection.

—⁴. Therefore man can not only think analytically, and make inferences, but can also be receptive from the Lord through Heaven, and become intelligent and wise. This no beast can do; what it knows is not from any understanding, but from the knowledge of the affection which is its soul. . .

—⁵. The interiors of man, which belong to both his minds, can be raised by the Lord to the Lord, and be conjoined with Him; hence it is that every man lives to eternity. It is not so with a beast; it does not enjoy any spiritual mind, but only a natural one; therefore its interiors, which are solely of knowledge and affection, cannot be raised by the Lord, and be conjoined with Him, wherefore it does not live after death.

—⁶. A beast is indeed led by means of a certain spiritual influx, which falls into its soul; but as its Spiritual cannot be raised, it cannot be otherwise than determined downwards, and look to such things as are of its affection. . .

—^e. A beast, which has not any thought from understanding, but only knowledge from affection, can do nothing but make sounds, and vary the sound of its affection according to its appetite.

1207². That nature serves for the clothing of what is spiritual, is evident from the souls of beasts, which are spiritual affections, and which are clothed by material things which are in the world.

D. Wis. iii. 4³. With beasts, there are not the two higher degrees, but only the lowest, wherefore the initialements of their life are not receptacles of the love and wisdom of the Lord, but are receptacles of natural affection and knowledge, into which they are also born. With clean beasts, these receptacles are not bent back contrary to the order of the universal flow, but are conformable to it, wherefore after birth they are straightway carried into their functions, and know them; for they have not been able to pervert their affections, because they have no Intellectual which could think and reason from spiritual light, and do violence to the laws of Divine order.

vii. 3². As every man possesses a double breathing, one within the other, he can think rationally from the understanding, nay, even spiritually, and thereby also be distinguished from beasts. . . A general and a singular pulsation and breathing also exist in beasts; but both the external and the internal with them are natural. . .

Can. On God iv. 12. In the Hells there are (instantaneously) created serpents, and hurtful beasts and birds; not that they are created by the Lord, but that good things are turned into evil ones.

Coro. 3. The same four Churches on this Earth are described by 'the four beasts rising up out of the sea' (Dan.vii).

—². That the states of the Church are described in the Word by 'beasts,' in the same way as by metals, III.

—³. This originates in the Spiritual World, where all the affections and derivative thoughts of Angels and Spirits, at a distance from them, are presented to view as beasts; which also appear in an entirely similar form to that of the beasts in the natural world; affections of the love of good, as beasts which are gentle, and are good uses; and affections of the love of evil, as beasts which are fierce, and are evil uses. Hence it is, that 'beasts' are so frequently mentioned in the Word; and, in the spiritual sense, by them are signified affections, inclinations, perceptions, and thoughts.

Docu. 302. C. 9. Man cannot become a beast, but he can become as a beast.

Beast (of burden). Jumentum.

A. 5939. 'This do, load your beasts' (Gen. xlv. 17) = that they should fill up all truth with good. 'To load the beasts' = to fill up truths. . . As by 'asses' are signified scientifics, now that conjunction with internal good has been effected through the medium, they are scientific truths; on which account, instead of 'asses,' they are here called 'beasts.'

6049. 'Cattle,' are all beasts, larger and smaller, of both the flock and the herd, besides camels, mules, asses. These latter beasts signify such things as have reference to truths; but the former, namely, those of the herd and of the flock, such things as have reference to good. Hence it is, that all these beasts in general, which are cattle, signify the truths from which comes good.

9057². 'To set upon the beast' (Luke x. 34) = to assist from his own Intellectual. . . 'A beast' = what is intellectual. Refs.

9140. 'And shall send in his beast' (Ex. xxii. 5) = if he does this with but little consciousness. 'Beast' = the pleasure, or appetite, of the body. . . When a beast is called 'a beast,' it signifies affections which are merely corporeal, and which have but little of reason in them; for the more a man acts from the body, the less he acts from reason. . . 'A beast,' also, in the Original Language, is so called from what is brutish and stupid; thus from but little consciousness. III.

R. 780. 'Beasts and sheep' (Rev. xviii. 13) = that they no longer have worship from the outward, or natural, goods and truths of the Church. . . By 'beasts and sheep' are meant the sacrifices made of oxen, bullocks, he-goats, sheep, kids, rams, goats, lambs. Oxen and bullocks are meant by 'beasts,' (the rest) by 'sheep.'

E. 375⁴². By 'he set him upon his Own beast' (Luke x. 34) is signified, that he did this according to his own intelligence, as far as he was able; for a horse signifies the Intellectual, and so likewise does 'a beast.' 444¹⁴.

1154. 'Beasts and sheep' (Rev. xviii. 13) = worship from truths and goods which are from a spiritual natural origin, profaned. 'Beasts' = the truths which regard charity. . . By 'beasts' are signified the truths which regard the goods of charity. They are chiefly asses for riding, and for carrying burdens, by which are signified such things as are of use, and are for instruction. III.

—'. 'To set him upon his own beast' = to instruct him according to his capability.

Beat. Pulsare.

Beating. Pulsus. Pulsatio *.

A beating noise. Pulsatile.

A. 176. (The beating of the heart felt at the resuscitation.)

3428³. (Such) are like people who only knock (at the doors of wisdom).

3884³. The third operation (of Heaven) which I perceived, was into the systole and diastole of the heart. . . The times of the beating were regular, about three to each alternation of the breathing, yet of such a character, as to cease in the pulmonic actions, and thus govern them. . . The alternations of the beats were so observable, that I could count them; they were distinct and soft.

—⁴. Hence it was evident, that Heaven, or the Grand Man, possesses cardiac beatings, and also respirations, and that the cardiac pulsation of Heaven has a correspondence with the heart, and with its systolic and diastolic movements.

3885. It was also granted me to observe the reciprocations of the beatings of the heart (of Heaven), and I was then informed by the Angels, that this is the source of the beating of the heart, and of the respirations of each and all men on the Earth; and that the reason they take place at different moments, is that both the cardiac pulsation, and the pulmonary respiration, which exist in the Heavens, pass off into a kind of continuous action, and so into an endeavour, which is of such a character, as to excite these movements with variety, according to each person's state.

3886. The variations of the pulsations and respirations in the Heavens are manifold, being as numerous as the Societies; for they are according to the states of their thought and affection. . . but the general pulsation, and the general respiration, are as above stated.

—'. It was once granted me to observe the cardiac pulsations of those who were of the province of the occiput, and to observe, one by one, the pulsations of the celestial there, and, one by one, the pulsations of the spiritual there. Those of the celestial were still and soft; but those of the spiritual were strong and vibratory. The beats of the pulsations of the celestial were to those of the spiritual as 5 to 2; for the pulsation of the celestial inflows into the pulsation of the spiritual, and so goes forth, and passes into nature. (See below, D. 4136.) The conversation of the celestial Angels is not heard by the spiritual Angels, but is perceived under the appearance of a beating of the heart. . .

4046. Many Spirits appeared. . . who had a general action by means of a method of the beating of the heart, but it was a kind of reciprocal undulation downwards and upwards. . . Afterwards, when I applied my hand to the left side of the skull, or head, I felt a beating under the palm, undulating in the same way, downwards and upwards. . .

[A. 4046]⁷. There were afterwards others, who also inflowed into the pulsation, but not through an undulation downwards and upwards, but crosswise; others again, who inflowed not reciprocally, but more continuously; and still others, from whom the act of pulsation jumped from one place to another. (The character of all these kinds of Spirits explained.)

6432⁶. 'Beating upon the paps' (Is.xxxii.12)=to be in grief on account of the loss of the good of truth.

8530. Truth is to good... as the breathing of the lungs to the beating of the heart...

9818⁸. The breathing of the lungs corresponds to the life of truth... while the beating of the heart corresponds to the life of the will, thus of love.

H. 95(f). In Heaven, there is a beating like that of the heart, and a breathing like that of the lungs, but more interior. Refs.

— . The beating of the heart there, varies according to the states of love. Refs.

446(c). A beating of the heart, and a breathing of the lungs, reign in the universal body, and flow in everywhere, by turns. Refs.

L. 51³. See BEATING-micatio, at this ref.

F. 19^o. In the Spiritual World, the character of everyone, as to faith, is known merely from his breathing, and as to charity, from the beating of his heart.

W. 378. All affections which are of love induce changes in the movements of the heart, as is evident from the beating of the arteries, which act synchronously with the heart... Those felt by the finger are only that the heart beats either slow or fast, high or low, soft or hard, regularly or irregularly, and so on. (See HEART.)

390. As it has not been known that the spirit of man has a pulsation and a respiration equally with the body, it could not be known that the pulsation and breathing of the spirit in man inflow into the pulsation and breathing of his body, and produce them. Therefore, as the spirit of man possesses a pulsation and a breathing equally with the body, it follows that there is a like correspondence of the pulsation and breathing of a man's spirit with the pulsation and breathing of his body...

—². In a word, the life of a man's body depends upon the correspondence of its pulsation and breathing with the pulsation and breathing of his spirit; and when this correspondence ceases, the life of the body ceases...

391. When (Spirits and Angels) have been questioned, they said... that they feel the beating of the heart in the breast, and of the arteries in the wrist, equally with those who are men in the natural world.

P. 119^o. That the Lord continually urges and presses man to open the door to Him, is evident from the Lord's words, 'Behold, I stand at the door, and knock...' (Rev.iii.20).

338³. The delight of a Spirit's life... constitutes... his very breathing, and also the beating of his heart.

R. 217. 'Behold, I stand at the door, and knock'=that the Lord is present with everyone, in the Word, and therein presses to be received, and teaches how.

386. I heard... as it were a beating noise, and a hoarse sound mingled with it...

—⁵. The disputation which was heard as a beating noise, was from those who are in charity alone... T.460.

616. 'I heard the voice of harpers, playing on their harps' (Rev.xiv.2)=confession of the Lord from gladness of heart, by the spiritual Angels in the lower Heavens. 'To play the harp'=to confess the Lord from spiritual truths.

M. 232². We followed the cry, O how learned! and lo, there were some hundreds standing on one spot, beating the ground with their feet... T.333.

D. 3673. On the pulsation of adulterers, and of those who are cruel... I observed that it fell on the left side, outside, beating as the heart does, but only in the outermost skin of the breast. This pulsation was felt by me as not being within the body, but outside of it; thus not within the Grand Man, but outside of it.

4136. On the beating of the heart.

— . It has also been granted to feel the beating of the heart in the occiput, very vividly. The beating of the heart of the spiritual was rapid, vibratory, and strong. The beating of the heart of the celestial is slow, almost like that of men, still, not vibratory. The beats of the spiritual pulsation, to those of the celestial, are as 23 to 1; the reason is, that the celestial pulsation is continued through the spiritual (Angels), and thus goes forth from the Celestial.

4317. On the beating of the heart.

— . It has been granted to feel the beating of the heart of Heaven, in general. It was great and powerful, somewhat slower than mine, attended with a rather loud noise; and I was told that I was then in the pulsation of the heart of Heaven. I then perceived that I was among little children. This was in the middle of the breast. It was afterwards granted to feel the pulsation of the heart of the Heaven of angelic Spirits, which was in front, above the navel. The vibrations were more rapid.

E. 167. These two kingdoms of the mind (the will and understanding) correspond to the two kingdoms of the body; namely, the will, to the heart and its beating; and the understanding, to the lungs and their breathing.

— . The beating of the heart (in Heaven) is according to the state of the love. Refs.

212. Concerning those who say that they are in truths, when, nevertheless, they are in falsities, because in no charity, it is said in the Word, that they would come to the door, and knock, but would not be admitted. To come to the door, and knock, is 'to adore at the feet' (Rev.iii.9).

248. 'Behold, I stand at the door, and knock' (Rev.iii.20)=the perpetual presence of the Lord... and at the same time His perpetual will that He shall be admitted... As 'a door' is mentioned, so also is 'knocking,' and thereby is signified His perpetual will of conjoining Himself with man, and of communicating to him the happinesses of Heaven...

323³. 'Play skilfully, with a loud noise' (Ps.xxxiii.3).

856. 'I heard the voice of harpers, playing on their harpers' (Rev. xiv. 2) = a glorification of the Lord from His Spiritual Kingdom. . . 'Harpers playing on the harps' = the affections of those who are in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom . . .

D. Wis. vi. 2. That the heart corresponds to the will . . . is evident from the varying of its beating according to the affections. Its variations are, that it beats either slow or fast, high or low, soft or hard, regularly or irregularly, and so on.

vii. 2. The spirit of man, too, has a heart and consequent pulsation . . . Gen. art.

— It has been granted to hear from the Angels, that with them, the arteries pulsate from the heart . . . equally as with men in the world ; also that the pulsation is varied with them according to the states of the love . . . They have touched their wrists, and told me.

—². Every Society has . . . its own peculiar and distinct beating of the heart . . .

—³. The universal distinction of the respirations and pulsations is according to the idea of God . . . The pulsation makes one with the love of the will . . .

vii. 3. The beating of the heart (of the spirit), and the breathing of its lungs, inflow into the beating of the heart, and into the breathing of the lungs with the man in the world. Gen. art.

Beating. Micatio.

L. 51³. Angels, equally with men, have breathing, and a beating of the heart . . . The beating of the heart, or pulsation, with them, is according to the reception of Divine Love from the Lord.

Beauty. Under ORNAMENT—decus.

Beauty. Formositas.

Beautiful. Formosus.

A. 418⁴. When good is not received, but only light . . . there are only an image and beauty of form from the light . . .

733⁷. Like two beautiful women . . .

H. 99^e. In some who are not beautiful—pulchris, (the spirit) is beautiful, bright, and angelic.

M. 477⁶. Maidens were brought, who were beauties, because images of heavenly affection.

Beauty. Pulchritudo.

Beautiful. Pulcher.

A. 553. Those of the female sex, who have died when aged . . . and who have lived in faith in the Lord, in charity towards the neighbour, and in happy marriage love with their husbands, after a succession of years (in Heaven), come more and more into the flower of young womanhood and youth, and into a beauty which surpasses every idea of beauty that was ever perceptible by the sight ; for goodness and charity are what shape the form, and make it like themselves, and cause the delight and beauty of charity to shine forth from every particle of their faces, so that they are the very forms of charity. Some have seen them, and they were astounded. H. 414. P. 324⁴.

— The form of charity is of such a nature . . . that the whole Angel, especially the face, is as it were charity . . . When this form is beheld, it is ineffable beauty, which affects with charity the very inmost life of the mind. Through the beauty of this form are exhibited, in an image, the truths of faith . . . They who have lived in faith in the Lord, that is, in the faith of charity, become such forms, or such beauties, in the other life. All the Angels are such forms, with innumerable variety.

1470. 'I know that thou art a woman beautiful in look' (Gen. xii. 11) = that truth from a celestial origin is delightful. Ex.

—^e. This celestial truth is beauty itself.

1480. 'The Egyptians saw the woman, that she was very beautiful' (Gen. xii. 14) = that the knowledge of Knowledges is very pleasing to itself. Ex.

1517. This (vinous) odour . . . is from the sphere of that beauty which is of form.

1588. 'Full of wisdom, and perfect in beauty, thou hast been in Eden, the Garden of God' (Ezek. xxviii. 12, 13) . . . From the Rational are there presented to view paradises, which, in magnificence and beauty, surpass every idea of the human imagination ; this is the effect of the influx of celestial spiritual light from the Lord. Nor is it the paradisiacal pleasantnesses and beauties which affect [the Angels], but the celestial spiritual things which live in them. 1622.

1590. This signifies (Gen. xiii. 10) that the outward man appeared to the Lord, such as it is in its beauty, when conjoined with the inward man . . . The nature of the beauty of the outward man, when conjoined with the inward, cannot be described, because it does not exist with any man, except the Lord alone . . . The three Heavens are images of the Lord's outward man, and their beauty can never be described . . .

1621. See ATMOSPHERE at this ref.

1756. The connexion of the things (in the inward sense), and its beauty . . .

1767. When the Word is being read by a man who loves it, and lives in charity . . . it is presented . . . before the Angels in such beauty . . . 1772.

1971. Such (representatives of the things which exist in Heaven) are perpetual with good Spirits, with a beauty and pleasantness hardly utterable.

2735. When genuine marriage love is represented in the other life, it is done by the most beautiful things ever seen by the eyes, or apprehended by the mind. It is represented by a maiden of inexpressible beauty, encompassed by a bright cloud, so lovely, that she may be said to be beauty itself in essence and form. . . All beauty, in the other life, is from marriage love. Des. H. 382.

3080. 'The damsel was very good in look' (Gen. xxiv. 16) = the beauty of the affection of truth. . . For all beauty is from good in which there is innocence. When good inflows into the outward man from the inward, it causes beauty. This is the source of all human beauty ; as may also be evident from the fact, that no one is affected by the face of another, but by the affection which shines forth from the face . . . To those who are in good, little children appear in beauty, in proportion to the innocence of charity which is in their faces, gestures, and speech. That it is goodness and charity which form and which cause beauty, see above, 553.

[A.] 3212³. When the body is put off, the spirit appears, and that in an entirely different form when he has been regenerated; it then has a form of love and charity in beauty inexpressible, instead of the former one, which was a form of hatred and cruelty with deformity also inexpressible.

3425³. He who is in correspondence, that is, he with whom the outward corresponds to the inward man, has a spirit which is bright and beautiful, such as is heavenly love in form . . .

3612^o. He would then know and perceive . . . Heaven in its form, that is, in its beauty and happiness.

3726³. There are purer substances, which are real ones, whose variations of form, when animated and modified by an influx of life from the Lord, present these Knowledges and truths to view; and whose agreements and harmonies, either in successive, or simultaneous presentation, are what affect [the mind], and cause that which is called beautiful, pleasant, and delightful.

3804². Truths themselves constitute as it were the face of good, the beauty of which is from the form of truth; but that which affects, is good.

3820. When (general ideas) are illustrated by singulars, they become firm and enduring; for thus they have the essential and formal things which are signified by 'the beauty of form, and beauty of look,' of Rachel . . .

3821. 'Rachel was beautiful in form, and beautiful in look' (Gen.xxix.17)=the affection of interior truth, as to what is spiritual. . . By 'form' is signified essence; and by 'look,' beauty thence derived.

3863⁹. 'To behold the King in his beauty' (Is.xxxiii.17) = the truths of faith which are from the Lord; and which are called 'beautiful' from good. . . That beauty is predicated of good, Refs.

4145³. The good which precedes, and initiates (into marriage love) is beauty, or agreement of manners, etc.

4180⁴. Divine Truth, without Divine Good, does not penetrate . . . but remains in what is outermost. . . Hence a man sometimes appears beautiful in outward form, while inwardly he is filthy.

4301³. When the eye sees objects, it perceives a pleasure and a delight therefrom according to the forms, colours, and consequent beauties in the whole and in the parts; in a word, according to the order and arrangements into connexion . . .

4409. All things of the outward sight have relation to good and truth, because they have relation to the proportions of objects, thus to their beauties and derivative pleasantnesses.

4985. 'Joseph was beautiful in form' (Gen.xxxix.6) = the good of life thence derived; 'and beautiful in look' = the truth of faith thence derived. Ex.

—². Hence it is evident, what is the source of beauty, that is, of that of the interior man; namely, that it is from the good of the will through the truth of faith. The truth of faith itself presents beauty to view in the outward form, but the good of the will imparts and forms it. Hence it is, that the Angels of Heaven are of ineffable beauty, for they are as it were loves and charities in form; wherefore, when they appear in their beauty, they affect the inmost [feelings] . . .

5116⁴. Man then blossoms in a similar way from the good of intelligence and of wisdom; that is, he is in interior gladness, and in beauty, because he is then in the effort to implant these goods in the life; that is, to bear fruit.

5133^e. All the Angels are forms of charity, the beauty of which is from the truths which are of faith, and the life of the beauty is from the good which is of charity.

5199. 'Beautiful in look' (Gen.xli.2)=what is of faith. . . Spiritual beauty is the affection of interior truth; and spiritual look is faith. Hence by 'beautiful in look' is signified the affection of the truth of faith. (Refs.) The reason spiritual beauty is the affection of interior truth, is that truth is the form of good. The good itself which is from the Divine in Heaven is that from which the Angels have life, but the form of their life comes through the truths which are from that good; yet the truth of faith does not make the beauty, but the affection itself which is in the truths of faith, and which is from good. The beauty which is solely from the truth of faith, is like the beauty of a painted or carved face; but the beauty which is from the affection of truth that is from good, is like the beauty of a living face animated by celestial love, for such as is the love or such as is the affection which shines forth from the form of the face, such is the beauty. Hence it is, that the Angels appear in beauty ineffable. From their faces shines forth the good of love through the truth of faith, which not only appear before the sight, but are also perceived from the spheres which are from them. The reason beauty is from this source, is that the universal Heaven is a Grand Man, and corresponds to each and everything with man; he, therefore, who is in the good of love, and thence in the truth of faith, is in the form of Heaven, consequently, in the beauty in which Heaven is, where the Divine from the Lord is all in all. Hence also it is, that those who are in Hell are in horrible deformity. . .

5377^e. Hence the Angels are in brightness and beauty ineffable, but the Infernals, in blackness and deformity inexpressible . . .

5433^e. All beauty is from truths. Refs.

6605. According to the communication of his thoughts and affections with Societies (does every Spirit and Angel appear) in a more beautiful human form; but if the communication of the thoughts and affections is diffused into Societies not according to the heavenly order, to the same degree the form is unbeautiful; whereas, if the communication is with infernal Societies, the form is deformed, and diabolical.

8707^e. Objects appear beautiful in that Light, according to their agreement with the good that is in the person [who sees them].

8988³. The Angels appear in a human form in the Heavens, entirely according to the truths which are with them in good, with beauty and resplendence according to the quality of the good from truths. The men of the Church appear in Heaven, as to the soul, in a similar way.

9182². Unlawful conjunction is that which is not from marriage love, but from some other affection, as from the affection of beauty . . .

9297⁰. Good Spirits, or Angels, are forms of good use . . . Hence it is that the quality of Spirits is known at once, as soon as they are present ; the truths of faith from their faces and their beauty as to form ; and the good itself which is of use, from the fire of the love there, which vivifies the beauty . . .

9503. The more perfectly the Angels receive the Divine Truth which is from the Lord, thus the Lord, the more perfect human forms they are, and at last, so perfect, that their beauty exceeds belief. He who has seen them, as I have, is astounded ; for they are heavenly loves and charities in form, which is the form truly human . . .

9863³. Hence it is said of the King of Tyre, that 'he is full of wisdom, and perfect in beauty' (Ezek.xxviii.12). 'Wisdom' is predicated of good, and 'beauty,' of truth ; for, in the Heavens, all wisdom is from good, and all beauty is from truths thence derived.

9879². The truths of faith make beauty, but beauty according to truths from good, that is, according to truths through which good shines forth . . .

9995⁴. Hence it is said 'thou becamest exceedingly beautiful' (Ezek.xvi.13), for spiritual beauty is from truths and goods.

10153³. They who are in the Heavens are forms of charity and of celestial love, of such beauty that they cannot be described.

10163. Small eyes, and a small nose, are beauty to (the inhabitants of the second Earth).

10286. Sirens induce on themselves a beauty almost angelic . . .

— Divine things grow in perfection towards the interiors, so that at last they are of perfection and beauty ineffable.

10540³. 'Beauty' (Ezek.xvi.13)=the form of truth from good. Refs.

—4. 'Beauty' (Is.iii.24)=the form of truth from good in the Church ; thus, its perfection.

H. 17. All who are in the Heavens are forms of love and charity ; they appear in beauty ineffable . . .

56². That all perfection is from (the formation of a whole from various parts), is evident from all the beauty, pleasantness, and delight, which affect both the senses and the mind.

80². The Angels of the interior Heavens are in . . . a most beautiful and perfect human form ; and the Angels of the lower Heavens, in a form less perfect and beautiful.

99. The exteriors (of man), which receive the world, may be in a form according to the order of the world, and thence in a varied beauty ; for the outward beauty, which is of the body, is from the parents, and from the formation in the womb, and is afterwards preserved through a general influx from the world.

— With some, who were beautiful . . . in the face, the spirit was deformed, black, and monstrous . . . Whereas, in some, who were not beautiful, it was beautiful-formosus, bright, and angelic.

131⁰. When a man is looked at by the Angels, as to his spirit, if he is good, he appears as a man beautiful according to his good ; if evil, as a monster, deformed according to his evil.

414. The whole Angel, especially the face, is as it were charity . . . which form . . . is beauty ineffable . . .

457². After death . . . those who had been in good affections, were seen with beautiful faces ; but those who had been in evil affections, with deformed faces . . .

459. The human form . . . after death, is more beautiful, in proportion as Divine Truths have been more inwardly loved, and lived . . . The more interior the affection is, the more conformable it is to Heaven, and thus the more beautiful-formosior—is the face. Hence it is, that the Angels who are in the inmost Heaven, are the most beautiful, because they are forms of celestial love. But those who have loved Divine Truths more exteriorly . . . are less beautiful . . . All perfection increases towards the interiors . . . and as perfection increases and decreases, so also does beauty. Des.

481². After having passed through the first and second states (after death) . . . those who are heavenly loves appear fresh, fair, bright, and beautiful.

489⁷. They who have accounted adulteries as wicked, and have lived in the chaste love of marriage, are in the order and form of Heaven more than all others, and thence in all beauty . . .

N. 279². In proportion as a man lives according to order, he appears, in the other life, as a man perfect and beautiful . . . Refs.

— Every Angel, being a recipient of Divine order from the Lord, is in a human form, perfect and beautiful according to reception. Refs.

U. 52⁰. Concerning the faces of the men of our Earth, which (the Spirits of Jnpiter) saw through my eyes, they said that they were not beautiful ; and that their beauty was in the external skin, and not in the fibres from the Internal . . .

W. 358⁰. Love from within shines forth in the faces (of the Angels), and wisdom in their beauty, and the beauty is the form of their love.

411. The beauty (of the human form) is its intelligence, which it procures for itself by means of truths . . . These are what the love disposes into the forms of its affections . . . All these forms are beautiful and lovely to it ; but all others are unbeautiful and unlovely to it.

P. 24. All beauty is perceived from what is less beautiful, and through what is unbeautiful.

312. Is not that truth (to the eye) which is called beautiful ?

M. 22⁰. They said, Who could see such beauties, and not feel some desire ?

[M.] 42⁴. (The beauty of a wife of the Third Heaven, Des. Its origin.)

44². There are maidens (in Heaven) of such beauty, that they may be called beauties in beauty's own form . . . and the beauties of the maidens, and the moralities of the young men, correspond to each other . . .

—4. They are admitted into the company of maidens, the beauties of Heaven . . .

49. (Beauty an allurement to marriage.)

55⁷. With (those who are in true marriage love) the love of the sex does not partake of the flesh . . . and as the beauty of a woman, from innate inclination, at the same time enters into the mind, it is sweet.

56³. A discourse (of the wise) concerning the cause of beauty in the female sex. . . The first said, women have been created by the Lord affections of the wisdom of the men, and the affection of wisdom is beauty itself. The second said that woman was created by the Lord, through the wisdom of man, because from man, and that she is consequently a form of wisdom inspired with affection of love; and as the affection of love is life itself, woman is the life of wisdom . . . and the life of wisdom is beauty itself. The third said, that to women there is given a perception of the deliciousnesses of marriage love, and as their whole body is an organ of this perception, it cannot be but that the habitation of the delights of marriage love, together with its own perception, should be beauty itself. The fourth said, that the Lord took away beauty and grace of life from man, and transcribed it upon woman; and therefore, man, without reunion with his beauty and grace in women, is grim, severe, dry, and unlovely; and one man is not wise, except to himself, and another is stupid; but when man is united with his beauty and grace of life in a wife, he becomes agreeable, pleasant, lively, and loveable; and thus wise. The fifth said, that women were not created beauties for their own sakes, but for the sake of men, in order that men may be softened, etc. The sixth said, that the universe was created by the Lord to be a most perfect work, and nothing therein was created more perfect than a woman beautiful in her face and graceful in her manners, for this reason, that man might render thanks to the Lord for this bounty, and repay it through the reception of wisdom from Him.

330. A discussion . . . as to whether any woman can love her husband, who is constantly loving her own beauty, that is, who loves herself from her own form. They agreed that women have a twofold beauty, one natural, which is that of face and body, and the other spiritual, which is that of love and manners. They agreed also that these two beauties are often separated in the natural world, and that they are always united in the Spiritual World; for in that World, beauty is the form of the love and manners; wherefore, after death, it often happens, that ill-made women become beauties, and beautiful women become deformities. . . The first conclusion they came to, was that every woman wants to seem beautiful in face, and beautiful in manners, because she is born affection of love, and the form of this affection is beauty; wherefore a woman who does not want to be beautiful, is not a woman who wishes to love and be loved, and therefore is not a true woman. At this, the wives said, The beauty of woman dwells in soft tenderness, and consequently, in delicate sensation. This is the source of the love of woman for man, and of the love of man for woman.

—3. The second conclusion of the men was, that, before marriage, a woman wants to be beautiful for the men; but after marriage, if she is chaste, for only the one man, and not for the men. On this, the wives said, After a husband has sipped the natural beauty of his wife, he no longer sees it, but he sees her spiritual beauty, and, from this, he loves back again, and recalls her natural beauty, but under a different appearance.

—4. Their third conclusion was, that if, after marriage, a woman wants to seem beautiful, in the same way as before it, she loves the men, and not the man; because a woman who loves herself from her beauty, continually wants her beauty to be sipped, and as this no longer appears to the man, she wants it to be sipped by the men to whom it does appear . . . At this the wives were silent; yet they muttered, What woman is so devoid of vanity, as not to want to seem beautiful to the men too . . . These things were heard by some wives in Heaven, who were beautiful, because they were celestial affections, and they confirmed the three conclusions of the men; but added, Let them only love their beauty, and its adornment, for the sake of their husbands, and from them.

381. They saw, in Heaven, maidens and wives of amazing beauty.

— (Three orators, from France, deliver orations on the origin of beauty.)

382. (The first said,) What is the origin of beauty, but love . . .

383. (The second said,) I assert that wisdom is the origin of beauty . . .

384. (The third said,) Neither love alone, nor wisdom alone, is the origin of beauty, but the union of love and wisdom; in a youth, the union of love with its own wisdom; and in a maiden, the union of wisdom with its own love. For a maiden does not love wisdom in herself, but in a youth, and therefrom sees him as beauty; and when the youth sees this in the maiden, he sees her as beauty; wherefore the love forms the beauty through the wisdom, and the wisdom receives it from the love. That this is the case, plainly appears in Heaven. I have seen maidens and wives there, and I have directed my attention to their beauties, and have seen that beauty was one thing in the maidens, and another in the wives; in the maidens, there was merely the brightness, but in the wives, the resplendence of it. The difference was like that between a diamond sparkling with light, and a ruby flashing at the same time with fire. What is beauty but the delight of the sense? and whence is the origin of this delight but in the sport of love and wisdom? From this sport the sight glows, and this glowing from the eye vibrates in the eye, and presents the beauty. What constitutes beauty of face but redness and whiteness, and the lovely intermingling of the one with the other? and is not the redness from love, and the whiteness from wisdom . . . When the third had thus spoken, the assembly clapped their hands, and cried out, This is the winner. At this instant, a flaming light, the light of marriage love, suddenly filled both the house with its lustre, and their hearts with its pleasantness.

T. 353. The beauty . . . of faith . . . may be compared to . . .

763². What is beauty without relation to what is un-beautiful . . .

Ad. 950⁴. The lowest goodnesses are those which are called harmonies and beauties, regarded both as to the form itself, and according to the perfection of the form . . . Those goodnesses which are apprehended by the sight are properly called beauties.

D. 574¹. (The Spirits of Jupiter) marvel there can be any beauty in the faces of this Earth . . . but this comes from another cause . . . I was told that the beautiful faces come from their infancy, which is innocent.

583. They said that the faces (of the men of our Earth) were not so beautiful (as those of the inhabitants of Jupiter) and that they are smaller . . .

904. The harmony of visible objects [is] the source of the various beauties which affect the mind; as beauty in general, and that of paradises . . . of buildings, etc. . . . Thus there is a more interior [beauty], which is that of intellectual things; hence comes the love of truth . . .

1837. All true harmony in universals derives its beauty from this, that it is not beautiful of itself, but from other things, and thus from all . . .

2303. Yet men and Spirits love such ideas of their own, and suppose that they are more beautiful than all things in the universe . . .

2304. As soon as his idea comes forth, the Lord instils those things which He has associated, and thus turns the idea into a beautiful one . . .

2461. On beauty and delight. . . Beauty is the form, in which, and therefore from which, is delight; and the delights thence derived, when reduced in like manner into a form, are beauty. So in, and from these, there are delights of an interior degree; and these pleasantnesses, in their turn, reduced into a form, bring forth a new beauty . . . Thus, all happinesses flow into beauty . . .

3080. They who are in their faith, and in that truth, or light, of faith which agrees with the sphere, (when looked into by Heaven) appear beautiful, with a varied beauty. Thus, in the lowest sphere, there also come forth other things which are beautiful . . .

3099. Thus there cannot but come forth such representations of beauty indefinite, with variety to eternity . . .

4175. On the beauty of marriage love. I saw a beauty, very slightly, and veiled as with a cloud, to prevent me from seeing it; and a perception was given at the same time, that it was the beauty of marriage love . . . Hardly anything can be said, except that it was beauty itself, for such is marriage love, when formed; thus, that it is marriage love itself which is the beauty, affecting the deepest [feelings]. This is the source of all beauty.

6110⁸². If only beauty conjoins, and not good, it is adultery; and it is not human, except in so far as it is supposed that the beauty is from good, which is the very being of beauty.

E. 157². A man's spirit, after death, appears in a human form according to the quality of his life of affection in the world; in a beautiful form, if he has lived a life of heavenly love; but in an unbeautiful one, if he has lived a life of earthly love. Hence it is that the Angels are forms of love and charity, but it is not from the affection of mere thought and will that they have so beautiful a form, but from the affection of them in deeds, or works; for deeds, or works, from the affection of will and thought, or of love and faith, make the outward appearance of the spirit; thus, the beauty of its face, body, and speech. Ex.

240⁴. 'Thou didst trust in thine own beauty' (Ezek. xvi.15)=the intelligence from proprium with which it was charmed.

304³¹. 'To see the King in his beauty' (Is.xxxiii.17) = to see the genuine truth which is from the Lord alone.

375²⁷. 'Thou becamest exceedingly beautiful' (Ezek. xvi.13)=intelligent.

405²⁷. Pleasantness of soul therefrom, is signified by 'beautiful for situation' (Ps.xlviii.2).

453¹¹. 'He shall see the King in his beauty' (Is.xxxiii.17)=that they shall obtain wisdom; for 'the King'=truth from good; 'beauty,' the wisdom of it; for in this is Divine Truth in its own beautiful form.

587⁷. By 'the beauty of man' (Is.xliv.13) is signified the appearance of intelligence thence derived.

617⁷. 'Beauty' (Ezek.xvi.13)=intelligence. 619¹¹.

637¹¹. By 'burning instead of beauty' (Is.iii.24) is signified foolishness instead of intelligence.

650²⁶. 'By beautiful in branch, and a shady wood' (Ezek.xxxi.3) is signified intelligence through rational truths by means of scientifics.

—²³. 'By beautiful in greatness' (ver.7) is signified intelligence.

—³⁰. By 'the leaf thereof beautiful, and the flower thereof much' (Dan.iv.12) are signified Knowledges and affections of truth and good, and intelligence thence derived.

652²⁷. By 'beauty' (Ezek.xvi.25) are meant truth, and intelligence thence derived; for, in the Spiritual World, everyone is beautiful according to truths from good, and intelligence thence derived.

654¹³. By 'beauty' (Ezek.xxxi.3) is signified affection of truth, and intelligence thence derived.

675¹. 'Beauty' (Is.v.9) is predicated of truth, and its intelligence.

684¹⁴. That He has Divine Wisdom is signified by 'Thou art beautiful, far above the sons of men' (Ps.xlv.2). 'Beautiful'=wise.

717⁹. As this is the source to man of wisdom and intelligence, it is said, 'King of Tyre, thou art full of wisdom, and perfect in beauty' (Ezek.xxviii.12). 'Beauty'=intelligence, because, in the Heavens, all beauty is according thereto.

863¹. That affection of truth, and understanding of truth, would cease on account of deficiency, is signified by 'in that day shall the beautiful maidens, and the young men, faint for thirst' (Amos viii.13).

1001². These loves form the faces of the Angels, and present themselves to view in their eyes, as fires of life, to which are added innocence and peace, which make their beauty complete.

De Conj. 2. The Angels have all their beauty from love, for love, or the affection of love, forms everyone . . . Hence it is, that the Angels have all their beauty from their marriage love; for it is the inmost of the life thence derived which shines through. I have seen an Angel from the Third Heaven, who was in pure marriage love; he had such beauty, that the bystanders were rapt in admiration, and said that he was beauty itself in its own essence.

Become. Fieri.

A. 2788. In God, to become, and to be, are the same.

5275. 'To come,' and 'become,' when predicated of the Divine, or of that which God does, = that which comes to pass of Providence . . .

S. 28. See BE at this ref.

Becoming. Decens. Decenter.

A. 2102. In a becoming and beautiful series.

5247. Such appear with the hair becomingly arranged.

5569. S. 35°. T. 223°. De Ver. 10°.

Becoming. Decorus, decorum.

See UNBECOMING.

A. 831. By means of becoming conduct they could insinuate themselves . . .

2915. The Lord's presence with man is in good, and therefore in what is just and fair, and then in what is honest and becoming. Honesty is the complex of all the moral virtues, decorum is only the form of them.

4574³. In civil and moral life we have honesty and decorum; honesty is to wish well to another from the heart in relation to the things of civil life; decorum is to show this in speech and bearing; thus, regarded in itself, decorum is nothing but the form of honesty, for honesty is the origin of decorum. Therefore, when honesty displays itself through decorum, that is, decorously through speech and bearing, honesty appears in each particular of decorum, so that whatever is delivered through speech, and displayed through bearing, appears honest, and is the form, or image, through which honesty shines forth. Thus do they make one, as do essence and its form, or the essential and the formal. But if anyone separates honesty from decorum . . . there is then no longer anything of honesty in the speech and bearing, however, through decorum, he may study to exhibit a form like that of honesty; but there is dishonesty . . .

5126³. See ADOLESCENCE at this ref.

S. 40. Like a becoming dress on a maiden . . . T. 215.

T. 443. The formal things (of honesty) which are called matters of decorum . . .

D. 1011. (The Spirits of the pancreas mingle, and separate, matters of decorum, or the formal things of honesty.) Whether the pancreas does the same with public and civil matters, apart from matters of decorum, I do not yet so well know.

3699. Sirens are those who, in the world . . . have made the whole life consist in decorum . . . So that they could insinuate themselves into society by means of a thousand becoming ways. . . Thus they appear honest outwardly, both on account of their decorum, and on account of their dissimulation.

4040. Honesty means all the moral virtues, and decorum is for the sake of honesty, thus is derived from honesty, therefore it is the form of honesty, and not contrariwise; the same as it is with the essential and the formal . . . and with the real and not real.

Bed. Cubile.

A. 6348. 'Because thou ascendedst thy father's beds' (Gen. xlix. 4) = because, when separated from the good which is of charity, it has filthy conjunction. E. 484¹⁷. 817⁵.

7353. See CHAMBER at this ref.

R. 137⁸. 'Bed-lectus,' 'couch,' and 'bed,' have a similar signification to this, Ill.

E. 163⁹. As 'a bed-lectus' signifies doctrine, it was a statute of the Church among the Sons of Israel, that 'every bed, whereon he lieth that hath the issue is unclean; and that the man who hath touched his bed shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in waters' (Lev. xv. 5).

388¹¹. 'How has it become a waste, a couching place of the wild beast' (Zeph. ii. 15) = that there is nothing of truth there, but that it is full of falsities. 650⁵⁷.

714¹⁵. The truths and goods they will have, are signified by 'a place to lie down in,' where before there were 'dragons' (Is. xxxv. 7).

Bed. Lectus.

A. 1879. When I was in bed . . .

5721. When such Spirits are applied to a man, they induce great pain through weariness . . . so that the man can hardly raise himself from his bed. 5722.

6188. 'Israel bowed himself above the head of the bed' (Ex. xlvii. 31) = that he turned himself to those things which are of the interior Natural . . . The 'bed' = the Natural.

—². The reason why 'the bed' is the Natural, is that the Natural is below the Rational, and serves it as a bed, for the Rational as it were lies upon the Natural, and as the Natural is thus spread under it, it is called 'a bed.' Ill.

6226. 'He sat upon the bed' (Ex. xlviii. 2) = turned towards the Natural.

6463. 'And he gathered his feet to the bed' (Ex. xlix. 33) = as to lower things in which are interior things; to the good and truth of the lower Natural . . . 'The bed' = the Natural, thus the good and truth of the Natural, for these constitute the Natural with a man.

—². When Jacob is thought of, there appears in the Spiritual World a bed in which a man is lying. Ex.

7354. 'Upon thy bed' (Ex. viii. 3) = to the inmost things. . . 'A bed' = what is inmost; for since the 'bedchamber' = interior things, the couch or bed that is in it = what is inmost.

8376. When the inhabitants of Jupiter lie in bed, they turn the face forward, or towards the chamber . . . because they believe that so they turn the face to the Lord . . . A similar thing has sometimes happened to me when I was in bed, but I did not before know the source of it. D.587,Ex.

9027. 'And he lieth down in bed' (Ex.xxi.18)=what is separated in the Natural . . . 'A bed'=the Natural.

10050². 'The corner of a bed and the extremity of a couch' (Amos iii.12)=the lowest Natural, which is the external Sensual, and its truth and good.

10360⁹. 'Take up thy bed and walk . . .' (John v.8). 'A bed'=doctrine; and 'walking,' life. E.163⁷.

— That 'a bed'=doctrine, is evident from the places in the Word where 'a bed' is mentioned, and also from representatives in the other life. There, when a bed appears, and one lying in it, there is signified the doctrine in which he is. Hence, most highly adorned beds appear there, for those who are in truths from good.

10833. When (the inhabitants of the sixth Earth) awake, there appears to them an Angel in a white garment at the bed, who then suddenly disappears from their eyes . . .

R. 137. 'Behold, I will cast her into a bed' (Rev.ii.22)=that so they will be left in their own doctrine. . . That 'a bed'=doctrine, is from correspondence, for as the body lies in its bed, so does the mind in its doctrine. But by 'a bed' is signified doctrine which everyone procures, either from the Word, or from his own intelligence, for in that his mind is at rest, and as it were sleeps. The beds in which they lie in the Spiritual World are from no other origin; everyone has a bed there according to the quality of his knowledge and intelligence; the wise, magnificent ones; the foolish, mean ones; and the false, dirty ones.

—². 'Two in one bed' (Luke xvii.34) are two in one doctrine, but not in similar life. 922^e.

— 'To take up the bed and walk' (Mark ii.9)=to meditate in doctrine.

—³. 'In the corner of a bed, and in the extremity of a couch' (Amos iii.12)=further away from the truths and goods of doctrine.

—^e. Since by Jacob is signified the doctrine of the Church, therefore, sometimes, when I have thought of Jacob, there appeared to me above, in front, a man lying in a bed. E.163^e. D.462. 469.

153¹⁰. If anyone does evil to another, he is cast into a corner of the cavern, in which there is a bed of damned dust, where he is miserably tortured. T.281¹⁰.

T. 301. That the Sabbath has been made a day of instruction in Divine things, is evident from the fact that the Lord . . . said to the man who was healed, 'Take up thy bed and walk' . . . by which is signified to be instructed in doctrinal things.

E. 163. 'Behold, I cast her into a bed' (Rev.ii.22)=that they are left to their natural man, and to doctrine of falsities therein. 'A bed'=the natural man, and also doctrine of falsities.

—². The reason 'a bed'=doctrine of falsities, and, at the same time, the natural man, is that doctrine of falsities is from no other source than the natural man separated from the spiritual . . .

—³. The reason that by 'a bed' is signified the natural man, is because the natural underlies the spiritual man, and thus a man lies in it, and in the things which are in it, as he lies in his bed.

— That 'a bed'=the natural man, and also the doctrinal things which are therein, Ill.

— 'In the corner of a bed, and in the extremity of a couch'=those who are in a little natural lumen derived from spiritual, and thence in some truths.

—⁴. 'Beds of ivory' (Amos vi.4)=the fallacies of the senses upon which the doctrine is founded.

—⁶. To be 'in one bed' (Luke xvii.34)=in one doctrine of the Church.

—⁷. 'Arise, take up the bed, and walk' (Mark ii.11)=doctrine, and life according to it. 'The bed'=doctrine.

—⁹. That 'a bed'=doctrine, Ill.

992³. Angeli in lecto. De Conj.66.

Bed. Torus.

A. 8377. They do not sit on . . . raised grassy couches . . .

W. 432². (The initial form of the brain) is divided into two beds, as it were.

M. 6². Each (president) reclined on a couch at the head of his table.

16. They reclined on couches at the table . . .

171². Hence two married partners who . . . disagree in their affections, lie in bed turned away from each other . . .

236. Separation as to bed, bedchamber, and house . . .

270⁴. As it were a bedchamber, where love and its own wisdom . . . share one bed together.

277². A communion of bed (between married partners).

T. 380. It is not from a lawful bed . . .

Bedchamber. Cubiculum.

A. 5694. 'He came into the bedchamber, and wept there' (Gen.xliii.30)=in himself, but not apparently. . . 'To enter into the bedchamber,' and, having done so, 'to shut the door,' was a customary form of speech with the ancients, when they meant that something was to be done which should not appear . . . For by the house they understood man, and by the rooms, and bedchambers, the interior things of man. Hence 'to come, or enter, into the bedchamber,' signified to enter into one's self, consequently, that it should not appear. Ill.

—^e. 'What ye have spoken in the ear in bedchambers, shall be preached upon the roofs' (Luke xii.3). Here, also, 'bedchambers'=the interior things of man, namely, what he had thought, intended, and attempted.

— 'To enter into the bedchamber, and pray' (Matt.vi.6)=not [to do it] apparently.

7353. See CHAMBER=conclave, at this ref.

7719. By 'bedchambers' are signified the interior things of man.

[A.] 877². When truths are believed, they are in the bedchamber . . .

10110². The truth which has been made of the will, and has there become good, is compared to the room where the man dwells, and to the bedchamber itself.

H. 184. In the habitations of the Angels there are cellars, saloons, and bedchambers, in great numbers.

M. 11. Assign to each his own saloon with his own bedchamber.

236. See BED-torus, at this ref. 270⁴.

Bee. Apis.

A. 4776². Bees know how to build cells, to suck honey out of flowers, etc. 6323². H.108. W.355. M.419. T.12⁷. E.1198⁴.

4906^e. Their knowledges and affections are connate, as with bees.

9331⁴. 'The bee in the land of Assyria' (Is.vii.18) = falsity perverting the reasonings of the mind.

10582⁴. 'The bee in the land of Assyria' = the falsity of reasoning thence derived.

W. 356. Insignificant worms, like bees . . .

T. 335³. Does the bee think in its little head . . .

585³. That the ground is as a common mother . . . may be illustrated by this fact in connexion with bees . . .

785². The Internal of a bee is that from which its External is impelled to suck honey from the flowers . . .

E. 410⁶. By 'the bee in the land of Assyria,' is signified false reasonings thence derived. . . As the Rational obtains everything that belongs to it from the scientifics of the natural man, its reasonings are signified by 'bees,' because bees suck out and obtain their store from flowers, as the Rational does from the scientifics of the natural man. But here, by 'bees' are signified false reasonings, because the Rational gathers what belongs to it from scientifics falsely applied. The reason such things are likened to 'flies' and 'bees,' is from correspondence, for various kinds of flying things appear in the World of Spirits, but they are appearances from the ideas of the thoughts of Spirits, and hurtful flying things among them are flies and bees of such a kind.

619⁶. (Samson) tore the lion, and afterwards found in its carcase a swarm of bees, and honey (Judg. xiv.8) = that, after that faith (alone) had been dissipated, there succeeded, in the place of it, the good of charity.

Beech. Fagus.

M. 78². We were in a wood of beeches, chestnuts, and oaks . . .

270⁴. A like signification have the three kinds of trees around the palace, the olives, the palms, and the beeches . . .

Beelzebub. Beelschebub. Beelzebul.

T. 292. (Beelzebub was originally a man.)

630^e. Beelzebub, the god of Ekron, who, from the signification of his name, could only drive away flies . . .

E. 740¹⁰. The reason Beelzebub is called 'Satan'

(Matt.xii.24,26), and not 'the Devil,' is that by 'Beelzebub,' who was the god of Ekron, is meant the god of all falsities; for if you translate the word 'Beelzebub,' it is 'the lord of flies,' and 'flies' = the falsities of the sensual man, thus falsities of every kind. Hence it is that Beelzebub is called 'Satan.'

Beer. Beer.

A. 2702². Hence comes the name 'Beer' (Num. xxi.16), and the name 'Beersheba,' and its signification, which is, doctrine itself.

E. 537³. 'Beer,' in the Original Language, means 'a well,' and 'a well' = the Word, and doctrine from the Word. In like manner, 'Beersheba,' 727⁸.

Beer-lahai-roi. Beerlahai roi.

A. 3194. 'Isaac came from coming to Beer-lahai-roi' (Gen.xxiv.62) = Divine Good rational, born from Divine Truth itself. . . 'Beer-lahai-roi,' in the Original Language, means 'the spring to Him that liveth, and seeth me.' Ex.

3261. 'Isaac dwelt at Beer-lahai-roi' (Gen.xxv.11) = the Lord's Divine Rational in Divine light. . . 'Beer-lahai-roi' = Divine Good rational, born from Divine Truth itself.

Beersheba. Beershebah.

A. 2679. ('Hagar) went and wandered in the wilderness of Beersheba' (Gen.xxi.14) = a roving state in doctrinal matters of faith. . . 'Beersheba' = doctrine of faith.

2702². See BEER at this ref. E.537³.

2720⁶. 'He called that place Beersheba' (Gen.xxi.31) = the state and quality of doctrine. 'Because there they sware both of them' = from conjunction. 'And they struck a covenant in Beersheba' = that human rational things were adjoined to doctrine of faith.

2722. ('Abraham) planted a grove in Beersheba' (ver.33) = the doctrine thence derived, with its Knowledges, and its quality.

2723. 'Beersheba' (Id.) = the state and quality of doctrine, namely, that it is Divine, to which human rational things are adjoined, as is evident from the series of things treated of from verse 22 to here, and also, from the signification of the name itself in the Original Language, which is, 'the well of the oath,' and 'seven;' and 'a well' = doctrine of faith, 'oath' = conjunction, . . . and 'seven' = what is holy, thus what is Divine. . . That this was the origin of the name 'Beersheba,' is evident from the words of Abraham, 'For thou shalt take seven ewe lambs of my hand, that they may be a witness unto me, that I have dug this well, wherefore he called that place Beersheba, because there they sware both of them; and they struck a covenant in Beersheba' (xxi.30-32). In like manner from the words of Isaac; 'It came to pass in that day, and Isaac's servants came, and told him upon the causes of the well which they had dug, and said to him, we have found waters; and he called it Sheba (an oath, and seven); wherefore the name of the city is Beersheba even unto this day' (xxvi.32,33). Here, also, wells are treated of about which there was a contest with Abimelech, and also a covenant with him, and by 'Beersheba' is signified human things again adjoined to doctrine of faith, and because they were again adjoined, and so made doctrine which is adapted to human apprehension, it is called 'a city,' which=what is of a doctrinal character in the complex.

— 'Beersheba' is mentioned with a like signification in the inward sense, Ill. . . and in the opposite sense, Ill.

—³. The extension of the celestial and spiritual things which are of doctrine is signified where the extension of the Land of Canaan is described by the words, 'from Dan and even to Beersheba' . . . Ill.

2858. 'They went together to Beersheba' (Gen.xxii.19) = advancement in the doctrine of charity and of faith, which is the Divine doctrine to which human rational things are adjoined. 'Beersheba' (has this signification).

2859. 'Abraham dwelt in Beersheba' (Id.) = that the Lord is that doctrine itself. . . 'To dwell in Beersheba' = to be in doctrine; and, when it is predicated of the Lord, it = to be doctrine . . .

3436. 'Isaac' went up thence to Beersheba' (Gen.xxvi.23) = that thence the doctrine of faith was Divine. 'Beersheba' = the doctrine of faith Divine. The doctrine of faith, which is here signified by 'Beersheba,' is the literal sense of the Word, for the Word is doctrine itself . . .

3445. See WELL-puteus, at this ref.

3465. See SHEBA at this ref.

3466. 'Therefore the name of the city is Beersheba' (ver.33) = the quality of the doctrine thence derived. . . 'Beersheba,' which, in the Original Language, means 'the well of the oath,' thus, the doctrine of confirmed truth. That 'Beersheba' = doctrine, Refs.

— By 'Beersheba' (xxi.30,31) is signified the state and quality of doctrine which is from the Divine, and that there is conjunction thereby; and as the subject there is the interior things of the Church, it is said that that place was called 'Beersheba;' but here, because the subject is the exterior things of the Church, it is said that the city was so called . . .

3690. 'Jacob went forth from Beersheba' (Gen.xxviii.10) = life more remote from Divine doctrinal things. . . 'Beersheba' = Divine doctrine. Refs.

3923⁶. 'God liveth, O Dan; and the way of Beersheba liveth' (Amos viii.14) = that they are in the negative of all things of faith and of its doctrine. . . 'Beersheba' = doctrine. Refs. The reason it is the negative of all things of faith, is that Dan was the last boundary of the Land of Canaan, and Beersheba, the first, or the middle and inmost, of the Land . . . The first boundary, or the middle and inmost, of the Land, was Beersheba, before Jerusalem, because Abraham was there, and also Isaac; and the last boundary, or the outmost, was Dan; therefore, when all things in one complex were signified, it was said, 'from Dan even to Beersheba.' Refs. 6396⁶.

—^e. The inmost of the Land was Hebron, and then Beersheba, where Abraham and Isaac were.

5997. 'Israel' came to Beersheba' (Gen.xlvi.1) = charity and faith. 'Beersheba' = the doctrine of charity and faith; here, charity and faith, and not the doctrine of them, because it is predicated of spiritual good, which is 'Israel.' Ex.

Z

6011. '(Jacob arose) from Beersheba' (ver.5) = from the doctrine of faith and of charity.

E.417¹¹. By 'all the tribes of Israel, from Dan even to Beersheba' (Judg.xx.1,2) are signified these things from ultimates to first principles.

Befal. See HAPPEN, and TOUCH-attingere.

Before. Ante.

A. 2454. That is called 'behind him' (Gen.xix.26), which is posterior, and that 'before him,' which is prior.

4380. 'To pass over before' anyone (Gen.xxxiii.14), where the conjunction of good with truths is treated of, = more general presence. Ex.

8194. Voluntary things are presented behind, or 'after' (Exod.xiv.19), and intellectual things, in front, or 'before.'

8325². What God was doing before the world was created . . . T.31³. D.3476.

10550. What is 'before' signifies what is within; and what is 'after,' what is without.

T. 29. As God was before the world . . .

67. God, before the creation . . .

Before. Coram.

A. 1179. 'Before Jehovah' (Gen.x.9).

5638. 'They stood before Joseph' (Gen.xliii.15) = the presence of the Celestial of the Spiritual there. 'To stand before' anyone = presence.

5703. 'They sat before him' (ver.33) = that they were set in order by his presence. . . 'Before him' = by his presence.

6083. 'This land of Egypt is before thee' (Gen.xlvii.6) = that the scientifics of the natural mind are under the auspices of the Celestial Internal. . . 'Before thee' = under its auspices.

8532. 'Lay it up before Jehovah' (Exod.xvi.33) = that it is in the Divine presence. 8535.

9047. 'To give into the judges,' or 'before the judges' (Exod.xxi.22) = according to what is fair.

10146. 'Before Jehovah' (Gen.xxix.42) = from the Lord . . . because 'before' = presence . . .

Life 63. (Such a man) thinks that these things are lawful before God, but unlawful before the world.

108. (This is merely to cause evils) not to appear before the world.

P. 130^e. Like an object which is constantly before the sight.

R. 380. 'Before the throne of God' (Rev.vii.15) = in the presence of the Lord.

636. 'Shall be tormented with fire and brimstone before the holy Angels and the Lamb' (Rev.xiv.10) = the love of self and the world, and the cupidities therefrom . . . It is said 'before the Angels and the Lamb,' because these loves are contrary to Divine Truths, and to the Lord . . .

E. 189. See FULL at this ref.

200. 'I will confess his name before My Father, and before His Angels' (Rev.iii.5)=that they will be in Divine Good, and thence in Divine Truth.

274. 'Lamps burning with fire before the throne' (Rev.iv.5)=Divine Truth united to Divine Good proceeding from the Lord's Divine Love.

292. 'To cast before the throne' (Rev.iv.11)=to acknowledge that it is from the Lord alone.

322. 'They fell down before the Lamb' (Rev.v.8)=acknowledgment from a humble heart.

405¹⁴. 'In the presence of the Lord,' and 'in the presence of the God of Jacob' (Ps.cxiv.10).

456. 'Standing before the throne and before the Lamb' (Rev.vii.9)=those who are in the Lord's Kingdom.

463. (Other similar instances.) 477. 489. 493. 494. 567. 639. 747. 819. 825. 826. 858. 867. 888. 895.

Before. Prae.

A. 952. Pre-eminence above others . . . 1327.

1304. Loves himself more than others.

1505. (Sphere of one who thinks himself before others.) 1506. 1507. 2027.

2219. Despise others in comparison with themselves.

2796. Think themselves in light above others.

5853. This prerogative have Spirits above man. 5857.

6393². They are actually great and powerful above others.

H. 57². What a man has above the Angels . . . (304².)

Beg. Mendicare.

Beggar. Mendicus.

Under SEEK=quaerere.

A. 3688³. As he knows from the Word that we ought to give to the poor . . . he does good especially to common beggars . . . not considering that such as beg in the streets, for the most part, live an impious and wicked life . . . Nevertheless, he who is in the first state of regeneration, does good to them from the heart; these goods are the goods of external truth from which he begins . . .

9209². They who are in external truths . . . believe that we are to do good to everyone that is in need of assistance, especially to beggars . . . They who do this from obedience . . . do well, for, through this External, they are initiated into the Internal of charity and of mercy . . .

T. 426². These benefactions are advantageous in many ways, especially giving to the poor, and to beggars; for, through these, boys, girls, servants, and, in general, all the simple, are initiated into-charity, for they are the externals of it, through which they accustom themselves to the offices of charity, for they are its rudiments, and, at that time, are like unripe fruits; but, with those who are afterwards perfected by means of just Knowledge concerning charity and faith, they become like ripe fruits . . .

D. 431. On the state of beggars in the other life.

— They who have long begged, and at last have taken pleasure in it, and have acquired aversion for a life of labour . . . appear naked, with most loathsome fragments of garments. They seem to themselves to be about to be pressed together into a mass, so that they cannot be separated; thus they cling together. They have one with a small vessel, and ask alms of everyone they meet . . . I have heard from them that what is said of beggars is true; that they desire nothing but money, despising clothes and food; and that, among themselves, they live impiously, in quarrels; that they abhor labour; sometimes live luxuriously . . . ; inquire sharply what each has gotten; that they have instituted a sort of government among themselves which they desire to be kept secret. Those beggars are meant who had been such in the life; thus it is their life, because they have had no other cupidity. 642, Index.

777 (Index). The rich who have not been born, but have become so, and who live in luxury, in the other life go about as beggars in tattered garments.

Beget. Gignere.

A. 460. (See this chapter, throughout.)

1338. 'To beget sons and daughters' (Gen.xi.11)=doctrinal things. 1346. 1354.

3161³. The Lord . . . from the Divine Itself, not only begot the Rational as to good, but also, through this, the Natural as to truth.

T. 23. It is all the same whether we say begotten by God, or proceeding from Him . . .

E. 710⁸. By 'the barren,' and by 'the wombs which have not borne' (Luke xxiii.29) are signified those who have not received genuine truths, that is, truths from the good of love.

Begin. Auspicari.

A. 2516². The doctrine of faith cannot begin from (the Rational).

Begin. Ordiri. Exordiri.

Beginning. Exordium.

A. 186. Then life (in the Spiritual World) begins.

316. There then takes place a new beginning of life . . . 1273.

M. 8. That you may commence the blessedness of your eternal happiness.

Begin. Inchoare.

Beginning. Inchoamentum.

A. 8037⁰. Then heavenly joy first begins . . . 8462⁰.

H. 330. Little children who die . . . are only in the rudiments of the capacity of becoming Angels.

409. Heavenly joy . . . begins from the inmost principles.

W. 432. The nature of this rudiment (of man) in its form.

M. 98. This love does indeed begin from the love of the sex.

T. 587°. When he wills to shun evil, and do good, the state of regeneration begins.

766°. He continues to eternity the rudiments of wisdom implanted in the natural world.

Begin. Incipere.

Beginning. Inceptum.

A. 1317. 'This is their beginning to do' (Gen.xi.6)= that now they were beginning to become of a different quality. 'A beginning to do'=thought, or intention, thus the end.

4249. Then the Natural begins to be enlightened by good.

7906³. When he begins to act from the good of charity.

Beginning. Initium.

A. 477². The Ancient Church is signified by 'beginnings' (Ezek.xxxvi.11).

1560. Every state before a man is instructed is a beginning, and when he begins-incipit-to be instructed, it is a beginning-principium.

2088². All men from the beginning were celestial.

3354. The first state of the perversion of the Church, which exists when they begin no longer to know what good and truth are, but dispute together about them, whence arise falsities, (is sig. by) 'the end is not yet,' and that 'these are the beginning of sorrows' (Matt. xxiv.6,8).

4247². When a man is in the affection of truth, in which he is in the beginning, before he is being regenerated . . .

4984. All uses in their beginning are truths of doctrine.

10632. That law was the beginning of the Word . . .

T. 27. The two beginnings (of spaces and times), which are immensity and eternity . . .

31. The beginnings of them are from God.

280°. Spiritual thoughts the beginnings and origins of natural thoughts.

Beginning. Principium.

A. 16. The most ancient time is called 'the beginning' (Gen.i.1) . . . 'The beginning' also involves the first time when a man is being regenerated, for he is then born anew, and receives life.

55. By 'beginnings' (Ezek.xxxvi.11) is meant the Ancient Church after the flood.

128. This flows from the principle which he adopts.

—^c. He thinks from this principle.

129. The principles that have been adopted, even the falsest, rule the man, and all his knowledge and reasoning favour these principles . . . Wherefore the principle must be from the Lord, and not from self.

130. His third river where is Ethiopia, is principles of evil and falsity which are the Knowledges of his faith.

162. All the laws of truth and right flow from celestial principles, or from the order of life of the celestial man. Ex.

206. These are their principles . . .

444. From this principle (that the spirit has no extension) . . .

570. When they stick in their adopted and settled principles . . .

581. From their most settled principles . . .

589. It is one thing to confirm false principles from the Word, and another simply to believe what is in the Word; he who confirms false principles, first adopts a principle . . .

597². Thus the general principles were strengthened daily . . . The general principles of the Most Ancient Church were celestial and eternal truths. Examps.

794. The falsities are principles of falsity, and persuasions of falsity . . . Who is there that has imbibed a principle of falsity, or invented one, who does not confirm it from much knowledge, nay, even from the Word? . . . As, for instance, he who adopts the principle that faith alone saves . . .

894. 'In the beginning in the first of the month' (Gen.viii.5)=the first boundary.

1017². In general, when a principle is false, nothing but falsities can follow from it, for all things conform themselves to the principle. Examp.

1063. Reuben, being the firstborn of Jacob, represented faith, and is called 'the beginning of strength' (Gen.xlix.3).

1106. They are kept in the Lower Earth that they may there put off principles of falsity. The time they remain there is according to . . . the principles they have confirmed.

1107. There are some who are very willing to be vastated, and thus put off the false principles they have taken with them from the world. No one can ever put off false principles in the other life, except in process of time, and through means provided by the Lord.

1109. They who have completely confirmed themselves in false principles are reduced into total ignorance . . .

1110. The principles of falsity (of such) in the other life, are turned into phantasies . . . 1111.

1119°. The breathing . . . with man, is according to . . . his principles . . .

1159. 'The tongue'=opinion, thus, principles and persuasions. Ex.

1181. 'The beginning of his kingdom' (Gen.x.10)= that thus such worship began.

1198°. Such can with difficulty be regenerated . . . because the principles of falsity, and consequently the life of their understanding, prevent and cause obstruction to it.

1255. The Lord never breaks, but bends, the principles which a man adopts from infancy. If they are of such a character that he regards them as holy, and are not contrary to Divine and natural order, but are in themselves indifferent, the Lord lets them alone, and suffers him to remain in them.

[A.] 1295. There are two beginnings of falsities; ignorance . . . and cupidities.

1385^e. They have not first taken any principles of truth from the Word.

1388^e. This communicative perception derives its beginning from this . . .

1510. Every Spirit, and still more every Society of Spirits, has its own sphere from its adopted principles and persuasions, which is a sphere of principles and persuasions. Evil genii have a sphere of cupidities. A sphere of principles and persuasions is of such a character, that when one acts into another, it causes truths to be as falsities, and excites all things which confirm, so as to induce the belief that falsities are truths, and evils goods.

1560. See BEGINNING—initium, at this ref.

1573. This is not the case with falsity from principles of falsity.

1644. Interior evil Spirits . . . who are in the beginnings of ideas . . .

1679³. But the falsities which are from adopted principles, which are of the understanding, cannot be so rooted in the voluntary part of man . . .

1767. (Beauty of the Word before the Angels when read by a man who) has not formed principles contrary to the truth of faith which is in the inward sense.

1802³. All little children are easily instructed in the Lord's Kingdom, because they are imbued with no principles of falsity. H. 336.

1807³. Uses are representative of the ends in view, which are the beginnings.

1834². They leave (matters of doctrine) to the conscience of each person, provided he does not deny principles; that is, the Lord, eternal life, the Word . . .

1877. Spirits in the World of Spirits, especially evil ones, at first retain . . . earthly, bodily, and worldly things, and, with them, the principles which they have adopted. Examps.

1936^e. The Rational . . . rejects truths, and that the more in proportion as it is . . . in principles of falsity concerning the faith.

2044. 'A son of eight days' (Gen. xvii. 12) = every beginning of purification. . . As the eighth day is the first day of the following week, it signifies every beginning whatever. 8400.

—^e. Purification . . . ought to be always taking place as from a new beginning.

2051^e. (Only) those who are within the Church can form principles of falsity contrary to the truths of faith themselves . . .

2243². But the falsity which produces evil exists when a man adopts any principle from his religiosity, and therefore believes that it is good or holy. Examp.

2385³. From a false principle nothing but falsities flow forth, and if truths be interposed among them, still, when the false principle is confirmed by them, they become truths falsified, because defiled by the essence of the principle. It is quite otherwise if truth itself be accepted as a principle. Examp.

2567¹⁰. Truths of doctrine which will be made to serve principles of falsity. Sig.

— . The celestial and spiritual things of the Word made to serve as confirmations of the falses of his principles, and the evils of his cupidities. (Sig.) For there is nothing that is not advanced as a confirmation of principles of falsity . . .

2568⁴. There are therefore two principles, one, which leads to all folly and insanity, and another, which leads to all intelligence and wisdom. The former principle is to deny all things . . . until we are convinced by those things which we can apprehend or feel; this principle is what leads to all folly and insanity, and is to be called the negative principle. The other principle is to affirm those things which are of doctrine from the Word, or to think in ourselves and believe that they are true because the Lord has so said; this principle is what leads to all intelligence and wisdom, and is to be called the affirmative principle. They who think from the negative principle, the more they consider rational, scientific, and philosophical things, the more they cast themselves headlong into darkness . . . On the other hand, they who think from the affirmative principle are able to confirm themselves by means of all rational, scientific, and philosophical things whatever . . . See below, 2588².

2572³. From love, because from the Lord, (the Angels) are in the very beginnings, or springs of things, that is, in the ends and causes. To see from principles, or from ends and causes, is to see, from Heaven, all things which are beneath . . .

2588². There are two principles from which men think, the negative and the affirmative; and those think from the negative principle who believe nothing unless convinced by means of rational and scientific things, nay, by means of sensual ones; and those think from the affirmative one who believe that they are truths because the Lord has so said in the Word . . .

2590. The Gentiles . . . when instructed, bear themselves modestly, intelligently, and wisely, and easily receive, for they have formed for themselves no principles contrary to the truths of faith, which have to be dispelled . . . H. 321.

2906⁴. 'Three' = what is complete, and a beginning.

2991. Natural forms are effects, nor can they appear as causes, still less as causes of causes, or principles; but still the forms of effects represent those things which are of causes; nay, these latter represent those which are of principles.

2992^e. (The Angels know everything in the human body, and also in the universe, because from spiritual things) come causes, and the principles of causes. 3626^e.

2993. The causes of all natural things are from spiritual ones, and the beginnings of causes are from celestial things; or, what is the same, all things in the natural world derive their cause from truth, which is spiritual, and their beginning from good, which is celestial.

3260. On the commencement of any work, it was customary for the ancients to say, 'May God bless' . . . Hence it is, that, in a sense more remote, by 'May God bless' . . . is signified a beginning; here, the beginning of the representation by Isaac.

3748^e. How could he want to reason when he did not even know the principles?

3906. They who are being regenerated, learn to know what internal truth is, but in the beginning do not acknowledge it with such faith as to live according to it . . . In the beginning of regeneration they can know this, for example . . .

3913^s. When the affirmative comes, the man is in the beginning of regeneration . . .

3939². The essence and quality of the beginning is derived and passes over into the things that follow . . .

3974^e. Goods and truths not genuine . . . serve to introduce genuine ones, especially in the beginning of regeneration.

3986⁴. They who are in the love of self and the world do not suffer themselves to be led and bent by the Lord . . . and still more so when they are in confirmed principles of falsity.

4042. In the brain are the very beginnings, or the first and ultimate ends, from which flow forth each and all things in the body.

4051^e. Thus they are associated together in the beginnings, but act diversely in the outermost things. Example.

4052. Such is the correspondence of the brain with the Grand Man, that those who are in the principles of good have relation to those things in the brain which are the beginnings in it, and are called the glands, or cortical substances; whereas they who are in the principles of truth have relation to those things in the brains which flow forth from those beginnings, and are called fibres.

4119. 'The third day' = the ultimate, also what is complete, thus the end, and also the beginning; for the end of a state of conjunction is the beginning of the following state, which is one of separation.

4174. So long as man is in the outward man, as all are in the beginning of reformation . . .

4318. These are the beginnings of the intelligence in which are the Angels more than men; thus do they know and perceive innumerable things in the Heavens, and therefrom those also in the world; for the things which come forth in the world . . . are causes and effects from the former as beginnings.

4670³. What Joseph's age being seventeen years signifies, may be evident from the signification of this number elsewhere, namely, a beginning; here, the beginning of the representation through Joseph. That it = a beginning, and what is new, Refs.

4674². Principles of falsity set truths in a complete shadow . . .

4717^e. He who commences from a false beginning, and deduces consequences from it, (causes the latter) to be falsities; because the beginning reigns in the things which follow, and, moreover, by these the false principle is strengthened.

4720². The doctrinal things which are afterwards formed, all savour of the general principle, thus of faith without charity; hence come the falsities which are the particulars of the false principles. . . All these are the particulars of the false principles; for all things of every doctrine . . . are joined together as in relationship, and acknowledge the general principle as a father. Hence it is evident, that when the general principle is false, all things savour of what is false.

4721. 'Joseph went to his brothers and found them in Dothan' (Gen. xxxvii. 17) = that they were in the particulars of false principles. . . 'Dothan' = the particulars of false principles.

—². What is meant by particulars of false principles, shown by examples.

4736^e. This truth is not alive, because it has a principle of falsity in it; consequently, with him who has such truth, it is false from the principle which dominates in it; the first principle is like a soul from which all other things have life.

5037. They who have been in principles of falsity, and in a life of evil from the falsity, and yet in good as to the intentions . . . cannot be received into Heaven until they have put off the principles of falsity, and also the delight of life thence derived. They who are (in the Lower Earth) are let into temptations, for they are not able to cast out the principles of falsity, and the delights of life thence derived, except through temptations.

5122². The states of rebirth of each Sensual, and of each thing in the Natural, and also in the Rational, have their progressions from the beginning to the end; and when they arrive at the end, they commence from something that is new . . .

5128². If a man is in principles of falsity, and does not suffer himself to be enlightened . . . it is a sign that he is a sensual man . . .

—³. It is one thing to be in principles of falsity, and another to be in persuasion of falsity. Ex.

5145. For in the head are all the substances and forms in the beginnings . . . 6436.

5207. This takes place in the beginning in all regeneration, for the truths which are insinuated with a man in the beginning are indeed in themselves truths, but they are not truths with him until good is adjoined to them . . . Wherefore, in the beginning, near to the truths there are falsities . . . When the sphere of falsity is close at hand, as is the case in the beginning, truths are as it were extirpated . . .

5567. (This Spirit) was tied by no principles, but was against all in general . . .

5718. Hence come obstructions, which are the source of the beginnings of many diseases, and dullnesses.

6047². The beginning is not to be made from scientifics . . . but the beginning is to be made from the truths of faith . . .

6208. Many enjoy natural good hereditarily . . . but are not imbued from the Word and doctrine with principles of doing what is good; thus they cannot be endowed with any conscience . . . It is through the Word, etc., that they have the principles impressed on them concerning what is true and good . . . Wherever they go, they are persuaded, and are carried along like chaff in the wind, for they are devoid of principles, and of the plane into which the Angels may operate, and withdraw them from evils.

[A.] 6344. 'The beginning of my forces' (Gen. xlix. 3) = that through it truth has its first power. 'The beginning of forces' = the first power.

6472². Thus does the Lord lead a man according to his delights, also according to fallacies and the principles thence adopted . . .

6548. 'In the cave of the field of Machpelah' (Gen. i. 13) = the beginning of regeneration. Ex.

7272. The evil of falsity is that which originates from principles of falsity. Examp.

7317². When they come into the other life, they take with them the principles that . . .

7828. 'This shall be the first of the months of the year to you' (Exod. xii. 2) = the beginning from which are all following states to eternity. . . 'A year' = a period of life, from beginning to end; here, as it is predicated of those who are of the spiritual Church in the other life, the period of whose life has a beginning, but not an end, by 'a year' is signified the period of life from the beginning to eternity.

8313⁴. For, in the other life, everyone retains the principles of his faith which he had had in the bodily life, and none change them for truths but those who have been in the good of life . . .

8400. By 'a month' is signified the end of a former state, and the beginning of the following one, thus a new state.

8426^e. 'Evening' = the end of a former Church, and 'morning,' the beginning of a new one.

8861^e. Each and all things originate from truths Divine, which are the internal beginnings of all things. Ex.

9656. The interior things of man are in his head, for the beginnings of the senses and of the motions are there, and the beginnings are the inmost things, because the rest are derived from them; for the beginnings are like the vein of the springs which are the source of streams.

10044. The inmost with man is his will and understanding; these, in the beginnings, are in the head. . .

10266^e. It matters not, if, in the beginning . . . the affection of truth is also for the sake of self and the world. . .

10307^e. To speak against the principles which have been confirmed through his loves, is to speak against the man himself. . .

H. 356 App.⁷. A principle is to be drawn from the truths of doctrine of the Church, . . . and after that it is allowable to consult scientifics. 455(g). N. 51⁵.

N. 21. From one falsity, especially if it is in the place of a principle, there flow falsities in a continual series.

L. 36². From this it is that the Lord is called 'the Beginning and the End,' etc.

S. 98^e. The Lord had indeed been the Word, but in first principles, for it is said 'In the beginning was the Word . . . this was in the beginning with God' (John i. 1, 3).

W. 267. If (the understanding) sees truths opposed to . . . the principles of its Own Intelligence . . .

365. Man's life is in its beginnings in the brains . . . Gen. art. In its beginnings, means in its first principles . . . and by life in the beginnings is meant the will and understanding. These are the two things which, in the brains, are in their beginnings . . . That the beginnings, or first principles of life, are in the brains, is evident from . . .

366. Such as is the life in the beginnings, such is it in the whole and every part of it. Gen. art. . . Where these beginnings in the brains are, is evident from anatomy . . . Now as these glands are the heads of the fibrils, they are also their beginnings, for the fibres commence from them . . .

—². They who know these things . . . can see that the beginnings of life are nowhere else than where the beginnings-initia-of the fibres are.

—³. It is these beginnings, or beginnings-initia, which appear as glands . . .

367. Through these beginnings the life is in the whole from every part, and in every part from the whole. Gen. art. For the whole . . . originally consists of nothing else than fibres which proceed from their beginnings in the brains.

369². All things of the body are . . . woven by means of fibres from the beginnings which are the receptacles of love and wisdom; and when the beginnings are such, the derivatives cannot be different; wherefore wherever the beginnings go, the derivatives follow . . .

373^e. In the cortical substance, the receptacles of the will and understanding appear conspicuously in their beginnings, where as it were little glands are to be seen.

400. From which it is evident, that all things of man come forth from the life of the will, which is love, from their beginnings in the brains through the fibres; and that all things of his body come forth from the heart through the arteries and veins.

427². They who are in spiritual love have wisdom inscribed on their memory, wherefore they speak about Divine Truths, and do them from the principles in the memory.

P. 193². Thus, with every man, there are two beginnings of life, one natural, and the other spiritual; and the natural beginning of life is the pulsation of the heart, and the spiritual beginning of life is the will of the mind . . .

R. 29. See ALPHA at this ref. 888. E. 41.

200. 'The beginning of the working of God' (Rev. iii. 14) = the Word. Ex.

436. The arguments by which a false principle is defended. (Sig.) For nothing but falsities can flow forth from a false principle . . .

438. Everyone who assumes a principle of religion from his Own intelligence, and sets it for a head, takes up also confirmations from the Word, and sets them for a tail. Ill.

M. 328. Substantial things are the beginnings—initia—of material ones. You are in beginnings and thus in singulars, but we are in derivatives and composites . . .

T. 84^e. See FIRST at this ref.

156. They therefore err who believe that man's mind is only in the head; it is there in its beginnings only . . .

224. Truth and good are beginnings of all things in both worlds.

—². The human mind, which exists from these two beginnings . . .

762. It is according to Divine order that there be a beginning and its end before a new beginning arises . . .

Ad. 992. These conclusions, which are formed by the understanding, are also called principles . . .

993. These conclusions, which are called principles, are Knowledge . . .

D. 4608. Such as a man is in his organic beginnings, such is he wholly, for the whole is a continuation from these beginnings; as are the fibrils which flow forth from their beginnings, and diffuse themselves through the whole body; such as are these beginnings, such are all things which are from them, thus the whole man . . . For the particulars, by derivation from the beginnings make a one. E. 775⁴.

D. Min. 4610. How principles break affections. Gen.art.

— That principles of truth change and break cupidities, or delights of evil, has been made known to me by experience. When I have been in an affection of evil, and principles of truth were insinuated inwardly, those delights began to cease . . .

4612. On the other hand, affections of good can be, and are wont to be, broken through principles of falsity, namely, when what is false is received as true. Examps.

4613. How powerfully principles operate. Examp.

4614. When [anyone] receives and believes principles of truth, or truths of faith, even although the operation be insensible so long as he lives in the body, still the Lord infuses blessedness into them . . .

4625. Principles which are according to order, namely, truths of faith, can be animated by the Lord, because they are according to order, and, when they are vivified, they become affections of truth; principles of falsity not so much; but if there are good affections, principles not true can be bent into truths, and so be as it were changed, and the man be saved; but never unless there are affections of good.

4771. On those who are in principles of truth and in a will of evil . . .

E. 211. A principle draws all things to its own side, because they must be connected with it . . .

229. 'The beginning of the working of God'=faith from Him, which, in appearance, is the first of the Church. 'The beginning'=what is first. Ex.

357²⁷. By 'the beginning of his power' (Jer.xlix.35) is signified trust.

406¹⁰. 'The ships of Tarshish in the beginning' (Is.lx.9)=good things which they bring and do.

696²¹. As fear has regard to the Divine Truth which is the source of holiness in worship, and also of wisdom and intelligence, it is said 'the beginning of wisdom the fear of Jehovah' (Ps.exi.10).

775². The reason 'the head'=wisdom, intelligence, and the knowledge of truths; and, in the opposite sense, folly, insanity, and the knowledge of falsities, is that these things reside in the head, and are there in their beginnings. Ex.

—³. Hence it is evident that the will and understanding . . . reside in the brains, and that they are there in their first principles, and that the organs which are formed to receive the senses, and to make movements, are derivations thence, just as streams from their springs, or as derivatives from their beginnings . . .

Behead. Decollare.

Beheading. Decollatio.

A. 8079. 'To break the neck' (Exod.xiii.13)=to separate and cast out. The reason it has this signification, is that the neck=the conjunction of the interiors with the exteriors. 10664.

9264⁴. By 'the beheading in that valley' (Deut.xxi.4,6) is signified expiation on account of there being no blame, because it was from ignorance.

Behemoth. Behemoth.

E. 455¹⁸. In this and the following chapters (Job xl, xli) 'the behemoth' and 'the leviathan' are treated of, and the natural man is signified by both of them; by 'the behemoth,' the natural man as to the goods which are called the delights of natural love; and by 'the leviathan,' the natural man as to the truths which are called scientifics and Knowledge, from which comes natural lumen.

507⁸. By 'the behemoth' (Job xl.15) is meant the same as by 'a beast,' namely, the natural affections which are in man; wherefore it is said, 'Behold the behemoth which I have made with thee.'

Behm, Brita. D.5837.

Behind. See AFTER, and BACK.

Behold. Ecce.

A. 2329. 'Behold, I pray my lords' (Gen.xix.2)=interior acknowledgment and confession of the Lord's Divine Human and Holy Proceeding . . .

2770. '(Abraham) said, Behold I' (Gen.xxii.1)=thought and reflection . . .

3495. '(Esau) said to (his father), Behold me' (Gen.xxvii.1), which is the answer,=presence.

3711. 'Behold, I am with thee' (Gen.xxviii.15)=the Divine.

[A.] 4711. '(Joseph) said, Behold me' (Gen. xxxvii. 13) = affirmation.

6002. '(Jacob) said, Behold me' (Gen. xlvii. 2) = perception.

6764. 'Behold, two men, Hebrews, wrangling' (Exod. ii. 13) = apperception that within the Church they were fighting each other. 'Behold,' or seeing = apperception.

6842. '(Moses) said, Behold me' (Exod. iii. 4) = hearing.

9144¹¹. 'Behold the Man' (John xix. 5) = behold the Divine Truth, such as it is in the Church at this day.

L. 167. After He had been scourged, etc., He said, 'Behold the Man' . . . because by 'the Man' is signified the Church . . .

Being. Ens.

See BE.

A. 206. The learned . . . who desire to speak cautiously, say that there is a certain supreme Being, they know not what, that rules all things.

—³. If such were asked whether they know what no proprium is, they would say that it is no being, and that if they were deprived of proprium they would be nothing.

1308. This is general with all nations, for everyone acknowledges some highest Being when he beholds the universe . . .

1919^e. It is most false, and, as it is called, an entity of reason, to say, that . . .

2156^e. They who divide this Trine which is in one are none but those who say that they acknowledge one supreme Being, the Creator of the universe, which is excusable in those who are out of the Church. But those within the Church who say so, do not acknowledge any God whatever, although they say so, and sometimes suppose so; still less do they acknowledge the Lord.

4211². All those within the Church who say that they believe in a supreme Being, and hold the Lord in slight estimation, are they who believe nothing whatever . . .

4214⁴. They who ascribe each and all things to their Own sagacity, and say that there is a supreme being which rules something in general . . . but nothing in particular, and who have confirmed themselves in this opinion, are also of the same character. Des.

4733². They who say that they acknowledge a supreme being, of which they have no idea of perception, for the most part acknowledge no God, but nature in the place thereof . . . Very many of the learned among Christians are of this character . . .

4950. Under the left foot, a little towards the left, are such as have attributed all things to nature, and still have confessed a Being of the universe from whom are all things which belong to nature. But examination was made as to whether they believed in any Being of the universe, or highest deity, which has created all things; and, from their thought communicated to me, it was perceived that it was an inanimate affair with no life in it in which they had believed; from which it was evident that they did not acknowledge a Creator of the universe, but that they acknowledged nature . . .

5094⁴. When (the rational natural man) beholds nature and the order of things, he sees that nature is a complex of means, and then perceives that an intelligent supreme Being has arranged them . . . But a sensual man does not comprehend that anything distinct from nature can exist, thus neither any being which is above nature.

5164^e. Within the Church are very many such, who deny the Lord, and say that they acknowledge a supreme Being.

6475. All in Hell think against the Lord . . . and yet very many say that they acknowledge a supreme Being, by which they mean the Father . . .

6876². When (the Ancient Church) thought about Jehovah they did not think as of a universal being, of whom they had no idea, but of the Divine Human . . .

H. 3³. But they who say that they believe in an invisible Divine, which they call the Being of the universe, from which all things have come forth, and reject the faith concerning the Lord, have been found to believe in no God . . .

W. 42. Thoughts, etc. are not entities flying and flowing out of nothing . . .

43. They would be a mere entity of reason, which, in itself, is not anything.

210^e. Abstracted or separated from them they are nothing but entities of reason . . .

229. From an entity of which nothing can be predicated, nothing can be made by massing.

289. Divine attributes . . . separated from a Man, are pure entities of reason.

T. 9³. The name Jehovah . . . means the supreme and only Being, from which is everything . . .

11². In order to separate God from nature, some have devised a most universal something which they have called the Being of the universe; and as they know nothing more about God, this Being is with them an entity of reason, which means nothing.

20. Unless being-esse-is substance, it is an entity of reason, for substance is being standing firm.

28. Although the human mind can acknowledge . . . that the first being, or the first Being-esse-is infinite, still it cannot know what is its nature . . .

367³. Nor is form any abiding being except from essence . . .

505³. What then is your act, except a purely ideal thing, which is called an entity of reason?

Bela. See ZOAR.

Belch. Egurgitare.

Belching. Egurgitatio.

A. 1763². See ATTEND at this ref.

T. 146². A ruminatory stomach, from which . . . they disgorge such things as they know will serve their hearers for food.

Belch. Eructare.

Belching. Eructatio.

A. 4656. When he spoke, he as it were belched the words . . . There were no interior things in his speech, thus but little of life, and hence came such belching.

T. 108². After this, no man in Christian lands who does not believe in the Lord, is listened to ; his prayers, in Heaven, are like . . . belchings from diseased lungs.

Believe. Credere.

See FAITH, and FAITH ALONE.

A. 30. For he who does not believe in the Lord cannot have life, as He Himself says in John ; 'he that believeth in the Son hath eternal life, but he that believeth not the Son shall not see life, but God's anger shall remain upon him' (iii. 36).

34. Spirits who are in the knowledge of the doctrinal things of faith without love . . . cannot approach the first threshold of the court of the Heavens . . . They do indeed say that they have believed in the Lord, but have not lived as He has taught. III.

44. Man . . . cannot produce anything of good unless there are first inseminated into him Knowledges of faith, from which he may know what is to be believed and done . . . 'To hear the Word, and not do it,' is to say that we believe and yet do not so live . . . III.

128. A worldly and corporeal man says in his heart, If I am not instructed about faith and the things which are of faith by means of sensuous things so that I may see ; or by means of scientific things so that I may understand, I will not believe . . . In proportion as he wills to be wise from these things does he blind himself, and that to such a degree that he believes nothing . . . This is to eat of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil . . . But he who does not will to be wise from the world, but from the Lord, says in his heart that we are to believe the Lord, that is, those things which the Lord has said in the Word, because they are truths, and from this beginning or principle he thinks . . .

191. As, from self-love, they then began to believe nothing which they did not apprehend by the senses . . . the Sensual is represented by 'the serpent.'

194. The third posterity of the Most Ancient Church is treated of, which began not to believe things revealed unless they saw and felt that they were so. Their first state is here described, which was one of doubt.

196. In ancient times they were called 'serpents' who trusted more in sensuous things than in revealed ones. At this day it is still worse, for there are not only those who believe nothing unless they see and feel, but who also confirm themselves by means of scientifics unknown to the most ancient people, and thus blind themselves much more completely . . . 2124.

229^e. They perceived themselves to be deceived through the senses, but because they loved themselves, they desired to know whether what they had heard about the Lord and about faith in Him was true, and in this way they wanted first to believe. Sig.

231. The evil of the Most Ancient Church . . . of the Ancient Church . . . of the Jewish Church, and of the new Church after the Lord's Advent, as also of the modern Church, is that they do not believe the Lord and the Word, but themselves and their own senses. From this there is no faith, and when there is no faith there is no love of the neighbour, thus everything is false and evil.

233². Hence it is evident that those who consult sensuous and scientific things concerning matters of belief, not only precipitate themselves into doubt, but also into denial, that is, into thick darkness ; and when they precipitate themselves into thick darkness, they also do so into all cupidities, for when they believe what is false, they also do what is false ; and when they believe that what is spiritual and celestial has no existence, they believe that only what is bodily and worldly has any existence ; thus they love whatever belongs to self and the world. Thus, from falsity, there come cupidities and evils. 1200².

235. As they were no longer willing to believe anything but what they apprehended by the senses, the Sensual, which is 'the serpent,' cursed itself and became infernal. Sig.

303. See ACKNOWLEDGE at these refs. 2357. 4031². 4151². 4601². T.151.

448². If I were to tell them, or write to them, they would not believe . . . and would ask for signs or miracles before they would believe . . . And perhaps few will believe that these things are true, for in their hearts they deny that Spirits have any existence . . . 1880².

589. See BEGINNING—principium, at this ref.

—². But he who believes simply, or from a simple heart, does not first adopt principles, but thinks that it is true because the Lord has so said ; and if, from other statements of the Word, he is instructed how it is to be understood, he then acquiesces and rejoices in his heart ; nay, he who believes in simplicity that the Lord is angry, punishes, etc. . . it does him no harm, for thus he also believes that the Lord sees each and all things . . . 1408^e. 1798⁴.

647^e. From this a man may know how insane it is to want to investigate matters of faith by means of sensuous and scientific things, and not to believe before he thus apprehends them.

1071. See APPREHEND at these refs. 1072. 1164. 1630^e. 1936. 2124. 2162^e. 2385. 2588². 2625². 3024⁴. 3325¹². 3385^e. 6775. 6997². 8325². 9109.

1378. Spirits who believed nothing to be true but what they saw with their eyes, (reasoned with).

1510². Hence it was evident how easily a man may be confirmed in falsities and evils, unless he believes the truths which are from the Lord . . .

—². There was also perceived the sphere of incredulity, which is of such a nature, that they believe nothing that is said, and scarcely what is presented to view ; and there was also perceived the sphere of those who believe nothing but what they apprehend by the senses.

1608². 'As many as received Him, to them gave He Power to be sons of God, to them that believe in His name, who were not from bloods, nor from the will of the flesh, nor from the will of man—viri' (John i. 12, 13). From these words it is evident what faith or believing in Him is, that is, with those who receive Him, and believe in Him, not from the will of the flesh, nor from the will of man ; 'the will of the flesh' = what is contrary to love and charity ; and 'the will of man' = what is contrary to faith from love or charity . . . 5826⁴.

[A.] 1676^e. Wherefore it is sufficient that they should know, and, because it is so, that they should believe that . . . unless the Lord had come . . . mankind would have perished.

1798^e. They who are in doctrinal things, and not in charity, dispute about everything, and condemn everyone who does not say, or as they call it, believe, as they do.

1812. 'He believed in Jehovah' (Gen.xv.6)=the Lord's faith at that time. . . The Lord . . . [acted] from the inmost confidence and constant faith, that as He was fighting from pure love for the salvation of the universal human race, He could not but conquer; which, here, is 'to believe in Jehovah.' From the love from which anyone combats it is known what his faith is. He who combats from any other love than love towards the neighbour and the Lord's Kingdom, does not combat from faith, that is, he does not believe in Jehovah, but in that which he loves. The love itself for which he combats is his faith. Examp.

1886. Pref. I know that few will believe . . . because few believe in the resurrection, and fewer of the learned than of the simple . . . Some openly say that they will believe if anyone rises from the dead . . . So that they speak contrary to what they believe, and believe contrary to what they say . . .

1935^e. They who have no conscience cannot have interior thought, and therefore they have no combat, because their Rational acts as one and the same with their corporeal Sensual, and although what is good and true continually flows in with them from the Lord, they do not perceive it, because they at once extinguish and suffocate it. Hence it is that they do not believe any truth of faith.

1936. (Examples of things to be believed which transcend the apprehension of the first Rational.)

1937^e. But they who disdain and reject all good and truth, and who want to believe nothing, because it is opposed to their cupidities and reasonings, cannot compel themselves, and so cannot receive this . . . new Voluntary.

1940^e. But when the Rational submits itself, and believes the Lord, that is, His Word, the Rational is then like soil, or good earth, into which the seed falls and bears much fruit.

2009¹². They are of such a character as He has commanded, which is 'to believe in His name' (John i.12).

2034. Here, now, the conjunction of the Lord with those who believe in Him is treated of (Gen.xvii.9).

—⁵. As they do not apprehend (this arcanum concerning the assumption of the Human) they do not believe it; and as, from their not apprehending it they do not believe it, it becomes a stumbling-block to them. From experience.

—⁷. Then the Lord came . . . and taught the way of truth, that everyone who believes in Him, that is, who loves Him and what belongs to Him, and in His love, which is love towards the universal human race, thus in love towards the neighbour, shall be conjoined and saved.

2094. They who believe in simplicity (that the Lord's human essence was made Divine, and that the Lord is God as to both essences) have no need to know how it was done, for to know how it was done is merely for the sake of the end that they may believe that such is the case.

—². At this day there are many who believe nothing unless they know from reason that it is so, as is plainly evident from the fact that few believe in the Lord, although they profess to do so with the lips, because it is according to the doctrine of faith (2243⁷). But still, within themselves, and among themselves, they say that they would believe if they knew that it could be so. The reason they do not believe, and the reason they so speak, is that the Lord was born like any other man. These persons can never receive any faith unless they first apprehend in some way how it can be so. Hence these explanations. They who believe the Word in simplicity have no need to know all these things, because they are already in the end to which those just spoken of are not able to arrive, except through Knowledge of such things.

2162^e. The more such persons reason, the less they believe.

2203. The human Rational as to truth is of such a character that it cannot understand what is Divine, for this truth is in appearances, wherefore that which it cannot understand it does not believe, and what it does not believe it is not affected by. Sig.

2209. When the Rational thinks of Divine things, especially from the truth which appertains to it, it can never believe that there are such things, both because it does not apprehend them, and because the appearances cling to it which are born from the fallacies of the senses. Examps.

2231³. See FAITH ALONE at this ref.

2243². The falsity which produces evil exists when a man adopts any principle from his religiosity, and thence believes that it is good or holy, when yet in itself it is evil. Examp.

2284⁴. It is very common for those who have adopted an opinion concerning any truth of faith to pass the judgment about others, that they cannot be saved unless they believe the same as they do, which, however, the Lord has forbidden (Matt.vii.1,2) . . .

—⁵. Those have not the life of charity who will that no others should be saved but those who believe as they themselves do, and still less those who feel indignation at its being otherwise . . .

2343³. That all regeneration or new life, thus salvation, is from the Lord alone, is indeed known in the Church, but is believed by few. The reason it is not believed, is that they are not in the good of charity, and it is as impossible for those to believe this who are not in that good, as it is for a camel to enter through the eye of a needle, for the good of charity is the very soil of the seeds of faith . . . wherefore in proportion as a man is in good he can be in truth; or in proportion as he is in charity he can be in faith, especially in this principal matter of faith, that all salvation is from the Lord. That this is the principal matter of faith, Fully ill.

—⁶. That those who are in evil, that is, in the life of evil, can never believe that all salvation is from the Lord, has been made evident to me by those who have come into the other life from the Christian World, even from those who, in the life of the body, have professed with the lips, nay, have even taught, that there is no salvation without the Lord, and yet have lived a life of evil. When the Lord was merely named, they at once filled the sphere full of pure stumbling-blocks . . .

—⁸. The same persons were also questioned as to what faith they had, seeing they had not that which they had professed in the life of the body. They said . . . that they had believed in God the Creator of the universe, but they were examined as to whether such was the case, and it was found that they had not believed in any God, but had thought that all things are of nature, and that all the things said about the eternal life are idle tales. Such is the faith of all those within the Church who do not believe in the Lord, but say that they believe in God the Creator of the universe. Truth cannot flow in from any other Source than the Lord, nor can it be inseminated in anything but the good which is from Him.

2357³. This (danger of profanation) is the reason why at this day it is granted to so few to believe from the heart that the good of love and of charity is Heaven in a man, and that everything Divine is in the Lord, for they are in the life of evil.

2401². The quality of those who are in Knowledges of truth and at the same time in the life of evil has been stated before, namely, that so long as they are in the life of evil they believe nothing; for to will evil, and thence do it, and acknowledge the truth in faith, never takes place.

2454^o. When doctrine is separated from life, as the good of life is devastated, so is the truth of doctrine, that is, it becomes a pillar of salt; as everyone may know who looks to doctrine alone and not to life. For although doctrine teaches, does he believe in the resurrection, Heaven, Hell, nay, does he believe in the Lord?

2492. With those who have wanted to penetrate into Divine arcana through scientific, and especially through philosophical things, and have not believed until they were persuaded through these things, (the callosity of the memory) appears darksome, and is of such a nature that it absorbs the rays of light, and turns them into darkness.

2538². The case with doctrine stands thus; in proportion as it is believed to be so from what is human, that is, from what is sensuous, scientific, and rational, in the same proportion it is no doctrine at all; but in proportion as what is sensuous, scientific, and rational, is removed, that is, in proportion as it is believed without them, in the same proportion the doctrine is alive, for in the same proportion the Divine flows in. It is what is proper to the human that hinders influx and reception. But it is one thing to believe from what is rational, scientific, and sensuous, or to consult these things in order to believe, and it is another thing to confirm and corroborate, by means of rational, scientific, and sensuous things, that which is believed.

2568. It is one thing to regard the doctrine of faith from rational things, and quite another thing to regard rational things from the doctrine of faith; to regard the doctrine of faith from rational things, is not to believe the Word or the doctrine thence derived until we are persuaded by means of rational things that it is so; whereas to regard rational things from the doctrine of faith, is first of all to believe the Word or doctrine thence derived, and afterwards to confirm the same by means of rational things. The former is the inverted order, and causes that nothing is believed; but the latter is the genuine order, and causes us to believe better. Treated of.

—³. The Word in its inward sense treats much of these matters, especially where Egypt and Assyria are treated of, for this reason, that when the doctrine of faith is regarded from rational things, that is, is not believed until the man is persuaded from those things that it is so, it then not only becomes no doctrine at all, but whatever is therein is denied; whereas when rational things are regarded from the doctrine of faith, that is, when the Word is believed, and afterwards the same things are confirmed by means of rational things, then the doctrine is alive, and whatever is therein is affirmed. 2588².

—⁴. (See BEGINNING—principium, at this ref. for a very important statement.)

2588². They who are in good can believe, but not they who are in evil . . .

—⁸. How important it is that truths be known and believed . . .

2682^o. As there are few who believe that they have a spirit which will live after death, there are few who are being regenerated; to those who believe, the other life is everything of their thought and affection, and the world is comparatively nothing; but to those who do not believe, the world is everything of thought and affection, and the other life is comparatively nothing; the former are they who can be regenerated, the latter are they who cannot.

2761. See BACKWARDS at this ref.

2832. The more anyone consults natural scientifics as to those things which are truths of faith, clinging to them in his mind, the more he loses the light of truth, and with it also the life of truth. Everyone may know this from experiment upon those who say that they can believe nothing unless they apprehend that it is so by means of sensuous or by means of scientific things. If you investigate their character, you will find that they believe nothing whatever, and that nothing seems to them to be wiser than to attribute each and all things to nature. There are also many who say that they believe although they do not apprehend, and yet still in secret reason about truths of faith as to whether they are so, just as much as the others; these either have what is persuasive breathed in from the love of self and the world, or else they do not believe at all . . .

[A.] 2883. Still he ought to know, and, when reformed, to think and believe, that everything good and true is from the Lord . . .

3175⁴. This truth must be confirmed and illustrated by many things before it can be raised out of the natural man into the Rational, nor can it ever be raised thither until the man is in the love of God, for it is not acknowledged before, thus is not believed. It is the same with other truths . . . These, and similar things can never be believed unless the man is in good; it is good that apprehends, for the Lord flows in through good with wisdom.

3267³. He who is in charity loves the neighbour and excuses his differing from him in matters of belief, provided he lives in what is good and true . . .

—^e. Truth cannot be conjoined with evil, wherefore those who know truths which are called things to be believed, and do not live in charity, or in good, although in the Church, because born there, are not of the Church, for there is nothing of the Church in them, that is, nothing of good with which truth may be conjoined.

3394³. This is the reason why they want the things of faith to be believed in simplicity without any view from the Rational, not knowing that nothing of faith, even its deepest secret, is ever apprehended by any man without some rational and also natural idea . . . Such a position is hurtful to those who are in the affirmative concerning the Word, namely, that it is to be believed, for thus [men] can take away from everyone the freedom of thinking, and tie the conscience to the greatest heresy . . . Sig.

3748^e. How could he want to reason when he did not know principles, for reasoning is then like loose dust spread out, which falsities so disperse that at last we know nothing, and thus believe nothing.

3762². These truths concerning charity towards the neighbour and love to the Lord must be learned before a man can be regenerated, and must also be acknowledged and believed, and in proportion as they are acknowledged, believed, and made habitual in the life, the man is being regenerated . . . But still they are not acknowledged, believed, and made habitual, unless the life be according to them . . .

3834. He who is in the affection of internal truth, that is, he who is in the earnest desire to know the arcana of the Lord's Kingdom, in the beginning has not these arcana conjoined with him, although he knows them, and although he sometimes acknowledges and as it were believes them, for as yet there are present worldly and bodily affections, which cause him indeed to receive and as it were believe them, but in proportion as these affections are present, these truths cannot be conjoined.

3863¹. 'I have said unto you, that ye also have seen Me, and believe not; this is the will of Him that sent Me, that everyone who seeth the Son, and believeth in Him, may have eternal life' (John vi. 36, 40) . . . 'To see and not to believe'=to know the truths of faith and not to receive them; 'to see and believe'=to know them and receive them.

3865². As to those who live evilly, although in childhood and young manhood they have been as much skilled in the doctrinal things of the Church as other people, still when examined as to what they believe about the Lord, faith in Him, and the truths of the Church, you find that they believe nothing at all; but as to those who live well, you find that everyone of them has faith in the truths which they believe to be truths. Whereas they who teach truths . . . and live evilly, do indeed say that they believe, but still at heart they do not believe; with some there is a persuasive belief which counterfeits faith . . . 6949². 7950, From experience.

3900⁶. 'If therefore they say unto you, Lo, He is in the desert, go not forth; lo, He is in the secret chambers, believe not' (Matt. xxiv. 26)=that we are not to believe what they say concerning what is true, nor what they say concerning what is good, and many other things . . .

3993¹. He who believes that a man is saved on account of believing well, and not from willing well, and yet wills well and thence does well, this is a falsity to which what is good and true can be adjoined, but not if he does not will well and thence do well.

4046. They who constitute the province of the dura mater . . . are they who, while living as men, thought nothing about spiritual and celestial things . . . because they were of such a character that they believed in nothing but what is natural, and this because they could not penetrate beyond; but still they did not confess this . . .

4137. 'I would have sent thee in gladness and in songs' (Gen. xxxi. 27)=the state as to truths in which, from proprium, he would have believed himself to be . . . To believe from proprium is to believe from what is not true.

4151⁷. Many can know (that everything good and true is from the Lord), but few can believe it. Even they who are evil can know it, but not believe it, for they will to be in proprium . . . 4319.

4211². See BEING at this ref.

4319². To know is not to believe; to believe is an inward thing, and can only exist in the affection of what is good and true, thus only in those who are in the good of charity towards the neighbour. From experience.

4330². (Sensuous Spirits from this Earth) who believe nothing but what can be confirmed by means of external sensuous things . . .

4364³. These are the special [confirmations] which first occur before this truth is insinuated into good, that is, before it is fully believed . . .

4368^e. Everyone can see this proved by the daily experience that those who are in evil do not believe, but that those who are in good do.

4424³. They who are in mere natural things, and are in them from the fallacies of the senses, and believe nothing they do not see therefrom, are said to be in 'the gnashing of teeth,' and, in the other life, also appear to themselves to be so, when, from fallacies, they form conclusions about truths of faith.

4464⁴. He believes that nothing exists that he does not see with his eyes, and feel by the touch . . .

4529². Few believe in any Heaven and Hell . . . 5649^e.

4551. For what a man believes, he does.

4588^e. Believing nothing but what the Sensual dictates.

4601³. They who know the truth and good of faith, yet do not believe at heart, as is the case with most at this day, cannot profane . . .

4622. Nothing is believed that cannot be seen with the bodily eyes and touched with the hands of flesh.

—⁶. I know that (such) will not believe . . .

4653. The Spirits who correspond to hearing . . . do not reason whether a thing is so, but believe that it is so because it is so said by others . . .

4689². No one there is allowed to speak differently from what he thinks, thus believes.

—³. It is evident that faith is now separated from charity, because . . . he who believes differently from what dogma teaches, is cast out from their communion, and vilified.

4776³. They who are in selflove . . . at heart do not believe in the existence of Heaven and Hell and the life after death . . . It appears to them that they believe while they are at worship . . . but as soon as they come out of that state, they do not believe at all . . .

4783². If it be said to them that no one can believe in the Lord except him who is in charity . . .

4802². Two . . . who wondered that they were in Hell, when yet they had persuasively believed the truths of faith . . .

4925². Being in the doctrine (of faith alone) they at last do not know, or care, what charity is, and finally do not believe in its existence, consequently not in that of Heaven and Hell. Ex.

4952. Some who are natural have said that they had not known what to believe, because the lot of everyone is according to the life, and also according to the thoughts from confirmed principles; but they were answered that it would have been sufficient for them to believe that it is God Who governs all things, and that there is a life after death . . .

5006⁴. Few believe that they will live after death.

5084. It is from (the fallacies of the senses) that few believe the truths of faith . . . 5133.

5135². At the age of first adolescence . . . he simply believes, . . . but as he advances in age . . . he takes up again, and as it were chews over again, what he had before learned and believed . . .

5432². They who have come to adult age, and still more they who have come to old age, and have not looked with their own sight and seen whether the truths of the Church . . . are true, and afterwards have not willed to live according to them . . . cannot at all believe that the truths of the Church are true, however it seems to them that they believe. The reason it seems to them that they believe them to be true, is that they trust in others . . .

5508³. (No miracles now) because they would force man to believe . . .

—⁵. That at this day a man ought to believe what he does not see, is evident from the Lord's words,

'Because thou hast seen Me, Thomas, thou hast believed; blessed are they who do not see, and believe' (John xx. 29).

5661. 'Not to know' (Gen. xliii. 22) = not to believe, or no faith.

5664a³. It is one thing to know truths of faith, and another to believe them. Ex.

5721. See AUTHORITY at this ref.

5747². Before a man is regenerated, he cannot but believe (that he procures truth of himself); he does indeed say from doctrine, that all truth . . . and good . . . are from the Lord, but still he does not believe it until faith has been implanted in good; he then first acknowledges it from the heart . . .

5816². When a man is in good, he then, from good, sees truths, and perceives them, and thus believes that they are true; but never if a man is not in good. Good is like a flame which gives light . . . and causes the man to see, perceive, and believe truths . . .

5849. I know that few believe that there is any spirit in them, nay, that there are any Spirits; chiefly because at this day there is no faith because no charity; hence neither is it believed that there is a Hell, or a Heaven, consequently a life after death. Another reason is, that they do not see Spirits with their eyes, for they say, If I saw, I would believe; what I see exists, but what I do not see does not exist . . .

5969. 'His heart failed, because he did not believe them' (Gen. xlv. 26) = deficiency of natural life and thence of understanding. . . 'Not to believe' = deficiency of understanding.

6015³. (Such persons say,) Cause me to see it with my eyes, or demonstrate scientifically that it is so, and then I will believe. Yet if they saw, and if it were demonstrated, they would not believe, because the negative reigns universally.

6125⁴. 'Horses from Egypt' (Ezek. xvii. 15) = scientifics from a perverted Intellectual, which are consulted in the things of faith, and the Word is not believed, that is, the Lord, except from them; thus it is never believed, for the negative reigns in a perverted Intellectual. 6383.

6222³. The Intellectual of the Church consists in a man's perceiving what is to be believed and done while he is reading the Word and carefully comparing one passage with another . . .

6310². The men who are in this lumen are called the Sensual, for they do not think beyond the sensuous things of the body; what is beyond they neither perceive nor believe in; they only believe in that which they can see and touch. 7693.

6383². See AFFIRMATIVE at this ref.

6484^e. He said he had not believed (in the eternal life) because he saw such confusion, a righteous man suffering and an impious one glorying . . . and also because he saw that brute animals have similar senses, etc.

6944. 'Not to believe' (Exod. iv. 1) = not to have faith.

6956. 'To believe' (Exod. iv. 5) = to have faith. 6970. 6973. 8783.

[A.] 6974². 'To believe' (Exod.iv.9), by which is signified faith, is said of the truth which is of faith, and thus has relation to the Intellectual; whereas 'to hear' . . . has relation to the Voluntary.

7065. 'The people believed and heard' (Exod.iv.31) = faith and hope. 'To believe' = to believe in a spiritual sense, or faith.

7172. The Spirits of our Earth asked the Spirits of Mercury in whom they believed? They replied that they believed in God . . . The Spirits of Mercury then asked the Spirits of our Earth in whom they believed? They said that they believed in the Lord God. But the Spirits of Mercury then said that they perceived that they believed in no God, and that they have a custom of saying with the mouth that they believe, and yet do not believe . . .

7290². Miracles do not take place with those who are in inward worship . . . for they are hurtful to them, because they compel belief. (Ex.) (10751⁶) . . . This is signified by . . . 'Because thou hast seen Me, Thomas, thou hast believed, blessed are they do not see, and believe;' thus blessed are they who do not believe through miracles.

7909. If falsity be appropriated, that is, firmly believed, there is no reception of the good of innocence . . .

8067. What is impressed on a man through faith and charity, or what he thoroughly believes and loves, is perpetually in his thought and will . . .

8078^e. The truth of innocence . . . is that which, from innocence, is believed to be so.

8240. 'They believed' (Exod.xiv.31) = faith and trust.

8521². That this is really truth (the man of the Spiritual Kingdom) does indeed believe, because he has faith in what is doctrinal, but he has no perception as to whether it is true . . .

—³. They who are in the affection of truth for the sake of the uses of life . . . are continually enlightened by the Lord . . . for the Lord leads them through good, and through it gives them to see what is true, and thus to believe.

8772². Spiritual life is first acquired by knowing the truths which are of faith, afterwards by acknowledging them, and at last by believing them; when they are only known, they are as it were at the door; when they are acknowledged, they are in the court; but when they are believed, they are in the bedchamber . . .

—³. When these truths have been conjoined with good, the man is regenerated, for he then no longer looks from truths as to what is to be believed and done, but from good . . .

8882. 'To take the name of God in vain' = to turn truth into evil, that is, to believe that it is true, and still to live in evil; and it is also to turn good into falsity, that is, to live holily and yet not believe. Both are profanation; for to believe is of the understanding, and to live is of the will, wherefore, in those who believe differently from what they live, the thought and the will are divided . . . Hence it is that when a man believes one thing and lives another, truth and evil, or good and falsity, are conjoined.

9032². See BAPTISM at these refs. 10392.

9182². All that is called truth which a man believes.

9222². Wherefore the first thing of all with the man of the Church is to believe the Word, and this is the primary thing with him who is in the truth of faith and the good of charity; whereas with those who are in the evils of the loves of self and of the world, the primary thing is not to believe the Word, for they at once reject it as soon as they think about it.

9224³. The errors which the doctrine of faith separate from charity induces; as that a man can will what is evil and believe what is true, consequently, that truth agrees with evil.

9239. It is said, to believe in God, and to believe the things which are from God. To believe in God is the faith which saves; but to believe those things which are from God, is faith, which, without the former, does not save; for to believe in God is to know and to do; but to believe the things which are from God, is to know and not as yet to do. They who are truly Christians know and do, thus they believe in God . . .

9243. He who does not believe the truths which are from God cannot believe in God, because to believe in God is from the truths which are from God.

9244. All who are in celestial love have confidence that they will be saved by the Lord, for they believe that the Lord came into the world to give eternal life to those who believe and live according to the precepts which He taught, and that He regenerates these, and thus fits them for Heaven; and that He does this of Himself alone, of pure mercy, without the aid of man. This is meant by believing in the Lord.

9356. For no one can believe in a God, and love a God Whom he cannot comprehend under some form . . .

10083⁶. As the acknowledgment of the Lord is the very first thing of spiritual life, and the most essential thing of the Church, and as, without it, no one can receive from Heaven anything of the truth of faith and of the good of love, the Lord so often said that 'he who believeth in Him should have eternal life,' and that 'he who does not believe' should not have it. (III.) But He also teaches at the same time that those have faith in Him who live according to His commandments . . .

10155. See KNOW-cognoscere, at this ref.

10156². They who are only in natural knowledge, and thus in no other light than the light of the world, cannot at all believe those things which are of Heaven . . .

10236⁴. That to enter, from the world, into the things which are from Heaven, is contrary to Divine order, may be evident from those who enter from their own Sensual, thus from the scientifics which are of the world; in that they believe nothing at all.

10367⁴. Whether you say, to understand the truth that is of good, or to believe it, is the same thing.

10582. What they believe without light from Heaven appears as true, but still with them, it is false . . .

10645². By only believing, or by only loving, the Lord is not worshipped, but by living according to His commandments, for these alone are they who believe in the Lord and love Him. All others say that they believe in Him, and yet do not believe; and say that they love Him, and yet do not love Him. The reason why they alone believe in the Lord, and love Him, who live according to His precepts, is that the Lord is not in the understanding of truth without the willing of it, but is in the understanding of truth and the willing of it . . . —⁶, III.

—⁴. Hence it is evident, that to believe in the Lord is to imbue the Intellectual with truths of faith . . .

10659³. To those who are in enlightenment, the Lord gives to understand what they believe; and those are enlightened when they read the Word, and those understand it, who acknowledge the Lord, and live according to His commandments; but not those who say that they believe, and do not live; for the Lord inflows into a man's life, and thence into his faith . . .

10731. They who are led by themselves and their own loves, do not believe in the Lord, for to believe in the Lord is to be led by Him, and not by self.

10798. Priests . . . are not to force anyone, for no one can be forced to believe contrary to that which he has thought from his heart to be true; he who believes differently from the priest, and does not make disturbances, must be left in peace . . . N.318.

H. 351². A man looks to the Divine when he believes the Divine . . . and he believes the Divine when he wills to be led by the Divine.

352. Spurious intelligence and wisdom . . . are merely to believe that to be true and good, and false and evil, which is said by others, and then to confirm it . . .

356 App.⁷. He who does not believe Divine Truths unless he is persuaded by means of scientifics, never believes.

364⁹. They said that, in the world, they had not comprehended that to believe is anything else than to live.

456³. (Even if visions of the other life were given) still those would not believe who have confirmed themselves in falsities . . .

—⁴. That those who are in falsities would still not believe, is meant by . . . 'If they hear not Moses and the Prophets, neither will they believe if one should rise from the dead' (Luke xvi.31).

N. 50. He is called a sensual man . . . who believes nothing except what he can see with the eyes and touch with the hands . . . Refs.

256². The Word is only understood by a rational man; for to believe anything without an idea of the thing and without the view of reason, is only to retain a word by the memory, destitute of all the life of perception and affection, which is not to believe. Refs. W.H.7².

J. 24³. They who think from wisdom, cannot believe unless they in some way comprehend . . .

L. 18³. By 'the sons of God, and those who believe in His name' (John i.12) are meant those who believe in the Lord, and who believe the Word.

32⁸. As the Lord made His Human Divine from the Divine in Himself, and as It is to be approached, and this is the Son of God, we are to believe in the Lord, Who is both the Father and the Son. Fully ill.

Life 17^e. 'To believe in the name of the Son of God' (John i.12)=to believe the Word and to live according to it.

48^e. 'To believe in the Lord' (John vi.29) is not only to think that He exists, but it is also to do His words.

F. 2. This is true, and therefore I believe . . . If he does not comprehend that it is true, he says; I do not know whether it is true, therefore I do not yet believe; how can I believe what I do not comprehend?

4. Do you suppose yourself to be God that I should believe you? or do you suppose me to be insane, that I should believe an assertion in which I do not see truth?

10. By (the Lord's words to Thomas) is not meant faith separated from an inward acknowledgment of truth, but that those are blessed who do not see the Lord with the eyes, as Thomas did, and still believe that He exists; for this is [done] in the light of truth from the Word.

36. The Universal of the Christian faith on the part of man, is to believe in the Lord, for conjunction with Him, through which is salvation, is effected through believing in Him; to believe in Him is to have confidence that He saves; and as no one can have confidence but he who lives well, this also is meant by believing in Him. R.67². B.116³. T.2³, III.

W. 374^e. All things of religion . . . have been removed from man's view by the dogma . . . that theological matters . . . are to be believed blindly . . . 425².

428. When (those who are in spiritual love) are told that they must believe, they say it is empty talk, for who does not believe the truth? They say this because they see truth in the light of their own Heaven; wherefore, to believe what they do not see, they call either simplicity, or folly.

P. 129. It is a law of the Divine Providence that a man should not be forced through external means to think and will, thus to believe and love, the things of religion; but that a man should bring, and sometimes force himself. Gen.art.

320. See APPROPRIATE at this ref.

R. 198. 'To the Angel of the Church of the Laodiceans write' (Rev.iii.14)=to those and concerning those in the Church who believe alternately from themselves and from the Word, and thus profane holy things. . . There exist in the Church those who believe and do not believe, as that God exists, that the Word is holy, that there is an eternal life, etc., and yet they do not believe. They believe these things when they are in their sensuous Natural, but do not believe them when they are in their rational Natural; thus they believe when in externals, as when they are in company and conversation with others; but they do not believe when they are in internals, as when not in company with others . . .

553². That none are saved but they who believe in Him, III.

—^e. To believe in the Lord is to approach Him immediately, and have confidence that He saves; and as no one can have confidence but he who lives well, this also is meant by believing in Him. 839¹¹.

564². As the dogma that the understanding is to be kept in obedience to faith is rejected in the New Church, and in its stead there is received that the truth of the Church is to be seen in order that it may be believed, and as truth cannot be seen in any other way than rationally, therefore we say, from truths rationally understood.

I. 13⁵. This is done by a wise man, because he turns his face to God, that is, he believes in Him, and not in himself; but the former is done by an insane man, because he turns his face away from God, that is, he believes in himself and not in God. To believe in himself, is to believe that he loves and is wise from himself, and not from God, and this is signified by 'to eat of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil'; but to believe in God, is to believe that he loves and is wise from God, and not from himself, and this is 'to eat of the tree of life' (Rev.ii.7).

B. 43. Saving faith is to believe in Him. T.3.

T. 86³. We, (said the Satan,) believe what we see, and love what we touch, and then he touched his harlot, and said, I believe in this, because I see and touch.

107. After this, no one from Christians comes into Heaven but he who believes in the Lord God the Saviour, and approaches Him alone. Gen.art.

—³. That he who believes in the Son believes in the Father, Ill.

—^e. But they who know nothing of the Lord, as many . . . in Asia and Africa . . . if they believe in one God, and live according to the injunctions of their own religion, are saved by means of their own faith and life . . . for the Lord says; 'If ye were blind, ye would not have sin . . .' (John ix.41).

110². I said to him, Why did you not believe as (the Angels) do? He replied that after departure out of the world, no one can believe anything except what he has impressed upon himself by means of confirmation; this remains infixed, and cannot be torn away, especially what anyone has confirmed with himself about God . . .

149. The Lord operates these virtues in those who believe in Him. Gen.art. That the Lord operates these virtues which are meant by the sending of the Holy Spirit in those who believe in Him, that is, that He reforms, regenerates, changes, vivifies, sanctifies, justifies, purifies from evils, and at last saves them, is evident from all those places in the Word which confirm that salvation and eternal life are for those who believe in the Lord. Ill.

150. The reason those who believe in the Lord will receive these spiritual virtues, is that He is salvation and eternal life. Ex.

159^e. God is not a word of three syllables [Elohim], but He is everything, from the Alpha to the Omega, consequently, He is the life and salvation of all those who believe in Him as visible, and not of those who say that they believe in an invisible God; for to believe, see, and Know, make one. Ill.

340. He who lives well, and believes rightly, will be saved by the Lord. Gen.art. 344.

341². I believe not.

381⁴. While (hypocrites) are teaching truths from the Word, they know no otherwise than that they believe them . . . but as soon as they return home, they do not believe them at all . . .

393. Who does not see from a certain interior perception, and thus assent from understanding, when he hears anyone saying that he who lives well, and believes rightly, will be saved? and who does not, from understanding, reject it, like stuff falling into the eye, when he hears that he who believes rightly, and does not live well, will also be saved? For, from interior perception, there at once falls into his thought the question, How can anyone believe rightly while he does not live well? And what is believing then, but a painted figure of faith, and not any living image of it? In like manner, if anyone should hear that he who lives well will be saved, although he does not believe, would not the understanding see, perceive, and think, while it turned it over and over, that neither is this consistent; since to live well is from God . . . and what is living well and not believing but as clay in the hand of a potter which cannot be formed into any useful vessel for the spiritual kingdom, but only for the natural kingdom? Moreover, who does not see contradiction in these two statements; unquestionably in this one, that he will be saved who believes and does not live well; and also in this one, that he will be saved who lives well and does not believe?

500². If man could be created without free-will in spiritual things, what would be more easy than for the omnipotent God to bring all in the whole world to believe in the Lord . . .

685². He who does not believe in the Lord cannot be regenerated . . .

D. 857². I answered that the things which are of faith are arcana which we ought to believe, although we do not understand; and that if we do not believe in the Son, we cannot escape being condemned to Hell. But he insisted that he did not understand, and therefore did not believe . . .

858. As therefore . . . he was wondering that anyone would believe that which he did not understand, it occurred to me to propound something in mere worldly and bodily things which he would believe although he did not understand. (Swedenborg then advanced the case of the antipodes, which the Spirit denied to be possible.) But when I convinced him that nothing is truer [I said] that he ought to confess that he did not perceive it, although it is true, and therefore, that he ought to entirely believe it.

860. Wherefore, if we were only to believe what we understand, we should believe only what is false, even in mere worldly and bodily things. How then could he say that he would believe nothing in spiritual and celestial things which he did not understand . . .

861. As the human understanding is full of fallacies . . . it is a wonder that anyone in his senses should . . . be willing to say that he will believe nothing unless he perceives it.

2301². But to believe nothing, or to acknowledge no spiritual truth . . . unless we see and perceive it through natural philosophy, or, as they say, unless these things are demonstrated to their senses, is entirely forbidden . . .

2432. When ocular truth is given, although we do not know the causes, still we believe; and although discoverers do not find out the causes, still they believe, because they see . . . As a thing is so in truth, it is to be believed more than sensuous matters, and also because the Lord has said it.

2651. As this is the truth, we are not to reason from causes about the truth of the matter, and, if no causes be found, the truth is not to be invalidated, or denied, as it is wont to be; but it is to be believed because it is the truth. If they want to investigate the causes, they can do so; it is not forbidden; only, if they do not find out the cause . . . the truth is not on that account to be denied . . .

2726. To-day, some Spirits wanted to enter into the deepest mysteries of faith; to whom it was granted me to show that this is the wrong way; and that we are to believe because it is the truth, and if no reason . . . be found, still we are to believe; and if any be found, still we are to believe. Examp.

2727. Thus we are to believe the truths spoken by the Lord, and concerning the Lord, although we do not penetrate them by reason . . .

—e. Hence may be evident what is the character of the faith of a man, when he believes nothing but what he sees, which is general at this day, especially among the learned men of the world. 3154, Gen.art.

3669. They who form for themselves such objections that they do not believe unless they know each and all things, have no other wish and intention than to destroy . . .

3977. At first, the Knowledges of faith cannot but be confirmed by sensuous things and natural truths, for a man cannot believe without things that confirm; but afterwards, when they have been confirmed, the Lord bestows conscience upon him, so that he believes without things which confirm; he then rejects all reasonings. This sphere is angelic, and evil Spirits cannot remain present in it . . .

4447. To believe from affection for good is the genuine order; to believe from doctrine of faith is the inverted order.

4654. What anyone has believed does no harm to him in the other life, provided he has held charity towards the neighbour rightly . . .

E. 151⁶. 'To believe in the Lord's name' (John i.12) = to acknowledge the Divine Human.

195¹⁴. To believe what someone else says is slavery, but to believe what we ourselves think from the Word is freedom, according to the Lord's words, 'If ye abide in My Word, ye are My disciples, and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free' (John viii.31,32).

295¹³. 'To believe in the Lord's name' (John i.12) = to live according to the injunctions of his doctrine . . .

328⁸. As (the acknowledgment of the Divine Humanity) is the first thing of the Church, the Lord, when in the world, so often said to those whom He healed, 'Believest thou that I can do this?' and, when they replied that they believed, He said, 'Be it according to thy faith.' He said this so often, in order that they might first believe that He had Divine omnipotence from the Divine Human, for without this faith the Church could not be commenced . . .

349⁹. By 'to believe in the Lord' (John xi.25) is signified to be conjoined with Him in love and faith.

—e. 'To believe in God' is the faith which saves; but 'to believe the things which are from God' is historical faith, which, without the former, does not save, wherefore it is not true faith; for 'to believe in God' is to know, will, and do; but 'to believe those things which are from God' is to know, which is possible without willing and doing . . .

455¹⁹. By 'the rash' (Is.xxxii.4) are meant those who easily seize upon and believe what is said, thus falsities.

706¹⁴. These would have been called miracles if applied to the evil . . . and still they do not persuade to belief. It is otherwise with the good; to them the same things are testifications which persuade to belief, wherefore they are called 'signs,' and it is said 'these signs shall follow them that believe' (Mark xvi.17). Ex.

745⁴. By 'to believe in His name' (John i.12) is signified to receive the Lord in faith and life.

805¹⁰. To believe in Him, and not to approach Him, but to ask the Father for His sake, is not to believe in Him; for all faith approaches him in whom the man believes . . .

813. The ancients did not know that faith is any different from truth; they did indeed say that men were to believe in God, but by this they understood both to know and understand truths, and to will and do them, and this from the Lord.

815¹¹. By 'to believe in the Lord' is signified not only to adore and worship Him, but also to live from Him, and we live from Him when we live according to the Word which is from Him; wherefore, to believe in Him is to believe that He Himself regenerates man, and that He gives eternal life to those who are regenerated by Him . . .

—14. That to believe in the Lord is to believe in the Father, the Lord Himself teaches; 'He that believeth in Me, believeth not in Me, but in Him that sent Me' (John xii.44).

899⁵. 'He that believeth in Me' (John xi.25) = him who believes in His Divine, and in Him as the omnipotent and only God; and as no one can believe this but he who lives the life of charity, this also is meant by 'believing in Him.'

952². He who supposes that he acknowledges and believes that there is a God before he abstains from the evils mentioned in the decalogue . . . is deceived. Ex.

C. 113. They who are not in charity do not see the truth in light, but can love the truth in shade; and, at the present day, this truth is the truth of faith, that is, that truth is to be believed although it is not seen by the understanding ; for thus falsity may be called truth.

Bell. Campanula.

D. 2862. (Spirits who make a sound like little bells,) 2972.

Bell. Tintinnabulum.

A. 2761⁴. 'The bells of the horses' (Zech.xiv.20)=the understanding of the spiritual things of the Word, which are holy.

8408⁴. 'The bells of the horses, upon which there is Holiness'=truths corresponding to good.

9394^e. 'The bells of the horses'=scientific truths which are from an enlightened Intellectual. E.204⁸.

9917. In the pomegranates were bells of gold (Exod.xxviii.33), because by 'bells' are signified such things as are from scientifics.

9921. 'Bells of gold' (Exod.xxviii.33)=all things of doctrine and worship from good passing over to those who are of the Church. 'Bells'=all things of doctrine and worship passing over to those who are of the Church . . . because through them the presence of Aaron in his ministration was heard by the people . . .

—^e. The reason these bells were set in the fringes was that the holy things of doctrine are in the outermost things, and there also, and therefrom, are hearing and perception.

9922. The reason the bells were placed in the midst of the pomegranates, was that the scientifics which are signified by the pomegranates are recipients, and are as vessels for truth and good ; and the doctrine and worship which are signified by the bells must be from the good and truth which are within the scientifics as vessels . . .

9923. 'A bell of gold and a pomegranate, a bell of gold and a pomegranate, upon the fringes of the robe round about' (ver.34)=everywhere and wholly.

9924. The things which concern evangelization and worship . . . are signified by the bells in the pomegranates, and by the voice heard therefrom when Aaron entered to the holy [ministration].

9926⁸. The sound or ringing of the bells is here called 'a voice' (ver.35) ; elsewhere in the Word also the sounds and clangour of trumpets and of thunder are called 'voices,' and thereby are signified Divine truths ; moreover . . . those musical instruments which give forth a rattling and discreted sound signify Divine spiritual truths . . . Hence it is evident that by the sounds or voices of the bells were signified Divine spiritual truths : for the garments of Aaron, and the robe in particular, in the fringes of which they were, represented the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom or Heaven.

E. 355⁷. 'In that day there shall be upon the bells of the horses, Holiness to Jehovah' (Zech.xiv.20). The Lord's Advent is here treated of, and the invitation of all to the Church ; and by 'the bells of the horses' are signified scientifics, and the Knowledges and preachings therefrom which are from the understanding of truth ; and as all the understanding of truth is from the Lord, and thence are the Knowledges and preachings themselves, it is said that 'upon the bells of the horses there shall be Holiness to Jehovah.' As 'bells' signify such things, there were also bells of gold upon the fringes of Aaron's robe round about.

Bellowing. Boatio.

P. 326¹². 'The bellowing of the cows in the way' (1 Sam.v.12)=the difficult conversion of the concupiscences of evil of the natural man into good affections. T.203².

Belly. Alvus.

A. 10266^e. As the belly (is purified) from useless things.

P. 233⁸. Man's memory may be compared to the ruminatory stomach of some animals . . .

Belly. Venter.

A. 247. 'The serpent should walk upon its belly' (Gen.iii.14)=that the Sensual should no longer be able to look upwards to heavenly things as before, but downwards to corporeal and earthly things. By 'the belly' are signified those things which are nearest the earth ; by the breast, those things which are above the earth.

—^e. 'The belly of the great fish,' into which Jonah was cast,=the lower parts of the earth, as is evident from the words ; 'Out of the belly of Hell cried I' (Jon.ii.2).

828². Afterwards they seem to themselves to be under the belly of a furious horse, and presently to enter through the hinder part of the horse into its belly, and then it suddenly appears to them as if they were in the belly of a filthy harlot, which harlot is changed into a great dragon, and there they remain covered up with torment.

1763². Other Spirits spoke by means of a belching of words as if from the belly ; they are such as do not want to attend at all to the sense of a thing, but are forced to speak by others.

3021⁸. By the 'belly and thighs of the statue, which were of brass' (Dan.ii.32) is signified the third state, which was one of natural good. 10030³.

4918². 'To be estranged from the womb' (Ps.lviii.3) =from the good that is of the Church, and 'to go astray from the belly'=from the truth.

—³. 'As a bird shall their glory fly away, from the birth, from the belly, and from conception' (Hos.ix.11) =that the truth of the Church will altogether perish ; 'from the birth'=what is born ; 'from the belly'=what is in gestation ; 'from the conception'=what has arisen.

—^e. 'Bearing in the belly' (Rev.xii.2)=the truth of the Church conceived.

5388^e. He induced a contraction or painful straitness in the lower region of the belly.

7810. The kinds of punishment which the chastising Spirits inflict on the men of Jupiter . . . Besides a pain in the joints, there was also a painful drawing together about the middle of the belly . . .

8910³. 'The belly' (Matt.xv.17) corresponds to the way towards Hell.

R. 481. 'To make the belly bitter' (Rev.x.9)=that

(the doctrine of the Lord) would afterwards be unpleasing and irksome, from falsifications. 482.

E. 518²². 'Out of his belly shall flow . . .' (John vii. 38.) 'Belly'=thought from the memory, for it corresponds to it.

580². The 'belly' (Matt. xv. 17)=the World of Spirits, whence thoughts flow into man.

618. 'It shall make thy belly bitter' (Rev. x. 9)=that it would be undelightful inwardly, because outwardly adulterated. . . 'The belly'=inwardly.

—⁸. As 'the belly' signified marriage love, the same as 'the womb,' and also 'the thigh,' hence it was that 'the belly should swell, and the thigh fall' (Num. v. 22); by which is signified that the marriage principle would perish, or marriage love itself, both spiritual and natural. 'The womb,' or 'belly'=that spiritual love, and 'the thigh,' the same natural love.

622. 'When I had devoured it, my belly was made bitter' (ver. 10)=that it was perceived and investigated that the Word was inwardly undelightful from the adulterated truth of the sense of its letter. . . The reason 'the belly' here signifies the interior things of the Word, which are called spiritual, is that investigation was represented by the devouring or eating of the little book . . . The second perception of it is signified by its taste when it came into the belly . . . This perception of the Word is such as is the perception of its spiritual sense, or such as the Word is inwardly . . .

—The reason 'the belly'=interior things, is that the belly stores up food inwardly, and by food is signified everything that nourishes the soul; and as the belly, like the rest of the viscera, is within or in the midst of the body, hence it is that by 'the belly,' and also by the viscera, in the Word, are signified interior things, Ill.

—³. By 'the belly' (Ps. xvii. 14) is signified the interior understanding. Hence by 'to fill their belly with treasure' is signified to instruct their interior understanding with the truths of the Word. Ex.

—⁴. 'Rivers out of the belly' (John vii. 38)=interior understanding or intelligence.

—⁵. 'It cannot defile him, because it entereth not into his heart, but into the belly' (Mark vii. 18, 19)=that all things both false and evil which flow into the thought of the understanding from what is seen or heard, and not into the affection of the will, do not affect and infect the man; for the thought of a man's understanding, in so far as it does not proceed from the affection of his will, is not in the man, but without him, wherefore it is not appropriated to him. Ex.

—⁶. 'To fill the belly with them' (Jer. li. 14)=to drink from it and profane them.

—⁷. 'Mine eye is consumed with unworthiness, my soul, and my belly' (Ps. xxxi. 9). The 'eye, soul, and belly,' here, =the understanding and thence the thought of truth, exterior and interior; thus 'the belly'=the interior things of the understanding, which are said 'to be consumed with unworthiness' when they perish through falsities.

—⁸. 'Our soul is bowed down to the dust, our belly cleaveth unto the earth' (Ps. xlv. 25). 'The soul,' and 'the belly' here, also=the thought of the understanding.

—'. 'Upon thy belly shalt thou walk' (Gen. iii. 14)=what is infernal.

—Hence it was entirely forbidden 'to eat anything that walketh upon the belly,' because it is an abomination' (Lev. x. 42). The reason that the cleaving of the belly to the earth=internal falsity, is that the Hells are beneath the earth in the Spiritual World, and falsities of evil are exhaled through the earth there from the Hells; and because 'the belly'=the interiors of the thought and understanding, which are infected and imbued with falsities of evil if they cleave to those earths; wherefore, in the Spiritual World, no one lies with his belly upon the earth . . .

—⁹. 'How long shall the thoughts of iniquity tarry in thy belly' (Jer. iv. 4). Here thoughts are openly attributed to the belly.

—'. 'Their belly is perditions' (Ps. v. 9). Here also there are attributed to the belly 'perditions,' that is, evil thoughts.

—'. 'The belly of a man, and the heart, is deep' (Ps. lxxiv. 6). 'The belly of a man'=false thoughts; and 'the heart,' evil affections.

—'. 'My belly is agitated' (Hab. iii. 16)=grief of thought.

—¹¹. As 'the belly'=the interior things of the thought or understanding, 'the fruit of the belly'=good things of the understanding. Ill. 724¹⁰.

—¹². Why 'the belly' and 'the bowels' are pre-decated of the thought which is of the understanding, and 'the heart,' of the affection which is of the will. Ex.

710⁵. 'The desires of the belly' (Hos. ix. 16)=truths obtained. 'The belly' is mentioned instead of the 'womb' from its tumescence during pregnancy, but still 'the belly' is mentioned when truths are treated of, and 'the womb,' when good is treated of. Ill.

750¹⁴. 'The belly' (Ps. xxxi. 9; xlv. 25)=faith and the understanding of good; the reason this is signified by 'the belly' is that the belly receives the food, and by 'food' and 'bread' is signified the good which nourishes, here, understanding and faith.

Beloved. See LOVE=diligere.

Below. See BENEATH and also under ABOVE.

Belshazzar. Belschazar.

A. 3079. The vessels of the temple and the altar had this signification and therefore were holy. . . Hence it was that when Belshazzar . . . drank wine out of them . . . and praised the gods of gold . . . the writing appeared on the wall of his palace (Dan. v). 'The vessels of gold and silver'=Knowledges of good and truth, which were profaned, for the Chaldeans=those who are in Knowledges, but which have been profaned through the falsities which are therein, so that for them Knowledges serve for worshipping gods of gold and silver; for Belshazzar is called the Chaldean King (ver. 20).

J. 54². See BABEL at these refs. —⁴.

E. 220⁸. (Belshazzar's feast, Ex.) 373³. 376²³. 587¹⁷. 1029¹⁰.

Belt. Balthus.

See under GIRDLE.

A. 9688. 'The belt' (Exod.xxxix.29)=what is external conjoining all the internal things.

9828. 'A belt' (Exod.xxviii.4)=a common bond, in order that all things may look to one end. 'A belt,' or 'girdle'=a common bond, for it gathers up, encloses, holds together in connexion, and strengthens all the things within, and which, without it, would be set loose and dissolved. The reason there is a common bond in order that all things may look to one end, is that, in the Spiritual World, the end reigns . . .

—³. Therefore those things which are in ultimates, and which gather up and enclose so that all things may be held together in such a connexion, were represented by 'belts' or by 'girdles,' which, in the Spiritual World, are nothing else but goods and truths in ultimates. (See GIRDLE at this ref.)

9944. 'The belt' (ver.39)=a bond, and separation from the external things of the (Spiritual) Kingdom. 'A belt'=an external bond holding together in connexion and form all things of love and faith. The reason it also signifies separation from the external things, is that it thus gathers up and holds together the internal things, and that which gathers up and holds together the internal things also separates them from the external things. The internal things of the Spiritual Kingdom are signified by 'the coat' . . . and its external things by 'the robe' and 'the ephod.'

9945. The reason (interior scientifics, or Knowledges of good and truth) are here signified by 'the work of the embroiderer,' is that by 'the belt' of the coat, which was 'of the work of the embroiderer' (ver.39) is signified the inmost bond of the Spiritual Kingdom, and, in the Spiritual World, all things are held together in connexion by means of Knowledges and the affections thence derived.

9948. 'Thou shalt make belts for them' (ver.40)=that which holds together in connexion. 'Belts'=external bonds holding together in connexion the truths and goods of faith and love.

10014. 'Thou shalt gird them with the belt' (Exod.xxix.5)=a bond of conjunction in order that all things may be held together in connexion, and thus in a celestial form. 'A belt'=an external bond which holds together in connexion and in a form all the truths and goods of faith.

Bench. Scamnum.

A. 8377. (In Jupiter) when they sit at table they do not sit on chairs or benches . . .

R. 386. There was a table in the middle and benches round about it, yet they all seemed to me to be standing on the benches . . . T.460.

M. 23. The benches or seats (in the temple) were continuous, being carried round in a circular sweep according to the shape of the temple, and the back seats were raised higher than the front ones.

Bench. Subsellium.

M. 130². Natural things constitute their seat . . .

T. 503. In this temple at the walls there was a kind of altars, but having benches at each of them upon which the congregation placed themselves.

Bend. *Flectere, Deflectere, Inflexeretur†. Bending. *Deflexio, Inflexio†.

See REFLECT.

A. 24^e. Through what is his Own, through both fallacies of the senses and cupidities, man is led and bent by the Lord to those things which are true and good . . . 50^e.

868². Through temptations the Lord gives a new capacity of receiving things good and true, endowing the man with ideas and affections of what is good and true, to which the evil and false things can be bent . . .

887^e. When a man is being regenerated, there are truths which are inseminated, to which falsities can be bent by the Lord, and thus appear to be as it were dissipated . . .

947^e. With subtle deceit they can pervert the thoughts, and bend them in a moment . . .

1079^e. They who are in charity scarcely see the evil of another . . . such are all the Angels, which they have from the Lord, who bends all evil into good.

1255. The principles a man adopts from infancy the Lord never breaks, but bends . . .

1272. The children go first in a bent† line.

1874. That persuasions and cupidities be not broken, but bent . . .

2053³. Truths of conscience are various, being according to each person's religion, to which the Lord wills not to do violence . . . The Lord breaks no one, but bends . . .

2272. Hence come new thoughts contrary to the former ones, and to which he can afterwards be bent . . . 2273^o. 2334.

2364. All are bent by the Lord to the good of life through the good of their faith . . . They who have imbued the life with evil are bent by abstaining from evil . . .

2380. When any falsity . . . or evil . . . is infused, . . . the Angels bend it to something true and good in which they have been confirmed.

2488. The Angels observe man's ends, how they bend from good into evil and from evil into good.

2568^e. When they suffer themselves to be bent by the Lord to the life of good . . .

2796². How (a man's states) are bent by the Lord to good as far as possible . . .

3118. 'To bend† himself,' and 'to bow himself' (Gen.xxiv.26)=to be glad and to rejoice. Bending† and bowing are gestures of humiliation, or humiliation in act, in both a state of grief and a state of joy . . .

— Gladness is of spiritual affection . . . joy of celestial . . . Thus gladness is in a less degree than joy, as bending is than bowing; as is also evident from the fact that the man of the spiritual Church only bends himself before the Lord . . . but the man of the celestial Church bows himself before Him . . .

3348^e. How the Lord bends those affections which in themselves are undelightful into delightful ones . . .

3854. Wherefore the Lord not only provides the means through which man can be bent from Hell and be led to Heaven, but also of Providence continually bends and leads . . .

—, Wherefore the Lord provides that if he does not suffer himself to be led in freedom to Heaven, he is still bent to a milder Hell . . .

3869³. The Providence of the Lord is to rule that it be so, and to bend the freedom of man to good so far as He foresees that the man suffers himself to be bent in freedom.

3986⁴. The good of love . . . and of charity . . . suffer themselves to be led by the Lord, and thus to be bent to good, and through good to Him; but they who are in the love of self and of the world do not suffer themselves to be led and bent by the Lord . . .

4031⁴. It is the freedom of man . . . through which the Lord bends man . . .

4307. Good Spirits and Angels . . . defend man against evils and falsities, and bend them into good . . .

4364². The Lord leads everyone through his affections, and thus bends through a silent Providence . . .

5682. 'To bend themselves' (Gen.xliii.28)=exterior humiliation; 'to bow themselves'=interior humiliation; for bending is bowing in a less degree . . . Moreover 'bending'=the humiliation of truth . . . (See below, 7068.)

5980. So far as the man suffers it (the Angels) bend evils into goods, or to goods, or towards goods.

5993^o. Unless such Spirits were applied to these evils . . . the man could never be bent towards Heaven, for in the beginning he is bent through his own delights themselves . . .

6205. Influx through the Angels takes place according to the man's affections, which they gently lead, and bend to good, and do not break.

6489. The evils which are foreseen, through the providential disposition of the Lord are continually bent towards good . . . But as man has freedom in order that he may be reformed, he is bent from evil to good in so far as he suffers himself to be bent in freedom, and continually from the most frightful Hell . . . into a milder one, if he cannot be led to Heaven.

7068. 'To bend† themselves' (Exod.iv.31)=exterior humiliation, and that of those who are in truth, and 'to bow themselves'=interior humiliation, and that of those who are in good. . . They who are in truth are stiff and stand erect . . . and when it is their duty to humble themselves before the Divine, they bend† the body only slightly . . . 7943. 10625.

8631. They showed how the Lord bends what is wrong (in Jupiter) into good.

9164. When a man is in truth from good . . . falsities are in the boundaries . . . and do not stand erect towards Heaven like truths of good, but are bent downwards . . .

9253. With those who are in good, falsities can be bent to truths . . . but with those who are in evil, falsities cannot be bent to truths.

9258. The falsities which agree (with the good of the Church) are those in which good lies hidden, and which therefore can be bent to truths through good; but the falsities which do not agree with the good of the Church are those in which evil lies hidden, and which therefore cannot be bent to truths.

9587. Through freedom the Lord bends man away from evil, and through freedom He bends him to good . . .

10808^e. Good thus bends evil to what it wills without evil knowing.

H. 260³. Writing in the inmost Heaven consists of various forms, inflected† and circumflexed, and the inflections† and circumflexions are according to the form of Heaven . . .

—^e. In ancient times all the Hebrew letters were inflected† . . .

293. As he is in equilibrium he is in his own freedom, and can be withdrawn from evils and bent to good . . .

T. 207. The sense of the letter of the Word can be bent hither and thither, but if it is bent to what is false, its inward holiness perishes and therewith its outward holiness, but if it is bent to what is true, it remains.

D. 444. How the actions are ruled by God Messiah through the will, which is thus bent hither and thither . . .

2011. How the passions of men are bent so as not to be broken. Gen.art. 2194, Ex.

2628. Necessities through which man is bent . . .

2796. Ambition . . . through which man is bent . . .

2911. I observed how man is thus bent . . .

3014. The Lord bends Spirits through their cupidities . . .

3024¹. The less . . . hard, the more easily is he bent . . .

Beneath. Infra.

See under ABOVE.

A. 3562. They who are in inmost perception are in the perception of all things which are beneath, for the things beneath are nothing but derivations and compositions therefrom . . .

3804³. The doctrine of faith without the life of charity has in it that brotherhood with one lower than themselves seems to be beneath them.

3885. When I was in (the light of Heaven), bodily and worldly things appeared as if they were beneath me . . .

4564. What is said to be 'under' or beneath=what is outside.

5094². So far as the Natural has drawn . . . from the Rational, it regards sensuous things . . . as beneath itself . . . But in so far as the Natural has drawn . . . from the sensuous things of the body, it regards rational things as beneath itself . . .

5096². They who are not in confirmed falsity . . . easily admit truths . . . and afterwards see falsities as, it were beneath them . . .

5164. All things which are beneath are called 'servants' . . . 5305.

[A.] 529². Nothing that is beneath can do anything from itself . . .

7192. Heaven . . . is far below Him . . .

8325. Every external thing is there presented as below . . . Hence Hell appears below.

8815. Relatively to the Angels, Heaven is around or outside, that is, beneath, for what is around is also outside, and what is outside is also beneath.

9128^e. Their inward man is closed above and open below. (See CLOSE.)

9656. 'From beneath' (Exod.xxvi.24)=from what is exterior, for that which is outside is expressed in the Word by 'beneath.' Refs.

H. 66. The Spirits who are below Heaven are filled with wonder when they hear and see that Heaven is below as well as above . . .

314^e. When the Internal of man is open . . . only below . . .

R. 661². The affections of the thoughts, and thence the sounds of the discourse of the Angels of Heaven, are heard below in the World of Spirits variously . . .

T. 154⁴. Good from the Lord is above or within ; (evil from the parents) is below or without . . .

E. 283². What is below is also without, and what is without is around.

Benedict XIV. D.5843. E.114^e.

Benediction. See BLESS.

Benefaction, Benefit. Beneficium.

See DO GOOD—benefacere.

A. 2045^e. Like a wicked man who . . . turns benefits themselves into scolding and malice . . .

Life 114. The rest are not the proper works of charity, but are either its signs, or benefactions, or obligations.

T. 407. Charity is exercised towards the neighbour and a friend through direct benefits, towards an enemy and an evil man through indirect benefits, which are effected through exhortations, penalties, etc.

425. The benefactions of charity are to give to the poor and assist the needy, but with prudence. Gen.art.

— A distinction is to be made between the duties of charity and its benefactions . . . By its benefactions are meant those aids which are rendered outside of and beyond its duties. They are called benefactions because it is within the freedom and good pleasure of a man to do them, and when they are done they are regarded by the recipient no otherwise than as benefactions . . .

—². They who place charity itself in these benefactions cannot but place merit in works . . .

426. Some who have done these benefactions . . . believe that they have exercised the works of charity, and regard them as many do the indulgences of the papacy . . .

— But it is entirely otherwise if these benefactions are conferred by those who shun the above-named evils . . .

—². See BEGGAR at this ref.

427. The reason these benefactions are at this day believed to be the proper deeds of charity . . .

429. The benefactions . . . and the obligations of charity are as distinct from each other as those things which take place of free-will and those which take place of necessity . . .

C. 184. The benefactions of charity are all the good things which the man who is a charity does from freedom outside of his office. Gen.art.

185. No one is saved through these benefactions, but through the charity from which they spring, and which they contain. Gen.art.

186. They who place charity in these benefactions alone, if they have not charity in themselves, conjoin themselves inwardly with infernals, and outwardly with celestials.

210^e. Such are pre-eminent in benefactions, and cannot but place merit in them . . .

Benevolence. See GOOD-WILL.

Benjamin. Benjamin.

A. 3969³. The faith in which is charity, or the truth in which is good, is that which is signified by 'another son,' and is represented by 'Benjamin,' thus . . . 'Benjamin' is the spiritual celestial man.

4536. Advancement towards things still more interior, where is the Rational, is described by the birth of 'Benjamin' . . .

4585³. What the Spiritual of the Celestial is which 'Benjamin' represents, and which 'Bethlehem' signifies, Ex. 4589.

4592. 'His father called him Benjamin' (Gen.xxxv. 18)=the quality of the Spiritual of the Celestial . . . The Spiritual of the Celestial is the intermediate which is between the Spiritual and the Celestial. In the Original Language, 'Benjamin' means 'the son of the right hand,' by which is signified the spiritual truth which is from celestial good, and thence power, for the power of good is through truth ; 'son'=truth, and 'hand'=power ; hence 'the right hand'=complete power.

—². Hence it is evident what 'Benjamin' signifies in the genuine sense, namely, the spiritual truth which is from celestial good, which is 'Joseph.' Both, therefore, taken together, are that Intermediate which is between the spiritual man and the celestial man. But this good and this truth are distinct from the Celestial which is represented by 'Judah,' and from the Spiritual which is represented by 'Israel ;' the former is higher or more interior, and the latter is lower or more exterior ; but no one can have an idea of that good which is represented by 'Joseph,' and of that truth which is represented by 'Benjamin,' except he who is enlightened by the light of Heaven . . .

—³. All men are born natural, with power to become either celestial or spiritual, and the Lord alone was born spiritual celestial, and on this account He was born at Bethlehem, where was the border of the land of Benjamin, for by 'Bethlehem' is signified the Spiritual of the Celestial, and by 'Benjamin' is represented the Spiritual of the Celestial.

—⁴. See JUDAH at this ref.

—⁵. As to 'Benjamin' specifically, since he represents the Spiritual of the Celestial, and 'Joseph' the Celestial of the Spiritual, and thus both together represent the Intermediate between the celestial and the spiritual man, and because they are therefore most closely conjoined, their conjunction is described in the history of Joseph by the following circumstances, Ill.

—⁶. From these things it is evident that Joseph and Benjamin were most closely conjoined, not because they had the same mother, but because by them is represented the spiritual conjunction which exists between the good which is 'Joseph' and the truth which is 'Benjamin'; and because both taken together are the Intermediate between the celestial and the spiritual man, Joseph could not be conjoined with his brothers, nor with his father, except through Benjamin, for there is no conjunction without an intermediate . . .

—⁷. In other places in the Word also, especially in the prophetic, by 'Benjamin' is signified the spiritual truth which is of the Church; as in the prophetic utterance of Moses concerning the Sons of Israel; 'Of Benjamin he said, The beloved of Jehovah, He shall dwell boldly upon him, covering upon him all the day, and He shall dwell between his shoulders' (Deut. xxxiii. 12). 'The beloved of Jehovah' = the spiritual truth which is from celestial good; this good is said 'to dwell boldly' with that truth, to 'cover it all the day,' and 'to dwell between its shoulders,' for 'the shoulders' = all power, and good has all its power through truth.

—⁸. In Jeremiah; 'Flee ye sons of Benjamin from the midst of Jerusalem, and in sounding sound the trumpet, and uplift a prophetic utterance upon the house of the vineyard, because evil hath looked forth out of the north, and a great breach' (vi. 1). 'The sons of Benjamin' = spiritual truth from the Celestial; 'Jerusalem' = the spiritual Church, and so does 'the house of the vineyard' or 'Beth-haccerem'; 'evil out of the north' = from the Sensual and thence the Scientific of man.

—⁹. 'The land of Benjamin' (Jer. xxxiii. 13) = the spiritual truth which is of the Church; for all things which are of the Church, from the first degree to the last, are signified by 'the cities of Judah,' 'the circuit of Jerusalem,' 'the land of Benjamin,' 'the plain,' 'the mountain,' and 'the south.'

—¹⁰. In Hosea; 'Sound ye with the trumpet—buccinae in Gibeah, with the trumpet—tuba—in Ramah, cry aloud Bethaven, Benjamin after thee, [that] Ephraim shall go into the solitudes, in the day of rebuke' (v. 8, 9). 'Gibeah,' 'Ramah,' and 'Bethaven' = those things which are of spiritual truth from the Celestial, which is 'Benjamin'; for Gibeah belonged to Benjamin (Judg. xix. 14); so did Ramah (Jos. xviii. 25), and so also did Bethaven (Jos. xviii. 12). 'To sound with the trumpet,' and 'with the trumpet,' and 'to cry aloud' = to proclaim that the Intellectual of the Church, which is 'Ephraim,' is desolated.

—¹¹. 'Benjamin' (Obad. 19) = the Spiritual from the Celestial.

—¹². The tribes of Israel are here (Rev. vii.) distributed into four classes, the last of which is the 12000 sealed from 'Zebulon,' 'Joseph,' and 'Benjamin,' because by 'the tribe of Zebulon' is signified the heavenly marriage, in which is Heaven, thus in which are all things; 'Joseph' there = the Celestial of the Spiritual, or the good of truth; and 'Benjamin' = the truth of that good, or the Spiritual of the Celestial. This is the marriage principle in Heaven; and hence it is that these are named last.

—¹³. As by 'Benjamin' was represented the Spiritual of the Celestial of the Church, or the truth of good, Jerusalem fell to the sons of Benjamin for an inheritance; for Jerusalem, before Zion was built there, signified the Church in general. (Jos. xviii. 28; Judg. i. 21.)

4593². The Hereditary was the human affection of interior truth, which the Divine affection expelled. Hence it is that this son was called by his mother 'Benoni,' or 'the son of sorrow,' but by his father, 'Benjamin,' or 'the son of the right hand' . . .

4607. 'The sons of Rachel, Joseph and Benjamin' (Gen. xxxv. 24) = interior goods and truths . . . By 'Benjamin' is represented the Divine Spiritual of the Celestial. These things are in interior goods and truths.

5397. It treats first concerning the effort to appropriate these truths by means of the scientifics of the Church, which is 'Egypt,' and without the medium, which is 'Benjamin' . . .

5411. 'Benjamin the brother of Joseph' (Gen. xlii. 4) = the Spiritual of the Celestial which is the medium . . . The truth from the Divine, which is 'Joseph,' cannot have communication with the truths in general in the Natural, which are 'the sons of Jacob,' without the medium which is represented by 'Benjamin,' and is called the Spiritual of the Celestial. Ex.

— As the sons of Jacob were without Benjamin, that is, without the medium, Joseph could not manifest himself to his brethren, and therefore spoke harshly to them, calling them spies, and giving them into custody, and they also did not recognize Joseph.

—². But the nature of this medium which is represented by 'Benjamin,' and is called the Spiritual of the Celestial, cannot be described to the apprehension . . .

5413. The medium is 'Benjamin'; the external things are the Sons of Jacob, and the Internal is 'Joseph' . . .

5419. 'Benjamin' = the medium. 5443. 5461^e.

5463. 'Benjamin' = the medium between the Celestial of the Spiritual and the Natural.

5469. For by 'Joseph' and 'Benjamin' is represented the Internal of the Church, and by the other ten sons of Jacob, its External; for 'Rachel,' from whom were Joseph and Benjamin = the affection of interior truth . . . In this chapter, by 'Joseph' is represented the Celestial of the Spiritual, or truth from the Divine, which is the Internal; and by 'Benjamin,' the Spiritual of the Celestial, which is the medium thence proceeding; and by the other ten sons of Jacob are represented the external truths of the Church, thus those in the Natural.

5539. 'And ye will take Benjamin' (Gen. xlii. 35) = if the medium is also taken away.

5542. That neither of these principles of faith or of the Church would live unless the medium which is represented by 'Benjamin' be conjoined, Sig.

5548. 'And he is left alone' (Gen. xlii. 38) = that he is now in the place of the Internal . . . 'Joseph' and 'Benjamin' each represents the Internal.

[A]. 5583°. Therefore Judah, who=the good of the Church, speaks with Israel, who=the good of spiritual truth, and becomes security for Benjamin, who=the medium; for the medium is conjoined through good.

5586. The medium which 'Benjamin' represents is the medium between the Internal and the External, or between the spiritual and the natural man, and is the truth of good which proceeds from truth from the Divine which is represented by 'Joseph.' The truth of this good is called the Spiritual of the Celestial . . . 5587. 5636.

5596. 'Benjamin'=the truth of good. 5602.

5600. 'Benjamin'=the Spiritual of the Celestial, or what is the same, the truth of good, or interior truth. That 'Benjamin'=the truth in which is good, or the Spiritual of the Celestial, Refs. This interior truth is that which is the medium between truth from the Divine and truth in the Natural.

5631. 'And Benjamin' (Gen.xliii.14)=interior truth.

5639. 'Joseph saw Benjamin with them' (Gen.xliii.16) =a perception of the spiritual medium's being with truths, by the Celestial of the Spiritual . . . The reason it is called a spiritual medium, is that the truths which are represented by the ten sons of Jacob were now to be conjoined with the truth from the Divine which is 'Joseph,' and this conjunction is not effected except through a medium which is spiritual . . . 5685.

5643. As they were with the spiritual medium which is 'Benjamin,' it is said 'in the mid-day' (Gen.xliii.16).

5688. The reason 'Benjamin' is here called, as he was, their 'least brother,' that is born after them all, or the least by birth, is that it is the same with the medium which 'Benjamin' represents . . . For the medium with man is born after all the others . . .

—2. As Benjamin was born last he represents the medium between the Internal and the External, or between the Celestial of the Spiritual which the Lord had in the world, and the Natural which the Lord also had, and which He was making Divine. 5696. 5728.

5689. That 'Benjamin'=the Spiritual of the Celestial, and a medium, Refs.

5692. 'Benjamin' . . . =the medium, thus also what is internal . . .

5707. 'He multiplied the portion of Benjamin above the portion of them all' (Gen.xliii.34)=good for the medium above the goods for the truths in the Natural . . . This is because the medium is more interior . . .

5736. 'As Benjamin' represents the medium, even as to truth, he represents interior truth, thus spiritual truth.

5801. 'Benjamin' . . . =truth . . . 5804.

5804². When a man has come to good through truth, he is then 'Israel,' and the truth which he then receives from the good, that is, through the good from the Lord, is the new truth which is represented by 'Benjamin' so long as he was with his father . . . 5806. 5807. 5809. 5812. 5830. 5834.

5806. 'He alone is left to his mother' (Gen.xliv.20)=that this is the only truth of the Church. 'Benjamin'

=the new truth. . . In regard to this circumstance that this truth which is here represented by 'Benjamin' . . . is the only truth of the Church, the case stands thus. This truth is the truth which is from spiritual good, which is 'Israel,' and which 'Benjamin' represents when with his father, but he represents a still more interior truth when he is with Joseph. The truth which 'Benjamin' represents when with his father, and which is called new truth, is what alone makes a man the Church; for in this truth, or in these truths, there is life from good, that is, the man who is in truths of faith from good is the Church . . . 5816².

5822. 'Benjamin,' who is here 'the least brother' (Gen.xliv.23)=the conjoining medium. Refs. In regard to this, that 'Benjamin' represents the medium between the Celestial of the Spiritual, or internal good, which is 'Joseph,' and the truths in the natural, which are the ten sons of Jacob; and that he also represents new truth, the case stands thus. In order that the medium may be a medium it must partake of both, namely, of the Internal and the External . . . The medium which 'Benjamin' represents partakes of the External or Natural in its being new truth therein, for the new truth which he represents is in the Natural, because it is from the spiritual good from the Natural which his father, as 'Israel,' represents. And the medium partakes of the Internal, which is represented by 'Joseph,' through influx; thus it partakes of both. This is the reason that 'Benjamin' represents the conjoining medium, and also new truth; new truth when with his father, the conjoining medium when with Joseph.

5826. 'Joseph'=internal good, and 'Benjamin'=interior truth. Ex. 5844.

5843. 'Benjamin'=new truth, thus interior truth.

5920. 'And the eyes of my brother Benjamin' (Gen.xlv.12)=especially by the perception of the medium. . . . As 'Benjamin' represented the medium, and this medium was interior truth immediately depending upon the internal good which is 'Joseph,' therefore it had a clearer and keener perception than the truths which were below . . .

5926. 'He fell upon the necks of Benjamin' (Gen.xlv.14)=inmost conjunction with the medium . . . thus the conjunction of the celestial Internal, which is 'Joseph,' with the Spiritual of the Celestial, which is 'Benjamin.'

5928. 'And Benjamin wept upon his necks'=reception, and thence what is reciprocal. Ex.

5955. 'To Benjamin he gave three hundred [pieces] of silver' (Gen.xlv.22)=truth from good to the full for the medium . . . For the medium which 'Benjamin' represents, is interior truth through influx from the celestial Internal.

6024². 'Joseph and Benjamin' (Gen.xlvi.19)=the Internal of the Church; 'Joseph,' its good; 'Benjamin,' the truth thence derived.

—5. 'The sons of Benjamin' (ver.21) . . . =the internal Spiritual and its doctrinal things.

6440. 'Benjamin' (Gen.xlix.27)=the truth of good of the spiritual Church, which is 'Joseph.' 'Benjamin'

=the Spiritual of the Celestial, which is the truth of good; here, the truth of that good which is of the spiritual Church which is here represented by 'Joseph.'

9340. 'Benjamin' (Obad. 19)=the spiritual celestial truth of the Church. Refs.

9671². They who relate to the uniting medium in Heaven are called celestial spiritual and spiritual celestial; the former are represented in the Word by 'Joseph,' and the latter by 'Benjamin' . . . That 'Benjamin'=the Spiritual Celestial, Refs. Thus 'Joseph'=the internal uniting medium, and 'Benjamin,' the external uniting medium, Refs.

R. 361. 'From the tribe of Benjamin were sealed twelve thousand' (Rev. vii. 8)=the life of truth from good according to doctrine with those who will be in the Lord's New Heaven and New Church. As by 'Zebulon' is signified the marriage love of good and truth, and by 'Joseph' the doctrine of good and truth, by 'Benjamin,' being the third in the series, is signified the life of truth from good. 'Benjamin' takes this signification because he was born last, and was called by his father Jacob 'the son of the right hand' . . . by which is signified truth from good, wherefore also his tribe dwelt around Jerusalem, where was the tribe of Judah, and the city of Jerusalem signified the Church as to doctrine, and its environs those things which are from doctrine. III.

D. 4640. Between the Third Heaven and the Second there is a medium through which there is conjunction . . . The medium is represented by 'Benjamin.'

E. 4395. The Lord's innocence, from which He did all things, is signified by 'little Benjamin is over them' (Ps. lxxviii. 27).

4406. That the light of truth may penetrate even to those who are in natural truth and good, thus to those most remote in the Church, is signified by 'before Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasseh stir up thy strength' (Ps. lxxx. 2) . . . By 'Benjamin' is meant the Conjunction of truth and good, or the conjoining medium in the Natural.

449. 'From the tribe of Benjamin were sealed twelve thousand'=the conjunction of those who are in the Ultimate Heaven with the Lord. The representation of 'Benjamin' and of the tribe named from him, is the Spiritual Celestial in the natural man, similar to that of 'Joseph' in the spiritual. The Spiritual Celestial is truth conjoined with good . . . Hence by 'Benjamin' and his tribe is signified the conjunction of truth and good in the Natural; here, therefore, the conjunction of those who are in the Ultimate Heaven with the Lord. Ex.

—². As 'Benjamin'=truth conjoined with good in the natural man, and thence truth conjoined with good with those who are in the Ultimate Heaven, he was born to Jacob the last, and was called by him 'the son of the right hand,' . . . and was also born in Bethlehem, by which city is also signified truth conjoined with good in the Natural. He was born the last because the Natural consisting of truth conjoined with good is the ultimate of the Church with man . . .

—⁴. As 'Benjamin' and his tribe=truth conjoined with good in the natural man, therefore his lot in the Land of Canaan was between the sons of Judah and the sons of Joseph; and also Jerusalem, where the Jebusites then were, fell to that tribe for an inheritance (Jos. xviii. 11–28); so that the sons of Benjamin dwelt there with the Jews, who afterwards took possession of that city. The reason the lot fell to this tribe between the sons of Judah and the sons of Joseph, was that it represented . . . the conjunction of good and truth; for 'Judah'=the good of the Church, and 'Joseph' the truth of the Church. The reason Jerusalem fell to this tribe was that 'Jerusalem'=the Church as to doctrine and as to worship, and all the doctrine of the Church is the doctrine of truth conjoined with good, and all worship according to doctrine takes place through the natural man . . .

—⁵. 'The land of Benjamin' (Jer. xvii. 26)=the Church as to the conjunction of (good and truth) in the natural man.

—⁶. 'Benjamin' (Jer. xxxii. 8, 44; xxxiii. 13)=the conjunction of truth and good in the natural man, thus the conjunction of truth and good with those who are in the Ultimate Heaven.

—⁷. 'The sons of Benjamin' (Jer. vi. 1)=the conjunction of good and truth.

—⁸. 'Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasseh' (Ps. lxxx. 2)=those who are in natural truth and good, and with whom there is the conjunction of them.

—⁹. 'Little Benjamin' (Ps. lxxviii. 27)=the innocence of the natural man . . . which is in the conjunction of good and truth there.

—¹⁰. 'Benjamin' (in the blessing of the Sons of Israel by Moses, Deut. xxxiii. 12)=the Word in the ultimate sense which is natural . . . and as in the ultimate sense . . . there is the marriage of good and truth . . . it is said 'the beloved of Jehovah,' etc.

—¹¹. In the prophecy of Israel concerning his sons (Gen. xlix. 27), 'Benjamin' is treated of the last, because the last thing of the Church and of Heaven is signified by him. The last thing or ultimate is the Natural in which truth is conjoined with good.

—¹². As these things are signified by 'Benjamin,' the tribes of Ephraim, Manasseh, and Benjamin encamped around the tent of the assembly in the wilderness on the west (Num. ii. 18–24); and by these three tribes are signified all those who are in natural truth and good and in the conjunction of them. . . 'Benjamin'=the conjunction of them. The reason they encamped on the west was that on the west and north in Heaven dwell those who are in obscure good and truth, thus who are in natural good and truth.

—¹³. From these things it may now be evident what is signified by 'Benjamin' in the Word, namely, the conjunction of good and truth in the natural man, and through good conjunction with the spiritual man, for all good that is good in the natural man flows in from the spiritual man, that is, through the spiritual man from the Lord . . . wherefore also by 'Benjamin' is signified the conjunction of the spiritual man with the natural, and by 'Joseph' the conjunction of the celestial man with the spiritual.

P. P. (Jer. vi). 'The sons of Benjamin'=those who have conjunction with the Lord in the lowest Heaven.

Benoni. Benoni.

A. 4591. 'She called his name Benoni' (Gen.xxxv.18) = the quality of that state . . . In the Original Language 'Benoni' means 'the son of my pain' or 'of my sorrow,' 4593². See BENJAMIN at this ref.

Benzelius, Ericus (father and son). D.4749.

4757^o. 4787. 4851. 5074. 5148. 5702. 5722. 5751 (the dragon). 5885. 6016 (called the son). 6034². 6036. (See also Index to Diary, Part vi.)

Benzelius, Jacobus. D.5004. 5074. 5896.

5897. 6033 (called the Archbishop). —³. 6034². 6044. D.Min.4732. 4772. 4774. 4775. 4776. 4791.

Benzelstierna, Gustavus and Lars.

D.4851. 4856. 4858. 5052. 5065. 5701. 5702. 5883. 5898. 5900. 5962. 5978. 6028². D.Min.4548. 4786.

Benzelstierna, Henricus. D.6072.Bera. Bera.

A. 1663. See SODOM at this ref.

Bereave. *Orbare.Bereavement. Orbitas.

A. 5536. 'Me ye have bereaved' (Gen.xlii.36)=that there was thus no more a Church . . . 'To bereave'=to deprive the Church of its truths and goods, as here of those things which are represented by 'Joseph,' 'Benjamin,' and 'Simeon.' Ex. and III.

5632. 'And I, as I have been bereaved, I shall be bereaved' (Gen.xliii.14)=that the Church will be deprived of its truths before these things are done . . . 'To be bereaved'=to be deprived of the truths which are of the Church.

7297². 'Bereavement and widowhood' (Is.xlvii.9).

9188⁴. 'Bereavement' (Is.xlvii.9)=the deprivation of truth and good.

E. 280¹⁰. 'The sword which shall no more bereave' (Ezek.xxxvi.14)=that falsity will not destroy truth any more.

Bered. Bared.

A. 1958. 'Between Kadesh and Bered' (Gen.xvi.14) = the quality; namely, that he saw the quality of this truth, thus the quality of the Rational. . . 'Kadesh'=truth . . . 'Bered' what is below, thus scientific truth, from which also is the Rational.

Bergenstierna. D.4351. 4396. 5132.Berry. Bacca.

A. 10261⁴. 'Berries' of the olive trees (Zech.iv.12) = holy goods there.

10770. Berries from which they prepare wine (in the fifth Earth).

E. 638⁷. The two 'olive-trees' and 'olive berries' (Zech.iv)=celestial goods, which are of love to the Lord, and of love towards a brother and companion.

911¹². That (the Knowledges of truth and good) are destroyed, is described by 'grape-gleanings being left in it, as in the shaking of an olive-tree, three berries in the head of the branch, four five in the head of the fruitful one' (Is.xvii.6).

Beryl. Tharschisch.

A. 6135^o. By 'a beryl,' as the rest of the body appeared, namely, the middle body between the head and the loins (Dan.x.6), is signified the good of charity and of faith, for 'a beryl' is a precious stone which flashes.

9872. 'A beryl, and an onyx, and a jasper' (Exod.xxviii.20)=the spiritual love of truth, in which higher things cease. . . The colour of all the stones of this order approaches to bright white from azure. That 'a beryl'=the spiritual love of truth is evident from . . . Ezekiel; 'The look of the wheels [was like] unto the appearance of a beryl stone.' The 'wheels' of the cherubim have a similar signification to the arms and feet of man, namely, the power of acting and advancing, which is of truth from good. Hence it is that their look [was like] the appearance of a beryl stone' (i.16; x.9), for 'a beryl'=truth from spiritual good, which possesses power.

—². In Daniel . . . 'The body'=the good of celestial love, and also the good of spiritual love, and its External=truth from that good. Hence it is that his body appeared 'like a beryl' (x.6); thus that 'a beryl'=the truth of spiritual love.

Best. Optimus.

A. 2940. When anything good is represented by means of spiritual ideas, the best is presented in the middle . . .

2973³. In every heavenly Society, they who are in the middle are the best of that kind . . .

6028. By the middle or the inmost in the Natural, is meant the best there, for the best is in the middle, that is, in the centre, or inmost . . .

6084. 'In the best of the land make thy father and brethren dwell' (Gen.xlvii.6)=that they may live in the midst of scientifics. 'The best of the land'=the inmost of the natural mind, where scientifics are. . . The reason 'the best'=the inmost, is that that is the best which is kept directly under the sight, for the eye is always directed to that which affects and delights us the most; and that which is kept directly under it is also the inmost, because it is in the centre, and thus is in the greatest light before the eyes . . . 6103.

9142. 'From the best of his own field, and from the best of his own vineyard shall he repay' (Exod.xxii.5) = restitution from the goods and truths which are still entire . . . That is called 'the best,' which, after the consuming, is still entire.

H. 50^o. These are the best of the Angels. 189.

Bestow. Largiri.

A. 4359. 'Which God hath graciously bestowed' (Gen.xxxiii.5)=of the Divine Providence, for whatever God bestows is of His Providence.

Besmear. Illinere. Circumlinere. P.153. W.355.Bethaven. Bethaven.

A. 4592¹⁰. See BENJAMIN at this ref.

Bethel. Bethel.

A. 1401. 'The mountain which had Bethel seaward, and Ai on the east' (Gen.xii.8)=the Lord's fourth state. 1449. 1450. 1451.

1451. 'Bethel'=Knowledge of celestial things . . . and as the Lord was about to advance into Knowledges of celestial things, which are signified by 'Bethel,' it is here said, that 'he carried over into a mountain on the east of Bethel' (Gen.xii.8).

1453. 'Bethel seaward, and Ai on the east'=that as yet His state was obscure, namely, as to Knowledges of celestial and spiritual things . . . This state is described by 'Bethel being seaward,' that is, on the west, and 'Ai on the east,' for by 'Bethel' are signified Knowledges of celestial things, and by 'Ai' Knowledges of worldly things . . .

—². That 'Bethel'=Knowledges of celestial things, Ill.

— When Jacob saw the ladder, he said 'this is nothing but the house of God, and this is the gate of Heaven,' and he called the name of this place 'Bethel' (Gen.xxviii.17,19), where by 'Bethel' is similarly signified Knowledge of celestial things; for a man is 'Bethel,' that is, 'the house of God' and also 'the gate of Heaven,' when he is in the celestial things of Knowledges. While a man is being regenerated he is introduced by means of Knowledges of spiritual and celestial things, but when he is regenerated he is already introduced and is in the celestial and spiritual things of Knowledges.

— God afterwards said to Jacob, 'Arise, go up to Bethel, and dwell there, and make there an altar to God, Who appeared to thee' (Gen.xxxv.1,6,7), where in like manner by 'Bethel' are signified Knowledges.

—³. The ark of Jehovah's being in Bethel, and the Sons of Israel coming thither and inquiring of Jehovah (Judg.xx.18,26,27; 1 Sam.vii.16; x.23) signify similar things.

— Also that the King of Assyria sent one of the priests, whom he carried away from Samaria, who 'sat with them in Bethel, and taught them how they should fear Jehovah' (2 Kings xvii.27,28).

—⁴. But after Jeroboam had profaned Bethel (1 Kings xii.32, etc.), it represented the contrary, Ill.

1555. 'From the south and even to Bethel' (Gen.xiii.3) = from the light of intelligence into the light of wisdom. . . 'Bethel'=celestial light originating from Knowledges.

1557. 'Between Bethel and Ai' (Id.)=the celestial and the worldly things of Knowledges. 'Bethel'=the light of wisdom through Knowledges.

2832¹⁰. 'I will visit upon the altars of Bethel' (Amos iii.14) . . . 'Bethel'=Divine good, therefore it is called 'the sanctuary of the King,' and 'the house of the kingdom' (Amos vii.13).

3729. 'He called the name of the place Bethel' (Gen.xxviii.19)=the quality of the state. . . In the Original Language, 'Bethel' means 'the house of God,' which = good in the ultimate of order. Ref.

4089. 'I am the God of Bethel' (Gen.xxxi.13)=the Divine in the Natural. 'Bethel'=good in the ultimate of order, thus in the Natural, for this is the ultimate of order, celestial and spiritual things being terminated there. . . As 'Bethel'=good in the Natural, it also = Knowledges of celestial things there, for these are of good.

4539. 'Arise, go up to Bethel' (Gen.xxxv.1)=perception concerning the Divine Natural. . . 'Bethel'=the Divine in the Natural, or in the ultimate of order; for, in the Original Language, 'Bethel' means 'the house of God,' and as the house of God is where Knowledges of good and truth are, by 'Bethel,' in the proximate sense, are signified these Knowledges. But as interior things are terminated and bounded in the ultimate things of order, and are there together and dwell together there as in one house, and as the Natural with man is the ultimate with man in which interior things are terminated, by 'Bethel' or 'the house of God' is properly signified the Natural, and in fact good there, for 'a house'=good. Knowledges also are in the Natural, or in the ultimate of order.

4546. 'Let us arise and go up to Bethel' (ver.3)=the Divine Natural. 4547. 4556. 4558.

4559. 'He called the place El Bethel' (ver.7)=the holy Natural. Ex.

4583. 'Jacob called the name of the place where God spake with him, Bethel' (ver.15)=the Divine Natural and its state.

4585. 'They journeyed from Bethel' (ver.16)=the continuity of the advance of the Divine from the Divine Natural.

10182⁸. 'The altars of Bethel,' and 'the horns of the altar' (Amos iii.14)=evils and falsities destroying the good and truth of the Church.

E. 316³⁰. 'The altars of Bethel' (Amos iii.14)=worship from evil.

375¹⁰. 'Bethel' means 'the house of God,' and 'the house of God'=the Church as to good, and in the highest sense the Lord as to His Divine Human.

391²⁹. Jeroboam set up two altars, one in Bethel and the other in Dan, and as by 'Bethel' and 'Dan' are signified the ultimate things in the Church, and ultimate things in the man of the Church are called natural sensual things, or natural worldly and bodily things, these things are signified by 'Bethel' and 'Dan;' by 'Bethel' the ultimate of good, and by 'Dan' the ultimate of truth. Hence by these 'altars' is signified worship in the ultimates . . .

Bethesda. Bethesda.

A. 10083⁴. 'The pool of Bethesda' referred to. E.163.

Bethlehem. Bethlehem.

See EPHRATH.

A. 4585. 'Bethlehem'=the Spiritual of the Celestial in a new state.

—³. See BENJAMIN at these refs. 4592³. E.449².

4594. 'This is Bethlehem' (Gen.xxxv.19)=the resurrection of a new Spiritual Celestial. 'Bethlehem'=the Spiritual of the Celestial in a new state, for 'Ephrath' =the Spiritual of the Celestial in the former state. 6247.

—². The reason the Lord was born at Bethlehem

... was that He alone was born a spiritual celestial man ...

[A. 4594]^e. David was born and also anointed king there; hence Bethlehem was called 'the city of David.'

E. 449³. As 'Bethlehem'=truth conjoined with good in the natural man, David was born there, and was also anointed king there ...

— The Lord was born in Bethlehem because He was born a King, and with Him from birth truth was conjoined with good ... With the Lord alone was the Natural eager for good and filled with longing for truth ...

695¹⁵. 'Bethlehem'=what is spiritual.

700⁹. 'Ephrata'=the Word as to its natural sense, and 'Bethlehem'=the Word as to its spiritual sense, and the Lord willed to be born there because He is the Word.

Bethogarma. Bethogarma.

E. 355¹². 'Those from Bethogarma' (Ezek.xxvii.14)=those who are in inward worship.

Bethsaida. Bethsaida.

E. 239²⁰. 'Bethsaida'=condemnation on account of non-reception of the Lord. 637¹³.

Bethuel. Bethuel.

A. 2864. 'Bethuel,' etc. (Gen.xxii.22)=various religiosities and worships.

2865. 'Bethuel begat Rebekah' (ver.23) from good their affection of truth.

3111. 'Father,' here, namely Bethuel=the good of charity such as it is with the more upright gentiles, for the very origin of the affection of truth which 'Rebekah' represents was from such good. 3115. 3160. 3665, Ex.

3676. The reason Bethuel is here surnamed 'the Aramean' (Gen.xxviii.5) is that by 'Aram' or 'Syria' are signified Knowledges of good and truth.

Betray. Prodere.

L. 16⁶. The Lord's being betrayed by Judas signified that He was (betrayed) by the Jewish nation ... T.130³.

Betroth. Desponsare.

Betrothal. Desponsatio.

A. 3107^e. In this chapter (Gen.xxiv.) the subject of initiation or betrothal is treated of.

3132². The conjunction of good and truth is the heavenly marriage itself, but initiation is the betrothal or state preceding the marriage. But it is the state preceding the betrothal that is here described. In this state, as it is in the power of a girl to be betrothed, and afterwards as a wife to be conjoined with a husband, so it is in the power of the affection of truth to be initiated to Divine truth, and so to be conjoined with Divine good.

3155. The initiation and conjunction of truth with good is as when a maiden is betrothed and afterwards coupled to a husband, namely, that she is to be instructed about everything before she gives consent.

3158. The things which in the literal sense of this chapter treat of the betrothal and marriage of Rebekah with Isaac, in the inward sense treat of the initiation and conjunction of good and truth, for the initiation and conjunction of truth and good are spiritual betrothal and spiritual marriage.

3164². In ancient times such things were given to a maiden when she was betrothed, and this on account of the representation and signification that a betrothed maiden relates to the truth of the Church which is to be conjoined with good. III.

4433. 'To lie with her and compress her' (Gen.xxxiv.2)=to be conjoined, but not in the lawful manner which is effected through betrothal.

4434³. 'To love and to betroth the daughter of a strange god' (Mal.ii.11)=to conjoin himself with falsity.

5317^e. 'A ring' (Luke xv.22)=what is confirmative of power in the house ... as is evident from the rituals which have come to us from ancient times, as from the rituals of betrothals, of couplings, and of inaugurations, in which rings are placed upon the hand.

8996. 'That he betroth her not' (Exod.xxi.8)=that it is not able to be conjoined. . . 'To be betrothed'=to be conjoined, for they who are betrothed are conjoined.

— 'To be betrothed' in the inward sense properly signifies the agreement of dispositions or of minds which precedes the conjunction of marriage; and since in the Spiritual World agreement conjoins and disagreement disjoins, by 'being betrothed' is here signified to be conjoined.

9000. 'If he betroth her to his son' (ver.9)=if it agrees with derived truth so that it can be conjoined with it. 'To betroth'=to be conjoined.

9182. 'When a man shall persuade a maiden who is not betrothed' (Exod.xxii.15)=good not conjoined with truth. . . 'To be betrothed'=conjunction.

—⁴. Betrothals before marriages have come into use from ancient times, and represented the first conjunction, which is that of the inward man without the outward; and then the marriages themselves represented the second conjunction, which is that of the inward man with the outward.

—⁵. 'Betrothal' in the Word=the conjunction of truth and good in the inward man. III.

— The love of betrothals' (Jer.ii.2)=the affection of spiritual life which is from truths of faith and good of love.

—⁷. 'To betroth in mercy and in compassions' (Id.)=from love towards those who are in good, and in love towards those who are in truths.

— From these things it is evident that 'betrothal' is the conjunction of good and truth with man by the Lord.

—⁸. 'To betroth the daughter of a strange god' (Mal.ii.11)=to be conjoined with the evil of falsity.

9857⁵. 'To betroth in judgment' (Hos.ii.19)=to conjoin through Divine truth, thus through faith and a life of faith.

10837. Betrothals and marriages among the inhabitants of that sixth Earth, Des.

W. 402. How love or the will betroths to itself wisdom or the understanding ...

R. 881². By 'prepared' (Rev.xxi.2) is signified dressed for betrothal, and the Church is no otherwise furnished for betrothal and afterwards for conjunction or marriage than through the Word . . .

960°. These are the words of betrothal to the spiritual marriage . . .

M. 21°. With us [in Heaven] a priest administers betrothals, and hears, receives, confirms, and consecrates consent. T.748°.

58. That there exists such a marriage love . . . may be still better known from the time of betrothal, while it is protracted and progresses to the nuptials.

295. On betrothals and nuptials. Gen.art.

301. Consent is to be established through solemn betrothal. Gen.art.

— The causes of betrothals enum.

— The state of betrothal may be likened to the state of spring before the summer; and the inward pleasantnesses of that state to the blossoming of trees before the fruitage.

— Since the initiations and progressions of marriage love proceed in order on account of the influx of them into effective love, which begins from the nuptials, therefore in the Heavens also there are betrothals.

302. Through betrothal, each party is prepared for marriage love. Gen.art. That the mind or spirit of the one is prepared through betrothal for union with the mind or spirit of the other, or what is the same, the love of the one with the love of the other, is evident from the arguments advanced in the foregoing article.

303. Through betrothal, the mind of the one is conjoined with the mind of the other, so that a marriage of the spirit may take place before the marriage of the body.

304°. With these the state of betrothal serves scarcely any other purpose than to fill their concupiscences with lasciviousness, and thereby to contaminate the marriage principle of love.

305. Within the time of betrothal it is not allowable to be conjoined corporeally. Gen.art.

— Events of various kinds take place in consequence of hasty conjunctions, also from the too great protraction, or too great hurrying of the time of betrothals.

D. 6110⁴⁸. [On the state of betrothal.]

Better. Melius.

A. 2738. The nature of mutual love as it exists in Heaven . . . is to will better for another than for self . . . 3701³.

Better. See PERFORM—prestare—at A.3314. S.56.

Between. Inter.

A. 2960. 'Between me and between thee, what is that?' (Gen.xxiii.15)=that he assented, but still willed from self . . .

4424. Thus hang between (Heaven and Hell).

6751. The man who is an evil end cannot be among those who are good ends. Ex.

10237 $\frac{1}{2}$. 'Thou shalt bestow it between the tent of the assembly and between the altar' (Exod.xxx.18)=that there may be the conjunction of truth and good.

Between, To be. See under Intercede.

Bezaleel. Bezaleel.

A. 10329. 'See, I have called by name Bezaleel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah' (Exod. xxxi.2)=those who are in the good of love, with whom the Church is to be instituted. . . 'Bezaleel'=those who are in the good of love. The reason these are here represented by 'Bezaleel' is that he was of the tribe of Judah . . .

—⁴. Two men are here named who were called by Jehovah to do the works commanded to Moses on Mount Sinai, 'Bezaleel' of the tribe of Judah, and 'Aholiab' of the tribe of Dan; by 'Bezaleel' are signified those who are in the good of celestial love, and by 'Aholiab' those who are in the good and truth of faith. They who are in the good of celestial love are in the inmost of Heaven and the Church, whereas they who are in the good and truth of faith are in the ultimate thereof. Thus by these two men are signified all in the complex with whom the Church can be instituted . . . 10335. See 9598.

10332. All the things Bezaleel was to make were representative.

D. 4560. I thought about Bezaleel who made the things belonging to the ark . . .

Bible. Biblia.

D. 895. The Holy Bible mentioned. 4565.

4775. I was led to the right, where I heard them talking and awaiting revelations; Angels were speaking to them and were instructing them about the Lord, and [telling them] that they were to receive the whole doctrine of the Church from Heaven, and also that they were to receive Bibles, but new Bibles from the Lord . . .

Bier. Feralis mensa.

H. 433. Some think in their cold bodies while they are lying upon the bier . . .

Bier. Lectica.

A. 817. Then appeared a bier shrouded with black cloths, and presently one rose from the bier . . . D. 1260.

Bierchenius. D.4717.

Bifid. Bifidus. Bifidatio.

A. 5380. They speak with a hoarse voice as it were bifid . . . D.3096.

Bignon, Abbe. D.4839.

Bile. Bilis.

Bilious. Biliosus.

See LIVER.

A. 1103°. The humours which are in themselves excrementitious, as are . . . the biles, should not only serve for foods, but also to separate excrementitious things, and to cleanse the intestines.

5185. There are Spirits who relate to the pancreatic, hepatic, and cystic ducts, consequently to the biles which are in them, which the intestines cast out. These Spirits are separate from each other, but act in company according to the state of those to whom their operation is determined. They are present at chastisings and punishments, which they want to direct. The worst of them are so stubborn that they are never willing to leave off unless they are deterred by fear and threats, for they fear suffering and then promise everything. They are those who in the life of the body cling tenaciously to their opinions, not so much from evil of life, as from natural perversity. While they are in their own natural state they think of nothing. To think of nothing is to think obscurely about many things and not distinctly about anything. Their delights are to elastise, and thus to do good; nor do they keep away from filthinesses. D.893.

T. 42°. As a stomach filled with bilious secretions . . .

D. 4572°. The operation (of these Spirits) is chiefly into the stomach, and also into the two biles of the pancreas and liver. Des.

Bilhah. Bilha.

A. 3849. 'Laban gave Rachel his daughter his handmaid Bilhah to her for a handmaid' (Gen.xxix.29)=the more exterior affections, which are bonds or subservient means. . . The reason 'Bilhah the handmaid'=more exterior affections, and 'Zilpah' the handmaid of Leah external affections, is that 'Rachel'=the affection of internal truth, and 'Leah' the affection of external truth. The more exterior affections are natural affections which are subservient to the internal ones. (See AFFECTION at this ref.) 4344. 4608. 4673.

3913. 'Behold, my maidservant Bilhah' (Gen.xxx.3)=an affirming medium which was between natural truth and interior truth. . . 'Bilhah'=the quality of that medium.

3919. 'Bilhah conceived, and bare to Jacob a son' (Gen.xxx.5)=reception and acknowledgment. 3925.

6024°. 'These are the sons of Bilhah' (Gen.xlvi.25)=that these are of the inward Church.

Bill. Under BOOK—libellus.

Billow. Under WAVE.

Bind. Ligare, Alligare, Colligare†.*

Binding. Ligatio, Colligatio†.

A. 1322. (Evil Spirits are held together in Societies) by being bound to similar phantasies and cupidities . . .

1644. These more subtle evil Spirits also bind their ideas abstractedly to objects and things, but to filthy ones . . .

2813. 'He bound Isaac his son' (Gen.xxii.9)=the state of the Divine Rational as to truth, about to undergo the last degrees of temptation. . . That 'to bind'=to put on the state of undergoing the last degrees of temptation, may be evident from this, that he who is in a state of temptation is just as if he were tied, or bound—vinculus.

4391°. 'The bindings of the waters, and the clouds of the heavens' (2 Sam.xxii.12)=the Word in the letter.

4922. 'She bound double-dyed upon his hand' (Gen.xxxviii.28)=that she marked the power. . . 'To bind upon the hand'=to mark the power.

5530. 'Lo, to each one the bundle† of his money' (Gen.xlii.35)=the orderly arrangements of truths conferred gratis. 'A bundle' or bundle—fasciculus=orderly arrangement. Ex.

6195. There were Spirits . . . who could flow deeply into the affections . . . They bound themselves to me so that it seemed as if they could scarcely be separated . . . Hence it was evident how loves conjoin.

—2. It was also evident that when man is bound to Hell, he can never be set loose, except by the Lord through Divine means, as also was shown by those who had been bound to me through slight affections. I could not be loosed from them, except by means of intermediate loves, through which they were, by degrees, conjoined with others, and as they were being separated they appeared to be removed from me towards the left forwards; and the separation was observed through the changes of the state of the affections . . .

6375. See Ass at this ref.

6384. Truths of faith bound to scientifics . . .

7967. 'Their kneading-troughs bound in their garments' (Exod.xii.34)=the delights of the affections adhering to truths. . . 'To be bound'=to adhere.

9896. 'They shall bind* the breast-plate by the rings thereof to the rings of the ephod' (Exod.xxviii.28)=the conjunction and preservation of all things of Heaven . . . 'To bind*'=conjunction and preservation.

9933. 'To be bound*' and to hang=to flow in, for all conjunction whatever in the Spiritual World is effected through influx.

10313. They appear to themselves . . . to have their hands and feet bound with serpents . . .

H. 427. See SOCIETY at these refs. 452. 481. 497. 514. 571. J.32. 69°.

547. Hence the man who is in evil is bound* to Hell . . .

P. 294°. They call this being bound as to the very life, which is more intolerable than to be bound as to the body . . .

R. 798. By 'the keys of the kingdom of the Heavens,' which are that whatever this Stone, which is the Lord, shall bind on earth shall be bound in the Heavens, and whatever it shall loose on earth shall be loosed in the Heavens, is meant that the Lord has Power over Heaven and earth . . .

802°. To open and shut Heaven, or to loose and to bind, thus to forgive sins, which is the same as to reform and regenerate . . .

842. 'And bound him a thousand years' (Rev.xx.2)=that those who are here meant by 'the dragon' were withdrawn and rent away from all others in the World of Spirits, so that there should be no communication with them for some time.

M. 130°. This is the wisdom . . . with which marriage love binds itself; for it binds itself with it by this, that it shuns the evil of adultery as the ruin of the soul . . .

T. 38^e. As there are such bindings together† of goods and truths, the Lord says that 'the tares are to be gathered together into bundles to burn,' and also 'all things that offend' (Matt.xiii; John xv.6).

446. The friendship of love tied with a man, irrespective of his quality as to the spirit, is hurtful after death. Gen.art.

448. They are tied together interiorly as to the spirit, and cannot be rent asunder . . .

D. 642. The punishment of tieing, Ex.

D. Min. 4581. (Spirits) know how to bind themselves to a man by wicked methods, if the man be a Spirit in the other life like me; namely, by binding all things of the face, mouth, head, occiput, where the general sense is, entering into the ideas and binding, and this by various methods. Des. 4596. 4597, Ex.

4772. At last he lost all capability of thinking, from which he appeared bound as to the hands and feet, and was cast down. The appearance of the binding of the hands is that he had no power of willing and thinking, thus none of plotting by means of deceit.

E. 195¹¹. 'To bind hand and foot' (Matt.xxii.13)= the taking away of Knowledges from the Word, through which he has counterfeited the spiritual man.

206^e. 'To bind and to loose' in general, means to save.

391¹⁸. 'To bind with cords' (Ps.cxviii.27)= to conjoin.

911⁵. 'To bind † into bundles' (Matt.xiii.30)= to join together each species of falsities from evil.

Bind. Obstringere.

Binding. Obstrictio.

A. 3021. A binding sig. 3045. 6179.

3023. To bind by an oath, for adjuration is nothing but a binding . . . 3046.

9211². This law was binding upon that nation, but is not binding upon Christians.

9213⁶. (That we are) not to oblige or incite another to confirm our own truths . . . For he who obliges or incites another to confirm his own truths causes him not to think or speak from himself . . . Sig.

Bind. Vincire.

Bond. Vinculum.

See FEAR, WITHHOLD.

A. 81³. The bonds of (a dead man) are external ones, as the fear of the law, the loss of life, of wealth, of gain, of reputation for the sake of these things.

— The bonds by which a spiritual man is acted upon are internal ones, and are called the bonds of conscience.

— A celestial man has no bonds which appear . . . but is free. His bonds which do not appear are perceptions of what is good and true.

379. When charity is sent into exile and extinguished, the bond between the Lord and man is burst asunder . . . See 389.

695. Such a form and order are induced upon the Hells by the Lord that they are all held bound and tied with their cupidities and phantasies . . .

987². When a man grows up . . . unless external bonds, which are of the law, and the bonds which he makes for himself in order that he may be the greatest and richest, were to hinder, he would rush into every crime . . .

1011. When charity is extinguished, the man is left to himself and to his own proprium, and is no longer ruled by the Lord through internal bonds, which are those of conscience, but through external bonds, which are those of the law, and which he makes for himself in order to be powerful and rich. When these bonds are unloosed, as takes place in the other life, he rushes into the most cruel and obscene things, thus into self condemnation. D.2715.

1077². If they suppose that they have anything of conscience, it is only external bonds, namely, fear of the law, for honour, for gain, for reputation on their account, which causes in them that which they call conscience . . .

1080. The reason they do not do these things openly is only that external bonds restrain. Enum. 2126. 4167². 4793². 6907². 8910³. 8911. H.577². N.81³, Refs. D.2801. 3253. E.107⁴. 948^e, Ex.

1277. The souls of men are constantly bound to some Society of Spirits and Angels . . .

1835. Then a new medium which is external succeeds and is formed, through fear of the law, fear for life, honours, wealth, and reputation thence derived; but these things are not of conscience, but are only outward bonds, which cause a man to be able to live in society with others . . . But this medium, or these bonds, are of no account in the other life, for outward things are there removed . . .

1944². They who suppose that they have a Rational, and have it not, speak with decorum and act with pretended honesty, in which they are held through external bonds, which are fear of the law, of the loss of gain, honours, reputation, life. If these bonds . . . were taken away, they would be more insane than (those who, regardless of bonds, rush into every wickedness). From experience. . . But they who have been rational while they lived in the world are not so. When the external bonds are taken away from these they are still more sound, for they have had internal bonds, which are the bonds of conscience, through which the Lord held their thoughts bound—alligatas—to the laws of truth and good . . .

2126. The outward bonds by which the evil Genii and Spirits are kept from shameful things were slackened a little. (The consequence.)

2219⁴. See SELFLOVE at these refs. H.559. N.71.

2299². The Lord's descent to the bound rep. (See below, H.335².)

2447³. One Devil punishes and tortures another . . . They could not be kept in bonds in any other way . . . 5717.

2910². Although hatred does not appear in the outward form, because they are in civil society under the laws, and are in external bonds which restrain, it is cherished inwardly. The external bonds which restrain come from the love of self and of the world, and are the love of honours and pre-eminence, the love of gain and thence also of power, thus the love of reputation . . .

[A. 2910]⁴. The hatred . . . breaks forth as often as external bonds do not restrain.

3542⁴. 'The bonds of the neck' (Jer.xxvii.2)=interception, thus the desolation of truth . . .

—⁵. 'To open the bonds of the neck' (Is.lii.2)=to admit and to receive what is good and true.

3835. See AFFECTION at this ref.

4217³. If Heaven were removed from man . . . all bonds, even the external ones, would be broken. For the Lord rules a man who is in good through inward bonds, which are those of conscience, but him who is in evil only through outward bonds, on the bursting of which everyone would become insane. Enum.

4459³. They are in the constant effort to destroy others, wherefore they are in Hell, and are there kept bound in a spiritual way.

4793⁴. These destructive Spirits make it their chief endeavour to loosen all inward bonds, which are affections of good and truth, of what is just and fair, the fear of the Divine law, the shame of doing injury to society and the fatherland; and when the inward bonds have been loosed, the man is obsessed by such Spirits . . .

4844⁵. 'Jehovah Who looseth the bound' (Ps.cxvi.7). The subject here treated of is those who are instructed by the Lord in truths, and led to good. Some of these are called 'the bound,' some 'the blind,' etc.

4956^e. 'They who are bound,' or 'in prison'=those who acknowledge that there is nothing but falsity in them.

5002². Wherefore such are kept in Hell, and are similarly held bound there by means of external things, chiefly by fears; and as often as these bonds are slackened, the one rushes to effect the destruction of the other . . . It is otherwise in Heaven . . . When outward bonds are slackened there, they are the more closely conjoined with each other.

5033. (The idea that) the Church exists only to keep the common people in a bound.

5036. See PRISON at these refs. 5037.

5037³. 'The bound upon the pit' (Is.xxiv.22)=those who are in vastations, or those who are in temptations.

—⁴. 'Beneath the bound' (Is.x.4)=the Hell which is under the places of vastation.

—⁵. 'To send forth the bound out of the pit' (Zech.ix.11)=those who are in vastation, and who are in temptation.

— 'The bound' (Ps.cii.20)=those who are in vastation, and who are in temptations.

—⁶. 'The bound' (Ps.cxlvii.7)=those who are in vastation and temptations on account of falsities.

5038. 'The place in which the bound of the King' (Gen.xxxix.20)=the state in which are they who are in falsities. . . 'The bound of the King'=those who are in falsities, and because they are in falsities they are in vastation, and they who are being regenerated in the world are in temptation, for temptation is the vastation of falsity, and at the same time the confirmation of the truth. They are called 'the bound of the King,' because 'King'=truth . . . therefore his 'bound'=those who are in falsity . . .

5045. 'The bound in the house of the prison' (ver.22)=falsities.

5086. 'The place where Joseph was bound' (Gen.xl.3) . . . 'Bound'=a state of temptations.

5096. 'Who were bound in the house of the prison' (ver.5)=among falsities. . . They who are in falsities, and still more they who are in evils, are said to be 'bound' and 'in prison,' not because they are in any bound, but because they are not in freedom; for they who are not in freedom are inwardly bound. For they who have confirmed themselves in falsity are no longer in any freedom to choose and accept the truth, and they who have confirmed themselves much are not even in the freedom to see it . . . for they are in the persuasion that what is false is true and that what is true is false. Persuasion is of such a nature that it takes away all freedom of thinking anything, consequently it keeps the very thought in a bound, and as it were in prison. From experience.

5145⁶. Affections are what terminate and close, wherefore they are also called bonds; affections of what is good and true inward bonds, and affections of what is evil and false outward bonds. Unless affections of what is evil and false were outward bonds, man would be insane, for insanities are nothing but loosening of such bonds, thus non-terminations in them. But as such persons have not inward bonds, they are insane inwardly as to the thoughts and affections, outward bonds moderating, which are affections of gain, honours, etc. Rep.

5180^e. Thus they afterwards keep them as it were in bonds . . . because they are privy to their evils.

5376⁸. Desolation is captivity, for then man is kept as it were bound . . .

5452. 'Ye shall be bound' (Gen.xlii.16)=although in the rest there be still separation. 'To be bound' here, =to be separated, for he who is kept bound is separated, namely, from spiritual good . . . 5461. 5483.

5990^e. These outward bonds cause them not to seem to be obsessed . . . as is evident in the other life, when outward bonds are taken away . . .

6204. When evil enters into the will it is hurtful, for then it goes into act whenever outward bonds do not withhold.

6207^e. Conscience is the plane into which the Angels flow . . . and thus keep man bound, but still in freedom.

6213. The man is then carried away by Hell, and then the Lord, through Angels, rules him as to external things, which are called outward bonds, which are those of his own prudence, and cause him to appear in outward form as a lover of the neighbour and fatherland; really however, for the sake of his own honours, gain, reputation on their account, fear of legal punishments, and of death. These are the outward bonds through which a man is ruled, when there are no inward ones, which are of conscience. But these outward bonds are of no account in the other life, for they are taken away from him . . .

6495². He is kept in bonds through his own loves, the loss of which he fears, thus through fears for the loss of honours, gain, reputation, life. Into these bonds, which constitute the ultimate plane, the Lord then inflows, and rules him through them . . .

6757^e. In the other life, when they who are in truths are being infested by falsities, they are kept in them by evil Spirits as it were bound . . .

6854². Deliverance of (Spirits in prison). (See LOWER EARTH at this ref.)

6914³. (Before the Last Judgment the evil Spirits who held possession of the lower part of Heaven were kept in similar outward bonds.)

—⁴. But after the Lord's Advent . . . the evil who were cast down, were deprived of the outward bonds . . . The deprivation of outward bonds is effected in the other life through the taking away of the good Spirits who have been adjoined to them . . .

7090^e. See CONSCIENCE at this ref.

7280. Fear is the only means which keeps the infernals in check and in bonds, for fear is the common bond, of both the upright and the evil . . . —³.

7501. Evil Spirits (in the other life) . . . insinuate themselves into the delights . . . and thus keep him whom they infest as it were bound, and however he struggles he cannot be released, except by the Lord's aid . . . In the world also he who insinuates himself into the delight of another's love, keeps him bound and leads him.

8321. The Lord . . . subjugated all such Spirits, and then, through His presence, caused them to be cast into Hell, where, being obsessed by their own evils and falsities, they are kept bound to eternity.

9096. 'And its lord has not kept (the ox) in' (Exod. xxi.29)=if he has not kept in bonds (the evil affection in the Natural) . . . The Intellectual is what sees evil, and what is seen can be restrained and kept in bonds, not by the Intellectual, but by the Lord through the Intellectual . . . By keeping in bonds is meant to restrain and repress. (See AFFECTION at this ref.)

—². But bonds so called are not bonds except relatively to opposite things, for he who does anything from the affection of the love of good acts from freedom . . .

9341⁴. 'The Angels bound at the Euphrates' (Rev. ix. 14)=falsities originating through reasonings from the fallacies of the senses which favour the delights of the loves of self and of the world.

—³. See GIRDLE at this ref.

9396^e. 'The bound in the pit' (Zech. ix. 11)=those who were of the spiritual Church and were saved by the Lord's Advent into the world.

9587. So far as outward bonds (Enum.) do not restrain, the Lord keeps man in the freedom of acting.

9613³. There must be a universal bond in order that single things may be kept conjoined with each other. The universal bond inflows into the singular bonds, and constitutes them. The universal bond is the Lord, thus love from Him, and thence love to Him. The singular bonds are thence derived, and are of mutual love or of charity towards the neighbour.

9828. See BELR at these refs. 9944.

10744. These things are their outward bonds, through which they are carried into doing what is good, and withheld from doing what is evil; but they have no inward bonds, which are those of conscience . . .

H. 335². The Lord's descent to the bound and His ascent with the bound into Heaven, Rep.

577⁴. Man is continually withdrawn from evils by the Lord . . . if not through inward bonds which are those of conscience, still through outward bonds. Enum.

N. 139³. Conscience is an inward bond . . . Refs. —⁶.

P. 81. When a man believes any evil to be allowable, he sets loose the inward bond for it, and is withheld from doing it only through the outward bonds which are fears . . . and therefore when the outward bonds are removed, he does it . . . and meanwhile continually does it in his spirit.

296³. He who has introduced himself more inwardly and deeply into infernal Societies, becomes as it were tied round with bonds, but so long as he lives in the world he does not feel the bonds; they are then like soft wool . . . but after death these bonds become hard . . .

R. 99². In the Word, by 'the bound' . . . are meant those who are bound by Hell, thus by evils and falsities. Ill. 591^e.

444. 'Loose the four Angels bound at the great river Euphrates' (Rev. ix. 14)=that outward bonds may be taken away from them, so that the interior things of their minds may appear.

M. 217. Wives love the bonds of marriage if only the men love them. Gen.art.

B. 68. (The notion) that there exists no bond of charity and of faith.

T. 498². Without these external bonds . . . the whole human race would perish . . .

D. 23 (Index). Spirits are kept in bonds with much variety, and do not know that they are so kept . . .

198. All Spirits and men are kept in bonds. Gen.art.

225. The infernal crew are kept bound in Hell so that they cannot infest man, except the worst of men, of whom there is no longer any hope . . . Unless they were kept in bonds, and as it were in chains, by God Messiah, the human race would perish . . . But their bonds are slackened, so far as is permitted, when a man falls into violent passions . . .

326 (Index). Some evil Spirits are reduced into such a state that they act entirely according to their nature, free from outward bonds.

1929 (Index). The Societies of Spirits around man are kept in bonds, lest they should operate further than is desirable.

1944. Spirits do not perceive that they are continually endeavouring to do evil while they are kept in bonds . . .

[D.] 2171. There are . . . Spirits who continually think evil against man, but while they are kept in bonds they know scarcely anything of their nature. The moment however that the bond is slackened, they burst out like furies . . . From experience.

2201. (On the examination of Spirits by their being set free from bonds.) 2206. 2577.

2603. While men are in the world, many bonds of Society hold them (Enum.). These bonds cease in the other life . . .

2737. On the spiritual bonds in which all are kept. These spiritual bonds cannot be so well described to the apprehension, for . . . Spirits in the World of Spirits are so held that they cannot think such evil as their nature inclines them to think . . . As soon as the bond was slackened, the Spirits were carried into enormous evils . . .

2738. These bonds do not appear to the Spirits, as neither do they to men, as bonds, but as freedoms, for they do not perceive that they are thus withheld. So free do they appear to them, that when the bonds were slackened, and they perceived that they were rushing into all evil, they asked that they should not be slackened. Thus do Spirits detest the slackening of the bonds.

2739. As for me, I have sensibly perceived for three years that I was withheld in such a bond . . .

2872. If the nature of evil Spirits is unloosed, they cannot desist, but if they are kept in bonds they can . . .

2943. When evil Spirits and others are kept in a bond, they suppose they are upright of themselves. Gen.art. . . Evil Spirits are kept in a spiritual bond, that is, in a sphere of uprightness, by the Lord, and then it does not appear to them that they are withheld from evil . . . They perceive no otherwise than that they are free . . . But as soon as this spiritual bond is loosened they at once perceive that they are not upright of themselves . . . for then they rush into evils . . . 193 (Index). 2559.

2964. On the bonds in which Spirits are kept. Gen. art. . . They do not know that they are kept in bonds. That they might have an idea of the bonds, a bond was instanced in which men are wont to be kept in common life, as when one lends to another and does not ask back, then the other is kept in a bond to speak and think well of him . . .

2965. As to the bonds in which Spirits in the World of Spirits are kept . . . freedom to act according to their cupidities is given them, but still they are led . . .

3159. When there are outward bonds which restrain a Spirit (Enum.) there are then such Spirits associated with him, who keep him in these bonds, and when they are taken away, he rushes like a madman, free from outward bonds . . .

3178. If anything comes into thought and into will, so that he desires to effect it if only outward bonds do not prevent, this is sin.

3179. They who have thought differently from what they acted, and have prevented themselves from acting by outward bonds . . . in the other life are tortured with the punishment of tearing to pieces by means of the thoughts . . .

3519. The Dutch call the doctrine of faith the bond of society, but only for the lower orders . . .

3615. Actual evil . . . is also that which a man procures for himself through the thoughts without act, for if outward bonds did not prevent . . . he would rush into it . . .

— . An interior bond consists in thinking that he would lose the happiness of eternal life . . .

— (Index). Actual evil is that which he wills to do, but does not do because outward bonds withhold him.

3693. Thus it is no longer inward bonds which rule, but outward bonds through which man is to be ruled. Outward bonds are those things which are of civil society. The interior bonds which come from Knowledge of the truths of faith are also exterior ones. When these bonds persuade they constitute the conscience of the man (but the true bond of conscience is from love. Index).

3714. Hence it may be known that there is no inward bond (with Sirens) . . . only outward bonds . . . but their interiors . . . are without bonds . . .

—^c. Anyone can know whether any law of conscience binds him, from this, that he does not will to think this or that because it is evil, criminal, obscene ; so that when such a thought is suggested, he is struck with fear, or shame, or horror . . . These are the inward bonds in which man is kept.

3716. Let a man examine himself as to whether he is in any inward bond . . . [or whether] it is only outward bonds that withhold him . . . If so, he is inwardly obsessed by such Sirens.

3741. On those who . . . suppose the Word and Divine worship are to be received in order to keep men in bonds. Gen.art.

3847. On the bonds of conscience. Gen.art. 3937.

3849. That a man contracts a nature through outward bonds . . .

4019. How Sirens keep those bound whom they endeavour to obsess . . .

4091. On bonds. (The frequent repetition of an evil act causes outward bonds to cease to have any effect.) Such things can then only be taken away through the bond of conscience . . .

4223. (Even when a man's end is evil) the Angels prevent him from precipitating himself into the greatest evils through the outward bonds which they excite . . .

4254. On the bonds of thought ; on conscience. . . Thoughts have their bonds. They who have conscience, have inward bonds, and they who have not, have outward bonds . . . In the other life, when outward bonds are taken away from them, there remain the bonds of thought . . .

4255. Outward bonds are taken away when such Societies as constitute them are.

4389. On outward bonds. Gen.art. 4611.

E. 239¹⁶. 'Jehovah looseth the bound' (Ps.cxlv.7). They are called 'the bound' who are in falsities, and long to be loosed from them.

329¹⁷. 'To let the bound out of the pit in which is no water' (Zech.ix.11)=the gentiles who are in falsities from ignorance . . . 'The bound in the pit'=those who are in falsities from ignorance, and yet in the earnest desire to know truths. Refs.

386²⁰. 'The bound' (Ps.cxlvi.7)=those who long for truths, but are withheld from them through falsities of doctrine, or through ignorance because they have not the Word; wherefore 'to loose the bound'=to deliver from them.

448¹⁸. That He withholds the Heavens from falsities and keeps them in truths . . . is described by 'His binding princes at His pleasure' (Ps.cv.22).

481⁸. 'The bound to whom He says, Go forth' (Is.xlix.9)=the gentiles who have lived in good according to their religion, but still have been in falsities of ignorance; and who are called 'the bound' when in temptations.

537¹². They are called 'the bound' (Zech.ix.11) because they could not be delivered from falsities except by the Lord.

652²⁶. 'Bound with chains' (Nahum iii.10)=to be tied by falsities so that they could not bring forth truths.

654²⁰. They are said 'to go in bonds' (Is.xlv.14) with whom the cupidities of the natural man are being restrained.

811¹³. 'The bound' (Is.lxi.1)=those to whom it is denied to see truths.

Bind up. Obligare.

9057². 'To bind up the wounds' (Luke x.34)=the healing of the injury done to the affection of truth.

E. 444¹⁴. 'To bind up the wounds, and pour in oil and wine'=to prepare a remedy against the falsities which have injured its life . . .

962². 'Not bound up, not mollified with oil' (Is.i.6)=not amended through repentance, and tempered through good.

—⁵. The reformation of doctrine through truths is signified by 'Jehovah shall bind up the breach of His people' (Is.xxx.26).

Bird. Avis.

See FLY-volare, and SINGING BIRD.

A. 11. The fifth state is that he speaks from faith and thus confirms himself in what is true and good. The things he then produces are animated, and are called 'the fishes of the sea' and 'the birds of the heavens' (Gen.i.22,26). 39^e. 48.

40. 'Birds' in general=rational things, also intellectual things of the inward man. —^e, Ill. 44^e. 674. 723. 802. 909. 1029.

52. See BRAST at these refs. 715. 803. 1022. 6767². T.34². E.329¹¹. 513⁸. 650⁴³. —⁴¹.

53³. 'The birds of the heavens' (in the mustard tree, Matt.xiii.32)=truths, or intellectual things.

58. The Natural (of the spiritual man) is here described by 'the wild beast of the earth' and by 'the bird of the heavens' (Gen.i.30).

142. 'Birds of the heavens' (Gen.ii.19)=spiritual affections . . . or the things of the understanding.

477³. 'The bird of the heavens' (Jer.iv.25)=the understanding of truth.

595. 'The bird of the heavens'=whatever is of the understanding, or of thought.

745. 'Bird' in general (Gen.vii.8)=things relating to thought. There are many kinds of birds, both clean and unclean, which in ver.14 are distinguished into 'the bird,' 'the flying thing' and 'the winged thing;' the clean ones=true thoughts, the unclean ones false thoughts.

776. 'The bird according to its species' (ver.14)=all spiritual truth; 'the flying thing,' natural truth; 'the winged thing,' sensuous truth. . . The most ancient people likened things relating to thought to birds, because relatively to voluntary things these things are (as birds). 'The bird,' 'the flying thing,' and 'the winged thing,' succeed each other as do intellectual, rational, and sensuous things in man. Ill.

777. 'A bird'=spiritual truth, 'a flying thing' natural truth, and 'a winged thing' sensuous truth . . .

778. As 'the birds of the heavens'=intellectual truths, thus thoughts, they also signify the contrary, as phantasies or falsities, which, being of man's thought, are also called 'birds;' as that the wicked shall be given for food to the birds of the heavens. Ill. The Lord Himself also compares phantasies and false persuasions of what is false to 'birds,' where He says, 'The seed which fell upon the hard way was trodden down, and the birds of heaven devoured it' (Matt.xiii.4, etc.), where 'the birds of heaven'=nothing but falsities. 810. 986. 988.

866. True intellectual things are described by gentle, beautiful, and clean birds; but false ones by fierce, ugly, and unclean ones, and in fact, according to the species of truth and of falsity. Gross and dense falsities are signified by 'owls' and 'ravens;' by 'owls' because they live in the darkness of night, by 'ravens' because they are black. Ill. 988.

916. 'The bird' (Gen.viii.19)=truths of the inward man . . .

921. 'Clean birds' (ver.20)=truths of faith. 922.

991. 'The bird of the heavens' (Zeph.i.3)=rational things . . .

1186^e. 'A bird out of Egypt' (Hos.xi.11)=the scientific Intellectual.

3219. When the Angels are conversing about Knowledges, ideas, and influx, there appear in the World of Spirits birds formed according to the subject of their conversation. Hence it is that 'birds' in the Word signify rational things, or those which are of thought.

— Birds once came into my sight, one dark and ugly, two noble and beautiful. (The meaning of this Ex.) Thus it was given to know that conversation in Heaven about thoughts and influx is represented by birds, that of those who are in falsity by dark and ugly birds, but those who are in truth by noble and beautiful birds. D.2550-2556.

[A.] 3324². The receptacle in the throat of small birds—aviculars.

3901. 'Birds' in general signify man's thoughts, in both senses, and each species something in particular; some because they fly high and have sharp sight, rational things. (See EAGLE.) 8764².

5096. 'The birds' (in the parable of the sower)= principles of falsity.

5149. 'The bird eating from the basket upon my head' (Gen.xl.17)=falsity from evil which consumed. 'Bird'=intellectual things, and also thoughts, thus what is thence; namely, in the genuine sense, truths of every kind, and in the opposite sense, falsities. Refs.

—³. That 'birds'=those things which belong to intellectual things, as thoughts, ideas, reasonings, principles, thus truths or falsities, Ill.

—'. 'The bird of heaven' (in the mustard tree)= truths.

—⁴. 'The bird of every wing' (Ezek.xvii.23)=truths of every kind.

—'. 'Birds of the heavens' (Ezek.xxxi.6)=truths.

—⁵. 'The bird of the heavens' (Ezek.xxxi.13)=falsities.

—'. 'The birds of the heavens' (Dan.iv.12)=falsities.

—⁶. 'The birds of heaven which flew away' (Jer. iv.25)=truths which are dissipated.

—^e. 'The birds of heaven' (in the parable of the sower)=reasonings, and also falsities.

5157. 'The bird shall eat thy flesh from off thee' (Gen.xl.19)=that the falsity of evil will consume... 'Bird'=falsity.

5215³. 'Bird of wing' (Ps.lxxviii.27)=phantasies thence.

6323². Thus birds know how to build nests, etc.

7545⁹. Like birds with their wings cut off...

7620. (A beautiful flame which was changed into a bird that at first glittered with colours, but gradually became stony and dead, but still flew.) 7743. D.3246. 3249. 3874. 3875. 3881.

7621. While this bird was flying round my head... a Spirit (from below) wanted to take it away, but as it was so beautiful the Spirits around me prevented his doing so... At last they allowed him to take the bird, but as Heaven then flowed in he could not keep it, and let it go free.

7622. The Spirits around me, who had regarded the bird and its changes with intense interest... perceived... that a bird signifies spiritual love and what belongs thereto. Spiritual love is mutual love and charity towards the neighbour. The changes of colour and of life in the bird, until it became stony, signify the successive varieties of spiritual life as to intelligence. (This bird represented the inhabitants of Mars. See MARS at this ref.)

8431. The good of faith (is here sig.) by the flesh of a bird or of a flying thing which is called 'quails' (Exod.xvi.8).

8452. A bird of the sea=what is natural.

8902⁶. 'Birds'=truths and affections of truth. Refs.

9182⁵. 'Bird'=the life of truth. Refs.

9553⁹. 'The birds of heaven'=those who are in affections of truth, and in the opposite sense, those who are in affections of falsity.

10161. There are birds of an azure colour with golden feathers (in the second Earth).

W. 134. See ANIMAL at this ref.

344. A beautiful bird was shown to Sir Hans Sloane, and he was asked to examine it, and see whether it differed in the smallest degree from a similar bird on earth. He held it in his hand, examined it, and said that there was no difference. He knew that it was nothing but an affection of a certain Angel represented outside of him as a bird, and that it would vanish or cease with its affection, which also took place. He was thus convinced... that nature contributes nothing to the production of plants and animals, but only that which inflows into the natural world out of the Spiritual World. He said that if that bird were filled in its least parts with corresponding matters from the Earth, and thus fixed, it would be a durable bird, like birds on earth.

374^e. Hence some have supposed the Spiritual to be like a bird which flies above the air in the ether, unreachd by the eyesight; when yet it is like a bird of paradise, which flies near the eye and touches its pupil with its beautiful wings, and wants to be seen.

R. 757. 'The hold of every unclean Spirit, and the hold of every unclean and hateful bird' (Rev.xviii.2)=that evils of will and thence of act, and falsities of thought and thence in the purpose of those who are in these Hells are diabolical, because they have turned away from the Lord to themselves... 'Bird'=everything which is of thought or understanding, and thence of purpose.

—². That 'birds'=such things as are of understanding and thought, and thence of purpose, in both senses, evil as well as good, is evident from the Word. (Ill. in a bad sense.)

—^e. That 'birds'=those things which are of the understanding, and thence of thought and purpose, is manifestly evident from the birds in the Spiritual World, where also there appear birds of every kind and of every species; in Heaven most beautiful ones, birds of paradise, turtledoves, pigeons; in Hell dragons, screech-owls, horned owls, and others of the same kind, all of which are representations to the very life of thoughts from good affections in Heaven, and of thoughts from evil affections in Hell.

831. 'I saw an Angel standing in the Sun, and he cried with a great voice, saying to all the birds that fly in the midst of heaven, Come and gather yourselves together to the supper of the great God' (Rev.xix.17)=the Lord from Divine love and thence from Divine zeal calling and convoking all who are in the affection of spiritual truth, and think about Heaven, to the New Church and to conjunction with Him, thus to eternal life... 'Birds that fly in the midst of heaven'=all who are in the affection of spiritual truth, and thence think about Heaven.

837. 'All the birds were filled with their flesh' (Rev. xix.21)=that the infernal Genii are as it were nourished with the concupiscences of their evil . . . 'Birds'=falsities which are from Hell, and as the infernal Genii are in these falsities . . . they are here signified by 'the birds' . . . Useless and hurtful birds, especially unclean and rapacious ones which feed upon carcases, signify the Falsities which are of the love.

M. 10³. How came this bird of night here?

—⁶. They compared the changes of the states of their life . . . to the state of birds in the ether.

231². The light of the torches . . . threw painted images of birds of evening and night on the plastered walls . . .

233^c. Confirmations of falsity so complete that they appear like truths are represented in the Spiritual World under the forms of birds of night, whose eyes are inwardly illuminated by a foolish light, by means of which they see objects in the dark as in the light.

270². I saw two swans flying towards the north, and then two birds of paradise flying towards the south, and also two turtledoves flying in the east, and as I followed their flight with my eyes, I saw that the two swans bent their course from the north to the east, and so did the birds of paradise from the south, and they gathered together with the two turtledoves in the east, and all flew to a certain lofty palace there . . . in which there were three rows of windows, one above another, and . . . I saw the swans fly into the palace through open windows in the lowest row, the birds of paradise through open windows in the middle row, and the turtledoves through open windows in the highest row. Ex.

—⁴. The pair of turtledoves signified marriage love of the highest region (of the mind), the pair of birds of paradise marriage love of the middle region, and the pair of swans marriage love of the lowest region.

380⁴. While he was writing, we saw images in various forms flying from the table to the walls, which in that nocturnal moonlight appeared like beautiful Indian birds—rolucres, but when we opened the door, lo, in the solar daylight they appeared like birds of evening with netlike wings, for they were semblances of truth which had become fallacious through confirmations, and which were ingeniously joined together into connexion by him. Examps. T. 35⁴.

T. 42². There are some who when they hear truth at once perceive that it is true; in the Spiritual World these are represented by eagles. There are some who do not perceive truth, but infer it from confirmations through appearances; these are represented by singing birds. There are some who believe a thing to be true because it has been said by a man of authority; these are represented by magpies. Moreover there are some who do not will and who also are not able to perceive truth, but only falsity. The reason is that they are in foolish light, in which light falsity appears as truth, and truth, either as something which is overhead hidden in a thick cloud, or as a meteor, or as falsity. The thoughts of these are represented by night-owls, and their speech by screech-owls . . .

67. Like birds which fly over a great ocean . . .

69². Like a bird flying on high . . .

71. Through the opening in the ground there flew up birds of night in troops . . . After this I saw beautiful birds from Heaven. Des. —^c.

D. 4176. (The glorification of the Lord represented by birds, which first eat and drink, then engage in mutual endearments, and afterwards rest awhile until their delight diffuses itself through their nerves, and then they began to sing most beautifully from the quiet serenity thence derived.)

5880. Some who now appeared as men and afterwards as a certain kind of birds . . .

5905. On those who see like birds of night . . . as the nightingale. 5906.

E. 175¹⁴. 'The birds of the heavens which have built in its branches' (Ezek.xxxi.6)=affections of truth.

280⁶. 'The birds of heaven which have flown away' (Jer.iv.25)=what is rational and intellectual.

282⁷. Comparison is made with 'a bird' (Hos.ix.11) because 'a bird'=what is rational and intellectual.

—⁸. 'Birds'=affections of truth from which is intelligence. Not to make the form of them (Deut.iv.17)=that they are not to be procured from man. . . 'A winged bird which flies towards heaven' is mentioned, because 'a winged bird'=the understanding of spiritual truth.

342⁹. 'The birds of the heavens and the fishes of the sea' (Zeph.i.3)=affections of truth and thoughts, spiritual and natural.

—¹⁰. They who are in spiritual affection and thence thought are signified by 'the birds of heaven' . . .

—^c. Such are not unlike those birds which see and sing in the dark . . .

357³⁰. 'The bird of the heavens' (Hos.ii.18)=affection of truth.

388¹². 'Birds' (Ezek.xxxi.13)=thoughts both true and false. . . That 'birds'=thoughts, ideas, and reasonings, in both senses, with variety according to their genera and species, Refs.

—¹⁵. 'The bird of the heavens' (Ps.lxxix.2)=false thoughts

—²⁸. 'Birds of the heavens' (Ezek. xxxi.6)=rational and spiritual truths of every kind.

391¹¹. The reason it is said, 'The bird hath found a house, and the swallow its nest' (Ps.lxxxiv.3) is that 'a bird'=spiritual truth, and 'a swallow' natural truth, through which is worship.

400⁹. 'Birds of the heavens' (Ezek.xxxviii.20)=intellectual things in general, specifically, thoughts from truths, but here from falsities. 650¹¹.

483⁷. 'The bird of the heavens' (Ps.civ.12)=thoughts from the understanding.

601⁷. 'They shall come with honour as a bird from Egypt' (Hos.xi.11)=their natural thought from scientific truths. 'A bird'=thought. 654²².

650⁶. 'Beasts of the fields' (Ps.viii.7)=affections of the natural man; 'birds of the heavens', thoughts thence; and 'fishes of the sea,' the scientifics of the natural sensual man.

—²⁷. 'The birds of the heavens which have built their nests in its branches' (Ezek.xxxi.6)=spiritual thoughts in rational things, for the Rational is the medium between the inward spiritual man and the outward natural.

[E. 650]²⁸. 'The bird of the heavens, and the wild beast of the field, which shall dwell upon its ruin in its branches' (ver.13)=falsities of thoughts and evils of cupidities which are in him because he... has been proud with the love of his Own intelligence...

—³⁰. 'The birds of the heavens which dwelt in its branches' (Dan.iv.12)=affections of good, and thence thoughts and perceptions of truth...

—³⁴. 'The bird of the heavens' (Hos.ii.18)=rational thought from spiritual.

—⁴⁶. 'Bird of every wing' (Ezek.xxxix.17)=all of whatever quality who are in the perception of truth.

—⁶¹. See WILD BEAST at these refs. 654⁵².

684⁴¹. 'The bird of abominations' (Dan.ix.27)=faith alone, thus faith separated from charity; for 'a bird'=thought concerning the truths of the Word and the understanding of them, which becomes 'a bird of abominations' when there is not any spiritual affection of truth which enlightens and teaches what is true, but only natural affection which is for the sake of reputation, etc. ... which affection, being infernal, is 'abominable'...

701²⁰. 'The bird of the heavens' (Hos.ii.18)=spiritual thought.

1100. 'The hold of every unclean and hateful bird' (Rev.xviii.2)=where there are nothing but falsities from falsified truths of the Word. .. For 'birds'=rational things, intellectual things, thoughts, ideas, reasonings, thus truths or falsities.

—². That 'birds'=thoughts which are from truths, Fully Ill.

—²¹. In the opposite sense, 'birds'=fallacies from the sensuous man, also reasonings from falsities against truths, and also falsities themselves, worse and more hurtful according to the genera and species of the unclean birds. Falsities which are destructive of truths are especially signified by rapacious birds. Ill.

—²². There are many kinds of falsities, and each kind of them is signified by its own kind of birds, which are enumerated in Lev.xi.13; Deut.xiv.11-20; as eagles, kites, woodpeckers, ravens, screech-owls, cormorants, herons, night-owls, horned owls, dragons, and others.

5 M. 23. (Birds of evening swallowing worms, etc. seen there, which represented the men of the earth who are fed on such food from the Spiritual World.)

Bird. Volucris.

A. 776. See BIRD-avis, at these refs. 777. M.380⁴.

1832. 'The bird divided he not' (Gen.xv.10)=spiritual things, and that there are not such parallelism and correspondence. ... 'Bird'=what is spiritual.

7072. I represented to them the larger and smaller birds of our Earth. .. When (the Spirits of Mercury) saw these represented birds, they at first wanted to change them, but were afterwards delighted with them, and remained quiet. The reason was that birds signify Knowledges of things.

W. 65³. The middle things of the animal kingdom are called birds and beasts.

Bird of Paradise. Avis paradisiaca. See

BIRD-avis, at W.374^e. R.757^e. M.270². —⁴.

Coro. 30². The spiritual man ... as to advancement in spiritual things, is like a bird of paradise flying.

Birdcatcher. Auceps. T.452^e. 561².

Birth. See BEAR-parere, and OFFSPRING-fatus.

Birthplace. Natale solum. A.2491.

Birthright. Under PRIMOGENITURE.

Bishop. Episcopus.

R. 341. (On English bishops. See ENGLAND at these refs. 675. 716. Compare T.389.)

716. (How the English bishops keep their clergy in subjection.)

M. 9⁴. Four men appeared in bright garments and wearing tiaras, one of whom had been in the world an archbishop, and the other three bishops, and who were now Angels...

T. 16^e. (A bishop who tried to say one God, but blurted out three gods.)

D. 6098. (An English bishop who stopped the reading of the Writings.) 6101².

Bit. Floccus. T.209³. 381. See also CRUMB.

Bite. Mordere.

Sting. Morsus.

A. 3923². 'Biting the horse's heels' (Gen.xlix.17)=to consult the lowest intellectual or scientific things, and form conclusions from them.

6400. 'Biting the horse's heels'=fallacies from lowest nature. 'To bite'=to cleave to, and thus do injury.

7419. Infestations through evils are signified by the biting of lice.

9118^e. This pain is what is called the stings of conscience. ... (See also under CONSCIENCE.)

R. 469³. He is bitten by serpents, that is, by infernal Spirits...

T. 74². At this they bit their tongues...

596². A man feels this combat in himself no otherwise than as the stings of conscience.

Bitter. Amarus.

Bitterness. Amaritudo. Amaror.*

To make bitter. Amaricare.

A. 3470³. (Like) fruits which are first filled with bitter juice, before they can receive sweet juice. This bitter, which is not genuine, is the means of introducing the sweet...

3471. 'They were bitterness of spirit to Isaac and Rebekah' (Gen.xxvi.35)=that at first there was grief thence. 'Bitterness of spirit'=grief.

5620¹³. 'My belly was made bitter' (Rev.x.10). Divine truth as the Word is delightful in the outward form or literal sense, because it allows itself to be explained in everyone's favour; but not so the inward sense, which is therefore signified by the 'bitter' taste, for this sense uncovers the interiors of man. Ex.

6668. 'They made their life bitter with grievous slavery' (Exod.i.14)=that the intention to subjugate became hostile and painful. 'The life made bitter'=to become hostile and painful.

7854. 'Upon the bitternesses*' (Exod.xii.8)=by means of undelightful things of temptations. 'Bitternesses'=undelightful things, here, those which are of temptations.

—². That undelightful things are signified by bitter things, Ill.

8349. 'They could not drink of the waters for the bitterness, because they were bitter' (Exod.xv.23)=that truths appeared undelightful to them because they were devoid of the affection of good... 'Bitter'=undelightful.

8350. 'Marah' means 'bitter.'

R. 411. 'Many men died of the waters, because they were made bitter' (Rev.viii.11)=the extinction of spiritual life with many on account of falsified truths of the Word... The reason 'bitter'=falsified, is that the bitterness of wormwood is understood, and 'wormwood'=infernal falsity.

—². That 'bitter'=falsified, Ill.

481. See BELLY at these refs. E.618. 622.

E. 519. The reason 'wormwood'=truth mixed with falsity of evil, is from its bitterness, and bitterness arises from sweetness mingled with the opposite unsweetness. Hence, in the spiritual sense, 'bitterness' such as that of wormwood and gall=truth mixed with the falsity which is opposite to the truth, which is the falsity of evil... .

—⁴. That the Lord found nothing in the (Jewish) Church but falsities and falsified truths, is signified by 'their satiating Him with bitternesses, and inebriating Him with wormwood' (Lam.iii.15).

—¹⁰. When what is evil and false is in a man's spirit, and what is good and true in the actions and speech of his body... that which is in the spirit... acts into that which is of the body, for it flows in, and causes that which outwardly appears to be good and true still to be like gall and the bitterness of wormwood, although it is presented sweet before man... .

522. 'Because they were made bitter' (Rev.viii.11)=because the truths of the Word were falsified... 'Bitter' and 'bitterness'=what is falsified through the mixing together of truths with falsities of evil... .

—, 'Bitter' in the Word=what is undelightful; but one kind of undelightfulness is signified by the bitterness of wormwood, another by the bitterness of gall, and another by the bitterness of hemlock; another kind of undelightfulness is signified by the bitterness of unripe fruit, and another by the bitterness which is from neither herbs nor fruits. This bitterness signifies pain of mind and anxiety from many causes. Ill.

618. The reason 'bitter' and 'bitterness'=what is undelightful on account of adulterated truth, and that thence 'to make bitter'=to make undelightful, is that what is sweet becomes bitter and thence undelightful through admixture with anything foul. Hence comes the bitterness of wormwood, gall, myrrh. Now as what is sweet signifies what is delightful from the good of truth and the truth of good, what is bitter signifies what is undelightful from adulterated truth. The undelightfulness therefrom is not perceived and felt as bitterness by any man in the natural world, but by a Spirit and by an Angel in the Spiritual World; for all adulterated good of truth, when turned into flavour with them is keenly perceived as bitter... .

—³. That 'bitter'=the adulterated truth of good, Ill.

—, 'Woe to those who say what is good concerning evil, and what is evil concerning good, putting darkness for light, and light for darkness, putting bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter' (Is.v.20). That adulterated good and truth are here signified by 'bitter' is evident, for it is said 'Woe to them who say what is good concerning evil, and what is evil concerning good... .

—⁴. 'Bitter shall strong drink be to them that drink it' (Is.xxiv.9)=the truth of good undelightful from the falsification and adulteration of it.

—⁵. 'The waters in Marah, which they could not drink for the bitterness'=adulterated truths, for... 'bitterness'=adulteration.

—⁷. 'Clusters of bitterness' (Deut.xxxii.32)=the goods of faith adulterated. 918⁷.

—⁸. 'Adultery'=the conjunction of falsity and evil. Hence it was that if she were guilty, 'the waters would become bitternesses' (Num.v.27), by which is signified the adulteration of good.

—^e. Hence it may be evident that 'bitter' and 'bitterness' in general=the falsification and adulteration of truth and good, the various species of which are signified by 'gall,' 'wormwood,' 'myrrh,' 'wild vines,' 'colocynth,' and many more.

624¹¹. 'Bitternesses' (Hos.xii.14)=the perversions and thence the falsities from which come things undelightful.

1145⁴. 'Bitter waters' (of Marah)=those things which are apparently true, and derive [their existence] from falsities.

Bittern. Anataria.

A. 1188^e. This falsity, because it is worshipped, is called... 'the cormorant and the bittern in the pomegranates' (Zeph.ii.14).

5044⁷. 'The cormorant,' 'bittern,' 'night-owl,' 'raven' (Is.xxxiv.11)=kinds of falsities which arise when the Divine truths which are in the Word become of none effect.

7324⁴. 'I will set it as an inheritance for the bittern' (Is.xiv.23).

9552². 'The cormorant and the bittern in the pomegranates' (Zeph.ii)=falsities of evil in scientifics of good.

E. 388¹¹. 'The cormorant and the bittern' (Zeph.ii)=falsity of thought and of perception.

650^{5e}. 'The flocks,' 'the wild beast of the nation,' 'the cormorant and the bittern' (Zeph.ii)=affections of falsity, and the falsities themselves, interior and exterior.

Bitumen. *Bitumen.Bituminate. Bituminare.

A. 645. 'To bituminate it within and without with bitumen' (Gen.vi.14)=preservation from the inundation of cupidities. . . We do not read in the original text that it should be bituminated with bitumen, but a word is used which denotes protection, and which is derived from 'to expiate,' or 'to propitiate,' wherefore it involves the same thing, for the Lord's expiation or propitiation is protection from the inundation of evil.

1297. 'Sulphur,' 'bitumen,' etc. in the Word, are predicated of cupidities, especially of those which belong to selflove.

1299. 'They had bitumen for clay' (Gen.xi.3)=evil of cupidity for good. . . As the building of the Babylonish tower is here treated of, such things are mentioned as serve for the building, here 'bitumen,' because it is sulphureous and fiery, by which in the Word are signified cupidities, especially those of selflove. 'Bitumen' here,=evils of cupidities, also falsities thence derived, which also are the evils with which the tower was built.

1666. 'The vale of Siddim was wells of bitumen,' or 'full of wells of bitumen' (Gen.xiv.10) by which are signified filthy and unclean things of cupidities. 1688.

1688. 'Bitumen'=cupidities. Falsities are called 'wells' from unclean water, and cupidities 'bitumen' from the filthy sulphureous stench in such water.

6724. 'She bituminated it with bitumen and pitch' (Exod.ii.3)=what is good mixed with evils and falsities. 'Bitumen'=good mixed with evils, and 'pitch' good mixed with falsities. The reason 'bitumen' and 'pitch' have this signification, is that they are of a fiery nature, and in the Word what is fiery signifies what is good, or in the opposite sense what is evil. But because they are sulphureous and also black, they signify what is evil and false. Ill.

M. 231². A hearth into which . . . they cast sulphurated and bituminous torches . . .

E. 540⁸. 'Bitumen' (Nahum iii.14)=falsity from evil conjoining.

Black. *Ater.Blacken. *Atrare.Blackness. Atror.

A. 939. See AVARICE at this ref.

1066³. It is predicated of them that they are 'blackened,' and that 'they have no light' (Jer.iv.28) when there is no longer any wisdom of good or intelligence of truth.

3221. Affirmatives of falsity are there represented by dusky and black clouds.

3355³. They are said to be 'blackened' (Joel ii.10) when goods and truths are no longer acknowledged.

6015⁸. That then the Knowledges of good and truth perish, is signified by, 'I will blacken the stars of the heavens, and all the luminaries of light' (Ezek.xxxii.7).

8906³. They are said to be 'blackened' (Joel ii) when they no longer appear.

H. 119⁹. They are said to be 'blackened,' etc. when they no longer exist.

R. 153⁹. Some (devils) appear as black as soot.

E. 304⁹. 'The heavens where there is no light, and which will be blackened' (Jer.iv.28)=the interiors of the men of the Church, which, when closed through evils and falsities, do not admit light from Heaven, but instead thereof darkness from Hell.

372³. That there will then be no Knowledges of truth, is signified by, 'I will blacken the stars thereof' (Ezek.xxxii.7). 401¹³.

—⁶. The heavens are said to be 'blackened' (Jer.iv) when there does not flow in from the Lord through Heaven any affection and perception of truth.

— As mourning in the representative Churches . . . represented spiritual pain of mind on account of there being no good and truth . . . they 'went blackened,' as in David, 'Why go I blackened in the oppression of the enemy?' (Ps.xlii.9; xliii.2). Further Ill.

400³. 'The sun and the moon being blackened' (Joel ii)=that there are no good of love and truth of faith.

412³⁰. 'Blackness' (Joel ii.6)=falsity of evil.

526⁴. That the goods and truths of the Church . . . will be turned into evils and falsities, is signified by 'the sun and moon being darkened and blackened . . .

Black. *Niger.Blackness. Nigredo.

A. 18. Such an (unregenerate) man, when looked at from Heaven, appears like a black mass . . .

41. Whatever is proper to man . . . appears hard, as if it were bony, and black . . .

814². (These infernals) had intensely black naked bodies.

817. A bier appeared shrouded with black cloths.

— He became as black as an Egyptian mummy, in both face and body . . . D.1262.

939. A certain black Spirit (was sent among the avaricious) . . . They said he was a robber because he was black.

941². There came robbers, who were intensely black . . .

942. There was a black Spirit (at the bridge) . . . D.853.

950. See BANDAGE at this ref.

952⁹. At first, as he supposed himself to be holy, he was seen in a bright human form . . . but was first turned into a dull blue, and then into black, and as he wanted to domineer over others and despised them in comparison with himself, he became blacker than others. D.1302.

1041². See COLOUR at these refs. R.915².

— Black is man's Own Voluntary, or evil, which absorbs and extinguishes the rays of light.

1063². Such . . . were seen by the ancients as black from the heat of cupidities, whence they were called 'Ham.'

1872. A beautiful girl appeared to me . . . in a becoming dress of glossy black . . . The black dress was the Word in the letter.

2125. There appeared Spirits so black that I was horrified ; they appeared in a black-atra-cloud. (They represented Christians at this day.)

2603. There are some Gentiles from those regions where they are black, who . . . want to be treated severely . . .

—^e. They said that when they are being treated severely they are black, but that they afterwards put off their blackness, and put on whiteness ; knowing that their souls are white, and their bodies black.

3425³. He with whom the outward man is opposite to the inward . . . has a spirit black and deformed . . .

3993⁵. Black signifies in general what is evil, specifically, the proprium of man, because this is nothing but evil. But what is darksome signifies falsity . . .

3994. 'All the black cattle in the lambs' (Gen. xxx. 32) = proprium of innocence. . . 'Black' = proprium. 4001.

4328³. Afterwards the column became entirely black . . . The black column signified the Voluntary which is utterly destroyed . . .

4533. When (evil Spirits) are looked at by the Angels . . . some (appear) dusky and black like devils . . .

5056. (This Spirit) was of a black colour in the light of Heaven ; but he himself said that he was not black, but of a mouse colour. D.874.

5377^e. Hence the infernals appear in blackness and deformity inexpressible.

5566. (One who) appeared as a black cloud . . .

5865. There was a Spirit . . . who was permitted to pass over to a certain man . . . When he came thither, he said that he appeared to him as a black inanimate affair, or as a black mass without life. This was the corporeal life of that man . . . The corporeal life of a man who is in the good of faith . . . does not appear as black, but as woody, and of the colour of wood. D.4060.

— . A certain evil Spirit was let into the state of the body . . . Then he also was seen by me as a black mass without life . . .

6534⁴. 'The black horse,' and he who sat on it (Rev. vi. 5) = intellectual truth extinguished.

6609. Falsities (seen represented) by black clouds.

6620³. A closed idea appeared like black points, in which there was not anything visible. D.1188.

7483. See BEARD at these refs. 10754^e.

7801. One kind (of Spirits from Jupiter) appear dusky, almost black . . .

9166³. 'To make a hair black' (Matt. v. 36) = to say that falsity is falsity from themselves. . . 'Black' is predicated of what is false.

10309². Their state then is that they are inwardly black, outwardly white . . .

10753. There then appeared four kinds of men (in the fifth Earth) . . . (The last of the four were black ones.) 10757.

H. 99. See BEAUTY at this ref.

354. Their interiors . . . were so closed that they appeared black . . . 481².

481². They who are corporeal loves appear gross, dusky, black, and deformed.

J. 61. (The Papists) were cast into a sea, the water of which was black. —⁷.

—⁷. A black crust (was thus formed over that sea) . . . Instead of the sea there was black soil, under which was their Hell.

—⁸. The Spirit whom they proclaimed as God became black . . .

C. J. 19^e. They who were in the conceit of their Own intelligence were seen black.

S. 12². 'The black horse' (Rev. vi) = the understanding of the Word destroyed as to truth in the third state of the Church.

P. 277³. An infant is born black from a black, or Moor, by a white or European woman . . .

R. 153¹². In the light of Heaven satans appear like corpses, and some as black as a mummy ; and devils appear duskily fiery, and some as black-atri-as soot.

167. 'Black' is predicated of falsities, because it derives its origin from the darkness of Hell. 312, Ill.

231³. Black colours derive their origin from Hell. There are two of them ; one opposite to dead white ; this blackness prevails with those who have falsified the truths of the Word ; the other is opposite to red ; this blackness prevails with those who have adulterated the goods of the Word. The latter blackness is diabolical ; the other is satanic.

312. 'I saw and lo a black horse' (Rev. vi) = the understanding of the Word destroyed as to truth, thus as to doctrine. . . The reason 'black' = no truth, thus falsity, is that black is opposite to white, and 'white' is predicated of truth. White also originates from light, and black from darkness, thus from the absence of light, and light is truth. But in the Spiritual World there is blackness from a twofold origin ; one from the absence of flaming light, which prevails with those who are in the Celestial Kingdom ; and the other from the absence of bright white light, which prevails with those who are in the Spiritual Kingdom. This latter blackness has a similar signification to darkness ; the former to thick darkness. These blacknesses differ from each other ; one is abominable ; the other not so. It is the same with the falsities which they signify. In the abominable blackness appear those who are called devils ; these also abominate truth as horned owls do the light of the sun. But in the blackness which is not abominable appear those who are called satans ; these do not abominate, but are averse to truth, wherefore these may be compared to night-owls. E. 372, Ill. 401.

332. 'The sun became black as sackcloth of hair' (Rev. vi. 12) = that with them all the good of love was adulterated. . . The reason is that in itself adulterated good is evil, and evil is black.

915². Black derives its origin from the shade (of love and wisdom), which is ignorance.

M. 269². When he saw the Angels with me . . . he became black.

T. 383². Evil is as black as ink . . .

763. The eyesight . . . is vivified by a colour which inwardly derives something from black, such as the colour green.

D. 725. These robbers . . . are completely black, from head to foot. One of the same appeared to me, intensely black.

853. (The Spirits of Gehenna) hate what is black and shun it, but what is grey . . . namely, whiteness mixed with blackness, signifies justification from self . . . It is blackness which they shun, although it is in their whiteness . . .

1083, 4 (Index). They who believe themselves to be Christ . . . have black faces, and wear a hat made of rolls of black. They who acknowledge such to be Christ, wear a square black hat. Their bodies are black as from sweat which has black mixed with it.

1380 (Index). On one bank of the lake were monsters of serpents, seen by me only as a black appearance. In the middle of the lake was blackness, mud rather than water. 1384.

1393. A black colour is of such a nature as to absorb all the rays, and disperse them around in a disorderly manner. Hence the blackness. It is the same with wickedness, which is represented by a black colour; it absorbs all the rays of intellectual light, and diffuses them around without any order, so that at last nothing of light or of white appears.

1554. There afterwards came out from the well as it were black spirits . . .

1676. The form of the spirit (with the better sort of these Spirits of one of Jupiter's satellites) was shown as a black cloud, in which there was something human scattered. . . They said that they are white within. This blackness was then turned into a beautiful azure colour . . .

2250. See PROPRIUM at this ref.

2633. See CLOUD at this ref.

2748. The Spirits (who spoke from me while I was asleep) had intensely black fingers without flesh, like the claws of a scorpion.

2813. Black and horrible human forms (of magicians seen).

3214. This murderer . . . seemed to fly like a black body.

3327. A black spot seen under the left eye; a sign that they should desist . . .

3455. This preacher . . . became black and fiery, his body being clad in white, and in this black and deformed condition was carried about and shown to Spirits and Angels . . .

3486. Dippel seen with a black face . . .

3806. (A Quaker Spirit turned from snowy to black, and made hard like a mummy.) 4083.

3970. On a black horse.

3971. Such were seen sitting on a large and noble black horse, but the horse was of ebony or marble, devoid of life as to its head, neck, and fore parts . . .

5464². Other (evil Spirits) inspect various parts of the body . . . and where they see anything black, they know that proprium still reigns there, for man's proprium is black, because it is of self-love. They then examine what of self there is there . . . and then infuse their own thoughts, and lead wherever they will. —⁶. J.(Post.) 241.

E. 364⁶. 'Black horses' (Zech. vi. 2)=the quality of the understanding as to truth in the beginning.

386¹⁵. 'To be blackened—denigrare—like an oven' (Lam. v. 10)=to be in one's own evil from falsities.

401. 'The sun became black as sackcloth of hair' (Rev. vi.)=that all good of love has disappeared.

624¹⁴. 'The day shall grow black upon them' (Mic. iii. 6)=thick darkness from Hell which blackens the understanding.

1063^e. See BLUE—caeruleus, at this ref.

5 M. 1. When this satan came into view, his face first appeared of a living white, then of a deadly pallor, and at last of an infernal black. . . Such are the successive states of the minds of those who are merely natural . . . The inmost things of their minds, being infernal, are represented in the face by the blackness . . .

Blackbird. Merula.

T. 383. If good and evil were together in the same man . . . it would be as if he were to fly like a blackbird, now upwards, now downwards . . .

Bladder. Vesica.

A. 956^e. In this muddy lake are malignant women from the province of the bladder.

5378. See KIDNEY at these refs. 5380. 5381.

5380^e. They who are in the Hells correspond to such things as are voided through the intestines and the bladder . . .

5389. (Spirits of the neck of the bladder, Des.)

10032^e. The ureters and bladder, which go forth from the kidneys=exterior truth and its investigation, and also castigation.

T. 258. Like a bladder full of stinking gall . . .

D. 433. Represented by a bubble . . .

825. On the Spirits who represent the kidneys and the bladder in man. 867. 938. 959.

1002. They who constitute the bladder are the worst, for they search out filthy things of nature, and desire to punish severely, or insanely, by means of tepid or warm waters . . .

3466. His urinary bladder appeared so dilated as to fill the whole man . . .

Blains. Under PUSTULE.

Blame. Inculpare.

See under FAULT—culpa.

M. 453². The Angels charged these things upon some as evils of sin . . . 527³. B. 113. T. 523².

485. Charges of blame are made by a judge according to the law . . .

Blameless. Inculpatus.

A. 9011. A blameless state, Sig.

Blamelessness. Immunitas.

A. 2526. 'In the blamelessness of my hands have I done this' (Gen.xx.5)=from the affection of truth, and thus from every faculty. . . In the Original Language 'blamelessness' is expressed by a word which also means cleanness and purity. . . 'The blameless,' or clean, or pure hands, which are predicated of truths, cannot exist unless good is in truths, that is, unless there is affection of truth.

BlaspHEME. *BlaspHEmare.BlaspHEmy. *BlaspHEmia.BlaspHEming. BlaspHEmatio.

A. 1695. Unless an opportunity were given to (evil Spirits) to disparage the truth, nay to blaspHEme it, they could not live. (Because this is their food.)

1878. The lot of those (who have blaspHEmed the Word) is miserable . . . according to the degree of the blaspHEmy . . .

3301⁸. The children who were torn to pieces by the bears (2 Kings ii) represented those who revile the Word . . .

5700². At last he rejects (heavenly things), and then so far as is allowable, reviles them.

5990². Would rush . . . into blaspHEmies against those things which are of faith . . .

7351. Reasonings from falsified truths are at last turned into blaspHEmies against truth and good.

7456⁸. 'To blaspHEme the name of Jehovah' (Lev. xxiv.16)=by means of malevolent falsities to do violence to the truths and goods which are of worship.

7524. 'A sore breaking forth with pustules' (Exod. ix.9)=filthy things with blaspHEmies therefrom.

—². He who blaspHEmes God is insane . . .

8169^e. In yielding during temptations there is the blaspHEming of truth and good . . .

8882. 'Thou shalt not take the name of thy God in vain'=profanations and blaspHEmings of the truth and good of faith.

—⁴. BlaspHEming takes place when the things of the Word or of the doctrine of faith, thus which are holy, are held in derision, and are dragged down to unclean earthly things, and so defiled.

9015. 'He who smiteth his father and his mother' (Exod.xxi.15)=the blaspHEming of the Lord and His kingdom. 'To smite'=to injure by means of falsities, and when predicated of the Lord and His kingdom=to blaspHEme.

9221. 'Thou shalt not revile God' (Exod.xxii.28)=that truths Divine are not to be blaspHEmed . . . for they who blaspHEme also revile.

9222. 'And the prince among thy people thou shalt not excrete' (Id.)=that neither is the doctrine of truth to be blaspHEmed.

— . Truth Divine is the Word, and it is doctrine from the Word. They who deny it at heart, blaspHEme it, even although they praise and preach it with the lips.

BlaspHEmy lies concealed in denial, and also breaks forth when they are thinking by themselves, especially in the other life . . .

—². They who blaspHEme or deny the Word can receive nothing of the truth and good of faith . . .

—³. If man could see what great and fearful blaspHEmies against the Word exist in those who are in the evils of these loves, he would be horrified . . .

—⁴. BlaspHEmies are of two kinds. There are those which come forth from the Intellectual and not at the same time from the Voluntary, and those which come forth from the Voluntary through the Intellectual. These latter are the blaspHEmies which are so horrible; not the former. Ex.

L. 50^e. 'The blaspHEmy against the Holy Spirit' (Matt.xii.31) is blaspHEmy against the Divine of the Lord; 'that against the Son of Man,' is something against the Word, by giving a wrong interpretation.

P. 38. Every love has its own delights . . . as . . . with the worst men, the love of blaspHEming the holy things of the Church . . .

94. To love the neighbour . . . is not to revile him.

215⁸. He who is in the love of domineering from self-love thinks nothing of . . . reviling the neighbour.

R. 96. 'The blaspHEmy of those who say they are Jews' (Rev.ii.9)=the falsehood that with them are the goods of love. . . 'BlaspHEmy,' here, = falsehood.

571. 'Upon his heads the name of blaspHEmy' (Rev. xiii.1)=the denial of the Lord's Divine Human, and the doctrine of the Church not hatched from the Word, but from their Own intelligence. 'The seven heads'=insanity from mere falsities, and this insanity speaks blaspHEmy when it denies the Divine of the Lord in His Human, and also when it does not take the doctrine of the Church from the Word, but hatches it from its Own intelligence.

— . As to the first statement, that blaspHEmy is to deny the Divine of the Lord in His Human, this is so because he who denies it is against the faith received in the universal Christian world, called the Athanasian . . . wherefore they who deny the Divine in His Human are not far from the Socinians and Arians.

—². As to the second statement, that blaspHEmy is not to take doctrine from the Word, but to hatch it from man's Own intelligence, this is so because the Church is from the Word, and is according to the understanding of the Word it has . . .

—^e. 'BlaspHEmy' (Matt.xii.31) = to deny the Divine of the Lord, as the Socinians do, and to deny the Word; for they who thus deny the Divine of the Lord cannot enter Heaven, for the Divine of the Lord is all in all things of Heaven; and he who denies the Word, denies all things of religion.

582. 'There was given him a mouth speaking great things and blaspHEmies' (Rev.xiii.5)=that they teach evils and falsities. . . BlaspHEmies'=the truths of the Word falsified, thus falsities . . .

584. 'He opened his mouth in blaspHEmies against God and His name' (ver.6)=their sayings, which are stumbling-blocks against the Lord's Divine itself and Divine Human, and at the same time against everything of the Church from the Word by means of which the Lord is worshipped. . . 'Blasphemies'=falsifications of the Word, and many other things; here, also stumbling-blocks, because there follows 'against God and His name.'

[R.] 692. 'They blasphemed the name of God, Who has Power over these plagues' (Rev.xvi.9)= . . . that they did not acknowledge the Divinity of the Lord's Human. . . . 'To blaspheme the name of God'=to deny, or not to acknowledge the Divinity of the Lord's Human, or the holiness of the Word. 'To blaspheme'=to deny, or not to acknowledge.

697. 'To blaspheme the God of Heaven' (ver.11)=to deny or not to acknowledge the Lord alone as the God of Heaven and earth. 715.

723. 'Full of names of blasphemy' (Rev.xvii.3)=the Word profaned by them. . . 'Blasphemy'=the denial of the Lord's Divine in His Human, and the adulteration of the Word, thus profanation. For he who does not acknowledge the Lord's Divine in His Human, and falsifies the Word, but not of set purpose, does indeed profane, but slightly. Whereas they who ascribe to themselves all the power of the Lord's Divine Human, and on that account deny it, and who apply all things of the Word to the acquisition of dominion over the holy things of the Church and of Heaven, and on that account adulterate the Word, profane grievously.

T. 298. 'To take the name of God in vain' means to take anything (from what the Church teaches from the Word, and by means of which the Lord is invoked and worshipped), [and use it] in vain talk, falsehoods, lies, execrations, sorceries, and enchantments, for this also is to revile and blaspheme God, thus His name.

299. In the celestial sense, 'to take the name of God in vain' means what the Lord said to the Pharisees; 'All sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven to man, but the blasphemy of the Spirit shall not be forgiven' (Matt. xii.31). 'The blasphemy of the Spirit' means blasphemy against the Divinity of the Lord's Human, and against the holiness of the Word.

323. In the celestial sense, 'to bear false witness' means to blaspheme the Lord and the Word, and thus to utterly destroy truth itself out of the Church. . .

612. He then thinks nothing of revilings, which are also false witness. . .

683². The utterances (of such) are nothing but blasphemies against the Holy Spirit.

D. 526. The dragon blaspheming.

E. 119. 'The blasphemy of those who say they are Jews'=invective uttered by those who suppose themselves to be in Knowledges of good and truth. . . 'blasphemy'=vituperation and invective.

778. 'Upon his heads the name of blasphemy'=falsifications of the Word. Ex. and Examp.

—². The Divine is also blasphemed through the falsification of the Word by their believing and thinking that God the Father wanted to be reconciled to the human race through the last penalty of condemnation, which was the passion of the cross, and thus through the blood of His Son. . . What is contrary to the Divine is blasphemy. Hence also to draw the sense of the letter of the Word to confirm it is blasphemy.

—³. The sin and blasphemy against the Holy Spirit is to deny the Word, also to adulterate its very goods and falsify its very truths. Ex. and Examps.

—⁹. 'Names of blasphemy' (Rev.xvii)=adulterations of the good and falsifications of the truth of the Word, which are blasphemies against the Lord. 1039.

—¹⁰. That 'blasphemies'=to believe and to speak evilly and falsely about God and Divine truth, Ill.

—¹². In human languages, as also in the Hebrew, there are various words by which blasphemings of God and Divine truth are expressed; as in Latin, calumnies, reproaches, ignominies, taunts, revilings, vituperations, witty sayings, mockings, jeers, and many more. . .

794. 'There was given him a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies'=doctrine destroying the goods of the Word, and deeply destroying its truths. . . 'To speak blasphemies'=to falsify the truths of the Word.

797. 'And he opened his mouth in blasphemy against God'=the falsification of Divine truth, thus of the Word which is from the Lord and which is the Lord. . . 'Blasphemy'=the falsification of the Word even to the destruction of Divine truth such as there is in Heaven. Ex. 798. 984. 991.

1027. 'To blaspheme God' (Rev.xvi.21)=to falsify the Word.

1085². 'The blasphemy against the Holy Spirit, which cannot be forgiven' is the blaspheming of the Word by those who deny its holiness.

Blast. Under BREATH=halitus.

Blast (of trumpet). See SOUND=clangere.

Blasting. Uredo.

E. 638²⁰. 'Blasting and mildew' (Amos.iv.9)=evil and falsity in the outermost things. . .

Blaze. See BURN=exardescere, and flagrare.

Blemish. Naevus.

A. 5432⁴. That they are 'spies' may be evident from. . . their seeking for nothing but blemishes. . .

5721. If they detected any blemish in them, they made it an enormous evil. . .

6813⁶. Thus they could excuse their own blemishes.

7837. 'Entire' (Exod.xii.5)=without a blemish, thus unspotted. . . because every blemish signifies, in the Spiritual World, something false or evil.

Bless. Beare, Beatificare.*

Blessedness. Bliss. Beatitudo, Beatificatio.*

See ASHER, HAPPINESS, DELIGHT, etc.

A. 549. See ANGEL at this ref.

1621. The atmospheres. . . in which the blessed live. . .

2183⁶. Nothing can make a man blessed and happy, except that the Natural be conformable to the Rational, and that both be conjoined, which is only effected by means of charity. 2994⁶.

2261^e. Therefore such as the truths are, and such as are the goods in the truths, and such as is the conjunction, and thence the capability of their being perfected in the other life, such is the state of blessedness and happiness after death.

2356^e. This [low] good was the blessedness of life . . .

2363. Blessedness from the affections of good and truth, Sig. . . As to blessedness and happiness being only in the affection of good and truth, this is a matter of which all who are in evil and its delight are profoundly ignorant. Blessedness in the affection of good and truth appears to them either as a sort of nothing, or as a sad affair, and to some as a painful, nay, a deadly one . . . 2364.

2434. After death man has blessedness and happiness, not from truth, but from the good which is in truth. Hence he is the more blessed and happy in proportion to the amount of good in the truth.

2574³. They are then in the blessedness of their intelligence, and in the happiness of their wisdom . . .

2872. Everyone who is in this (heavenly freedom) from inmost affection communicates his own blessedness and happiness to another, and it is blessedness and happiness to him that he is able to communicate it; and as the universal Heaven is of this character, each one is a centre of blessednesses and happinesses to all, and all together are so to each one . . .

3203². When man begins to act from good . . . he is then for the first time in a blessed state . . .

3660^e. Angels and Spirits are in the pleasantness of intelligence and the blessedness of wisdom when they have such things from the inward sense of the Word.

3913³. The natural man is in his blessedness when he is more wealthy than others . . . But the spiritual man is in his blessedness when in Knowledges of truth and good . . . and still more when in the exercise of good according to truths . . .

3928. When man's bodily and worldly delight is reduced to obedience, that is, when it is no longer regarded as the end, but as a use which serves heavenly delight . . . then the Angels can be with the man in both; but then the delight with him becomes blessedness, and at last happiness in the other life.

3938. 'Leah said, In my blessedness, because the daughters shall bless * me' (Gen. xxx. 13), in the supreme sense=eternity; in the inward sense, the happiness of eternal life; and in the outward, the delight of the affections, Ex.

—⁵. The delight of charity is what fills the universal Heaven, and constitutes blessedness and happiness there . . . 3956.

4038³. The blessedness and happiness there pertain to the will, and are of rational good . . .

4063. See DELIGHT at this ref.

4353^e. He then no longer does what is good from truth, but from good; for he then begins to perceive something of blessedness, and as it were something of Heaven in it.

4368¹. When they who are in the affection of truth from the good of genuine charity hear that heavenly blessedness is to do good to others from good-will, for the sake of no selfish end, they rejoice; but they who are in affection of truth from the love of self and of the world do not will this, nor even apprehend it.

5224^e. From the blessedness into which the Queen of Sheba came from the wisdom of Solomon, she said 'Blessed are thy men, blessed are these thy servants, who stand before thee continually, and hear thy wisdom' (1 Kings x. 8). Who would now call himself blessed on that account?

5232. There are two things which constitute the spiritual man, and consequently which make him blessed in the other life, namely, charity and faith . . .

5316^e. The Divine things which are in the inward sense of the Word concerning the Lord and the glorification of His Human affect (the Angels) to such a degree that they perceive thence all the blessedness of their wisdom and intelligence.

5639². When a man feels in himself delight and pleasantness, and still more when he feels happiness and blessedness from (what is good and true and from what is just and fair), this is the Spiritual with him, which comes . . . through Heaven from the Lord . . .

5651^e. When a man is (thus) perfected in intelligence and wisdom, he is blessed with happiness to eternity.

5660^e. When they (receive this heavenly proprium, they also receive) blessedness and happiness to eternity.

5963^e. Without such faith or confidence in the Lord, no one can ever come to the tranquillity of peace, thus neither to the blessedness in joy, because this blessedness dwells in the tranquillity of peace.

6138. When he is left to himself, he is seized with pain and anxiety, but when he is taken out of that state, he returns into his happiness and bliss. In such a state are all the Angels.

—². In order to make anyone blessed and happy the Lord wills a total submission. Fully Ex.

6313. The Sophi used to say that when the mind is withdrawn from sensuous things it comes . . . into a kind of heavenly blessedness . . .

6388. They who are in genuine mutual love are in its own delight and blessedness . . . It is this delight and this blessedness which are meant by 'reward' in the Word, for delight or blessedness itself is the reward, and in the other life it becomes the joy and happiness which are in Heaven, thus it becomes Heaven to them . . .

6393. They who want a reward for the works they perform . . . grieve and complain if they see others more blessed than themselves; nor do they make blessedness to consist in inward blessedness, but in outward, namely, in being pre-eminent, in domineering, and in being served by Angels . . . when yet heavenly blessedness consists in not wanting to domineer, or to be served by others, but in wanting to serve others, and to be the least. Ill.

6408. As to this (blessedness of the heavenly affections, which is represented by 'Asher'), it cannot be easily described, because it is inward, and rarely puts itself forth in the body itself, thus is rarely felt, for while he lives in the body man distinctly feels those things which come forth in the body, but very obscurely those things which come forth in the spirit, for worldly cares prevent it. Where these cares exist, the blessedness of the affections cannot inflow into the sense of the body unless natural and sensuous things have been reduced to agreement with interior ones; and not even then, except obscurely, as a tranquillity arising from his being contented in mind. But it manifests itself after death, and is perceived as blessedness and happiness, and then affects both the interiors and the exteriors. In a word, the blessedness of the heavenly affections is of the soul or spirit itself, flowing in through an inward way, and penetrating towards the body, where it is received in so far as the delights of natural and sensuous loves do not stand in the way. This blessedness does not exist at all with those who are in the delight of the love of self and of the world, for these loves are utterly opposite to it; wherefore they who are in these loves cannot at all comprehend that any delight exists except being advanced to dignities, being worshipped as deities, abounding with riches . . .

[A.] 6410. See ACTIVE at this ref.

6717². When this conjunction (of good and truth) has taken place, then, as from a marriage, offspring are continually being born, which are truths and goods, with their blessednesses and delights.

8413^o. After regeneration the good of charity becomes the whole life, and then the delight of pleasures serves as a means and ultimate plane in which spiritual good with its happiness and blessedness is terminated . . .

8455². In so far therefore as man puts off what is external, a state of peace is revealed, and so far he is affected with joyousness, blessedness, and happiness, the origin of which is the Lord Himself.

8701². Man is not regenerated until he acts from affection of good, for he then wills what is good, and it is delightful and blessed to him to do it . . .

8890. 'Thou shalt not do any work . . .' (Exod.xx) = that then there are Heaven and blessedness in each and all things of the inward and outward man . . . When a man is in Heaven he is free from all disquietude, unrest, and anxiety, and when he is free from these things he is in blessedness.

9118. Hence man is in tranquillity of peace and inward blessedness when he acts according to conscience.

9182¹⁰. The reason 'the sons of the wedding do not mourn so long as the bridegroom is with them' (Matt.ix.15) is that they are in a blessed and happy state, thus with the Lord, when in truths conjoined with good.

H. 379^o. The blessednesses of true marriage love can be enumerated to many thousands, not one of which is known to man, nor can be intellectually comprehended by anyone who is not in the marriage of good and truth from the Lord.

380. (When the love of dominion prevails in marriage) there is no communication of any love and of its delight from one to the other. Yet this communication and hence conjunction is that interior delight itself which is called blessedness in marriage. The love of dominion utterly extinguishes this blessedness, and with it everything celestial and spiritual of that marriage love . . . It is then held so cheap that at the mere mention of blessedness from it they either laugh or are enraged.

387 (t). Angelic blessedness consists in the goods of charity, and in performing uses.

401. A man who is in love to God and in love towards the neighbour does not manifestly feel delight from them so long as he lives in the body . . . but only an almost imperceptible blessedness, because it is stored up in his interiors, and covered up by the exterior things of the body, and is blunted by the cares of the world. But the state is entirely changed after death . . . That obscure delight, and blessedness almost imperceptible . . . are then turned into the delight of Heaven, which becomes perceptible and sensible in every possible way; for that blessedness which had lain stored up in the interiors . . . is then revealed and let out into open sense, because they are then in the spirit, and that delight had been of the spirit.

H. 535 (e). Heavenly blessedness inflows from the Lord into the life of charity. N.121⁵.

W. 47. The essence of all love consists in conjunction, so also does its life which is called delight, pleasantness, deliciousness, sweetness, blessedness, joyousness, and happiness.

P. 39. The blessednesses, joyousnesses, delights, and pleasantnesses, in a word, the happinesses of Heaven cannot be described in words, but in Heaven can be perceived by the sense.

324^o. That every man has been created to live to eternity in a blessed state . . .

R. 8. 'Blessed is he who readeth, and they who hear the words of the prophecy, and they who keep the things which are written therein' (Rev.i.3)=the communion with the Angels of Heaven of those who live according to the doctrine of the New Jerusalem. 'Blessed' here, means him who as to his spirit is in Heaven. Thus while he lives in the world he is in communion with the Angels of Heaven, for as to his spirit he is in Heaven.

639. 'Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth' (Rev.xiv.13)=the state of those after death who will be of the Lord's New Church, which is, that there are eternal life and happiness for those who are suffering temptations for the sake of faith in the Lord and a life according to His injunctions. . . 'The blessed'=those who have eternal life and happiness, for these are blessed. E.899.

705. 'Behold, I come as a Thief, blessed is he who watcheth and keepeth his garments' (Rev.xvi.15)=the Lord's Advent, and then Heaven for those who look to Him, and endure in a life according to His injunctions, which are the truths of the Word. . . He is called 'blessed' who receives eternal life. E.1006.

816. 'Blessed are they who are called to the wedding supper of the Lamb' (Rev.xix.9)=that there is eternal life for those who receive the things of the New Church. E.1225.

852. 'Blessed and holy is he who hath part in the first resurrection' (Rev.xx.6)=that there are the happiness of eternal life and enlightenment through conjunction with the Lord for those who come into Heaven.

944. 'Behold, I come quickly, blessed is he who keepeth the words of this prophecy' (Rev.xxii.7)=that the Lord will certainly come, and will give eternal life to those who keep and do the truths or injunctions of the doctrine of this Book now opened by the Lord.

951. 'Blessed are they who do His commandments in order to have Power in the tree of life and to enter through the gates into the city' (ver.14)=that there is eternal life for those who live according to the Lord's injunctions for the sake of the end that they may be in the Lord and the Lord in them through love, and in His New Church through Knowledges about Him.

M. 16³. The delights of the soul are in themselves imperceptible blessednesses, but become more and more perceptible as they descend into the thoughts of the mind, and from these into the sensations of the body. In the thoughts of the mind they are perceived as joyousnesses, in the sensations of the body as delights, and in the body itself as pleasures. Eternal happiness consists of the latter and the former all together . . .

51^e. When marriage love becomes of the spirit it becomes more interior and pure, and thus more perceptible, and all delight increases according to the perception. It increases so far that the blessedness of it is observed in the delight of it.

68². It follows that all the blessednesses, joyousnesses, delights, pleasantnesses, and pleasures which could ever be conferred upon a man by the Lord Creator are collected together into this His love. (That is, into marriage love.) 180. 335^e.

69. The inmost deliciousnesses of (marriage love), which are of the soul . . . are imperceptible and therefore ineffable, because they are at the same time of peace and innocence. But in their descent they become more and more perceptible; in the higher parts of the mind as blessednesses, in the lower parts of the mind as joyousnesses, in the breast as delights derived from these, and from the breast they diffuse themselves into each and all things of the body . . .

155a⁵. (The husbands said), We have a general blessedness, a general delight, and a general pleasantness from the particular ones of our wives; and this general . . . is like the serenity of peace.

180. The states of (marriage) love are innocence, peace, etc. . . and from all these blessedness, joyousness, delight, pleasure; and heavenly happiness from the eternal enjoyment of these.

266³. This love (of uses) receives its blessedness from communication with others by means of uses . . . and so far as we keep back the uses in ourselves, and do not communicate them, the blessedness perishes.

335. The celestial blessednesses, spiritual joyousnesses, and natural delights provided from the beginning for those who are in true marriage love, can only exist together with one wife. Gen.art.

—, As the pleasantnesses of this love are the most eminent in the highest (of the three regions of the mind), these are perceived as blessednesses; and as in the middle region they are less eminent, these are perceived as joyousnesses; and at last in the lowest region as delights.

—². The reason all these happinesses have been provided from the beginning for those who are in true marriage love, is that the infinity of all blessednesses is in the Lord, and He is Divine Love, and it is the essence of love to will to communicate all its goods to another whom it loves . . .

371. From this love is the blessedness of their souls, the joyousness of their minds, the delight of their bosoms, and the pleasure of their bodies . . .

461^e. This influx (from the Lord) is the activity itself from which is all delight which in its origin is called blessed, joyous, and happy, and in its derivation delightful, pleasant, and pleasurable; and in the universal sense GOOD.

T. 13². Divine love cannot direct itself to any end except the eternal blessedness of men from its own Divine, and His Divine wisdom cannot produce anything but uses which are means to that end.

43. The essence of love is . . . to bless others from itself. Gen.art.

—⁴. The third essential of God's love, which is to bless them from itself, is recognized from eternal life, which is blessedness, joyousness, and happiness without end, and which God gives to those who receive His love into themselves; for as God is love itself, He is also blessedness itself, for all love breathes forth delight, and the Divine love breathes forth blessedness, joyousness, and happiness themselves to eternity. Thus God blesses the Angels, and after death men, from Himself, which is effected through conjunction with them.

46³. That the third thing, which is to bless them from Himself, is the cause (of the creation of the universe) is evident from the angelic Heaven, which is provided for every man who receives the love of God, and where the blessedness of all is from God alone.

588. See PROSPEROUS at this ref.

E. 12. 'Blessed' (Rev.i.3)=those in whom is Heaven. 'Blessed'=him who is happy to eternity, thus in whom is Heaven. The bliss which is not eternal is indeed called bliss, but relatively it is not so, for it passes away . . .

168. 'I will give to each one of you according to your works' (Rev.ii.24)=eternal blessedness according to the internal of it in the external. Ex.

484. 'God shall wipe away every tear from their eyes' (Rev.vii.17)=a state of blessedness from the affection of truth after falsities have been removed by means of temptations . . . for the Angels have all their blessedness through truths from good, or through the spiritual affection of truth. Ex.

684¹³. 'Blessed are all they that trust in Him' (Ps.ii.12)=salvation through love and faith in the Lord. 850².

Bless. Benedicere.

Blessing. Benedictio.

A. 43. 'God blessed them' (Gen.i.22) . . . The Lord's

'blessing' in the Word = fructification and multiplication, because these come from it. 55. 273.

[A.] 358. The benediction referred to (Num.vi.26). 2009.

981. 'God blessed' (Gen.ix.1)=the Lord's presence and grace. In the outward sense of the Word, 'to bless'=to enrich with every earthly and bodily good . . . wherefore all who remain in the outward sense make the Divine blessing to consist in riches, in abundance of all things, and in self glory. But in the inward sense 'to bless'=to be enriched with all spiritual and celestial good, and as this blessing can only be given by the Lord, 'to bless'=the Lord's presence and grace. Ex.

1096. 'Blessed be Jehovah the God of Shem' (Gen. ix.26)=all good for those who worship the Lord from inward things. . . 'Blessing' involves all the celestial and spiritual good and also the natural which are signified by 'blessing' in the inward sense. But in the outward sense 'blessing'=all worldly, bodily, and earthly good. For these, however, to be a blessing they must be from inward blessing, for this only is blessing, because it is eternal, and is conjoined with all happiness, and is the very being of blessings . . .

— It was customary with the ancients to say 'Blessed be Jehovah,' by which they understood that all blessing is from Him, that is, all good. It was also a formula of thanksgiving. Ill. 1422², Ill. 3119.

1418. 'I will bless thee' (Gen.xii.2)=the fructification of celestial, and the multiplication of spiritual things.

1420. 'And thou shalt be a blessing' (Id.)=that each and all things are from the Lord. . . 'Blessing' is predicated of all good things; in the outward sense, of bodily, worldly, and natural goods; in the inward sense, of spiritual and celestial goods. 'To be a blessing' = Him from Whom all things come, and Who gives all these good things.

1422. 'I will bless them that bless thee' (ver.3)=all happiness for those who acknowledge the Lord from the heart. 'Blessing' involves each and all things which are from the Lord, both good and true; thus celestial, spiritual, natural, worldly, and bodily things; and as in a universal sense 'blessing' embraces all these things, it may be evident from the connexion what 'to bless' signifies in each place, for it adapts itself to the things of which it is predicated.

—² It is here evident what 'to bless the Lord' signifies, namely, to sing to Him, to evangelize His salvation, to preach His wisdom and power, thus to confess and acknowledge the Lord from the heart. They who do this cannot but be blessed by the Lord, that is, be endowed with those things which belong to blessing, namely, with celestial, spiritual, natural, worldly, and bodily good . . .

1424. 'In thee shall all the families of the soil be blessed' (Id.)=that all goods and truths are from the Lord.

1731. 'He blessed him' (Gen.xiv.19)=the enjoyment of celestial and spiritual things. 'To bless'=to enjoy all good things.

— The things contained in this verse announce the conjunction of the Lord's human essence with His Divine one; 'blessing' itself involves this.

2065. 'I will bless him' (Gen.xvii.16)=the multiplication of truth. 'To be blessed'=to be enriched with everything good and true. 2067.

2067. 'I will bless him' (Id.)=the multiplication of the Rational.

2088. 'I will bless him' (ver.20) . . . 'To be blessed' = to be endowed with all good things.

2228. 'In him shall all the nations of the earth be blessed' (Gen.xviii.18)=that all who are in charity will be saved by Him. 'To be blessed'=to be endowed with all good things which are from a heavenly origin.

2445. See RAIN at these refs. 7553.

2846. 'In blessing I will bless thee' (Gen.xxii.17)=fruitfulness from the affection of truth. 'To be blessed' = to be enriched with celestial and spiritual good; here, to be made fruitful from the good of faith, or what is the same, from the affection of truth, because spiritual things are being treated of.

— The Lord Himself could not be blessed, because He is blessing itself; but it is said that He is 'blessed' when, in accordance with His love, they who are saved abound.

2853. 'In thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed' (ver.18)=the salvation of all who are in good. 'To be blessed'=to be enriched with celestial and spiritual good, and as these are they who are saved, 'to be blessed,' here=to be saved. That 'to be blessed' is an expression of wide signification is known. 3406. 4980.

3017. 'Jehovah blessed Abraham in all things' (Gen. xxiv.1)=when all things were arranged in Divine order by the Lord. . . 'To bless,' when said of the Lord's Human, has this signification. Ex.

3140. 'The blessed of Jehovah' (ver.31)=what is Divine.

3185. 'To bless,' in bidding farewell (ver.60), was a devout wish for prosperity.

3260. 'God blessed Isaac' (Gen.xxv.11)=the beginning of the representation by Isaac. It was customary for the ancients to say to any work that was being begun, 'May God bless,' and thereby was signified the same as by this votive expression, Be joyous and happy. Hence it is that in a more remote sense 'May God bless' . . . signifies a beginning.

3371. 'I will bless thee' (Gen.xxvi.3)=increase. 'To bless'=to make fruitful in goods and multiply in truths, thus increase. 3440.

3380. 'In thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed' (ver.4)=all who are in good both within and without the Church. 'To be blessed'=to be made fruitful in good and to be multiplied in truths. 3578.

3504. 'That my soul may bless thee' (Gen.xxvii.4)=adjunction to his own life, thus life corresponding to the Rational. 'To be blessed'=to be endowed with celestial and spiritual good. 3986.

3514. 'I will bless thee before Jehovah' (ver.7)=thus conjunction. 'I will bless thee'=adjunction to his own life; here, as it is said, 'I will bless thee before Jehovah' it=conjunction. Ex. 3522. 3530. 3553. 3565. 3569.

3576. 3586. 3591. 3596. 3597. 3605. 3660. 3667. 3670. 3679. 3682. 3709. 4284. 4297.

3576. All blessing which is pronounced by the mouth goes forth from what is within, having life in it from the will and thought of him who blesses . . .

3584. 'Blessed are they that bless thee' (ver.29)=that he who conjoins himself shall be conjoined.

3880⁵. 'Confession' (Ps.c.4)=from the love of good ; but 'praise' and 'to bless'=from the love of truth.

4216. '(Laban) blessed them' (Gen.xxxi.55)=joy thence derived. 'To bless'=to wish prosperity, thus to testify joy as he is going away.

4290. 'To be blessed' (Gen.xxxii.26), in the inward historical sense=to be the representative of a Church.

4370. 'Blessing' here (Gen.xxxiii.11)=the things which are mentioned in the preceding chapter (vers.14, 15) which signify Divine goods and truths . . .

4567. '(God) blessed (Jacob)' (Gen.xxxv.9)=advancement to the interior things of the Natural, and the conjunction of good and truth there; for 'to bless' is predicated of every good with which anyone is endowed by the Divine, especially concerning the conjunction of good and truth. Refs.

4981. 'The blessing of Jehovah' (Gen.xxxix.5)=increase. . . In the genuine sense, 'the blessing of Jehovah'=love to the Lord and charity towards the neighbour, for they who are thus endowed are called 'the blessed of Jehovah,' for they are then endowed with Heaven and eternal salvation. Hence in the outward sense, or relatively to man's state in the world, 'the blessing of Jehovah' is to be content in God, and thus with the state of honours and wealth in which one is . . .

—². As 'the blessing of Jehovah,' or of the Lord, involves these things, 'blessing' contains innumerable things in it. Enum.

—'. 'The blessing of Jehovah,' here=increase in good and truth, or in life and doctrine.

5694⁴. 'To water the mountains' (Ps.civ.13)=to bless those who are in love to the Lord.

6091. 'Jacob blessed Pharaoh' (Gen.xlvii.7)=a devout wish for conjunction and thence fructification. . . 'To bless' signifies many things. It involves all things which are good and prosperous in the spiritual sense. Enum. 6254.

6230. '(God Shaddai) blessed me' (Gen.xlviii.3)=a prediction concerning vivification. Ex.

6254. 'To bless'=a prediction. 6275.

6265⁹. (A ritual of blessing.) 6292.

6282. 'To bless' (ver.16)=to endow with truth and good.

6298. 'To bless' (ver.20)=prediction ; in the supreme sense, the Lord's foresight, and thus also Providence . . .

6430. '(Shaddai) bless thee with blessings of heaven above' (Gen.xlix.25)=with good and truth from within. 'Blessings' is the multiplication of truth and the fructification of good, for in the spiritual sense, 'blessing' is nothing else. 6431. 6432.

6431. 'To be blessed with blessings'=to be endowed with such things as come from the Spiritual World.

6448. 'He blessed them, each one according to his blessing did he bless them' (ver.28)=predictions concerning the spiritual life as to what would befall each one in such a state.

6687. 'To do good to' (Exod.i.20), when said of God =to bless.

7963. 'To bless' (Exod.xii.32)=to intercede.

8674. 'Blessed be Jehovah' (Exod.xviii.10)=that from the Lord is everything good . . . for with man 'blessing' involves all the good of eternal life, that is, the good of love to the Lord and towards the neighbour. 8676.

8717³. Not considering that the Divine blessing consists in being happy to eternity . . .

8894. 'Jehovah blessed the seventh day'=that then comes the heavenly marriage from the Lord. 'To bless'=to arrange in heavenly order, and to endow with the good of love.

8939. 'I will come to thee and will bless thee' (Exod.xx.24)=the presence of the Divine and influx. . . 'To bless,' when said by Jehovah=to endow with faith and charity, thus also to flow in, for faith and charity inflow with man from the Lord. These are 'blessing' in the inward sense, for they are what render a man blessed and happy in Heaven. While a man lives in the world those things are called 'a blessing' which render him blessed and happy in time . . .

—'. Hence it is evident that 'blessing,' in the spiritual sense, is that which has in it being from the Divine, thus the things of eternal life . . .

—². That worldly blessing is nothing relatively to the heavenly blessing which is eternal, III.

9184³. When a man is in such an order of life, gains and honours are blessings to him ; but if he is in the inverted order they are curses. That all things are blessings when a man is in the order of Heaven, III.

9323. '(Jehovah) shall bless thy bread and thy waters' (Exod.xxiii.25)=increase of the good of love and truth of faith. 'To be blessed by Jehovah'=to be made fruitful in goods and to be multiplied in truths, thus increase in such things as are of love and faith. Refs.

10076⁸. 'To be blessed' (Exod.xxxii.29)=to be endowed with the good of love and of faith, thus to receive the Divine which proceeds from the Lord. Refs.

10083. To be 'waved' by the priest=to be vivified for the reception of a blessing ; for every blessing must have life from the Divine in it in order to be a blessing.

10409³. Good things, prosperity, and happiness, provided for man by the Divine, are eternal . . . thus are true blessings . . .

10495. 'To give a blessing upon you this day' (Exod.xxxii.29)=the reception of Divine truth from the Word, and through it conjunction with the Lord. 'Blessing,' in general=that which is given to man by the Lord ; and as all this has relation to the good of love and truth of faith, these things and all that is thence derived are signified by 'blessing' . . .

10776. He who rightly considers the matter may know that high position and wealth in the world are not real Divine blessings . . . for they pass away, and also lead many astray and turn them away from Heaven; but that life in Heaven and happiness there are real blessings which are from the Divine. Ill. N.270.

H. 364 (h). Dignities and wealth are not real blessings, therefore they are conferred on both the evil and the good. Refs.

N. 276. (Such) call wealth and high position blessings from the Divine, when yet they are not regarded by the Lord as blessings, but only as means for the life of man in the world. Refs.

P. 216. As the natural man calls honours and wealth Divine blessings . . . 250.

217. Honours and wealth are blessings, and they are curses. Gen.art.

— Hence it is evident that dignities and riches with those who are in Heaven had been blessings in the world . . .

—². They are blessings with those who do not set the heart on them . . .

—⁴. When dignities and wealth are blessings they are spiritual and eternal . . . Gen.art.

—⁷. The dignities and wealth which are curses relatively to those which are blessings are as nothing to everything, and as that which in itself is not to that which in itself is. Gen.art.

R. 289. 'And blessing' (Rev.v.12)=all these things in Him and from Him in them. By 'blessing' is meant all the good which a man has from the Lord, as power and wealth, and all that belongs to them; but especially all spiritual good, as love and wisdom, charity and faith, and thence joy and happiness; and as all these things are from the Lord, it follows that they are in Him . . . Hence it is that the Lord is called 'the blessed' and also 'blessing,' that is, blessing itself. Ill. 291.

—². 'To bless God,' in the Word=to ascribe every blessing to Him, also to pray that He will bless, and to render thanks that He has blessed. Ill.

357. 'To bless in the name of Jehovah' (Deut.xxi.5) =to teach.

M. 20³. They cried, May there be a blessing . . .

— An aromatic smoke filled the antechamber, which was a sign of blessing from Heaven.

308. As the ecclesiastical order ministers those things which . . . are of blessing . . .

E. 328¹⁵. 'Daily shall He bless him' (Ps.lxxii.15) =that he will be continually in the good of charity and of faith; for this is the Divine blessing. 328¹⁸.

340. 'And blessing' (Rev.v.12)=the acknowledgment and glorification of the Lord on that account, and thanksgiving that everything good and true are from Him, and thus Heaven and eternal happiness for those who will receive them. 'Blessing,' when said about the Lord=acknowledgment . . . Ill. 344.

—⁶. 'To bless' (Deut.x.8; xxi.5) = worship from spiritual truths.

—⁹. They who receive Divine good and truth from the Lord are called 'blessed,' Ill. and Ex.

—¹². 'Blessing,' here, means spiritual blessing. Ill.

—²³. The Lord's blessing the bread, wine, etc. =communication of His Divine, and thus conjunction with them through the goods and truths signified by 'the bread,' etc.

—²⁴. 'To bless himself' (Is.lxv.16) = to instruct himself in Divine truths and apply them to life.

—^e. 'To bless,' in the opposite sense=to love evil and falsity, and to imbue them.

465. 'Blessing' (Rev.vii.12)=the reception of Divine truth and thence fructification, whence come happiness and ter nal life.

— The reception of Divine truth in the First Heaven is called 'blessing.'

—^e. It was customary with the ancients to say 'Blessed be God' . . . by which they did not mean a blessing for Him . . . for He is the Source of every blessing . . . but they meant that these are from Him with all.

507⁶. 'Blessing' (Is.xliv.3)=the multiplication and fructification of Divine truth. 518⁷.

644²³. 'Bless them that curse you' . . . 'To bless'= instruction.

654¹⁰. 'Whom Jehovah shall bless' (Is.xix.25)=influx from the Lord.

700³¹. Obed Edom was blessed on account of the ark, because blessing from the goods of the world signifies blessing from the goods of Heaven.

Blind. Cæcus.

Blindness. Cæcitas.

Blind, To be. Cæcutere.

A. 994⁴. They who have been blind in the life of the body, in the other life see equally as well as those who have been lynx-eyed.

2196¹³. The Rational is blind even in natural things . . .

2383. 'They struck [the Sodomites] with blindnesses' (Gen.xix.11)=that they were filled up with falsities. 'Blindness' is predicated in the Word of those who are in falsity, and also of those who are in ignorance of truth. Both are called 'blind,' but which are meant can be seen from the connexion . . . Ill.

— 'Blind watchmen' (Is.lvi.10)=those who from reasoning are in falsity.

—². 'The horse of the peoples shall be smitten with blindness' (Zech.xii.4)=filled up with falsities.

—³. 'For judgment am I come into the world, that those who see not may see, but that those who see may become blind. Some of the Pharisees . . . said, Are we blind too? Jesus said, If ye were blind ye would not have sin; but now ye say, We see, therefore your sin remaineth' (John ix.39-41). Here 'the blind' are mentioned in both senses . . . With those who are within the Church and know what is the truth, 'blindness' =falsity; but with those who do not know what is the truth, as those outside the Church, 'blindness' = ignorance of truth. These are blameless.

—⁵. As 'blind'=what is false . . . they were for-bidden to sacrifice anything blind . . . And also that a blind priest should offer . . .

—⁶. 'The eyes of the blind shall see' (Is.xxix.9,18)=those who are in ignorance of truth.

—⁷. 'The blind,' etc. 'being called' . . . treats of a New Church from the gentiles.

2417⁸. ('The blind'=a class of the good.)

3863¹³. 'Those who see' (John ix.39)=those who consider themselves more intelligent than everybody else, of whom it is said that 'they shall become blind,' that is, they will not receive faith.

4302⁷. 'Blind' in a good sense=those who are in ignorance of truth, and in the opposite sense, those who are in falsities.

4531^e. As light corresponds to truth, so darkness corresponds to falsity; and hence they who are in falsities are said to be in 'blindness.'

4720². The 'blindnesses' with which those who were sent by the King of Syria were smitten (2 Kings vi.18)=the falsities themselves.

4844¹. To teach truth without good is to walk blind.

—⁵. Some of those who are instructed in truths and led to good by the Lord are called 'the blind.'

5037. 'To open the blind eyes' (Is.xlii.7)=(to instruct) those who are in ignorance of good and truth, and who still long to know and imbue them. E.153¹³.

6692². Believes that all things are of blind flow . . .

6690. 'The blind' (Exod.iv.11)=no faith, from no Knowledges.

7337. See MIRACLE at this ref.

8797². (They who ascend from a lower to a higher Heaven) are struck with blindness . . .

9042². 'The blind' (Jer.xxxi.8)=those who are in ignorance of truth, and yet receive it when instructed. 9209⁴.

9086². 'The blind leading the blind' (Matt.xv.14)=those who are in what is erroneous.

9960⁷. 'Blind,' etc. (Rev.iii.17)=destitute of truths implanted in the life, thus of good.

10707². Their blindness in spiritual things (is from their applying all things of the Word to themselves).

H. 487 (s). 'The blind'=those who are in falsities, and do not want to be instructed. Refs.

S. 17³. The miracle of the blind receiving sight signified that those received intelligence who had been in ignorance of truth.

F. 46. Blind faith . . . R.914³. T.345³.

P. 254³. 'If ye were blind'=if ye did not know . . .

R. 210. 'Blind and naked' (Rev.iii.17)=that they are without truths and goods. 'The blind' in the Word mean those who are without truths, either from the want of them in the Church, and thus from ignorance, or from not understanding them. Ill. E.239.

839^e. We struck them with blindness . . .

M. 96. Like a blind man led by a dog . . . 134⁴.

T. 90^e. Like a blind man in a wood . . .

339². Faith in an invisible God is actually blind . . .

E. 239⁷. That those who are not in the understanding of truth will then understand, is signified by 'the opening of the eyes of the blind' (Is.xxxv.5). Ill.

—¹⁹. 'Blind from his birth' (John ix.1)=those who are born outside the Church, and thus could not know anything about the Lord, or be instructed from the Word.

—²⁰. 'The blind' whom the Lord healed signified the spiritually blind, who are they who do not know and understand truths. Ill.

—²¹. Moreover all the blind whom the Lord healed =those who are in ignorance and receive Him, and are enlightened by Him through the Word.

—²². As 'the blind'=those who are not in Knowledges of truth and thence not in any understanding of truth (no blind priest was allowed to offer . . . and nothing blind was allowed to be offered).

409². The Lord is called 'blind and deaf' (Is.xlii.19) because He as it were does not see and perceive man's sins . . .

475¹⁷. 'The blind man' (John ix) here represented those who cannot see anything of truth because they are sensuous . . .

652¹⁰. 'The blind' (Lam.iv.14)=those who do not see truths. 721¹⁰. 781¹².

653¹¹. The blindnesses with which (the men of Sodom) were smitten, so that they did not find the door=the plenary rejection and denial of what is Divine and of the holy things of Heaven and the Church, so that they could not see and acknowledge anything of the Church.

Blind, To make. Occacare.

Blindness. Occacatio.

A. 195. Blindness thence is signified by 'the people of the north' (Jer.xlvi.24).

196. By means of scientifics unknown to the ancients they blind themselves much more.

241. When worldly matters are the chief thing they reason from them about heavenly things and blind themselves.

2045. (Selflove and the falsities it suggests) blind them to such a degree . . .

2588⁹. They who have blinded themselves by believing nothing but what they apprehend by the senses . . .

8760^e. (That light untempered) would blind all in Heaven.

8993². (Worldly and bodily ends) blind men completely.

9366. 'Because a gift blinds those who have their eyes open' (Ex.xxiii.8)=that gains cause truths not to appear.

9382². Such are more blinded than enlightened when they read the Word . . .

9400². Without this light and heat the internal of man would be blinded and chilled . . .

10156². If they want to enter into them by means of natural lumen there meets them a kind of thick darkness which blinds them . . .

S. 60. Nothing blinds man but his proprium and the confirmation of falsity.

P. 144. No one can be reformed in a state of blindness of the understanding. Gen.art.

E. 152¹⁰. 'To blind the eyes of the wise' (Deut.xvi.19) =that they should not see or understand truth.

Bliss. See BLESS=beare.

Block up. Obstipare.

Obstruction. Obstipatio.

A. 4054². Such Spirits are obstructions of the brain . . .

8334. Blocking up by falsities of evil is casting into Hell. (Refers to 8210, where the word used is constipatio.)

Life 86⁴. So long as a man does not shun evils as sins, the concupiscences of evils block up the interiors of the natural man on the side of the will, which are there like a dense veil and black cloud under the spiritual mind, preventing it from being opened.

—⁵. So long as the concupiscences of evils block up the interiors of the natural mind, the man is in Hell. . . So long as they block them up the man is natural. . . So long as they block them up the man is animal. . . So long as they block them up the man is like a garden in winter time.

W. 263². The reaction of the natural mind then removes the things of the spiritual mind, and blocks up the doors to prevent them from entering . . .

407^e. As soon as the obstructions of the lungs are removed . . .

P. 33². Concupiscences with their delights block up and shut the doors against the Lord . . .

75³. They have blocked up these faculties . . .

111. The Internal cannot be purified from the concupiscences of evil so long as the evils in the outward man are not removed, because they obstruct. Gen.art.

119. Unless evils are removed there is no opening, for they block it up and shut the door . . .

T. 9. They have blocked up the interiors of their reason or understanding with worldly and bodily things.

Blood. Sanguis.

Bloody. Sanguineus.

See ANIMAL SPIRIT, and FLESH.

A. 330. Charity extinguished is called 'the voice of bloods' (Gen.iv.10).

373. 'The voice of a brother's bloods'=violence done to charity. 374.

—'. 'The bloods crying'=guilt.

374. 'Blood' (in the Word)=all sin, especially hatred, for he who hates his brother kills him in his heart. Ill.

—². As hatred is 'blood,' all iniquity is 'blood,' for hatred is the spring of all iniquities. Ill.

—^e. 'Bloods' are mentioned in the plural because all iniquities and abominable things gush forth from hatred . . .

954. They who have been bloodthirsty are delighted to torture Spirits . . . even to blood, at the sight of which, for such is their phantasy that they as it were see blood, they are intensely delighted. D.377. 1274. 1289. 2974.

1001. 'Blood'=charity . . . thus the new Voluntary . . . which is the same as charity . . . This new will which is charity is here 'blood' . . . As this will is of the Lord (alone), it is never to be commingled with the things of man's will . . . and therefore it was commanded . . . that they should not eat flesh in its soul or blood, that is, that they should not commingle them.

—'. As 'blood'=charity, it=what is holy, and as 'flesh'=man's Voluntary, it=what is profane, and as these are separated, because contrary, they were forbidden to eat blood, for by the eating of flesh with blood was represented profanation, or the commingling of holy and profane things. 1001⁴. 1003. 10033⁵. 10040. P.231^e. E.329¹².

—². Relatively to a regenerate spiritual man, 'blood'=charity, or love towards the neighbour; relatively to a regenerate celestial man it signifies love to the Lord; and relatively to the Lord it signifies all His human essence, thus His love, that is, His mercy towards the human race. Hence in general as 'blood'=love and the things of love, it=celestial things which are of the Lord alone . . .

—³. That 'blood'=celestial things, and that in the supreme sense it signified the Lord's human essence, thus His love, or His mercy towards the human race, may be evident from the holiness that by Divine command was attached to blood in the representative Jewish Church. On this account blood was called 'the blood of the covenant,' and was sprinkled upon the people, also upon Aaron and his sons together with the oil of anointing and the blood of every burnt-offering and sacrifice upon the altar and round the altar. Ill.

—⁴. 'Ye shall not eat any fat or any blood' (Lev. iii.17). 'Fat'=celestial life, and 'blood,' here,=the Celestial Spiritual. The Celestial Spiritual is the Spiritual which is from the Celestial. Ex.

—'. Everyone of the house of Israel, or of the sojourner sojourning in the midst of them, who shall eat any blood, I will even set My faces against the soul that eateth blood, and I will cut off that soul from the midst of his people, because the soul of the flesh is in that blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar, to expiate upon your souls, for the blood itself will expiate for the soul. The soul of all flesh is its very blood, everyone that eateth it shall be cut off' (Lev. xvii.10-14). It is here openly said that the soul of the flesh is in the blood, and that the soul of the flesh is the blood, or the Celestial, that is, the Holy which is of the Lord.

—⁵. 'Be strong not to eat blood, because the blood is the very soul, and thou shalt not eat the soul with the flesh' (Deut.xii.23). Here also it is evident that the blood is called the soul, that is, celestial life, or the Celestial which was represented by the burnt-offerings and sacrifices . . .

—⁶. The reason the blood is called 'the soul' and signifies the Holy of charity, and that the Holy of love was represented . . . by the blood, is from the fact that the life of the body consists in the blood; and as the life of the body consists in the blood, it is its ultimate soul. Thus the blood may be called the corporeal soul, or that in which the corporeal life resides. Therefore . . . the celestial life or soul was represented by 'blood.'

1005. 'To require your blood with your souls' (Gen. ix.5)=that violence done to charity will punish itself. 'Blood'=violence. . . In the genuine sense, 'blood'=what is celestial, and relatively to the regenerate spiritual man, charity, which is his Celestial. But in the contrary sense, 'blood'=violence done to charity, thus what is contrary to charity, therefore all hatred, all cruelty, especially profanation. 4581^e.

1010. 'To shed man's blood in man' (ver.6)=to extinguish charity. . . 'Blood'=the Holy of charity, and from its being called 'man's blood in man,' that is, his inward life, which is not in him, but with him, for the Lord's life is charity, which is not in a man . . . but with him.

— In the sense of the letter, 'to shed blood' is to kill, but in the inward sense, it is to have hatred against the neighbour. Ill.

—³. That profanation is 'blood,' further Ill.

1011. 'His blood shall be shed' (Id.)=his condemnation.

1071³. 'The blood of grapes' (Gen.xlix.11)=the Celestial relatively to spiritual Churches.

1167². 'To shed the blood of sons and daughters' (Ps.cvi.38)=to extinguish all truths of faith and goods of charity.

1877^e. (Spirits who reject the inward sense of the Word) are compared to bad and injurious things which flow into the blood and pass through the veins and arteries and befoul the whole mass of the blood. 5719. See below, D.1335.

2760². 'Clothed with a vesture dipped in blood' (Rev.xix.13)=the Word in the letter.

3147⁵. 'To wash off bloods' (Ezek.xiv.9)=to purify from evils.

3300². Love is also compared to blood (as well as to fire) . . . because both are red.

— 'Wine' and 'the blood of grapes' (Gen.xlix)=the Divine Good and the Divine Truth of the Natural.

—⁵. (Hence also in the opposite sense, the cupidities of selflove) . . . are compared to 'blood.'

3325¹². There being 'no plague from the destroyer where there was blood upon the houses' (Exod.xii.12), in the supreme sense=where the Lord is as to Divine spiritual love; in the relative sense, where there is spiritual love, that is, charity towards the neighbour. 3519⁵.

3400. 'To shed blood' (Ezek.xxii.4)=violence done to good, thus guilt. Refs. 6353⁵.

3464². To 'the blood' and 'the wine' (in the Holy Supper) corresponds charity towards the neighbour.

3470^e. Genuine good is like blood in the vessels, or like juice in the fibres, and leads and applies truths into a form.

3527². Interior rational things as to good are signified by the blood and its redness (as seen in the face).

3570⁵. The choice good things (of the food) are introduced into the blood and become blood, and from it the soul conjoins to itself such things as are of use. (The correspondence of this.)

3735³. 'The Lord's blood (in the Holy Supper)=His Divine Love, and the Reciprocal with man, but such as the love is with the spiritual Angels.

3812⁵. 'A pot' (Ezek.xxiv.3)=violence done to good and truth; hence it is called 'the city of bloods.'

3813⁸. As the falsity which results from man's intellectual proprium . . . is 'blood,' and the evil from his voluntary proprium is 'flesh,' the Lord said concerning a regenerating man . . . 'born, not of bloods, nor of the will of the flesh' . . . (John i).

4735. 'Shed not blood' (Gen.xxxvii.22)=do no violence to what is holy.

— See FLESH at these refs. 9127². R.379.

— 'The blood' (in the Holy Supper)=Divine truth of Divine good.

—⁴. As in the celestial sense, 'blood'=the Divine Spiritual, or Divine truth proceeding from the Lord's Divine Human, it signifies what is holy, for the Divine truth proceeding from the Lord's Divine Human is holiness itself. Ill.

—⁷. 'The blood of the covenant' (Zech.ix.11)=the Divine truth proceeding from His Divine Human, and is the Holy itself which went forth from Him after He was glorified . . .

—⁸. 'Precious shall their blood be' (Ps.lxxii.14)=the Holy which they would receive.

—⁹. 'The blood of the Lamb' (Rev.xii.11) is the same thing as the Divine truth, or the Holy proceeding from His Divine Human; thus the same as 'the blood of the covenant.'

—¹⁰. 'The book of the covenant' (Exod.xxiv.7)=the Divine truth which they had then, which was confirmed by 'blood' as a testification that that is from His Divine Human.

—¹¹. In the rituals of the Jewish Church nothing is signified by 'blood' but the Holy proceeding from the Lord's Divine Human; wherefore when they were sanctified it was effected by means of blood. Ill.

—¹². As in the genuine sense, 'blood'=what is holy, in the opposite sense, 'blood' and 'bloods'=violence done to it, and this because the shedding of innocent blood signified to do violence to what is holy. Therefore wicked things of life and profane things of worship were called 'blood.' Ill.

—¹⁴. Falsified and profaned truth is signified by these passages concerning 'blood.' Ill. 4779⁷.

4751. 'To cover up the blood' (of Joseph, Gen.xxxvii.26)=to utterly conceal holy truth.

4770. 'They dipped the coat in blood' (ver.31)=that they defiled with falsities from evils . . . For in the opposite sense, 'blood'=truth falsified, because it was the blood of a he-goat, by which are signified external goods and delights . . .

4818⁴. They who are said to be 'in bloods,' Des.

49922^e. 'Blood' from its redness=spiritual good or charity, and in the opposite sense, violence done to charity.

[A.] 5117⁸. 'The blood of grapes' (Gen.xlix)=celestial good thence.

—⁹. 'The blood of the grape' (Deut.xxxii.14)=spiritual celestial good; so is called the Divine in Heaven proceeding from the Lord; wine is called 'the blood of grapes,' because both signify the holy truth proceeding from the Lord; but 'wine' is predicated of the spiritual Church, and 'blood' of the celestial Church...

5120⁵. 'Wine' is predicated of the spiritual Church, and 'blood' of the celestial Church, although both signify the holy truth proceeding from the Lord; but in the spiritual Church the Holy of faith from charity towards the neighbour, and in the celestial Church the Holy of charity from love to the Lord...

5147⁶. 'My blood is drink indeed'... 'Blood'=Divine truth. 7850³.

5173. The purifications of the blood, also of the serum or lymph, and of the chyle, represent these agitations; and the subsequent introductions of these fluids to uses represent these inaugurations into gyres... 5174, Ex. 5182. D.1021. 1033.

5174. (Juices at once imbibed into the blood.) 5175.

5183. See LIVER at this ref.

5476. 'Lo, his blood is required' (Gen.xlii.22)=the stings of conscience. 'Blood'=violence done to good, or to charity. 6385⁴.

5726. Hence comes the first and inmost vitiation of the blood, which, if it increases, causes disease...

5826⁴. They who 'are born of bloods'=those who do violence to charity, and also those who profane truth. 9454.

5928. See BLOOD-VESSEL at this ref.

6353⁶. 'The judgment of bloods' (Ezek.vii.23)=the destruction of faith; 'violence'=that of charity.

6378. 'His clothing in the blood of grapes' (Gen.xlix)=that his intellectual is Divine good from His Divine love. 'The blood of grapes'=the good of love, and in the supreme sense, the Lord's Divine good from His Divine love.

—². That 'the blood of grapes'=Divine good from the Lord's Divine love, is evident from the signification of 'blood,' which is Divine truth from the Lord's Divine good. (See GRAPE.)

6804^e. 'Blood' was 'a covenant,' or the sign of a covenant, because it signified conjunction through spiritual love, that is, through charity towards the neighbour. Therefore, when the Lord instituted the Holy Supper, He called His blood 'the blood of the new covenant' (Matt.xxvi.28).

6978. '(The water) shall be for blood on the dry land' (Exod.iv.9)=the falsification of all truth, and thence its loss in the Natural. 'Blood'=the holy truth proceeding from the Lord, and in the opposite sense, truth falsified and profaned.

— That 'blood'=the falsification of truth and its profanation, III.

7047. 'Thou art a bridegroom of bloods to me' (ver.25)

=full of all violence and hostility to truth and good... 'Blood'=violence done to charity, and also truth falsified and profaned, thus hostility to truth and good.

7102⁹. 'Blood' (Ezek.xxviii.23)=truth falsified.

7265. The second degree of vastation, which is that truths themselves with them would become falsities, and falsities truths, is described by 'the blood' into which the waters were turned. 7295^e.

7297². 'The city of bloods' (Nahum iii.1)=the falsification of truth.

7317. '(The waters) shall be turned into blood' (Exod.vii.17)=that they will falsify truths. 'Blood'=truth falsified. For in the genuine sense, 'blood'=truth proceeding from the Lord, thus the Holy of faith. This is signified by 'the blood' in the Holy Supper. But in the opposite sense, 'blood'=violence done to Divine truth, which being effected by means of falsifications, 'blood'=the falsification of truth. 7326.

7326. In the genuine sense, 'blood'=the Holy of love, thus charity and faith, for these are the Holy of love. Thus 'blood'=holy truth proceeding from the Lord. But in the opposite sense, 'blood'=violence done to charity, and also done to faith, thus to the holy truth proceeding from the Lord. And as violence is done when it is falsified, 'blood'=the falsification of truth; and in a greater degree, 'blood'=the profanation of truth. These things were signified by the eating of blood, wherefore it was so severely prohibited.

7327. 'There shall be blood in all the land of Egypt' (ver.19)=total falsification. 7332.

7392². 'The plague of blood'=infestation by means of falsities from fallacies and appearances.

7553⁶. 'Fire mingled with blood' (Rev.viii.7)=the evil of cupidities with falsified truths.

7846. 'They shall take of the blood' (Exod.xii.7)=the holy truth which is of the good of innocence (because it is the blood of a lamb.) 7922. 7997^e.

7877. 'I shall see the blood' (ver.13)=the perception of that truth by those who inflict damnation. Ex.

8316. (Effect of terror on the blood.)

8902¹⁴. 'The blood of Abel' (Luke xi.51)=the extinction of charity.

—¹⁵. 'Blood' (Rev.xviii.24)=violence done to charity, and also all evil in general, and the profanation of truth in special. Refs.

9003^e. 'My blood is drink indeed'... 'Blood'=the good of faith. Refs.

9050¹¹. 'Blood'=truths of faith from good, and in the opposite sense, truths of faith falsified and profaned. Refs. 9057.

9127. 'No blood for (a thief)' (Exod.xxii.2)=not guilty of violence offered. In the supreme sense, 'blood'=Divine truth proceeding from the Lord's Divine good; in the inward sense thence, the truth of good; wherefore 'to shed blood'=to do violence to Divine truth, or to the truth of good, and also to good itself, for he who does violence to truth also does violence to good...

—⁴. He who knows that 'blood'=Divine truth from the Lord, may know that by the 'shedding of blood' in the Word is not meant to kill as to the life of the body, but to kill as to the life of the soul, that is, to destroy the spiritual life . . .

— That 'blood,' when the unlawful shedding of it is meant=truth Divine destroyed through falsities from evil, Ill.

9129. 'Blood'=violence done to good and truth, thus to be guilty of that violence. 10184⁷.

9154². Truth without good is like . . . a vein or artery without blood.

9262⁴. 'To shed innocent blood' (Deut. xxi)=to extinguish the Divine truth and good which are from the Lord, thus the Lord Himself with the man of the Church.

9298. 'Thou shalt not sacrifice the blood of My sacrifice upon what is leavened' (Exod. xxiii. 18)=that the worship of the Lord from the truths of the Church is not to be mingled with falsities from evil . . . 'Blood'=truth from good, thus the truth of the Church. Refs.

9300². (Good and truth) flow in alternately, scarcely otherwise than does the blood from the heart into the lungs and thence again into the heart, and afterwards from the left ventricle into the arteries, and from these through the veins again into the heart . . .

9393. 'Moses took half of the blood' (Exod. xxiv. 6)=the Divine truth which is made of life and worship. . . For this was the blood which Moses sprinkled upon the people, by which blood is signified the Divine truth received by man, thus which is made of life and worship . . .

9410⁵. 'The blood of the Lamb'=the Divine truth proceeding from the Lord's Divine Human. 9503².

— They who are in the true doctrine of the Church may know that men are not saved through blood, but by hearing the Divine truth and doing it, thus by suffering themselves to be regenerated through Divine truth by the Lord . . . 10026². 10152².

—^e. When I have read 'the blood of the Lamb,' and thought of the Lord's blood, the Angels with me knew not but that I was reading 'the Divine truth proceeding from the Lord,' and that I was thinking about it.

— But let the simple remain in their own doctrine that they are saved through the Lord's blood, if only they live according to His Divine truth; for they who live according to it are enlightened in the other life.

9670⁶. 'The blood of the bullock,' and 'the blood of the he-goat' which were sprinkled seven times upon the propitiatory eastward, and afterwards upon the horns of the altar' (Lev. xvi. 14, 15)=Divine truth from Divine good.

9755¹². 'Blood' (Rev. viii. 8)=truth falsified and profaned.

10026. 'Thou shalt take of the blood of the bullock' (Exod. xxix. 12)=Divine truth accommodated to the natural man . . .

10028. 'Thou shalt pour all the blood at the bottom of the altar' (Id.)=Divine truth whole and complete in the Sensual, which is the ultimate of man's life . . . 10033.

10033². That Divine truth is signified by 'blood,' Ill.

10047. 'To sprinkle the blood upon the altar round about' (Exod. xxix. 16)=to unite Divine truth with Divine good in the Lord. Ex. 10064. 10065.

10060. 'Thou shalt take of (the ram's) blood' (ver. 20)=Divine truth proceeding from the Lord's Divine good in the Heavens. 'Blood,' when said of a sacrifice or burnt-offering=Divine truth.

10210. 'With the blood of the expiations of sin' (Exod. xxx. 10)=by means of truths which are from the good of innocence. 'Blood'=Divine truth. Refs.

10283². The intellectual proprium is signified by the blood of that flesh. Ill.

—³. 'Bloods' (John i. 13)=falsities which proceed from man's intellectual proprium . . . 'Blood'=falsity from evil, thus the intellectual proprium from the voluntary proprium.

10521. 'The Lord's blood'=the good of faith.

10829^e. 'Of bloods, of the will of the flesh,' etc.=to be in the evils of the love of self and of the world, and thence in falsities.

H. 567. (Origin of the heat of the blood.)

N. 217. On blood. Gen. art.

W. H. 1. 'Clothed with a vesture dipped in blood'=the Word in the letter, to which violence has been done.

L. 18^e. 'Bloods' (John i)=falsifications of the Word, and confirmations of falsity thereby.

27. 'Blood,' or 'wine'=good of faith from the Word.

S. 15^e. 'To drink blood' (Ezek. xxxix. 17)=to appropriate to themselves Divine truth from the Word.

W. 370. The forms of the members, organs, and viscera . . . are fixed by such substances and matters as there are in the earths, and from the earths in the air and the ether. This is effected by means of the blood.

379. See HEART at these refs. 415. 417.

—^e. Hence the blood is called 'the soul.'

380. The blood is red from the correspondence of the heart and the blood with love and its affections. Ex.

405². Hence it is evident that the blood inflows into the lungs through two ways, and flows out of them through two ways . . .

—³. From the influx of the blood from the heart into the lungs (may be seen) how the will flows into the understanding . . .

407^e. (In swoons, etc.) the blood does indeed make the circuit through the lungs, but through the pulmonary arteries and veins, not through the bronchial arteries and veins . . . 413².

420. That the blood purifies itself in the lungs from undigested matters . . .

—². That the blood nourishes itself from the in-drawn air with matters which are profitable to it. . . The blood draws in such things as are useful to it, and those things are useful which correspond to the affections of its love . . . Hence it is that the blood flowing back into the left ventricle of the heart is changed into arterial blood of brilliant hue. These facts prove that the blood purifies itself from heterogeneous things, and nourishes itself with homogeneous things. D. Wis. x. 3², Ex.

[W.420]³. That the blood in the lungs purifies and nourishes itself correspondently to the affections of the mind . . . What a man's spirit loves, his blood according to correspondence craves, and draws in by respiration.

421. If the love remains impure . . . instead of the purification of the blood, its defilement is effected, and instead of the nutrition of the blood by aromatic perfumes, its nutrition is by stench.

423. The blood may abound in uncleannesses, and yet not be distinguishable from clean blood . . .

—². Hence it may appear that with a spiritual man it is the purer blood, called by some the animal spirit, which is purified; and that it is purified in proportion as the man is in the marriage of love and wisdom. It is this purer blood which proximately corresponds to that marriage, and as this blood inflows into the blood of the body, it follows that the latter blood is also purified by its means. The contrary takes place with those with whom the love is defiled in the understanding.

—^e. It is the affections of the love which correspond to the blood.

P. 231³. The man who confirms evil loves does violence to Divine goods, and he who confirms false principles does violence to Divine truths. The latter is called the falsification of truth; the other, the adulteration of good; both are meant in the Word by 'bloods.'

296¹⁴. (The soul) sends some things to the blood, some to the lymphatic vessels, etc. Finally, the chyle is carried into the vena cava, and so into the heart, and from the heart into the lungs, and thence through the left ventricle of the heart into the aorta, and from this . . . to the viscera of the whole body, and also to the kidneys; in everyone of which there is effected a separation of the blood, a purification, and a withdrawal of heterogeneous substances; not to speak of how the heart presents its blood, when defecated in the lungs, to the brain, which is done through the arteries called the carotids; and how the brain returns the blood, vivified, to the vena cava . . . These . . . are the secret workings of the soul in the body. 336.

R. 19. 'To Him that loveth us and washeth us from our sins in His blood' (Rev.i.5)=Him Who from love and mercy regenerates men by means of His Divine truths from the Word.

26. 'The blood and water' (John xix.14)=Divine truth spiritual and natural, thus the Word in the spiritual and natural senses.

132^e. 'The blood' (of Jezebel)=falsity.

327. 'How long O Lord dost Thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth' (Rev.vi.10)=that the Last Judgment is deferred, and they who do violence to the Word and the Lord's Divine are not removed. E.394.

332. 'The moon became as blood' (ver.12)=that with them . . . all truth of faith is falsified. E.401.

379. 'They have made their robes white in the blood of the Lamb' (Rev.vii.14)=that they have purified them from falsities of evil by means of truths, and thus have been reformed by the Lord.

—². 'Blood' is mentioned in many places in the Word, and by it is everywhere signified the Lord's

Divine truth, which also is the Divine truth of the Word; and in the opposite sense, the Divine truth of the Word falsified or profaned. (All these points Ill. seriatim.)

399. 'Hail and fire mingled with blood' (Rev.viii.7)=falsity from infernal love destroying good and truth, and falsifying the Word.

404. 'The third part of the sea became blood' (ver.8)=that all general truths with them were falsified.

497. 'They have Power over waters to turn them into blood' (Rev.xi.6)=that those who turn themselves away from these two essentials, falsify the truths of the Word.

555. 'They overcame him through the blood of the Lamb' (Rev.xii.11)=victory through the Divine truth of the Word.

—². That 'the blood of the Lamb'=the Divine truth proceeding from the Lord, which is the Divine truth of the Word, may be seen from the fact that the Lord is the Word, and therefore that the Divine truth in it is His blood, and the Divine good His body. For every man in his own good and truth . . . but the Lord is good itself and truth itself . . . which two are the Word.

566³. Heaven appeared to them like blood . . .

—⁶. If anyone approaches who has falsified the Word . . . and fixes his eyes on it, as it were blood appears around it, and he is warned to depart.

653. 'There went out blood from the wine-press even to the bridles of the horses' (Rev.xiv.20)=violence done to the Word through direful falsifications of truth . . .

681. '(The sea) became as the blood of a dead man' (Rev.xvi.3)=infernal falsity with them.

684. '(The waters) became blood' (ver.4)=the truths of the Word falsified.

687. 'Because they have shed the blood of saints and prophets' (ver.6)=that the single tenet that faith alone saves without the works of the law, when received, perverts all true doctrinal things from the Word. 'To shed blood'=to falsify the truths of the Word, thus to pervert them.

688. 'And thou hast given them blood to drink, for they are worthy' (Id.)=that, of the Lord's Divine Providence, they who have confirmed themselves in faith alone in both doctrine and life, have been permitted to falsify the truths of the Word, and to imbue the life with truths falsified.

730. 'I saw the woman drunk with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the witnesses of Jesus' (Rev.xvii.6)=that religiosity insane with the adulterated and profaned Divine goods and truths of the Lord, of the Word, and thence of the Church. 'Blood'=the falsification, adulteration, and profanation of the Word. Refs. 801.

806. 'He hath avenged the blood of His servants at her hand' (Rev.xix.2)=retribution on account of the injuries and violence done to the souls of the worshippers of the Lord.

825. 'He was clothed with a vesture dipped in blood, and His name is called The Word of God' (ver.13)=Divine truth in the ultimate sense, or the Word in the letter, to which violence has been done.

M. 34^e. Love is the heat of man's life . . . the heat of the blood, and also its redness, are from that source.

357. Unjust jealousy exists with those . . . whose minds are sick from thick and bilious blood.

374. Suspicious fancy, if long cherished, . . . fortifies itself in the body, by rendering the serum, and consequently the blood, sticky, tenacious, thick, slow, and acrid.

367⁵. The separation of charity and faith is like the separation of the blood and the flesh, for when the blood is separated from the flesh it is gore and becomes corruption, and the flesh separated from the blood turns putrid and becomes full of worms; for 'blood'=the truth of wisdom and of faith, and 'flesh' the good of love and of charity.

372. His 'blood' and 'the wine'=Divine truth.

534. They who do not examine themselves, are like sick people whose blood is corrupted through the closing up of the smallest vessels, whence come atrophy, sleepiness of the members, and diseases acute and chronic, originating from the thickness, tenaciousness, pungency, and acidity of the humours, and consequently of the blood.

702. That the Lord's 'blood' and 'the wine'=the Divine truth of His wisdom, and also all the truth of faith. Gen.art. 706. Ill.

D. 962. The succenturiate kidneys take away the unclean things of the spirits of the blood, and the kidneys, the unclean things of the serum of the blood . . . (The correspondence of this.)

972. If too much of what is prolific and good is taken away from the blood by the spermatie vessels, sadness is wont to supervene, the reason of which is that the better blood is then wanting to the mass of the blood which is borne to the heart.

1036. That the blood seems to work in similar gyres.

— The red blood, or its globules, while it is tender, soft, soluble, and fluid, seems to act in similar gyres as Spirits do when inaugurated into a Society, with quadruplicate limits . . . and that which cannot flow in similar gyres is banished . . . from the circuit and is agitated . . .

1037. The purer blood in like manner, but in purer gyres. This blood in like manner agitated, set free, con-associated, and this continually.

1059. The cortical substances . . . are the beginnings; there takes place the formation of the spirits, in the brain. . . They are also of a different colour, namely, such as the blood in them is, either bright white or red.

1335. On those who vitiate the blood.

2691. (A vision of a bloody sphere.)

3419. The Lord alone relates to (the province) of the bloods. . . As the Lord alone is life . . . He is represented by the animal spirits, or bloods, in the ultimate nature of the body . . .

3727^e. The blood and the other fluids (do not follow the same law in respect to gravitation) as that which prevails outside the body . . .

3992. Combed so that blood flowed from the head . . .

E. 148³. 'City of bloods'=doctrine doing violence to the good of charity. 240⁸.

151⁵. 'Of bloods'=those who destroy love and charity.

193¹⁹. 'The blood of grapes'=Divine truth.

329. 'The Lord's blood'=Divine truth proceeding from the Divine good of the Lord's Divine love. —², Ill.

—⁸. Blood was used in inaugurations because it=Divine truth proceeding from the Lord and received by man. Ill.

—¹⁶. 'Blood and water' out of the Lord's side=Divine truth proceeding for the spiritual man and for the natural man respectively.

—²¹. 'Blood' (Rev. xii. 11)=violence done to Divine truth by falsities of evil, and its destruction by them. Ill.

—²⁷. (Why 'bloods' is used in the plural.)

—²⁹. 'Bloods' in general=all false things of doctrine, of life, and of worship, through which come the evils that destroy the Church.

375²⁷. 'To wash away bloods' (Ezek. xvi. 9)=to remove the falsity of evil.

388³⁰. 'The blood' which they shall 'drink'=truth from the good of love.

391¹⁹. 'The blood of the prophets'=the falsification of all truth.

475¹⁰. 'Bloods' (Is. iv. 4)=falsities of evil.

476. 'The blood of the Lamb'=Divine truth proceeding from the Lord, and in the literal sense, the passion of the cross.

512. 'The third part of the sea became blood'=that everything therein became the falsity of evil.

513⁴. 'The rivers being turned into blood'=intelligence from mere falsities.

556¹³. 'Bloods out of the mouth' (Zech. ix. 7)=falsifications of the Knowledges of truth.

600¹⁸. As all inauguration to represent the Divine good of love is effected by means of Divine truth, 'blood' was put upon Aaron's right ear.

—¹⁹. (The cleansing of leprosy by means of blood) (Lev. xix)=by means of Divine truth . . .

617²⁰. 'The blood' and 'the wine'=the Divine truth proceeding.

—²⁴. 'To eat flesh and drink blood'=to appropriate Divine good and Divine truth; 'flesh'=the good of love, and 'blood'=the truth of that good. 650⁴⁷.

—²⁵. The Israelites were forbidden to drink blood because they were solely in external things . . .

624¹¹. 'He shall leave his bloods upon him' (Hos. xii. 14)=damnation on account of the adulteration of the truth of the Word.

—¹⁶. 'To shed blood'=to adulterate the truths of the Word.

645. 'To turn the waters into blood' (Rev. xi. 6)=that truths with such are turned into falsities from evil.

650⁶⁴. 'Bloods'=violence done to the truths of the Word by evils.

701¹³. 'The blood' is here called 'the blood of the new covenant,' because 'blood'=the Divine truth proceeding from the Lord through which the conjunction of the Lord with man is effected. III.

[E.] 745°. Those who are 'not born of bloods'=those who have not falsified and adulterated the Word.

748. 'They overcame him through the blood of the Lamb'=resistance and victory through the Divine truth proceeding from the Lord's Divine Human.

750²⁴. As man's ultimate life consists in the blood . . .

—, 'Blood'=truth of doctrine from the Word. III.

—²⁵. Hence it was forbidden to eat blood . . . III.

1049. 'The blood of the saints'=violence done to Divine truths. Ex.

D. Wis. x³. The heart . . . corresponds to the will, and the blood to the love and its affections, which constitute the life of the will.

x.2. This circulation of the blood is constant, because the blood corresponds to the life of the love.

—³. This may be illustrated by the defecation of the blood in the lungs . . .

—⁶. The blood is nourished in the lungs in one way with the good, and in the opposite way with the evil . . . Human blood is spiritual in its inmost things and corporeal in its outmost things, wherefore they who are spiritual nourish it from such things in nature as correspond to spiritual things, but they who are merely natural nourish it from such things in nature as correspond to this. Hence the unlikeness of the blood in men is as great as that of their loves, for the blood corresponds to the love.

—⁷. Formation is effected through the heart and its blood, because the blood corresponds to the love, and the heart to its receptacle.

Blood-relation. Under CONSANGUINITY.

Blood-vessel. Vas sanguinea, Vas sanguinis.

See ARTERY and VEIN.

A. 3470. See BLOOD at this ref.

4048. (The Spirits of the large blood-vessels of the brain, Des.)

5928. Truths appear to act of themselves while they are acting reciprocally or reacting (upon good) . . . This is like the blood-vessels in the living body; truths are like vessels without blood, and good is like the blood. When the blood is poured into the vessels which before were empty, it actuates them reciprocally, for they have received the capability of moving, and as it were life, from the blood.

9154². So far as a vessel has blood in it, it lives . . . Truth without good is like a vein or artery without blood . . .

10044⁹. From the heart even to the skin through and across the viscera, there is a continuous connexion by means of the blood-vessels . . .

S. 66. From the food, made into chyle, the vessels draw and call forth their blood.

W. 316³. The return of the fibres to their primes is effected through the blood-vessels.

400. All things of the body are formed . . . by means of fibres from the brains, and blood-vessels from the heart . . .

405⁴. The blood-vessels of the heart in the lungs correspond to affections of truth . . .

412³. The breathing of the body depends on the blood-vessels from the heart, and from the vena cava and aorta.

Bloom. Under PURPLE=purpureus.

Blossom. Under FLOWER.

Blot. Litura. T.618.

Blot out. Delere.

A. 592. 'I will destroy man' (Gen.vi.7)=that man would extinguish himself. Ex.

731. 'To destroy every substance which I have made from off the faces of the ground' (Gen.vii.4)=man's proprium, which is as it were blotted out when it is vivified . . . This is signified by its being 'destroyed,' although it is never destroyed, but remains. Ex.

808. 'He destroyed every substance' (ver.23)=cupidities . . .

809. 'Every substance being destroyed that was upon the faces of the ground'=that those were destroyed who were of the Most Ancient Church, and were of such a character.

2116. Justification is not according to the common opinion that all evils and sins are wiped off and entirely blotted out when, as they suppose, they believe . . . Not the smallest evil which a man has thought and actually done in the life of the body is wiped off and completely blotted out, but everything remains. (See under ABOLISH.) 2694⁴. 5134, Ex.

2250. 'Wilt thou destroy the righteous with the wicked?' (Gen.xviii.23)=the Lord's grief . . . and intercession . . .

4290³. Jehovah's wanting 'to destroy' the Israelites.

5134⁶. But with the Lord, evils and falsities were completely cast out and blotted out . . .

8593³. 'Thou shalt blot out the memory of Amalek from under heaven' (Deut.xxv.19)=that evil genii should have no communication whatever with those of the spiritual Church . . .

8622. 'Blotting out I will blot out the memory of Amalek from under the heavens' (Exod.xvii.14)=that this kind of falsity shall be entirely removed . . . 'To blot out the memory'=to remove. . . For this kind of falsity can be removed, but not blotted out, as it still exists with the infernal genii . . .

10505. 'If not, blot me out of Thy book which thou hast written' (Exod.xxxii.32)=that the Internal of the Word, of the Church, and of worship should not perish. . . 'To blot out from it'=to perish, here not to perish,' because it was replied, 'Him that hath sinned against Me I will blot out of My book.' 10506.

10506. 'To be blotted out of the book of Jehovah'=not to appear in Heaven, thus to perish as to the spiritual life . . .

R. 169. 'I will not blot out his name out of the book of life' (Rev.iii.5)=that he shall be saved. E.199.

T. 768. The Advent of the Lord is not to destroy . . .

E. 555¹⁸. To destroy the way of the paths' (Is.iii.12) =that the truth which leads is not known.

C. 9. Good does not destroy evil.

Blow. See AFFLATUS.

Blow. Colaphus. T.130³.

Blow. Exsufflare. A.8408³.

Blow. See PLAGUE-plaga.

Blue. Caeruleus.

A. 952^e. First turned into a dull blue . . . D.1302.

1116. Their dwellings . . . are variegated with beautiful colours, crimson and blue.

1512. Spheres . . . examined by means of blue bands. . . D.3379.

3221. A blue colour as of the night sky.

4328². How it was with the good of the celestial Church was shown by a column coming down from Heaven, of an azure colour . . . This represented their first state ; the azure colour their voluntary good . . . Afterwards the azure of the column passed into a dull flamminess . . .

5189². (The Spirits of the isthmus of the brain) were represented by a man and a woman in a chamber, in a garment which was turned into a robe of an azure colour.

5393^e. (The better kind of the Spirits of the colon) represented by a plaster wall . . . the upper part of which was of a colour inclining to blue.

5559. The interwoven structure of the cuticles was shown representatively . . . It was of a blue colour.

6492^e. My father appeared to me in a dream . . . When I awoke, there was seen coming down from Heaven a long roll . . . held together by most beautiful coloured textures of a bright blue . . . Such are the presents the Angels give each other.

6609. The thoughts and speech of Societies . . . has sometimes been represented to me by clouds which rose and fell in the azure . . . Truths were represented by an azure colour mingled with a lovely shining whiteness . . . D.2632.

7175. (A man from the planet Mercury seen) who was clothed in a garment of a dim blue colour . . .

8030. (The Angels in the first Heaven of Jupiter) appear dressed in sky-blue dotted with golden stars, for they believe that colour to be the very celestial colour itself. In the world, when they contemplate the starry heaven, they call it the abode of the Angels. Hence they love the azure colour.

8379. The dwellings of (the inhabitants of Jupiter) were shown me . . . They are lined inside with a whitish blue bark dotted all round and overhead as with little stars, to be like the sky . . .

8458². Good is there presented as round . . . and as to colour as blue, yellow, and red.

9408². The azure of the sky=truth transparent from good.

9868². The stones of this row derive [their colour] from the blue which is from red ; for there is a blue from red and there is a blue from white. The blue from red sparkles inwardly from flamminess. This blue is what signifies the celestial love of truth. But the blue from white, such as prevailed in the stones of the next row, and which signifies the spiritual love of good, does not sparkle inwardly from flamminess, but from light. (See CHRYSOPRASE, SAPPHIRE, and DIAMOND, at this ref.)

—4. The sapphire was of an azure colour, like that of the sky.

9870. Blue from white=spiritual good, or what is the same, the spiritual love of good . . . which is charity towards the neighbour . . .

— . That 'the cyanus' is of a blue colour is known, and also 'the amethyst.'

9872. The colour of all the stones of this order approaches to bright white from blue. (They were beryl, onyx, and jasper, and=spiritual love of truth.)

R. 232. The Divine sphere which encompasses the Lord . . . when represented in the Heavens . . . appears in the spiritual Kingdom blue-caerulescens-like dark blue.

962. The seats in the second row were covered with blue silk.

Ad. 3/1287. Hyacinthine is a blue colour, Des. This colour and azure are dearly loved by the celestials, but green not so much, except in so far as it partakes of blue.

D. 1080. A man seen dressed in a garment of bluish white . . .

1081. His being dressed in a bluish white garment signified that he was an upright Spirit . . .

1676. This blackness was turned into a beautiful blue . . . which was resplendently blue. I therefore inferred that they were from Jupiter.

1681^e. Two or three temples (of the planet Jupiter) shown. They were coloured. They have a special love for a brilliant and beautiful blue . . .

1849. A little child, or an Angel as a little child, seen wearing a garland of resplendent blue flowers . . .

2763. When corporeal things have been reformed . . . they are at first represented by . . . a blue colour, with points . . .

3636. On the right were most beautiful representations distinguished by blues and colours thence derived, because the right eye represents affections, and the colours are not derived from a bright lucidity, but from flamminess.

E. 1063^e. The blackness of these profaners is derived from blue, but the blackness of the former kind . . . from red, because the latter profane the goods of the Word and of the Church, but the former their truths ; for red derives its signification from the sun, and blue from the sky.

Blue, Dark. Cyaneus.

R. 232. See BLUE-caeruleus, at this ref.

M. 75³. (On their way to the Heaven of the golden age they saw) clusters of grapes of a dark blue colour.

76⁶. Crimson passed through the hyacinthine, and tinged the bright white with a dark blue colour, and this colour flowed back through the hyacinthine into the crimson, and intensified it as it were into a flaming beam. . . The dark blue colour, with which the bright white was tinged, signified marriage love then in the husband . . . and flowing back into the wife.

294. The roses formed as it were a rainbow (which were in the following order, beginning from the outside, crimson, yellow, dark blue, and shining green).

Blue. Hyacinthus. Hyacinthinus.

A. 424^e. 'With blue and raiment' (Jer.x.9)=with natural things which as it were agree.

1156. 'Blue and purple from the isles of Elishah' (Ezek.xxvii.7)=rituals corresponding to inward worship, thus representatives of celestial things. 257⁶⁸.

257⁶⁴. The inmost appearances of rational good and truth . . . are described by the 'blue, purple,' etc. (in the 'veil') . . .

3300⁴. As 'red' has this signification, the covering of the tent was interwoven . . . [with threads] of scarlet, purple, and blue colour (Exod.xxxv.6).

492²⁵. The 'blue and purple' (used for the tent of the assembly)=celestial goods and truths . . .

5954⁹. The good of truth is 'blue and purple' (Ezek.xxvii).

9466. 'Blue' (Exod.xxv.4)=the celestial love of truth. . . The reason 'blue' has this signification, is because of its celestial colour, and by that colour is signified truth from a celestial origin, which is truth from the good of love to the Lord. This good reigns in the inmost Heaven, and presents in the second Heaven a purple and blue colour; the good itself a purple colour, and the truth thence derived a blue colour . . .

9466³. 'Blue'=the celestial love of truth, and garments of blue the Knowledges of truth from that love, Ill.

—'. 'Blue and purple from the isles of Elishah'=the intelligence of truth and good.

—⁴. 'Clothed with blue' (Ezek.xxiii.6)=the appearances of truth from good, because from the literal sense of the Word perversely explained.

—^e. 'Jacinth' (Rev.ix.17)=the infernal love of falsity.

9596. 'Blue'=the celestial love of truth. 9605. 9671. 9897.

9687. 'Blue and purple and scarlet double-dyed and fine linen woven together' (Exod.xxvi.36)=from the good of charity and of faith . . . because 'the hanging' is treated of. 9833. 9834. 9860. 9919.

9873. 'Blue'=the truth of celestial love.

9912. 'All of blue' (Exod.xxviii.31)=through influx from the good of the celestial kingdom. 'Blue'=the celestial love of truth, which is the good of mutual love, which is the external good of the celestial kingdom. Ex.

—^e. Hence it was that the robe was made all of blue, for 'blue'=the good of mutual love, or what is the same, the external good of innocence.

9933. 'Thou shalt put it on a thread of blue' (ver.37)=influx into the truth of celestial love. 'Blue'=the truth of celestial love. Ex.

S.46^e. 'Blue' (in the tabernacle)=truth from a celestial origin.

R. 450. 'Having breast plates fiery, blue, and sulphureous' (Rev.ix.17)=their imaginary and visionary argumentations from infernal love and their Own intelligence, and from concupiscences thence derived. . . 'Jacinth'=intelligence from spiritual love, and in the opposite sense, intelligence from infernal love, which is their Own intelligence.

—³. The reason 'Jacinth'=intelligence from the affection of spiritual love, is that this colour is derived from the redness of fire and the bright white of light . . . Ill.

839⁴. Garments (had been given to the boys) variegated with white and hyacinthine.

875. The Angel from the south of Heaven was in a resplendent hyacinthine garment.

M. 15. Under this crimson robe the prince wore a coat of lustrous silk of a hyacinthine colour . . . 42³.

75⁴. The man (in the Heaven of the golden age) wore a robe of a hyacinthine colour.

76⁷. The hyacinthine colour signified the beginning of marriage love in the perception of the husband from the wife.

137. Lilies and roses of a hyacinthine colour.

151a. I saw an Angel in a hyacinthine garment.

Ad. 3/1287. Hyacinthine is a blue colour like that of a serene sky in which white clouds appear; this colour and azure are dearly loved by the celestials . . .

3/1290. Scarlet is that colour which is extreme in respect to hyacinthine . . .

3/1827. Hyacinthine, or resplendent yellow with crimson points.

E. 195⁸. 'Purple and blue' (Ezek.xxvii)=the celestial love of good and of truth.

355³⁰. 'Blue' (Ezek.xxiii)=falsity appearing as truth.

427⁷. The 'blue' of which was the thread upon which was the plate (Exod.xxviii.37)=the good of spiritual love; spiritual love is the love of truth.

576. 'Jacinth' or 'hyacinthine' (Rev.ix.)=the cupidity of the love of the world and thence of all falsity.

—². In the spiritual sense, 'hyacinthine'=the celestial love of truth; and in the opposite sense, the diabolical love of falsity, and also the love of the world; as may be evident from the fact, that it is of a celestial colour, and by that colour is signified truth from a celestial origin . . . Ill.

—⁴. As 'hyacinthine'=the celestial love of truth, it was commanded that 'the sons of Israel were to . . . put on the fringe of their garments a thread of blue, that in seeing it they should remember all the commandments of Jehovah and do them' (Num.xv.38,39).

—⁵. That 'hyacinthine'=the love of truth, Ill.

—'. 'Blue and purple from the isles of Elishah' = the spiritual affection of truth and good . . .

—⁶. It is said 'clothed in blue' (Ezek.xxiii) from fallacies and falsities, which in the outward form appear as truths, because they are from the sense of the letter of the Word perversely applied.

—^c. The reason 'hyacinthine' also = the love of the world, is that the love of the world corresponds to the love of falsity . . .

Blunt. See DULL.

Blush. Rubescere, Erubescere.

A. 165. 'Naked, but not ashamed' = innocence. H. 341³.

249. Occurs. 264.

Boar. Aper.

A. 5113¹¹. 'The boar in the wood' (Ps.lxxx.13) = falsity, and 'the wild beast of the field' = evil, which destroy the Church as to faith in the Lord.

D. 1602. Certain Spirits . . . represented a wild boar sprinkled with blood on its back, and would have it that I was like that, because I interspersed philosophical terms . . .

1604. A philosopher who abides in mere terms . . . remains in the mire like a swine, wherefore such a swine or wild boar was represented to me; and he becomes a wild beast in the woods, for he ranges about in truths like a wild beast, and tears them and kills them.

— (Index). A wild boar or swine of the woods. See 3785.

388⁴. 'The boar out of the wood' = the evil cupidities of the natural man.

Board. See BEAM—asser.

Boarded. Tabulatus. A. 9738.

Boast. Jactare.

Boasting. Jactatio.

A. 6203^e. Various kinds of arrogance and boasting . . .

H. 342^e. To prevent them from boasting . . .

M. 477. A Spirit who was boasting of his whoredoms . . .

Boast. Venditare.

Boasting. Venditatio.

A. 1967. The visions of some are vaunted . . .

2682³. If only they can pass off something as truth.

7997. Trafficked in good and truth . . .

8627^e. Boasted that they were wise . . . 8628.

T. 435². Are passed off as precious stones . . .

487³. The spiritual things which they cry up . . .

E. 141³. The boastings or vauntings of falsities. Sig.

Boat. Cymba.

P. 296⁹. Like a boat in a current . . .

T. 68^e. Like a boat in the sea driven by tempests.

459⁴. My boat is piety . . .

839. Like a boat close under a watch-tower . . .

Bodily. See CORPOREAL.

Body. Agmen.

T. 353². A body (of troops) in a square . . .

Body. Corpus.

See under BRAIN, MIND, SOUL, and SPIRIT.

A. 41^e. All things from the Lord . . . have a kind of body, here signified by 'moving itself,' or 'creeping.'

45. See BEAST at this ref.

69. Man . . . is a spirit clothed with a body.

70^e. After the death of the body . . . 1757.

178. They suppose they are still living in the body . . .

320. 1376. 4622⁴. D. 296. 352. 690. 1243. 1775. 2330. 2775.

443. He had placed life in the body . . .

446. The soul or spirit is in its own body.

447. The body only serves man for living on earth . . . and never lives or thinks.

—^c. The spirit in man feels, not the body.

550. As in the human body everything contributes to uses . . . so in the Lord's Kingdom . . .

909^e. They likened man's body to the earth, or ground, as here, where 'earth' = the outward man.

957. Some (Spirits punished) as to the whole body.

959. Inducing on the Spirits as it were bodies. 969^e.

978. That the body and its Sensual and faculty of pleasure is not the outward man is evident from the fact that Spirits who have no body such as that they had in the world, have an outward man all the same.

1015². When in thought he is withdrawn from the body . . .

1103². As in the human body, everything is of use.

1143. The Word's outward sense is like a body. 2311.

1274. However he turns his body . . .

1285². Heaven . . . is like the body . . .

1378. Spirits, as to the organic things which constitute their bodies, are not where they are seen . . .

1381. Wandering Spirits are like the fluids in the human body.

1408. As soon as the mind departs from bodily things, those of the soul become evident. This is the reason why not only bodily things must die before a man can be regenerated, but also that the body itself must die in order that he may come into Heaven . . . But the things of the sense of the letter are like those with man in his body, namely, the scientifics of the memory which are from sensuous things . . .

1414^e. With Him alone was the correspondence of all things of the body with the Divine most perfect . . .

1436. What lives with man is not the body, but the soul, and the body lives through the soul. 2311. 2475.

1718^e. The body is only as it were a covering or shell which is dissolved for man to truly live . . .

1720². With the Lord all is Jehovah . . . even the very body, wherefore He alone rose . . . with the body. Ill. 2083.

[A.] 1807³. As in the human body, which comes forth and subsists through its soul; wherefore everything in the body is representative of its soul; the latter is in use and end, the body in the exercise of them.

1815. The exterior man or body itself is from the mother. 2005.

1853⁹. Man there retains everything except the body, which hinders the interior use of his faculties.

1882. What is meant by being 'withdrawn from the body.' 1883, Ex. H. 440, Ex.

1885. In complete wakefulness of my body . . .

1886 Pref.³. While with the body I am in the world, with the spirit I am in the other life, for man is a spirit clothed with a body. 3342². 4364¹.

1910. The life of the affection of Knowledges and knowledges gives to the Rational as it were a body, or clothes the life of the inward man as the body the soul.

1941. While man lives in the body . . . 1984. 2367. 2500. 2994. 3195. 3212³. 3293⁹. 3314⁹. 4249³. 4280. 4423.

2083. The Lord made Divine . . . even the interior and the exterior Sensual, thus the very body.

2184⁷. Pleasure is properly of the body . . .

2219². When he puts off the body . . . 3342⁹.

2343⁹. Whether you say the Divine Human, or 'the body,' 'flesh,' 'bread,' or Divine Love, it is the same.

2380. However men are infested as to the body, (the Angels) rate it as nothing relatively to the soul.

2469. The exterior memory is proper to the body . . .

2576². The exterior things of man are of his body . . . They are all like a body, or what is the same, a covering or clothing. . . The exteriors (of the Angels) are represented in both their bodies and clothing . . .

2588⁷. Exterior things cannot enter into interior, as composites into simples, thus the things of the body into those of the spirit, but contrariwise.

2603. Only their bodies are black . . .

2682³. While man is in the body, as to the spirit he lives in Heaven, and as to the body in the world . . .

2853². All parts of the human body correspond to Societies in Heaven . . . 2996. 3021. 4223. 4779. H. 212.

2530⁹. The soul of the body is its spirit, for from this the body lives.

2973⁵. With those who are in celestial and spiritual love, good from the Lord inflows through the soul into the body. Thus 'the body' becomes 'light.' But with those who are in bodily and worldly love, good from the Lord cannot inflow through the soul into the body, but their interiors are in darkness. Hence also 'the body' becomes 'dark' (Matt. vi. 22, 23).

2992⁹. Thus the Angels . . . know everything which is in the body.

2312³. The body is only the covering of man's spirit.

3219⁹. It is contrary to order for what is posterior to flow into what is prior, thus the body into the soul.

3293². The outward man, that is, the things of the body.

3300. Good is clothed with truth as with a tender body.

3464². His 'body,' and 'the bread'=love to the Lord.

3469. What is nearer to the world and the body cannot be easily reduced to serve the inward man . . .

3570¹. The soul is enclosed in a tender body (in the womb) . . . So in regeneration . . . The tender body in which that soul is enclosed is the Natural and good there . . .

3627. See ATMOSPHERE at this ref.

3635. See HEART at these refs. 3887². 3888. 3889.

3639. All position there is relative to the human body. Ex. D. 1701.

3702. As to his body he is a little world.

3726¹. The spirit, after being loosed from bodily things is that very purified body which many say they will have at the time of the last judgment . . . That Spirits . . . are endowed with a body . . . 4527².

3735³. His 'body'=His Divine love, and the reciprocal with man, such as is love with the celestial Angels.

3737. The Human itself consists . . . also of the body, which served the Natural as a medium or outermost organ of living in the world, and through this the Rational, and through this the Divine.

3745. (Variety and unity) in the human body. Des. 5598². 9613. R. 66. 73.

3749. Spirits are distinguished according to their influx into parts of the body . . .

3813². 'The body' (in the Holy Supper)=Divine good. Refs.

—⁵. They who know the inward sense know that they will come into the other life with a body, but a purer one, for there are purer bodies there, for they see each other, converse together, and enjoy every sense more excellently than in the body. The body which man carries about on earth is for uses there, and therefore consists of bones and flesh, and the body which a Spirit carries about . . . is for uses there, and does not consist of bones and flesh, but of such things as correspond to them. 4364¹.

3849⁹. See APPETITE at this ref.

3884. Although I was (in Heaven) I was not out of myself, but in the body, for Heaven is in man . . . So when it pleases the Lord, a man can be in Heaven, yet not withdrawn from the body.

3890. All the Societies . . . act as one, as do all things in the body, although so various.

3900¹⁰. 'The body' (Luke xvii. 37) means a carcase, for it is a dead body that is understood, and=the Church (devoid of the life of charity and of faith).

3938⁷. See ANXIETY at this ref.

3951³. Nourishment has for its end that there be a sound mind in a sound body. If a man deprives his body of its nourishment, he also deprives himself of the state which is the end; wherefore, a spiritual man does not despise nourishment or pleasures . . .

3957². When man puts off the body, he enjoys much brighter understanding than while he lived in the body, because while he is in the body, bodily and worldly thoughts occupy his attention, and these induce obscurity. But when the body is put off, such things do not interpose themselves . . .

3993³. Unless the correspondence of the inward man with the outward is effected in the life of the body, it is never effected.

4009. On the one hand the Natural communicates with the sensuous things of the body . . .

4040. See BRAIN at these refs. 4042. 4054.

4117. 'Gilead,' being a boundary=the first good, which is of the sensuous things of the body, for it is the good or pleasure of these into which the man who is being regenerated is first of all initiated.

4269^e. If not in the life of the body . . . in the other life.

4292⁴. All things of the body represent those of the mind—animi, and of the mind—mentis. Enum.

4302². Truths and goods, as to both generals and particulars, are in Heaven arranged in this order, that one regards another in such a form, as do the members, organs, and viscera of the human body, or the uses of them . . .

4345². The body itself and the things of the body . . . are relatively the most general things . . . Ex.

4364^e. The body an instrument or material organ. 5948.

4373. The life which is in the body is not of the body, but of the soul, that is, through the soul from the Lord, and yet it appears to be of the body . . .

4403. To what province of the body Spirits belong, it has been given me to know from their position with me. 5171, (See PROVINCE at this ref.). 10379.

4406^e. It is the Spirit which lives in the body . . .

4459². See RESURRECTION at these refs. 4783⁴. 5078². H.312².

4523². Thus the body is an organ composed of all the most secret things in nature . . . and according to their secret forces and wonderful methods of flowing . . .

4527². Some . . . on the same day their bodies were entombed saw their own corpse through my eyes . . . and said that they rejected it, and that it had served them for uses in the world in which they had been, and that now they live in a body which serves them for uses in the world in which they now are . . . 4652^e. 5078².

4622². The sensitive power which appears in the body is properly of the spirit, and is of the body only through influx . . . It is not the body which sees, hears, smells, feels, but the spirit; wherefore when the spirit is rid of the body it is in its own sensations in which it had been in the body, and in fact in far keener ones . . . 4652.

4642. Truth is in doctrine as the soul in its body.

4652^e. They are sad that anything should be taken away from the body.

4659. The spirit is the internal of man and the body his external . . . (From this it) might be supposed that the spirit dwells within the body, and that the body as it were girds and invests it, but the spirit of man is in the whole and every part of the body, and is its purer substance, in both its motor and sensory organs and everywhere else, and the body is what is material everywhere annexed to it, adapted to the world in which it then is.

4676. As the body or outward man grows old, the spirit passes into newness of life . . .

—². (Although) it is the spirit which thinks in the body, and from which is the life of the body . . . yet so long as the spirit remains in the body, it can think only from the principles which the natural man has imbued, and when the principle and persuasion is that only the body lives . . . the influx of the above-named fact is not received.

4805². In Heaven there are those who relate to all the provinces of the body, both exterior and interior.

5060. When Societies operate they act into those parts of the body to which they correspond . . .

5077. The 'butler' and 'baker'=the external sensuous things which are of the body . . .

—^e. The external senses, or those of the body, are five . . . and these constitute the whole Vital of the body, for without them the body would not live at all, wherefore when it is deprived of them, it dies and becomes a corpse; therefore the very Corporeal of man is nothing but a receptacle of sensations, consequently of life from them . . .

5078². The exterior things of the Natural are what are properly called corporeal, or sensuous things of both kinds together with their receptacles; the latter with the former constitute what is called the body. The Lord made the Corporeal in Himself Divine, both its sensuous things and their receptacles, wherefore He rose . . . with the body.

—^e. These things are said that it may be known that no man rises with the body with which he was encompassed in the world; but the Lord alone, and this because He glorified His body or made it Divine while He was in the world.

5084⁴. It is a fallacy . . . that only the body lives.

5114³. The spirit can subsist without the material body . . . The body is in a more exterior degree.

5146^e. Many learned men believe life to be in the body.

5159². With those not being regenerated, these changes of state take place from causes in the body. Enum.

—³. He who does not suffer himself to be regenerated loves the things of the body for the body's sake. But he who is being regenerated also loves the things of the body, but for the sake of a higher end, (namely) that there may be a sound mind in a sound body . . .

5328. The second Heaven relates to the body. 6436. H.29. T.608.

5380. (The Spirits of the urinary organs) desire to introduce themselves into the body . . .

5605². As to the body I remained in the same place. H.192, Refs.

5650⁴. At this day men are in the body . . .

[A.] 5713. The infernals are not permitted to flow into the solid parts of the body . . .

5726^e. If man had lived the life of good . . . then when his body could no longer minister to his inward man . . . he would have passed without disease out of his earthly body into such a body as the Angels have, thus immediately into Heaven. D.2542. 4592.

5741^e. Scientifics are as it were their body . . .

5862. The Spirits with man . . . are not adjoined to his body. (See ACTION at this ref.)

5865². A certain evil Spirit was let into the state of the body by his thinking from the sensuous things of the body . . . He afterwards said that he supposed he was in the life of the body.

5949². Man should take every care of his body, to nourish it, to clothe it, to let it enjoy the delights of the world; but all these things not for the sake of the body, but in order that the soul in a sound body may act correspondently and rightly, and may have the body as an organ perfectly obedient to it. . . 6936. N.98.

5991. Spirits who are to be called corporeal . . . appeared before the eyes of my spirit as in a gross body . . .

6053. Intercourse of the soul with the body. Gen.art.

6054. Through the body the soul acts into the world, and enables the body to live.

6077. All things in the Spiritual World and thence in the natural world seek for something ulterior in which to be . . . This ulterior thing is as a body.

6110². Life from (riches, honours, and pleasures) is the life of the body . . . which perishes with the body.

6135. 'Body' (Gen.xlvii.18)=a receptacle of good.

— In the genuine sense, 'body'=the good of love. . . . The reason is that the body, or the whole man who is meant by 'the body,' is a receptacle of life from the Lord, thus a receptacle of good, for the good of love constitutes the very life in man . . .

—³. That 'body'=the good of love, is also evident from the Angels, from whom . . . love pours forth so that you would believe they were nothing else, and this from their whole bodies; their bodies also appear resplendent and full of light from the light thence derived . . . Hence it is evident what is meant by the Lord's 'body,' namely, Divine love . . . For the Lord's very body, when glorified . . . is nothing else.

— Hence 'body' in the Holy Supper=the Lord's Divine love towards the universal human race.

—⁵. Divine love is also sig. by the Lord's 'body' in, 'He spake of the temple of His body' (John ii.21). 'Temple of body'=Divine truth from Divine good.

— As in the supreme sense, 'body'=Divine good of His Divine love, all in Heaven are said to be 'in His body.' H.81.

—^e. See BERYL at this ref.

6212. (How the bodies of Saul, etc. were occupied by Spirits, shown by experience.)

—³. Spirits occupied the bodies of the prophets. Des.

6284^e. Things below are recipient forms of life through degrees even to the ultimate, which is the body.

6309². They place life in the body (and thus lose their intuition of such a subject). 6317.

6310². When a man is in this (sensuous) lumen, his thought . . . is almost in the body . . .

6318^e. (These corporeal Spirits) seem to themselves to be completely in the body.

6368². No one can be delivered from Hell, unless he has been in spiritual good in the life of the body . . .

6400². They believe that nothing lives with man but his body . . . and that unless he receives his body again he cannot rise. If they are told that there is an interior man who lives in the body, and who is resuscitated when the body dies, and that this man has a body like that of Spirits . . .

6408. See BLESS=beare, at this ref.

6436. 'The head'=interior things, the neck, what is intermediate, the body exterior, and the feet outermost things.

6451². As all interior things are together in the ultimate, there is an appearance that life is . . . in the body.

6468^e. (The soul . . . forming the body in the womb.)

6872². Hence an Angel or man is such as his love is, and this not only in his organic beginnings in the brain, but also in the whole body, for the body is nothing but an organ derived from its beginnings.

6948³. The fallacy that man's life is of the body, when yet it is of the spirit in the body. Ex.

7175. The inhabitants of Mercury have more slender bodies than the men of our Earth. . . That they think little about their bodies (is evident from the fact) that in the other life they do not want to appear as men . . . but as crystal globes.

7442². The things which flow in from the Lord, flow in through the interiors . . . even into the Sensual, and through this into what is of the body.

7475. The Spirits of the planet Mars had known while in the world that they were spirits clothed with a body, and as they have thought but little about their bodies, but only about the life of the spirit in the body, when they come into the other life they hardly know that their state of life is altered . . . D.3251.

8378. (The inhabitants of Jupiter) do not prepare food for taste, but for use . . . It was said that this would be well for man, for thus his heart would be set on having a sound mind in a sound body. It is not so with those with whom the taste rules. From this the body is sickly, at the least it is languid inwardly, consequently the mind is so, for this acts according to the state of the recipient parts which are of the body . . . Hence comes dullness in matters of thought and judgment, and quickness in those of the body and the world.

8409². All who are regenerated are vivified from the Lord's proprium, which is His 'flesh,' and 'body,' and is Divine good itself.

8530. (Truths are to good) as a garment is to the body, and as the body is to the soul.

8630^e. The Spirits of our Earth relate to the various functions of the exterior parts of the body. . .

8764⁴. 'The wings covered their bodies' (Ezek.i.11)= that Divine truth was a covering to Divine good . . .

8955. (In Saturn) they make nothing of their bodies, except for the sake of life . . . therefore they do not inter the bodies of the dead, but cast them out, and cover them with boughs of forest trees.

8977. 'If he came in his body' (Ex.xxi.3)=truth without delight. 'Body'=truth alone . . . for 'the body' means the servant alone without a woman. 8978. 8984.

9140. The more a man acts from the body the less he acts from reason, for the body is in the world, thus far from Heaven, where genuine reason is.

9396². (The ancients) thought in the spirit almost abstractedly from the body; but the moderns . . . think in the body almost abstractedly from the spirit. . . The communication of Heaven is with the inward man when he can be withdrawn from the body . . .

9514². Good is to truth as the body to the arms and feet; and in birds, to the wings . . . for by these the body moves itself. 'The body' also=good.

9632³. This light will be extinguished with all those who have not distinct Knowledge of those things which are in the human body . . .

9726. (Correspondence of the reticular forms of the body.)

9824. That which is outermost not only contains interior things, but they cease in it, as in the human body.

9872². 'The body'=the good of celestial love, and also the good of spiritual love, and its external=truth from that good. Hence 'His body appeared as a beryl' (Dan.x.6).

9913. The head corresponds to the celestial, and the body to the spiritual kingdom.

10099³. Successive things are not continuous, but discrete . . . Hence man can be withdrawn from the body and think in his spirit . . .

10252^e. These things signify His Divine life in the Sensual, which is the life proper to the body; and also the resurrection of the latter. That the Lord rose with the whole body which He had in the world, differently from other men . . . 10738⁵. 10825. 10826. H.316, Ex. L.35⁹. W.221². T.109. (See also below, T.170². Ath.192.)

10264³. The whole man from head to heel, inwardly and outwardly, is nothing but his own truth or falsity, and his own good or evil, and the body is the outward form of them.

10269². The human body is the proceeding from the being of the father, which is called his soul.

10298³. Everything of the body corresponds to (the will and the understanding). Ex.

10312. (The Spirits of the third Earth) are unwilling to think at all about their bodies . . .

10315. I asked them whether they had had such an idea about their bodies when they lived in the world. They said that the men of their earth make nothing of their bodies, but only of the spirit in the body, because they know that the spirit will live to eternity, and that the body will perish. But they do not call the face the body . . . D.547. 1668.

10429. The face corresponds to what is of the inward man, and the body to what is of the outward.

10521. The Lord's 'body,' or 'flesh'=the good of love.

10555. Truth without good is like a body without life, and good without truth is like life without a body.

10592. This external is what is called the body. N.224.

10594. He is then a man as to everything, except that he is not encompassed with that gross body with which he was in the world. This he leaves behind when he dies, and never resumes it. H.75. 461, Gen.art.

10738². The manifesting of life is called the body.

—⁴. The body is the instrumental through which the will acts . . .

10740. Such as the life is, thus such as the love is, such is the whole man as to the soul and as to the body.

10758⁴. It is the spirit which lives in the body, and not the body from itself; and it is the spirit of everyone from which the body has its human form.

—^e. I have sometimes . . . asked Spirits whether they would like to be reinvested with their earthly bodies . . . At the mere idea . . . they fled far away . . .

10823. The manifesting of life thence is what is called the body; hence the body is the likeness of its own soul . . . Hence it is evident what was the quality of the Lord's body, or Human . . .

H. 60. Therefore the body does nothing of itself . . .

103. All things of the animal body are correspondences.

257. See OBSESS at this ref.

312⁴. They are in a body as before . . .

313. Amazed when they find they are in a body . . .

314. The reason the mind is not so wise in the world, is that it is in an earthly body . . .

331. The state of little children there is far before that of little children in the world, for they are not invested with an earthly body, but with one like what the Angels have. In itself the earthly body is heavy; it does not receive its first sensations and motions from the Spiritual World, but from the natural . . .

340². What nourishes their minds also nourishes their bodies . . . for the form of the body is nothing but the outward form of the interiors.

363. The body of every Spirit and Angel is the outward form of his love exactly corresponding to the inward form of his mind . . .

373. True marriage love . . . thence descends into the body, and is there felt as love; for whatever is perceived and felt in the body derives its origin from its Spiritual . . . Whatever descends from the spiritual man into the body presents itself there under another form, yet is similar and unanimous as are the soul and the body, or the cause and the effect.

432. The body does not think, because it is material . . . It is the spirit which thinks in the body . . . The body merely serves it, as an instrument . . .

433. Some think in their cold bodies . . .

[H.] 447. The spirit remains in the body . . . until the total stoppage of the heart . . .

449^e. (The drawing of the spirit out of the body.)

453². Man is man from his spirit, and not from his body; the corporeal form is added to the spirit according to its form, and not the reverse, for the spirit is clothed with a body according to its own form; wherefore the spirit acts into the minutest particulars of the body . . .

461. Man there is in a body as in the world, in appearance there is no difference . . . But his body is spiritual.

463. Every particular of thought and will . . . is inscribed on the whole body . . .

475^e. The spiritual body, or body of man's spirit . . . is formed from those things which the man does from love or will.

491. They need only to cast off natural defilements with the body, and are immediately carried into Heaven.

501. The exteriors which belong to the body are separated after death, and those which adhere to the spirit are laid asleep . . .

551. (Such) are in truths and goods only as to the body.

552. The quality of a Spirit is known not only from his face, but from his body . . .

553². The bodies (of the infernals) are monstrous.

576². When the spirit is loosed from the body . . .

602^e. The earthly body is only an instrument . . .

J. 30. Man is then in a spiritual body. C.J.3^e.

32^e. No man can be in Heaven or Hell with the natural body, wherefore he must put off his natural body, and then be judged in a spiritual body.

C. J. 3^e. Before spiritual (beings) the spiritual body appears the same as a natural body before natural.

L. 35¹⁰. As His body was now not material, but substantial, He came when the doors were shut, etc.

W. 1. Love is . . . the general life of the whole body.

14. The soul cannot exist without its body, nor the body without its soul . . . The Divine body is what is meant by the Divine manifesting.

—^e. Every soul of man is in a spiritual body after it has cast off the material coverings . . .

18. As God is a man He has a body, and everything belonging to the body. Enum.

24. As it is in the body politic, so it is in the body spiritual. The body spiritual is the Church; its head is God Man. Hence (if several gods be thought of) the Church would appear as one body with several heads. 25, Ex.

112. The bodies of men cannot exist and subsist unless they are under both suns; not so the bodies of Angels, which are spiritual.

127. That love and wisdom may make one . . . there are pairs in all things of the body.

135. All the interiors of both mind and body of the Angels are turned to the Lord as a Sun. Gen.art.

136. Hence the body is a form corresponding to the understanding and will . . . and the form of the body corresponds to that of the understanding and will.

176. See ATMOSPHERE at this ref.

219. The living forces in man are what inwardly constitute his body, in all of which there are motor fibres woven together in various ways . . . Thus the interior things of the will and understanding make the first degree, the interior things of the body make the second, and the whole body, which is the complex of them, the third. The interior things of the mind are in no power except through the forces in the body, and the forces are not in power except through the action of the body itself. . . The interior things of the mind correspond to the interior things of the body, and the interior things of the body to its exterior things . . . wherefore the two prior degrees are in power through the exteriors of the body . . .

220. As the whole, or body, has determined its powers chiefly into the arms and hands . . .

257⁶. The natural substances of the (natural) mind which recede by death constitute the cutaneous covering of the spiritual body in which Angels and Spirits are. Through such covering, which is taken from the natural world, their spiritual bodies subsist.

268². All things in which a man confirms himself . . . come to be of his whole body . . .

270^e. An evil Spirit cannot gyrate his body from left to right, but from right to left; whereas a good Spirit can with difficulty gyrate his body from right to left, but with ease from left to right.

274². The descent of these degrees is toward the body.

285². (The Lord's) human body cannot be thought of as great or small, or of any stature . . .

291². See SPHERE at this ref.

330. Mediate ends . . . look to these three things of man, his body, his Rational, and his Spiritual . . . A man cannot be conjoined with the Lord unless he is spiritual, he cannot be spiritual unless he is rational, and he cannot be rational unless his body is in a sound state. These things are like a house, of which the body is the foundation . . .

331. Uses for sustaining the body. Enum.

334. The Angels have a body, a Rational, and a Spiritual.

343^e. In everything spiritual there is an effort to clothe itself with a body.

362. The will and understanding . . . are in the brains . . . and therefore in the whole and every part of the body. Gen.art.

365. Man's life in its beginnings is in the brains and' in its derivatives in the body. Gen.art. 369, Ex.

367. The whole, which is the brain and the body together, originally consists of nothing but fibres which proceed from their beginnings in the brains.

369. From head to heel, or from the first principles in the head to the ultimates in the body, a man is such as his love is . . . When the love (of Spirits) is much attacked they disappear . . . This takes place because their bodies make one with their minds. . . The body is the external of the mind which feels and acts, thus they are one, and not two.

370. (The formation of the body through the blood.)

372. All things of the body relate to the heart and lungs. Gen.art.

374. Correspondence of all things of the mind with all things of the body. Gen.art.

376. It is the same in the whole body (as with the heavenly marriage of the heart and lungs).

386. The body is the external through which the mind or spirit feels and acts in its world. Gen.art.

387. The will and understanding are in beginnings in the brains and in derivatives in the body, thus are all things of man as to their forms . . . Therefore the mind actuates the body . . . and the body is the mere obedience of its mind and does not do, from obedience, what the mind wills, for thus they would be two . . .

390. The conjunction of the spirit with the body is through the correspondence of the will and understanding with the heart and lungs, and their disjunction is through non-correspondence. Gen.art.

— The pulse and breathing of the spirit flow into those of the body, and produce them.

—². Death ensues when the body comes into such a state . . . that it cannot act in unison with its spirit. . . The life of the body depends on the correspondence of its pulse and breathing with those of the spirit; and when this correspondence ceases, so does the life of the body . . . Most are in the Spiritual World after being two days out of the body.

391. Spirits and Angels . . . all say that they possess a body as much as men in the world, but a spiritual one, and that they feel the beating of the heart and pulse at the wrist . . . D.1715. 2917. 2985. 3157.

399^e. Hence the subsidiary life of the body depends on the heart alone . . .

400. Thus all things of the body come forth from the heart through the arteries and veins.

403. The will is the whole man as to the very form . . . and prepares all things in its house, which is the universal body . . . so that everything of the body is under obedience to the understanding as well as under obedience to the will. (Explained from anatomy.) 408, Fully Ex.

P. 103^e. What the body does . . . is only an effect from the internal and external of the spirit, for the body is mere obedience. E.98.

108. If they do not come into the act of the body, still they are in act when there is consent, for they are then (in simultaneous order) in the body . . .

112. Concupiscences enter the body through the external of thought, wherefore when there is consent in the external of thought, they are at once in the body; the delight which is felt is there. That as is the mind so is the body, Ref. 199.

124. After death he has cast off the coverings which made up his body in the world.

180². External things are so connected with internal that in every operation they make one. This shall be illustrated . . . from the human body, in the whole and every part of which there are external and internal things. (Enum., and special examples given.)

—⁶. (If a man knew the interior operations of the body he would pervert them. Enum.)

199³. The infinite things there are in the body, Enum.

220³. Man first puts on the grosser things of nature; his body is from these; but through death he puts them off, and retains the purer things of nature . . . This is effected through the rejection of temporary and natural ultimates, which is the death of the body.

298. Man then puts off the material body, and puts on the spiritual one.

324³. In order for man to live to eternity, that which is mortal with him is taken away. The mortal with him is his material body, which is taken away through its death.

R. 153. Usually on the third day after the heart has ceased to beat (they revive as to the spirit) and appear to themselves in a like body . . . so that they do not know they are not in the former world; yet they are not in a material body, but in a spiritual body, which appears as if it were material to the senses of those who also are spiritual.

363². They who constitute the body (of the Grand Man) with all its members (are sig. by 'the great multitude'.)

501. 'The bodies' of the two witnesses (Rev.xi.8)=the two essentials of the New Church . . . 506.

781. 'Bodies and souls of men' (Rev.xviii.13)=goods and truths of the sense of the letter of the Word; for these=the same as the 'body and blood' in the Holy Supper; 'body' the Lord's Divine good, and 'blood' His Divine truth; and as they signify these things, they also signify the Divine good and truth of the Word.

866^e. All there are clothed with a spiritual body.

943³. Still the body does nothing of itself as of itself, but is actuated.

M. 31. See MATERIAL at this ref.

33^e. The masculine in the male is masculine in every part, even in the least parts of his body . . . So the feminine in the female.

44⁵. Marriage love is the love of the spirit and thence of the body, and not the love of the body and thence of the spirit . . .

—⁷. The Angels grow cold over the whole body at unchaste love, and grow warm over the whole body from chaste love.

47. The externals are properly of his body . . .

49. Of the love of the world are wealth and possessions; of the love of the body are dignities and honours.

55⁷. They do not admit the influx of love from the body of any woman except that of their own wife.

56³. There is given to women a perception of the deliciousness of marriage love, and their whole body is an organ of that perception.

[M.] 57. By the judgment of the body is meant the judgment of the mind from the external senses.

101. There are three things of which man consists, and which follow in order, soul, mind, and body . . . 158, Ex.

153. The body is just as the mind or spirit is ; hence they who abstain from adulteries in the body and not from the spirit, and they who abstain in the spirit from the body, are not chaste. Ex.

162. What is from the body in the spirit does not last long, but the love which is from the spirit in the body does last.

178. Men are encompassed with a gross body which blunts and absorbs the sensation that two married partners are a united man, and as one flesh.

—². The soul constitutes not only the inmost things of the head, but also the inmost things of the body ; so the mind . . . is actually in the whole body. Hence the acts which the soul and mind intend flow instantly from the body. And hence after the casting away of the body they are perfect men. Now as the soul and mind closely adjoin themselves to the flesh of the body . . . it follows that the union of soul and mind with a married partner is felt also in the body as one flesh.

182⁵. (Arguments against the resurrection of the body.)

187. The external form which is of the body is renewed according to the renewal of the internal form which is of the mind ; for the mind acts into the body, not the reverse.

191². With these the body is the prime agent, and its ardour diffuses itself around, and forces itself into communion with the lower things of the mind. But with those who love each other inwardly, the mind is the prime agent, and draws the body into communion with it. It appears as though love ascends from the body into the soul, because as soon as the body feels allure-ment it enters through the eyes as through doors into the mind . . . But still it descends from the mind, and acts into lower things according to their arrangement ; wherefore a lascivious mind acts lasciviously, and a chaste one chastely. The latter disposes the body, but the former is disposed by the body.

211. The sense of this love is touch, which is common to all the senses and is full of deliciousnesses ; hence it opens . . . the interiors of the senses, and with them the organs of the whole body.

218. (Difference between men and women as to body.)

240^e. With those (who reject religion) the interiors of the soul and mind are more and more closed up, and in the body are stopped up, and then even the love of the sex becomes cheap, or is insanely lascivious in the interiors of the body, and thence in the lowest things of their thought.

272. Man is possessed of a material body which is charged with cupidities . . . Of such things consist the matters of which the bodies of men are composed. Hence it is that the inward affections do not appear . . . for either the body absorbs them and involves them in its dregs . . .

273. When man is stripped of that body, he is in his inward affections, which the body hid before . . .

—². The reason Angels and Spirits have inward and outward affections is that they have mind and body . . .

304². With the unchaste, who are they who do not think of marriage from religion, there is a marriage of the body, and none of the spirit.

310. After the wedding, the marriage of the spirit becomes also one of the body, and thus full. Gen.art.

— . Inwardly regarded, the bodies of men are nothing but forms of their minds outwardly organized to carry out the behests of the soul.

—². The form of the mind is also inwardly the form of the body, with the sole difference that the latter is outwardly organized to carry out that to which the interior form of the body is determined by the mind.

321². They are united as to bodies through the reception by the wife of the propagations of the husband's soul . . . and through the reception by the husband of the marriage love of the wife, which disposes the . . . interiors and exteriors of his body into a state receptive of love . . .

524². Change of organization is possible only in the material body, and is utterly impossible in the spiritual body after the casting off of the former.

I. (Title). On the intercourse of the soul and the body.

113. The organic body with which the soul has clothed itself, is here likened to a garment, because the body invests the soul, and the soul also puts it off . . . The body also grows old like a garment.

—⁴. (The notion that) the soul lives by itself, and the body by itself. T.695³.

12. By this closest possible union, the soul causes the body as it were to live. Ex.

—⁴. The soul is then clothed with a substantial body, as (here) it had been clothed with a material body.

T. 71². God created . . . the body according to the order of the whole natural world. Hence called a microcosm.

79⁷. There they were in a material body, here they are in a substantial body . . .

103. The body which is from the mother is not man in itself, but from him, being merely its covering woven from the things of the natural world.

112⁵. The Human of the Son is the body of the Father. Hence has a child . . . his body but from his mother ?

139. The soul, body, and proceeding, which together make one essence . . .

156. The mind . . . makes the body, wherefore when the body is cast off . . . it is in a full human form.

157. For 26 years I have been in the spirit and body at the same time, and only sometimes out of the body.

160. The natural material body.

167. The Son brought forth by Mary is the body of that Divine soul, for nothing but the body . . . is provided in the womb . . .

170². When He rose again He took His whole human body as to the flesh and as to the bones. Ill.

171. (The modern Trinity) is like a man with three heads on one body, or with three bodies under one head.

224². Hence all things in the body are appendages.

371⁷. The conjunction of the soul and body is (reciprocal conjunction which is mutual, not alternate.) Ex.

372. The body of Christ is Divine good and truth. Ex.

375². There is nothing in the mind to which there does not correspond something in the body, and that which corresponds may be called its corporeal nature—corporatura . . .

379. The Church called the body of Christ. Ex. T.608², Ex. Inv.28, Ex.

381. By thinking much about himself . . . a man determines and infuses the thoughts and affections of his mind into his body . . .

410³. In the world this spiritual sphere is absorbed by the material body . . .

412. Those in a society form as it were one body . . .

416. The Church in Heaven and earth is the Lord's body.

420². (Such a man) is spiritual even as to his body. Ex.

423. Righteousness and faithfulness form his mind, and the exercise of them his body.

454^e. The material body, with which his spirit is invested in the natural world, is an accessory for the sake of procreations, and for the formation of the inward man (or spirit), for this is formed in the natural body, as a tree in the earth, and seed in fruit.

459^e. I was suddenly taken out of their sight, for from the spirit I re-entered my material body; for a natural man, being clothed with a material body, does not appear to any spiritual man . . .

476². Man is not kept in this interspace as to his body, but as to his spirit.

498. There are three degrees of life with man, the soul, the mind, and the sensuous body . . .

568². You are now Spirits in a substantial body.

569. Love breathes its delight proximately into the spirit, and thence into the body . . . but it is felt only obscurely while man lives in the natural body, because this body absorbs and blunts it, but when the material body is put away . . .

583. Man is born spiritual as to the soul, and is clothed with a Natural which constitutes his material body, wherefore, when this is laid aside, the soul clothed with a spiritual body comes into a World where all things are spiritual. . . Now as the spiritual body is to be formed in the material body, and is formed through the truths and goods which flow in from the Lord through the Spiritual World . . .

595². When the versatile body around the spirit (of an unregenerate man), pliable from evil to good, is separated through death, the internal then remains, for this constitutes his spirit, and it then appears at a distance like a serpent which has cast its skin.

712². There are also three things in man as to his external to which everything relates and on which everything depends, the body, the heart, and the lungs; and these three things of the body correspond to those three things of the mind . . .

719. Heaven also constitutes the Lord's body, wherefore to be in His body is to be in Heaven.

728. The 'body' of the Divine Human is Divine Good.

771. He then lives a man in a substantial body.

798. (Calvin said) I have the same body . . . But the Angels instructed him that he was now in a substantial body, and that before he was not only in the same, but also in a material one which invested the substantial one, and that he had cast off the material body, while the substantial one still remained, from which man is man.

838. It was necessary that He should envelop Himself in a body accommodated to reception and conjunction.

Ad. 934^e. Truths purely natural or physical are what constitute the very body. These truths taken together form as it were a body in which is the human soul, the rational mind, the natural mind, and the body.

935. This very body draws its own life, as does the human body . . . but the body which is constituted of the viscera, members, and sensory organs, lives from its own natural mind, whereas this one lives from the rational or intellectual mind . . .

D. 1121. Whatever is in the universal body serves for the use of each part. Gen.art.

1145². The states of Spirits and Angels cannot be understood without knowledge of the human body . . .

1339. For anything to be perfect it must put on a kind of body.

1340. The Heaven of Spirits relates to the body . . .

2543. Every beast and insect has a more perfect body than man.

2656. Adulterers desire to possess men's bodies, and thus return into the world. 2659. 2665.

3036. The four provinces of the body, Enum.

3467. A naked human body seen to burst forth. . . It represented their Holy thus profaned.

4063. On the influx of the Grand Man into the human body.

4082. An adulterer there who went out of his body . . .

4207. On those who desire to return into the body. . . The punishing Spirits induce on them the phantasy of a body, so that they know not but that they are in the body . . .

5493. He was examined according to the members of his body . . .

5720. The body is only the Voluntary and Intellectual of man in form . . .

J. (Post.). (The spiritual body, Des.)

E. 78². Man's body is not a receptacle of the Divine, therefore it dies . . .

152². The whole body with all its sensory organs is only an instrument of its soul or spirit . . .

—^u. 'The whole body' (Matt.vi.22)=the whole spirit. Also=the whole man, 526¹³.

[E.] 281⁹. 'The body' (Luke xvii.37)=the Spiritual World, where all men are together, both good and evil.

365⁴². These evils tear and devour the interiors of their minds, and thence also those of their bodies . . .

652. 'The bodies' (of the two witnesses)=the good of love and the truth of doctrine.

654². Until the man puts off the natural body, and puts on the spiritual body . . .

659¹³. 'To come forth out of the graves' (John v.29) =out of the material body, which takes place immediately after death, and afterwards when the Last Judgment takes place, for then exterior things are removed . . .

735⁴. 'The body of Moses' (Jude 9)=the sense of the letter of the Word.

750¹⁶. 'The body' (Matt.vi.25)=the good of love . . .

775^e. When man becomes a Spirit, his whole spiritual body from head to foot is altogether of the same quality as his mind . . .

D. Love xiii⁴. In every single thing in the human body there is an idea of the universe, from its use. Ex.

D. Wis. ii³. All things of the body . . . are produced from these forms (of will and understanding). Ex.

—⁴. These productions are effected according to the laws of correspondence, and therefore all things of the body, both internal and external, are correspondences. Ex.

iii.3. (The duality in the body, Ex.)

ive. Through regeneration, man receives also a new body for his spirit . . .

vii. The conjunction of the body and the spirit is through the cardiac and pulmonary motions, and separation takes place when these motions cease. Gen.art.

vii⁴. The life of the body, which is natural, exists and subsists by this influx, and ceases by its removal. Gen.art.

C. 97. The Spirit or Angel is a form of charity as to the whole body.

143, et seq. All things in the human body are goods of use in most perfect form. Ex.

Ath. 192. The evil with man cannot be expelled, but only removed, because he is not life in himself, nor Divine as to the soul, but is only a recipient of the Divine, therefore man dies as to the body; but the Lord, from the Divine in Himself, expelled the evil from the mother, wherefore He rose with the whole body.

5 M. 5. Since the mind is not only in the head, but also in the whole body, (after death) they have a like body (to what they had here), for the body is the organ of the mind, and is continued from the head . . .

—⁷. Every man lives as a man after death in a body altogether as he did before. From experience.

Inv. (Preface) vii. The introduction of my spirit and at the same time of my body into the Spiritual World.

3 On the union of the soul and the body. 15.

14. The body is in the third or natural degree of man . . . That [part] of the body which is in first principles is called the mind; the rest consists of what is propagated and continued thence. Ex.

48. The union being reciprocal, the body acts from the soul, not the soul through the body.

Boil. See COOK.

Boil. Under ULCER.

Boil up. Ebullire.

A Boiling or Bubbling up. Ebullitio.

827^{3e}. The efforts (of the Hells) to force their way upwards appear like boilings up . . . H.595. D.4649.

9492. An effervescence and as it were a boiling up (of the Hells).

J. 61. A boiling up from below (at the Last Judgment).

T. 110^e. (The statues) boiled up like a mixture of . . .

Boll. D.4853¹.

Bolt. Obex.

I. 17². Close the understanding as with a bolt. Inv.6.

Bond. See BIND—vincire.

Bondage. Under SERVE.

Bondschoold. D.4788.

Bone. Os.

Bony. Osseus.

Ossified. Ossificatus.

See under FLESH.

A. 41. Man's proprium . . . appears bony . . . 149².

148. 'Bones'=those things which are lower, because having the least vitality.

149. 'Bones' in the Word=the proprium, in fact the proprium vivified by the Lord. Ill.

—^e. The Lord's proprium is signified by . . . 'a Spirit hath not flesh and bones as ye see Me have.'

156. 'Bone of bones' (Gen.ii.23)=the proprium of the outward man; 'bone'=the proprium not so much vivified . . . 157.

827^e. They become at last as it were bony . . .

2441^e. 'To spread out the bones' (Jer.viii.2)=the infernal things with such.

2492². With those who have been deceitful and hypocrites (the memory) appears as it were bony, and of ebony.

2916³. The vivified 'bones' (Ezek.xxxvii). T.594.

3812. 'My bone and my flesh' (Gen.xxix.14)=conjunction (as to truths and as to goods). Ex. 'Bone'=the intellectual proprium . . . thus the proprium as to truth.

—³. Hence 'bones' in the Word=truth, and in the opposite sense, falsity. Fully ill.

—⁸. Truth supports good as bones do the flesh. 9634².

4630. A smell as of burnt horn or bone. 5573. D.3206. 3498.

5552. On the correspondence of the bones, Gen.art. D.920. 5141.

5560. The Societies of Spirits to which the cartilages and bones correspond are very numerous. They are such as have very little spiritual life . . .

5561. Other Spirits speak through those who relate to the bones, they themselves knowing little of what they say, but still they talk, placing all their delight in it. To such a state are those reduced who have led an evil life, and yet have some remains of good stored up in them . . .

5562. They who emerge from vastations, and serve for such uses as the bones do, have no determinate thought . . . D.920.

6359. When falsity . . . is confirmed by many things, a hardness appears like the hardness of bone.

6380. The hard things with man, as the teeth, bones, cartilages, cor. to truths and goods of the lowest Natural.

6389. 'A bony ass' (Gen.xlix.14)=lowest service. 'Bone'=what has little spiritual life in it. E.445⁴.

6592. 'Ye shall cause my bones to go up from here' (Gen.l.25)=that there shall be a representative of the Church . . . 'Joseph's bones'=that which is the most external, or the ultimate of the Church, thus its representative . . . 8101.

7748. (Correspondence of ossification.)

8005. 'Ye shall not break a bone in it' (Exod.xii.46)=that scientific truth shall be entire. 'A bone'=the ultimate in which the interior things are terminated as in their base, that they may be supported in such a manner as to prevent spreading out. Such an ultimate in spiritual things is the Scientific . . . Scientifics are as the bones in man; if they are not entire, or in their own order, as when out of joint, or distorted, the form of the body is varied, and the actions according thereto.

9163¹. 'To break the bones' (Exod.xii.46)=to destroy the truths from the Divine which are last in order, on which rest and by which are supported interior truths and goods, and which if destroyed cause the whole superstructure to fall. Ultimate truths are those of the letter of the Word . . . on which the interior truths rest . . . That bones=truths, Refs.

9209⁶. 'Bones' (Ps.xxxv.10)=scientific truths.

9407⁹. 'The bones which were ruddy' (Lam.iv.7)=scientific truths which are ultimate, and serve the rest.

9643². See BASE at this ref.

9916. (The use of the bones below the neck.)

10037². 'The bones of kings and princes drawn out of the graves' (Jer.viii.1)=truths profaned; 'the bones of priests and prophets'=goods profaned.

10105⁴. 'The thigh, shoulder, and choice of the bones' (Ezek.xxiv.4)=Divine truths from Divine good in successive order.

10287². After this tearing to pieces (profaners) scarcely appear as men, but as burnt bones . . .

10429. Such (as are merely external) appear as it were bony without life as to the head and face . . .

H. 354². The interiors of those who have confirmed themselves against the Divine . . . are ossified.

553². With many of the infernals no face appears, but in place of it something hairy, or bony.

W. 304. Until (the fibres) become cartilages and bones.

P. 227⁵. (Profaners) no longer appear as men, but as bones with some skin drawn over them.

254³. (The heathen) constitute those things which are called the skins, membranes, cartilages, and bones.

M. 263. In place of feet ankles of bone without flesh.

512². (Violators) appear as consisting of bones with only some skin drawn over.

D. 3888. (Origin of the bones of the skull by the induration of the membranes.) 3913.

3910. (On those who can only be amended so as to become scarcely self conscious, as the bones are, in which however there is some life.) 3912. 3944.

5141. Those correspond to the bones who have studied various sciences and have made no use of them . . .

5575. The celestial correspond to . . . the flesh, even to the tendinous parts, the cartilaginous and bony ones.

E. 167⁵. 'My bone was not hid from Thee when I was made in secret' (Ps.cxxxix.15)=that no falsity which was made was hidden. . . 'Bone'=truth in the ultimate of order, and in the opposite sense, falsity. Refs. 196⁶.

313¹¹. 'Bones' (Jer.xxiii.9)=ultimates.

364⁵. 'Bones' (Lam.iv.7)=truths in their own ultimate, thus truths in the whole complex.

418³. 'Dry bones' (Ezek.xxxvii)=those in whom there is nothing of spiritual life. 419³.

513¹⁹. 'Flesh and bones' (Luke xxiv.39)=man's ultimates.

555¹⁴. 'Bone' (Gen.ii.23)=truth before it is vivified, that is, conjoined with good, as is truth of the memory.

619¹⁵. His 'bones' (Luke xxiv)=the truths of the ultimate.

659³. 'A man's bone' (Num.xix.16)=infernal falsity.

—¹⁴. 'The bones' (Ezek.xxxvii)=truths in the ultimate of order upon which spiritual truths are founded; but 'dry bones'=falsities from evil.

—²⁴. 'Bones' (Jer.viii.1)=falsities and evils.

665⁴. The Church is compared to 'dry bones' (Ezek. xxxvii), because they have no good of love and truth of doctrine. 666³.

Book. Liber.

Little Book. Libellus.

A. 469. 'The book of the nativities' (Gen.v.1)=an enumeration of those who were of the Most Ancient Church.

1540⁶. All the books of the ancients were written (by representatives). Such is the book of Job; Solomon's Song is an imitation of them; such were the two books mentioned in Num.xxi.14,27. 1756². 2588⁶. 2686. 2762². 3179⁶. 3482. 3942². S.20.

[A.] 2178^e. Books not thus written were accounted as valueless, those within the Church as without holiness . . . Hence the books of the Word were thus written.

3901⁶. The books of that time were almost all written by means of significatives.

4280. That the knowledge of representatives was their wisdom is evident from the oldest books of the Gentiles. 4966. 5223. 9293³. 9407⁴.

4735¹⁰. 'The book of the covenant' (Exod.xxiv.7)=the Divine truth which they then had.

5620¹³. 'The little book' (Rev.x)=truth Divine.

6752⁴. 'The book of the law' (Deut.xxxi.24)=the books of Moses. . . 'The Law of Jehovah' (Ps.1)=the books of Moses, for the prophetical books and the historical ones, except the books of Jos. and Judg. did not yet exist.

6811. (Spirits read man's memory like a book.)

8379. Their houses are lined inside with bark . . .

8620. 'To write in a book' (Exod.xvii.14)=for perpetual remembrance. III.

9049². The laws of order in the other life are not learned from books . . . but are written on hearts . . .

9341⁷. That Jeremiah 'bound a stone to the book' written by himself (li.63)=that the prophetic Word was perishing through the like things.

9386². Man has as it were two books in which are written all his thoughts and acts; these books are his two memories. (See MEMORY.)

9396. 'He took the book of the covenant' (Exod.xxiv.7)=the Word in the letter, with which the Word in Heaven is conjoined. 'Book'=the Word in the whole complex. Ex.

10325. The books of the Word are all those which have an inward sense. Enum. N.266.

10505. 'Blot me out of thy book which Thou hast written' (Exod.xxxii.32)=that the internal of the Word, of the Church, and of worship will not perish. . . 'Book'=what is in the internal. . . That 'the book which Jehovah has written,' called elsewhere 'the book of life'=what is internal. Ex.

H. 269. The Angels can recite in a few words the contents of any book.

462a³. Their very memorandum books . . . were opened and read before them, page by page.

463². I have seen books with writings in them as in the world which were taken from the memory of their authors, not a word being wanting . . .

P. 213^e. Write books . . . in favour of human prudence and nature, and put them into the hand of any Angel . . .

R. 256. 'A book written within and on the back' (Rev.v.1)=the Word in every particular and every general.

—². As the Word is meant by 'a book' . . . it is said 'to be written in the book,' 'to be judged out of the book,' 'to be blotted out of the book,' where the state of the eternal life of anyone is treated of. III.

259. 'To open the book and loose its seals' (ver.2)=to know the states of life of all in the Heavens and on earth, and also to judge everyone according to his state, for when the book is opened, an examination of their character takes place, and then the sentence is pronounced; as a judge does with and from a book of law. 295.

335. 'Heaven departed as a book rolled up' (Rev.vi.14)=separation from Heaven and conjunction with Hell. . . A book rolled up means a parchment rolled up, for their books were parchments, and comparison is made with a book, because 'the book'=the Word. E.299³. 404^e.

469. 'He had in His hand a little book open' (Rev.x.2)=the Word as to the doctrine therein that the Lord is the God of Heaven and earth, and that His Human is Divine. Ex. 472.

481. 'To take the little book' (ver.8)=to receive the doctrine concerning the Lord.

867. 'The books were opened, and another book was opened which is that of life' (Rev.xx.12)=that the interiors of the minds of them all were thrown open . . . 'The books'=the interiors of the mind of those who are evil, and are judged to death, and 'the book of life' those who are good and are judged to life. They are called 'books' because on the interiors of the mind of everyone are inscribed all things which each has thought, intended, spoken, and done in the world from the will and thence the understanding.

875¹⁵. (A book seen there which was the D.L.W.)

944. 'The prophecy of this book'=the doctrine of this book now opened by the Lord.

M. 207⁵. Books in the Spiritual World. 380². D.4711. 5561. 5602.

T. 335. (False lights seen, like open books; some flew upwards and perished; others fell and turned to dust.)

814. This state (of the Germans is represented in the Spiritual World by a man who carries books under his arms, and who reads the answer to every question out of one of the books.)

D. 385. (On the lot of bookworms.)

5999. (On the study of books there.)

E. 299. 'A book written within and on the back'=the state of life of all in Heaven and earth, in general and particular. 303.

306^e. 'A book =all things which are with a man, Spirit, and Angel, or all their states of life as to love and faith; wherefore 'to open the book'=to know these things; 'to read the book'=to know them; and 'to look into the book'=to investigate them.

404. 'As a book rolled up'=that it was closed.

569²¹. 'The book of the prophet' (Jer.li.63)=the Word which was in the book, in general, the whole Word.

J. (Post.) 98. The Mohammedans have a book in which are some pages written by correspondences.

121. The Africans have had a book since ancient times which is written by correspondences. D.5809^e.

5 M. 18. Heaps of half open books seen.

19. The tables and half open books were representatives of the intentions of the mind and thence of the deeds according to which they will be judged faithful and unfaithful.

Book of life. Liber vite.

A. 2256². (Everything) is inscribed in his book of life, that is, his two memories and his nature . . .

2474. This is his book of life which is opened in the other life . . . D. 2156.

8620². 'Books' in these passages = the recollection of all things which they have done, for everyone takes with him into the other life the memory of all his acts, thus the book of his life. Ill.

9841³. The interior or spiritual memory is the book of man's life. P. 227.

10505. See Book at these refs. R. 867.

—³. 'They who are written in the book of life' = those who are in the life of truth and good, thus who, from love and faith, do the Divine commandments . . . Ill.

H. 236^e. The Angels know all things of another's life from some ideas of his thought, because thence they know his reigning love, in which are all things in their order. Man's book of life is nothing else.

463. Man's 'book of life' means that all things both done and thought are inscribed on the whole man, and appear as if read in a book when called forth from the memory, and as if seen in effigy when the spirit is viewed in the light of Heaven. Des.

R. 588. 'The book of life' (Rev. xiii. 8) = the Word of the Lord, and all doctrine concerning Him.

735. 'Whose names were written in the book of life from the foundation of the world' (Rev. xvii. 8) = who do not believe in the Lord, and are not in doctrine from the Word.

874. 'If anyone was not found written in the book of life' (Rev. xx. 15) = those who have not lived according to the Lord's injunctions in the Word.

925. 'But they who are written in the Lamb's book of life' (Rev. xxi. 27) = that none are received into the New Church . . . but those who believe in the Lord and live according to His injunctions in the Word.

958. 'To take away their part out of the book of life' (Rev. xxii. 19) = that they cannot acquire any wisdom from the Word, or appropriate anything from it. 'The book of life' = the Word, and also the Lord as to the Word. Refs. The reason is that the Lord is the Word . . . T. 107.

D. 4430. (Opening of man's book of life there.) 4701, Examps.

E. 199. 'I will not blot out his name out of the book of life' (Rev. iii. 5) = that they will be in Heaven . . . 'The book of life' = Heaven. Ex. . . 'The book of life' is that with man which corresponds to Heaven with him. Ex. and Ill.

Bookcase. Librarium. T. 343. 692³. 694⁵. 797². —^e.

Bookworm. Under BOOK at D. 385.

Borders. See BOUNDARY.

Border. Confinium. T. 279.

Border. See FRINGE.

Border. Limbus.

A. 9492. 'A border (of gold on the ark)' (Ex. xxv. 11) = termination from good lest they be approached and injured by evils. 'A border' = termination. Ex. 10187.

9496². The 'border' had reference to the circumference (in man) in which there is termination.

9533. 'Thou shalt make for (the table) a border of gold round about' (ver. 24) = the termination of the sphere of good from the Lord's Divine good.

9535. 'Thou shalt make a border of gold of the closure round about' (ver. 25) = the termination of the sphere of Divine good.

9914. 'A lip,' or 'border,' round the upper opening of the robe (Ex. xxviii. 32) = terminated and closed on every side.

10835. (A border round the roof.)

M. 29². (The departed believed to be in limbo.)

T. 74. (The borders of their hats.)

103. After death . . . man retains the Spiritual from the father, together with a certain limbus from the purest things of nature around it; but with those who come into Heaven this limbus is below and the Spiritual above, whereas with those who come into Hell this limbus is above and the Spiritual below. (See W. 257⁵. D. Wis. viii⁷.)

Bore. Perforare.

See AWL.

5145. 'Perforated upon my head' (Gen. xl. 16) = without termination anywhere in the middle. 'Perforated' means open from top to bottom, thus not closed.

Borer. Terebra.

Boring. Terebratio.

A. 1270. A sound as of great borers. D. 3367.

D. 3218. (A kind of boring of Spirits in various parts of the body.)

3968. (Spirits who act by boring.)

Boreal. Borealis.

T. 185. (Boreal Spirits, Des.)

385⁴. In northern lands.

Born, To be. Nasci.

Birth. Nativitas.

Child. Natus.

See BEAR-parere, and HEREDITARY; also under CONNATE, and GENERATION.

A. 89. 'The nativities of the heavens and earths' (Gen. ii. 4) = the formations of the celestial man.

469. See Book at this ref.

[A.] 489². 'The born,' or 'children' (Is.xxix.23)=the regenerate who have intelligence of what is good and true.

611. 'The nativities of Noah' (Gen.vi.9)=a description of the reformation or regeneration of the new Church.

987². Man when born is the lowest of all living things. M.350. T.417.

1050². Man is born into no exercise of his life . . .

1145. 'These are the nativities of the sons of Noah' (Gen.x.1)=the derivations of the doctrinals and worships of the Ancient Church. . . In the outward sense, 'nativities' are the generations of one from another; but in the inward sense, regard celestial and spiritual things, or those which are of charity and faith, thus here, the nativities which are of the Church . . .

1255. 'According to their births' (Gen.x.32)=as they could be reformed. 'Birth'=reformation; for when a man is reborn or regenerated by the Lord, each and all things which he receives anew are births . . .

1330. 'These are the nativities of Shem' (Gen.xi.10)=the derivations of the second Ancient Church. 'Nativities'=the origin and derivation of doctrinals and worships. . . Wherefore when any Church is born, it is said that there were 'nativities' of it. Ill.

1360. 'These are the nativities of Terah' (ver.27)=the origins and derivations of idolatries . . .

1367. 'The land of his nativity' (ver.28)=origin.

1412. 'From thy nativity' (Gen.xii.1)=corporeal and worldly exterior things.

1414. Through birth from the virgin mother He derived infirmities like those of man in general.

1438. Being born from Jehovah . . .

1444. He was born as another man . . . 1450. 1460. 1542². 1616. 1893². 1894². 1902. 4692⁵. 4963³.

1573. Where there is hereditary evil there is also falsity, the latter is born from the former, but falsity from evil cannot be born until the man is imbued with scientifics and Knowledges . . .

—³. No man can ever be born from any man without deriving evil thence . . .

—⁶. If He had been born Divine, that is, without evil . . .

—⁷. The Lord could have assumed the Human without birth . . .

1902. If man were imbued with no hereditary evil, he would be born rational immediately from the marriage of the celestial things of the inward man with its spiritual things, and the Scientific would be born through the Rational, so that man would possess the whole Rational and the whole Scientific at his coming into the world . . . as may be inferred from the fact that all animals are born into the whole Scientific . . . What causes man to be born (into no knowledge) is hereditary evil from the father and mother, for thus all his faculties are turned the wrong way about.

1906. Man when born has not one whit of good of himself, but is completely defiled with hereditary evil. 4644².

2035. 'Generations and nativities'=those things which are of faith.

2048. 'Those born in the house' (Gen.xvii.12)=the celestial. (See 1708.) E.601¹².

2293². They know not but that they were born in Heaven.

2303. Immediately after the birth of infants Angels from the Heaven of innocence are with them.

2531². 'Born of God' (John i.13)=those who are in love and thence in faith.

2557. Man not born into any knowledge, nor into anything rational, but only into the capacity of receiving them. 3161². 3175². 5081. T.480².

—². If spiritual truth flowed in from within, as good does, man would be born into the whole Rational and at the same time into the whole Scientific, so that he would not need to learn anything.

2592³. He was born a Man, but was conceived from God.

2628. 'That were born to him' (Gen.xxi.3)=to come forth from the Divine.

— The Lord's Divine Human was not only conceived, but was also born from Jehovah . . . 2649². 2798.

2661². If the Most Ancient Church had continued in its integrity, the Lord would have had no need to be born a Man.

2682². (Man is born into both worlds.)

2798². He was born from the virgin Mary as another man, but when again born, or made Divine, it was from Jehovah . . .

2803³. The Divine Human which was born from eternity was also born in time, and being born in time, and being glorified, is the same thing. Sig.

3026. 'Birth' (Gen.xxiv.4)=the Spiritual of love, here, Divine celestial and spiritual things . . .

3036². 'The land of my birth' (ver.7)=the maternal hereditary as to falsity.

3183. As soon as man is born, he is introduced into a state of innocence . . .

3203². He who is born anew is like an infant . . .

3263. 'These are the nativities of Ishmael' (Gen.xxv.12)=the derivations of that spiritual Church . . . 3267. 3279.

3298. Good and truth are like offspring, being conceived, carried in the womb, born, etc. 3308.

3299. Whatever is born derives being from the father and manifesting from the mother; there must be both.

3469³. Natural good is the good into which a man is born . . . this he derives from his parents . . .

3570⁴. (Parallel between man's two births.)

3579³. 'The dew of thy birth' (Ps.cx.3)=the celestial of love.

3793. There is no marriage of good and truth in the Natural with man when he is born, for man alone is not born in Divine order . . .

3974. 'Children' (Gen.xxx.26)=truths. 4270. 4377. 4383. E.411²⁶.

4038². Man when first born is merely corporeal, but there is a capacity in him of being perfected . . .

4070. 'To thy birth' (Gen.xxxi.3)=to truth thence. 'Birth'=the truth which is from good; for all truth is born from good . . . 4094. 10335³.

4231. The good of the Natural does not mean the good into which a man is born, or which he derives from his parents, but good which as to its origin is spiritual; into this no one is born . . .

4378^e. Thus man is continually being born . . .

4592³. All men are born natural with the power to become either celestial or spiritual; the Lord alone was born spiritual celestial, and therefore was born at Bethlehem . . . The reason He was born spiritual celestial was that the Divine was in Him. 4594.

4610. 'Born to him' (Gen.xxxv.26)=their origin.

4641. 'These are the nativities of Esau' (Gen.xxxvi.1)=derivations in the Lord's Divine good natural . . . The Lord's Divine good natural, which is represented by 'Esau,' is the Divine he had from birth . . . 4644.

4668. 'Nativities' (Gen.xxxvii.2)=the derivations of those things of the Church, namely, of truth from good, or of faith from love.

4765. 'The child is not' (Gen.xxxvii.30)=that there was no faith in Him. 'Child'=truth of faith.

5160. 'Pharaoh's birth day' (Gen.xl.20)=when the Natural is being regenerated. 'To be born'=to be regenerated. Ex.

5348. 'To be born'=to be reborn.

5598. 'As to our birth' (Gen.xliii.7)=concerning the truths of faith there. 'Birth'=that of truth from good. Ex.

5826⁴. 'Born of God'=those who are regenerated by the Lord, and are thence in good. 9454. 10829^e. L.18^e. E.329^e.

5850. Animals . . . are born into all things which belong to them . . .

5937^e. People remain in the dogmas in which they were born . . . 8993². 9300⁶. S.92.

6025. 'Birth'=the new birth through faith and charity.

6222^e. Both the Intellectual and the Voluntary are born from the Internal . . . for every affection of good and truth . . . is born from no other source . . .

6323. See ANIMAL at this ref.

—³. If man were in order . . . above all animals he would be born not only into scientifics, but also into all spiritual truths and celestial goods, and thus into all wisdom and intelligence . . . 7750². H.352³.

6367. Man is born into those things which are of the voluntary part; hence the people of the Most Ancient Church were born into the good of love in so far as they had good in their Voluntary.

6716. Hence His Human was not Divine from birth.

8042². The generations or nativities of truths from good are as the generations or nativities of sons and daughters from a parent . . .

8550. Every man is born into the evils of the love of self and of the world from his parents . . . 9278². H.296. 424. N.79^e. Life 68. 110. P.83. R.692². M.525. T.520. Gen.art. 612. 658⁵. P.281². M.94.

8552. (Necessity of man's being born anew.)

8983. 'Children' (Ex.xxi.4)=derived truths and goods.

8998. They who have been born within the Church . . . are not to contract marriages with those born out of the Church . . .

9156^e. 'Children' or 'sons'=truths of faith. Refs. 9372³.

9336². Man when born as to hereditary evils is a Hell in the least form.

9350. Why the Lord willed to be born in our Earth. Gen.art. U.113. D.4376.

10122². The new understanding and will into which man is born from the Lord . . . 10660. Sig.

10156. Man is born natural . . .

10249³. 'Children' (Is.xliv.3)=those who are of the Church.

10318. Man is born in mere ignorance . . . for he is born hereditarily into all evil of the love of self and the world. H.202.

10367². Man is born into evils of every kind, and thence into falsities of every kind . . .

H. 345². Little children (in Heaven) do not know that they were born in the world, wherefore they believe that they were born in Heaven; thus they do not know of any birth but the spiritual one . . .

Life 69. The means of reformation are . . . that man is born into mere ignorance . . .

W. 67. Man is born into the ultimate degree of the natural world . . .

236. These three degrees of height are in every man from his birth . . .

258. Every man is born into the capacity of understanding truths even to the inmost degree . . .

270. From birth the spiritual mind is not open, but only in the potency of being opened . . . For man is born animal, but becomes man. M.152a².

P. 32². Man comes into the first degree which is natural when he is born . . .

275. If man were born into the love in which he was created, he would not be in any evil, nay, he would not know what evil is . . . If man were born into this love he would not be born into the thick darkness of ignorance, as now every man is, but into a certain light of knowledge and thence of intelligence, and into these he would also quickly come . . .

276. When the love of the neighbour was turned into self-love, man could no longer be born into the light of knowledge and intelligence, but into the thick darkness of ignorance, because into the ultimate plane of life . . .

277³. An infant is born black from a black . . .

—⁴. Every infant is born into this external of life.

M. 33. From this primitive formation it arises that the male is born intellectual, and the female voluntary . . .

[M.] 133. Why man is not born into the knowledge of any love, when yet beasts and birds . . . are born into the knowledges of all their loves. Fully Ex. T.48^a.

134^a. Man is born into no knowledge, that he may be able to come into all . . . and he is born into no love, that he may come into all . . .

447. Every man is born corporeal, becomes sensual, then natural, and successively rational . . .

T. 405. Emperors, kings, etc. who are born to command, if they humble themselves before God, are sometimes less in the love of dominion than men sprung from the lowest orders.

480^a. Man (is born) into the inclination to love himself and the world, and also the neighbour and God . . .

521^a. Unless broken through new birth from the Lord.

583. (Correspondence of regeneration to conception, gestation, birth, and education.) Gen.art. . . Hence natural births in the Word mean spiritual births. Ill. E.434⁷.

612^a. As man is born spiritual as to the interiors of his mind, differently from a beast . . .

E.624¹⁹. Those who are born in the Church and are attached to it merely on that account. Sig.

745^a. 'To be born'=to be regenerated.

Born again. Renasci.

Rebirth. Renascentia.

See under BORN.

A. 986^a. Man is born again through truths of faith. H.342(s).

3701^a. He ought to be born again as an infant . . .

3860. Regeneration is called rebirth, but spiritual.

5115^a. The man who is being born again . . .

5130^a. The rebirth of the Sensual subject to the intellectual part, Treated of. 5122.

10367^a. In order to be delivered from Hell, man must be wholly born again by the Lord. It is this rebirth which is called regeneration. In order therefore that he may be born again he must first learn truths . . .

H. 279. Regeneration is rebirth as to the spiritual man. Des.

Borrow. Mutuum accipere.

See LEND-faenerari, also under ASK-petere.

E. 556^a. 'From him who would borrow of thee turn not thou away' (Matt.v.42)=if he longs to be instructed, instruct him; for the evil long for this in order to pervert and deprive, but are not able.

Bosom. Gremium.

A. 1736^a. 'To carry in the bosom' (Is.xl.11) is predated of His love or mercy.

T. 508^a. A golden image in his bosom . . .

582^a. As one who warms a serpent in his bosom.

Bosom. Sinus.

See under BREAST.

A. 3305⁷. 'To be in Abraham's bosom' (Luke xvi.22)=in the Lord (from conjunction through love). 6960^a.

4048^a. Such are they who relate to the sinuses or greater blood-vessels of the brain; and they who resemble such relate to the longitudinal sinus between the two hemispheres of the brain, which is in a state of quiet however the brain on each side may be agitated. 7744^a. D.3879.

6960. 'Convey thy hand into thy bosom' (Ex.iv.6)=the appropriation of truth. . . 'Bosom'=love; for what belongs to the breast corresponds to love . . . And as the bosom corresponds to love, it also=the proprium, for that is proper to man which is of his love; therefore here, 'to convey the hand into the bosom'=appropriation. Ill.

—². 'Lying in the bosom' (Mic.vii.5)=one who is conjoined through love. Hence a wife is called 'the wife of her husband's bosom' (Deut.xxviii.54; 2 Sam. xii.8), and a husband is called 'the husband of the wife's bosom' (Deut.xxviii.56), and this because the one is the other's.

—, 'Bosom' (Ps.xxxv.13)=himself.

—³. 'To give into the bosom' (Luke vi.38)=to themselves as their Own. —^e.

—⁴. 'To lean on the bosom' (John xiii.23)=to be loved, and to be conjoined through love. 10087^a. —^e.

—⁵. 'Bosom'=that which actually belongs to man, and appropriation not through love, in the following. Ill.

6998⁷. (The interior and the inmost bosom of the Word.)

E. 821^a. 'Bosom' and 'breast,' in the Word=spiritual love, which is love in act; and the Lord's 'bosom' and 'breast' (John xiii.23)=the Divine love itself; wherefore they are in the province of the breast in Heaven who are in spiritual love.

Botany. Scientia botanica. A.4529.

Both. Ambo.

A. 9166. 'Both' (Ex.xxii.11)=in each and all things, for in the inward sense 'between both' does not mean between two, but in each and all things; for 'two'=conjunction into one.

9658. 'Both' or 'two' (Ex.xxvi.24)=conjunction.

Bottle. Lagena.

A. 2674. '(Hagar's) bottle of water' (Gen.xxi.14)=very little truth. 2681. 2703.

5567^a. An earthen flask in his hand . . .

E. 177^a. 'A bottle,' or 'potter's vessel' (Jer.xix.1)=falsity.

374¹³. 'A flagon' (Hos.iii.1)=that which contains, thus the ultimate sense of the Word, which they apply to their falsities and evils.

Bottle. Uter.

R. 672^a. 'Bottles,' etc.=those things which are contained in them. Ill.

839^a. Bottles filled with iron filings . . . T.116^e.

T. 38^a. Like a bottle containing worms . . . 258.

380⁴. Their mouth is like a bottle of honey, and their heart is like a bottle of gall.

E. 195¹⁵. 'Wine'=truth, and 'bottles,' the Knowledges which contain it.

376²⁸. 'Old bottles' (Matt.ix.17)=the statutes and judgments of the Jewish Church, and 'new bottles,' the Lord's injunctions and commands.

—³⁴. 'Every bottle shall be filled with wine' (Jer. xiii.12)=the mind of man, for this is a recipient of truth or falsity, as a bottle is of wine.

242¹⁴. 'Earthen pitchers, the work of the hands of the potter' (Lam.iv.2)=evils of life and falsities of doctrine which are from man's Own intelligence. (See also 177.)

Bottomless pit. See DEEP—Abyssus.

Bough. Termes.

R. 875¹⁵. I plucked some twigs (which blossomed).

M. 77^e. (Twigs which became brass with gold tips.)

T. 258. Like a bottle girded with twigs of cedar.

767⁸. In every bough and sprig of a tree . . .

Boundary. Limes.

A. 2694². (Extension of the boundaries of the sphere of perception.)

4205. A limit of the influx of good. Sig.

943⁹. 'A bound that they may not pass over' (Ps. civ.9)=the ultimate of truth Divine . . .

D. 2151. They are not allowed to go beyond fixed limits which are the limits of permission, and the limits are such that nothing is ever permitted except what is turned into good by the Lord.

Boundary, Term. Terminus.

Terminate. Terminare.

Termination. Terminatio.

See BORDER—limbus, also under CANAAN.

A. 129^e. By terms familiar to the learned . . .

196². Use terms they themselves do not understand.

946. They stick fast in terms . . . 3348². —^o.

1072. The ideas of thought are terminated (in sensuous things). 2553.

1211. 'The boundary of the Canaanites' (Gen.x.19) =the extension of Knowledges with them. Ex.

1311². Every evil has its own limits . . . When it transgresses these limits it runs into the penalty of evil. 1857².

1444³. The sea and Jordan were boundaries. 1585.

1486^e. Scientifics are the ultimates in which interior things are terminated in order . . .

1585². The ultimate things, or boundaries, represented the outward man; the boundaries of Canaan were many, in general the Euphrates and the Jordan, and the sea.

1626^e. He who has extinguished spiritual ideas by means of the terms and definitions of human philosophy . . .

1866. The extension (of spiritual and celestial things) is meant by the boundaries of Canaan.

2718³. The last boundary of the spiritual is the first of the celestial . . .

2973. 'Borders,' and 'round about' (Gen.xxiii.17)=those things which are exterior.

3348. They have got but little beyond terms . . . And they dispute about terms. Examps.

3540. The skins are the outermost things of an animal in which its interior things are terminated . . .

—². These are the terminations of interior things.

3632. Divine order is not terminated except with man in his bodily things, namely in his gestures, actions, etc.

3720^e. The Natural is the ultimate of order, for in it all interior things are terminated . . . 4539.

3726. 'He set it for a pillar' (Gen.xxviii.18)=a holy boundary. . . Good cannot be terminated in good, but in truth, for truth is the recipient of good. 3727. 4090.

3727. The reason 'a pillar'=a holy boundary, thus the ultimate of order, is that in most ancient times they placed stones where their boundaries were, which marked off the possessions of one from those of another, and were for a sign and a witness that their boundaries were there. . . Then they thought from them concerning the ultimate in man, thus concerning the ultimate of order, which is truth in the natural man . . . Hence the ancients who were after the flood began to regard as holy the stones which had been set up in the boundaries. (See PILLAR, and STONE.) 4580.

4060⁴. Influx . . . is terminated in the ultimate . . .

4089. Celestial and spiritual things are terminated in the Natural. 4240.

4116. All the boundaries of Canaan represented that which is last or ultimate, and that which is first; that which is last or ultimate because [the land] ceased there, and that which is first because it began there; for all boundaries are of this nature, being the last things to those who go forth, and the first to those who come in . . . 4255².

4195. Such heaps were for a sign . . . that the boundary was there.

4214³. The thoughts (of Spirits) are not terminated in such things as while they were in the body . . .

4240. All boundaries, as rivers, mountains, and lands, represented those things which were ultimate. Refs.

4270. 'Jabbock' was a boundary of Canaan. Ex. All the boundaries of that Land were significative of celestial and spiritual things of the Lord's Kingdom, according to distance and situation. Refs. 4313.

4547. The Holy in which interior things are terminated. Sig.

4585³. (Necessity of using these terms.)

4658². The terms Aristotle invented . . .

—³. They who want to think from terms . . .

4875^e. There are outermost truths to which interior truths are determined, and in which they are terminated.

4938. Celestial things are terminated in spiritual things, and spiritual things in natural things.

[A.] 4939. Nature is that in which the things of the Spiritual World are terminated. 10728.

5089°. They have immersed their thoughts in such things as are of the world, that is, in terms and distinctions from them, thus in sensuous things . . .

5134°. The Divine . . . cannot be terminated in evils and falsities, as is the case with man . . .

5145. 'Perforated' (Gen.xl.16)=without termination anywhere in the middle. Ex. . . The interiors are distinct in degrees, and are terminated in each degree, and through the termination are separated from the lower degree . . . It is necessary that all the degrees be well terminated, and thus by means of terminations be distinct from each other. Ex.

—³. Consequence of the voluntary things not being terminated anywhere in the middle.

—⁴. Whether there are terminations, and thus planes, may be known in this way . . . With those who have perceptions of good and truth, there are terminations from the first degree to the last, for such perceptions are impossible without terminations of all the degrees. . . . With those who have conscience, there are also terminations, but from the second degree, or from the third to the ultimate. Ex. . . Conscience itself is the interior plane in which the influx of Divine good is terminated . . . With those who have no conscience . . . the terminations are in the delights of self. Enum.

—⁵. It is chiefly in the other life that it is recognized whether the voluntary things have been terminated with a man, or not terminated. Ex. . . All those with whom the interior voluntary things have been terminated, are elevated into Heaven . . . but all those with whom the interior voluntary things have not been terminated, betake themselves into Hell, for the Divine flows through and is turned into what is infernal . . .

—⁶. Voluntary things are said to be 'perforated,' or not terminated, when there is no affection of good and truth, or of what is just and fair . . . The affections are what terminate and close.

5196. From boundary to boundary. Sig. and Ex. . . The reason 'the river'=a boundary, is that the great rivers, Euphrates, Jordan, and Nile, and above all, the sea, were the ultimate boundaries of Canaan. 5205.

5205. That falsities stood in the boundaries where truths were, Sig. and Ex.

5207. That truths are extirpated from the Natural by means of falsities in the boundaries, Sig. and Ex.

5373°. The Spiritual World is terminated in man's Natural . . .

5651°. The Natural is the plane in which influx is terminated . . . 10208°. Refs.

6406. The plane in which interior things are terminated is the Natural . . .

6977°. Evil and falsity grow there according to the capacity of receiving them which he had acquired in the world, but he is not allowed to overstep the acquired limits.

7191. (No stops—signa terminationum, in the Hebrew.)

7381°. The ideas of interior thought . . . are terminated in material things, and where they are terminated there they appear to be.

7554°. If (truths and evils) cannot be separated, they are cast out to the boundaries.

7643. 'The locust in thy boundary' (Ex.x.4)=falsity in the outermost things.

7926°. The Hells cannot force their way up further than those who are in the last boundaries of Heaven. Ex.

8063. 'In all thy border' (Ex.xiii.7)=wherever truth from good extends itself. 'Border'=the extension of truth from good, for all truth has its own extension . . . and therefore has its boundaries . . .

8325°. Two statues at the boundary of the universe.

8472°. They who receive little are in the boundaries of Heaven . . .

8539. 'They ate manna until their coming to the boundary of the Land of Canaan' (Ex.xvi.36)=that they had the appropriation of good from truth until they came to the region of Heaven. . . 'The boundary of the Land of Canaan'=the entrance to Heaven, or the region where Heaven begins.

8628. They had made wisdom to consist . . . chiefly in philosophical terms . . . In the other life they have but little perception, for they see only in terms, and from terms . . . 8631.

8794. 'Thou shalt set bounds for the people round about' (Ex.xix.12)=extension into Heaven no further than to the spiritual spheres of good. Ex. 8837.

9340. 'Thou shalt set thy boundary from the Red Sea even to the sea of the Philistines' (Ex.xxiii.31)=extension from scientific truths to the interior truths of faith. Ex.

9430°. In this, interior things are terminated and come to rest . . .

9499. Terminations in Heaven, Sig. and Ex.

9853. 'The ends' (Ex.xxviii.14)=the outermost things.

9879. 'Thou shalt set upon the breastplate chains at the ends' (ver.22)=the conjunction of the whole of Heaven in the outermost things.

10675. 'I will make thy border spread out' (Ex.xxxiv.24)=the multiplication and extension of truth from good.

H. 38 (u). Every degree is terminated. Refs.

50. The simpler angels are in the boundaries. 52. 275.

360°. In the world are the ultimate effects in which everyone's affection is to be terminated . . .

W. 230. Without use, love and wisdom have no boundary, or end.

253°. They are in some higher Heaven at its boundaries, where they are as it were in the light of evening; for in every Society the light decreases from the middle to the boundaries . . . Those are in the boundaries who are in few truths.

259. With such persons, (idiots, etc.) the Rational cannot be elevated; for the life . . . with these has not the boundaries in which it ceases so disposed that . . .

T. 536°. They are driven into deserts, or caverns, which are in the last boundaries of the so-called Christian world.

D. 866. Philosophy consists of mere terms. (See under PHILOSOPHY.)

1603. (On the use and abuse of philosophical terms.)

E. 365⁴¹. 'In the borders' (Is.lx.18)=in the natural man, for in the things which are there spiritual things are terminated.

374¹². 'The border' (Ps.cxliv.14)=all these things.

403²². 'Border' (Ps.cv.31)=the ultimate in which interior things cease and in which they are all together.

406¹⁶. (On the boundaries of the Spiritual World.)

518¹⁷. 'I will set thy boundary at the Red Sea even to the sea of the Philistines, and from the desert even to the river' (Ex.xxiii.31). The boundaries of Canaan=the ultimates of the Church, which are scientific truths, knowledges of truth and good from the Word, and rational things. Ex. —¹⁸.

654⁸. 'The border (of Egypt)' (Is.xix.19)=scientific truth.

831⁴. The life of every man is from his works, because affection . . . and thought . . . are terminated in them, and so come forth; and unless these are terminated they perish . . .

Bow. Arcus.

Bowed. Arcuatus. A.1629.

A. 974. The state of the man after the Flood who can receive charity is described by 'the bow in the cloud.' 1038⁶.

1042. 'I will set the bow in the cloud' (Gen.ix.13)=the state of the regenerate spiritual man, which is like the bow of a rainbow. (See RAINBOW). E.701²⁶.

—². When the proprium is presented to view about a regenerate spiritual man in the other life, it appears like a bow in a cloud, which bow is a representation of spiritual things in his natural things. Ill.

—⁶. The natural things of man thus enlightened by means of spiritual light from the Lord, appear like a bow in a cloud. E.595.

1043. The 'bow,' or the colour of the bow, never exists except in a cloud. Ex.

1048. 'The bow shall be seen in a cloud' (Gen.ix.14)=when a man is still such that he can be regenerated. 'The bow in the cloud'=a sign of regeneration. . . It is a man's sphere which is made visible by means of a bow when the Lord pleases. 1053.

1195⁶. 'To handle and bend the bow' (Jer.xlvi.9)=to reason.

2685. '(Hagar) a bow-shot off' (Gen.xxi.16)=the state and degree of absence from the doctrine of truth. Ex. . . 'A bow' is predicated of the spiritual man . . .

2686. That 'a bow'=the doctrine of truth, Ill. 3499. 5354⁷. 6306⁵. 9396¹¹.

—⁵. 'They who shoot with and bend the bow' (Jer. i.14, 29; li.3)=those who tell and teach the doctrine of truth.

—⁷. In the opposite sense, 'a bow'=the doctrine of falsity. Ill. 2709⁴.

2709. (Ishmael) 'a shooter with the bow' (Gen.xxi.20)=the man of the spiritual Church. . . 'A bow'=doctrine. The man of the spiritual Church was formerly called 'a shooter with the bow,' because he defends himself by means of truths . . . 6422.

2799⁵. 'To break the bow, sword, etc.' (Hos.ii.18)=no combat there concerning doctrine and truth. E.734⁴.

4922². 'To teach the bow' (2 Sam.i.24)=to teach the doctrine of love and charity. 9468⁴. E.357³.

6421. 'A bow'=doctrine; the missiles, the things of doctrine, thus truths of doctrine with those who are in truths, and falsities of doctrine with those who are in falsities. 9228².

6422. 'A bow'=doctrinal things of the spiritual Church.

6423. 'He shall sit in the strength of his bow' (Gen. xlix.24)=that he is safe by the combating truth of doctrine. . . 'A bow'=doctrine.

7729². 'All their bows bent' (Is.v.28)=doctrine of falsity. 8215³. 8313³. 8902⁵.

9182⁶. 'To break the bow,' etc.=to destroy the doctrine of falsity. E.650³⁴.

S. 12. 'The bow of him who sat on the white horse'=the doctrine of charity and faith combating against falsities. 79². E.356.

R. 299. 'He that sat on him had a bow'=that they have the doctrine of truth and good from the Word, by means of which they have fought against evils and falsities from Hell, thus against Hell. . . 'A bow'=the doctrine of truth and good from the Word fighting against evils and falsities.

—². That 'a bow,' in the Word=doctrine fighting, in both senses, Ill.

—⁴. 'A bow,' said of the Lord=the Word. Ill.

E. 238³. 'The wicked bend their bow to cast down the wretched and the poor' (Ps.xxxvii.14). 'Bow'=the doctrine of falsity fighting against the doctrine of truth.

355²⁸. 'Bow of war' (Zech.x.4)=truth combating from doctrine.

357. 'That 'a bow'=doctrine combating, or the doctrine from which we combat against evils and falsities; and that 'arrows,' etc.=the truths of doctrine which combat, fully Ill.

—¹². (In the opposite sense) 'a bow'=the doctrine of falsity fighting against truths and goods, and destroying them; and the 'arrows,' etc., its falsities themselves. Fully ill.

734⁶. 'A bow of brass' (Ps.xviii.34)=the doctrine of the good of life. (See also 357⁴.)

C.190. As a bow which is never unstrung . . .

Bow. See INCLINATION.

Bow. Curvare, Incurvare.

A. 2153. '(Abraham) bowed himself towards the earth' (Gen.xviii.2)=the effect of humiliation from joy thence. 'To bow'=to humble. See 4347.

2327. '(Lot) bowed himself the face to the earth' (Gen. xix.1)=humiliation. Ex.

[A.] 2794. 'We will bow ourselves' (Gen.xxii.5)=submission.

2927. 'Abraham arose and bowed himself' (Gen.xxiii.7)=the Lord's joy on account of a kind reception. . . . 'To bow himself'=to rejoice. Bowing is a gesture of both humiliation and joy. 2950. 3163.

3118. See BEND at these refs. 5682. 7068.

3581. 'Peoples shall bow themselves to Thee' (Gen.xxvii.29)=truths of good.

4347. '(Jacob) bowed himself to the earth seven times' (Gen.xxxiii.3)=submission of all things. 4360. 4361. 4362. 6366.

4689. 'They bowed themselves to my sheaf' (Gen.xxxvii.7)=adoration. 'To bow one's self'=the effect of humiliation, thus adoration. 4698. 4701.

4844⁵. 'The bowed down,' etc. (Ps.cxlvi.8) treats of those who are being instructed in truths and led to good.

5420. 'They bowed themselves to him the face to the earth' (Gen.xlii.6)=humiliation. 'To bow one's self'=humiliation; and 'the face to the earth'=the humiliation of adoration. Ex. 5676. 6266. 7788.

6188. 'Israel bowed himself upon the head of the bed' (Gen.xlvii.31)=that he turned himself to those things which are of the interior natural. 'To bow himself,' here=to turn himself.

6266. Bowing is such an act of the body as corresponds to the humiliation of the mind; hence they who are in the adoration of God from the heart thus bow themselves.

6369. 'He stooped down,' etc. (Gen.xlix.9)=to put himself in power; for when a lion stoops down he hardens his nerves, and makes himself strong. R.241². E.278³.

8663. (Moses) 'bowed himself' (Ex.xviii.7)=admission; because predicated of truth Divine.

9317. 'Thou shalt not bow thyself to their gods' (Ex.xxiii.24)=that the falsities of evil are not to be worshipped. 'To bow one's self'=adoration and worship. 10553. 10645. E.410³.

9377. 'Ye shall bow yourselves afar off' (Ex.xxiv.1)=humiliation and adoration from the heart, and then the Lord's influx. Ex.

E. 77. Humiliation before man produces bowing according to the estimation in which he is held, but before the Divine a complete bowing down. Ex.

Bowels. Under VISCERA.

Bowl. Under CUP—Scyphus.

Bowstring. Under NERVE.

Boy. Under CHILD—puer.

Box. Buxus.

A. 2162¹¹. 'The box,' etc. (Is.lx.13)=celestial natural things. (=corresponding natural goods and truths. 9406².)

M. 78³. Grass plots surrounded with box.

E. 375³³. 'The box' etc. (Is.xli.19)=good and truth thence in the Natural. Id.

730²⁵. 'The box' (Is.xli.19)=the understanding of what is good and true in the natural.

Bozrah. Bozrah. A. 4650.

E. 359³. Because the Word as to the literal sense had been torn to pieces by the Jewish people, and Divine truth thereby adulterated, it is said 'with bespattered garments from Bozrah' (Is.lxiii.1) . . . 'Garments from Bozrah'=the ultimate of the Word, which is the sense of its letter. 922⁵.

922⁵. 'Bozrah' means 'the vintage' . . . which is said of truth.

Bracelet. Armilla.

A. 3103. (The truth of the Church was represented by the bracelets given to a bride. Ill.)

3105. 'Two bracelets' (Gen.xxiv.22)=Divine truth. Ill.

— . Bracelets were also for a king, but on the arm. E.358².

M. 20³. The bridegroom took bracelets and a necklace of pearls, and fastened the bracelets on her wrists . . .

42⁴. Her bracelets were of pearls.

E. 195⁷. 'Bracelets'=the truths and goods of the Church. Refs.

242¹⁵. 'Bracelets upon the hands' (Ezek.xvi.11)=specifically, truths from good. Refs.

358⁸. 'A bracelet upon the arm' (2 Sam.i.10) was an ensign of power . . . against what is evil and false.

Brahe. D.5099.

Brain. Cerebrum.

See CEREBELLUM, DURA MATER, PIA MATER.

A. 444⁸. If the soul were mere thought, man would have no need of so much brain, the whole brain being organic of the interior senses . . . D.3471.

501. As in the brain, in the inmost things of which there are subtle organic [parts] called the cortical substances, from which and through which the operations of the soul proceed . . .

641. The intellectual things of Spirits and Angels flow into the left part of the head or brain, and the voluntary things into the right. . . But when evil Spirits flow in, there is as it were an inundation; into the left part of the brain with direful phantasies and persuasions, into the right with cupidities. 644. 4410. 5725, Ex.

1635⁶. The organs of the head, or brain . . .

1763. The speech of many Spirits . . . inflowing into the brain with varied determination.

3884. The left part of the brain corresponds to rational or intellectual things, and the right to affections or voluntary things.

4039. On the correspondence of the cerebrum and cerebellum. Gen.art.

4040. There appear in the brain . . . wonderful circumvolutions and gyres, in which are placed the cortical substances; from these fibres run forth which constitute the marrow of the brain; these fibres proceed thence through the nerves into the body, and there perform functions according to the orders of the brain . . .

4041. The heavenly form in the lowest sphere is such as is the form of the circumvolutions which appear in human brains . . . The brain is formed according to the form of the flowing of Heaven; but the interiors of it, which do not appear to the eye, are according to the interior forms of Heaven, which are quite incomprehensible . . . D.2728.

4042. It is through the brain and its interiors that the descent and ascent (between the Heavens and the world) takes place, for there are the very beginnings . . .

4045. There are Heavens which relate to the cerebrum and cerebellum in general, and in these Heavens there are those who relate to the parts or members of the brains. Enum. 4222, Enum.

4048^e. See BOSOM-sinus, at this ref.

4049. (The Spirits of the ventricles of the brain) are those who long to come into Heaven . . . The reason is that the better kind of lymph which is in the ventricles is of such a nature, namely, that it returns into the brain . . . The brain is Heaven . . . D.831.

4045. On those who represent the infundibulum in the brain. D.913.

4051. (The Spirits of the isthmus of the brain, and of the little knots of fibres in the brain.) 5189³. D.3837.

4052. See BEGINNING-principium, at this ref.

— They who correspond to the right part of the brain are they who are in the will of good, and thence in the will of truth; and they who correspond to the left part of the brain are they who are in the understanding of good and truth, and thence in the affection of them.

4054. The brain, like Heaven, is in the sphere of ends which are uses; for whatever flows in from the Lord is an end regarding the salvation of the human race; this end is what reigns in Heaven, and also what thence reigns in the brain; for the brain, where the man's mind is, has regard to ends in the body . . .

—². These (Spirits) are obstructions of the brain. D.1812. 4548.

4319². Their brain appeared hairy and darksome . . . Their brain appeared orderly, snowy, and lucid . . .

4325. The voluntary sense proper is in the cerebrum, the involuntary sense proper is in the cerebellum . . . The fibres which flow forth from the cerebrum present in general the voluntary sense, and those which flow forth from the cerebellum the involuntary sense . . . Those parts which encompass the body, as the muscles and skin, and the organs of sense, for the most part receive fibres from the cerebrum; hence man's senses and movements are according to his will; but those which are enclosed within, and are called the viscera, receive fibres from the cerebellum; hence man has no feeling of them, nor are they under the determination of his will.

4326^e. (Fibres of the cerebrum now translated into the face, which exercise command over those from the cerebellum.) D.3868.

2 E

4407. The internal sight penetrates to the internal sensory, which is in the brain, by a shorter and more interior way than the hearing; hence it is that some animals have subsidiary brains within the orbits of their eyes; for their Intellectual depends upon their sight. Not so man, who possesses a larger brain, so that his Intellectual may not depend upon his sight, but his sight on his Intellectual.

4793⁵. When they supposed that they were penetrating towards the interiors of the head and brain, they were conveyed away through the excrementitious ways therein . . .

5180. These are they to whom corresponds the more subtle chyle which is conveyed towards the brain, and is there commingled with new animal spirit . . .

5189^e. Ends are represented by the beginnings from which are the fibres, such as there are in the brain . . .

5386. The secretory and excretory parts of the brain are the ventricles and the mammillary processes, which draw off the mucus . . . To these correspond . . . tenacities of opinions, and unnecessary conscientiousnesses . . . 5724. D.939-943. 954. 1240.

5717. There are some who not only relate to the most sticky things of the brain, which are its excrementitious things, but also know how to infect them as it were with poisons . . . Such were they who slew whole armies . . . 5718. D.1783, Ex.

6607. See AFFECTION at this ref.

6872³. The organic beginnings which are in the brain.

7170. I felt a remarkable change in the brain . . .

7359. Through the Eustachian tube into the brain . . .

7408. This fasciculation is especially presented to view in the brain, in the two substances there, called the cortical and the medullary.

7481. The middle province, which is between the cerebrum and the cerebellum, corresponds to (the Spirits of Mars); for with those with whom the cerebrum and cerebellum are conjoined as to spiritual operations, the face acts as one with the thought . . .

9670². To the Angels of the middle Heaven correspond those things with man which belong to the provinces of the lungs and cerebrum . . . These things are called voluntary (as distinguished from involuntary).

9914. All the first things which are of the head, namely, of the cerebrum and cerebellum, combine themselves together into bundles of fibres and nervules there, and being combined together, are sent down through the neck . . . and move the organic parts there at the bidding of the will, which begins in the brains.

H. 212. How these (fibres) go and flow in the brain does not appear to the eye, for innumerable ones there are so folded together that taken together they appear as a soft continuous mass . . .

251. The influx of the spiritual Angels with man is into his head from the forehead and temples to every part beneath which is the cerebrum, because this region of the head corresponds to intelligence.

463. As the particulars of thought and will are inscribed on the brain, for their beginnings are there, so they are inscribed on the universal body . . .

W. 42. For there are in the brain innumerable substances and forms in which resides every interior sense which has relation to the understanding and will.

135. The interiors of the face are the brains.

191. (The second discrete degree is derived from the first, and the third from the second, the third being called the composite. Such is the case) with the organic substances which are the receptacles and dwellings of the thoughts and affections in the brains. 192.

316³. A similar progression from primes to ultimates, and from ultimates to primes, is exhibited in the forms, most purely organic, of the affections and thoughts in man: in his brains are those star-like forms called the cineritious substances; out of these go forth fibres through the medullary substance by the neck into the body; these fibres go to ultimates there, and from the ultimates return to their primes; the return of the fibres to their primes is made through the blood-vessels.

362. The will and understanding . . . are in the brains, in the whole and every part of them, and thence in the body; in the whole and every part of it. Gen.art.

365. Man's life is in beginnings in the brains, and in derivatives in the body. Gen.art. . . For (1) a man perceives that he thinks in the brain . . . (2) The brain or head is the part first formed . . . (7) All the fibres descend from the brains through the neck into the body, and none ascend from the body through the neck into the brains.

366. (Description of the two brains.) 373. I.12⁵. T.351².

367. The whole, which is the brain and the body together, originally consists of nothing else than fibres which proceed from their beginnings in the brains. 370.

384. As all things of the mind relate to the will and understanding, and all things of the body to the heart and lungs, there are two brains in the head, which are distinct from each other as are the will and understanding; the cerebellum is especially for the will, and the cerebrum for the understanding . . .

— The brain is also divided into two hemispheres . . . and the right relates to the good of truth, and the left to the truth of good . . .

388. The first web of the human form, or the human form itself with each and all things of it, is from the beginnings from the brain continued through the nerves. . . This is the form into which the man comes after death . . .

400. All things of the body are formed in the womb through fibres from the brains, and blood-vessels from the heart . . . from which it is evident that all things of man come forth from the life of the will, which is the love, from their beginnings from the brains through the fibres, and all things of his body from the heart through the arteries and veins.

412⁵. The breathing of the spirit depends on fibres from the brains, and that of the body on blood-vessels from the heart.

432². The initial form of man . . . was seen as a least image of a brain. Des. . . The gibbous part, which was a type of the brain in the least things, was also divided as it were into two marriage beds, as the brain in the greatest is into two hemispheres, and I was told that the right bed was the receptacle of love, and the left of wisdom . . . The structure of this little brain within as to position and flowing was in the order and form of Heaven, and its outer structure was in the opposite. Des.

P. 180⁶. If a man knew all the operations of both brains into the fibres, of the fibres into the muscles . . .

279⁶. Look at the brain, and you will see innumerable substances, and fibres . . . 315².

296¹⁴. The brain returns the blood vivified into the vena cava . . .

336⁶. The brain sublimates the blood and vivifies it anew . . .

R. 347. The brain, from which is the origin of all things of man's life . . .

M. 444⁶. Under the forehead is the cerebrum, and under the occiput the cerebellum; the latter is dedicated to love and its goods, the former to wisdom and its truths . . .

I. 13⁴. The human understanding dwells in the cerebrum, which is under the forehead, and the will in the cerebellum, which is in the occiput. T.160⁸. 564⁹.

T. 60⁶. The meninges of the brain by means of threads taken out of themselves enter into all the underlying glands, and through these into all the fibres, and through these into all things of the body. Hence it is that the head from the brains rules everything that is under it.

224². The human mind . . . is nothing but a form of Divine truth and Divine good spiritually and naturally organized; the human brain is that form . . .

335⁶. See BEAST at this ref.

351². Everyone knows that the head is full of brains, and that the brains are organized, and that the mind inhabits them, and that its ideas are fixed and remain in them as accepted and confirmed.

577³. Unless there were such action and co-operation with the influent life in the spiritual organism of the brain, thought and will could not exist; for the life from the Lord flows into that organism, and because it co-operates, that which is thought is perceived . . .

Ad. 990. The will is indeed the endeavour of acting, but the determination itself is effected by means of movement in the organic beginnings of the brain, namely, by means of expansions and constrictions; the very organic beginnings are the most subtle parts in the cortical substance itself of the brain, and are called substances: when these undergo changes or variations of form . . . they undergo the alternations of expansion and constriction. The general motion of the brain is expansion and constriction, thus is that of all the parts in general . . .

D. 830. It is known that the great ventricles of the brain are the places into which serosities flow from the interstices of the fibres, and from elsewhere, so that they are as it were the bladders of the brain where the serum or lymph is mixed with the spirit, and from which again spirit and better things are set apart.

914. (The physiology of the infundibulum of the brain.)

1018. The brain is said to become indurated according to the falsities which are born from the thoughts . . .

1623. 1624.

1021. Some essences (of the things which enter the mouth) are rapidly carried off to the brain through a short way . . . 1742.

1022. Those [substances] which enter the blood the most quickly, are represented by those who enter through the cuticles, and are infants and little children, who are carried into the brain by the shortest way, and inaugurated into the cortical substance.

1023. On callosities. The things belonging to the left eye correspond to those which belong to the right part of the brain. Gen.art. . . On the left part of the brain, or in its left hemisphere, are presented those things which are false as to affections, and on the right those which relate to doctrinal matters; or on the left are those things which regard good, and on the right those which regard truth . . .

1027. The eyes correspond to the hemispheres of the brain, and in fact so that the left eye corresponds to the right hemisphere, and the right eye to the left hemisphere of the brain, for so do the fibres flow, and likewise the fibres in the optic nerves, as I have been informed. They represent a spiritual sphere, namely, the left eye or right part of the brain, intellectual things of truth, and the right eye with the left part of the brain, intellectual things of good.

1035. There are some who on their first entrance into the mouth . . . are carried away by the veins and evaporate into the brain, and at once commence a purer circulation; the purer of them are carried through the imperceptible fibres . . . towards the brain. There are, moreover, those who at once fly into the brain through the lungs by means of the inhaled air, and who are purer foods of the brain. There are also those who are drawn in through the imperceptible coats of the whole body, and are thus taken up towards the brain, as infants are . . .

1058. In the human body and its viscera, especially in the cerebrum and cerebellum, and in both the medullae . . . spiritual things are represented by the striated bodies . . .

1059. Hence the cortical substances relate to celestial things, and how they do so is especially evident from the cortical substance of the brain . . . These substances are also the beginnings, and therein takes place, in the brain, the formation of the spirits . . .

1130. On those who draw forth the spirituous chyle from the brain, and convey it towards the heart.

1239. The more interior examiners . . . constitute that province of the brain where its excretions are, of which there are many in the brain. Enum.

1613. There were four operations (of the interior Heaven); the first was into the brain, almost at the left temple, which was their general operation as to the organs of reason.

1651. They spoke in the brain, so that the brain was similarly moved . . .

1666. Those things which are on the left side of the brain correspond to the right parts of the body . . . for there were Spirits acting into the left of the brain, and the sensation was thence derived into the right of the nose, and into the palm of the right hand . . .

1667. Spirits of the planet Jupiter said moreover, that it was the Intellectual which was in operation on the right of the brain, a little above the temple, where also, for a reason that was hidden from me, I had at such times applied my hand; and thus the right of the brain is dedicated to intellectual things, and the left to affections, contrary to what is the case in the body.

1730. They who constitute the thin membranes of the brains are circumstanced as are these membranes, which admit the sanguineous spirit to the interiors, conducting it in their own way; they also invest the fascicles of fibres, or nervules.

1733. Those in the more interior Heaven constitute the membranules or thin meninges over the minute organs of the brain, and around its thinner fibres . . .

1734. They who constitute the meninx over the brain are Genii, for that meninx is very sanguineous; in like manner they who constitute the meninx over the minute organs of the brain. But they who are around the fascicles of fibres and the interior nerves are Spirits.

1738. These constitute such things, for the external skin communicates by means of fibres and vessels with the interior and inmost things of the brain; hence its sensations: nay, they imbibe the most subtle things of the world and transmit them into the brain.

1781^e. I felt them plainly in the chamber of the brain.

1791. On those who constitute the phlegm in the brain.

1793. These are they who constitute the phlegm of the brain, which is wont to obstruct the lamina cribrosa, so that the excrementitious ground of the brain stagnates: hence come dulnesses and the like insanities.

—^e. The natural channel of breathing is through the nostrils, on account of the agreement of the brain and its animation with external things.

1798. On the punishments of those who relate to the stagnant humours in the brain.

— The humours which stagnate in the brain are chiefly of three kinds. Enum. 1799. 1800.

1864. I felt a stroke in the brain . . .

1970. The least of thought and of affection affects all the organic beginnings of the brain, which are prefixed to the fibrils, namely, the cortical substances; and as it affects the beginnings, it affects all things of the fibres originating therefrom . . . thus the whole body . . . Thus the universal brain and the whole body, with all these innumerable varieties, constitute one single most subtle movement of our thought . . .

3124. (The Spirits of the excrementitious things of the brain, Des.)

[D.] 3148. The human brain is formed to the idea, as they call it, of the universal Heaven of Angels and of the World of Spirits; and from the brain, as from Heaven, comes forth the whole form or structure of the body . . .

3471. The organic things of thought are in the brain, and thence flow invisible fibres, through which the thoughts are led, from the senses into the organic things, and from the organic things into muscular acts.

3607. How (the fibres) connect themselves with the brain, which appears like pulp . . .

3718½. (Sirens) suppose themselves to be penetrating into those things which are of the brain, being conveyed thither through the excrementitious ways . . . 4098.

3840. He rolled himself in through the exterior parts of the left eye into the brain . . .

3861. The other parts of the body depend more upon the will, or on the muscles through the fibres of the cerebrum; not so the face . . .

4012. (A snow-white brain seen which was gradually filled with blood.)

5781. Fibres from the cerebrum are adjoined to fibres from the cerebellum, which go everywhere consociated together, in order that the voluntary things of man may be ruled from the involuntary things; for what is good always rules what is evil with man . . .

D. Min. 4714. The former Spirits belong to the province of the cerebellum, the others to that of the cerebrum: the Spirits of the two provinces are entirely separated in a miraculous manner for the sake of the spiritual, when yet they make one; as the cerebellum is separated from the cerebrum in man; but still they communicate with each other, both in general as in the medulla oblongata, and in each single fibre and nerve, so that there is not a fibre which has not something from both the cerebrum and the cerebellum, thus from the voluntary and the involuntary: unless this were so, man would perish in an instant . . .

4715. Who they are that relate to the cerebellum and cerebrum respectively.

E. 61. The Divine influx into the will is into the occiput, because into the cerebellum; and thence it goes towards the front parts in the cerebrum, where is the understanding.

31616. All good is received behind, and all truth in front, for the cerebellum is formed to receive the good which is of the will, and the cerebrum to receive the truth which is of the understanding.

559. The brain = intelligence and wisdom in like manner as the head, because intelligence and wisdom reside there in their beginnings.

7762. Here there are substances infinite in number, which appear as spherules, and are called by anatomists the cortical and cineritious substance; from these proceed fibrils, the first of which are invisible, and which are afterwards bundled together, from which is produced the medullary substance of the whole cerebrum, cerebellum, and medulla oblongata: from this medullary substance visible fibres are prolonged forth, which when conjoined together are called nerves, and through which the cerebrum, cerebellum, and spinal marrow form the whole body . . . Thus it happens that everything of the body is ruled by the brains. Hence it is evident that the understanding and will, in one word the mind, thus intelligence and wisdom, reside in the brains, and are there in their primes . . . And these derivations thence are of such a nature that the brains are in presence everywhere . . .

D. Love v2. (The lungs) consociate the moving voluntary life which derives its auspices from the cerebrum, with the moving natural life which flows from the government of the cerebellum.

D. Wis. iii. 4. (The primitive brain of man described as to its structure in three degrees.)

v2. The will and understanding (are not abstract things), but are subjects substantiated and formed for the reception of love and wisdom from the Lord; they actually exist, although hidden from view, being within the substances which constitute the cortex of the brain, and also in a scattered way in the medullary substance of the cerebrum, especially in the corpora striata; also within the medullary substance of the cerebellum, and also in the spinal marrow, of which they form the nucleus. There are therefore, not two, but innumerable receptacles, and each of them twinned and also of three degrees.

Inv. 79. Around the brain there are three coats. Enum.

Bramble. Rhamnus.

A. 9277. 'The bramble' (Judg. xiv) = spurious good. (= the evil of falsity appearing to them as good. E. 63823.)

Bramble. Rubus.

A. 6832. 'In a flame of fire out of the midst of a bush' (Ex. iii. 2) = Divine love in scientific truth. . . 'A bush' = scientific truth. Ex. . . Why the Lord appeared in a bramble, Ex.

6833. 'The bush burned with fire' = the perception that scientific truth was full of the good of Divine love.

6834. 'And the bush was not at all consumed' = Divine truth united to Divine good in the Natural.

E. 29510. The 'bush' in which the Lord appeared to Moses = the Divine love.

40316. 'Nor of a bramble bush do they gather grapes' (Luke vi. 44). 'Thorns' and 'a bramble bush' = the evils which are opposite (to the good of the external and of the internal man).

Bramble. Vepres, Vepretum *.

A. 273. 'Thorns,' 'thistles,' 'bramble,' 'nettle' = such things (as curse and vastation). III.

28319. 'Briers and thorns' * (Is. ix. 17) = falsity and cupidity.

E. 35718. 'Briers' (Is. vii. 24) = falsity from evil, and 'thorns *,' evil from falsity.

6449. 'The brier and the thorn which shall ascend' (Is. v. 6) = the falsities of evil.

Branch. Under CANE—calamus, and SHOOT—palmes and surculus.

Branch. Ramus.

A. 55^e. 'Branches' (Matt.xiii.32)=scientifics. 2588¹⁵. 1861⁵. 'Root and branch' (Mal.iv.1)=charity and truth.

2831⁷. 'To give the branch among the thicket' (Ezek. xxxi.10)=to reason from scientifics.

4231. 'While his branch is yet tender,' etc. (Matt. xxiv.32)=the first of a new Church. . . 'The figtree'=the good of the natural; 'the branch'=its affection.

5113⁶. The spiritual Church is here compared to 'a vine' (Ezek.xix.10), and its derivations are described even to the ultimates in the natural man, namely, to scientifics from sensuous things, which are 'the entwined branches.' E.727³.

5376⁴. Regeneration is signified by 'giving a branch and bearing fruit' (Ezek.xxxvi.8).

7093³. Scientific truth is signified by 'the branch of a thick tree' (Lev.xxiii.40). 8369. 9296⁶. E.458⁴.

9141^e. See ROOT at this ref.

9212⁶. 'Trees'=perceptions and Knowledges of good and truth; hence 'branches'=truths themselves.

F. 16. The tree is man . . . the stem or stalk with the branches and leaves are the means, and are called the truths of faith.

P. 107. The life's love is that tree, the branches with leaves are the affections of good and truth with their perceptions.

332⁴. With twigs—ramulis—taken from the tree of life.

R. 936. 'Branches'=man's sensuous and natural truths.

M. 8. A gate constructed of branches . . .

T. 585². The branches . . . are as man's members . . .

E. 175¹⁴. 'Branches'=truths thence derived. 532⁷.

281². 'To make a branch' (Ezek.xvii.8)=to multiply truths.

388²⁸. 'Branches' (Ezek.xxxi.5)=extension.

405¹⁸. 'Branch' (Ezek.xxxvi.8)=truth of faith.

504²⁷. 'Rod of branches' (Ezek.xix.14)=falsity of doctrine in which there is evil.

559⁵. 'Branch' (Is.xix.15)=spiritual truth.

638¹¹. The third state is signified by 'his branches shall go forth' (Hos.xiv.6), by which is signified the multiplication of scientific truth and Knowledges.

650²⁶. See BEAUTY at this ref.

654¹³. 'They made her beautiful through the multitude of branches' (Ezek.xxxi.9)=abundance of scientific truths rationally perceived.

654³⁶. All scientific and rational truths dissipated through evils and falsities is signified by 'upon the mountains and in the valleys his branches are fallen' (Ezek.xxxi.12).

Brass. Aes.

Brazen. Aeneus.

See FINE BRASS.

A. 421. 'Brass' (Gen.iv.22)=natural good. 425. 426. 2162⁶. 2576⁶. —7. 2967³. 3708¹². 3863⁵. 4489². 4677⁹. 6432². 9050⁹. 9391². R.775,III. E.70,III.

643. The inmost Celestial they compared to gold, the lower Celestial to brass, and the lowest or corporeal thence to wood. III.

1551. They compared lower or natural goods to brass.

— The age of brass was the time of the Church which followed the Ancient Church.

—². 'For brass gold' (Is.lx.17)=for natural good celestial good. . . 'For wood brass'=for corporeal good natural good. E.176².

1748⁵. 'Theshoe brass' (Deut.xxxiii.25)=natural good.

2162¹². Hence their lavers were of brass, as also that great one called the brazen sea (1 Kings.vii.23,38), because 'brass' represented the good of outward worship, which is the same as natural good. 3147⁶.

3021⁸. 'Belly and thighs of brass' (Dan.ii.32)=the third state of the Church, which was one of natural good. 9406⁷. 10030². E.176².

4211^e. See SERPENT at these refs. E.70^e.

6135^e. 'Brass'=the good of love and of charity in the Natural.

7729⁶. 'Brass' (Mic.iv.13)=natural good which will be strong against evils.

9465. 'And brass' (Ex.xxv.3)=external good. 'Brass'=natural good, or what is the same, external good, which is the good of the external or natural man. 10332.

9624. 'Thou shalt make fifty taches of brass' (Ex.xxvi.11)=a full capacity of conjunction from external good.

9692. See BASE at these refs. 9748. 9770. 10236. —7.

9722. 'Thou shalt overlay it with brass' (Ex.xxvii.2)=a representative of what is good. 'Brass'=natural or external good, and overlaying with brass was a representative of that good.

9725. 'All the vessels thereof thou shalt make of brass' (ver.3)=all things from good. 9727.

9777. 'All the pins of the court shall be of brass' (ver.19)=all things conjoining and steadying both Heavens, the middle and the ultimate, by means of good. . . 'Brass'=external good.

9942¹². Goods and truths from self and not from the Lord are signified by 'possessing gold, silver, and brass in their girdles' (Matt.x.9).

10105^e. 'The vessel of brass' (Lev.vi.28)=a doctrinal in which there is good.

10235. 'Thou shalt make a laver of brass' (Ex.xxx.18)=the good of the natural man in which purification takes place.

10355⁴. They who were in natural good received these things holily; hence those times were called brazen, for brass=such good.

R. 775². 'A vessel of brass' (Rev.xviii.12)=the Scientific from natural good.

M. 77^e. The twigs became shining brass with gold tips.

E. 70. 'Brass'=natural good, which is the ultimate good. . . The third age was called brazen or copper, because natural good then reigned, which is what is just and sincere of moral life.

[E. 70]³. 'The shoe iron and brass' (Deut. xxxiii. 25) = the lowest Natural from truth and good.

176. Copper or brass = the good of the external or natural man.

219². 'Walls of brass' (Jer. i. 18) = good protecting.

279². 'Burnished brass' (Ezek. i. 7) = good in the Natural.

355⁹. 'Mountains of brass' (Zech. vi. 1) = the good of love in the natural man. 405²².

—¹². 'Vessels of brass' (Ezek. xxvii. 13) = the truths of natural good.

411⁴. 'Belly and thighs of brass' = the Church which succeeded the ancient spiritual Church, and which may be called spiritual natural; in it there reigned the good of faith and truth from that good; this good is signified in the Word by 'brass,' and also by 'the belly and thighs.'

438⁵. That the ultimate of the Word is natural truth and good is signified by 'thy shoe iron and brass.'

491. See CENSER at this ref.

540⁶. The things of the sense of the letter of the Word are signified by 'brass, tin, iron, and lead' (Ezek. xxii. 18), because by these are signified the goods and truths of the natural man, for which man are those things of the Word which are contained in the sense of its letter.

587. When (false doctrine) is confirmed by means of the natural things of the Word, such as are those of the sense of its letter, the idol then becomes of 'brass and stone' (Rev. ix. 20).

650³². 'Brass' (Dan. iv. 15) = good in ultimates; here, evils.

700¹⁷. 'Vessels of iron and brass' (Jos. vi. 24) = Knowledge of natural truth and good.

750¹⁸. 'Vessels of brass' (Ezek. xxvii. 13) = the knowledge of good in the natural man.

Bread. Panis.

See under HOLY SUPPER, and MANNA.

A. 276. 'To eat bread in the sweat of the countenance' (Gen. iii. 19) = to feel aversion for what is celestial. 'Bread' = everything spiritual and celestial which is angelic food . . . What is celestial and spiritual in Heaven corresponds to bread on earth, and these things are also represented by bread. Ill. 2342.

343. 'Bread of the increase of the ground' (Is. xxx. 23) = charity. (= what is celestial. 415².)

623. 'The bread which they shall eat with disquietude' (Ezek. xii. 19) = celestial things . . . to which they have offered violence, or which they have profaned. 6297².

680. See FOOD at this ref.

1460³. 'To break the staff of bread' (Ps. cv. 16) = to be deprived of celestial sustenance. 2576¹¹. 3104². 7102². E. 386⁹.

1514. They who have studied eloquence for the sake of self admiration have a sphere which smells of burnt bread. D. 1046.

1727. '(Melchizedek) brought forth bread' (Gen. xiv. 18) = celestial things and refreshment therefrom.

1798⁵. The bread and wine (in the Holy Supper) = the Lord's love towards the universal human race.

2075⁴. 'A famine in the city, and no bread for the people of the land' (2 Kings xxv. 3) = that there was nothing of faith and nothing of charity left.

2165. 'I will take a piece of bread' (Gen. xviii. 5) = something celestial adjoined. . . As 'bread,' in general, means all food, so in the inward sense it = all celestial food. Ill.

—². The burnt-offerings and sacrifices . . . were all called in one word 'the bread of what is fiery to Jehovah.' Ill.

—³. When sacrifices were abolished, and other things for outward worship succeeded in their place, it was commanded that bread and wine should be employed. . . 'Bread' therefore = all those things which the sacrifices represented, thus in the inward sense, the Lord Himself, and because the Lord Himself, His love towards universal mankind, and what is of His love; also the reciprocal [love] of man to the Lord and towards the neighbour; thus it = all celestial things, and wine, all spiritual things. Ill. 2177. —⁸. 2187.

—⁴. As 'bread' = the Lord, it = the celestial things which are of love, and are of the Lord; for the Lord is the Celestial itself, because He is love itself, that is, mercy itself; and because this is the case, 'bread' also = everything celestial, that is, all love and charity with man, for they are from the Lord; wherefore they who are not in love and charity have not the Lord with them, thus are not endowed with the goods and happinesses which are signified by 'bread' in the inward sense.

2177⁷. The breads called 'the bread of faces,' or 'the show bread,' was made of fine flour, prepared in cakes and set on the table in continual representation of the Lord's love, that is mercy, towards the universal human race, and the reciprocal love of man. Ill.

2220³. That they felt aversion for the goods of charity is signified by 'satiety of bread' (Ezek. xvi. 49).

2342. Celestial and spiritual things free from impurities were represented by 'unleavened bread.'

2343⁶. See BODY at these refs. 10521.

2674. '(Abraham) took bread and a bottle of water' (Gen. xxi. 14) = good and truth. 2928².

3316³. When 'bread' is read of in the Word, the Angels do not perceive bread, but celestial love.

3332. 'Jacob gave Esau bread and pottage of lentiles' (Gen. xxv. 34) = the good of life endowed with the good of truth and the good of doctrinal things. . . 'Bread' = the good of love in general, both celestial and spiritual, thus also the good of truth, for this is spiritual good.

3464². His 'body,' and 'the bread' = love to the Lord.

3478. The bread (of faces) on the table seen represented there . . . and they perceived it to signify the sustenance on which the Angels live, thus celestial and spiritual love with their joyousnesses and happinesses; and in both the former and the latter the Lord Himself, as the Bread or Manna from Heaven, besides many things in the form, position and number of the breads.

3544. 'Bread' (Gen.xxvii.17)=good. Refs. 3703¹⁴. 4017⁹.

3580. When 'corn' and 'must' are predicated of natural good and truth, 'bread' and 'wine' are predicated of the Rational, 'bread' signifying celestial good. Refs.

3596². In the rituals of the Ancient Church . . . bread signified the things which are of love to the Lord.

3734. 'If He will give me bread to eat' (Gen.xxviii. 20)=even to conjunction with Divine good. 'Bread'=all the celestial and spiritual good which is from the Lord, and in the highest sense, the Lord Himself as to Divine good. 3735². 3813².

3863¹⁴. (Jesus known in the breaking of bread, Luke xxiv.30,31)=that the Lord appears through good, but not through truth without good.

4211. '(Jacob) called his brethren to eat bread' (Gen. xxxi.54)=the appropriation of good from the Lord's Divine Natural. . . 'Bread'=the good of love, and in the highest sense, the Lord. Refs. As 'bread' in the highest sense=the Lord, it therefore=everything holy which is from Him, that is, everything good and true, and since there is no good which is good but that which is of love and charity, 'bread'=love and charity; in ancient times the sacrifices had no other signification, wherefore they were called in one word 'bread.' N.221², Ill.

—. 'Bread' (in the Holy Supper)=celestial love. 6377².

4217. When 'bread' is mentioned in the Word, the Angels do not know what material bread is, but what spiritual bread is; thus instead of bread they perceive the Lord, Who is the 'Bread of life,' and as they perceive the Lord, they perceive those things which are from the Lord, thus His love towards the universal human race, and then at the same time they perceive the reciprocal [love] of man to the Lord, for these cohere in one idea of thought and affection. In a similar way does man think . . . when he takes the bread of the Holy Supper, for he does not then think of bread, but of the Lord and His mercy, and of those things which are of love to Him and of charity towards the neighbour. . . Hence it is evident that 'bread' in the Word does not present with the Angels any idea of bread, but the idea of love, with innumerable things which are of love. 4700². 4976². 6789².

4581⁴. The meat-offering and drink-offering=the same as the bread and wine in the Holy Supper.

—. 'Bread,' which (in the meat-offering) is fine flour mingled with oil; and 'wine'=love and faith, thus the whole of worship, in the Holy Supper. Refs.

4677⁹. 'Bread'=the good of love, or what is celestial. Refs. 4844¹. 5893. 5915. 9295². E.175⁸. 480. 617¹⁰.

4735². Divine celestial love is signified by 'the flesh' or 'bread' in the Holy Supper. Ill.

4745. 'They sat down to eat bread' (Gen.xxxvii.25)=the appropriation of evil from falsity. Ex.

4876⁴. 'The staff of bread'=support and power from the good of love. 9028⁶. 9323².

4984. 'He knew not anything with him except the bread which he did eat' (Gen.xxxix.6)=that good was thence appropriated.

5360. Bread corresponds to celestial love.

5363. 'In all the land of Egypt there was bread' (Gen.xli.54)=remains from the multiplied truths from good. Ex.

5365. 'The people cried to Pharaoh for bread' (ver.55)=the need of good for truth. Ex.

5405. In the Ancient Church bread was broken when it was given to another, and by this was signified to communicate from one's own, and to appropriate what is good from one's own, and so effect mutual love. Ex. and Ill. E.617²¹.

5673. 'They heard that they should eat bread there' (Gen.xliii.25)=the perception that good would be adjoined to truths. . . 'Bread'=the good of love. Refs.

5698. 'He said, Set on bread' (ver.31)=the perception of conjunction through the medium with truths in the Natural. Ex.

5701. 'The Egyptians cannot eat bread with the Hebrews' (ver.32)=that they could not be at all [conjoined] with the truth and good of the Church. . . 'To eat bread'=to be conjoined. . . It is said 'to eat bread,' and above 'set on bread,' because by 'bread' is meant all food in general, thus eating: the reason 'bread' means all food and also eating itself, is that in the spiritual sense 'bread'=celestial love, and celestial love contains in itself all things which are of good and truth, thus all things which are of spiritual food. Refs.

5959. See Ass at this ref.

6106. 'To support with bread' (Gen.xlvii.12)=the influx of good.

6109. 'No bread in all the land' (ver.13)=that good no longer appeared.

6118. 'Give us bread' (ver.15)=[supplication] concerning the support of spiritual life. . . Specifically, 'bread'=the good of love and of charity, but in general, it=spiritual life, for in this case by 'bread' is meant all food. . . 6124.

6128. 'He provided them with bread for their cattle' (ver.17)=support through the influx of good from the Internal.

6135⁴. He said of the bread 'This is my body,' because by 'bread' also is signified Divine love. Refs.

6137. 'Buy us and our ground for bread' (ver.19)=the appropriation of both, that they may be supported with good. . . The reason 'bread'=the good of both love and faith, is that by it all food in general is also meant.

6409. 'His bread fat' (Gen.xlix.20)=delight from good.

6791. 'Let him eat bread' (Ex.ii.20)=confirmation in good.

7356³. See OVEN at this ref.

—. The bread baked for sacrifices, and called a meat-offering. . .

7602⁶. This good is the good of the exterior Natural and is signified by 'barley bread' (Judg.vii.13).

7780. See FLOUR at these refs. 7966.

[A.] 7810. They are forbidden to eat anything but bread.

7854. 'Unleavened bread' = good (of innocence).

7978. Bread of cakes is thus distinguished from common bread; bread of cakes = the good of love towards the neighbour, thus spiritual good, and common bread = the good of love to the Lord, thus celestial good. The former spiritual good is signified by the meat-offering . . . The twelve show breads had a similar signification . . . But by these breads was signified the good of celestial love, and by their being cooked in cakes were signified the goods of spiritual love.

8395. The want of bread and flesh concerning which the Sons of Israel murmured = the want of good. 9052².

8410. 'When we did eat bread to the full' (Ex. xvi. 3) = that thus they enjoyed the good of pleasures as much as they wanted . . . 'Bread' = the good of celestial life, and in the opposite sense, the good of natural life separated from celestial, thus the good of pleasures; for by 'bread' in the spiritual sense is meant the primary thing which nourishes the soul, and preserves its spiritual life, and that this is the good of love is evident from the life of Heaven, which consists of this good alone; but in the opposite sense is meant the primary thing which nourishes those who are in Hell and supports their life; and that this is the evil of the love of self and of the world is evident from the life of Hell, which consists in this alone; this evil is good to them . . . and this is here meant by the good of pleasures.

8416. 'Behold I am causing it to rain for you bread from Heaven' (ver. 4) = that celestial good will flow in.

8432. 'In the morning bread to the full' (ver. 8) = that in the beginning of a new state they will have as much good as they can receive. . . 'Bread,' here = the good of truth, which is the good of the spiritual Church, because by 'bread' is meant the manna. 8527.

8464. 'This is the bread which Jehovah hath given you to eat' (ver. 15) = that this is the good which will be appropriated and will constitute their life; in the supreme sense, that this is the Lord in you. 'Bread' = celestial and spiritual good, and in the supreme sense, the Lord (Refs.), here, spiritual good, that is, the good of the man of the spiritual Church, which is the good of truth.

8478. This is meant by the 'daily bread.'

8516. 'On the sixth day the bread of two days' (ver. 29) = at the end of the former state as much of good through truth as that conjunction may then take place.

8682. 'To eat bread with the father-in-law of Moses before God' (Ex. xviii. 12) = their appropriation from Divine good. . . 'Bread' here means all the food which was used on the occasion, especially the flesh of the sacrifices . . . That 'bread' = all worship in general, ref.

9014^e. 'Bread' = the support of spiritual life by means of good. Refs.

9127². 'Bread' has exactly the same signification as 'flesh.'

9295². 'The leavened bread' which was then offered (Lev. xxiii. 17) = good not as yet fully purified.

9323. See BLESS = benedicere, at this ref.

—. As 'bread' = all the good of love, and 'water' all truth of faith in the complex . . . it was a common formula to speak of 'bread and water' when all natural food and drink were referred to, and all spiritual good and truth were meant. Ill. E. 71. 304¹⁴. 433³³. 701¹².

9393^e. 'Flesh' and 'the bread' = the Divine good of the Lord's Divine love towards the universal human race, and the reciprocal [love] of man to the Lord. 10040².

9412^e. 'To break the bread and give to them' (Luke xxiv. 30) in the Spiritual World = to instruct in the good and truth of faith, through which the Lord appears.

9455^e. 'The breads of faces upon the table, and the candlestick, represented the celestial things which are from the Lord in the Heavens.

9468². The inmost things of the Celestial Kingdom or Church were signified by those things which were upon the table, chiefly by 'the breads.'

9470². 'Bread and waters' (Hos. ii. 5) = the internal goods of love and truths of faith; 'wool and flax' = the same, but external.

9543. 'The breads of faces' = the celestial good which is from the Lord. E. 324²⁵. 491⁴.

9545. 'Thou shalt set upon the table the bread of faces' (Ex. xxv. 30) = the Lord there as to celestial good.

10040². (The spiritual reason why the Roman Catholics give the bread alone to the people.) E. 1054^e.

10077. 'One loaf of bread' (Ex. xxix. 23) = inmost celestial good from the Lord. 10079.

10078. 'And one cake of bread of oil' (Id.) = middle celestial good.

10079². The reason why not only the fat of the ram and the right flank were burned on the altar, but also the breads which were called meat-offerings, when yet (they both) equally = good . . . was that sacrifices and burnt-offerings were not commanded, but permitted . . . therefore meat-offerings, which were breads, were also employed . . .

10107. '(To eat) the bread which is in the basket' (ver. 32) = the appropriation of celestial good from the Lord.

10114. See FLESH at this ref.

10149^e. 'Bread' (in the Holy Supper) = the Lord as to the good of love.

10177⁶. 'The breads of faces' represented love to the Lord.

10686. 'Bread he did not eat, and water he did not drink' (Ex. xxxiv. 28) = meanwhile no appropriation of the good of love and of the truth of faith.

10770. Bread (in the fifth Earth), Des.

H. 111². Bread (from grain) in general corresponds to the affection of all good, because it supports life more than all other things, and because all food is meant by it. On account of this correspondence the Lord is called 'the bread of life;' and for the same reason breads were in use in the Israelitish Church . . . called 'the breads of faces;' and also all the Divine worship which was effected by means of sacrifices and burnt-offerings was called 'bread' . . .

N. 218. (Refs. to passages on the subject of bread.)

—³. That when the ancients mentioned 'bread' they meant all food in general, Ill.

221³. 'Bread' = all good which proceeds from the Lord, for the Lord Himself is in His own good; thus 'the bread and wine' in the Holy Supper = all worship of the Lord from the good of love and of faith. Ill.

L. 27. 'Flesh' or 'the bread' = the good of love from the Word.

M. 14. The prince invited them to eat bread with him. —², Des. —²⁰, Des.

T. 238. 'The bread' (in the Holy Supper) in Heaven = Divine good. 372.

428. It is like giving bread to a devil . . .

433⁹. The conjunction itself was represented by the breaking and distribution of the bread . . .

701. By the Lord's 'flesh' and 'the bread' is meant the Divine good of His love, and also all the good of charity. Gen.art. E. 329².

D. 618. One evening I took much bread and milk . . .

2626. On broken bread. There was offered me in a vision a small plate of bread cut into squares, which I imagined to signify that which is the communication of bread, namely, celestial things, and I rejoiced. It was placed to my mouth that I might eat . . . but was not eaten so long as I was of opinion that that bread signified celestial things. I was told that broken bread, not cut, signified celestial things; for bread is broken with the lips and teeth, as at first with the hand, before it is eaten; which being according to nature, celestial things are signified by bread broken with the hands, lips, and teeth, and so on into the most minute particles by the muscles, fibres, and as it were most minute hands, lips, and mouths of the recipient vessels.

2627. But bread cut with a knife is what counterfeits what is celestial . . . as is the case with everything done artificially; wherefore the bread set before me, being cut into little squares and cubes as it were with knives, signified filthy delights, which are supposed by those who are in them to be celestial, when yet they are infernal.

E. 146². 'To eat of this bread' = to be conjoined to Him through love.

195¹⁶. 'To give bread to the hungry' (Ezek. xviii. 16) = from the good of charity to instruct those who long for truths.

295¹¹. 'To break bread for the hungry' (Is. lviii. 7) = from love to do good to the neighbour who longs for good.

329². 'The bread and wine' (in the Holy Supper) = all spiritual food and drink . . .

340²³. 'The bread and wine' = goods and truths in the spiritual man.

349¹¹. 'The bread of God,' and 'the bread of life' is that from which there is life for all. 899⁶, Ex.

376²⁶. 'The bread' (in the Holy Supper) = the good of love from the Lord to the Lord.

386⁹. 'Bread' involves everything of Heaven and the Church, or all spiritual nourishment.

—¹⁵. 'Bread' = the good from which is spiritual life.

—²⁰. 'To give bread to the hungry' (Ps. cxlvi. 7) = to nourish, and spiritual nourishment is knowledge, intelligence, and wisdom.

391³¹. 'Bread' in general = all spiritual food. 537¹⁵. 555³. —¹². 706¹⁰.

403¹³. 'It shall eat up thy harvest and thy bread' (Jer. v. 17) = that it will destroy all truths and goods through which there is spiritual nourishment. 911¹⁴.

412¹⁰. 'The breads (of faces)' = the Divine good of the Divine love.

430¹⁵. 'The loaves' = the goods, and 'the fishes' the truths of the natural man.

513¹⁶. 'Bread' (John xxi. 13) = the Lord, and the good of love from Him.

600¹¹. 'The bread of straitness' (Is. xxx. 20) = temptations as to the good of love.

617¹⁷. 'Bread' (Ps. xli. 9) = the Word, from which there is spiritual nourishment.

—²⁰. Divine good proceeding is signified by 'flesh' and the 'bread.'

644¹³. The good of love and of charity is signified by 'bread to the eater' (Is. lv. 10).

650¹⁰. 'Bread' (Ps. civ. 15) = the good of love and of charity, which is nourished by means of truths.

675¹². 'To break the staff of bread' (Lev. xxvi. 26) = to deprive of spiritual food, and thence of spiritual nutrition; for 'bread' = all that which nourishes the soul, specifically the good of love. 727¹². —¹³.

730⁹. 'To get bread with peril of souls' (Lam. v. 9) = the difficulty and danger of procuring for themselves the truths of life from the Word.

1159³. 'Bread of increase' (Is. xxx. 23) = the fructification of good.

Breadth. Latitudo.

Broad. Latus.

A. 650. 'The breadth (of the ark,' Gen. vi. 15) = the truth of (remains).

1613. See LENGTH at this ref.

— That 'breadth' = truth, Ill. 3434. 3901⁸. 4482 Ill. —, Ex. 5201⁶. 6534⁶. 8898⁹. 9028. 9487³. 9488⁹. 9530. 9601. 9618. 9637. 9716. 9755. 9758. 9862. 10179. W. 71⁶. E. 355³⁵. 435⁸. 627⁴. 629⁴. 675¹⁵.

—³. 'Fullness of breadth' (Is. viii. 8) = full of falsities.

3433. 'Rehoboth' means 'breadths,' which = truths.

6856. 'To a land good and broad' (Ex. iii. 8) = to Heaven, where there are the good of charity and the truth of faith.

10179. 'Breadth' means from south to north, and by the south and the north is signified truth from one boundary to the other . . . H. 197³, Ill. R. 906.

10181². See DEGREE at these refs. W. 184. 185.

N. 1⁵. 'Breadth' = truth and its extension. Refs.

R. 861. 'The breadth of the earth' (Rev. xx. 9) = the truth of the Church. —², Ex. and Ill.

906. 'The breadth (of the holy city)' = the truth of the Church.

E. 514¹⁰. 'Breadth of spaces' (Is.xxxiii.21)=truths from good in multitude and extension.

644¹². 'A broad meadow' (Is.xxx.23)=the Word, through which there is Divine influx and spiritual nourishment; 'broad' is said from the extension and multiplication of truth. A. 6049^e.

665⁵. 'Breadth' = the truth of doctrine from the Word; wherefore 'to cause my feet to stand in breadth' (Ps. xxxi.8)=to cause to live according to Divine truths.

Break. Frangere.

Breach, Breaking. Fractura.

Breaking. Fractio.

A. 25. The Lord does not break fallacies or extinguish cupidities, but bends to what is good and true. 1255. 1874. 1992⁴. 2053². 2180⁵. 6472².

857². As soon as a man's loves are broken . . .

1255. See BEGINNING=principium, at this ref.

1460³. See BREAD at these refs. 3863¹⁴. 9412⁶. T. 433^e. D. 2626. E. 295¹¹. 675¹².

1664⁶. The arms of war are 'broken' (Hos.ii.18) when, on the cessation of cupidities and falsities, a man comes into the tranquillity of peace.

2162¹³. 'Broken feet and hands' (Lev.xxi.19) represented those who are in perverted outward worship.

2694². The chief reason for this vastation and desolation is that the persuasive may be broken . . .

—³. Unless the affection be broken . . .

2851⁷. 'The city of emptiness which is broken' (Is. xxiv.10)=that the human mind is deprived of truth.

3812⁸. 'Not to break a bone' (Num.xii.12), in the supreme sense=not to do violence to Divine truth, and in the representative sense=not to do violence to the truth of any good.

5405. 'Provision' is here expressed in the Original Language by a word which means 'breaking,' because in the Ancient Church bread was broken when it was given to another, and by this was signified to communicate from one's own, and to appropriate what is good from one's own, and so effect mutual love; for when bread is broken and given to another, it is then communicated from one's own; or when bread is broken among many, one bread becomes mutual, consequently there is conjunction through charity.

5992. The Angels are forbidden to act violently, and thus break a man's cupidities and principles . . .

8005. See BONE at this ref.

8550. This (hereditary evil) can only be broken and altered through a life of faith and charity . . . T. 521³.

9039. The Lord never breaks such truth with man, but so far as possible bends it. Examp.

9163. 'If it die or be bruised' (Ex.xxii.10)=loss or injury. 'Breach' and 'being broken,' in the Word =dissipation, and also injury. Ex. and Ill. 9175. E. 304²⁶.

—⁵. 'Breach' in these passages=injury done to the truths and goods of faith.

9182⁶. See BOW at this ref.

9272⁷. 'The breach of the people' (Is.xxx.26)=falsity of doctrine gradually creeping in from the wickedness of the teachers, from concupiscences, and other causes. E. 962⁵.

9348⁸. 'To be broken' (Is.xxviii.13)=to dissipate truths and goods.

10461. 'He cast the tables out of his hands and brake them beneath the mountain' (Ex.xxxii.19)=the outward sense of the Word changed and different on account of that nation. . . 'To cast them out of his hands and break'=to destroy the genuine outward sense.

10643. 'Ye shall break their statues' (Ex.xxxiv.13)=that the falsities of evil are to be dissipated.

E. 1777. That they so immersed themselves in falsities that nothing of truth remained, is described by 'the breaking of the potter's bottles' (Is.xxx.14).

313¹¹. See HEART at these refs. 811¹⁸.

316¹⁷. 'To break'=to destroy. 357²⁷. —²⁸. —³⁰. 376²⁰. 386⁹. 514⁷. 654⁵². 811². 922².

418⁶. 'The great horn broken' (Dan.viii.8)=divided into many falsities which were born therefrom.

537¹⁴. 'Broken pits which do not hold waters' (Jer.ii.13)=to hatch doctrinal things from their Own intelligence, which, being from proprium, are false.

721⁸. Occurs. 817⁹.

Break. Infringere.

4926. See BREAK=rumper, at this ref.

9818⁸. 'A broken spirit and a broken heart' (Ps.li.17)=a state of temptation and consequent humiliation of each life.

N. 199². The loves of self and of the world are broken by means of temptations. Ref.

Break. Rumpere.

Breach. Ruptura.

A. 4217³. See BIND=vincire, at this ref.

4925³. 'Thou hast broken a breach over thee' (Gen. xxxviii.29)=the separation of truth from good apparently. 4926, Ex. and Ill.

4926. 'A breach'=the breaking=infractio, and perversion of truth through its separation from good.

—⁴. 'To repair the breach' (Is.lviii.12)=to amend falsities. Ill.

—⁵. 'To stand in the breach' (Ezek.xxii.30)=to defend and guard against the inroad of falsities.

—⁶. As by 'breaches' is signified the falsity which comes forth through the separation of good from truth . . .

4927. 'Pharez' means 'a breach.'

7090⁴. See CONSCIENCE at this ref.

8883. 'Lest Jehovah make a breach upon them' (Ex.xix.22)=separation from good . . . because said of the priests.

8843. 'Lest He make a breach upon them' (ver.24)=separation from truth and good . . . because the people are included.

9163^e. 'Breach'=injury. Ill.

10545⁷. 'To close up the breaches' (Amos ix.11)=(to remove falsities).

H. 305. As man has broken his connexion with Heaven . . . W.162.

P. 22. As many have broken and do break this marriage . . .

M. 510. Would burst the barriers . . .

T. 116^e. The bottles burst . . .

D. 198. A Spirit or a man would not desist from the cupidities of his heat until he burst . . .

E. 237. Occurs. 405⁴⁴.

400¹¹. 'Breach' (Ps.lx.2)=a weakening of the Church, and the consequent perversion of truth and pouring in of falsity. 453¹². 519⁶. 734²⁰.

652¹⁹. 'No breach' (Ps.cxliv.14)=their coherence.

Break forth. Erumpere.

A. 3708. 'Thou shalt break forth towards the sea and towards the east' (Gen.xxviii.14)=the infinite extension of good . . . 'To break forth'=extension; here, infinite extension, because predicated of the Lord.

3985. 'It hath broken forth to a multitude' (Gen.xxx.30)=fecundity afterwards.

P. 251. Unless evils were permitted to break forth . . .

E. 455²⁰. 'Waters shall break forth in the desert' (Is.xxxv.6)=that truths shall be opened where they were not before. 518⁴.

600¹². 'To break forth to the right and the left' (Is.liv.3)=amplification as to the good of charity and as to the truth of faith. 768⁷.

Break in pieces. Comminuere.

A. 7770^e. 'To break in pieces many peoples' (Mic.iv.13)=to devastate them.

Break in pieces. Confringere.

Breaking. Confractio.

A. 5376³. A state of desolation is called 'breaking,' etc. (Is.li.19).

8282. 'With Thy right hand, O Jehovah, Thou shalt break in pieces the enemy' (Ex.xv.6)=the effect of omnipotence against evils and falsities thence, whose power is annihilated. To 'break in pieces'=to annihilate.

9321. 'And breaking in pieces thou shalt break in pieces their statues' (Ex.xxiii.24)=that the falsities of worship are to be put away. 3727⁷.

H. 534^e. 'Whosoever falleth upon that stone shall be broken' (Luke xx.18). 'To fall and be broken' is to deny and to perish.

E. 365⁴¹. 'No more wasting and destruction' (Is.lx.18)=no evils and falsities; for evils lay waste the natural man, and falsities break it to pieces.

386⁶. 'Breaking to pieces' (Is.li.19)=that there is no longer any truth.

449⁷. 'A great breaking' (Jer.vi.1)=the dissipation of good and truth.

627¹¹. Occurs.

727¹⁷. 'To break' (Is.ix.4)=to destroy.

Break in pieces. Conterere. A.258.

E. 556⁵. 'He devoured and brake in pieces' (Dan.vii.7)=he perverted and destroyed.

Break in pieces. Disrumpere.

A. 756. 'All the fountains of the great deep were broken up' (Gen.vii.11)=the extreme of temptation as to voluntary things.

5773. 'They rent their garments' (Gen.xliv.13)=mourning. 'To rend the garments'=mourning on account of lost truth. Ex.

Break the neck. See under BEHEAD.

Break through. Perrumpere. E.483¹⁶.

A. 8830. 'Lest the people break through to Jehovah to see' (Ex.xix.21)=lest those who are of the spiritual Church want to be in Heaven where the Celestial is.

Breast. Pectus.

See under HEAD.

A. 148. The breast with the most ancients signified charity, because the heart and lungs are there. 247. 259. H.97.

1270. See CHEST at these refs. 4403.

1773. Heat . . . descending towards the middle region of the breast . . . A more interior heat beginning from the breast . . . A still more interior heat from the loins upwards towards the breast . . .

1788². By the breast is signified good and truth, good because the heart is in it, and truth because the lungs are.

2162². By the breast and the things of the breast are represented rational things and what belongs to rational things.

—3. 'The breast and arms' of the statue=spiritual or rational things, which are 'silver.'

2296. (The breast of the infants adorned with flowers.)

3021⁸. 'The breast and arms of silver'=the second state of the Church, which was spiritual, because one of charity towards the neighbour. 10030³.

3858¹⁰. The breast, or heart and lungs,=Divine celestial and spiritual love.

5714. (Cause pain in the periosteum of the breast.)

7358. In the idea of Spirits the planet Mars appears . . . in the plane of the breast . . .

9828³. See GIRDLE at this ref.

10005⁴. The breast even to the loins corresponds to the middle or second Heaven, where there is spiritual good.

10030⁶. The breast, in general,=spiritual good, which is the good of charity towards the neighbour. 10075².

10087. 'Thou shalt take the breast' (Ex.xxix.26)=the Divine Spiritual in the Heavens. 'Breast'=the good of charity, and in the supreme sense, the Divine Spiritual. Ex. and Ill.

10090². The reason 'the breast' was given to Moses for a portion, and 'the shoulder' to Aaron (ver.26,27) was that 'the breast'=Divine truth in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, and 'the shoulder' Divine good in the Celestial Kingdom. 10091.

[A.] 10185. The sides and breast with man=the interiors; for all the representatives in nature relate to the human form, and have a signification according to that relation.

H. 65. The middle Heaven forms the breast even to the loins and knees.

96. They who are in the breast of the Grand Man are in the good of charity and of faith, and they also inflow into man's breast, and correspond to it.

S. 105³. (As the Church where the Word is read and the Lord is known is as the heart and lungs in the Grand Man of the Church on earth) Christians... constitute the breast of that Man; for they are in the midst of all...

W. 384. The breast defined.

P. 215⁹. The delight of domineering... was felt as an agreeable and pleasurable sensation in the swelling breast.

281². Like rottenness in the breast...

R. 49. The Divine Spiritual is meant by His 'eyes,' and by the breast which was 'girt with a golden girdle.' (Rev.i.13).

611. (The Angels) are in delight of the whole breast from peace of soul... T.622.

M. 44³. See LOVE OF THE SEX at this ref.

—⁶. Love... conjoins their minds, and thence enters their breasts...

55⁶. The loves of a man for a man and of a woman for a woman do not enter deeply into the breast, but stand outside...

69. See BLESS-beare, at this ref.

162^o. Marriage love, which opens their breasts...

171². (Man's sphere) is dense on the breast...

179. See MARRIAGE LOVE at these refs. —^o.

— The bosom is the forum of assembly and as a king's court... For all things which are determined into the body from the soul and mind inflow first into the breast... and because there is the dominion over all things of the body, for the heart and lungs are there, and the heart reigns everywhere by means of the blood, and the lungs by means of the breathing.

180^o. The inmost friendship (between married partners) is felt in the breast. 183⁷. 214.

183². (The Divine influx passes from these) through the breast into the genital region. —⁶.

193. By a man's breast is signified that essential and proprium which is distinguished from a woman's breast, and is wisdom; for truth supports wisdom as a rib supports the breast. The reason these things are signified is that the breast is that in which all things of man are as in their centre.

208². See WIFE at these refs. 293³. —⁵. 294². —⁴.

263. (The breast of a devil swollen into a rhomb.)

T. 159³. We the created teachers of the Church, when we preached, felt the holy operation of that mission in our breasts...

564^e. If (this infernal delight) be received by the head in the forehead, and by the body in the breast, the man is enslaved to Hell.

D. 5807. I long laboured in the breast through the influx from the Christian world...

5809^e. The quality of all was felt through influx into the breast...

E. 65². 'The paps'=spiritual love, and the breast the very good thereof... The reason the breast=the good of spiritual love, is from correspondence with Heaven... The middle or second Heaven corresponds to the breast...

821⁶. See BOSOM at this ref.

Breast, or Pap. Uber.

A. 2015³. 'To suck the milk of the Gentiles, and the breast of kings' (Is.lx.16)=to be endowed with goods and instructed in truths.

3301⁵. 'The breasts have become firm' (Ezek.xvi.7)=natural good.

6432. 'Blessings of the breasts' (Gen.xlix.25)=affections of good and truth... 'The breasts'=affections of good and truth. The reason why 'the breasts'=these affections, is that they communicate with the organs of generation, and thereby appertain to the province of marriage love... which corresponds to... the marriage of good and truth... and also because infants are nourished by means of the breasts; and through this affection they signify the conjunction of marriage love with love towards offspring.

—². These affections are also signified by 'breasts' in 'thou shalt suck the milk of the Gentiles, and thou shalt suck the breasts of kings'... 'To suck the breasts of kings'=good from truth; for 'kings'=truths.

—³. 'The breasts have become firm' (Ezek.xvi.7)=interior affections of good and truth.

—⁴. 'Their breasts have been pressed' (Ezek.xxiii.3)=that the affections of good and truth have been perverted through falsifications.

—⁵. 'Adulteries from between the breasts' (Hos.ii.2)=affections of good and truth adulterated.

—⁶. 'Dry breasts' (Hos.ix.14)=no affections of good and truth.

— 'To gird themselves upon the beating breasts' (Is.xxxii.12)=to be in grief on account of the good of truth being lost.

—⁷. 'Girt at the paps with a golden girdle' (Rev.i.13)=the good of love.

—⁸. 'Blessed is the womb that bare Thee, and the paps which Thou hast sucked. But Jesus said, Yea rather, blessed are they that hear the Word of God and keep it' (Luke.xi.27,28). It is manifest from the Lord's answer what the 'blessed womb,' and what the 'paps' signify, namely, those who hear the Word of God and keep it, thus affections of truth, which are they who hear the Word of God, and affections of good, which are they who keep or do it.

6745³. 'To suck the milk of the Gentiles'=the insinuation of celestial good; 'to suck the breasts of kings'=the insinuation of celestial truth.

9325⁴. 'Dry breasts'=no affections, but instead thereof cupidities of perverting.

E. 175³. 'Paps' = the delight of the good of love, because milk comes from them.

365³⁰. 'Breasts of consolations' (Is. lxi. 2) = Divine good. . . 'Breast' = spiritual love.

710⁵. 'Breasts' = truths from the good of charity, here ('dry breasts'), falsities from evil contrary to them.

—6. 'A mother's breasts' (Ps. xxii. 10) = spiritual nourishment in such things as are of the Church.

—8. Blessed are the . . . paps which never gave suck' (Luke xxiii. 29) = those who have not genuine truths from the good of charity. . . 'Paps' have a similar signification to 'milk,' that is, truth from good.

731⁸. 'To suck and be satisfied from the breast of her consolations' = to be instructed to the full in truths from good from the delight of love, even to the desire.

Breast, Breastplate. See CHEST.

Breastplate. Lorica.

A. 9916. 'The habergeon' (Ex. xxviii. 32) = that which is strongly connected together.

E. 557. Used as synonymous with breastplate-thorax.

—3. 'The brigandine' (Jer. xlv. 4) = the force and strength of fighting and resisting. The reason 'a brigandine' has this signification, is that it girds the breast, and all the strength of fighting and resisting is from the breast through the arms.

Breastplate. Pectorale.

A. 3862⁰. See JUDGMENT at this ref.

4530². Occurs. R. 349⁴. E. 717⁸.

6640². See STONE at this ref.

9476. By the breastplate upon the ephod was signified the good of faith, or spiritual good.

9477⁰. By 'the breastplate' was signified the covering for internal celestial things.

9792. (A garment in the first Earth like the stomacher worn by the women of our Earth, Des.)

9823. 'The breastplate' (Ex. xxviii. 4) = Divine truth shining forth from Divine good . . . here, in ultimates progressively from the inmost things in the Heavens . . . The reason 'the breastplate' has this signification, is that it was fastened on the breast where the heart is, and was filled with precious stones, and the heart corresponds to celestial good . . . and the twelve precious stones to Divine truths thence derived; hence by 'the breastplate' in the supreme sense, is signified Divine truth shining forth from the Lord's Divine good. Ill. 9857. 9879. 9905. 10007. S. 44.

9857. It was called 'the breastplate of judgment' because it gave answers, and thereby Divine truth was revealed.

9866⁰. The internal and external of the Celestial Kingdom were represented by the two orders on the right of the breastplate, and the internal and external of the Spiritual Kingdom by the two orders on the left of it, for the breastplate was a double square.

9873². 'The ephod' = the Spiritual Heaven, but 'the breastplate,' the whole of Heaven from first to last.

9879. 'Thou shalt make upon the breastplate little chains of the end' (ver. 22) = the conjunction of the whole Heaven in the outermost things. . .

9822. 'Thou shalt make upon the breastplate two rings of gold' (ver. 23) = the sphere of Divine good through which there is conjunction on the side of the higher Heaven. 'The breastplate' = a representative of Heaven.

9891. 'The edge of the breastplate which is near the ephod inwards' (ver. 26) = conjunction with the middle part of Heaven, and thus preservation . . .

— The conjunction of the breastplate to the shoulder-pieces above represents the preservation of celestial goods and truths there; the conjunction to the edge near the ephod inwards, or to the middle part, represents the preservation of spiritual goods and truths; and the conjunction to the shoulder-pieces below over-against the joining above the belt, represents the preservation of the natural goods and truths proceeding from the two former . . . (vers. 25, 26, 27).

9899. 'That the breastplate be not withdrawn from the ephod' (ver. 28) = all things of Heaven inseparable from the external things of the Spiritual Kingdom. . . 'The breastplate' = a representative of all things of Heaven.

9901. 'In the breastplate of judgment' (ver. 29) = a representative of Heaven as to Divine truth shining forth from the Lord's Divine good.

9905. 'Thou shalt put to the breastplate of judgment the urim and thummin' (ver. 30) = the shining forth of Divine truth from the Lord in ultimates.

—3. This shining forth appears in ultimates . . . Hence it is that the breastplate was placed upon the ephod and its girdle.

M. 42⁴. Under her mantle she wore a crimson stomacher.

75⁴. Under her mantle she wore a stomacher of embroidered lawn.

Breath. Flatus.

A. 420². Wind instruments.

805. 'The breath of the Spirit of life' (Gen. vii. 22) = those of the Most Ancient Church who had the breath of lives in their nostrils, that is, the life of love and faith. Ex.

8286⁴. 'The blast of the breath of Thy nostrils' (Ps. xviii. 15).

E. 419¹⁰. Since the evil are cast down by means of a more vehement influx of Divine truth and good proceeding from the Lord as a Sun, the casting down of those who are in falsities of evil is described by 'the blast of the nostrils of Jehovah.' Ill.

Breath. Halitus.

A. 1266. By their breathings of persuasions . . .

H. 429⁰. When the breath flowing forth from Heaven struck him . . .

C. J. 6. Idea that the soul is a breath . . .

W. 42. Affections, etc. are not exhalations from these substances . . .

[W.] 62. Insects . . . corresponding to their odoriferous exhalations . . .

S. 66°. From the exhalations stored up in the earth, gold, silver, and iron draw their respective elements. E. 1084⁵.

M. 495°. The effluvia—halitus effluvioli—rising up from their flesh . . .

T. 224. Like breath from the mouth . . .

E. 183¹². Occurs. 419¹⁰, Ex.

Breath. Spiraculum.

A. 94. 'The breath of lives' (Gen. ii. 7).

97. The reason why life is described by 'inspiration' and by 'breath' is that the men of the Most Ancient Church perceived the states of love and faith through the states of the breathing.

—^c. That 'the breath' is taken for the life of faith and of love is evident in Job; 'That spirit is in man, and the breath of Shaddai causeth them to understand' (xxxii. 8); and again, 'The Spirit of God made me, and the breath of Shaddai vivified me' (xxxiii. 4).

W. 383². Hence it is that the Lord is called 'the Spirit of the nostrils,' and also 'the breath of life.'

T. 619⁶. These three spheres are like atmospheres arising from the breathing-holes of the dragon.

Breath. Under SPIRIT.

Breathe. Under AFFLATUS, EXPIRE, and INSPIRE.

Breathe. Respirare.

Breathing, Respiration. Respiratio.

A. 97. See BREATH—spiraculum—at this ref.

169. (Tacit breathing of Swedenborg when undergoing resuscitation.) H. 449, Ex. W. 391², Ex.

607². The man of the Most Ancient Church had inward breathing, and no outward breathing except tacit . . .

—³. The nature of this inward breathing, and how it was changed in process of time . . . As they had similar breathing to that of the Angels, who breathe in a similar way, they were in profound ideas of thought, and had such a perception as cannot be described . . . But with their descendants, this inward breathing vanished little by little, and with those who were taken possession of by direful persuasions and phantasies, it became of such a character that they could no longer present any idea of thought except a most odious one, the result of which was that they could not survive, but all became extinct. 805².

608. When inward breathing ceased, outward breathing gradually succeeded, almost like that of the present day; and with outward breathing there came the speech of words . . .

805². The man of the Most Ancient Church had inward breathing, thus in concord with and similar to the breathing of the Angels . . . which breathing was varied according to all the states of the inward man. D. 4145.

—³. After these times inward breathing ceased, and with it communication with Heaven, thus celestial perception, and outward breathing succeeded . . .

1118. Their inward breathing proceeded from the navel towards the heart, and so through the lips, without sound, and did not enter the ear of another through the external way . . . but through a certain way within the mouth, which is now called the Eustachian tube . . . It was shown that by means of such speech they could express the feelings of the mind and the ideas of the thought much more fully than can ever be done by means of articulate sounds or sonorous words, which are in like manner directed by means of the breathing, but by that which is external; for there is nothing in any word which is not directed by means of applications of the breathing. But with them it was done far more perfectly, because by means of inward breathing, which is far more perfect because it is more interior, and is more applicable and conformable to the very ideas of thought. D. 3317. 3322. 3323. 3324.

1119. It was shown me to the life how the inward breathing of the most ancients inflowed tacitly into a kind of outward breathing, and thus into tacit speech, which was perceived from another in the interior man. They said that this breathing was varied with them according to the state of their love and faith in the Lord, the reason of which was that they had communication with Heaven, for they breathed with the Angels in whose company they were. 3892. (See ANGEL at this ref.) There is something similar with every man . . . When anything opposes his loves and principles there is a straitness of the breathing, but when they are favoured the breathing is free and full. But these are variations of the outward breathing.

1120. It was also shown how the inward breathing of the men of the Most Ancient Church, which was from the navel towards the interior region of the breast, was changed in process of time, and receded more towards the region of the back, and towards the abdomen, thus more outwards and downwards; and that at last, in the last posterity of that Church, which existed just before the Flood, hardly anything of inward breathing remained, and when at last there was none at all in the breast, they were suffocated of their own accord; but that in some, outward breathing then commenced, and with this breathing articulate sound, or the speech of words . . .

1121. Their interior man, or spirit, was joined to Heaven by means of inward breathing . . .

1397. As soon as he came there, he could scarcely breathe . . . 3938⁶.

1879. I felt that I did not breathe from myself, but from Heaven, for there was nothing of my breathing . . . 3891. D. 458.

3103. See NOSE at this ref.

3351^e. They flowed softly into the breathing; but there were distinct choirs, some who appertained to the voluntary breathing, and some to the spontaneous. 3893.

3750². What a freedom, fullness, and delight of the breathing (the popes) have when they sit on their thrones in the consistory . . . D. 3662. 3689.

3884². I perceived the second general operation of Heaven in the breathing of the lungs, which softly led my breathing, but from within, so that I had no need to draw the breath, or respire, by means of anything of my will; the very breathing of Heaven was then manifestly perceived by me; it is inward, and therefore imperceptible to man, but inflows through a wonderful correspondence into the breathing of man, which is outward, or of the body. If man were deprived of this influx he would instantly fall down dead. D.1614.

—³. See BEAT at these refs. 3885. 3886. H.95(f). W.390. P.338⁵. D.Wis.vii.3.

—⁴. Hence it is evident . . . that the breathings of Heaven have a correspondence with the lungs and their breathings.

3885. In that state it was granted me to observe the general breathing of Heaven; it was interior, easy, spontaneous, and corresponding with my breathing as three to one. D.605. 3121. 3989.

3887². The cardiac movements (with Spirits) are according to the states of the love, and the respiratory movements according to the states of the faith; the influx of the one into the other causes them spiritually to feel, and spiritually to act.

3891. Not only does the universal Heaven breathe as one man, but also the individual Societies in company; nay, all Angels and Spirits. From experience.

—⁶. On innumerable occasions it has been granted me to feel the breathing of Spirits and also of Angels from the fact of their breathing in me, and still my breathing went on distinct from theirs . . .

3893⁵. They who are assigned to the involuntary breathing are present when man is asleep, for as soon as a man is asleep, the voluntary of his breathing ceases, and he takes up the involuntary of breathing. D.496.

3894. As the breathings of Angels and Spirits are entirely according to the states of their love and thence of their faith, one Society does not breathe the same as another, and the evil . . . cannot be in the company of the good, but when they approach them they seem to themselves not to be able to breathe, but to be as it were suffocated, and consequently half dead, and they sink like stones into Hell, where they again receive their own breathing, which they have in common with those who are there . . . 3895. 4225². 4226. 4330⁵. 4674⁵. 9108. W.423. P.305⁵. D.3326. 3330.

3894. (Hence novitiates) cannot be in the company of the Angels even as to the breathing; wherefore, while they are being prepared, they are first inaugurated into angelic life by means of concordant respirations, and then at the same time they come into interior perceptions and heavenly freedom. This takes place in the society of many, or in choirs, in which one breathes like another . . . D.3399. D.Wis.vii.2².

3895. See PERSUADE at these refs. D.3583⁵. E.549⁵.

4225². The breathing is according to the freedom of the life.

7217. See ANXIETY at this ref.

8542. The taking away of the breathing and thence of life by Spirits (in Jupiter).

9050². In the Original Language 'the soul' is so called from the breathing which is of the lungs.

9281. 'To breathe' (Ex.xxiii.12)=the state of life as to the truths and goods of faith . . . because the lungs, to which the breathing belongs, correspond to the life of faith from charity, which is spiritual life. E.130³.

—². Man has outward breathing and inward breathing, the outward is from the world, the inward is from Heaven. When a man dies, his outward breathing ceases, but his inward breathing, which so long as he lives in the world is tacit and imperceptible to him, continues (H.449); this breathing is entirely according to the affection of truth, thus according to the life of his faith; but they who are in no faith, as are they who in Hell, take their breathing not from within, but from without, thus by a contrary alternation; wherefore when they approach an angelic Society, where the breathing is from within, they begin to be suffocated . . . and therefore cast themselves headlong into their own Hell, where they again receive their own former breathing which is contrary to the breathing of Heaven.

—³. See SOUL at this ref.

9318⁵. The breathing which is of the lungs corresponds to the life of truth, which is the life of faith and thence of the understanding.

—¹⁵. 'The breathing'=the life of faith.

10374. 'In the seventh day He rested and breathed' (Ex.xxxi.17)=the state of good when the Church is instituted, or when man is regenerated. . . 'The rest and breathing of Jehovah' then=the union of the Divine Itself and of the Divine Human in the Lord . . . The reason Jehovah is said to have then 'rested and breathed' is that the Lord as to His Human was then above all infestations from the Hells . . . There were then also rest and breathing for Heaven.

10588. The breathing (on the fourth Earth) is similar to ours, but is not articulated as it goes forth into sound.

H. 235. The Angels breathe in their own atmosphere, and by means of the respiration utter words, as men do in theirs.

446. The inmost communication of the spirit is with the breathing and the motion of the heart; of its thought with the breathing, and of the affection which is of love with the heart; wherefore when these two motions cease in the body there is at once a separation. These two motions . . . are the very bonds, on the breaking of which the spirit is left to itself . . . The reason the inmost communication of man's spirit is with the breathing and with the heart, is that all the vital motions depend upon these, not only in general, but also in every part. W.391⁵.

481⁶. They who are in corporeal love cannot breathe in Heaven . . . But they who are in celestial love breathe more freely, and live more fully, in proportion as they are more interiorly in Heaven.

L. 51³. The reason the Lord 'breathed on—inspiravit—His disciples, and said, Receive ye the Holy Spirit,' was that all the breathing of Heaven is from the Lord; for the Angels, equally with men, have breathing, and a beating of the heart; the breathing with them is according to the reception of Divine wisdom from the Lord . . .

F. 19^e. In the Spiritual World everyone is known, as to the quality of his faith, from the breathing alone . . .

W. 176. See ATMOSPHERE at this ref.

183. See ANGEL at this ref.

382². See SPIRIT at this ref.

391. That man's spirit breathes in his body it has been given me to know by my Own experience. On a certain occasion, the Angels were permitted to lead my breathing, and to diminish it at pleasure, and at length to draw it back until only the breathing of my spirit remained, which I then perceived by sense. . . Sometimes also I have been reduced to the breathing of my spirit alone, which I have then perceived by sense to be in concord with the general breathing of Heaven. Many times also I have been in a similar state with the Angels . . . in the spirit outside the body, and spoke with them with breathing similarly as in the world. From these and other living proofs it has been plain to me, not only that the spirit of man breathes in the body, but also after it has left the body; and that the breathing of the spirit is so tacit that it is not perceived by man; and that it inflows into the manifest breathing of the body scarcely otherwise than as cause into effect, and thought into the lungs and through the lungs into speech. D. Wis. vii. 3.

393. They who breathe with Heaven . . . and with Hell . . .

405². See LUNGS at this ref.

408². The alternations of the breathing enter into the viscera themselves even to their inmost recesses. Ex.

412. The respirations are not perceptions and thoughts, but are correspondences, for they act correspondently or synchronously. 420.

—³. On the cessation of the influx of blood the breathing ceases . . .

—⁵. Man has a twofold breathing, one of the spirit and the other of the body, and the breathing of the spirit depends on fibres from the brains, and the breathing of the body on blood-vessels from the heart and from the vena cava and aorta. Moreover it is evident that thought produces breathing . . . Thought without affection is just like breathing without a heart.

415. Thus the breathing of the body can be separated from the breathing of the spirit. But when only the blood from the heart acts, the respirations cannot be separated. Now as the thoughts by correspondence make one with the respirations, it is evident from the twofold state of the lungs as to respiration, that a man can think in one way . . . in company, and in a different way . . . when not in company . . . 417^e.

417. Man has a twofold breathing, one of the body and the other of the spirit; these two respirations can be separated and can also be conjoined; with merely natural men, especially with hypocrites, they are separated; but rarely with spiritual and sincere men.

420². See BLOOD at these refs. —³.

423. The breathing of a merely natural man appears like the breathing of a spiritual man; but the difference is clearly discerned in Heaven, for there everyone breathes according to the marriage of love and wisdom; wherefore as the Angels are Known by that marriage, they are also Known by their breathing.

P. 319. Respirations, which are the reciprocal distensions and retractions, or stretchings and closings up of the lobules (of the lungs).

R. 343³. That 'wind' and breathing=the influx of Divine truth into the understanding, is from the correspondence of the lungs with the understanding.

708. See AIR at these refs. T. 371⁴.

M. 171². (Man's sphere, which is dense on the breast) conjoins itself on the breast with the breathing . . .

241. He cannot . . . accost his married partner in a communion of respirations . . .

T. 335⁷. The reason new-born infants can breathe is that they live, for this is a universal of life.

433². From every man there flows forth a spiritual sphere . . . through both the face and the breathing.

480. Without free-will you would breathe no more than a statue, for the breathing follows the thought and thence the speech in every step . . . A beast breathes from natural free-will; but a man from free-will in natural and at the same time in spiritual things . . .

T. 577². Hence the breathing of every membrane . . .

D. 605. All can breathe (from the general breathing of Heaven), by this rule, that the general breathing . . . goes off into a continuous affair, so that all have their respirations therefrom with all variety.

1793. They are utterly natural men, because they obstruct the breathing through the nostrils; wherefore it is determined through the mouth, and thus into the pharynx; differently from what it is wont to be in the natural way of breathing, which is through the nostrils, on account of the concord of the brain and its animations with external things: thus do they break the communications of interior things with exterior.

3034². Breathing was as it were taken away from me, that is, I let go the breathing, and breathed inwardly . . .

3317. My respiration has been so formed by the Lord that I could breathe inwardly, for a considerable time, without the aid of the external air; so that my breathing was so directed inwardly that the external senses and acts remained in their vigour . . . The breathing is so directed unawares to me in order that I may be with Spirits and speak with them.

3318. Celestial Angels induce one kind of breathing, with every difference, and spiritual Angels another, with every difference . . . The Spirits of Mercury also enumerated many kinds of breathing . . . both of those which inflowed into the interior breathing, and of those which inflowed externally, especially towards the left eye; so that every Society of the Grand Man has its own kind of breathing; which inflow and constitute the general breathing of man. 4755, Ex. D. Wis. vii. 2².

3319. There was further shown me a respiration which was solely of the loins, even to the soles of the feet. Ex. 3325- 3353-has its own breathing, nay, its place of breathing; for when the voluntary breathing ceases which prevails during wakefulness according to the state of the wakefulness, there is present only natural breathing. Thus when I am among Spirits, so much of this or that sense is awake, thus the voluntary breathing, which is disposed by the Lord alone; so that what is voluntary of breathing is present in both quantity and quality so far as contributes to the quantity and quality of that sense . . . Moreover, before I spoke with Spirits (I saw) that the breathing corresponds with the thought; as for instance in my early childhood, when of set purpose I willed to hold my breath; when they were at prayers morning and evening; also when I wanted the alternations of the breathing to agree with those of the heart, so that the understanding began as it were almost to vanish; and again afterwards, when I was writing in imagination, I had observed that I was holding the breathing as it were tacit.

3320. It was also shown that every sense of the body

3321. (Various particulars concerning the breathing.)

3323. Hence the ideas of the Angels, even those of the celestial, are nothing but respirations . . . 3399.

3326. The breathing corresponds to the idea, and the breathing is organic, because the breathing is the idea.

3399. That inauguration into gyres is inauguration into respirations. Gen.art.

— So when interior breathing is given, the interior senses and perceptions are alive . . .

3464. The breathing flowed in thence that I might know their quality; the breathing was then separated from the breast, and was of the abdomen around the navel, nor did it extend itself further; which signifies a life separated from what is good and true. There were then shown me certain kinds of respirations, concerning which much was said; as for instance, that there is an external one along with the customary breathing, which is the general one of the World of Spirits; also an inward one with an insensible external one, which is pretty good; also an internal without an external one, which is better; and also an insensible one, almost imperceptible to me, which is angelic. These in general. But there are many genera of them, and an indefinite number of species; also as to regions in the body and determinations therefrom.

—². Thus was I accustomed to breathe in early childhood, when I said my morning and evening prayers; and occasionally afterwards, while I was investigating the concord of the lungs and heart, especially when I was writing from my mind those things which have been published. Throughout the course of many years I observed at different times that there was a tacit breathing, scarcely sensible, concerning which it was afterwards granted me to think, and also to write. Thus have I been introduced into such respirations through the course of many years, beginning with my infancy, especially by means of intense speculations, in which the breathing was quiescent, otherwise an intense speculation about truth is not possible. Afterwards, when Heaven was open to me, so that I spoke with Spirits, I did not breathe at all for the space of an hour, and merely drew in sufficient air to enable me to keep on thinking. Thus was I introduced by the Lord into interior respirations. I have also casually observed again and again that when I have been falling asleep, my breathing was almost taken away, so that I woke up, and caught my breath. Besides, when I observe nothing of the kind, and write, and think, the breathing is arrested, unless I reflect upon it. . . The design of this was that every state, every sphere, thus every Society, especially the interior ones, might have in me a fitting respiration, to which I am applied without reflection, and by which means it was given to be with Spirits and Angels.

2 F

3490. The breathing (of the Spirits of Jupiter) was interior, within the region of the navel, upwards and downwards through the breast; to me it was insensible.

3490¹. Some from the primitive or Moravian Church came . . . They first filled the chest with respiration, and so passed to the region of the navel, and then breathed inwardly from the navel through the hinder part of the chest, hardly reaching the mouth . . . 3492.

4457. (Sirens) entered completely into my breathing . . . they even attempted to enter into the interior breathing . . . 4630¹.

4494. Some are able to kill others . . . by a magical deprivation of the breathing.

4636. They induce their own breathing on others, and thus possess them.

E. 410⁵. The wind of respiration=spiritual life . . . for in the Spiritual World the quality of all is known from their breathing alone.

—⁸. 'Breathing' (Lam.iii.56) is here said of truths, and 'cry' of goods.

1012. That the breathing of the lungs corresponds to thought, is manifestly evident from the simultaneous and unanimous operation of both, for as a man thinks so he breathes; if he thinks tacitly he also breathes tacitly, contrariwise if strongly; if he thinks intensely and inwardly in himself, the breathing is gradually arrested and withdrawn; thus a man varies the state of his breathing in exact accordance with every state of his thought. Ex. D.Wis.vi⁵.

D. Wis. vii. 2³. The universal distinction of respirations is according to the idea of God . . . hence Christians cannot enter where Mohammedans are, on account of their respiration. Those have the most easy and gentle respiration who have an idea of God as a Man . . .

vii. 3². See BEAST at this ref.

x³. The breathing which is effected by means of an influx of air through the larynx and trachea into the bronchia of the lungs, corresponds to the life of the understanding. x.2.

Breathe. Spirare.

A. 1769. They who have aspired to high things . . . 9365.

8296. 'Thou hast blown with Thy wind' (Ex.xv.10) =the presence of the Lord with the Angels.

10240³. 'To breathe'=the state of the life of faith Refs.

H. 537². From Hell there continually breathes forth falsity from evil, and from Heaven truth from good.

552². Thus does (a Spirit) breathe his own life . . .

D. Wis. vi⁴. 'He breathed into them' (John xx.22) =intelligence.

Breathe on. Aspirare.

Breathing on. Aspiratio.

A. 1016. All things take place according to the aspiration of the affection.

4046. A cold breathing into my forehead.

4311³. They aspire and inspire . . .

6516². Perceived from the aspiration . . .

7377. They who aspire to honours . . .

7768. A breath-aspiratum-of air.

T. 140. The reason the Lord breathed on His disciples . . . was that breathing on was an outward representative sign of Divine inspiration.

177³. See ASSENT at this ref.

Breathe into. Insufflare.

Inflation. Insufflatio.

A. 1506^e. To such a degree does the love of self inflate itself . . .

5664¹³. The love of self and of the world which puffs them up . . .

8593². By inflations of his depraved affections . . .

P. 338⁷. Nor was it possible to breathe into them any other life than their own.

D. 3110^e. They were perceived only by such a method of blowing into . . .

3113. Those who blew him out . . . The reason he was so blown out . . .

Bredberg. D.6034².

Breeches. Femoralia.

A. 9959. 'Thou shalt make them linen breeches' (Ex.xxviii.42)=the external of [marriage] love . . . because they covered the loins . . . The reason the breeches were of linen, was that 'linen'=external or natural truth; and the very external itself is truth. 9960. 9961. 9962.

9962. Hence 'the breeches' which were upon Aaron and his sons were for a protection from the Hells. Ex.

M. 15^e. The courtiers wore . . . breeches and stockings of opaline silk.

T. 574^e. Occurs.

Brick. Later.

To make bricks. Laterificare.

A. 1296. 'Let us make bricks' (literally, 'Let us brick bricks,' (Gen.xi.3)=the falsities which they fashioned for themselves. 'A stone'=truth; hence 'a brick,' because made by man,=falsity, for a brick is artificially made stone. Ill.

1298. 'They had brick for stone'=that they had falsity instead of truth.

6669. 'In clay and in bricks' (Ex.i.14)=on account of the evils which they found out and the falsities which they fashioned.

7112^e. 'Bricks'=fictitious and false things.

7113. 'To brick bricks' (Ex.v.7)=to the fictitious and false things which are being injected. Ex. 7116.

7138. 'To make bricks' (ver.14)=to receive fictitious and false things.

7156. 'To brick bricks'=to endure injected falsities.

7519⁶. See FURNACE at these refs. —e. E.177^e.

M. 78³. Houses seen that were constructed of bricks, plastered over.

231. An amphitheatre built of bricks.

T. 797². A pavement of brick-lateritia-work.

E. 324¹⁹. 'They sacrifice in gardens, and burn incense upon bricks' (Is.lxv.3)=worship from falsities of doctrine which are from their Own intelligence. . . 'Bricks'=falsities. 659².

540⁸. 'Bricks'=the falsities which are fashioned, and which do not cohere with truths.

Brick-kiln. See under FURNACE.

Bride. Sponsa.

See under WIFE.

A. 155. Proprium vivified by the Lord is called the Lord's 'bride,' and 'wife.' 253.

3103. In ancient times . . . it was customary to give a pendant of gold and bracelets to a bride, because the Church was represented by a bride; its good by the pendant, and its truth by the bracelets. 3105. 4638⁸.

3207. The veil with which a bride covered her face when she first saw the bridegroom=appearances of truth; for with the ancients brides represented affections of truth, and bridegrooms affections of good; or what is the same thing, the Church, which was called 'a bride' from the affection of truth; the affection of good which is from the Lord was the 'bridegroom'; hence the Lord Himself is called 'the Bridegroom'; and the brides veiled their faces on their first approach to the bridegroom in order to represent the appearances of truth. 4434⁸. E.223¹³.

3236. See HUSBAND at these refs. 10168. M.117.

4456^e. The dowry was a token of consent . . . and to accept it was the reciprocal, thus the bride was the bridegroom's and the bridegroom the bride's.

4638⁸. See BRIDEGROOM at these refs. 7047. 9182⁵. P.8⁴. R.797. 812^e. 960^e. M.20^e. 21. 300^e.

4859. Because truth does not appear in its true quality before it is conjoined with its own good . . . a bride on first seeing her husband covered herself with a veil.

L. 63^e. The Church is 'a bride' when she wills to receive the Lord, and 'a wife' when she receives Him.

R. 881. 'Prepared as a bride for her husband' (Rev. xxi.2)=that Church conjoined with the Lord through the Word. . . By 'Jerusalem' is meant the Church, and John saw it first as a city, and afterwards as a virgin bride, as a city representatively, and as a virgin bride spiritually, thus in a twofold idea, one within or above the other . . .

895°. 'The bride, the Lamb's wife' = the New Church which will be conjoined with the Lord through the Word. That Church is called 'a bride' when being renewed, and 'a wife' when she has been renewed; here, 'the bride the wife' because she is certainly to be renewed.

955. 'The Spirit and the bride say, Come' = that Heaven and the Church long for the Lord's Advent. . . The Church which is here called 'the bride' does not mean the Church from those who are in falsities of faith, but the Church from those who are in truths of faith, for these long for the light, thus for the Advent of the Lord.

M. 503. Virginitv is called the crown of chastity . . . therefore a bride wears a crown on her head at her wedding . . .

767°. This may be likened to a bride, who constantly carries something of the image of the bridegroom in the sight of her spirit, beholds him in his gifts as in mirrors, longs for his coming, and when he comes receives him with joy, in which the love of her bosom exults.

Bridegroom. Sponsus.

A. 3207. See BRIDE at these refs. 4456°.

3236. See HUSBAND at these refs. 10168. M. 117.

4638°. 'They went forth to meet the bridegroom' = their reception. . . 'Behold the bridegroom cometh, go ye out to meet Him' = that which is the judgment, namely, acceptance and rejection.

—⁸. Heaven is likened to a wedding from the heavenly marriage, which is the marriage of good and truth; and the Lord to 'a bridegroom' because they are then conjoined with Him; hence the Church is called 'the bride.' 6179°.

7047. ('Zipporah) said, Thou art a bridegroom of bloods to me' (Ex. iv. 25) = that it was full of all violence and hostility to truth and good. 'Bridegroom' here = a representative of the Church, or the external of it, while the representative Church itself is the bride. . . As Zipporah represents that Church and Moses the external of it, she does not call him her husband, but her 'bridegroom,' for a bride can represent what is diverse from the bridegroom, but not a wife what is diverse from her husband.

9182°. Where the Lord and the Church are treated of, 'bridegroom' = good, and 'bride' truth. III. —⁹, III.

S. 173. 'The bridegroom' (Matt. xxv) = the Lord. E. 676°.

R. 797. 'The voice of the bridegroom and the bride shall be heard in thee no more' (Rev. xviii. 23) = that with those who are in that religiosity from doctrine and life according thereto there is no conjunction of good and truth, which makes the Church. . . In the supreme sense, 'the bridegroom' means the Lord as to Divine good, and 'the bride' the Church as to Divine truth from the Lord, for the Church is the Church from the reception of the Lord's Divine good in the Divine truths which are from Him. III.

960°. Here the Lord and the Church speak as bridegroom and bride.

M. 203. After them came forth the bridegroom and bride, holding each other by the hand and leading each other to a seat . . . on which they placed themselves, the bridegroom on the left, and the bride on his right, and the six maidens stood at the side of the seat near the bride. (The dress of the bridegroom and the bride described.) Being thus seated, the bridegroom turned himself towards the bride and placed a golden ring on her finger, and took up bracelets and a necklace of pearls, and fastened the bracelets on her wrists, and the necklace round her neck, and said, Accept these pledges, and when she accepted them he kissed her and said, Now art thou mine, and he called her his wife . . .

21. They said, The bridegroom represented the Lord, and the bride the Church . . . hence he wore a mitre on his head, and was clad in a robe, vest, and ephod like Aaron; and the bride wore a crown on her head, and was dressed like a queen; but to-morrow they will be dressed differently, because this representation lasts only to-day. (Why she sat on his right.)

—³. (Why there were no groom's men.)

300°. After the giving and receiving of pledges they are declared to be bridegroom and bride.

E. 252°. 'The bridegroom' (Matt. xxv) means the Lord as to conjunction with Heaven and the Church through love and faith.

1189. 'The voice of the bridegroom and of the bride shall be heard in thee no more' = that there shall not be any joy from the conjunction of good and truth. Ex. and III.

Bridge. Pons.

A. 942. Between this city and Gehenna there appears as it were a bridge. Des. D. 853. 855.

Bridle. Fraenum, Fraenare.

See CHECK.

A. 6832¹⁹. When the rein is given to their cupidities . . . 7375. 7875. 8295. 8678. 10814². H. 559. 562. N. 71. P. 231⁷.

6977°. Kept in check by fear . . .

10808. So that good . . . bridled evil . . .

R. 653. 'The bridles of the horses' (Rev. xiv. 20) = the truths of the Word, by which the understanding is led. Ex. and III.

E. 923. 'The bridles of the horses' = government and dominion, for he who sits on a horse rules and masters it by the bridle.

Brief Exposition. Summaria Expositio.

B. (Cover). This Book is the Advent of the Lord. Written by command.

T. 112. I was in the spirit, and heard some talking together and saying, Would that we might speak with that innovator who has cast the apple of discord among the leaders of the Church, and which many of the laity have run after, and have thrust on our attention. By this apple they meant the short treatise entitled A Brief Exposition of the Doctrine of the New Church. (Swedenborg presents himself and discusses the subject.)

Ecc. Hist. 7. When the Brief Exposition was published, the angelic Heaven from east to west and from south to north appeared purple, with most beautiful flowers; this was before me, and before the Danish kings and others. At another time it appeared beautifully flamy.

[Ecc. Hist.] 8. On the books was written [that is, on the copies of the Brief Exposition], The Advent of the Lord; on all in the Spiritual World. By command I wrote the same on two copies in Holland.

Docu. 244. (Letter to Count Höpken.) The Brief Exposition of the Doctrine of the New Church meets with adverse criticisms . . . yet only in the beginning . . . When this preliminary treatise was finished, the whole heaven from east to west, and from south to north, appeared to me covered with roses of a deep scarlet colour, so that all who were present with me in the World of Spirits were astonished at it; this was a sign of the assent and joy of the New Heaven.

Brier. Sentis, Senticetum.

A. 273. See BRAMBLE at these refs. 2831⁹. E. 357¹⁸. 644⁹.

9144⁴. 'The thorn and the brier' (Is. xxxii. 13) = falsities and evils thence derived. E. 304¹¹. —¹². 730⁶.

—⁶. 'A pricking brier' (Ezek. xxviii. 24) = the falsity of the concupiscences of self-love; 'a thorn' = the falsity of the concupiscences of the love of the world.

Bright. Candidus.

Brightness. Candor.

Glitter white. Candere.

A. 186. A bright light beautifully turning yellow, by which was signified the first life of (a resuscitated person), namely, what is celestial with what is spiritual.

826. The fiery appearance of Gehenna, which is reddish, at their coming became more of a bright white . . .

1523^e. Little children and the mothers were seen in a light of such brightness and splendour that nothing could possibly be brighter. D. 3389.

1624. See COLOUR at these refs. 4530. 9865².

2603^e. Knowing that their souls are white . . .

2699². They appear to themselves in white—albis—and bright [garments].

3527². See FACE at this ref.

3812⁴. 'Whiter—albi—than snow, and whiter than milk' (Lam. iv. 7) = in celestial truth . . . 'Whiteness—albedo,' and 'whiteness,' are predicated of truth. E. 364⁵.

3993⁵. See WHITE—*albus—at these refs. 9407⁹. E. 196.

3994. A heavenly proprium, which is bright and resplendent.

5319. See FINE LINEN at this ref.

— Exterior truths are represented by the brightness of the garments in Heaven; interior truths by the brightness and resplendence of the face.

5377^e. Hence the Angels are in brightness and beauty ineffable . . .

6609. Truths were represented by an azure colour mingled with a lovely shining whiteness; the brightness cannot be described. Appearances of truth were represented by a dim brightness; and falsities by black clouds. D. 2632. 2633.

9468³. Divine truth . . . appears as a flaming light in the inmost Heaven, and as a bright white light in the middle one. 9570^e. 9865². H. 128³, Ex.

9570^e. Truth of faith from good of charity is presented in Heaven by means of a bright white light.

9872. See BLUE—*caeruleus, at this ref.

H. 99^e. Beautiful, bright, and angelic.

118. Before the left eye it does not appear as a Sun, but as a Moon, similar in whiteness, but sparkling more . . . than the moon of our Earth, and which is surrounded by many little moons, each of which glitters white and sparkles in the same way.

126. The brightness and lustre—nitōr—of the light of Heaven cannot be described.

159^e. The Lord appears to everyone according to his state; thus . . . bright white when their love departs.

178^e. The less intelligent Angels have bright white and dead white garments devoid of resplendence.

179^e. Both bright white and dead white correspond to truth. Refs.

S. 73. A flaming and bright light . . .

W. 182. The light with the Angels of the higher Heavens is so white that it cannot be described, not even by the whiteness of snow . . .

R. 915². By a white colour is signified the truth of wisdom . . . The reason a white colour signifies the truth of wisdom is that it derives its origin from the light . . .

M. 75⁴. A coat of white wool.

76⁷. The white colour signifies the intelligence of the husband . . .

T. 41³. Like taking away the whiteness from the ruddiness of the face . . .

312. Hatreds appear like dusky fires, and revenges like bright fires.

360³. Charity is red from the flame of spiritual fire, and faith glitters white from the resplendence of the light therefrom.

383^e. Faith is as white—alba—as snow, and as white as water.

590^e. A dusky spirit may dwell under a bright face.

D. 1057. Spiritual things are represented by . . . white things—alba, and by shining ones; and when what is celestial reigns, by resplendently bright ones.

1059. A colour . . . like that of the blood, either white, or red.

1294⁵. They seem to become white, like swine, by the scraping off of their bristles.

1301. Of a beautiful human whiteness . . .

3378. An infant clothed in a white garment . . .

3389. On the brightness of innocence . . . This brightness is so distinguished from dead white that it ought not to be compared to it; what is snowy approaches the appearance of it; but still it is such brightness as cannot be described.

3597°. Such are represented by a priest clothed in a black garment, who has a bright cloud [around him], and afterwards by a bright virgin . . . But that brightness was taken away from him.

E. 66. 'His head and hairs white' (Rev.i.14)=the Divine in first principles and ultimates. . . 'White'=pure. That 'white=album,' and 'white'=what is pure, Refs.

67. 'As white wool, as snow' (Id.)=as to good and truth there. . . That 'snow'=truth in ultimates is from the water which is the source of it, and from its whiteness=albedo, and brightness. . . That whiteness=albedo, and brightness=truth, from the transparency of light, Refs. 197⁴.

372⁵. 'White=albus' (Lam.iv.7) is predicated of truth ; in like manner 'snow,' and 'bright,' of the good of truth ; in like manner 'milk.'

Bright. See under LUCID, SPLENDOUR.

Bright. Nitidus.

Brightness. Nitor.

H. 126. See BRIGHT=candidus, at this ref.

R. 814. Bright from good, and pure from truths.

T. 657. Like a polished bone with putrid marrow.

Bright. Tersus.

A. 3923⁵. 'Bright iron' (Ezek.xxvii.19) = natural truth.

Brimstone. See SULPHUR.

Bring. Adducere.

A. 3943. 'He brought them to Leah his mother' (Gen.xxx.14)=application to the affection of external truth. 'To bring'=application.

5543. 'Unless I bring him to thee' (Gen.xlii.37)=unless the medium is conjoined. . . 'To bring'=to be conjoined.

5645. 'The man brought the men to the house of Joseph' (Gen.xliii.17)=the first introduction into the good which is from the Celestial of the Spiritual. 'To bring'=introduction.

5648. 'Because they were brought to Joseph's house' (ver.18)=that the truths which are of the Natural were adjoined and subjected to the internal. . . 'To be brought'=to be adjoined, and because it=to be adjoined, it=to be subjected. Ex.

6744. 'Take to thee this child' (Ex.ii.9)=that she should adjoin it to herself. 'To take to'=to adjoin.

8765. 'I have brought you to me' (Ex.xix.4)=to the good of love, which is in Heaven . . . for by means of the truths of faith man is brought to good . . .

8988. 'The lord shall bring him to God' (Ex.xxiii.6)=the state into which he then enters according to Divine order. . . 'To bring'=to enter.

9154. 'The lord of the house shall be brought to God' (Ex.xxii.8)=inquiry from good. 'To be brought to God'=in order that inquiry may be made.

9874°. Thus is he brought to Him . . .

H. 577°. By fear . . . man cannot be brought into spiritual goods, for in proportion as he is brought into these he meditates cunning and deceit . . .

P. 193. It is necessary to adduce some things . . .

Bring. Afferre.

R. 921. 'The kings of the earth shall bring their glory and honour into it' (Rev.xxi.24)=that all who are in truths of wisdom from spiritual good will there confess the Lord and ascribe to Him all the truths and all the good that are with them.

T. 343°. The general principles shall be adduced . . . (See also above, P.193.)

Bring back. Reducere.

A bringing back. Reductio.

A. 1717. 'He brought back all the substance' (Gen.xiv.16)=that the interior man reduced all things in the external man into a state of agreement. Ex.

2449². All who come into the other life are brought back into a similar life to that which they had in the body.

2533. 'Now therefore restore the man his wife' (Gen.xx.7)=that he should restore the spiritual truth of doctrine untainted by the Rational.

3031. 'In bringing back must I bring back thy son to the land from whence thou wentest forth?' (Gen.xxiv.5)=whether it could still be conjoined with good Divine of the Rational. Ex.

3033. 'Take heed lest thou bring back my son thither' (ver.6)=that it could never be conjoined.

3712. 'I will bring thee back to this ground' (Gen.xxviii.15)=conjunction with Divine doctrine. 'To bring back'=to conjoin again.

3773. 'They replaced the stone upon the mouth of the well in its place' (Gen.xxix.3)=that meanwhile it was closed up.

4714. 'Bring me word again' (Gen.xxxvii.14)=Knowledge.

4738. 'To bring him back to his father' (ver.22)=to claim it for the Church.

4924. 'He drew back his hand' (Gen.xxxviii.29)=that he hid his power.

5125. 'He shall restore thee upon thy post' (Gen.xl.13)=that those things which are of the Sensual subject to the intellectual part shall be reduced into order, that they may be in the last place. 5165.

5624. 'The silver that was brought again in the mouth of your sacks, carry it again in your hand' (Gen.xliii.12)=that through truth given gratis in the exterior Natural they should submit themselves as much as possible. 5659. 5757.

5774. Truths brought back to scientifics, Sig. and Ex.

5840. 'If I do not bring him back to thee' (Gen.xliv.32)=unless it be conjoined with spiritual good. 'To bring back'=to conjoin again.

6559. 'Requiting he will requite us all the evil that we have returned to him' (Gen.l.15)=that punishment threatens according to merit. . . How the case is with the requiting of evil, or with punishments in the Spiritual World.

[A.] 8334. 'Jehovah brought again the waters of the sea upon them' (Ex.xv.19)=that the falsities from evils which they intended for the good fell back on themselves, in consequence of the presence of the Lord with those who are in good.

9256. 'Bringing it back thou shalt bring it back to him' (Ex.xxiii.4)=instruction and amendment . . . for thus are they brought back.

E. 395¹⁰. 'Those who bring back—reduces—from war' (Mic.ii.8)=those who have dispelled falsities.

405¹⁹. 'The bringing back of the people from captivity' (Amos.ix.14)=the restoring of a new Church. See 811²⁸.

555⁸. 'Those who bring back from war'=those who have been in temptations and have fought against falsities.

Bring forth. See under BEAR—parere; see also LABOUR—parturire.

Bring forth. Educere.

A bringing forth. Eductio.

The bringing forth. Eductor.

A. 1806. 'Bringing him forth abroad' (Gen.xv.5)=the sight of the interior man, which from external things sees internal things. Ex.

2415. 'When they had brought them forth abroad' (Gen.xix.17)=the state when they are being withheld from falsity and evil. 2413.

4906. 'Bring her forth and let her be burnt' (Gen. xxxviii.24)=that it is to be extirpated. . . 'To bring forth' is predicated of truth, and 'to burn' of good, which are to be extirpated.

491². As by 'going forth from the womb' is signified the rebirth, and thence the Church, the Lord is called . . . 'the bringer forth from the womb,' etc. III.

5134. 'Bring me out of this house' (Gen.xl.14)=deliverance from evils. 'To bring out'=deliverance.

6753. 'Because I drew him out of the waters' (Ex.ii.10)=deliverance from falsities. 'To draw out'=deliverance.

6865. 'Bring forth my people the Sons of Israel out of Egypt' (Ex.iii.10)=the deliverance of those who are of the spiritual Church from the falsities which infest them. 'To bring forth'=deliverance. 6868. 7235. 7238. 7277. 7282. 7932. 7990. 8018. 8050. 8411. 8528. 8646. 8866. 9197. 10156, Ex.

7203. 'I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians' (Ex.vi.6)=that the Lord will release them from the infestations of those who are in falsities. 'To bring out'=to release.

7898. 'In this selfsame day have I brought your armies out of the land of Egypt' (Ex.xii.17)=a state then of charity and faith through which there is separation from those who are evils and falsities. . . 'To bring out'=to be separated.

8004. 'Thou shalt not carry forth ought of the flesh abroad out of the house' (Ex.xii.46)=that this good shall not be commingled with any other good. Ex.

9294^e. These three feasts were instituted on account of the bringing forth of the human race . . . out of Hell, and their introduction into Heaven.

S. 92. He cannot bring himself out of his falsities . . .

E. 355³⁵. Deliverance (from evils and falsities) is meant by 'Thou broughtest us out into breadth' (Ps.lxvi.12).

401²¹. 'To bring out Israel from among them' (Ps. cxxxvi.11)=to open the spiritual man, and so to regenerate him. Ex.

419¹³. Reformation through the Divine truth which is from Him is signified by 'He bringeth the wind out of His treasures' (Ps.cxxxv.7).

Bring together. Conferre.

A. 5373. All goods and truths brought together into the scientifics of the Church. Sig. and Ex. 6004³. 6023.

M. 31. He cannot compare his state with his former natural one . . .

T. 67. Unless they convey themselves into use . . .

371³. Without his contributing . . .

477^e. Betakes himself into Hell . . .

514. It is said that contrition contributes to faith.

Brisk. See ACTIVITY—strenuitas.

Bristly. See HAIRY—hirsutus.

Britain. Britannia.

British. Britanni.

R. 484. (Books in the Spiritual World treating on justifying faith . . . Those from Britain were still more profound.)

T. 72. A regiment of Spirits reasoning about imputation and predestination; they were Dutch and British . . .

Brittle. Fragilis. A.5951². 7601³.

Broad places. Vici. J. (Post.) 268.

A. 2336⁴. 'To go out into the streets and broad places' (Luke xiv.21)=to seek everywhere for genuine truth. E.223²⁰.

10422. See WAY—via, at these refs. H.479 (p).

E. 652³. 'Broad places' (Jer.v.1) specifically, mean the corners of the city, thus the quarters where they dwell; and as in the Spiritual World everyone dwells in cities according to the affection of good and the perception of truth, whether clear or dim, 'broad places'=truths and goods according to the affection and perception of each one. —⁵.

652²⁷. 'Streets,' and 'broad places' (Jer.ix.21)=truths of doctrine and truths of life, which lead to intelligence and wisdom.

Broman, Carl. D.4151. 5888.

Broman, Erland. D.5492.

Bronchia. Bronchia.

Bronchial. Bronchialis.

W. 405². The bronchial arteries and veins . . . 407^e. 413².

—⁴. The ramifications of the bronchia of the lungs correspond to the perceptions and thoughts from those affections. 412.

413². The cellular substance, which consists of the bronchia continued down to the minutest follicles . . .

W. 415. The clustered vessels of the bronchia . . .

Brood. Motitare.

A. 19. 'The Spirit of God' (Gen.i.1) means the Lord's mercy, of which 'brooding' is predicated, like that of a hen on her eggs; here, on those things which the Lord stores up in man, and are called 'remains.'

929⁵. 'Waving' = vivification, for truths are not alive with a man until they are in good. The priest who waved the sheaf, that is, who vivified the goods of truth, represented the Lord, for all life is from Him.

E. 281⁶. Their instruction in truths, protection from falsities, and the opening of the interiors of their minds so that they come into the light of Heaven, and thus into the understanding of truth and 'good, which is intelligence, is described by 'an eagle, its nest on high, its brooding over its young, and its bearing them on its wings' (Deut.xxxii.11).

304²⁸. 'The flutterings of its breadth' (Is.viii.8) = reasonings from falsities against truths.

Brook. R s

A. 795³. Truths of faith, which are 'brooks and streams of waters' (Is.xxx.25). E.401¹⁰.

939¹². 'The brook from Mount Sinai' (Deut.ix.21) = truth Divine, thus the Word in the letter, for this descends therefrom.

H. 9. Man's life is a streamlet thence . . .

W. 276. Like streamlets from their spring . . .

E. 304²⁷. 'Mountains, hills, brooks, and valleys' (Ezek.xxxvi.6) = all things of the Church, from its first principles to its ultimates. . . 'Brooks and valleys' = the truths and goods which are the ultimates of the Church . . . 'Brooks' = the truths of doctrine there.

376⁸. 'The streams of Judah' (Joel iii.18) = the single particulars of the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, and also of the Word. 433¹³.

405⁶. 'Brooks' (Is.xxx.25) = wisdom; 'streams of waters', intelligence.

644¹⁷. 'The river which is full of waters' (Ps.lxv.9) = doctrine full of truths.

650²⁸. 'The rivers of waters are dried up' (Joel i.20) = the truths of doctrine dissipated through natural love.

Broom. Scopae. E.724²⁴.

Brothel. Ganeum. M.373^o. 510.

Brothel. Lupanar, Lupinaris. A.2746. H.488^o. 586². M.451. 505. E.986^o. 1005³. (See PALESTRA).

Brother. Frater.

Brotherhood. Fraternitas.

A. 341. The second birth of the Church is charity, which is signified by 'Abel' and 'brother.' 342. 366.

367. That charity is 'the brother' of faith, may be evident to everyone from the nature or essence of faith; their brotherhood was represented by Esau and Jacob, wherefore there was strife concerning the primogeniture . . .

—¹. The union of charity and faith is signified by 'the covenant of brethren' (Amos i.9).

—². They were called 'brethren' by the Lord who hear the Word and do it. (Luke viii.21). They who 'hear' are they who have faith; they who 'do' are they who have charity.

1007. 'At the hand of a man's brother' (Gen.ix.5) = from the whole of his Intellectual. . . The Intellectual with man is called 'a man a brother;' whether it be a true Intellectual, a spurious Intellectual, or a false Intellectual, it is still called 'a man a brother;' for the understanding is called 'a man' and 'the brother' of the will . . .

1081. They are called his 'brothers' (Gen.ix.22) because he professed faith, (for) charity is the 'brother' of faith. 1091^o.

1434. 'Lot his brother's son' (Gen.xii.5) = sensuous truth. . . 'Brother' also = the truth of faith, thus here, sensuous truth. See 1707^o.

—³. In Heaven they do not know what a brother is, except from such brotherhood as there is in Heaven.

1578. 'We are men brethren' (Gen.xiii.8) = that in themselves they are united. 'Men brethren' = union, and in fact the union of truth and good. 1594.

1834². All the sons of the primitive Church lived together as brethren, and also called each other brethren . . .

1861². Hatred is described by 'no man shall spare his brother' (Is.ix.19).

1951. 'He shall dwell against the faces of all his brethren' (Gen.xvi.12) = that there will be continual contentions about the things of faith, but still he will be the victor. 3277.

2304^o. (Meeting in the Spiritual World of two brothers, one of whom had died in infancy.)

2360. The reason Lot called (the Sodomites) 'brethren' (Gen.xix.7) was that he exhorted them from what was good. In the Word, 'brother' has the same signification as 'neighbour,' for this reason, that everyone should love his neighbour as himself; thus 'brethren' are so called from love, or what is the same, from good. . . In Heaven the Lord is the Father of all . . . Hence all the Sons of Israel, representing the heavenly kingdom of the Lord, that is, the kingdom of love and charity, were called 'the brethren' and also 'the companions,' of each other. Ill.

—⁴. 'Brethren' = all who are in good.

—⁵. Hence it follows that all in the universe are called 'brethren' who are the neighbour, and this because everyone ought to love his neighbour as himself, thus from love or good; and as the Lord is good itself, and regards all from good, and is Himself the neighbour in the highest sense, He also calls them 'brethren.' Ill. Hence it is evident that 'brother' is a term of love.

2385. This is my brother, I see that he worships the Lord, and is a good man.

[A.] 2508^e. See SISTER at this ref.

2524. 'Brother' (Gen.xx.5)=the good of truth. 2563.

2575. 'Brother' (ver.16)=celestial good adjoined to rational truth as a brother to a sister.

2861^e. They who are in brotherhood from good . . .

2890. The Angels consider man as a brother . . .

2910. See CHARITY at this ref.

3124. See HOUSE at these refs. 3128.

3129. 'The brother of Rebekah' (Gen.xxiv.29)=the affection of good in the natural man. . . In the Word, 'brother'=the affection of good, and 'sister,' the affection of truth.

3166. 'He gave precious things to her brother' (ver. 53)=spiritual things for natural good. . . 'Brother'=natural good.

3303. 'And afterwards his brother went forth' (Gen. xxv.26)=truth. 'Brother'=good and also truth, which are here called 'brothers.' As charity is the brother of faith, or good the brother of truth, so on the other hand, is faith the brother of charity, or truth the brother of good; also, in the Natural, the affection of good is called 'brother,' and the affection of truth 'sister' . . .

3459. 'They swore a man to his brother' (Gen.xxvi.31)=confirmation with those who are in the good of truth. . . 'Man' with 'brother'=the good of truth, or those who are in that good; 'man'=truth, and 'brother,' good.

3582. 'Be master over thy brethren' (Gen.xxvii.29)=at first an apparent dominion of the affection of natural truth over the affections of natural good. . . 'Brethren'=the affections of good, here of the Natural. 3597⁴.

3703¹⁴. 'A man shall take hold of his brother in the house of his father' (Is.iii.6)=to acknowledge anything for good.

3776. 'My brethren, whence are you?' (Gen.xxix.4)=from what origin is charity there. 'Brethren'=those who are in good, and thence good itself, thus charity.

3803. 'Brother,' who here is Jacob (ver.12)=good. Refs.

—². The reason Jacob called himself 'the brother' of Laban, when yet he was the son of his sister, is that all are brethren from good, and hence also Laban in turn calls Jacob his 'brother;' for it is good which produces consanguinity and which conjoins, for good is of love, and love is spiritual conjunction. Hence it was that in the ancient Churches all those who were in good were called 'brethren;' and also in the Jewish Church . . . but in this Church only those who were born Jews. The primitive Christian Church also called all brethren who were in good, but afterwards only those who were in their own congregation. But among Christians, the name brother vanished together with good, and when truth succeeded in the place of good, or faith in the place of charity, they could no longer call each other brethren from good, but the neighbour. The doctrine of faith without the life of charity has also this in it, that brotherhood with one who is lower than themselves seems to be beneath them; for brotherhood does not derive its origin with them from the Lord and thus from good, but from themselves, and thus from honours and gain.

3815. 'And Laban said to Jacob, Because thou art my brother' (ver.15)=because they are blood-relations from good. . . 'Brother'=good, here consanguinity, because it is said by Laban to Jacob, thus by good to good; for all consanguinity derives its origin from good, for good is of love. It is the nearest degree of love in the line of descent which is called consanguinity, and is meant in the proper sense by 'brother.'

4121. 'Laban took his brethren with him' (Gen. xxxi.23)=goods in place of those which he had lost. 'Brethren'=goods. Refs. In the inward sense, by 'brethren' are signified those who are in similar good and truth, that is, in a similar affection of good and truth; for in the other life all are consociated according to affections, and they who are consociated constitute a brotherhood; not that they call themselves brethren, but that they are brethren through conjunction. In the other life good and truth themselves constitute that which on earth is called relationship by blood and by marriage. Ex. 4129.

4167. 'My brethren and thy brethren' (ver.37)=what is just and fair. Ex. 'Brethren'=goods.

4191. 'Jacob said to his brethren' (ver.46)=those who are in the good of works. 'Brethren'=goods, here, those who are in the goods of works, who are the gentiles; for all who are in good are conjoined with the Divine of the Lord, and on account of that conjunction are called by the Lord 'brethren.' Ill. E.746¹⁰, Ill.

4211. 'He called his brethren to eat bread' (ver.54)=the appropriation of good from the Lord's Divine Natural. 'Brethren'=those who were now conjoined in a covenant, that is, in friendship; and in the inward sense, those who are in good and truth. Refs. 4239. 4247. 4267.

4267. See GOOD at this ref.

4454. 'Brethren,' here the sons of Israel (Gen. xxxiv.11)=truths.

4498. 'Dinah's brethren' (ver.25)=the truths and goods of that Church. 'Brethren'=truths and goods, or faith and charity.

4502². Simeon and Levi . . . are called 'brethren' (Gen.xlix.5), because good is the brother of truth, or charity of faith.

4671. '(Joseph) was pasturing the flock with his brethren' (Gen.xxxvii.2)=that it was among those who being in faith were teaching. . . In this chapter, 'brethren'=the Church which is turning away from charity to faith, and at last to faith separated, and thus to falsities. 4679. 4721. 4740. 4754.

4679. 'His brethren saw' (ver.4)=those things which are of faith, and in the proximate sense, the descendants of Jacob. 4680. 4683.

4683. 'He told his brethren' (ver.5)=before those who are in faith separate. 4694.

4700. 'The father' and 'brethren' of Joseph, here =the Jewish religion from the ancient one . . . Its external together with its internal is what is here called 'father,' and its external without an internal, 'brethren.' Hence it is said that 'his brethren envied him, but his father kept the word,' and by these words is signified the aversion of those who are in what is external without what is internal, but that the Truth still remained in their religiosity. Ex. 4702.

4712. 'Go, see the peace of the brethren' (ver.14) = every advent of the Lord, and perception how it was with those who are teaching. . . 'Brethren,' here = those who are teaching from faith.

4725. 'A man to his brother' (ver.19) = mutually. 'A man to his brother' was the customary formula with the ancients when what was mutual was meant, because 'a man' = truth, and 'a brother' good, between which there exists the veriest mutuality itself . . .

4747³. Joseph's 'brethren' = those within the Church who confirm themselves against Divine truth, especially against these two things, that the Lord's Human is Divine, and that the works of charity contribute to salvation; and this not only in doctrine, but also in life.

4750. 'Judah said to his brethren' (ver.26) = the depraved in the Church who are against all good whatever. . . 'His brethren' = those in the Church who are in faith separate.

4754. 'For he is our brother and our flesh' (ver.27) = because what is from them is accepted. 'Brother' = what is consanguineous from good.

4764. '(Reuben) returned to his brethren' (ver.30) = those who teach. 'The brethren' of Joseph = those who are in faith separate, and as they were shepherds, they also = those who teach from faith.

4835². 'A brother' represented consanguineous good with which there is to be conjoined the truth which was represented by his widow . . .

4925. 'Behold, his brother came out' (Gen.xxxviii.29) = the truth of good, 'brother' = what is consanguineous from good, thus the truth of good. Ex.

5067. 'My brethren' (Matt.xxv.40) = those who are in the good of charity and of life, for the Lord is with them, because they are in good itself, and they are those who are properly meant by 'the neighbour' . . .

5135⁷. 'Brethren' = the goods which are of charity. Refs.

5409. 'Joseph's ten brethren' (Gen.xlii.3) = such truths of the Church as corresponded. 'Brethren' = the truths which are of the Church; these are here called 'the brethren of Joseph,' who = truth from the Divine, from correspondence; for the correspondence causes them to be conjoined as a brother with a brother. Ex.

5419. 'Joseph's brethren came' (ver.6) = the general truths of the Church without mediation. Ex. 5421. 5427.

5440. 'We thy servants are twelve brethren' (ver.13) = that all things of faith are thus conjoined together. . . 'Brethren' = conjunction through good; for when truths are conjoined through good, they put on as it were a brotherhood among each other . . .

5686. 'Benjamin his brother, the son of his mother' (Gen.xliii.29) = the internal from the Natural as from a mother. . . Everyone is called 'a brother' by the Lord . . . who has anything of the good of charity from the Lord. 5692.

6084. 'Thy father and thy brethren' . . . meaning Israel and his sons (Gen.xlvii.6) = spiritual good from the Natural, and the truths of the Church therein. 6102. 6106.

6364. 'Thy brethren shall celebrate thee' (Gen.xlix.8) = that this Church is pre-eminent above the rest. . . 'Brethren' = the truths which are of this Church, thus also the Churches which are in the truths which are represented by 'Judah's brethren,' for truths and goods constitute the Church. The truths of the celestial Church are signified by 'thy brethren,' or those of Judah; and the truths of the spiritual Church, by 'the sons of his father.'

6527. 'His brethren' (Gen.i.8) = truths thence derived, (for) the sons of Israel, who here are Joseph's 'brethren' = spiritual truths, which truths are also from the celestial internal, which is 'Joseph'; or through spiritual good, which is 'Israel.' 6553.

6557. 'Joseph's brethren saw that their father was dead' (ver.15) = things alienated from truth and good . . .

6567. 'His brethren also went, and fell down before him' (ver.18) = the submission of those things which are in the Natural. The sons of Israel, who here are 'the brethren' = spiritual truths in the Natural.

6628. In the ancient Churches . . . they acknowledged all as men of the Church who had lived in the good of charity, and called them brethren, however they might differ in the truths which at this day are called the truths of faith . . . 6705, Ex. N.9.

6710. They who are in self-love call those brethren who love them the most . . .

6756. '(Moses) went out to his brethren' (Ex.ii.11) = conjunction with the truths of the Church. . . As to 'brethren,' they now = the goods, now the truths of the Church; when the celestial Church is treated of they = goods; but when the spiritual Church, truths. The reason is, that the celestial Church is in good, and the spiritual Church in truths, and in ancient times all who were of the Church called each other brethren; they who were of the spiritual Church did indeed call each other brethren from good, but the men of the internal Church did so with a difference according to the quality of the good, thus according to truths, for good has its quality from truths. Afterwards, when the Church turned away from good, and thus also from truth, they no longer called each other brethren from spiritual consanguinity and affinity . . . but only from natural, and from friendship, and also began to hold it unworthy of them to call one lower than themselves brother . . . Ex. and Ill.

—⁵. As spiritual brotherhood is from love, so that the one belongs to the other, and they who are in good are 'in the Lord, and the Lord in them' (John xiv.20), they are called 'brethren' by the Lord. Ill. 933⁸.

7716. 'They did not see a man his brother' (Ex.x.23) = that they did not perceive the truth of any good. . . 'Man' = truth, and 'brother' good.

8337. Good and truth are as sister and brother.

8902. Hatred against the neighbour is meant by 'being angry rashly with his brother.'

[A.] 929³². 'To be reconciled to his brother'=charity towards the neighbour.

9806. 'Brother'=good. Refs.

—². The conjunction of good and truth is represented in the Word by two married partners, and also by two brothers; by two married partners when the heavenly marriage is treated of . . . by two brothers when the two ministries of judgment and worship are treated of. Ex. On account of this brotherhood, which is that of the truth belonging to judgment and of the good belonging to worship, Aaron the brother of Moses was chosen to discharge the office of the priesthood. Ill.

10129. In the proximate sense, 'brethren'=those who are in the good of charity; and in a sense abstracted from the person, the Lord's 'brethren'=the goods of charity themselves.

10490. 'Kill ye a man his brother, and a man his companion, and a man his neighbour' (Ex.xxxii.27) =a closing up as to the influx of good and truth, and of things in affinity with them, lest there be any reception and communication . . . 'Brother'=the good of love and of charity. Refs. —⁶, Ill. 10494.

S. 84. 'Brother' is predicated of good . . . 'companion' of truth.

R. 32. 'I John, who am your brother and companion' (Rev.i.9)=those who are in the good of charity and thence in the truths of faith.

—². We do not read that the disciples called the Lord 'brother,' because 'brother'=the good which is from the Lord; comparatively as a king calls his relatives brethren, but they do not call him their brother; for the Lord says, 'One is your Teacher, Christ, but all ye are brethren'; 'Ye call Me Master and Lord, and ye say well, for so I am.' E.746¹⁰.

—³. The Sons of Israel called all 'brethren' who were descended from their father Jacob, and in a wider sense, those also who were descended from Esau; all others, 'companions.' But . . . in the spiritual sense, by 'brethren' are meant those who are in the good of charity from the Lord, and by 'companions,' those who are in the truths of faith. Ill.

554. 'Our brethren' (Rev.xii.10)=those who are in the doctrine of the New Jerusalem, and in a life according to it.

818. 'I am thy fellow-servant and of thy brethren' (Rev.xix.10)=that there is nothing Divine in an Angel, but that he is associated with man as a brother with a brother. 946.

M. 250. In the Heavens . . . those who are higher in rank regard those who are lower as brothers.

T. 434. Social intercourse in the primitive Church existed among those who called each other brethren in Christ; hence it was the social intercourse of charity, because they were a spiritual brotherhood.

E. 46. The reason 'brother' (Rev.i.9)=the good of love, is that in Heaven there are no relationships except spiritual ones, thus no other brotherhoods; for there they do not become brothers from birth, and they who had been brothers in the world do not know each other there, but everyone knows another from the good of love; they who are the most closely conjoined know each other as brothers . . . Hence it is that in the Word, 'brother'=the good of love. Ill.

315²¹. 'The brother shall betray the brother to death' (Mark.xiii.12)=that falsity will destroy good; specifically, that faith alone will destroy charity, for in the Word, faith is called 'the brother' of charity.

355¹⁵. 'Brethren' (Is.lxvi.20)=all who are in good.

375²⁶. 'Brethren' here (Ps.cxxxiii.1)=good and truth, for in the Word these are called 'brethren'; wherefore by 'Behold how good and pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together' is signified that all heavenly good and delight are in the conjunction of good and truth, for they are from it.

391²⁰. 'To offer a gift upon the altar' (Matt.v.23) =worship from piety, and 'to be reconciled to one's brother'=worship from charity, which is truly worship.

397. 'Their fellow-servants and their brethren who shall be killed as they were' (Rev.vi.11)=evils, for to kill them is evil. 'Fellow-servants'=those who are in truths, and 'brethren' those who are in goods, and 'fellow-servants and brethren' together=those who are in truths from good.

438⁵. 'Asher is blessed above the sons, let him be accepted by his brethren' (Deut.xxxiii.24). 'Sons'=truths, and 'brethren,' the Church from them.

443⁶. 'Simeon and Levi the brethren' (Gen.xlix.5) =faith separated from charity.

617²⁷. 'A man and a brother who shall be desolated' (Ezek.iv.17)=faith and charity; 'a man'=the truth of faith, and 'a brother,' the good of charity. 633².

654⁴⁶. 'A strange man not a brother' (Deut.xvii.15) =a religion which does not agree; also falsity in which there is no good.

746². 'Our brethren' (Rev.xii.10)=all in the Heavens and all on earth who are in the good of charity; the reason they are called 'brethren,' is that they have one Father, the Lord, and they who are in the good of love to the Lord and in the good of charity towards the neighbour are His sons . . .

—³. That all who belonged to the Israelitish Church called each other 'brethren,' Ill.

—⁴. That they also called each other 'a man and a brother'; also 'a companion and a brother,' Ill. 'A man and a brother'=truth and good, and in the opposite sense, falsity and evil. Ill.

—¹³. That all those are called 'brethren' by the Lord who acknowledge Him, and are in the good of charity from Him. Ill.

—¹⁵. 'Brother,' here (Matt.xviii.15,21,35), means the neighbour in general, thus every man, but specifically him who is in the good of charity and thence in faith from the Lord, whoever he may be.

C. 76. Of ten brothers in the world five may be in Hell and five in Heaven.

Brown. Badius.

M. 15. Mantles of a brown colour.

Bruchus. Bruchus.

A. 7643. The falsity which is in the outermost things of the Natural is meant by 'a locust;' and the evil there, by 'an unwinged locust,' Ill. 933¹⁵. E.543⁸.

E. 543⁸. 'The bruchus' is also a locust . . .

Bruise. Contundere, Tundere.

See under GRIND.

A. 2468¹⁵. Occurs. E.734².

978¹. 'Pure, beaten' (Ex.xxviii.20)=genuine and clear. Ex.

10303. 'Thou shalt beat some of it very small' (Ex. xxx.36)=the arranging of truths in their own series. . . 'Beating'=has a similar signification to 'grinding' . . . but is predicated of oil, frankincense, and spices. Ex. and Ill.

E. 365³¹. 'Bruised for our iniquities'=His frightful temptations.

627¹⁰. 'Broken' (Is.xxxvi.6)=broken, and not cohering with any interior truth which gives stability.

Bruised. Attritus.

E. 721¹³. 'The bruised and the needy' (Ps.cxiii.7)=those who are in falsities from ignorance, and thence not in goods.

Brute. Brutus.

See under ANIMAL.

A. 443. He has seen that brutes have a life almost like that of men . . .

671. Quasi goods . . . with brutes . . .

978³. Make themselves out to be like brutes . . .

1272. The love of the young exists also with all brutes, even the worst . . .

1594². He confirms himself by the fact that brute animals also live, but still do not live after death. . . This is because he lives in corporeal and sensuous things, which life regarded in itself is scarcely different from the life of brute animals; the sole difference being that the man can think and reason about the things which come in his way, and he does not then reflect upon this faculty which he enjoys above brute animals.

2219². Moreover love to God and the neighbour ought to be the life of a man, by which he should be distinguished from brute animals.

3175. If he did not learn these things, man would be much worse than a brute animal.

5023². See MAN at these refs. 5160^e. 7604^e. 8604. T.380³. 417. D.2209. 2854.

6318. Being inwardly like brute animals . . .

P. 76. That which is called a brute and a stock.

D. 167. On the life of brutes. Gen.art.

2209. (The sense by which brutes find their way home.)

2378. Brute animals live according to the order of their nature, and therefore have no need for Spirits to be with them.

2398. Evil spirits are just like brutes which have a faculty of reasoning, thus like rational brutes. Gen.art. . . Of themselves they are much lower than brutes.

3757. If the brutes had needed shoes and garments, they would have made them much better than men, as is evident from their nests . . . But as they have no need of them they have no skill in them, wherefore the life of the brutes is such as it is because they are corporeal. . . Thus we may conclude that such things as appertain to the body are the things which we have in common with beasts.

Bryggaren. D.4582.

Bubble, Bull. Bulla.

See under BLADDER, and BOLL=bullire.

J. 64. They make papal bulls equal to the Word. R.796².

C. J. 60. The bull Unigenitus. R.734. D.5980.

63. All who have been canonized by papal bulls.

P. 257². Established by a papal bull . . . R.752.

R. x. These quotations are from the Councils and bulls, especially from the Council of Trent, and the bull confirming it . . .

451^e. Like a bubble of water . . . T.159⁷.

752^e. He transmitted it as a bull . . .

T. 30². Like a bubble in the air . . .

160³. Like a bubble on the water . . .

Bucket. Situla, Situlus.

A. 3079^e. 'The waters shall pour out of the buckets (Num.xxiv.7)=truths from Knowledge.

E. 406^e. 'A drop of a bucket' (Is.xl.15).

Inv. 17. They fall as into a bucket . . .

Buckler. Scutum.

See SHIELD.

A. 1231. Occurs. E.365³⁸.

1788⁴. 'Buckler and target' (Ps.xci.4)=protection against falsities.

2832². 'Buckler,' etc. (Ps.xviii.2) are significative of the power of truth.

9141⁴. 'Buckler,' 'shield,' 'arrows'=truths of doctrine from the Word by means of which there is protection from the falsities of evil. Refs.

E. 316¹⁰. 'My buckler and the horn of my salvation' (Ps.xviii.2)=salvation thence. 'Buckler' is predicated of Divine good.

357³¹. 'Buckler' (Ezek.xxxix.9)=falsity destroying good; 'shield,' falsity destroying truth.

734⁷. 'A buckler' (Ps.xxxv.2), because it defends the head,=protection against the falsities which destroy the understanding of truth; 'a shield,' because it defends the breast,=protection against the falsities which destroy charity, which is the will of good.

Bud. See under GERMINATE.

Build. Aedificare.

A. 151. 'To build' (Gen.ii.22)=to raise up=exstruere=what is fallen. 153.

153. In the Word, 'to build' is predicated of evils; 'to erect,' of falsities; and 'to renew' of both. Ill.

[A.] 1187. 'He built Nineveh' etc. (Gen.x.11)=that thus he formed for himself doctrinal things of faith.

1304. 'Let us build us a city and a tower' (Gen.xi.4)=that they fashioned a doctrine and a worship. 1313.

1324. 'They ceased to build the city' (ver.8)=that such a doctrine was not received.

1448. 'He built an altar'=worship. 1618.

1488. To collect scientifics and by their means rear up—exstruere—the external man, and build him, is not unlike building a house; wherefore 'building' and 'building houses' have a similar signification in the Word. III.

1901. 'Perchance I shall be built up by her' (Gen.xvi.2)=that thus the Rational can be born . . .

2601. They seem to themselves to be building small cities . . .

2760. Pref.². 'Rock'=this faith; upon this the Church is 'built.'

2811. 'To build an altar' (Gen.xxii.9)=to prepare the Divine Human. Ex.

3391³. 'To build a house without righteousness, and chambers without judgment' (Jer.xxii.13)=to put together what is religious from what is not good and not true.

3916. 'I shall also be built up by her' (Gen.xxx.3)=that thus it will have life. 'To be built up'=not to die, thus to rise again, or live.

4390. '(Jacob) built himself a house' (Gen.xxxiii.17)=the increase of good from truth in that state. 'To build a house'=to instruct the external man in intelligence and wisdom; and as intelligence is of truth and wisdom of good, 'to build a house,' here=the increase of good from truth.

4599⁶. 'To build a tower' (Luke xiv.28)=to procure for themselves interior truths.

5117. 'To build the waste cities' (Amos.ix.14)=to rectify the falsified doctrinal things of truth.

6487. Illustrated by the building of houses . . . T. 152.

9256⁶. 'The builders' (Matt.xxi.42)=those who are of the Church. H.534^e. E.417^e.

9857⁵. 'To build chambers without judgment'=to imbue things which are not true.

9954¹³. 'To build Jerusalem' (Dan.ix.25)=to renew the Church. E.375¹⁷. 684²⁶.

R. 153⁸. If they have been priests they want to build . . . But what they build by day falls down at night. T.281⁸.

D. 3309. On those who desire to build.

E. 355⁹. 'Those afar off who will build in the temple of Jehovah' (Zech.vi.15)=that those who formerly had been removed from the truths and goods of the Church will accede to the Church.

391¹⁷. 'To build the walls of Jerusalem' (Ps.li.18)=to restore the Church by leading into the good of love, and teaching in the truths of doctrine.

538⁴. The restoration of the Church and of doctrine is signified by 'being inhabited,' and 'built' (Is.xliv.26).

617¹². See HOUSE at this ref.

706¹⁸. 'He shall build my city' (Is.xlv.13)=that he will restore the doctrine of truth.

734¹². Occurs. 811¹⁹.

Build. Condere.

A. 2516². From (the Rational) no doctrine of faith can begin, still less be built.

10057⁵. By means of the Divine truth proceeding from the Lord's Divine good, Heaven is built and the Church is built.

W. 394. Building hypotheses.

T. 74⁴. From these he builds Heaven.

95. On the building of the New Heaven. 108. 115. 118. 182.

779. That a New Church will be built . . .

Build. Struere, Exstruere.

Building. Structura, Exstructio.

A. 151. See BUILD—adificare—at these refs. 1488.

6486^e. Like one who builds a palace . . .

R. 911. 'The building of the wall of it' (Rev.xxi.18)=the whole of it.

T. 336². Occurs.

Building. Aedes, Aedificium.

A. 10208³. Occurs.

10513. Their sacred buildings not of stone, but of wood. 10514. Des.

H. 223^e. The buildings in the Celestial Kingdom are not called temples, but houses of God. The buildings in this kingdom are devoid of magnificence, but in the Spiritual Kingdom are characterized by magnificence, greater or less.

D. 4575. On a vision of a city and its buildings.

Bull (Papal). See under BUBBLE.

Bullock. Juventus.

A. 45. See BEAST at these refs. 1361². 2781.

2179. When oxen and bullocks appear in the World of Spirits, they know that the Angels are talking about natural goods.

2180². 'A bullock,' or son of an ox=what is celestial natural; or what is the same, natural good.

2830². 'A bullock for sin'=the Lord's Divine Natural.

—³. 'Bullocks' and 'rams'=spiritual things.

4264. 'Heifers' and 'bullocks' (Gen.xxxii.15)=what is of the natural man.

9391. 'Bullocks' (Ex.xxiv.5)=the good of innocence or of charity in the external or natural man . . . because calves and bullocks are of a more tender age than oxen. III.

9670⁶. 'A bullock of an ox,' in the sacrifice of sin, and 'a ram' for a burnt-offering=the purification of good from evils in the external and in the internal man.

9990. 'Take one bullock a son of the herd' (Ex.xxix.1)=the purification of the natural or external man. 'A bullock'=the good of innocence and of charity in the natural or external man; and as it is called 'a son of the herd,' the truth of that good is also signified. —².

10021. 'Thou shalt cause a bullock to approach' (Ex.xxix.10)=the state of the application of the natural or external man such as he is in his infancy. 'A bullock'=the good of charity and of innocence in the natural or external man.

10026. 'Thou shalt take of the blood of the bullock' (ver.12)=Divine truth accommodated to the natural or external man. . . 'The bullock'=the natural man which is to be purified, and in which truth and good are to be implanted.

10024. 'Thou shalt kill the bullock before Jehovah' (ver.11)=the preparation for the purification of good and truth from the Lord in the external or natural man. . . 'The bullock'=the purification of the external or natural man.

10035. 'The flesh of the bullock' (ver.14)=the evil of the former loves there. . . 'The bullock'=the external or Natural; for in a good sense, 'a bullock,' and 'a calf'=the external or Natural of man as to the good of innocence and of charity; but in the opposite sense, the external or Natural of man as to the evil which is contrary to the good of innocence and of charity.

10042¹³. 'A bullock' (Num.xxviii.11,19)=the good of innocence in the external man.

10122. 'A bullock of sin thou shalt offer every day on the propitiations' (Ex.xxix.36)=the continual removal of evils and thence of falsities in the natural man through the good of innocence from the Lord. 'A bullock'=the good of innocence in the natural man.

10132¹². 'A bullock'=the external good of innocence. 10137¹⁰.

H. 110. Oxen and bullocks correspond to the affections of the natural mind.

E. 279². That 'bullocks,' and 'calves'=the good of the natural man, Ill.

—³. 'To render the bullocks of the lips' (Hos. xiv.2)=to confess and give thanks from the goods of doctrine.

391¹⁷. 'Bullocks' (Ps.li.19)=spiritual natural good, which is the good of charity.

Bulrush. Juncus.

A. 6723. 'She took a coffer of bulrush' (Ex.ii.3)=what is mean round about. . . 'Bulrush'=what is mean, but still derived from truth. Ill. 6732.

—². 'Grass for the reed and the rush' (Is.xxxv.7)=that there will be scientific truth instead of such things as contain no truth.

6952⁵. 'Rush' (Is.xix.15)=what is lowest.

R. 386. Huts made of rushes stuck together with mud. 442³.

456². Their beds are of rushes . . .

E. 559⁵. 'Rush' (Is.xix.15)=the sensuous scientific, which is ultimate truth.

627⁸. 'The reed and the rush'=knowledge from a sensuous origin, or that through which the fallacies of the senses are confirmed; regarded in itself this knowledge is merely knowledge in the lowest degree natural, and is to be called material and corporeal, having little or nothing of life in it.

Bulwark. Antemurale.

A. 402⁴. Occurs.

5149². Truths are like bulwarks within which is good; the bulwarks are assaulted through falsity . . .

E. 223³. 'Walls' and 'bulwark' (Is.xxvi.1)=truths defending.

365³⁵. 'Peace be within thy walls, and rest in thy palaces' (Ps.cxxii.7)=in the exterior man and in the interior; for the exterior man, with the things which are therein . . . is like a bulwark or fortification for the interior man . . . Hence the exteriors of man are signified by 'a bulwark;' and his interiors by 'palaces.'

453¹⁰. 'To set the heart to the bulwark' (Ps.xlviii.13)=to love the exterior truths which defend that Church against falsities.

Bulwark. Propugnaculum.

A. 1788². Occurs.

8581². 'Rock'=a bulwark against falsity; the very bulwark itself is the truth of faith . . .

E. 316¹⁰. 'The fortress and rock in which he trusts' (Ps.xviii.2)=defence. . . 'Fortress' is predicated of Divine good.

Bundle. Fasciculus, Fascis.*

Bundled together. Confasciatus.

Fascicular. Fascicularis.

Fascicularly. Fasciculatim.

See CONFASCICULATION, also under BIND-ligare, and SHEAF.

A. 2657³. At last spiritual goods and truths are gathered as it were into bundles . . .

2756. They who have held the communion of wives as a principle . . . are gathered as it were into a bundle . . .

5339². These arrangements into order are signified in the Word by 'bundles' . . .

5881. The scientifics and truths in man's memory . . . cohere fascicularly, and the bundles do so with each other; and this according to the connexion of things which the man had taken up. . . The scientifics and truths are arranged in these fascicular forms by the man's loves . . .

7408. See HEAP-acervus, at this ref.

7918. 'Ye shall take a bunch of hyssop' (Ex.xii.21) . . . 'A bunch' is predicated of truths and their arrangement.

C. J. 29. I saw . . . many gathered into congregations, as it were into bundles, according to the genera and species of evil, and cast into (these) Hells.

B. 53, 56. The doctrines of the modern Church are bundled together by means of many paradoxes . . . and all these paradoxes are bundled together as it were into one bundle . . .

T. 38°. Evils are bound into bundles by falsities, and goods are bound into bundles by truths; and as there are such bindings together of goods and of evils, the Lord says that 'the tares are to be bound into bundles for burning, and all things that offend.'

349. The abundance of truths cohering as it were in a bundle, exalts and perfects faith. Gen.art.

351. The arrangement of the truths of faith is into series, thus as it were into bundles. Gen.art.

Bunge. D.Min.4746. 4760.

Burden. Sarcina.

A. 6390. 'Lying between the burdens'=life among works. . . 'Burdens'=works. The reason 'burdens' are such works, is that they do not do good things from the affection of love towards the neighbour, but from the affection of love towards themselves; the works which flow from the affection of this love are like the burdens which the meaner kind of asses carry . . . E.445¹.

— The same thing is signified by 'burdens' in the Book of Judges. . . 'Wherefore didst thou sit among the burdens, to hear the hissings of the flocks?' (v.16) . . . 'To hear the hissings of the flocks'=disdain from those who are in the good of charity . . . 'To sit among the burdens'=among meritorious works.

E. 434¹³. By 'burdens' (Judg.v.16) are signified Knowledges and scientifics (in the natural man).

Burden. Onus.

Lade. Onerare.

A. 5774. See ASS at these refs. 9257.

5939. See BEAST OF BURDEN at this ref.

6660. See AFFLICT at this ref.

6757. '(Moses) saw their burdens' (Ex.ii.11)=the apperception that they were being infested by falsities . . . 'Burdens'=infestations by falsities . . . for these are nothing but burdens to those who are in truths. Ex.

7105. 'Go ye to your burdens' (Ex.v.4)=that they should live in combats. . . 'Burdens'=infestations by falsities, thus combats against them.

7109. 'Ye have made them cease from their burdens' (ver.5)=that they have not infested enough. 'Burdens'=infestations by falsities, and thence combats.

7203. See BRING FORTH at this ref.

H. 359°. The reason 'His yoke is easy and His burden light' is that in proportion as a man resists the evils which gush forth from the love of self and of the world, he is led by the Lord and not by himself; and that the Lord afterwards resists them with the man, and removes them.

R. 144. 'I will not put upon you any other burden' (Rev.ii.24)=only that they should beware of them.

E. 172. 'I will not put upon you any other burden'=that they should take heed of this alone. 'To lay a burden' upon those with whom the internal can be conjoined with the external=that they should solicitously take heed of that . . . It is said 'burden' because the proprium of man . . . resists.

2087. 'Not to bring in a burden through the gates of that city' (Jer.xvii.24)=not to admit that which is from man's proprium, but that which is from the Lord.

Burial. Funus.

Funeral. Funeralis.

A. 2299. In the idea of a grave there is somewhat of burial which they thus removed. H.335.

4622¹. He spoke with me about the funeral ceremonies—exequiis—while I was following in his funeral procession . . .

H. 312¹. I told them that their funeral and obsequies were now being made ready . . .

Burn. See ARDOUR, and WRATH.

Burn. Adolere.

A. 10033. Occurs. 10079°. 10402°.

10034. 'Thou shalt burn upon the altar' (Ex.xxix.13)=from the Lord's Divine love. 'To burn'=the kindling of the Divine love . . . because the fire on the altar =the Divine love.

10052. 'To burn' (ver.18)=to unite to the Divine good of the Divine love.

—². The reason 'to burn on the altar with the whole ram'=to unite the Divine good of the Divine love with the Internal of His Human, is that the altar was the representative of the Lord's Divine Human, and the fire upon the altar with which the burnt-offering was burnt signified the Divine good of the Divine love; and that the ram which was the burnt-offering, and which was burnt=the internal with man, thus the internal of the Lord's Human. 10084.

10245. 'To burn' or sacrifice=worship.

Burn. Adurere, Urere.

Burning. Adustio, Ustio.

A. 1297. 'Let us burn them to a burning' (Gen.xi.3)=evils from self-love. 'Burning,' 'fire,' etc. are predicated of cupidities, especially those which are of self-love. III.

4630. See BONE at this ref.

9055. 'Burning for burning' (Ex.xxi.25)=if anything of the affection which is of love interiorly in the Voluntary. 'Burning'=the injury or extinction of the good of love.

—². The reason 'burning'=injury of the good of love, is that by 'fire' is signified love, and the injury of the good of love is concupiscence from self-love, which is here called 'burning.' Concupiscence is also signified by 'burning' in Isaiah . . . 'Burning instead of beauty' (iii.24) . . . 'Burning,' here=the evil of the concupiscence from self-love.

10540⁶. 'Burning' (Is.iii.24)=the consuming of them through the evils of self-love.

E. 504²⁴. See FIRE at this ref.

637¹⁷. 'Burning instead of beauty'=folly instead of intelligence; 'burning'=the insanity from the conceit of man's Own Intelligence, which is folly.

Burn. *Comburare.Burning. Combustio.

A. 1297^o. 'To be burnt,' and 'fire,' are predicated of cupidities.

1298^o. 'A mountain of burning' (Jer.li.25)=self-love.

3301⁷. See FIRE at these refs. 7861. 9141². 10038. 10115. 10463. E.1126.

4581⁹. 'To burn the city' (Jer.xxxii.29)=to destroy and vastate those who are in doctrinal things of falsity.

4906. See BRING FORTH at this ref.

7553⁸. 'The third part of the trees burnt up' (Rev.viii.7)=the Knowledges of truth destroyed by the evil of cupidities. R.400. E.506.

9141². See DESOLATE at this ref.

9228². 'To kindle,' and 'to burn,'=to lay waste through the cupidities of the loves of self and of the world.

R. 566⁵. You would have burnt your fingers . . .

748. 'To burn her with fire' (Rev.xvii.16)=to execrate that religiosity as profane, and destroy it in themselves . . . The reason being that the penalty of the profanation of what was holy was 'burning.' Ill.

767. 'When they see the smoke of her burning' (Rev.xviii.9)=when they see these turned into profane things.

—². 'Burning'=what is profane.

E. 4054¹. 'Burning' is said of self-love.

481⁴. 'The roll that was burnt' (Jer.xxxvi.29)=the Word, which is said to be 'burnt' when falsified and adulterated, which is effected through the concupiscence of falsity from evil.

653^o. 'The burning of the whole earth' (Deut.xxix.23)=the devastation of the Church through self-love.

741²¹. By 'the earth, and the world, and the inhabitants in it, which shall be burnt' (Nahum i.5) is signified that the Church will perish as to all its truths and goods through infernal love.

1173. 'Burning' (Rev.xviii.9)=the condemnation and punishment of the evils which gush forth from these loves.

Burn. Cremare. A.941.Burn. Exardescere. A.9144².

A. 9204. See ANGER at these refs. 10431. 10460. 10471.

Burn. Exurare.

A. 2455³. 'Parched places' (Jer.xvii.6)=goods laid waste.

5215. 'Parched with the east wind' (Gen.xli.23)=full of cupidities. Ex.

M. 312. Marriage love hurried on without order . . . burns up the marrow, and is consumed. Gen.art.

Burn. Flagrare. A.1861². H.134^o. E.504¹⁴.

H. 283. Burn to injure them.

290². Inwardly they burn with envy, hatred . . .

M. 358. Zeal is like the fire of love blazing up.

— Zeal is not the highest degree of love, but is love blazing up.

—³. The reason love is said to burn like fire . . .

T. 45. He burns with anger against his god . . .

309. To be inflamed with hatred, and to burn with revenge.

D. 4496^o. He was amazed that he had so suddenly burned with venereal heat . . .

Burning. Causticitas. T.39. 370.Burnt. Ignitus.

A. 10055. 'An offering made by fire to Jehovah' (Ex.xxix.18)=all things from Divine love. 10086. 10142. 10245^o.

R. 49. 'As if they burned in a furnace' (Rev.i.15)=Divine good. . . 'Fire,' or 'burnt,'=good. E.69.

153^o. Devils appear duskily fiery.

M. 263. His loins were all on fire.

461⁷. Three devils who from the delight of their love appeared to be on fire.

E. 391¹⁷. 'Burnt-offering' (Ps.li.19)=love.

Burnt-offering. Holocaustum.

See SACRIFICE.

A. 920. The altar and burnt-offering . . . were the principal things of all representative worship. 921.

—^e. 10143².

—^e. (Origin of burnt-offerings.)

923. '(Noah) offered burnt-offerings upon the altar' (Gen.viii.20)=all worship thence derived. . . 'Burnt-offerings,' in one complex,=representative worship. Ill.

—^e. 'Burnt-offerings'=worship from love; 'sacrifices,' worship from the faith thence derived. 7857². 8680.

1343^o. That Noah offered burnt-offerings is not true but made-up history, because 'burnt-offerings'=what is holy of worship.

2165². See BREAD at this ref.

—³. The burnt-offerings and sacrifices in the Jewish Church represented nothing but the celestial things which are of the Lord's Kingdom . . . in general, all those things which are of love and charity, for these are celestial things; and each kind of sacrifice represented something in particular . . . 2177.

2177. The primary thing of representative worship consisted of burnt-offerings and sacrifices.

2776. 'Offer (Isaac) for a burnt-offering' (Gen.xxii.2)=that He should sanctify Himself with the Divine. The burnt-offering with the Hebrew nation, and in the Jewish Church, was the most holy thing of their worship . . . and their sanctifications were effected thereby . . .

—². It is the general belief at this day that the burnt-offerings and sacrifices signified the Lord's passion . . .

2805. 'Where is the cattle for a burnt-offering?' (ver.7)=where are those of the human race who are to be sanctified?

2834. 'He offered it for a burnt-offering instead of his son'=the sanctification and adoption of them. 'To offer for a burnt-offering'=to be sanctified.

[A.] 3994⁷. See LAMB at these refs. 7839^e. 9295². 10133.

8680. 'Jethro . . . took a burnt-offering and sacrifices for God' (Ex.xviii.12)=worship from the good of love and truths of faith . . . The reason 'burnt-offerings' represented those things which are of the good of love, and 'sacrifices' those things which are of the truth of faith, is evident from the regulation of them; namely, that in the burnt-offerings all things were consumed, both the flesh and the blood, but in the sacrifices the flesh was eaten. Ill. . . The reason these two things were represented by the burnt-offerings and sacrifices, was that the burnt-offerings and sacrifices represented all the worship of God in general, and the worship of God in general is founded upon love and faith . . . 9714.

8936. 'Thou shalt sacrifice upon (the altar of) earth thy burnt-offering and thy peace-offerings' (Ex.xx.24)=worship in special according to the spiritual life of each one. 'Burnt-offerings and sacrifices'=all internal worship in general, with variety according to the various kinds of celestial and spiritual things . . . Hence it was that such various kinds of sacrifices were instituted. Enum.

9391. 'They offered burnt-offerings and sacrificed peace sacrifices of bullocks to Jehovah' (Ex.xxiv.5)=a representative of the worship of the Lord from good, and from the truth which is from good. 'Burnt-offerings and sacrifices'=the worship of the Lord in general; specifically, 'burnt-offerings'=the worship of the Lord from the good of love; and 'sacrifices,' from the truth of faith which is from good.

9475^e. See MEAT-OFFERING at this ref.

9990². The purifications of the external man were represented by burnt-offerings and sacrifices of oxen, bullocks, and he-goats; and the purifications of the internal man by burnt-offerings and sacrifices of rams, kids, and she-goats; but the purification of the very internal itself which is inmost, by those of lambs. 10042¹³.

10029^e. The implantation of good and truth in the external or natural man is signified by the sacrifice of a bullock; and the implantation and conjunction of good and truth in the internal or spiritual man by the burnt-offering of a ram (Ex.xxix). 10048.

10042. See SACRIFICE at this ref.

10053. 'It is a burnt-offering to Jehovah' (Ex.xxix.18)=the glorification of the Lord's Human. 'Burnt-offering'=the glorification of the Lord's Human . . . 'The sacrifices' signified purification from evils and falsities, and the implantation of truth; but 'the burnt-offering,' the conjunction of truth with good, thus plenary regeneration; and in the supreme sense, in which the Lord is treated of, 'the sacrifices' signified the casting out of evils and falsities from His human which He had from the mother, and the implantation of Divine truth from the Divine good which is in Him; and 'the burnt-offerings,' the union of Divine truth with Divine good, which union is what is meant by glorification . . .

10054. The reason the burnt-offering is called 'an odour of rest to Jehovah' (ver.18) is that by the burnt-offering was represented the union of the Lord's Divine Human with the Divine itself . . .

10079^e. See FLESH at this ref.

10084. 'Thou shalt . . . burn them on the altar upon the burnt-offering' (ver.25)=union with the Divine good of the Divine love. . . By 'the burnt-offering' is signified and described the conjunction itself.

10131. The daily burnt-offerings represented in general that which concerns the reception of the Lord. Ex.

10143. 'A continual burnt-offering' (ver.42) = all Divine worship in general. 'Burnt-offering'=Divine worship.

10206. 'Nor burnt-offering and meat-offering' (Ex. xxx.9) = no representative of regeneration there by means of the truths and goods of celestial love. 'Burnt-offering'=a representative of purification from evils, of the implantation of good and truth, and of their conjunction; thus of regeneration. Refs.

10414. 'They offered burnt-offerings and brought peace-offerings' (Ex.xxxii.6)=the worship of their own loves, thus of their delights, and of the falsities thence derived. . . In the opposite sense, 'burnt-offerings'=worship from man's own loves, which worship is from the delights of those loves, which are evils; and 'sacrifices'=worship from the falsities thence derived . . .

P. 326^e. 'The kine together with the cart being offered for a burnt-offering,' signified that thus the Lord was propitiated.

E. 314^e. 'Burnt-offerings' in general signified the worship of the Lord from the good of love ('the sacrifices,' from truths thence derived). 391¹⁶. 444⁷.

449⁵. 'Burnt-offering'=worship from celestial good; 'sacrifice,' worship from spiritual good. 491³.

725^e. As the burnt-offerings and sacrifices signified celestial and spiritual things respectively, the burnt-offerings were made of whole males, of either the flock or the herd; but the sacrifices, of either males or females. Ill. and Ex.

Burst. Under BREAK=rumpere.

Bury. Sepelire.

Burial. Sepultura.

Grave, Sepulchre. Sepulchrum.

See DEATH.

A. 817. (A Spirit who was seen to make preparations to bury a dead body.) D.1260.

901². He was unclean who had touched the dead, the slain, a man's bone, a grave (Num.xix.16), all of which=things proper to man, which are dead and profane.

—⁴. This represented the Lord's burial . . .

1853. 'Thou shalt be buried in a good old age' (Gen. xv.15)=the enjoyment of all goods by those who are the Lord's; for they who die and are buried do not die, but pass from a dim life into a clear one. Ex.

2299. They represented the Lord rising from the sepulchre . . . In the idea of a sepulchre there is something of burial=funeris, which they thus removed. H.335. M.412. D.233.

2901. The burial (of Sarah)=resuscitation.

2916. 'Give me a possession of a buryingplace with you' (Gen.xxiii.4)=that they can be regenerated. In the inward sense of the Word, 'a grave'=life or Heaven, and in the opposite sense, death or Hell; for the Angels have no idea of a grave, because they have none of death; wherefore instead of a grave they perceive the continuation of life, thus resurrection; for man rises again as to the spirit, and is buried as to the body. And as 'burial'=resurrection, it also=regeneration, for regeneration is the first resurrection of man, inasmuch as he then dies as to the former man, and rises again as to the new . . . —³, Ill. 2938. 6459. E.659.

—². The reason 'a grave,' in the opposite sense, =death or Hell, is that the evil do not rise again to life: when therefore the evil are treated of, and 'a grave' is mentioned, the idea of Hell comes to the Angels, which also is the reason that, in the Word, Hell too is called 'a grave.' —^e, Ill.

—⁵. As 'burial' signified resurrection in general and in each person, the ancients were extremely solicitous about their burials, and about the places where they were buried. Ill.

—⁶. That 'burial' signified resurrection to life is evident also from other representatives, as that the wicked were not mourned for, nor buried, but were cast forth. Ill.

2917. 'That I may bury my dead from before me' (Id.)=that thus He may come forth and rise again from the night which prevails with them. 'To bury'=to rise again. 2923. 2925. 2931. 2961.

2922. 'In the choice of our sepulchres' (ver.6)=what is well-pleasing as to regeneration. . . 'Sepulchre'=resurrection and regeneration.

2924. 'None of us shall withhold from thee his sepulchre' (Id.)=that all were ready to receive regeneration.

2933. As burial=regeneration, it=those with whom the truth and good of faith can be received.

2948. 'Bury thy dead' (ver.11)=that they should come forth from night and be resuscitated. 'To be buried'=to rise again, or what is the same, to be resuscitated.

2955. 'That I may bury my dead' (ver.13)=that they should come forth from night and be vivified. 'To be buried,' here=to be vivified, because they are in the process of receiving faith . . . The reason 'I will bury my dead'=coming forth from spiritual night and vivification, is also that when a former Church is dead a new one is raised up by the Lord in its place, thus there is life instead of death, and morning instead of night; and also because with everyone who is being reformed and made spiritual, what is dead of him is as it were buried, and what is new, that is, what is alive, rises again; thus instead of night with him, or instead of darkness and cold, there arises the morn with its light and heat. Hence it is that with the Angels, who are in the Lord's life, instead of the idea which a man has concerning the burial of the dead, there is the idea of resurrection and of a new life.

2979. 'Abraham buried Sarah his wife' (ver.19)=that they received from the Lord truth conjoined with good. 'To bury'=to regenerate.

2985. 'To Abraham for a possession of a burying-place' (ver.20)=that it was from the Lord alone through regeneration. 'A sepulchre'=regeneration.

3016^e. 'Burial,' therefore, =resurrection, because it is a full putting off.

3256. 'Isaac and Ishmael his sons buried him' (Gen. xxv.9)=that the representation of the Lord was now taken up by Isaac and Ishmael. 'To be buried'=to be resuscitated and to rise again . . . Here 'to bury'=the resuscitation of this state . . . for the representatives in the Word are continuous . . . and deaths do not signify any interruption, but continuation; therefore their burial=the representative resuscitated and continued in another.

3812¹⁰. As 'bones'=falsities, and 'sepulchres,' the evils in which they are, and as hypocrisy is an evil which outwardly appears good, but within is filthy from false and profane things, the Lord says . . . 'Ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outside, but within are full of the bones of the dead, and of all uncleanness' (Matt.xxiii.27).

4527³. (Saw their own burial through my eyes.)

4564. '(Deborah) was buried beneath Bethel under an oak' (Gen.xxxv.8)=rejected in perpetuity. 'To be buried'=to be rejected, for that which is buried is rejected.

4565^e. Hence it was customary to weep for the dead when they were buried, although they knew that the corpse only was rejected by burial.

4593. 'Rachel died, and was buried in the way of Ephrath' (ver.19)=the end of the former affection of interior truth. . . 'To be buried'=the rejection of a former state, and the resuscitation of a new one. Refs. 4594. 6246.

4595. 'And Jacob set up a statue on her grave' (ver.20)=that the Holy of spiritual truth will rise again there. . . 'Grave'=resurrection.

4621. 'Esau and Jacob his sons buried him' (ver.29)=that He rose again in the good and good of truth of the Natural. 'To be buried'=resurrection. . . The reason 'to be buried'=to rise again, is that when the body is dead, the soul rises again. Hence when 'burial' is mentioned in the Word, the Angels do not think of the body which is being rejected, but of the soul which rises again . . . 5551².

4622⁴. I spoke with two whom I had known, on the same day they were buried, and with one who saw his own coffin and bier through my eyes . . . (This was Polhem, D.Min.4773).

4676^e. This influx manifests itself by so many being solicitous about their burial . . .

4785. 'I will go down to my son to the grave mourning' (Gen.xxxvii.35)=that the Ancient Church would perish.

5551. 'In sorrow to the grave' (Gen.xlii.38)=without hope of resuscitation. . . 'Grave'=resurrection and regeneration; thus resuscitation; namely, of the Church.

[A.] 5832. 'Ye shall bring down my grey hairs in evil to the grave' (Gen. xlv. 29) = that spiritual good is about to perish, and thus the internal of the Church. . . To go down in good into the grave = to rise again and to be regenerated; wherefore 'to go down in evil into the grave' is the opposite, thus to perish.

6181. 'Bury me not I pray, in Egypt' (Gen. xlvii. 29) = regeneration not in scientifics. 'To be buried' = resurrection and regeneration.

6184. 'Bury me in their buryingplace' (ver. 30) = such regeneration. 'To be buried' = regeneration . . .

6185°. These things are signified by (Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob) in one sepulchre; for 'a sepulchre' = resurrection into life, and regeneration. 6452. 6460.

6499°. 'Burial' = regeneration. Refs.

6516. 'In my grave which I have digged for me in the Land of Canaan, there shalt thou bury me' (Gen. l. 5) = that the Church is to be resuscitated where it was before. 'Grave,' and 'to be buried' = resuscitation. Ex.

6517. 'And now I will go up and bury my father' (Id.) = the resuscitation of the Church there from the internal. 'To be buried' = resuscitation. 6522. 6547. 6551°. 6555.

6554. 'All that went up with him to bury his father' (ver. 14) = all things which conduce to regeneration. 'To be buried' = regeneration and resurrection. . . The reason 'to bury' = both regeneration and resurrection, and also the resuscitation and renewal of the Church, is that all these significations involve the same thing; for regeneration is resurrection . . . and the resuscitation of the Church is effected through regeneration . . .

8165. 'Because there were no graves in Egypt' (Ex. xiv. 11) = damnation.

8955. See BODY at this ref.

9473°. These goods are like whited sepulchres . . .

10037°. 'Not to be buried' (Jer. viii. 2) = no resurrection to life.

10044°. He left nothing of His Human in the sepulchre. 101254.

C. J. 31°. These are they who are meant by 'those who went forth out of their graves.' R. 845°. 884°.

L. 16°. His being buried signified the rejection of the residue of the human from the mother. T. 130°. (= the glorification of His Human. E. 65919.)

R. 506. 'Not to be put in monuments,' or not to be buried (Rev. xi. 9) = to remain in earthly and unclean things; and further, to be rejected as what is damned. Ill. E. 659.

T. 1374. What is such a faith but the sepulchre of our Lord . . . again closed by the soldiers of Pilate?

E. 257. 'To bury (Gog), and cleanse the land' (Ezek. xxxix. 12) = to destroy them all, and thoroughly purge the Church of them.

3867. 'Not to be buried' (Jer. xiv. 16) = to be damned. 65062. 65233.

41117. The love of falsity is signified by 'a sepulchre on high' (Is. xxii. 16).

6593. That 'graves' = unclean things, thus also infernal things, from the corpses and bones in them, Ill.

—4. See ASSYRIA at this ref.

—5. Such Genii and Spirits dwell in graves, etc.

—8. 'Shall Thy mercy be told in the grave, and Thy Truth in destruction?' (Ps. lxxxvii. 11) = that the Divine good and Divine truth cannot be preached in Hell, where and whence are evils and falsities . . . 'The grave' = the Hell where and whence are evils; and 'destruction,' the Hell where and whence are falsities. That 'the grave' = Hell, is also evident from the fact that those who are in Hell are spiritually dead. Ill.

—12. When those who are in falsities from evil are treated of, their 'grave' means the Hell from which and in which is that falsity; but when those who are in truths from good are treated of, 'grave' means the removal and rejection of falsity from evil, and 'burial,' resuscitation and resurrection into life, also regeneration. Ex. and Ill. —19.

—20. Hence 'not to be buried' = no resurrection to Heaven, nor regeneration; but resurrection to Hell, thus damnation. Ill.

68718. The sepulchre where the Lord was, eminently = resurrection and regeneration.

Ath. 160. That the Lord put off everything maternal in the sepulchre . . . For everything of that nature was dissipated in the sepulchre. 161.

Bush. See BRAMBLE—Rubus.

Business. Under TRADE.

Busy themselves. Satagere. A. 9280°. W. 2533. R. 542. T. 283. 362.

Butcher. Lanio.

Butchery. Laniennus.

Tear to pieces. Laniare.

A. 829°. Thus are they torn to pieces . . .

4327°. Their thoughts are full of butchery.

I. 16°. These are like butchers . . .

Butler. Pincerna.

A. 5072. The sensuous things which are subordinate to the intellectual part are represented by 'the butler of the king of Egypt' . . . That these are retained is represented by the butler being restored to his post.

5077. 'The butler of the king of Egypt' (Gen. xl) = with those things in the body which are subject to the intellectual part. 'A butler' = the external Sensual, or Sensual of the body which is subordinate or subject to the intellectual part of the internal man. Ex. 5082. 5094. 5128. 5163. 5227.

5095. 'The butler' and 'the baker' represent the Lord as to those things which are of the external Natural. 5118.

5110. 'The prince of the cupbearers' = the Sensual subject to the intellectual part in general, and which heretofore has been rejected.

5165. 'He brought back the prince of the cupbearers upon his pledging' = that the sensuous things of the intellectual part were received and subordinated. Ex.

E. 6557. 'A butler' = the truth of doctrine.

Butter. Butyrum.

A. 195^e. 'Rivers of honey and butter' (Job.xx.17)=spiritual and celestial things, which reasoners will not see.

680^e. 'To eat honey and butter' (Is.vii.15)=what is celestial spiritual.

1002. In the most ancient time they ate... butter, etc.

2184. 'Butter' (Gen.xviii.8)=the celestial of the Rational. 'Butter,' in the Word=what is celestial, from its fatness. Ill.

—'. 'Butter and honey shall He eat'... 'Butter'=His Celestial; and 'honey,' that which is from the Celestial. 5620².

—². 'Milk' (Is.vii.22)=spiritual good; 'butter,' celestial good; and 'honey,' the happiness thence derived. 5620³.

—³. 'Butter of the herd' (Deut.xxxii.14)=what is celestial natural.

D. 1161. That the spiritual are averse to butter. 1162. 3894.

1163. Butter is of the celestials...

E. 304⁴⁵. 'The butter and honey which He shall eat'=the goods of love; 'butter,' the good of celestial and spiritual love; 'honey,' the good of natural love.

314⁷. 'Butter of the herd, and milk of the flock'=the good of truth external and internal.

537¹⁰. 'Butters' (Ps.lv.21)=the good of external affection; 'oil,' the good of internal affection.

617⁸. The appropriation of Divine good spiritual and natural as to the Human is meant by 'butter and honey shall He eat'; Divine good spiritual by 'butter,' and Divine good natural by 'honey.'

—⁹. 'Butter and honey shall everyone eat that is left in the land'... 'Butter and honey'=spiritual good and natural good.

619⁴. 'Butter and honey shall He eat'... 'Butter'=the delight of spiritual good; and 'honey' the delight of natural good; thus the Divine Spiritual and the Divine Natural; thus His Human interiorly and exteriorly. —⁵.

Butterfly. Papilio.

A. 8848. They likened these things to worms (becoming) butterflies. 3000. W. 354^e. M. 418. T. 106².

T. 35. Some they regard as butterflies...

361^e. His external may be likened to butterflies...

375^e. They may be compared to butterflies in the air...

Buttock. Clunis.

A. 4221². They have their place under the buttocks, where their Hell is.

M. 269². Occurs.

D. 3358. (The Antediluvians) dwell deep under the buttocks.

Buttocks. Nates.

A. 818. Beneath the buttocks there is a horrible Hell... D. 4505.

5059. See ADULTERY at these refs. 5394. D. 4563.

5395^e. They who have lived solely for themselves and for pleasure... are under the buttocks... D. 4548.

10409⁶. They who have come to honours and riches by machinations and cunning, there become magicians; they appear to sit beneath the buttocks...

D. 3110. They who are under the buttocks answer to those who are in the zenith in a perpendicular line, because they are of such a nature; but those below at the buttocks are carried away by the cupidity of punishing everyone in a subtle manner... 4086.

4049. On the cruel under the buttocks.

4085. Such are in Hell under the buttocks, in most filthy excrements... 4461^e.

4218. See FAITH ALONE at this ref.

E. 240³. 'Their buttocks uncovered' (Is.xx.4)=the evils of self-love.

Buy. *Emere.Buying, Purchase. *Emptio.Buyer. Emptor.

A. 2048. 'The purchase of money' (Gen.xvii.12)=the spiritual. 2052. 2101. 2114.

2937. 'To buy,' in the spiritual sense=to redeem. The spiritual are said to be 'bought with silver,' that is, to be redeemed with truth. 2964.

2967⁹. 'Buy without money' (Is.lv)... 'To buy'=to procure for themselves.

4106. 'Purchase' (Gen.xxxi.18)=those things which have been acquired from another source.

4397. 'To buy' (Gen.xxxiii.19)=to appropriate to himself.

4487. 'Acquisition,' and 'purchase' (Gen.xxxiv.23)=truths... 'Purchase,' which is elsewhere called 'the purchase of silver,'=truth.

4965. 'Potiphar bought him'... 'To buy'=that he ascribed these things to himself.

5374. 'To buy' (Gen.xli.57)=to procure for themselves, thus to appropriate. Spiritual procuring and appropriation are effected by means of good and truth; to this correspond the procuring and appropriation which are effected in the world by means of silver and gold... Hence 'buying'=appropriation. Ill. 5406. 5410. 5426.

5414. 'The sons of Israel came to buy in the midst of those who came' (Gen.xlii.5)=that he willed spiritual truths to be procured by means of scientifically equally as the rest... 'To buy'=to procure.

5433³. 'To buy gold' (Rev.iii.18)=to procure and appropriate to themselves good. R. 211. E. 242.

5435. 'Thy servants are come to buy food' (Gen.xlii.10)=that these truths are to be appropriated to the Natural by means of good... 'To buy'=to be appropriated.

5488. To buy with silver=to procure for one's self from what is one's own.

5582. 'Return ye, buy us a little food' (Gen.xliii.2)=that in order for them to live, they should procure for themselves the good of spiritual truth. 'To buy'=to procure and appropriate. 5588. 5655. 5820. 5886⁴. Ill.

5886. See SELL at this ref.

[A.] 6114. 'For the provision which they bought' (Gen. xlvii. 14) = that they should be supported by (the truth of the Church). 'To buy' = to appropriate, and hence to be supported, because spiritual food is being treated of . . . which when appropriated, supports spiritual life.

6137. 'Buy us and our ground for bread' (ver. 19) = the appropriation of both, in order that they may be supported with good. 'To buy' = appropriation.

6142. 'Joseph bought the whole land of Egypt for Pharaoh' (ver. 20) = that he appropriated to himself the whole natural mind where scientifics are, and placed it under the general auspices . . . in the Natural. 6153.

6148. 'Only the ground of the priests bought he not' (ver. 22) = that the Internal from the Natural procured for itself the capacities of receiving good. . . 'Not to buy' = not to appropriate to itself these capacities . . .

6458. 'Which Abraham bought' (Gen. xlix. 30) = redemption. 'To buy' = to appropriate, thus also to redeem, for that which is redeemed is appropriated. 6461. 6549.

7999. 'The purchase of silver' (Ex. xii. 44) = which has any spiritual truth. 'Purchase' = acquisition and appropriation.

8568². 'To buy wine and milk without price' = to procure for themselves the truth and good of faith from the Lord; thus gratis. E. 376⁴. 617¹⁰.

8974. 'When thou buyest a Hebrew servant' (Ex. xxi. 2) . . . 'To buy' = to procure for one's self and appropriate. Refs.

10109⁴. 'They who are bought with silver' = those who have been converted.

S. 17². 'To buy' (Matt. xxv) = to procure for themselves.

R. 606. 'To buy and sell' (Rev. xiii. 17) = to procure for themselves Knowledges . . . 606⁶. E. 840.

619. 'Bought from the earth' (Rev. xiv. 3) = those who can be regenerated by the Lord, and thus redeemed in the world.

D. 817⁶. (Spirits infusing a desire to buy certain things). 1333. 2169. 2954.

E. 514¹⁵. 'No buyer' (Deut. xxviii. 68) = that they are utterly vile.

860. 'Bought from the earth' = those who, having been instructed, received [truths] in the world. 'The bought,' or redeemed of the Lord, = those who receive instruction from the Word, especially concerning the Lord. —², Ex.

1139. 'Not to buy any more' (Rev. xviii. 11) = to receive no more . . .

Buz. Buz.

A. 2864. 'Buz,' etc. = various religious and worships thence derived. 3240⁴.

Cabinet. Under ARK, at T. 192.

Cabinet. Theca.

T. 192. Like a cabinet containing precious things.

238. The Word in its letter is like a cabinet.

360². Spiritual light is inwardly in natural as in its receptacle, or casket . . .

Cacochymia. T. 665⁵.

Cadaverous. See CORPSE.

Cage. Under GUARD—custodire.

Cain. Cainus.

Cainite. Cainita.

A. 325. The doctrine of faith separated from love was called 'Cain.'

326. The worship of faith separated is described by 'the offering of Cain.'

327. That the state of those who were of faith separated was changed into evil, is described by 'anger being kindled,' and 'the falling of the face with Cain.'

330. Faith made inviolable is 'the mark set on Cain.'

337. Heresies and sects treated of under the name of 'Cain' and his descendants.

—^c. They who thus falsified doctrine, or separated faith from love, or who professed faith alone, were called 'Cain.'

338. The first offspring, or the first-born (of the Most Ancient Church) is faith, which is here called 'Cain.'

340. 'I have gotten a man Jehovah' (Gen. iv. 1) = that with those who were called 'Cain' faith was known and acknowledged as a thing by itself.

347. This doctrine, which is called 'Cain,' does not appear to have been so unacceptable at its beginning, and while there was simplicity in it, as afterwards . . .

355. 'Cain' = faith separated from love, or such doctrine as makes the separation of faith possible. 436. 1179. 2417⁵.

357. 'Anger kindled in Cain' (ver. 5) = that charity had departed.

362. The doctrine of faith, which is called 'Cain,' is here described; which, as it separated faith from love, also separated it from charity, which is the offspring of love . . . They who were called 'Cain' made faith more essential than love; and as they thus lived without love, both their self-love and the phantasy thence derived agreed together.

363. The nature of the doctrine called 'Cain' is evident from the description of it in this verse . . . that charity could be adjoined to faith, but so that charity should have the dominion, not faith; wherefore it is first said, 'If thou doest well, elevation . . .

366. 'Cain said to Abel' (ver. 8) = an interval of time; 'Cain' = faith separated from love.

—^c. 'Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and killed him' = that faith separate extinguished charity. 436. 3325¹¹. 8093².

367. (Parallel drawn between Cain and Abel, Jacob and Esau, Pharez and Zarah, and Ephraim and Manasseh.)

384. Hence it is evident that there was still some good remaining in Cain; but all the good of charity afterwards perished . . .

392. 'Everyone that killeth Cain vengeance shall be taken on him sevenfold' (ver. 15) = that faith thus separated was to be held inviolable. 'Jehovah set a mark on Cain, lest anyone should smite him'=that the Lord distinguished it in a particular manner in order that it should be preserved. 394, Ex.

407. In process of time the Church recedes from true faith, and at last ceases in none . . . Such was the case with the Most Ancient Church among those who were called Cainites . . .

409. Similar was the case with the heresy which was called 'Cain,' and which in process of time was devastated; for it did indeed acknowledge love, but made faith the chief thing, and set it before love. But the heresies thence derived gradually wandered away from this; and 'Lamech,' who was the sixth in order, utterly denied even faith.

609. These doctrinal things were first collected by 'Cain,' and preserved from being lost, wherefore it is said of Cain that 'a mark was set on him, lest anyone should kill him.' 920⁴.

916. They who separate faith from charity, and make salvation to consist in faith without the goods of charity, are Cainites who kill their brother Abel, that is, charity.

1179³. The difference between 'Cain' and 'Ham' is that the former existed in a celestial Church which had perception, and the latter in a spiritual Church which had no perception; wherefore the former was worse than the latter.

2435. See FIRST-BORN at this ref.

4601². The profanation of good through faith separated was represented by Cain killing his brother Abel, etc.

P. 242. (Arguments against the Divine Providence in connexion with Cain.)

—. 'Cain and Abel'=the two essentials of the Church, which are wisdom and love, or faith and charity . . . Specifically, 'Cain'=wisdom separated from love, or faith separated from charity.

—². The curse upon Cain involves the spiritual state into which they come after death who separate faith from charity, or wisdom from love. Still, lest wisdom or faith should thus perish, a mark was placed upon Cain, lest he should be killed . . .

R. 17³. 'Cain'=truth in doctrine and in faith.

D. 1248. They bear as it were a mark, like Cain. 2499.

E. 329²⁹. 'Cain'=those who make faith alone the sole means of salvation, and the good of charity nothing at all, and thus reject and kill it.

427⁴. The spiritual arcanum in the history of Cain and Abel is this; 'Abel' there represents the good of charity, and 'Cain' the truth of faith; this good and truth are also called 'brothers,' and the truth of faith the first-born. Ex.

—⁵. When this is believed to be the faith which saves man, and not willing and doing it, there comes forth the hurtful heresy that faith alone saves, whatever the life may be . . . Then charity is annihilated . . . This is represented by Cain killing Abel his brother . . .

—⁶. Jehovah's setting a mark on Cain lest he should be killed=that He distinguished it from other things and preserved it, because there can be no saving faith unless historical faith precedes . . . Moreover, they who are only in historical faith, that is, in the knowledge of the things of faith, who are 'Cain,' are preserved because they are able to teach truths from the Word to others, for they teach from the memory.

817³. That 'Cain' represented those who separate the Knowledge of truth and good from a life according to them, and who have believed that they are saved by the former alone (shown by a full explanation of the history of Cain).

Cainan. Kenan.

A. 463. The fourth Church was called 'Cainan.' 506.

507. The Church called 'Cainan' is not to be reckoned among these three more perfect ones, for perception, which in the former Churches had been distinct, now began to be general . . .

Cake. Placenta.

A. 956. Their faces become like a round cake.

2176. 'Make ready quickly three measures of meal of fine flour, knead it, and make cakes' (Gen.xviii.6)=the Celestial of His love in that state.

2177. 'The meal of fine flour'=the Spiritual and the Celestial then with the Lord, and 'cakes,' the same when both are conjoined . . . (—⁷.) The meat-offering consisted of fine flour mixed with oil and made into cakes. Ex. and III.

—⁷. Fine flour made into cakes in general had the same representation as bread, namely, what is celestial of love.

—. The bread called 'the bread of faces' was made of fine flour, which was prepared in cakes and set upon the table . . . Ex. and III.

2183. That the Lord's Rational was instructed in what is celestial, and thence in what is spiritual, is signified by 'the meal of fine flour made into a cake.'

2596. A cake of millet (a sign of the Chinese).

3880⁸. 'Fine flour,' and thence 'cakes,'=the Celestial of love, and thence the spiritual of faith, which is charity. Ref.

4844¹². 'The cake' which she made for Elijah in the first place (1 Kings xvii. 13)=the good of love to the Lord.

7978. 'They baked the dough, which they brought forth from Egypt, unleavened cakes' (Ex.xii.39)=that from the truth of good there was again produced good in which there was nothing of falsity. . . 'The reason 'cakes'=goods, is that they are bread. (See BREAD at this ref.)

8522. 'The taste of it was like that of a cake in honey' (Ex.xvi.31)=good which was delightful, like that which has been made good from truth through delight. . . 'Cake'=spiritual good.

9198⁷. 'Meal' (1 Kings xvii)=truth from good; 'oil,' good of love; and 'a cake' of them, truth conjoined with its own good.

9993. 'Cakes of unleavened mixed with oil' (Ex. xxix.2)=the purification of the middle Celestial. 'Cakes'=the middle Celestial.

—⁴. The reason 'cakes'=the middle Celestial in the internal man, is that they are in the second order (Lev.ii).

[A. 9993]³. 'Cakes,' in the Word, = the good of love in general: hence it is that the breads of faces are called 'cakes.' Ill.

—⁶. 'To make cakes to the queen of the heavens' (Jer. vii. 18) = to worship the devil from the good of celestial love.

—⁷. But the good of spiritual love is signified by 'cakes' in Hosea; 'Ephraim has become a cake not turned' (vii. 8); but here 'cake' is expressed by another word in the Original Language, which = the good of spiritual love; 'a cake not turned' exists when the external man reigns over the internal. . .

10037⁴. 'A cake of barley with man's dung' (Ezek. iv. 12) = the interior good of the Church defiled with the evils of self-love. 'A cake with the excrements of an ox' (ver. 15) = the external good of the Church defiled with the evils of that love.

E. 146⁵. 'Cake' = the good of celestial love.

555¹⁷. 'To make cakes to the queen of the heavens' = to worship infernal evils of every kind; 'to make cakes' = to worship from evils.

Cake. Tostus. A. 7602^o.

A. 9295². 'A parched ear' = the good of charity.

Calah. Kalach.

A. 1184. 'Rehoboth and Calah' (Gen. x. 11) = similar (falsities of doctrinal things to Nineveh) from another origin. 1187. 1188.

—'. 'Calah' = falsity from cupidities. 1189.

1188. The third origin of falsities of doctrinal things is of the will, thus of cupidities, and consists in their not being willing to acknowledge anything as true but what favours their cupidities; the falsities thence derived are what are called 'Calah.'

Calamity. Aerumna.

Wretched. Aerumnosus.

R. 208. 'Wretched' (Rev. iii. 17) = him who thinks without coherence concerning the things of the Church. Ex.

E. 237. 'And knowest not that thou art wretched' = that they do not know that their falsities have no coherence with truths. 'Calamity' = the breaking of truths by means of falsities, and also no coherence. Ill.

—². The loss of all understanding of truth is meant by 'mischiefs shall fall upon thee' (Is. xlvii. 11).

—³. Falsity from falsity is meant by 'calamity upon calamity' (Ezek. vii. 26).

—⁴. 'Their inward part is calamity' (Ps. v. 9). Here also 'calamity' = falsities not cohering with any truth.

Calamus. See CANE—calamus.

Calculate. Calcular.

Calculation. Calculus.

A. 9441². A calculation has been made that if there were 1000000 earths. . . H. 415. 417.

R. 121. 'I will give him a white stone' (Rev. ii. 17) = truths supporting and united to good. 'A white stone' has this signification because they took the votes by means of stones in their judgments, and the confirming ones by means of white stones.

T. 32³. Make this calculation. . .

D. 5956. On the skill of calculating in the Spiritual World.

E. 147. 'I will give him a white stone' = wisdom and intelligence. 'A white stone,' when given by the Lord, = reception from Him and influx. . . The reason 'a white stone' has this signification, is that in judgments they took the votes by means of stones, the affirmative sentences by white stones, and the negative ones by black stones: hence by 'a white stone' is signified the reception of wisdom and intelligence.

Caleb. Chaleb, Kaleb.

A. 2909³. That there would be again a new Church, was represented by his granting the fields and villages to Caleb for an inheritance (Jos. xxi. 12).

E. 768²¹. 'Caleb' represented those who are to be intronitted into the Church; hence his 'seed' (Num. xiv. 24) = the truth of doctrine of the Church.

Calf. Vitulus.

Cow-calf. Vitula.

A. 1782. 'A cow-calf, a she-goat, a ram,' are representatives of the celestial things of the Church.

1821. 'Take a cow-calf of three years, and a she-goat of three years, and a ram of three years' (Gen. xv. 9) = those things which are representative of the celestial things of the Church; 'a cow-calf,' of exterior celestial things; 'a she-goat,' of interior celestial things; 'a ram,' of celestial spiritual things. 1823. 1824, Ex.

2906⁹. Hence also the burnt-offering of calves the sons of a year, as most acceptable (Mic. vi. 6).

3574^e. Those who are such, are said 'to kiss the calves' (Hos. xiii. 2), that is, to embrace magic and adjoin themselves to it.

4503^e. 'A cow-calf by which labour has not been done' (Deut. xxi. 3) = the innocence of the external man, which exists in ignorance. . .

5702^e. The Egyptians. . . served idols, especially calves.

7439². The 'golden calf' mentioned. 8882⁴. 9781^e.

7779⁵. For the sake of illustration, take the worship of the calf with the Egyptians. They knew what a calf represented, namely, the good of charity; and so long as they knew this and thought of this when they saw calves, or when in their feasts of charity they made calves ready. . . and afterwards when calves were made use of in sacrifices, they thought sanely and together with the Angels in Heaven, to whom a calf is the good of charity. But when they began to make calves of gold, and place them in their temples, and worship them, they then thought insantly and together with the infernals. Thus they turned a true representative into a false one.

7988⁵. Equally with the Egyptians they were adorers of the calf.

8902¹⁶. 'A cow-calf on which there has not yet been a yoke' (Deut.xxi.3)=truth not yet confirmed. 'The washing of the hands upon the cow-calf at a rapid stream' (ver.6)=purification from that evil because it has been done from immoderate zeal by one who was ignorant of what the truth is.

926⁴. 'A cow-calf by which labour has not been done, and which has not drawn in the yoke'=the good of the external or natural man which has not yet drawn to itself falsities of faith and evils of love through the service of cupidities.

—⁵. Hence 'a cow-calf'=infant good.

. 939¹. See BULLOCK at these refs. 10035. E.279².

—⁷. The reason the Sons of Israel made themselves a golden calf, and worshipped it as Jehovah, was that the Egyptian idolatry remained in their hearts . . . In Egypt, the chief of the idols were cow-calves and bull-calves of gold; for the reason that a cow-calf signified scientific truth, which is the truth of the natural man, and a bull-calf, its good, which is the good of the natural man; also because gold signified good. This good and that truth were there presented in an image by means of bull-calves and cow-calves of gold. But when the representatives of celestial things there were turned into idolatry and at last into magic, then there, as elsewhere, the very images, which were representative, became idols, and began to be worshipped. Hence came the idolatry of the ancients, and the magic of the Egyptians . . .

—¹⁰. 'Egypt is a very beautiful cow-calf' (Jer. xli.20). 'A cow-calf'=scientific truth, which is of the natural man. 'Her hired men, who are calves' (ver.21)=those who do what is good for the sake of gain; thus 'calves'=good such as in itself is not good, but when the delight of the natural man separate from the spiritual. This is the delight in which were the sons of Jacob, and is in itself idolatrous, wherefore they were permitted to make this known and to bear witness of it by the adoration of a calf.

939¹⁴. 'The calf of Samaria, which the workman has made' (Hos.viii.5,6)=good in the natural man and not at the same time in the spiritual, thus not good, because applied to evil. Ill.

10132². The inmost good of innocence is signified by 'a lamb' (Is.xi.6); the interior good of innocence by 'a kid'; and the exterior good of innocence by 'a calf.'

10393. That that people was completely in externals without any internal is signified by the golden calf which they adored as Jehovah.

10407. 'He made it a molten calf' (Ex.xxxii)=according to the delight of the loves of that nation. 'A calf'=external or natural good . . . By 'a calf' as an idol is signified that delight.

—³. As named in the Word, and as offered in burnt-offerings and sacrifices, 'a calf'=the good of innocence and of charity in the external or natural man (Refs.); but when it does not signify the good of innocence and of charity, as with those who are in externals without an internal, 'a calf'=natural and sensuous delight, which delight is the delight of pleasures, of cupidities, and of the loves of self and of the world. This is the delight in which are they who are in externals without an internal, and is what they worship, for what a man loves above all things he worships . . .

—³. The primary idols with the Egyptians were calves, by which they desired to signify their external good in worship; but when the science of correspondences and representations . . . was turned with them into magic, a calf put on the contrary signification, which is that of the delight of external loves; and when they placed calves in the temples, and worshipped them as God, it signified such delight in worship. The Israelitish nation, being from Egypt, took this idolatry with them, therefore as applied to that nation, 'a calf,' when worshipped by them as a god=the delight of the loves of that nation in worship . . . Ill. 10459.

10478. 'I cast it into the fire, and there came forth this calf'=the loves of self and of the world, from which and according to which is that worship. . . 'A calf'=worship from these loves, and according to them, which is infernal.

10511. 'Upon which they made the calf' (ver.35)=on account of worship from infernal love. 'A calf'=the delight of self-love; hence 'to make a calf'=worship from the delight of that love, or what is the same thing, worship from that love . . . The reason 'to make a calf'=worship, is that the making of it involves all those things which are said about the adoration and worship of it in verses 4, 5, 6.

S. 18³. A calf means natural affection.

—⁵. 'A calf and the son of a unicorn' (Ps.xxix.6)=falsities of the natural and sensuous man.

23. Calves and oxen signified the affections and forces of the natural man.

P. 243. (An argument against the Divine Providence) that the Israelitish nation worshipped a golden calf, and acknowledged it as God . . . when yet Jehovah saw this from Mount Sinai . . . and did not prevent it . . . This evil was permitted them to prevent all from perishing. Ex.

R. 242. 'The second animal was like a calf' (Rev. iv.7)=the Divine truth of the Word as to affection. . . 'A calf'=the affection of knowing; in the Spiritual World this affection is represented by a calf, wherefore it is also signified in the Word by 'a calf.' Ill.

—, 'The calves of the lips' (Hos.xiv.2)=confessions from the affection of truth.

—, A comparison is made with 'fatted calves' (Mal.iv.2) because by them are signified those who are filled with the Knowledges of truth and good from the affection of knowing them.

—, 'The cedars of Lebanon'=Knowledges of truth; hence it is said that 'the voice of Jehovah makes them skip like a calf' (Ps.xxix.6). 'The voice of Jehovah'=Divine truth; here, affecting.

—². As the Egyptians loved knowledges, they made themselves calves as a sign of their affection for them; but after they began to worship calves as gods, then by them in the Word are signified the affections of knowing falsities. Ill.

—, 'To kiss the calves'=to acknowledge falsities from affection.

—³. 'Calves' (as used in the sacrifices)=the affection of knowing truths and goods, which is the first natural affection. III.

[R. 242]^o. The second animal was seen 'like a calf,' because the Divine truth of the Word, which is signified by it, affects minds-animos, and thus instructs and imbues.

611⁴. (Three hundred of the reformed clergy obtained leave to go up to one of the heavenly Societies). As they all went up together, afar off they were seen as calves, but when they cast themselves down again, they appeared like dead horses . . . The reason they appeared as calves during their ascent, was that the natural affection of seeing and knowing, when exulting, from correspondence, appears as a calf; and the reason why in their casting down they appeared like dead horses, was that the understanding of the truth of the Word, from correspondence, appears as a horse; and no understanding of it, as a dead horse. T.623.

M. 44⁴. (If new-comers into Heaven have an unchaste love of the sex) they appear before the Angels to be hairy, and having the feet of calves, or of leopards.

535^e. In the spiritual sense, a golden calf is the pleasure of the flesh. T.849.

E. 279^o. 'The fatted calf' (Luke xv)=the good of love and of charity.

314³. 'A calf' (Is.xi)=innocence of the ultimate degree, the opposite of which is 'a young lion.'

439^o. 'The calves of the peoples' (Ps.lxviii.30)=the goods of the Church in the natural man. 627¹³.

587¹¹. 'To kiss the calves'=to become merely natural.

650²³. The reason they worshipped calves in Egypt, and afterwards in the wilderness, was that a calf signified the first affection of the natural man, together with his good of innocence.

701²⁴. The precepts, judgments, and statutes, through which there is a covenant, were signified by 'the cow-calf, she-goat, and ram,' etc. (Gen.xvii).

780⁶. 'The calf' (Is.xi)=the innocence of the natural man.

Call. Appellare.

Calling. Appellatio.

A. 1931. The calling of Hagar by the Angel.

1946. 'Thou shalt call his name Ishmael' (Gen.xvi.11)=the state of the life.

Call. Nuncupare. T.394^e. 536². 841^e.

Call. Vocare.

Calling. Vocatio.

See under NAME.

A. 3421. 'To call,' without its being said 'by name'=to be such. III.

3595. '(Isaac) called (Esau) and said to him, My son' (Gen.xxvii.1)=presence from foresight and provision . . .

3609. 'To call to him and say to him' (ver.42)=a state of perception. 3659.

3659. 'To call' to anyone=perception of the quality.

5245. '(Pharaoh) called Joseph' (Gen.xli.14)=to receive the Celestial Spiritual . . . To receive it is signified by 'he called.'

6047. 'To call to himself'=(Gen.xlvi.33)=to want to be conjoined. Ex.

6177. 'He called his son Joseph' (Gen.xlvii.29)=the presence of the Internal. 'To call to himself'=to present one's self, thus presence. 7390. 7451.

6241. Occurs.

6335. 'Jacob called his sons' (Gen.xlix.1)=the arrangement in order of the truths of faith and goods of love in the natural. 'To call'=to arrange in order . . .

6681. 'To call' (Ex.i.18)=to form a design.

6742. 'To call' (Ex.ii.8)=to adjoin.

6790. 'To call' (ver.20)=to be conjoined.

6840. 'God called to him' (Gen.iii.4)=influx from the Divine. 'To call'=influx; for in the inward sense, calling by speech is not meant . . . but calling by influx into the will, which calling is internal.

7912. 'To call' (Ex.xii.21), when said of truth Divine, =influx and presence. Refs.

7955. '(Pharaoh) called Moses and Aaron by night' (Ex.xii.31)=the afflux of truth from the Divine in that state. 'He called'=presence and influx; here, afflux, because it is said of those who are in a state of damnation . . .

8761. 'To call to him,' or 'to call anyone to Himself' (Ex.xix.3), when said of the Divine, =conjunction; here, union . . .

8773. 'To call to himself' (ver.7)=choice.

9428. 'Jehovah called to Moses' (Ex.xxiv.16)=the Advent of the Lord with truth conjoined with good.

10650. 'To call' (Ex.xxxiv.15)=enticement and rejection.

10695. 'To call to them' (ver.31)=the approach of that nation; for he who is called, approaches.

R. 744. 'The called' (Rev.xvii.14) do indeed mean all, because all are called; but by 'the called' who are with the Lord, are meant those who are in Heaven with the Lord, as are called all who are in the wedding with the Bridegroom . . . They who are in the externals of the Church with the Lord are said to be 'called,' they who are in its internals are said to be 'chosen,' and they who are in its inmost things are said to be 'faithful.'

816. 'Blessed are they who are called to the wedding supper of the Lamb'=that there is eternal life for those who receive the things which are of the Lord's New Church.

—³. By 'the called' are meant all who receive; all are indeed called, but they who do not receive reject the calling.

T. 779. From the first day of that call . . .

E. 746¹³. 'Be not ye called teacher . . . and call no man your father in the earth' (Matt.xxiii.8,9) . . . In the Word, 'to call,' and 'to call by name'=to acknowledge the quality of anyone.

1074. 'The called' (Rev.xvii), when by the Lord, =those who are in love to the Lord . . . The Angels of the third Heaven are said to be 'called.'

Coro. 49°. The calling of the Sons of Israel to the Land of Canaan was done three times. Enum.

Call forth. Evocare.

A. 2875. (Truth called forth from the memory.)

3101. Truths called forth from the natural man into the rational . . . 3128°. 3153. 5119. 9034°.

9393. When truth is called forth from the memory into the understanding . . .

T. 596°. (In temptation) the devil calls forth man's evils, and the Lord protects him, and calls forth his goods.

Call on. Invocare.

Invocation. Invocatio.

A. 441. The invocation of the name of Jehovah . . .

1455. '(Abram) called on the name of Jehovah' (Gen. xii. 8) = the inward worship of His Father from that state. 1561.

2009°. To call upon the name of Jehovah' (Is. xii. 4) is not to make any worship to consist in a name, and to believe that Jehovah is invoked through His name; but through knowing His quality . . .

2724. 'To call on the name of God' (Gen. xxi. 33) = worship. 10576. 10615.

P. 257°. It is said that they invoke dead men, because the invocation of them has been established by a papal bull . . .

T. 560. To invoke any saint . . .

825. The invocations of them are only ridiculous.

E. 650¹³. 'The sons of a raven which cry to Him' (Ps. cxlvii. 9).

Call together. See ASSEMBLY—convocatio.

Calling. Under OFFICE—officium.

Callosity. Callus.

Hard. Callosus.

A. 571. Profanations of the Word produce as it were a callosity . . .

2492. The exterior memory presents the appearance, as of a callosity . . . With those who have cultivated the memory only, the callosity appears hard and striated within. H. 466.

H. 354°. Their head appears hard, as of ebony . . .

T. 639°. His whole mind . . . is encompassed with a callosity . . .

D. 958. On the hardness and softness of callosities.

963. Occurs. 4012. See 4049.

Calm. Under TRANQUIL.

Calmucks. Calmucki. D. 3411.

Calvin. Calvin.

C. J. 54. I have spoken with Calvin once; he was in a Society of Heaven; he said he did not agree with Luther and Melancthon about faith alone . . . Calvin is accepted in his Society, because he is upright, and makes no disturbance.

B. 66°. Predestination was afterward adopted by Calvin and his followers.

T. 798. On Calvin in the Spiritual World. Gen. art.

— When Calvin first came there, he could not be convinced that he was not still in the natural world, for he was a sensuous man, believing nothing but what he drew in from the objects of the bodily senses. Hence it was that he framed all the dogmatic things of his faith from his own intelligence, and not from the Word. He quoted the Word merely to obtain the assent of the common people.

—². After this first period, having left the Angels, he wandered about in search of those who from ancient times have believed in predestination, and was led to a company of the disciples of Godoschalcus, where he was in the delight of his heart.

—³. But after these were led away to a cavern, he wearied, and sought some asylum, and was at last received into a Society of merely simple Spirits; but when he noticed that they could not apprehend anything about predestination, he betook himself to one corner of that Society, and there lurked a long time, not opening his mouth about anything of the Church. This was provided that he might recede from predestination.

—⁴. The modern predestinarians found him out; and he was then led to a certain governor, who was tinctured with the same dregs, and who received him into his house, and took care of him, until the New Heaven began to be established, when the governor being cast out, Calvin betook himself to a certain meretricious house, and there remained some time.

—⁵. On his approaching nearer to where I was, I spoke to him about the New Heaven, etc.

—⁶. He said Christ was only a man, and that He is in the lowest parts of Heaven.

—⁷, et seq. (A conversation here follows between Swedenborg and Calvin about the Lord and predestination.)

—¹¹. All the servants of the Lord then left him, and he hastily betook himself into a way leading to a cave, where are they who have confirmed themselves in the execrable dogma of predestination. (Their lot there, Des.)

D. 5920. (Calvin receded from Melancthon because he (Calvin) had lived a Christian life.)

6041. Calvin remained in faith with good works; he is upright. J. (Post.) 25.

J. (Post.) 24. Calvin is in Heaven . . .

De Just. 59. (Calvin confronted with the Athanasian Creed. (3.) He confesses that he had fallen into error. (10.) Also that he had believed Christ to be the son of Joseph.)

—⁶³. Calvin at first was in a certain lower Society of Heaven; but after being examined, he descended and betook himself to Luther in the World of Spirits . . . The priests said that Calvin was an upright man, but simple, and that he wrote according to his simple thought, not considering whether it agreed with the Scripture or not, nor with the Athanasian Creed.

Calvinism. Calvinismu s. T.94.

Came to pass. Under BE.

Camel. Camelus, Camela.

A. 1486. 'Camels,' etc. (Gen.xii.16)=all things in general which belong to scientifics. . . 'Camels'=general services. 4264.

2781. See BEAST at this ref.

— 'Camel'=what is scientific in general. III.

3048. 'The servant took ten camels of the camels of his lord, and went' (Gen.xxiv.10)=general scientifics in the natural man . . . 'Camels'=general scientifics.

—². The process of the conjunction of truth with good in the Lord's Divine Rational is here treated of; first the process of initiation, here, that the Lord separated those things which were from Himself in the natural man . . . from those which were from the maternal. Those things which were from Himself, or which were Divine, are those through which initiation took place, and are here 'the ten camels from the camels of his lord: hence it is that so much is here said about camels (III.) Their being so frequently mentioned is on account of the inward sense, in which they signify the general scientifics which are in the natural man, from which comes the affection of truth which is to be initiated to the affection of good in the Rational, and this according to the general way . . .

—³. 'Their treasures upon the back of camels' (Is. xxx.6)=the Knowledges which are in their Natural; 'the back of camels'=what is natural; 'the camels' themselves=the general scientifics which are there.

3054. 'He made the camels fall forward on their knees' (ver. 11)=the holy arrangement of general scientifics. 3057³.

3071. 'I will give thy camels drink also' (ver. 14)=the enlightenment thence of all scientifics in the natural man. 'Camels'=general scientifics; thus in general, or all. 3094. 3097. 3102.

3114. 'Camels'=the natural man as to the general scientifics there . . .

3143. 'A place for the camels' (ver. 31)=a state for all things which would be of service thereto. . . 'Camels'=general scientifics, and services; for all things of the natural man are of no other use than to be of service to the spiritual man; wherefore also 'servants,' maid-servants,' 'camels,' and 'asses,' in the inward sense, signify especially those things which are of the natural man.

3145. 'And he loosed the camels' (ver. 32)=freedom for those things which were to be of service. . . 'Camels'=general scientifics, thus those things which will be of service.

3146. 'And he gave straw and provender to the camels' (Id.)=instruction in truths and goods.

3154². 'Camels,' 'asses,' etc.=truths in special.

3190. 'They rode upon the camels' (ver. 61)=the Intellectual elevated above scientific natural things. . . 'Camels'=general scientifics in the natural man, thus scientific natural things.

3199. 'Behold, the camels coming' (ver. 63)=to the general scientifics in the natural man.

3203. '(Rebekah) fell down from upon the camel' (ver. 64)=the separation of (the affection of truth) from the scientifics in the natural man. . . 'Camels'=the scientific things in the natural man.

3762⁴. 'Camels' (Jer.xlix.29)=scientifics in general. 7503.

4038. 'Camels and asses' (Gen. xxx.43)=truths of good exterior and external. 'Camels'=general scientifics of the natural man. General scientifics are the lower or more exterior truths of good . . .

4104. '(Jacob) lifted his sons and his women upon camels' (Gen. xxxi. 17)=the elevation of these truths and affections, and their orderly arrangement in generals. . . 'Camels'=general scientifics in the Natural.

4156. '(Rachel) had put them in the straw of the camel' (ver. 34)=in scientifics . . .

4250. '(Jacob) halved the . . . camels, etc. into two camps' (Gen. xxxii. 7)=preparation and arrangement of the truths and goods in the Natural to receive the good represented by Esau. . . 'Camels'=exterior or general truths; thus also non-truths.

4264. 'Milch camels,' etc. (Gen. xxxii. 15)=general services. . . 'She-camels,' etc.=those things which are of the natural man.

4748. 'Their camels bearing spices,' etc. (Gen. xxxvii. 25)=interior natural truths. 'Camels,' in general=those things which are of the natural man and are of service to the spiritual; and specifically, general scientifics in the natural man.

5620¹². 'Raiment of camel's hair'=the Word such as is its literal sense as to truth . . . for what is natural is signified by 'hair,' and also by 'camels.' 7643³.

7503. 'Camels' (Ex. ix. 3)=scientifics in general.

9372⁸. 'Camels' hairs'=scientific truths such as are there before man in the world.

9594⁴. 'Camels' (Jer. xlix. 29)=general scientifics.

10161. Among the smaller animals (in the second Earth) they mentioned one which has its back raised like the camel.

10227⁵. 'The ass'=knowledge, and also 'the camel' (Is. xxx. 6).

H. 365³. As it is contrary to order (for man to introduce himself, from his Own intelligence, into the things which are of Heaven and the Church), it is said, that 'it is easier for a camel to pass through the opening of a needle;' for 'a camel'=the Cognitive and Scientific in general, and 'the opening of a needle,' spiritual truth.

W. 346². (The camel one of the perfect animals.)

M. 329. As many things in a beetle as in a camel.

D. 4705. It was Societies of Spirits which thus appeared (as animals), and to which such animals correspond; as elephants and camels to those who are in general knowledge.

E. 242¹⁷. 'A troop of camels' (Is. lx. 6)=all who are in Knowledges of truth and good.

417⁷. 'Camels' (Jer. xlix. 32)=scientifics which confirm.

543¹⁴. Camel's hair'=the ultimate of the natural man, which is the Sensual.

619¹⁶. 'Camel's hair'=the ultimates of the natural man, such as are the exterior things of the Word.

654⁴¹. 'To carry their wealth upon the shoulder of asses, and their treasures upon the back of camels'=the scientifics of the sensuous and natural man, from which they form conclusions about all things. . . 'Asses'=those things which are of the sensuous man; 'camels,' those things which are of the natural.

799¹². Knowledge of truth are signified by 'camels' (Jer.xlix.29).

1200³. (The camel included among animals which appear in the World of Spirits.)

Camp. Castra.

Encamp. Castrametari.

Encampment. Castrametatio. . . .

A. 2418⁹. 'The camp of the saints' (Rev.xx.9)=the goods of love and of charity.

3417. 'To encamp' (Gen.xxvi.17)=to dispose into order.

3708¹⁵. The encampment and order of march of the Sons of Israel . . . Ill. 3858⁶.

4236. 'Jacob said, This is the camp of God' (Gen.xxii.2)=Heaven. The reason 'the camp of God'=Heaven, is that 'an army'=truths and goods, and truths and goods are arranged by the Lord according to the heavenly order; hence their arrangement according to armies is 'encampment;' and the heavenly order itself, which is Heaven, is 'a camp.' This 'camp,' or this order, is of such a nature, that it cannot be at all broken by Hell, although it is the constant endeavour of Hell to break it; hence also this order, or Heaven, is called 'a camp;' and the truths and goods, that is, the Angels, are called 'an army.' . . It was this very order which was represented by the encampments of the Sons of Israel in the wilderness; thus Heaven itself; and their very dwelling together according to tribes was called 'camps' . . .

—4. In the opposite sense, 'camps'=evils and falsities, thus Hell. Ill.

4237. In the Original Language, 'Mahanaim' (Id.) means 'the two camps;' and 'the two camps'=the two Heavens, or the two Kingdoms of the Lord, the celestial and the spiritual; and in the supreme sense, the Divine Celestial and the Divine Spiritual of the Lord . . .

4250. '(Jacob) halved the people who were with him, and the flock, and the herd, and the camels, into two camps' (ver.7)=the preparation and arrangement of the truths and goods in the Natural to receive the good represented by Esau. . . 'Camps'=order; in a good sense, genuine order; and in the opposite, order not genuine. 4251. 4255.

4364. 'What to thee is all this camp which I have met?' (Gen.xxxiii.8)=the special things which are therefrom. 'Camp'=special things. Ex.

4396. '(Jacob) encamped on the face of the city' (ver.18)=application, namely, to the goods of that truth. 'To encamp,' properly=arrangement according to order; but here, application; for 'to encamp' here means to settle down with his flocks and herds, which also are called 'a camp' above.

6335³. Their arrangement into order in the wilderness when they encamped was such that they thereby represented truths and goods in their genuine order; hence this prophecy of Balaam . . . 6367⁶.

8103. The journeyings and encampings of the Sons of Israel after they went forth out of Egypt=the spiritual states of those who have been delivered by the Lord. 8130.

8130. 'To encamp'=the orderly arrangement of truth and good; here (Ex.xiv.2) to undergo temptations. 8131. 8155.

8193. 'Marching before the camp of Israel' (ver.19)=which is around the truths and goods of the Church. 'Camp'=truths and goods; for by 'the camp' is meant the whole congregation of Israel . . .

8196. 'And came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel' (ver.20)=between the falsities of evil on the one hand and the goods of truth on the other. 'Camp'=goods and truths in the complex; thus in the opposite sense, evils and falsities also in the complex . . . 8212. 8214.

8370. 'They encamped there by the waters' (Ex.xv.27)=that after temptation the truths of faith were arranged into order through the good of love. 'To encamp'=the orderly arrangement of truth and good. Ex. E.458⁹.

8453. '(The quails) covered the camp' (Ex.xvi.13)=that it filled the Natural of man. 'Camp'=goods and truths; here the Natural, which is the containant . . .

8561. 'They encamped in Rephidim' (Ex.xvii.1)=the orderly arrangement of the interiors to undergo temptation as to truth . . . 'To encamp'=the orderly arrangement of truth and good to undergo temptations. Refs.

8568. 'Where he encamped at the mount of God' (Ex.xviii.5)=near the truth of good. 'To encamp'=the orderly arrangement of the truth and good which are of the Church with man. 8753².

8757. 'They encamped in the wilderness' (Ex.xix.2)=a regular disposition into that (state). 'To encamp'=the orderly arrangement of the truth and good which are of the life; thus also regular disposition.

8758. 'And Israel encamped near the mount' (Id.)=regular disposition with those who are of the spiritual Church by Divine celestial good. 'To encamp'=regular disposition.

9642⁸. 'The encampments (of the tribes)' represented the orderly arrangement of all things which are in the Heavens according to the truths and goods of faith and of love. Refs.

9937⁸. The reason 'the wilderness' (Lev.xvi.21)=Hell, is that the camp where the Sons of Israel were=Heaven. 10037⁵.

9987¹. 'The camp of Jehovah' (Joel ii.11)=Heaven.

10038. 'Thou shalt burn (them) with fire without the camp' (Ex.xxix.14)=that they are to be consigned to Hell and consumed by the evils of self-love. . . 'The camp'=Heaven and the Church, and in the opposite sense, where Heaven and the Church are not; thus Hell. —³, Ex. and Ill.

[A.] 1022⁸. The encampment of the Sons of Israel according to their tribes=arrangement in order and regular disposition. Refs.

10455. 'There is a voice of war in the camp' (Ex.xxxii. 17)=an assault upon the truth and good which are of Heaven and the Church by the falsities and evils which are from Hell. . . 'Camp'=Heaven and the Church. . . 'The camp,' here, where the golden calf was being worshipped=Hell. 10458, Ill. 10483. 10489.

10546. '(Moses) stretched (the tent) outside the camp, far away from the camp' (Ex.xxxiii. 7)=remote from the external things in which that nation was. . . 'The camp'=the heavenly order from and according to which are Heaven and the Church; and as all the truths and goods of Heaven and the Church belong to this order, it also signifies their containant. The reason these things are signified by 'the camp,' is that by the Sons of Israel, who formed the camp, are signified all truths and goods in the complex: but when the Sons of Israel worshipped a calf as Jehovah, their camp signified the contrary, thus infernal order, and also the containant of falsity and of evil, which make Hell. . .

10556. 'He returned to the camp' (ver. 11)=to the external in which was that nation. 'Camp'=the external of the Word, of the Church, and of worship in which was the Israelitish nation.

R. 861. 'They compassed the camp of the saints about' (Rev.xx.9)=that being stirred up by the dragonists, they endeavoured to destroy all things of the New Church. 862.

862. That 'a camp'=all things of the Church which relate to its truths and goods, Ill.

M. 75³. (The camp of the armies of the Lord Jehovah in the most ancient Heaven.)

426^e. He thus destroys the camp of marriage love with himself.

T. 569^e. The camp of Israel represented Heaven, and the wilderness outside the camp, Hell. 614². E.922.

E. 324⁵. Their being 'carried outside the camp' (Lev. x.4)=that their worship was not from Heaven; for the camp of the Sons of Israel represented Heaven and the Church.

434¹⁰. The encampments of the tribes of Israel represented the orderly arrangements of the angelic Societies in Heaven. . . 447^c.

Cana. Kana.

E. 376²⁹. 'The marriage at Cana of Galilee'=the Church with the Gentiles.

Canaan (Ham's son). Canaan.

A. 975. 'Canaan'=external worship separated from internal. 1083^e.

1063. 'Ham, he is the father of Canaan' (Gen.ix.18)=that from the corrupted Church originated worship in externals without internals. 1078.

1091^e. Worship in externals without faith and charity is the fourth in order, or 'Canaan.'

1093. 'Cursed be Canaan' (ver.25)=that external worship separated from internal turned itself away from the Lord.

—². Why Ham was not cursed, but his son Canaan, who was his fourth son, Ex.

1097. 'Canaan shall be his servant' (ver.26)=that such as make worship consist solely in externals are among those who are able to perform services for the men of the Church. 1103.

1135. External worship without internal, which is 'Canaan'; the derivations of its worship; and the extension thereof, treated of. 1140. 1211. 1227.

1141. They who are called 'sons of Canaan' were they who separated external worship from internal.

1150^e. If they deny the Lord, and love themselves only . . . their worship is external separated from internal, and they are 'sons of Canaan,' or Canaanites.

1163. 'Cush, Mizraim, Put, and Canaan' (Gen.x.6) were so many nations, by which in the inward sense are signified the Knowledges, knowledges, and rituals, which are of faith separated from charity. . . By 'Canaan,' or 'the Canaanites,' are signified rituals or externals of worship separated from what is internal. 1167.

1200. The external worship which is called 'Canaan' is such as that of the Jews. . .

1238. There was no such person as Canaan. . . 1140.

1241^e. The descendants of Ham and Canaan, who were idolaters. . .

3325¹¹. Occurs.

9960¹⁶. 'Canaan'=those who have not received the truths of faith in good, or in charity.

Canaan (Land of). Canaan.

See under LAND.

A. 1^e. Hence it is called the heavenly Canaan.

567. The rivers going forth from Eden describe. . . the boundaries of the Land of Canaan. . .

1025⁴. By the 'Land of Canaan' (the Angels) perceive nothing else but the Lord's Kingdom in the Heavens and on earth. . .

1093³. Moreover the inhabitants of the Land of Canaan were for the most part of such a character as to make all worship consist in externals. . .

1140^e. See ANCIENT CHURCH at these refs. 1238². 2913. 3686². Coro. 41.

1203². Here external worship without internal is 'Canaan' (Ezek.xvi.3).

1413. By 'the Land of Canaan' is represented the Lord's Kingdom. . . Hence the Land of Canaan is called the Holy Land, also the heavenly Canaan; and as it represented the Lord's Kingdom, it also represented and signified the celestial and spiritual things which belong to His Kingdom; here, those which belong to the Lord Himself. 1585.

1437. ('Abram, etc.) went forth to go into the Land of Canaan' (Gen.xii.5)=that thus He proceeded to the celestial things of love. 'The Land of Canaan' represents the Lord's Kingdom in the Heavens and on earth ; the reason of which is that the representative Church was instituted there . . . Hence it was called the Holy Land, although it was nothing less than holy, being inhabited by idolaters and profane people. This therefore is the reason why by 'the Land of Canaan' here and in the following verses is signified the celestial things of love ; for the celestial things of love alone exist in the Lord's Kingdom, and are what constitute His Kingdom. 1438. 1441.

1443°. The entrance of the Sons of Israel (into the Land of Canaan) represented the entrance of the faithful into the Lord's Kingdom. 2039⁸. 4255⁴. 5897⁴. 6639³.

1447. The Land of Canaan was given them for a possession in order that they might represent the celestial and spiritual things of the Kingdom and Church of the Lord, and in order that a representative Church might be instituted among them, and because the Lord was to be born there. 3686².

1580. 'Is not the whole Land before thee?' (Gen. xiii. 9)=all good. 'Land' in a good sense, and here 'the Land of Canaan'=what is celestial, thus good.

1585°. Hence all things which were in the Land of Canaan were representative ; those in the middle of the Land represented the Lord's internal man, as Mount Zion and Jerusalem ; the former celestial things, the latter spiritual ones ; those somewhat remote therefrom represented those things which are somewhat remote from internal things ; and those which were ultimate or at the boundaries represented the external man. 2973².

— See BOUNDARY at these refs. 1866. 4116. 4270. 5196. 8539. E. 518¹⁷.

1596. 'Abram dwelt in the Land of Canaan' (Gen. xiii. 12)=the internal man, that he was in the celestial things of love.

1607. 'All the Land which thou seest, to thee will I give it' (ver. 15)=the Celestial Kingdom, that it is the Lord's . . . for by 'the Land of Canaan' was represented the Lord's Kingdom in the Heavens, or Heaven, and the Lord's Kingdom on earth, or the Church.

1612. 'Arise, walk through the Land' (ver. 17)=that He should survey the Celestial Kingdom . . . By 'the Land,' or 'Land of Canaan,' is signified the Kingdom of God in the Heavens, or Heaven, and the Kingdom of God on earth, or the Church.

1664⁸. The wars which were waged against the idolatrous inhabitants of the Land of Canaan all represented the combats of the Lord with Hell ; and thence those of His Church and of the man of the Church. Ill.

1679. All the nations which were in the Land of Canaan represented kinds of falsities and evils. Ill. 1857. 1868².

1710°. 'The Land of Canaan,' in a holy sense, =the Lord's Kingdom, thus the Celestial of love, or good ; principally the good with the Lord.

1715. The last boundary of the Land of Canaan, or beyond Dan, is described by 'Damascus.' Ill.

1850³. In order that representatives might cease, the (Jews) were cast out of the Land of Canaan.

1857. See AMORITE at these refs. 6306⁴.

1865. 'The Land of Canaan'=the Lord's Kingdom ; wherefore 'to thy seed will I give this Land' (Gen. xv. 18)=that the heavenly Kingdom should be given for an inheritance to those who, from charity, have faith in Him. 2842⁷. 3038. 6233.

1906⁴. These are the remains which are signified by the ten years in which Abram dwelt 'in the Land of Canaan' (Gen. xvi. 3).

2028. 'All the Land of Canaan' (Gen. xvii. 8)=the heavenly Kingdom. 3481².

2658°. 'The Land of Canaan'=the heavenly Canaan, or Heaven. Refs.

2714⁵. That from the wilderness of Paran they explored the Land of Canaan (Num. xiii. 2, 3)=that through the Lord's Divine Human there is the heavenly kingdom for the spiritual.

2723³. The extension of the celestial and spiritual things which are of doctrine is signified in the inward sense where the extension of the Land of Canaan is described by 'from Dan to Beersheba ;' for by 'the Land of Canaan' is signified the Lord's Kingdom, also the Church, consequently the celestial and spiritual things which are of doctrine. 3693⁵.

2851⁴. When a man becomes spiritual, or is being regenerated, the evils and falsities, or what is the same thing, the Genii and evil Spirits are expelled from this gate, or from this mind, and then goods and truths, or charity and faith, succeed in their place ; which is signified by 'thy seed inheriting the gate of thine enemies' (Gen. xxii. 17) . . . This was represented by the Sons of Israel expelling the nations from the Land of Canaan.

2909. 'This is Hebron in the Land of Canaan' (Gen. xxiii. 2)=the Church as to good. 2982.

2928³. See LAND at these refs. 3705. 4069. 4429.

3038. As 'the Land of Canaan'=Heaven, or the Lord's Kingdom, it is the Lord's Divine Human itself which is meant by 'the Land of Canaan' in the supreme sense ; for the Divine itself cannot inflow into Heaven except through the Lord's Divine Human. Sig. 3705. 4069.

3481². (Restoration to Canaan, Ex.)

3662. 'Thou shalt not take a woman from the daughters of Canaan' (Gen. xxviii. 1)=that it should not be conjoined with affections of falsity and of evil. . . 'Canaan'=what is false and evil. Refs. 3683.

3665². Those Knowledge of external and corporeal truth which do not admit spiritual and celestial truth and good, are signified by 'the daughters of Canaan.'

3686. 'The daughters of Canaan,' here (ver. 8)=affections of truth from what is not genuine ; (because the daughters of Heth are understood).

3708¹⁶. From the most ancient people who dwelt in the Land of Canaan all the places there, according to their situation, distance, and boundaries, as to the quarters, became representative and significative. Ill. 4447².

3923⁶. By 'the Land of Canaan' was represented and signified the Lord's Kingdom, thus the Church ; thus all things of love and faith, for these belong to the Lord's Kingdom and the Church; and hence all things which were in the Land of Canaan were representative as to situation, distance, boundaries . . .

[A. 3923]^o. The inmost of the Land of Canaan was Hebron, and afterwards Beer-sheba . . .

4057. The consummation of the second Church is described by the extirpation of the nations in the Land of Canaan . . .

4108. 'To come to Isaac his father in the Land of Canaan' (Gen.xxxi.18)=to conjoin with the Divine good of the Rational, in order that His Human may become Divine. 'The Land of Canaan'=the Lord's heavenly kingdom, and in the supreme sense, that is, when predicated of the Lord, His Divine Human.

4112. Aram or Syria was separated by a river, namely the Euphrates, from the Land of Canaan, thus was outside the Land of Canaan, by which in the inward sense is signified the Lord's Kingdom, and in the supreme sense, the Lord's Divine Human. 4234². 4240. 4667.

4117. The land of Gilead, where the mount was, was within the limits of the Land of Canaan understood in an extended sense . . .

4197². To speak in the idiom of Canaan, or 'with the lip of Canaan'=to apply one's self to what is Divine, Ill.; for by 'Canaan' is signified the Lord's Kingdom, and in the supreme sense, the Lord.

4240. Mount Seir was the boundary of the Land of Canaan on one side (Jos.xi.16,17).

4289^o. Hence it is evident that every genuine or internal representative of the Church had departed from (the Israelites) before they came into the Land of Canaan, where the outward representative of the Church was commenced among them in a full form; for the Land of Canaan was the very Land itself where the representatives of the Church could be presented; for all the places there and all the boundaries were representative from ancient times.

4394. 'In the Land of Canaan' (Gen.xxxiii.18)=in the Lord's Kingdom.

4430². The sons of Jacob did not constitute any Church, but their descendants; and these not before they went forth from Egypt, and not actually until they came into the Land of Canaan.

* 4431. See NATION at this ref.

4447². The remains of the Most Ancient Church . . . were still in the Land of Canaan, especially among those who were called Hittites and Hivites . . . for there was the Garden of Eden.

— Hence it is that 'the Land of Canaan,' in the supreme sense=the Lord; in the relative sense, Heaven and also the Church; and in the particular sense, the man of the Church. Refs.

4453^o. As there is such 'merchandise,' or goods and truths, in the Church and Kingdom of the Lord, the Land of Canaan, by which is signified the Church and Kingdom of the Lord, was so named from the most ancient time from merchandise or tradings; for in the Original Language, 'Canaan' means this.

4454^o. The Land of Canaan so called (in the time of the Most Ancient Church) was all the land from the river of Egypt to the river Euphrates (Gen.xv.18).

4535⁴. That 'land'=the Church, is from this, that the Land of Canaan was the Land where the Church had been from the most ancient times, and afterwards where, with the descendants of Jacob, there was the representative of the Church. 5136, Enum., and Ex. 5577, Refs. 6516². 7439^o. 8316. 8944².

4539². See ASCEND at this ref.

4576. 'The Land which I have given to Abraham and Isaac, to thee will I give it' (Gen.xxxv.12)=Divine good appropriated. . . For 'the Land of Canaan,' which is here meant by 'the Land,' in the inward sense=the Lord's Kingdom, and thence the Church, which is the Lord's Kingdom on earth; and therefore it=good, for this is the very essential of the Lord's Kingdom and Church. But in the supreme sense, 'the Land of Canaan'=the Lord's Divine good; for the good which is in the Lord's Kingdom in the Heavens and on earth is from the Lord.

4680³. See HEBREW CHURCH at this ref.

4715^o. As by 'the Land of Canaan' is signified the Lord's Kingdom and His Church, it is called 'a Land of mountains and valleys, at the rain of heaven drinking in the waters' (Deut.xi.11).

4815. What was beyond the boundaries of the Land of Canaan represented those things which are outside the Lord's Kingdom, which are falsity and evil.

4816^o. The reason so many things have an opposite sense, is that before the Land of Canaan became the inheritance of the Sons of Jacob, it was possessed by nations by whom are signified falsities and evils; and also afterwards, when the Sons of Jacob went into what is contrary; for lands put on the representation of the nations and peoples in them, according to their quality.

5406^o. In the representative sense, 'the Land of Canaan'=the heavenly kingdom, consequently celestial and spiritual goods and truths, which exist inwardly with a man who is the Lord's Kingdom.

5415. 'Because the famine was in the Land of Canaan' (Gen.xlii.5)=desolation as to those things which are of the Church in the Natural. . . 'The Land of Canaan'=the Church; and as it=the Church, it=the things of the Church. 5425. 5442. 5507. 6017. 6025^o. 6067. 6229. 6457. 6516. 6658.

5620^o. As the Land of Canaan=the Lord's Kingdom in the Heavens . . . it is called 'a Land flowing with milk and honey.' Ex. E.6197.

5757. 'We have brought back (the silver) to thee from the Land of Canaan' (Gen.xliv.8)=submission from what is religious. . . 'The Land of Canaan'=what is religious. 'The Land of Canaan'=various things, because it=that which includes so many things; for it=the Lord's Kingdom, and it=the Church, consequently also the man of the Church, for he is a Church; and as it=these things, it also=the Celestial which is of the Church, namely, the good of love, and also its Spiritual, which is the truth of faith, and so on; here, therefore what is religious belonging to the Church . . .

5940. 'Go, come ye unto the Land of Canaan' (Gen.

xlvi.17)=their habitation, namely, that of the truths of the Church in the Natural. . . 'The Land of Canaan'=the habitation of those who have been of the Church; has the habitation of the truths of the Church with good, because these things constitute the Church. 5965.

6079. 'The famine was grievous in the Land of Canaan' (Gen.xlvii.4)=a want of such things in the Church. 6111. 6113. 6116.

6306. 'The Amorites'=evil, and also the Canaanites; and the other nations in that Land which are named in the Word=various kinds of evil and of falsity. Such things were represented by the nations when the Sons of Israel came into possession of the Land of Canaan; the reason was, that when the Sons of Israel represented the Church, these nations represented infernal things; and thus the Land of Canaan represented every state in the other life. . .

6516. See BURY at this ref.

—². Hence also Abraham was commanded to go (to Canaan), and hence also the descendants of Jacob were introduced into it, and this not because that Land was more holy than others, but because from the most ancient times all the places there, the provinces, the cities, the mountains and rivers, were representative of such things as belong to the Lord's Kingdom, and the very names given to them involved such things; for every name which is given to any place or person from Heaven involves what is celestial and spiritual; and when it has been given from Heaven it is perceived there. . . 9340². S.102².

6589. ('Land' here, meaning Canaan (Gen.i.24)=the Ancient Church, or the state of the Church in which the ancients were.)

6658². The Church is indeed instituted with a man when he acts from the affection of good; but still it is not fully instituted until after he has fought against evils and falsities, thus until after he has undergone temptations; after this he becomes truly a Church, and is then introduced into Heaven, which is represented by the introduction of the Sons of Israel into the Land of Canaan.

6856. 'To a Land good and broad' (Ex.iii.8)=Heaven, where are the good of charity and the truth of faith. 'Land,' here 'the Land of Canaan'=the Lord's Kingdom; thus Heaven.

7196. 'To give them the Land of Canaan' (Ex.vi.4)=by which they would be elevated into Heaven.

7844². Their elevation into Heaven is represented by the introduction (of the Israelites) into the Land of Canaan. 9305. E.433²⁷.

7932². 'Ye shall come to the Land which Jehovah will give you' (Ex.xii.25)=to Heaven which is with them from the Lord.

8054². This state of Heaven was represented by the Land of Canaan being occupied by the nations, and by the Sons of Israel casting them out. . . 8294².

8099. This was represented by the Sons of Israel not being at once introduced into the Land of Canaan. . .

8317. 'All the inhabitants of Canaan have melted away' (Ex.xv.15)=that it is the same with those who are of the Church, and that they have adulterated goods and falsified truths. 'The inhabitants of Canaan'=those who are of the Church. . . The reason they signify those who have adulterated goods and falsified truths, is that the nations there who were driven out by the Sons of Israel, represented the evils and also the falsities of faith. . .

8539. 'They ate manna until they came to the boundary of the Land of Canaan' (Ex.xvi.35)=that they experienced the appropriation of good from truth until they came to the region of Heaven. . . 'The Land of Canaan'=Heaven.

—². Before regeneration all good is acquired through truth, but after regeneration man is led by the Lord through good. . . The latter state is represented by the introduction of the Sons of Israel into the Land of Canaan. . .

8657². The latter state (of the regenerate) is described by the state of the Sons of Israel in the Land of Canaan under Joshua.

9192². Hence it was commanded that the nations in the Land of Canaan should be accursed. . . 9320².

9294⁴. Similar things to what were represented by these three feasts were represented by the leading forth of the Sons of Israel from the land of Egypt, by their introduction into the Land of Canaan, and by their dwelling there. Ex.

—³. 'The Land of Canaan'=the Church as to good, thus the good of the Church. Refs.

10038². After the Land of Canaan had been divided among the Sons of Israel, that Land and the other lands which surrounded it had a similar signification to the camp and what was outside the camp. . .

10500². After the Lord had come into the world, that nation could not be kept in such ignorance as they had been in before; therefore they were expelled from the Land of Canaan, lest they should defile and profane internal things by denial in that Land where from the most ancient times all the places had become representative of such things as are of Heaven and the Church.

10507. 'To lead the people to the Land of Canaan' (Ex.xxxii.34)=to cause them to be the Church.

10559². The reason the Israelitish nation were introduced by Jehovah into the Land of Canaan, is that the Church had been in the Land of Canaan from the most ancient times, and because the Word could not be written anywhere but there, thus among the nation which possessed that Land. . . because all the places in that universal Land, and around it, as the mountains, the valleys, the rivers, the woods, and all others, had become representative of celestial and spiritual things. . . N.5. W.H.12.

S. 21. The science of correspondences was not only known, but also cultivated in many kingdoms of Asia, especially in the Land of Canaan, etc.

71². In the Word in Heaven. . . instead of 'the Land of Canaan,' there is 'the Church itself.'

102. Those ancient people with whom that Word is still in use in Heaven, were partly from the Land of Canaan and its confines. . . T.279.

W. 345². That the noxious things on the Earth derive their origin from man, and thus from Hell, may be confirmed by the state of the Land of Canaan . . . for when the Sons of Israel lived according to the commandments, the earth gave forth her increase . . . and when they lived contrary to the precepts of the law, the ground was barren . . . it yielded thorns and briars . . . and wild beasts broke in.

P. 260. The Messiah, Who as they suppose is to lead them back to the Land of Canaan . . . But by the Land of Canaan, into which it is said that they are to be introduced, is meant the Lord's Church. E.433²⁷.

328⁴. The consummation of the Ancient Church is described . . . especially by the casting out of the nations from the Land of Canaan by the Sons of Israel.

444. 'The Land of Canaan'=the Church . . . The Spiritual of the Church is signified by the Land of Canaan and by the rivers in it.

T. 279^e. (The significations of places in Canaan were from the ancient Word.)

845. (How the Jews explain the way in which they suppose that they will all come into the Land of Canaan.) D.287⁸.

D. 5503. Their habitations were given them, as the lands of the nations were given to the Sons of Israel in Canaan.

E. 141⁹. 'The Land of Canaan'=Heaven and the Church with its truths. 374⁷. 403¹¹. 475¹⁸. 638¹⁴. 644⁶. 654¹².

223¹⁴. 'The lip of Canaan'=the genuine truths of the Church. 391¹³. 654⁷.

434¹¹. 'The Land of Canaan' represents and thence signifies in the Word the Church; the region of it beyond the Jordan, the external Church; and the region of it on this side Jordan, the internal Church. 440⁷. 569⁴.

447⁴. 'Then fought the kings of Canaan' (Judg.v.19) =the falsities of evil against which there is combat.

503⁶. By the nations which were driven out of the Land of Canaan, were signified the evils to be cast out of the Lord's Kingdom. 650⁶⁰. —⁶².

514⁷. By the last boundaries of the Land of Canaan, are signified the ultimates of the Church, which are knowledges containing the Knowledges of truth and good. Sig.

518¹⁸. The ultimates of Heaven . . . were represented by the two seas and the two rivers which were the boundaries of the Land of Canaan; the two seas were the sea of Egypt and the sea of the Philistines where Tyre and Sidon were; and the two rivers were the Euphrates and the Jordan; but the Jordan was the boundary between the interior and the exterior Land of Canaan. 569⁴.

569⁵. All those things which were outside the Land of Canaan signified such things as are of the natural man, but those things which were within the Land of Canaan signified such things as are of the spiritual, thus which are of Heaven and the Church . . .

—¹⁰. The Scientific . . . is signified by the Nile, and the Rational . . . by the Euphrates; to these two the spiritual Church extends itself which is signified by the Land of Canaan; in like manner the spiritual mind with the man of the Church.

633⁷. The beginning of a New Church after the end of forty years is described by their introduction into the Land of Canaan.

654¹². That the extension of the Land of Canaan . . . was from the Nile to the Euphrates, Ill.

—⁵⁷. See ASSYRIA at this ref.

—⁶³. The Land of Canaan, into which the Sons of Israel were at last introduced, represented the Church, which regarded in itself is spiritual. 700¹².

700¹⁵. When the Land of Canaan was possessed by idolatrous nations, the signification of the places and cities in that Land was changed into the contrary.

—²⁵. (The signification of the various quarters, regions, and cities of Canaan explained in general.)

730³⁶. That after temptations man becomes spiritual, and is introduced into the Church, and through the Church into Heaven, was represented by the introduction of the Sons of Israel into the Land of Canaan, for the Land of Canaan signified the Church, and also Heaven.

876⁸. The states of Heaven and of the earth being according to the states of the Church, was represented among the Sons of Israel by the face of the Land of Canaan . . . being changed according to the states of the Church with them. Des.

Coro. 41². The consummation of the Church of the nations within the Jordan, or in the Land of Canaan, is described by the expulsion and slaughter of some of them.

51. The second state of this Church was instruction and at last intromission into the Land of Canaan . . .

52². After these instructions the Sons of Israel were intromitted into the Land of Canaan; for the Land of Canaan represented and thence signified the Church; for that Land was in the central part of the whole of our world, having Europe in front, Africa on the left hand, and Asia behind it and on the right hand.

Canaanite. Canaanaeus, Canaanita.

See under AMORITE.

A. 1093³. See CANAAN (the Land) at these refs. 1664⁹. 1679. 4057. 4816^e. 6306. 8054^e. 8317. 9192³. P. 328⁴. E. 503⁶. Coro. 41³.

1150^e. See CANAAN (Ham's son) at these refs. 1163.

1206. 'The Canaanites' (Gen.x.18)=the rest of the idolatrous worships.

1211. 'The boundary of the Canaanites was from Zidon in coming to Gerar, even to Gaza' (ver.19)=the extension of Knowledges with those who have external worship without internal.

1444. 'The Canaanite was then in the Land' (Gen. xi.6)=the hereditary evil from the mother in His external man.

—³. The Canaanites were those who dwelt near the sea and near the banks of Jordan (Num.xiii.29), which also=evil in the external man, such as is what is hereditary from the mother.

—^e. All kinds of evils are signified by the idolatrous nations in the Canaanitish Land, among whom were the Canaanites. Ill.

1573. 'And the Canaanite and the Perizzite were then dwelling in the Land' (Gen.xiii.7)=evils and falsities in the external man. 'The Canaanites'=hereditary evil from the mother in the external man. 1574.III.

1868. 'The Canaanite'=evil ; 'the Perizzite,' falsity.

2913. They who had cultivated the doctrinal things of faith were called 'Canaanites,' and were separated from the rest of the inhabitants of Canaan (Num.xiii.29).

3024. 'Thou shalt not take a woman for my son (Isaac) from the daughters of the Canaanite' (Gen.xxiv.3)=that the Divine Rational should not be conjoined with any affection which is discordant with truth. . . 'The Canaanite'=evil ; hence 'the daughters of the Canaanite'=affections which are discordant with truth. 3154³.

4517. 'The Canaanite and the Perizzite' (Gen.xxxiv.30)=those who are in good and truth. 'The Canaanite' here=those who are in the good of the Church ; and 'the Perizzite,' those who are in the truth of the Church. The reason they have this signification, is that the Ancient Church was still among them . . . So long therefore as anything of the Church remained among them, 'the Canaanite'=the good of the Church, and 'the Perizzite,' the truth of the Church ; but when everything of the Church had been consummated among them, 'the Canaanite'=evil, and 'the Perizzite,' falsity.

4818. 'Judah saw there the daughter of a Canaanite man' (Gen.xxxviii.2)=the affection of evil from the falsity of evil. . . 'A Canaanite'=evil.

6024². 'Shaul the son of a Canaanitess' (Gen.xlvi.10) =what is doctrinal not from a genuine origin.

6541. 'The inhabitant of the Land, the Canaanite' (Gen.I.11)=the good of the Church.

6858. 'To the place of the Canaanite and the Hittite' (Ex.iii.8)=the region occupied by evils and falsities. 'The Canaanites'=evils from the falsities of evil ; and 'the Hittites,' falsities from which are evils. The nations in the Land of Canaan here enumerated=all kinds of evil and falsity. III. 8054. 10638. E.650⁵⁹.

7230². 'Shaul the son of a Canaanitess' (Ex.vi.15) =the things which are of truth in act outside the Church.

9332. 'The Canaanite' (Ex.xxiii.28)=falsity from more grievous evil.

Cancer. See CRAB.

Candle. Candela.

See under LAMP=lucerna.

A. 1053². Like the light of the sun compared with that of a candle.

7801. Like the reflected light of a candle.

P. 167. The light in the highest Hell is like the light from candles.

M. 380⁴. On the table he had a candle . . . and the candle seemed to be carried about.

T. 396. Like a lantern without a lighted candle.

D. 385. See READ at this ref.

4047. On candles and lights.

2 H

E. 252⁴. 'Let your loins be girded and your candles lighted' . . . 'The candles they are to have lighted'=truths of faith from the good of love.

675¹⁰. 'A lighted candle' (Luke xv.8)=inquiry in herself from affection.

Candlestick. Candelabrum.

A. 552. (Angelic Spirits forming a lamp-stand with its lamps and flowers in honour of the Lord.) D.2646.

716⁴. 'The candlestick with its seven lamps'=the Lord ; 'the lamps'=the holy things of love . . . 886².

4197⁴. 'Candlesticks' (Rev.xi.4)=the truths of these goods.

6432⁷. 'Golden candlesticks'=truths of good.

6832⁶. In order to represent Divine truth proceeding from the Lord's Divine good, they were commanded to make a candlestick of pure gold with seven lamps, and to set it in the tent of the assembly at the table containing the show-bread . . . III. 10206⁶.

9277³. 'The candlestick' (Zech.iv.11)=the Lord as to Divine truth.

9455. 'The candlestick'=the celestial things, and Aaron's garments the spiritual things which are from the Lord in the Heavens.

9548. 'Thou shalt make a candlestick' (Ex.xxv.31)=the Spiritual Heaven. 'A candlestick'=the Divine Spiritual in Heaven and in the Church from the Lord. The reason 'the candlestick'=the Divine Spiritual, is that the table=the Divine celestial. . . The reason 'the candlestick'=the Divine Spiritual, is from the illumination, for the Divine truth which proceeds from the Lord's Divine good is what shines in Heaven. 9561. 9562.

—². That 'the candlestick'=the Spiritual Heaven from the Divine truth which is from the Lord, thus also the Church,III.

9549. Why the candlestick was of pure gold. 'The candlestick'=the Divine Spiritual, or the Divine truth which is from the Lord in Heaven and the Church ; and because this comes forth from Divine good, the candlestick was of gold.

9550. 'The candlestick shall be solid'=that the whole is from good.

9554. 'The candlestick'=the Divine Spiritual which is from the Divine Celestial.

9567. 'The candlestick'=the Divine Spiritual which is in Heaven and in the Church from the Lord.

9684. 'The candlestick opposite the table upon the side of the habitation towards the south' (Ex.xxvi.35) =the illumination of the Spiritual Kingdom by means of the Divine truth proceeding from the Lord's Divine Human to those who are in good. 'The candlestick'=the Lord as to Divine truth, thus the Divine truth proceeding from His Divine Human, and thence illumination for His Spiritual Kingdom . . .

—². 'The candlestick' in the Habitation represented the Moon from which there is light for those who are of the Spiritual Kingdom ; thus it represented the Lord as to Divine truth there . . . Hence it is evident why the candlestick was placed towards the south . . .

—³. That 'a candlestick'=Divine truth proceeding from the Lord's Divine Human,III.

[A.] 9780³. 'The two olive-trees,' and 'the two candlesticks' (Rev.xi.4)=these same goods (that is, the good of love to the Lord and the good of charity towards the neighbour).

9782. 'The luminary, or candlestick'=the Spiritual Heaven.

10177⁶. By the lamps of the candlestick were represented charity and faith.

10271. 'The Candlestick and its vessels' (Ex.xxx.27) =in the spiritual truth which is of the second Heaven, and in ministering truths. 'The candlestick'=a representative of the Lord as to spiritual truth, which is of the second Heaven.

10342. 'The pure candlestick and all its vessels' (Ex. xxxi.8)=a representative of truth from that good, and the ministering things. 'The candlestick with its lamps and branches'=a representative of the Spiritual Heaven, and of faith and intelligence from the Lord there; thus of truth from good.

S. 52. To them the Word is like a candlestick without a light . . .

54. Like a candelabrum with its lampslighted. T.227.

R. 43. 'Being turned, I saw seven golden candlesticks' (Rev.i.12)=the New Church which will be in enlightenment from the Lord out of the Word. Ex.

—². The candlesticks were not one near another, placed in contact with each other, but at a distance from one another in a kind of circle . . .

—³. The golden candlestick in the tabernacle represented the Church as to enlightenment from the Lord.

44. As the Church is the Church from the Lord through the Word, the Son of Man was seen in the midst of the candlesticks . . .

66. 'The seven candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven Churches' (ver.20)=the New Church on earth, which is the New Jerusalem descending from the Lord out of the New Heaven. . . By 'the seven candlesticks' are not meant seven Churches, but the Church in the whole complex, which in itself is one, but is various according to reception . . .

75. 'Walking in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks' (Rev.ii.1)=from Whom comes all enlightenment to those who are of His Church. 'The seven candlesticks' in the midst of which is the Son of Man'=the Church which is in enlightenment from the Lord.

85. 'I will move thy candlestick out of its place if thou dost not repent' (ver.5)=that otherwise it is certain they will no longer be enlightened to see truths. 'Candlestick'=the Church as to enlightenment.

237. 'The seven candlesticks'=a New Church on earth which will be in enlightenment from the Lord.

493. 'They are the two olive-trees and the two candlesticks, which stand before the God of the earth' (Rev. xi.4)=love and intelligence, or charity and faith, both from the Lord with them. . . 'A candlestick'=enlightenment in truths, and thence intelligence and faith.

M. 20. On the table was placed a magnificent candelabrum fitted with seven branches and cups of gold . . .

T. 227. Like a candelabrum with its lamps lighted.

E. 62. 'Being turned, I saw seven golden candlesticks'=a new Heaven and a new Church which are in the good of love. Ex and Ill. 89. 91. 96. 97.

106. 'To remove the candlestick out of its place'=to separate from the Church and Heaven. 62².

324³. 'The candlestick with its lamps'=the Spiritual itself of that Kingdom. Refs.

—²⁵. 'The candlestick with its lamps' represented and thence signified spiritual good and truth.

638. 'These are the two olive-trees and the two candlesticks'=the good of love to the Lord and of charity towards the neighbour, and the truth of doctrine and of faith, from which are Heaven and the Church. . . 'Candlestick,' in a wide sense=the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, and thence the spiritual Church, and as the principal thing of that Church is the truth of doctrine and the truth of faith, these are also signified by 'candlesticks.'

—¹⁰. By that luminary, or candlestick, was signified the Lord's spiritual Church, and by the fire kindled in the lamps was signified spiritual love, which is love towards the neighbour.

Candlestick. Lychnuchus.

R. 484⁶. He took up the candlestick to throw it.

Cane. Calamus.

A. 25. 'A bruised reed He shall not break.'

1171⁶. By 'Sheba' are signified Knowledges and adorations, which are 'incense,' and 'the sweet cane' (Jer. vi.20).

3923⁵. 'Cassia and calamus were in thy market' (Ezek.xxvii.19).

5212. 'Seven ears ascending in one stalk' (Gen.xli.5) =the scientifics which are of the Natural conjoined together. . . 'In one stalk'=conjoined together, for the things in one stalk are conjoined together in their origin.

7313. They are driven like a reed by the wind.

9551. 'The shaft, the branch, and the bowls (of the candlestick)'=spiritual things in the Natural. The shaft, branch, and bowls, which are prolongations from the candlestick itself, are like the arms, hands, and palms from the body, and which are spiritual things in the Natural; for the Natural is prolonged and derived from the Spiritual . . . Hence it is evident that as 'the candlestick'=the Divine Spiritual, its prolongations and derivations, which are called 'the shaft, the branch, and the bowls'=spiritual things in the Natural.

9555. 'Six branches going out from its sides' (ver.32) =all things of truth from good in the complex. . . 'The branches going out from the sides'=truths from good; for the branches from the candlestick have a similar signification to the arms and hands in man.

9556. 'The branches of the candlestick'=truths from good, and thence power.

9561. 'So in the six branches that go out of the candlestick' (ver.33)=the power of truth from good as to all things in the Spiritual Heaven. . . 'Branches'=truths from good, and thence power. 9565. 9567.

10256. 'Aromatic calamus' (Ex.xxx.23)=the perception and affection of interior truth. . . 'Calamus' = that truth ; and 'aromatic,' the perception and affection of it.

—³. That 'calamus' = interior truth, is evident from the places in the Word where it is mentioned ; but there it is not called 'aromatic calamus,' but only 'calamus,' and 'good calamus.' Ill. 10264².

R. 485. 'There was given me a reed like a staff' (Rev. xi.1) = that there was given to him by the Lord the capacity and the power of Knowing and seeing the state of the Church in Heaven and in the world. 'A reed' = feeble power, such as a man has from himself ; and 'a staff,' strong power, such as a man has from the Lord ; wherefore by 'there was given a reed like a staff' is signified power from the Lord. That 'a reed,' or cane-canna, = feeble power such as a man has from himself, Ill.

904. 'A golden reed' (Rev. xxi.15) = power or capacity from the good of love ; 'a reed' = power or capacity.

T. 676. Like a field of mere canes-cannis, and reeds.

E. 518⁷. That thus there will no longer be truths, not even natural and sensuous truths, which are the lowest, is signified by 'the reed and flag shall wither, the paper reeds by the stream . . .' (Is. xix.6). 627⁹.

627. 'There was given me a reed like a staff' = the method of visitation, that is, of the investigation of the quality of the Church as to truth and as to good. 'A reed' = that by which the quality is investigated.

—². The reason 'a reed' also = visitation, is that visitation is the investigation of the quality of the men of the Church . . .

—³. The reason it was a reed by which the measuring was done, is that 'a reed,' or cane-canna, = Divine truth in the ultimate of order. —⁴, Ex.

—⁵. Divine truth in the ultimate degree . . . is such as is the Divine truth in the sense of the letter of the Word . . . This Divine truth is what is signified by 'a reed' or cane-canna ; and as investigations take place with all by means of this ultimate Divine truth . . . the measurings and weighings in the representative Churches were effected by means of reeds or canes. Ill.

—⁷. 'A bruised reed shall He not break' = that He will not injure the sensuous Divine truth with little children and the simple.

—⁸. That then there will be knowledge through natural Divine truth with those with whom there had before been only sensuous truth, is signified by 'grass instead of the reed and the 'rush' (Is. xxxv.7) . . . 'The reed' and the 'rush' = knowledge from a sensuous origin, or that through which the fallacies of the senses are confirmed . . .

—¹³. That we are to beware of a false Scientific, that is, of a Scientific falsely applied out of the natural man separated from the spiritual, is meant by 'Rebuke the wild beast of the reed, of the cane-cannae, or of the rush' (Ps. lxxviii.30).

—¹⁴. The vastation of the Church among the Sons of Israel is compared to 'the nodding of a reed or rush in the waters' (1 Kings xiv.15) ; because 'a reed' or 'rush' = the truth of the sensuous man, which is ultimate ; and this truth, when separated from the light of the spiritual man, is falsity . . .

—¹⁶. Their putting a reed into the Lord's hand, and afterwards smiting His head with it, signified that they had falsified Divine truth or the Word, and that they utterly derided the understanding of truth and the Divine wisdom ; 'A reed' = falsity in the outermost things.

Cane. Canna.

See under CANE-calamus.

T. 342². Like those who construct a vessel of rushes and canes.

375². Driven . . . as marsh canes by the wind.

617. Like one who makes himself a tent out of marsh canes.

Cankerworm. Melolontha. A.9331⁵.

Cannibal. Anthropophagus.

T. 380². Such are spiritual cannibals. D.3994. See A.819.

Cannon. Bombarda. T.123³.

Canon. Canon.

A. 4190². The received canon . . .

5962². It is a general canon . . .

6056. It is a universal canon . . .

8149². It is a canon . . . M.313.

M. 77⁴. (Our fathers) gave us canons of life . . .

I. 11. It is among the canons of wisdom . . .

T. 50. This may serve for a canon . . .

330². To this shall be added two canons for the New Church . . .

508⁵. It is a canon of the New Church . . .

Can. The Work entitled Canons, or the whole Theology of the New Church.

Coro. 29³. Those eat from the trees of life who procure canons for the Church from the Word, and afterwards confirm them by means of intelligence.

Canon. See CLERGYMAN-Canonicus.

Canopy. See CURTAIN-Aulaea.

Canticles. See SONG.

Cap. See HAT.

Capacity. See FACULTY.

Capacity. Capacitas.

A. 545². According to his capacity . . . H.413.

Caphtor. Kaphtor.

Caphtorim. Kaphtorim.

A. 1194. 'Mizraim begat Caphtorim,' etc. (Gen. x.13. 14) = so many nations, by which are signified so many rituals.

9340⁶. 'Philistines from Caphtor' (Amos. ix.7) = those who are initiated into interior truths by means of exterior ones, but who pervert them, and apply them to confirm falsities and evils. Refs.

[A. 9340⁷. The interior truths of faith are 'the Philistines;' and the exterior truths are 'the remains of the isle of Caphthor' (Jer.xlvii.4). E.406¹³.

Captain. See under GENERAL-dux.

Captain. Chiliarchus.

R. 337. 'Chief captains' (Rev.vi.15)=those who are in Knowledges of good.

832. 'Captains' (Rev.xix.18)=those who are in Knowledges of good and truth; and abstractedly, those Knowledges.

E. 355³. 'Captains' (Rev.xix)=Divine truths in special.

408. 'Chief captains' (Rev.vi)=external goods.

Captain. Naulerus.

A. 1201². 'Tyre'=interior Knowledges, wherefore its wise men are called 'ship-masters' (Ezek.xxvii.8).

P. 198^e. Like a current to which the captain pays no attention, but only to the sails he spreads. 235.

R. 463⁶. A ship seen flying in the air... and in it officers and sailors... T.462.

767. The officers and sailors, by whom are meant... the laity. 786, Ex. and III.

T. 504⁴. Like a wreck at the bottom, with the captain standing on the mast-head crying I can do nothing...

619^e. See CAPTAIN-navarchus, at this ref.

E. 514². Those who teach, lead, and rule are meant by 'the pilot,' 'ship-masters,' 'rowers,' and 'sailors' (Ezek.xxvii).

—⁴. 'Ship-masters' (ver.28,29)=those who are wise through Knowledges from the Word.

637¹². 'Ship-masters' (Ezek.xxvii)=all who bring and communicate the Knowledges of good and truth.

C. 170. Charity with ship-captains. Captains, to whom ships and merchandize are entrusted, or to whom they belong, also become charities, if they look to the Lord, and shun evils as sins, and do their work sincerely, justly, and faithfully. Their work is a greater good of use than many others, since it is the means of a communication, and as it were of a conjunction, of the whole world with its parts, and of the parts with the whole. And this excellent work becomes in them a good of use, which is a good of charity, whilst in watchfulness and sobriety they act prudently from the knowledge they have obtained, use all their efforts to make the voyage successful, and do not rashly expose themselves to danger; when in unforeseen danger they are not dejected; when saved from it give thanks to the Lord; act justly and sincerely with the crew, faithfully with the owners of the vessel, justly with foreigners among whom they come; hold no dealings with pirates; and are content with their pay and their other lawful gains.

Captain. Navarchus.

T. 422^e. With captains and sailors...

533². Occurs.

619^e. As invisible as ships in an eastern sea to the captains and officers-nauleris-who navigate a western one.

803^e. Some captains strike their sails in passing...

Captivate. Captare.

A. 5388. He could captivate or catch minds (by his talk).

6907². In order to captivate minds, and dupe them...

H. 579. These had been men who had deceitfully captivated the minds of others...

Captive. Captivus.

Captivity. Captivitas.

Take captive. Captivare.

See PIR.

A. 395². The times of vastation until nothing heavenly remains were represented by the many captivities of the Jews, and by the last Babylonish one, which lasted seven ages, or seventy years. 728⁴.

755³. The number 'seventeen' (Jer.xxxii.9) also = their Babylonish captivity, by which is represented the temptation of the faithful, and the devastation of the unfaithful; and in fact the beginning of temptation, and at the same time the end of temptation, or deliverance...

1228². Their being gathered together again from their dispersion by enemies, and their being brought back from captivity, means the creation of a new Church.

1327⁵. The Babylonish captivity, into which the Israelites were carried away, and afterwards the Jews, had a similar signification, (namely, that the worship of the Church had become external in which there was no internal worship). —^e.

2417⁸. (Captives, or those in prison = a class of those who are in good.)

2906⁵. See SEVENTY at these refs. 6508³.

3147¹⁰. All their captivities were for this end... 4208^e. 4281^e. 4289^e.

4135. 'As captives with the sword' (Gen.xxxi.26)=that they were taken away from him.

4511. 'They took captive and spoiled' (Gen.xxxiv.29)=that they deprived them, and perverted.

5117⁷. 'To bring back the captivity of the people' (Amos ix.14)=to deliver from falsities.

5376⁸. The vastation and desolation of the man of the Church, or of the Church with man, was represented by the captivity of the Jewish people in Babylon; and the resuscitation of the Church, by the return from that captivity... For desolation is captivity, man being then held as it were bound... P.246^e.

5886⁷. 'A wife from the captive women' (Deut.xxi.14)=foreign truth not from a genuine stock, which can however be somehow conjoined with the good of the Church with him...

5897⁵. The reason the goods and truths stored up by the Lord in the interiors of man, were represented by the residue and the remnant among the nations whither they were scattered and where they were made captives, was that man is continually among evils and falsities, and is held in captivity by them; the evils and falsities are what are signified by the nations.

7950. 'The captives who are in the house of the pit' (Ex.xii.29)=those who are in the last place, for they are opposed to 'the first-born of Pharaoh that sat on his throne,' by which is signified the truth of faith falsified which is in the first place. In the proximate spiritual sense, by 'the captive in the house of the pit' is meant him who is in what is sensual corporeal, thus in mere thick darkness concerning truths and goods, because he has not even the capacity of perceiving them, as they have who are in the interior Sensual; hence it is that those are signified who are in the last place.

7990. 'To bring them out of the land of Egypt' (Ex.xii.42)=deliverance from spiritual captivity . . . 'The land of Egypt'=where they were being infested by evils, thus where they were in spiritual captivity. (Refs.) They are said to be in spiritual captivity, who, as to the interiors, are kept by the Lord in good and truth, but as to the exteriors, are kept by Hell in evil and falsity; whence there is a combat of the external man with the internal: in this state are those kept who are being infested; and then the Lord is combating for them by means of influx through the interiors against the afflux of evil and falsity from the Hells: then are they kept as it were captives, for through the influx from the Lord they will be in good and truth, but through the afflux from the Hells they seem to themselves not to be able. This combat exists to the end that the external man may be reduced to obedience to the internal, and thus natural things be subordinated to spiritual. So49.

8866. 'The house of servants' (Ex.xx.2)=spiritual captivity . . . and also Hell, because servitude consists in being held captive and in being led by those who are in Hell; and freedom in being led by the Lord. Refs.

9164. 'To be led away captive' (Ex.xxii.10), when predicated of the good and truth with man,=removal . . . The reason such removal is signified by being 'led away captive,' is that when falsities take truths captive, they withdraw them in this manner. Ex. and III.

9594⁶. 'To bring back the captivity of the tents of Jacob' (Jer.xxx.18)=to restore the goods and truths of the external Church, which have been destroyed.

10458². 'Captivity' (Amos iv.10)=the deprivation of truth.

J. 74. That slavery and captivity in which the man of the Church has been heretofore is now taken away . . .

P. 328⁴. The consummation of the Israelitish and Jewish Church is meant by the destruction of the Jerusalem temple and the carrying away of the Israelitish people into perpetual captivity, and of the Jewish nation into Babylonia . . .

R. 591. 'If anyone shall lead into captivity he shall go away into captivity' (Rev.xiii.10)=that he who, by means of this heresy, leads others away from believing well and from living well shall be led off into Hell by his own evils and falsities. 'To lead into captivity'=to persuade and draw over to their own side, so that they may consent and adhere to that heresy which is meant by 'the dragon' and 'the beast,' and thus to lead away from believing well and from living well . . . By 'captivity' is here meant spiritual captivity, which consists in being seduced, and thus led away from truths and goods, and led into falsities and evils. III.

D. 214. The gentiles, although in Heaven, are in a certain kind of captivity, but not grievous . . . But those who are instructed . . . are not in captivity . . . But I was told that a change takes place, namely, that the gentiles are to be loosed from their captivity, and the instructed who have not received the faith will be cast into bonds.

218. That in the other life very many of the good are kept in captivity, while the evil enjoy freedom . . . I was permitted to feel their state of captivity . . . Sometimes they have a respite from captivity, being sometimes, for whole days, elevated from captivity, and again relapsing into captivity . . . But at the time of the Last Judgment, the upright who have lived in ignorance, and are called 'the gentiles' by the Prophets, are to be loosed from their captivity, and the evil Spirits will be thrust down into severe captivity and into Hell . . . I have spoken about these things with those who are in captivity, and also with those who are in freedom. They who are in captivity have consolation, thus hope.

219. That it has been granted me to communicate as it were heavenly delight to the upright Souls in captivity, Des. . . Thus they received consolation. They are also called sheep, which likewise is a great comfort to them. How they ascend from captivity into a species of freedom, both of speaking, of understanding, of perceiving, and of seeing, cannot be described.

220. This night . . . I perceived that many who were in the ultimate Heaven were thrust down, and many who were in captivity ascended. . . The unhappy who had been long in severe captivity . . . were contending with those who were in freedom in the ultimate Heaven, in fact they wanted to take all mercy from them, thus all hope of salvation . . . When I awoke, they greatly complained, with much anxiety, and repeatedly, that they wanted to take away all mercy from them, Des. . . At last the hope beamed upon them that they would not lose the mercy which had been promised them . . . They were wonderfully delivered by means of a kind of ascent . . . I afterwards spoke with them, and they are very modest, thus are now among the happy. . . Mercy was almost taken away from them . . . so that they were brought to the last degree of strainness and of eternal death before they were delivered; but I was told that these had led an evil life.

E. 175¹². 'To be taken captive among all nations' (Luke xxi.24)=to be taken possession of by evils of every kind.

270⁴. 'The virgins who have gone into captivity' (Lam.i.18)=the affection of spiritual truth; 'the young men'=intelligence; 'captivity'=removal from them.

355²⁵. Spiritual captivity exists when the mind is closed up, so that it does not perceive good or understand truth.

376⁶. By 'the captivity of the people Israel which shall be brought back' (Amos ix.14) is signified the restoration of the Church among the gentiles; for by 'captivity' is meant spiritual captivity, which exists with those who have been removed from goods and truths, and still are in longing for them.

[E.] 403¹⁸. The captivity of the Jews in the land of the Chaldeans has a similar signification to the spiritual captivity or the removal of the good by the evil in the Spiritual World ; namely, that those who were interiorly evil, but could still live in externals a moral life like a spiritual life, remained upon the earth in the Spiritual World, and made for themselves habitations upon the more lofty places there, the interiorly good being removed by them, and stored away by the Lord in the Lower Earth : this was represented by the transportation of the Jews into the land of the Chaldeans, and by the remaining of the rest of them in the Land ; wherefore it is said of those who suffered transportation into the land of the Chaldeans, 'I acknowledge the transmigration of Judah into the land of the Chaldeans for good, and I will set Mine eyes upon them for good, and I will bring them again upon this Land, and I will build them, and I will plant them ;' and concerning those who remained, it is said, 'I will give those who are left in this Land into trouble, and into evil with all nations, and I will send the sword, the famine, and the pestilence upon them, that they be consumed' (Jer.xxiv).

405¹⁷. The subject here treated of is the establishment of a new Church, which was represented and signified by the return of the Jews from the land of Babylon into the Land of Canaan.

419¹⁷. 'Captivity' (Jer.xxii.22) = detention in the Hells.

433²⁷. Where the introduction of the Jews into the Land of Canaan is treated of in the Prophets, there is meant the introduction of the faithful into Heaven and into the Church ; which also took place when the Lord came into the world ; for then all those who had lived in the good of charity, and had worshipped God under a human form, were introduced into Heaven ; these had been preserved under Heaven until the Lord's Advent, and were introduced after the Lord had glorified His Human. These are they who are meant in many places in the prophetic Word, where the captivity of the Sons of Israel and of Judah is treated of, and the bringing back of them into their Land. Those also are meant who were to be introduced into the Church and thence into Heaven from various countries after His Advent, not only where the Christian religion has been received, but also from every other place. Ill.

555⁴. The Church is said to be in spiritual captivity when there is no truth and still it is longed for ; in such captivity were the gentiles with whom the Church was established.

—¹⁶. 'A captive woman beautiful in form' (Dent. xxi.11) = what is religious among the gentiles with whom there is a longing or affection for truth ; that she 'shall be brought into the midst of the house, and there shave her head, make her nails, and afterwards remove the garment of captivity' = that it shall be led into the interior or spiritual things of the Church, and by their means reject the evils and falsities of the natural and sensual man . . . 'The garment of captivity' = the falsity of religion in which he who from affection longs for truth is held as it were captive.

632³. 'They shall be taken captive among all nations' (Luke xxi) = that evils shall make a prey of the goods and truths of the Church.

654²³. Their captivity in Assyria and Egypt = the spiritual captivity which exists with man from the falsities of religion.

706¹⁸. 'He shall build my city, and let go my captivity' (Is.xlv.13) = that He will restore the doctrine of truth, and deliver those who are in falsities from ignorance ; for 'city' = the doctrine of truth, and 'captivity,' the falsities of ignorance in which were the gentiles, and by means of which they were in spiritual captivity.

724¹⁷. 'Their captivity' (Jer.xxx.18) = spiritual captivity, which exists when they are not able to perceive the goods and truths of the Church on account of the falsities which reign. To disperse the falsities and teach truths is signified by 'bringing back the captivity.'

810. 'If anyone shall lead into captivity he shall go away into captivity' = that those who have shut off others from truths are shut off from the Divine truths in the Word. 'Captivity' = to shut off from truths, here, by reasonings from the natural man, for this is the spiritual captivity which is meant by 'captivity' in the inward sense . . .

811. That 'captivity' in the Word = spiritual captivity, which is a being shut off from Divine truths, namely, from the understanding of them in the Word ; and also destruction through falsities of evil and evils of falsity, fully Ill.

—'. 'To be taken captive among all nations' = persuasions and consequent obsessions by evils of every kind ; for when truths are destroyed, not only falsities succeed in their place, but evils also. 'All nations' = evils of every kind.

—³. That every affection of truth is destroyed, is signified by, 'My virgins are gone into captivity' (Lam.i.18).

—⁴. 'If they have gone into captivity before the enemies' (Amos ix.4) = if they suffer evils to take possession of them ; 'enemies' = evils ; and 'to go into captivity' = to be taken possession of by them. —⁶.

—⁵. 'The strength which He gave into captivity' (Ps.lxxxviii.61) = spiritual truth from celestial good ; and 'to give into captivity' = the shutting off from the understanding of it, and thus destruction through falsities.

—⁷. That they will destroy all truths by means of falsities, is signified by 'he shall gather the captivity as the sand' (Hab.i.9).

—⁸. 'They who are for captivity to captivity' (Jer.xliiii.11) = destruction by the shutting off and destruction of truth. . . 'To take them captive' (ver.12) = to destroy them by the falsities thence derived.

—⁹. 'They who are for captivity to captivity' (Jer.xv.2) = that those who love evils and falsities are taken possession of by them.

—¹⁰. 'The king of Assyria leading the captivity of Egypt' (Is.xx.4) = that reasoning from falsities will destroy all truths in the natural man, which are such as are the truths of the sense of the letter of the Word.

—¹¹. 'Their gods and their princes, the vessels of desire, and the gold and silver, which shall be led captive into Egypt' (Dan.xi.8)=that truth protecting will take away all the truths and goods of the Church from those who are in falsities . . . The taking away and protection of them is signified by 'to lead into captivity into Egypt' . . . 'To fall by captivity and spoil' (ver.33) =the deprivation of all things of truth and good.

—¹². The captivity of the tribe of Judah in Babylon seventy years, represented the full destruction of truth, and the devastation of the Church.

—¹³. 'Thy lovers shall go into captivity' (Jer.xxii.22)=the shutting off from all truths and from the understanding of them.

—¹⁴. 'With the blood of the slain and of the captivity' (Deut.xxxii.42)=the extinction and shutting off of all truth. . . 'Captivity'=the shutting off of truth by falsities.

—¹⁵. 'Their soul shall go into captivity' (Is.xlvi.2) =into Hell, where they will be shut off from all truth.

—¹⁶. 'The strangers who have led captive his strength' (Obad.i.11)=the falsities of the Church destroying its truths.

—¹⁷. Thy sons carried off into captivity, and thy daughters into captivity' (Is.xlviii.46)=that the truths and goods of their Church are shut off by falsities and evils . . . 'I will bring back the captivity of Moab in the extremity of days' (ver.47)=that truths shall be opened for those who are meant by 'Moab,' and that they will be instructed in them . . . It is often said in the Word that 'the captives shall be brought back,' and by 'the captives' are meant the gentiles, who are called 'captives' because they are shut off from truths; but these will be opened for them by the Lord.

—¹⁸. 'The captives to whom He will preach liberty' (Is.lxi.1)=those who are shut off from truths, and consequently from goods, for whom truths will be opened, and goods thereby imbued. (Further Ill.)

—²¹. 'To lead captivity captive' (Ps.lxviii.18)=to deliver from the falsities which have held them captive. (Still further Ill.)

1029¹⁷. As the Lord was to be born in that nation, and was to manifest Himself where the Church then existed, and where His Word was, that nation was brought back after a captivity of seventy years in Babylon, and the temple was rebuilt; but still no Church, except such a one as is called Babylonia, remained among them . . .

Carbuncle. Carbunculus.

A. 9865. 'A ruby, a topaz, a carbuncle' (Ex.xxviii.17) =the celestial love of good . . . The reason these stones =this love, is their red and flaming colour.

—^e. 'Carbuncle,' in the Original Language, is derived from a word which means flashing, as from fire.

E. 401²⁵. 'Carbuncles' (Is.liv.12)=their resplendence from good.

Carcase. See CORPSE.

Cardiac. See HEART.

Cardinal. Cardinalis.

A. 3913. The twelve general or cardinal things . . .

J. 56¹. No one dare enter who has been a pope or cardinal, because there is implanted in their minds an image of Divine authority . . . D.5229. 5234.

R. 752². He called the popes and cardinals stupid . . .

Cards. See under PAPER.

Care. Cura, Curare.

See TO-MORROW.

A. 2. Cares little for the Old Testament.

1110^e. The Lord takes much care of them, because they have lived a pious life . . .

1389. A Spirit receives much more excellent capacities when separated from the body, (and thus from) cares for food, clothing, habitation, children, and many other things, about which they think nothing in the other life . . . 1941. 3660³. 4214³.

2493. The Lord gives the Angels what to think every moment . . . thus are they devoid of cares and solitudes . . .

2540³. These things appear of slight consequence to man, in whose care and heart are worldly and corporeal things . . . but the same are precious to the Angels, in whose care and heart are celestial and spiritual things. 3688². 4096². 5224². 6648.

2892. He trusts in the Lord, and cares nothing about all other things . . .

3122². He who acts from charity . . . cares nothing for the things of faith, or truth . . .

3696. See ANXIETY at these refs. 3938⁷. 6202. 8247.

4269^e. If they do not apprehend them in the life of the body, on account of worldly cares, and the gross ideas consequent thereupon, still they do so in the other life, where worldly and bodily things are removed . . .

4364¹. Unless this truth is insinuated, man does not care for Heaven . . .

4459⁶. He who is in merely external pleasure takes care of his skin (that is, takes too much care of himself).

4946. Some who in the life of the body have imbued the idea that man ought not to care for the things of the internal man . . .

5028². He does not care whether (the poor whom he assists) are good or evil . . . —^e.

5948. Instrumental things are not a subject of care. Sig. and Ex.

5949. If essential and not instrumental things are a subject of care to them, they will have instrumental things in abundance. Sig. and Ex.

5992^e. The Lord has such care for man, and that constantly . . .

6210. It has sometimes happened that I thought much about worldly things, and about such things as are a subject of care to many . . . I then observed that I had relapsed into the Sensual . . .

6315. When a man is in worldly cares . . . he is in sensuous life . . .

6396⁴. They who are in truth and not yet in good adore external things, and do not care for internal things . . .

[A.] 6408. See BLESS—beare, at this ref. H. 401.

7097. They do not care for the Lord. Sig.

8375. They said that this is a sign that bodily and earthly things are more a subject of care (to the Spirits of our Earth) than heavenly things.

8380. (The inhabitants of Jupiter) care little for worldly things . . . Their greatest care is the education of little children.

8381^e. The scientifics which belong to human learning they do not care for.

8395. Spiritual good given without any care of ours. Sig.

8717². The Lord has not only a universal care . . .

9031. 'Curing he shall cure' (Ex. xxi. 19)=restoration, namely, by interpretation. Ex.

9094. The cares of the world and of the body (extinguish the light of Heaven).

H. 391. Societies whose function it is to have the care of little children.

N. 9³. When he is such, he cares little for the things of Heaven . . .

F. 30. There are many who have no internal acknowledgment of truth, and yet have the faith of charity, being those who in life have looked to the Lord, and from religion have avoided evils; but have been withheld by cares in the world and by business from thinking about truths.

W. 334^e. According to their care . . .

M. 256^e. According to the presence of their minds not distracted by cares . . .

284. For the sake of the care of infants . . .

D. 1573. On those who indulge too much in domestic cares. I saw a habitation rather deep down . . . there was a large room with utensils . . . through the court there went out a woman, small in stature, who was ugly. . . They who in the life of the body have been excessively devoted to domestic cares have such habitations, and are in their cares. Most of them are from the lower orders, like old women, who although such cares are no business of theirs, still assume them, like Martha, caring not for those things which are better, as the things of faith.

1908. (On a state of freedom from bodily and worldly cares.)

E. 375⁴². (The Samaritan's saying) that they were to take care of him=that those who are instructed can heal him better than he could, being as yet in ignorance. 444^e.

Care. See PROTECT—tulare.

Care for. See under STUDY.

Carlscrona. D. 6026.

Carmel. Carmel.

A. 1971⁴. The spiritual Church, which is 'Carmel' (or, 'fruitful field') (Is. xvi. 10).

5201⁵. 'To pasture in Carmel and Bashan' (Jer. l. 19)=to be instructed in the goods of faith and charity.

5922¹². 'Lebanon'=the spiritual Church; 'Carmel and Sharon' (Is. xxxv. 2)=the celestial Church; of the latter is predicated the 'glory of Jehovah,' when there is meant the celestial truth which is charity; of the former is predicated 'the honour of the God of Israel,' when there is meant the spiritual good which also is charity.

9011⁶. 'Carmel' (Is. x. 18)=the Church as to the Knowledges of good; in like manner 'Lebanon,' and 'Hermion.'

R. 316. 'Carmel' (Is. xvi. 10)=the spiritual Church, because there were vineyards there. E. 223⁷.

E. 288¹¹. 'The honour of Carmel and of Sharon' (Is. xxxv. 2)=the Divine good which they receive.

376¹³. The good of the Church is meant by 'Carmel' (Is. xvi. 10); and the truths thence by 'vineyards,' etc.

601¹⁵. 'The top of Carmel' (Amos i. 2)=all the truths of the Church . . . because in Carmel there were vineyards . . .

730⁷. 'Carmel' (Jer. iv. 26)=the spiritual Church which is in truths from good; its being 'a wilderness'=that there were no truths from good there. 1100¹³.

—¹⁵. 'Lebanon'=the Church as to the rational understanding of good and truth; 'Sharon, Bashan, and Carmel' (Is. xxxiii. 9)=the Church as to the Knowledges of good and truth from the natural sense of the Word.

750⁸. 'The glory of the forest, and Carmel, which the fire and the flame shall devour and consume' (Is. x. 18)=the truth and the good of truth of the Church, which, being turned into falsities and evils of falsity, will be destroyed.

919⁴. That the delight of spiritual and celestial love, which is the very joy of the heart, will perish, is signified by 'the gladness and joy from Carmel being gathered together.'

Carnal. See FLESH.

Carpenter. Lignarius.

Ath. 98. The reason the Lord was the son of a carpenter was that 'a carpenter'=the good of life from the doctrine of truth.

Carpets. See HANGING.

Carriage. Rheda.

A. 9293⁵. 'Horses, chariots, coaches—rhedae came-ratae'—etc. (Is. lxvi. 20)=intellectual, doctrinal things, etc.

R. 781. 'Horses, and carriages,' etc. (Rev. xviii. 13)=all these things according to the understanding of the Word, and doctrine thence derived, etc. . . 'Chariots'=doctrine from the Word; hence 'carriages' have a similar signification.

T. 342^e. May be likened to those who are borne in a chariot or carriage upon thin ice.

E. 355¹⁵. 'Coaches' (Is. lxvi)=Knowledges of truth.

1155. 'Carriages' (Rev. xviii)=goods from a rational origin, because they are drawn by horses, by which are signified truths from that origin; for carriages are a kind of chariot, and by 'chariots' are signified doctrinal things.

—. 'Coaches' (Is.lxvi)=doctrinal things of good.

Carriage. Vehiculum.

A. 5945. 'Take your carriages out of the land of Egypt' (Gen.xlv.19)=the doctrinal things of scientifics. . . 'Carriages'=doctrinal things. Ex. and III. 5952. 5971. 6015.

Carry. See under BEAR—ferre.

Cart. Plaustrum.

P. 176^e. Like a beast before a cart . . .

327¹². 'The new cart' on which they sent back the ark=new doctrine, or natural doctrine; for 'a chariot'=doctrine from spiritual truths. . . The cows together with the cart being offered for a burnt-offering=that thus the Lord is propitiated. T.203².

E. 700²³. 'A cart'=the doctrine of natural truth, and 'a new cart,' that doctrine unimpaired and not defiled by their falsities of evil.

Cartesian. See DES CARTES.

Cartilage. Cartilago.

Cartilaginous. Cartilagineus.

See under BONE.

A. 4656^e. They who attend little to the sense of a thing are they who belong to the cartilaginous and bony part of the external ear.

5552. The things in man which have less life correspond to such Societies as are in less life; such things are the cuticles . . . also the cartilages and bones, which support all things in the body . . .

5564. These Spirits relate to the scutiform cartilage . . . (These are the Spirits of the moon, 9236.) D.3245.

Cartouche. Cartush. D.5560.

Carve. See under ENGRAVE.

Case. See under So.

Cask. See under JAR.

Casket. See CABINET.

Casluhim. Kasluchim. A.1196.

Cassia. Casia.

Kesia. Kesia.

A. 3923⁵. 'Cassia and calamus' (Ezek.xxvii.19)=natural truth, but that from which good comes.

10258. 'Cassia' (Ex.xxx.24)=interior truth from good. 'Cassia'=the interior truth of the internal man . . . It is the inmost truth which is signified by 'cassia,' for it is the fourth in order. The reason 'cassia'=truth from good, is that inmost truth proceeds immediately from good, and acts conjointly with good in lower things; which takes place when the Intellectual acts entirely as one with the will . . . III.

—³. 'Cassia' is not mentioned elsewhere in the Word, but 'kesia' is in Ps.xlv.8, which is a species of cassia . . . The 'kesia' here, which is a species of cassia =the Divine truth which proceeds immediately from Divine good, which truth is the inmost truth.

10264². Inmost truth with its perception and affection is signified by 'cassia.'

E. 684¹⁷. 'Kesia' (Ps.xlv.)=good of the third degree.

Cast. Conjicere.

Casting. Conjectio.

A. 2447⁴. Thus have they cast themselves into the laws of order from truth alone . . .

4214^e. They cast themselves towards Hell . . .

5650. 'To cast one's self upon anyone' (Gen.xliii.18) =to reduce under Power; here, absolute power . . .

6203. At last, from the delight of affection he casts himself into evil . . .

6574². Infernal Spirits . . . will to drag the good forcibly down from Heaven, and cast them into Hell . . .

6692². They are cast towards the Hell of the magicians . . .

7351. See HELL at these refs. 8210². 8232. 8321. 8334. 8626. 9937⁸. 10810. 10812.

7711^e. Still less does He cast them into Hell, but they themselves do so.

7926^e. In the Lord's presence the infernals cast themselves into the evils of vastation, and at last into damnation . . . Hence it is evident that the Lord does not present Himself before them in order to inflict on them the evils of punishment, but that they cast themselves into them.

8227. In the same proportion, from a law of order, they cast themselves into punishments, vastations, condemnation, and at last into Hell . . .

8228. 'Jehovah shook off the Egyptians into the midst of the sea' (Ex.xiv.27)=that thus they themselves cast themselves into Hell, where are falsities from evil. 'To shake off into the sea'=to cast into falsities from evil. 8275.

8265. See CAST DOWN—projicere, at this ref. 8343.

8282. When they devastate themselves, and cast themselves into condemnation and Hell, it appears to come from the Divine . . .

H. 491. Some . . . immediately after death . . . are cast into Hell. Ex. and from experience. —².

510. Then the evil Spirit casts himself into Hell . . .

545. God does not cast anyone into Hell . . .

548². The Lord draws every Spirit to Himself . . . but evil Spirits from freedom cast themselves into Hell . . . It appears otherwise only to those who cast themselves thither . . . They who enter from an ardent love of evil appear to be cast in headlong, head downwards . . .

574. (How it is that evil Spirits cast themselves into Hell of their own accord, although there are such torments there).

R. 766. When they feel the angelic sphere flowing down from the Lord out of Heaven, they flee away and cast themselves into Hell.

[R.] 843. 'He cast him into the bottomless pit' (Rev. xx.3)=that the Lord entirely removed those who were in faith alone.

872. 'Death and Hell were cast into the lake of fire' (Rev.xx.14)=that the wicked at heart who were really devils and satans, and yet were as men of the Church in externals, were cast down into Hell among those who were in the love of evil, and thence in the love of the falsity which is in agreement with that evil.

E. 411. Therefore they cast themselves from the mountains and rocks deep down into the Hells, according to the quality of their evil and falsity; some into clefts and caverns, some into openings and rocks, which stand open before them; and after they have cast themselves in thither, the openings are closed . . .

413. These . . . are cast into Hell before the Last Judgment.

540². That then the evil . . . are to be cast into Hell, is signified by 'the Angels shall gather together all things that offend . . . and cast them into a furnace of fire' (Matt.xiii.41,42).

Cast down. See under PRECIPITATE.

Cast down. Deficere.

Casting down. Dejectio.

A. 2057³. Are cast down of themselves . . .

2121. All are not cast down into Hell in a moment . . . The Lord casts no one down into Hell, but everyone does so himself. 7877⁴.

3219². The Angels cast no one down . . .

3894². Wherefore they cannot but cast themselves down headlong thence.

4226². They cast themselves down thence . . .

4459². On account of their aversion, they cast themselves down headlong into Hell.

4627³. Other Spirits were then seen, who were cast down thence . . . This casting down was observed whenever angelic choirs came . . . They said of those who were cast down that they relate to the mucus of the nostrils . . .

4674². They appear to themselves as devils . . . wherefore they cast themselves down headlong . . . 5057².

6321². These Spirits were cast down into their own Hell.

6657². They fear . . . that thus they will be cast down into Hell . . .

6677. When the infernals try to attack goods, they are cast down deep into Hell . . .

6914⁴. Then the evil Genii and Spirits who had taken possession of the lower region of Heaven were cast down. . . . The evil who were cast down were then deprived of external bonds . . .

7502³. The reason they are devastated before they are cast down into Hell . . .

7541². It is according to order for one plague to follow another, and for the evil thus to be successively cast down into Hell . . .

7545². So long as they have communication with Heaven by truths, they cannot be cast down into Hell . . .

7879. Casting down into Hell does not come immediately from the Spirit who is in evil, but it comes from the Hells . . .

7964². Hence it is that those who are in evil cast themselves deep down into Hell according to the quantity and quality of their evil . . .

8146. In this chapter (Ex.xiv) the casting of them down into Hell is treated of, for casting down into Hell follows condemnation. With this state of casting down into Hell the case is this . . .

8258. In this chapter (Ex.xv) the Lord is celebrated, after . . . He had cast down into Hell the evil who were infesting the good in the other life . . .

8273². Whenever the Hells make this attempt, many therein are cast down more deeply.

8797². They then suffer hard things . . . wherefore they cast themselves down thence as if they were about to die, nor do they receive life until they are cast down out of Heaven.

9642⁶. 'To cast down into the earth of the army and of the stars' (Dan.viii.10)=to destroy the goods and truths of Heaven, and the Knowledges of good and truth themselves. E.316¹⁶.

10187. They lie as it were in the death agony, wherefore they at once cast themselves down into Hell . . .

10412². When they are in that profane worship the mountain opens into a cleft, and they are swallowed up, and are thus cast down into Hell.

H. 545. The Lord casts down no one into Hell, but a Spirit does so himself. Gen.art.

P. 310⁵. Therefore they are immediately cast down into that Hell as soon as they come into the World of Spirits.

324⁸. As evil cannot but infest good . . . they are cast down into their places in Hell . . .

R. 528. The casting down into Hell of those who have destroyed the Church, Sig.

611². Over a precipice, which then appears to them, they cast themselves down . . .

791. 'A strong Angel took up a stone like a great millstone, and cast—projecit—it into the sea, saying, Thus with violence shall Babylon be cast down' (Rev.xviii.21) =that by the strong influx of the Lord out of Heaven, that religiosity, with all its adulterated truths of the Word, will be cast—conjicietur—headlong into Hell.

872. See CAST—conjicere, at this ref.

M. 10⁵. I crawled to a precipice and cast myself down . . .

T. 40². In the same proportion he casts down his mind from Heaven to earth . . .

224³. God, through the Human . . . cast down the Hells, which had grown up even to the Heavens . . .

D. 417. One of these great stars was yesterday, unless

I am mistaken, cast down from the highest place, and with him a crowd then remaining of from five to six hundred, who adored him as an idol.

E. 316¹³. 'To cast down the horns of the gentiles which lifted up with the horn against the land of Judah' (Zech.i.21). 'The horns of the gentiles'=the falsities of evil which have laid waste the Church, and which are to be dissipated in order that it may be restored.

357¹³. 'To cast down the wretched and the needy' (Ps.xxxvii.14)=to pervert those who are in ignorance of truth and good.

388¹². 'Strangers and the violent of the nations shall cut him off, and shall cast him down' (Ezek.xxxi.12)=that falsities and the evils thence derived will destroy the Rational.

405⁵³. See CAST FORTH at these refs. 739.

411³¹. 'They are cast down through places of the rocks' (Ps.cxli.6)=that they are let into their own falsities, and dwell in Hells according thereto.

419. When the Divine from the Lord flows in intensely, the goods with the evil are dissipated . . . thus the externals with them are closed, and the interiors opened, in which there are nothing but evils and falsities; whence come pain, anguish, and torment to them, on account of which they cast themselves down into Hells where there are the like evils and falsities. 419¹⁰.

504²⁶. 'Ye shall be as an oak casting down the leaves' (Is.i.30)=that there is no longer any scientific truth.

514¹³. 'To cast down their bars' (Is.xliii.14)=their principles of falsity, and falsities devastating truths.

535². 'To fall, and be cast down from Heaven into the earth'=no longer to have a place in Heaven, but in Hell, thus to perish.

537¹⁰. 'Thou O God shalt cast them down into the well of the pit' (Ps.lv.23)=into Hell where there are destructive falsities of this kind.

654²⁴. ('To cast down'=to scatter.)

1183. 'Thus with violence shall Babylon be cast down' (Rev.xviii)=the total destruction of the doctrine.

Cast forth. Projicere.

Projection. Projectio.

A. 505⁸⁰. He began to be inwardly tortured, and . . . cast himself thence into Hell.

6948. 'Cast (thy rod) on the earth' (Ex.iv.3)=the influx of the power of the Lord's Divine Natural into the Sensual . . . 'To cast,' or let go=what proceeds, thus influx.

6952¹. 'To cast them to the earth' (Rev.xii.4)=to destroy. 10071⁰. R. 541.

7292. 'Take thy rod, and cast it before Pharaoh' (Ex.vii.9)=the power which is shown . . . 'To cast before Pharaoh'=to show. 7295. 7298.

8265. 'The horse and his rider hath He cast into the sea' (Ex.xv.1)=that at His mere presence falsities of evil are damned and cast-conjecta-into Hell. 8275. 8343.

8355. 'He cast (the wood) into the waters' (Ex.xv.25)=with which he affected truths.

10461. 'To cast the tables out of his hand, and break them' (Ex.xxxii.19)=to destroy the genuine external sense . . .

N. 260⁴. Rude projections . . . 11⁴.

R. 395. 'The Angel took a censer and filled it with the fire of the altar, and cast it into the earth' (Rev.viii.5)=spiritual love, in which there is celestial love, and its influx into lower things, where there were those who were in faith separated from charity.

550. 'That great dragon was cast forth' (Rev.xii.9)=those who are meant by the dragon, turned away from the Lord to themselves, and from Heaven to the world.

552. 'He was cast forth into the earth, and his angels were cast forth with him' (Id.)=into the World of Spirits . . .

560. 'When the dragon saw that he was cast forth into the earth' (ver.13)=that the dragonists, after their casting down=dejectio-into the World of Spirits . . .

791. See CAST DOWN at this ref.

M. 10². Cast him out and throw his clothes after him. —⁴. I threw myself flat on the ground.

E. 316¹⁴. ('To cast into the earth'=total vastation.)

316¹⁶. ('To cast it to the earth'=completed destruction.) 403⁶. 727³.

405⁴⁶. 'To be cast forth' (Is.xxxiv.3)=to be damned. —⁶³. 'Be thou cast into the sea' (Mark xi.23)=to be cast down=dejici-into Hell, whence they come.

659²⁰. 'Thou art cast forth out of thy grave' (Is.xiv.19)=that it is damned to Hell.

720. 'He cast them to the earth' (Rev.xii)=the extinction and destruction of them.

739. 'That great dragon was cast forth, that old serpent'=that there are separated from Heaven and cast down=dejecti-into Hell those who are in evils of life, and thus have become sensuous . . . 'To be cast forth,' when said of the dragon,=to be separated from Heaven, and cast down into Hell.

742. 'He was cast forth into the earth, and his angels were cast forth with him'=that these evils and falsities were condemned to Hell. 'To be cast forth into the earth'=to be separated from Heaven and condemned to Hell. Ex. 746.

757. 'When the dragon saw that he was cast forth into the earth'=when the religion of faith alone separated from the life of charity was not acknowledged, but was held cheap. Ex.

Cast out. Ejicere.

Casting out, Ejection. Ejectio.

A. 306. 'To cast out the man' (Gen.iii.24)=to utterly deprive of all will of good and understanding of truth, to such an extent that he is separated from them, and is not man.

386. 'To be cast out from upon the faces of the ground' (Gen.iv.14)=to be separated from all the truth of the Church.

2657. 'Cast out this handmaid and her son' (Gen.xxi.10)=that the things of the Rational which were merely human were to be extirpated. 'To cast out'=to extirpate.

[A.] 4225². The interiors are full of anguish . . . wherefore they cast themselves out headlong . . .

4689². That faith separated from charity now prevails is evident, for . . . he who believes differently from what dogma teaches is cast out from their communion . . .

4796. They who put on another face are cast out from the Society.

5387². They who correspond to the ejection of the urine . . .

8174. The falsities with man are not cast out, but removed . . .

8273^e. Like upheavings of a man's back . . .

9193. 'He shall be accursed' (Ex.xxii.20)=a casting out. 'To be accursed'=to be cast out of the Church. III. and Ex.

9960^e. This is signified by the ejection from paradise.

10058^e. With the Lord, there was not removal, but ejection of those things which he derived from the mother . . .

10529. The ejection of all evils and falsities, Sig.

Life 27^e. After death, the man himself also casts out (the Knowledges which do not agree with the love of his will). 44.

P. 79². Still, these evils cannot be so cast out that they may be said to be extirpated . . .

145². The Internal wills to cast out these delights . . .

147. How the Lord casts out the concupiscences of evil . . .

279. It is an error . . . that evils are separated from man ; nay, cast out, when they are remitted . . .

313³. The ejection from the garden=the deprivation of wisdom.

R. 487. 'The court which is outside the temple cast out without' (Rev.xi.2). 'To cast out without'=to remove, here, from Heaven.

M. 10². Cast him out . . . thus was I cast out.

75^e. When this was perceived, they were cast out of our land.

E. 417⁶. 'To cast out into the furthest corners' (Dent. xxxii.26)=to be deprived of all good and truth.

Castigate. See CHASTISE.

Castle. Castellum.

A. 3271. 'In their castles' (Gen.xxv.16) = internal things. 'Castles'=the internal things of faith, here, of the Church, because they are especially predicated of the gentiles, who have not the truth of faith, but rational and natural truth ; these truths are called 'castles' when the truths of faith are called 'cities.' In the Original Language, these words, which mean 'towns' and 'castles,' also means courts and palaces . . .

Cat. Felis.

A. 2745. Women who do not love their husbands, but despise them . . . are represented by a cock, a wild cat, and a tiger of a dull colour. They begin by talking much, then they advance to scolding, and at last put on the nature of the tiger. D. 3198.

R. 566³. Their light . . . is not unlike the light of cats, whose eyes appear like candles in the night-time from their keen appetite for mice. On hearing this, they were angry, and said that they are not cats, nor like cats, because they can see (truths) if they want to do so. T. 162³. 334⁴. 380³.

M. 512. They appear at a distance like cats . . .

T. 455^e. They are like cats which lie in ambush for birds on their nests . . .

D. 3191. See ADULTERY at this ref.

5899. On cats. Some, when looked into by the Angels appear like cats, being those who are able to be in the Divine sphere without being tortured . . . Such can ascend into some of the Heavens ; nor can they be driven away, like others, by the angelic sphere. But there are some there who order them by word of mouth to go away, and so they do go away . . . The reason there are such cats, is that those are cats who have been in external worship, and have lived morally, and have gone to church and listened to preaching, but have paid no attention whatever to what was preached, and thus have drawn in no Knowledges of truth and good : to these they did not listen, but merely to words without thought. Such also was B. Stjernerona, who only sang out Amen, and paid no attention to any Knowledges.

6110⁵. I asked why cats have such a nature. They said that with the female cat there is first excited the pleasure of fighting, and that this is observed by the male cat . . .

D. Min. 4705. There ascended a troop behind . . . which was perceived as if in one body ; it was said that they were those who relate to cats, by whom those who relate to mice are struck with terror . . . They are silent, soft, very deceitful, when acting into such, and the smell of mice was perceived with them ; but the troop was divided, and so the terror ceased.

De Conj. 12. There are some Spirits of both sexes who in the appearance of their passions appear like cats ; those mice fear them as mice on earth fear cats. Those appear like cats who care nothing for religious things ; they merely hear them, but retain nothing.

Cataract. Cataracta.

A. 576³. 'The cataracts of heaven' (Mal.iii.10).

757. 'The cataracts of heaven being opened' (Gen. vii.11)=the last degree of temptation as to intellectual things. . . 'The cataracts of heaven' are spoken of from the inundation of falsities, or of reasonings ; which are also spoken of in Isaiah . . . 'The cataracts from on high are open' (xxiv.18). 760^e. 845. 1066.

E. 400⁵. 'The cataracts which are open from on high' (Is.xxiv)=an inundation of evil and falsity.

Cataract. Cataracta.

T. 346². A wandering faith, which is a faith in a number of gods, may be compared to the disease of the eye which is called cataract, and which is loss of sight arising from an obstruction between the sclerotic coat and the uvea.

Catch. Aucupari, Aucupatio.

A. 1484. That they captivate the mind, Sig.

H. 309^e. Who have got a reputation for learning . . . 481. 496.

T. 425^a. The hunt for renown . . .

441². If they do not get honours and wealth as rewards . . .

459⁸. Who does not get glory thence . . .

Catch. Prehendere, Deprehendere.

See APPREHEND—apprehendere.

A. 1085³. 'To lay hold of the palm' (Ezek.xxix.7)=to confide therein.

3304. 'His hand catching in the heel of Esau' (Gen.xxv.26)=the lowest of natural good, to which there adhered some power. . . 'To catch'=to adhere.

5006. 'She caught him in his garment' (Gen.xxxix.12)=that truth not spiritual applied itself to the ultimate of spiritual truth. . . 'To catch,' here=to apply itself.

6952. 'Put forth thy hand and lay hold of the tail' (Ex.iv.4)=the power of elevating from the ultimate of the Sensual. . . Elevation is signified by 'putting forth and laying hold.' 6953.

9151. 'And the thief be caught' (Ex.xxii.7)=remembrance. 'To catch,' when said of truths and scientifics laid aside in the memory,=remembrance. 9153.

Catechism. Catechesis, Catechismus.

P. 329². When the Decalogue or catechism was mentioned, they rejected it with contempt . . . —.

R. 531^e. Is not the catechism the doctrine of the universal Christian Church which teaches repentance . . .

T. 282. On the catechism, or Decalogue. Gen.art.

325. In the catechism now in people's hands, these two commandments are combined into one . . .

530². From the Decalogue, or catechism, which is in the hands of all Christians . . .

777. In the chapter on the Decalogue, or catechism . . .

Caterpillar. See BRUCHUS, and under WORM.Catholic. Catholicus.

See ROMAN CATHOLIC.

T. 636^e. This (Apostles') creed, like the two others, has been acknowledged as truly catholic by the universal Christian Church . . .

Cattle. Pecus, pecoris.

A. 413. 'The father of the dweller in tents and of cattle' (Gen.iv.20)=celestial things, because they=the holy things of love, and the goods thence derived. 415, Ex. and III.

1550. See ABRAHAM at this ref.

1572. See SHEPHERD at this ref.

4105. The reason 'acquisition'=truth . . . is that in the Original Language 'acquisition' is a word which also means cattle in general, by which specifically are signified truths, when goods are signified by 'flocks' . . .

5201². 'Cattle' (Is.xxx.23)=those who are in good and truth.

6016. 'They took their cattle' (Gen.xlvi.6)=the goods of truth. 'Cattle'=the good of truth; for by 'cattle' are meant both flocks and herds, and also horses, camels, mules, asses; and as, in the inward sense, 'flocks'=interior goods, and 'herds,' exterior goods, but 'horses,' 'camels,' 'mules,' and 'asses,' those things which belong to the Intellectual, which all relate to truths, 'cattle'=the good of truth. 6049.

6045. 'For they are men of cattle' (ver.32)=that they have good from truths. 'Cattle'=the good of truth, or good from truths.

6049. 'Ye shall say, Thy servants have been men of cattle from our childhood and even now' (ver.34)=that they have had truths from which comes good from the beginning, and still have them. 'Men of cattle'=truths from which comes good. Ex. and III.

— See ACQUISITION at this ref.

—². See CATTLE—pecudes, at this ref.

6087. 'Thou shalt set them princes of the cattle upon which is to me' (Gen.xlvii.6)=that they are the primary things of scientifics. . . 'Cattle'=the truths from which comes good; here, the scientifics in which these truths are, because it is said 'over that cattle which is to me,' namely, to Pharaoh, by whom is not represented the truths in which there is good, but the scientifics in which are those truths.

6121. 'Give your cattle, and I will give you for your cattle' (ver.16)=that they should offer goods of truth, and they would be supported. 'Cattle'=the goods of truth. 6123. 6128.

6126. 'For the cattle of the flock, and for the cattle of the herd' (ver.17)=the interior and exterior goods of truth. . . 'Cattle'=the good of truth. 6134.

7502. 'Behold, the hand of Jehovah shall be upon thy cattle which is in the field' (Ex.ix.3)=the vastation of the truth and good of faith which they had from the Church in which they had been. . . 'Cattle'=the truths and goods of faith.

7506. 'Jehovah shall distinguish between the cattle of Israel, and between the cattle of the Egyptians' (ver.4)=the difference between the truths and goods of faith of those who are of the spiritual Church, and the truths and goods of faith of those who are infesting. . . 'Cattle'=the truths and goods of faith.

7556. 'And now send and gather thy cattle' (ver.19)=that the truth of good is to be gathered. . . 'Cattle'=the good of truth, and also the truth of good. Refs.

7728. 'Our cattle also shall go with us' (Gen.x.26)=that from the good of truth there shall be worship. 'Cattle'=the good of truth.

8571. 'To cause me to die, and my sons, and cattle, of thirst' (Ex.xvii.3)=that from deficiency of truth everything of spiritual life will expire. . . 'Sons'=interior truths of faith; 'cattle,' exterior truths from which comes good.

10042¹⁰. 'Cattle' (Ezek.xxvii.21)=goods of love;

'rams,' goods of charity; 'he-goats,' goods of faith. In the Word, there are mentioned 'flocks,' 'cattle,' and 'cattle-pecudes,' which in the Original Language are distinguished by their own names; and by 'flocks' are signified internal things in general; by 'cattle-pecudes,' the same in special; and by 'cattle,' inmost things in special; but by 'herds,' external things. Ill.

[A.] 10660. Cattle=the goods and truths with man, for cattle of every kind correspond to affections such as belong to man.

E. 282⁵. 'The flocks of Arabia' (Is.lx.7)=the Knowledges of truth and of good. (=external goods. 391⁹).

417⁷. 'Cattle' (Jer.xlix.32)=the Knowledges of good and truth.

503⁴. 'Beasts and cattle' (Ps.lxxviii.48)=evil affections, or cupidities originating from evil love.

644¹². 'Cattle' (Is.xxx.23)=goods and truths with man.

Cattle. Pecus, pecudis.

A. 2805. 'Where is the cattle for a burnt-offering?' (Gen.xxii.7)=where are those of the human race who are to be sanctified?

2807. 'Abraham said, God shall see for Himself a cattle for a burnt-offering, my son' (ver.8)=an answer that the Divine Human will provide those who are to be sanctified.

— Cattle for the burnt-offering and sacrifice signified various things. (The cattle enum.)

3786. 'It is not time for the cattle to be gathered together' (Gen.xxix.7)=that the goods and truths of Churches and of doctrinal things are not yet made into one. . . 'Cattle'=the goods and truths of Churches and of doctrinal things in general, because the animals in the rituals of the representative Church, and in the Word=affections of good or of truth.

3993. 'Removing thence all the speckled and spotted cattle' (Gen.xxx.32)=that everything good and true shall be separated with which evil . . . and falsity are mixed. 3994.

3995². By 'cattle' are here signified lambs, sheep, she-goats, rams, he-goats.

4487. 'Acquisition,' when it is also cattle=the good of truth, for this is signified by 'cattle'; the good of truth being truth in will and act.

6049². 'Cattle'=interior goods, for these are of the flock; as lambs, sheep, kids, goats, rams.

7831. The paschal cattle=the good of innocence which is inmost.

7832. 'They shall take to them everyone a cattle' (Ex.xii.3)=as to innocence, as is evident from the signification of a lamb or she-goat, which here are 'cattle' . . .

7833. 'To the house of the fathers, a cattle for a house' (Id.)=according to the special good of each.

7834. 'If the house be too little for a cattle' (ver.4)=if the particular good be not sufficient for innocence. . . 'A cattle'=innocence.

7837. 'A whole cattle' (ver.5)=innocence unspotted. 'Cattle'=innocence.

7838. The reason the paschal cattle was to be a male, was that that cattle signified the innocence of those who are of the spiritual Church . . .

8078². 'Cattle' (Ex.xiii.13)=the truth of innocence; because by 'cattle' is meant a lamb or kid; and by these is signified innocence, because it is called 'cattle.'

9099. 'When a man shall steal an ox or a cattle' (Ex.xxii.1)=him who takes away from anyone his exterior or interior good. . . 'Cattle'=interior good; for the animals of the flock=those things which are of interior good.

9103. 'Four cattle for a cattle' (Id.)=a corresponding penalty to the full. . . 'Cattle'=interior good.

9135. 'Even to cattle' (ver.4)=if from interior truth and good. 'Cattle'=spiritual truth and good, thus interior truth and good. In the Word, 'flocks' are sometimes mentioned, and sometimes 'cattle'; and in the inward sense by 'flocks' are signified interior goods and thence truths, but by 'cattle' are signified interior truths and thence goods. Ex. . . The goods and truths with a man in the latter state of regeneration are signified by 'flocks,' but the truths and goods with him in the former state are signified by 'cattle.' 9157.

10042¹⁰. See CATTLE-pecora, at this ref.

P. 168⁸. They are called rational cattle . . .

D. 1453⁶. They had been shepherds of cattle.

E. 617²⁶. 'To kill an ox and slaughter a cattle' (Is.xxii.13)=to extinguish natural good and spiritual good.

650³⁸. 'The flocks of cattle are desolated' (Joel.i.18)=a want of the spiritual truth and good which are of faith and charity.

Caul. Reticulum.

A. 10031. 'The caul upon the liver' (Ex.xxix.13)=the interior good of the external or natural man. . . The reason 'the caul'=that good, is that it is all fat, and by fat is signified good. The reason it=interior good, is that that fat is in a higher or more interior position in the body than the fat which covers the intestines.

10073. 'The caul of the liver' (ver.22)=the interior good of the natural man purified . . .

Cause. Causa.

Caused. Causatus.

See under END.

A. 1568. An effect is not of the effect, but of the efficient cause. Examp.

1769⁶. In my thoughts and affections he could perceive . . . the causes, etc.

1807³. All effects are representative of the uses which are the causes . . .

1895⁶. In themselves, scientifics and Knowledges are nothing but dead things, or instrumental causes . . .

2329. For the sake of honours, etc. 2354². 2400⁶, etc.

2992⁶. The Angels know all things in the body and in creation from spiritual things, without fallacy, because thence are causes, and the beginnings of causes.

2993. The causes of all natural things are from spiritual things, and the beginnings of causes from celestial things ; or what is the same thing, all things in the natural world derive their cause from truth which is spiritual, and their beginning from good which is celestial.

3483. How gross . . . is the human intelligence which attributes each thing to nature separated or devoid of influx from what is prior, or from an efficient cause.

3533°. The Natural sees from the effect, but the Rational from the cause.

3562. Unless what is lower exists from interior things, as an effect from its own efficient cause, it does not exist.

3908. This was indeed on account of causes in the world ; but as every cause exists from a cause prior to itself, thus every cause in the natural world from a cause in the spiritual world ; so also these . . .

4073°. Hence the Angels are in causes themselves, for the Societies see and perceive them ; but man is in effects, and does not see those causes, being able to perceive them merely through some changes of state . . .

4318. See BEGINNING-principium, at this ref.

4321. If all things were denied of which the causes are not known, innumerable things which exist in nature would be denied, the causes of such things being known scarcely as to the ten thousandth part . . .

5116°. They do not consider that the effect is the continuation of the cause, and that when the cause ceases the effect ceases, and thus that every effect perishes without a continuous influx of the cause.

5326°. With a man who is being regenerated, the Spiritual . . . constitutes the Natural just as the cause constitutes the effect, for in every effect there is nothing which acts but the cause . . . In the effect there are more things than in the cause, but they are such as merely make it possible for the cause to act out the effect itself in the effect, and actually to produce itself in that degree.

5373°. All prior things tend to ultimates . . . and exist together therein, as causes in their effects, or as higher things in lower ones, as in their vessels.

5573°. They would have attributed it to natural causes . . .

5651°. It is called the Spiritual Natural from this, that the Spiritual is what acts through it, and manifests itself through it, as the cause does through the effect. It is known that the cause is the all of the effect . . .

5711. Whatever in universal nature has not correspondence with the Spiritual World does not exist ; it has no cause from which it may exist, consequently from which it may subsist. The things in nature are nothing but effects ; their causes are in the Spiritual world ; and the causes of these causes, which are ends, are in the interior Heaven. Nor can an effect subsist unless there be a cause constantly in it, for when the cause ceases the effect does so. Regarded in itself, the effect is nothing but the cause so outwardly clothed as may serve in a lower sphere to enable the cause to act as a cause there. (Continued under END at this ref.)

6048°. The reason is that the natural world is from the Spiritual World as an effect from its cause, to the end that the Spiritual may inflow into the natural world and there act out causes . . .

6077. All things in the Spiritual World, and thence all things in the natural, seek something ulterior in which to be, and act out the cause in the effect . . .

6125. The Intellectual with man . . . consists also in the view of causes from effects, and of consequences in connexion with causes.

6262°. The agent is the cause, and the reagent is the thing caused ; therefore the reacting is also of the agent, as the thing caused is of the cause, for all the force in the thing caused is from the cause.

6325°. It is known . . . that the principal cause and the instrumental one act together as one cause ; man, being a form recipient of the Lord's life, is an instrumental cause, but the life from the Lord is the principal cause . . . W.4². I.11. T.473. Ad.645.

6389. For the sake of reward . . . 6393°. etc.

8211°. Whatever exists in the natural world derives its origin and cause from the things which exist in the Spiritual World . . .

8620°. All acts proceed from final causes which lie deeply concealed within ; according to these causes man is judged ; no one knows them but the Lord . . .

8717. Exterior things are all formed to serve interior ones, as instrumental causes their own principal causes, and the former without the latter are dead causes.

8812°. Natural things exist from spiritual ones as effects from their own causes ; hence there is a correspondence of all things in the world with those in Heaven . . .

9473°. Each and everything that exist are as cause and effect ; no effect can exist without an efficient cause ; the efficient cause is the internal of the effect, and the effect is the external of it . . .

H. 38°. Discrete degrees are discriminated as prior and posterior, as cause and effect . . . W.184².

547. It is thus that man is the cause of his own evil . . .

W. 107°. Effects may indeed be seen, but unless the causes of the effects are seen at the same time, the effects can only appear as it were in night.

119. To treat of these subjects otherwise than from their very origin, would be to treat them from effects, and not from causes ; and yet effects teach nothing but effects, and when they alone are examined, they do not bring forth any cause ; but causes bring effects to light ; and to know effects from causes is to be wise, but to seek out causes from effects is not to be wise, because then fallacies present themselves which the inquirer calls causes, and so wisdom is turned into foolishness. For causes are prior things and effects posterior ones, and prior things cannot be seen from posterior ones, but posterior ones can from prior. This is the order. This is the reason why the Spiritual World is here treated of first, for all causes are there ; and afterwards the natural world, where all things which appear are effects.

[W.] 134°. All things which exist in the natural world are effects, and all things which exist in the Spiritual World are the causes of those effects; there does not exist a natural thing which does not derive its cause from a spiritual one.

184. The knowledge of degrees is like a key to open the causes of things, and to enter into them; without this knowledge scarcely anything of a cause can be known...

185°. From this it is evident that those who are ignorant of (discrete) degrees, cannot from any judgment see causes; they see only effects and judge of causes from them, which for the most part is done from an induction continuous with effects; when yet causes do not produce effects by continuity, but by discreteness; for the cause is one thing and the effect is another, the difference between them being like that between what is prior, and what is posterior, or as between the thing forming and the thing formed. 187°. 188. 189.

256°. These things can be better comprehended from effects; for, provided the causes be first to some extent known, effects place causes in themselves in the light...

375. The causes of things can indeed be seen rationally, but not clearly, except by means of effects; for the causes are in the effects, and make themselves visible through them; nor before this is done does the mind confirm itself concerning causes.

P. 12. There is a marriage of good and truth in the cause, and there is a marriage of good and truth from the cause in the effect. Ex.

212. Nothing can exist without a cause...

217°. The latter regard the honours and gains of the thing as the principal causes, and the honours and gains of their own person as the instrumental causes; but the evil regard the honours and gains of the person as the principal causes, and the honours and gains of the thing as the instrumental causes...

246°. This was the cause, and whatever takes place from any cause takes place from the Divine Providence according to some law thereof.

292. That the Lord is not the cause of man's thinking evil and falsity... T.366°.

R. 510°. The reason man is not regenerated before, is that before this his internal is not in an effect, but only in a cause, and a cause is dissipated unless it is in an effect...

M. 75°. The speech (of the Heaven of the Golden Age) is the speech of wisdom, because they speak from causes.

234. On the causes of colds, separations, and divorces in marriages. Gen.art.

237. On the causes of colds. 238. 240. 241. 242. 243. 244. 246. 247. 248. 249. 250. 256. 257. 258. 259.

251. On the causes of separation. 252. 253. 254.

255. Adultery is the cause of divorce. Gen.art.

271. On the causes of apparent love, friendship, and favour in marriages. Gen.art.

461°. They who investigate causes are called Spirits of intelligence, abstractedly, Intelligences...

468. On the causes of concubinage. 470. 471. 472. 474. 475.

T. 37°. They make the things caused the causes...

374. The internal and external man are related together as cause and effect, for the causes of all things are formed in the internal man, and all effects take place thence in the external...

442. If a man's faith be that all the good which he does as of himself is from the Lord, the man is then the instrumental cause of it, and the Lord the principal cause, which two causes appear before the man to be one, when yet the principal cause is the all in all things of the instrumental cause.

489. Without free-will in spiritual things, God would be the cause of evil... Gen.art.

679. He who investigates effects even to causes...

685. The three uses of baptism cohere together as a one, in the same way as the first cause, the mediate cause which is the efficient one, and the ultimate cause which is the effect, and is the end itself for the sake of which the others exist.

Causticity. See BURNING.

Caution. Cautela.

Cautioned. Cautus.

A. 8836. Cautioned by the Divine, Sig.

B. 58. The dogmas of the present Church cannot be preached without great caution...

Cavalry. Under RIDE.

Cave. Antrum.

H. 429. The caves which lead down to the Hells...

481°. They hide themselves in caves and caverns...

R. 484. The entrance was through a cave; I went down and entered...

T. 487°. They could not bear to have this passage explained; but some of them rushed away into a cave...

Cave. Spelunca.

See HOLLOW-cavus.

A. 2313. The fifth state; that impure good or the good of falsity succeeds, which is Lot in the cave of the mountain.

2463. 'And he dwelt in a cave' (Gen.xix.30)=the good of falsity... A cave is a kind of dwelling in a mountain, but dark, and since every kind of dwelling, like a house, signifies goods, but such goods as they are themselves; here therefore a cave, being a dark dwelling, signifies such good.

—. Elijah when fleeing from Jezebel, 'came to a cave in Mount Horeb in which he spent the night'... Here by a 'cave' in the inward sense is signified obscure good, but such as there is in temptations.

2935. 'Let him give me the cave of Machpelah' (Gen. xxiii.9)=what is obscure of faith. A 'cave'=what is obscure... The reason why a cave signifies what is obscure is because it is a dark place. When it is said the 'cave of a mountain' it is then what is obscure of good, but when it is said the 'cave of the field of Machpelah,' it is then what is obscure of truth. 2946. 2980. 6548.

2970. By 'Machpelah,' when 'cave' is joined to it, or when it is said 'the cave of Machpelah,' is signified faith that is in obscurity; but by 'Machpelah,' when it is mentioned without 'cave,' and it follows that there was a 'field and a cave,' is understood regeneration; for by a 'field and a cave' is signified the good and truth of faith, through which regeneration is effected. 2971.

6453. 'The cave' (Gen.xlix.30) = what is obscure. 6455. 6461.

6551^e. 'The cave of the field of Machpelah' = the beginning of regeneration.

10582^s. Such are all merely sensual men. . . In the other life they do not dwell upon rocks, but in either caves or fissures.

—7. 'To dwell in the holes of the rocks' = in falsities of faith. This treats of those who exalt themselves above others, believing that they are more learned than anyone else, when yet they are in falsities, and are not even able to see truths. In the other life these dwell in holes of the rocks, and do sometimes project themselves forth upon the rocks, but still are cast down thence into their holes and into caves that are under the rocks.

H. 586. Some of the Hells appeared to the view like dens and caves, such as wild beasts inhabit in forests.

E. 581^s. 'The hole of the viper and the den of the basilisk' (Is.xi.8) = the Hells in which are deceitful and cunning Spirits.

655^s. 'The cave of Makkedah' (Jos.x.16) = direful falsity from evil.

Cavern. Caverna.

A. 814^e. Where there are many very dark caverns tending downwards. . .

1270^e. They were afterwards cast down through dark-some caverns beneath the misty rock into their Hell.

4936. These magicians are in front a long way to the right, in caverns deep down.

5394. A horrible stink exhales from the caverns there, and you could hardly move a foot without falling into some cavern. A cadaverous stench also exhaled from the caverns. . .

8593. The evil Genii have their Hell behind man. . . and are there in various caverns.

8816^e. They who are in evil are in terror at the presence of the Divine, and therefore flee away; and then are enveloped in their falsities, as with a dusky cloud, and are hidden. These things are signified by the caverns of the rocks into which they then betake themselves.

H. 491^s. There are some who are thrown into caverns immediately after death, and thus are separated from those who are in the World of Spirits, and are by turns taken out and sent back again. These are they who have acted maliciously with the neighbour under pretence of civility.

585. Some of the gates of Hell are like cavities and caverns.

586. Some of the Hells appeared to the view like caverns and cavities in crags tending inwards, and then into the deep, either sloping or perpendicularly.

W. 254^e. There is no other light in their caverns than light as from live or burning coals.

R. 153¹⁰. Their eyes are then opened, and they see a way tending to a certain cavern. As soon as they come to it the door is opened, and they enter, and ask if there is food there, and when it is answered that there is food there, they ask to be allowed to remain there, and it is said that they may, and they are led in and the door is shut behind them. And then the overseer of that cavern comes and says to them, You cannot go out any more; you see your companions; they all labour, and as they labour so is food given them from Heaven. . . If any one does evil to another he is cast into a corner of the cavern, in which there is a bed of damned dust, where he is miserably tortured, until the overseer sees signs of penitence in him, and then he is taken out and ordered to his work, and he is told that after work everyone is allowed to walk about, converse, and afterwards to sleep; and he is led further into the cavern, where there are harlots, one of whom each is allowed to take for his woman, but is forbidden promiscuous whoredom under a penalty. Of such caverns, which are nothing but eternal workhouses, consists the universal Hell. I have been permitted to enter some of them, and to see them, in order that I might make them known. All there were seen as vile, and not one of them knew whom and what he had been in the world. . . Such is the lot of those who have put far away the life of charity. . . T.281¹⁰.

—12. As concerns the Hells in general, they consist merely of such caverns and workhouses. . . 281¹².

531⁴. Depart hence, everyone into his place; you will see openings into caverns; enter in there, and there will be given to each of you work to do, and then food according to the measure of the work. If you will not, hunger will drive you to enter. B.114⁴. T.567⁴.

M. 212. At the first scent of marriage love, they flee away into caverns and shut the doors. . .

231⁵. The ground suddenly yawned, and the tables fell upon one another, and they were swallowed up together with the whole amphitheatre, and were cast into caverns, and incarcerated.

425². When they who have been adulterers from confirmation perceive the sphere of marriage love flowing down from Heaven, they at once either flee away into caverns and hide themselves, or if they set themselves against it. . . become like furies.

512². They are then transferred into a cavern where they are forced to work; but as they stink, on account of having dissipated the marriage principle. . . they are sent away to the ends of the western quarter. . .

522. The satyrs dragged them into a cavern that was in the middle of the wood deep underground, and above upon the earth round about the cavern there lay a great serpent wound into a coil, breathing poison into the cavern . . . Afterwards they came out of the cavern . . .

T. 69^o. Like one who stays in a cavern beneath that tower . . .

224³. As soon as devils and satans scent Divine Truth, they at once precipitate themselves into the deep, and cast themselves into caverns, and stop them completely up so that not a chink is open . . .

380³. No satan can bear to hear any truth from the Word, nor to hear Jesus named; if they do hear it they become like furies . . . and then if any light flows in from Heaven, they cast themselves headlong into caverns, and into their thick darkness, in which they have a light like owls in the dark.

470^e. On account of this horrid faith, that thus they are gods, they lie deep down hidden in a cavern which no one can go near . . .

569^o. A certain devil . . . on the approach of Angels was seized with convulsions . . . but on being carried into a cavern was revived by the stinking odour of his delight.

D. 4453. Sirens seen in the caverns of Hell . . .

4596. The caverns leading to Hell . . . 5864.

5984. A cavern where are those who are being vated . . .

E. 388¹⁹. 'Caverns' (Ezek.xxxiii.27) = confirmations from scientific things.

410³. The correspondence of caverns, etc. Ex. and III.

De Conj. 14. The caverns where harlots dwell. Des.

Cease. Cessare.

Cessation. Cessatio.

A. 857^e. The cessations of cupidities and falsities . . .

930^e. 'Shall not cease' (Gen.viii.22)=in all time.

931. There first ceases to be an inhabitant on the Earth when there is no longer any Church . . .

5116³. See CAUSE at these refs. 5711.

5173³. Action . . . would cease in a moment, for . . . when endeavour ceases, motion ceases.

6587. A prediction that the internal of the Church would cease, Sig. . . 'To die'=to cease-desinere-to be such, thus to cease.

—^e. When the good of charity ceases, the Church ceases.

7048. 'She ceased from him' (Ex.iv.26)=permission to represent.

7909. 'Ye make them cease from their burdens' (Ex.v.5)=that they have not infested enough.

7597. 'To cease' (Ex.ix.29)=the end of that state.

8168. 'Cease from us that we may serve the Egyptians' (Ex.xiv.12)=that they would not be withheld from giving themselves up.

8968. Temptations cease . . .

9030. 'Cessation' (Ex.xxi.19)=indemnification.

9258. 'To cease from removing' (Ex.xxiii.5)=not to instruct and amend.

9279. 'On the seventh day thou shalt cease' (ver.12) =the state of good when in internals, and the quiet of peace then. . . 'To cease,' or rest from works=the quiet of peace then.

9812^e. When will ceases, action ceases.

H. 447. The total cessation of the heart . . .

P. 3^o. If you take away will from act, work ceases; or if you take away thought from speech, speech ceases; or if you take away endeavour from motion, motion ceases.

E. 304⁶⁰. 'The evil wild beasts shall cease' (Lev.xxvi.6)=that there would be no evil affections and concupiscences . . . 388⁷. 650⁹¹. 701¹⁸.

323⁸. Vastation as to Knowledges of good is described by, 'I will make the noise of thy songs to cease' (Ezek.xxvi.13). 326⁷.

412²². 'Make the Holy One of Israel to cease from our faces' (Is.xxx.11)=the Lord, from thought and affection . . .

475¹³. 'To wash'=to remove falsities and evils, therefore it is said . . . 'Cease to do evil' (Is.i.16).

540⁴. Occurs. 684³⁴. 706²³. 768¹⁷. 866⁴.

652⁶. Desolation is described by 'the ways ceased . . . the broad places in Israel ceased' (Judg.v.6,7).

Cease. Desinere.

A. 726^e. Being cannot be predicated of those things which cease to be, but of those which never cease to be.

840. When temptation ceases . . .

1356. At last they cease in mere externals . . .

1648. They cease in unities . . .

1692^e. The sea would never cease . . .

4283. That temptation ceased, Sig.

4284. That temptation would not cease, Sig.

6587. See CEASE-cessare, at this ref.

W. 26. Angelic speech thus . . . closes in one . . .

259^e. See BOUNDARY at this ref.

260. Not only would the action cease . . .

303. See ATMOSPHERE at this ref.

304. Proceed to ultimates . . . in order that they may cease and subsist.

318. The propagation (of seeds) never ceases.

344. The bird . . . would vanish or cease, together with its affection.

P. 178. Love with reason ceases in effect.

T. 351². The human mind . . . is a spiritual organism ceasing in a natural one.

760. This last time of the Christian Church is the very night in which former Churches have ceased.

762. Every year . . . ceases in winter . . . The sun . . . ceases in the north.

Cedar. Cedrus.

See LEBANON.

A. 119. The Rational is called 'a cedar in Lebanon' (Ezek.xxxi).

776³. 'Tree of fruit' (Ps.cxlvi.9)=the celestial man ; 'cedar'=the spiritual man.

886². 'Lebanon' (Hos.xiv.6) stands for cedars, which =spiritual things, or the truths of faith.

1188^o. 'The cedar shall be made bare' (Zeph.ii.14)=intellectual truth.

1306. Self-love is described by 'cedars,' etc. (Is.ii.13), which are lofty.

1443. The rational things (of the celestial man) are compared to a forest of cedars and similar trees, such as were on Lebanon.

2162¹¹. The Church, whose celestial spiritual things are 'the glory of Lebanon,' or cedars (Is.lx.13).

2588¹⁵. 'The Assyrian' and 'a cedar' (Ezek.xxxi)=the Rational. 2831⁶.

3391³. 'To cut him out windows and planked with cedar and painted with vermilion' (Jer.xxxii.14)=to falsify intellectual and spiritual truths.

4014^o. 'Cedars' (Ezek.xxxi)=rational things.

6306⁴. The evil of self-love is described by 'the height of the cedars, and the strength of the oaks' (Amos ii.9).

7918³. 'Wood of cedar' (Num.xix.6)=internal spiritual truth ; 'hyssop,' external ; thus by 'cedar' is signified an interior means of purification ; by 'hyssop,' an exterior one.

8369². 'Palm' (Ps.xcii.12)=good ; 'cedar,' truth.

9277⁴. 'The cedars of Lebanon which (the bramble) would consume' (Judg.ix.15)=the truths of good.

9406². 'The glory of Lebanon,' or the cedar (Is.lx)=spiritual good and truth.

9472. 'Shittim wood' was the wood of the most excellent cedar ; and by 'a cedar' is signified the Spiritual of the Church. (See SHITTIM WOOD at this ref.)

9489². 'The Assyrian' (Ezek.xxxi.5)=an enlightened Rational ; 'a cedar in Lebanon'=the spiritual Church ; 'the height of it'=the degree of good.

10199⁵. 'Lebanon' (Ezek.xvii.3)=the spiritual Church ; 'a cedar' here=the truth of the spiritual Church.

10261⁵. 'The cedar' and 'the wood of oil' are mentioned (Is.xli.19), because 'the cedar'=spiritual good, and 'the wood of oil,' celestial good ; spiritual good is charity towards the neighbour . . .

S. 18³. By the olive, vine, cedar, poplar, and oak are meant the good and truth of the Church, celestial, spiritual, rational, natural, and sensual.

—⁵. By 'the cedars and Lebanon, which He will break' (Ps.xxix.5) are meant the falsities of the rational man.

23². With the ancients . . . the cedar=rational good and truth.

R. 242. 'The cedars of Lebanon' (Ps.xxix)=the Knowledges of truth ; hence it is said that 'the voice of Jehovah will make them skip like a calf.'

875⁵. (A temple seen with a floor of cedar.)

—¹⁵. I saw a cedar-cedrinam-table on which was (the Divine Love and Wisdom).

M. 75³. Occurs. 103³. 155a².

E. 175¹⁴. The Assyrian is here called 'a cedar in Lebanon' (Ezek.xxxi), because 'a cedar' has the same signification as 'the Assyrian,' specifically, the truth from good therein ; and 'Lebanon'=the mind where it is, because on Lebanon there were cedars.

283¹². 'A magnificent cedar' (Ezek.xvii.22)=the spiritual Church.

294². 'The cedar of Shittah' (Is.xli.19)=genuine truth.

372⁴. 'A cedar' (Ezek.xxxi.15)=the truth of the spiritual Church.

375³³. Those things of the Church which are in the spiritual or internal man are signified by 'the cedar of Shittah,' etc. (Is.xli).

—²⁸. The growth of the Rational through scientific truths and Knowledges, is described by 'a cedar in Lebanon' (Ezek.xxxi.3-9), by which also the Rational is signified.

388¹². 'The Assyrian' (Ezek.xxxi)=the Rational ; and 'a cedar,' the Intellectual.

405¹⁵. 'The cedars of God' (Ps.lxxx.10)=spiritual truths.

—²⁹. 'Lebanon' (Is.xxxvii.24)=the spiritual Church ; and 'the cedars'=its internal truths which are from good . . .

410³. By 'the cedars of Lebanon, and the oaks of Bashan' (Is.ii.13) is signified conceit from man's Own intelligence ; interior conceit, by 'the cedars of Lebanon,' and exterior, by 'the oaks of Bashan.'

458⁶. 'Palm' (Ps. xcii)=spiritual good ; 'cedar,' the truth of that good ; and 'Lebanon' the spiritual Church.

514³. 'Cedars,' in the Word, are predicated of the rational man ; and 'oaks,' of the natural.

518¹³. 'Lign aloes' (Num.xxiv.6)=those things which are of the natural man ; 'cedars,' those things which are of the rational man.

638²³. 'The cedars of Lebanon' (Judg.ix)=the rational things which are from truths.

650³⁷. 'The cedar which He has made bare'=the Rational destroyed.

654¹³. 'A cedar' (Ezek.xxxi)=the Rational of the man of the Church which is from a spiritual origin.

730³⁴. 'The cedar' (of Shittah)=higher rational truth ; 'the myrtle,' lower rational truth.

1029¹³. 'Oaks, and cedars of Lebanon' (Is.xiv.8)=Knowledges of good and truth in the external sense, and in the internal.

1100⁵. 'A cedar' here (Ezek.xvii), as elsewhere in the Word=the spiritual rational Church, such as the Church with the ancients after the flood.

1144². Wood from . . . the cedar=rational good.

Cedercreutz. D.4825.

Cederholm. D.4705. D. Min. 4676.

Cederstedt. D.4701. 4826. 5967. 6032².

Ceiling. Laquear. T.353².

Celebrate. Celebrare.

Celebration. Celebratio.

Celebrated. Celeber.

A. 3893. Angelic choirs which were celebrating the Lord . . . The celebration was sometimes heard as sweet singing . . .

4948^e. There do many pass their time who had been among the more celebrated in the world.

6354. 'Thy brethren shall celebrate thee' (Gen. xlix. 8) = that the (celestial) Church is pre-eminent above the rest. 'To be celebrated' = to be pre-eminent.

8115. The celebration of the Lord in the Heavens takes place for the most part by choirs.

8261². The glorification of the Lord, that is, the celebration of Him from joy of heart. Sig.

8339. Celebration from joy and gladness, Sig.

10412. This is the very essential of the Church which is to be celebrated, Sig. . . 'A feast' = the worship of the Church as to celebration, for the celebration took place on the days of the feast.

H. 108². They celebrate marriages, and lay eggs . . .

354. It has been granted to speak . . . with some who have been celebrated in the literary world . . .

383^e. (At marriages in Heaven) they also celebrate a feast . . .

404. They had believed that heavenly joy consists in merely praising and celebrating God.

R. 811. 'A voice' = the joy of the worship, confession, and celebration of the Lord.

M. 81. The glorifications and celebrations of the Lord (in Heaven) take place from the Word . . .

Celebrated. Famigeratus. A. 1114. H. 354.

Celestial. Coelestis.

See BETHEL, LOVE, MOST ANCIENT CHURCH, and NAZARITE.

A. 12. Until love reigns, and the man becomes celestial.

24^e. It is a heavenly arcanum . . .

27. Whatever is insinuated into the memory of the external man, whether it be natural, spiritual, or celestial, remains there as a scientific . . .

29. When man is thus prepared to receive heavenly seeds . . .

41. Whatever is from the Lord has life, there is in it what is spiritual and celestial . . .

47. Man brings forth as if from himself, until he becomes celestial . . .

51. The celestial man is 'a likeness,' or effigy . . . The celestial man is treated of in Gen. ii. . . The celestial man, who is 'a likeness,' is called 'a son of God' (John i. 12).

52. When a man becomes celestial, and acts from good of love, the dominion proceeds from the internal man to the external; as the Lord describes Himself, and so at the same time the celestial man, in Ps. viii. 6-8. Here 'beasts' are mentioned first . . . because the celestial man proceeds from love, which is of the will . . .

53. Love, which is of the will . . . in the spiritual man follows, but in the celestial man precedes.

56. The celestial man is delighted solely with celestial things, which, as they agree with his life, are called celestial meats . . .

57. 'Fruit' (Gen. i. 29) is what the Lord gives to the celestial man . . . That celestial food is called 'fruit from a tree,' is evident from the following chapter, where the celestial man is treated of. Ill.

60. It is now said 'very good' (ver. 31) . . . because now those things which are of faith make one with those which are of love; thus is a marriage made between spiritual and celestial things.

61. All things are called spiritual which belong to the Knowledge of faith, and all things which belong to love to the Lord and towards the neighbour are called celestial things; the former appertain to the understanding, the latter to the will.

73. As from being dead, man has become spiritual, so from being spiritual he becomes celestial, which is now treated of.

74. The celestial man is 'the seventh day, in which the Lord rests.'

79. The celestial man is such a 'garden' . . .

80. He is allowed to know what is good and true by every perception from the Lord, but not from himself and the world, or to inquire into the mysteries of faith by means of sensuous and scientific things, by doing which his Celestial dies.

81. A spiritual man acknowledges spiritual and celestial truth and good, but he does so from faith, from which he also acts, but not so much from love. A celestial man believes and perceives spiritual and celestial truth and good, and does not acknowledge any other faith, than that which is from love, from which he also acts . . . The ends of a spiritual man have regard to eternal life and thus to the Lord; the ends of a celestial man have regard to the Lord, and thus to His Kingdom, and eternal life. . . A spiritual man is in combat, but always overcomes; the bonds by which he is actuated are internal, and are called the bonds of conscience. A celestial man is not in combat, and if evils and falsities attack him he despises them, wherefore he is called a conqueror; he has no bonds which appear by which he is actuated, but is free; his bonds which do not appear are perceptions of good and truth. 337.

83. When the man has been made the sixth day, faith and love make one; and when they make one, not faith, but love, begins to be the principal, that is, not what is spiritual, but what is celestial; which is to be a celestial man.

84. The celestial man is 'the seventh day' (Gen. ii. 2). 85, Ex. 1988.

85². So is every regenerate man 'the sabbath' when he becomes celestial, because he is 'a likeness' of the Lord: the six days of combat, or of labour, precede.

—³. The rest of the celestial man is described by 'the sabbath' in Is. lviii. 13, 14 . . . The celestial man is of such a character that he does not act from his own desire, but from the good pleasure of the Lord, which is his desire . . .

86. When a spiritual man who has been made the sixth day begins to become celestial, it is the eve of the sabbath, which was represented in the Jewish Church by the sanctification of the sabbath from the evening. The celestial man is the morning.

87. The reason the celestial man is the sabbath, or rest, is also because combat ceases when he becomes celestial. Evil Spirits depart, and good ones approach, also celestial Angels . . .

88. When a spiritual man becomes celestial, he is called 'the work of God' . . .

89. 'The nativities of the heavens and of the earth' (ver.4)=the formations of the celestial man . . .

—e. In the spiritual man, reformation begins from the earth or external man; but here, where the celestial man is treated of, it begins from the internal man, or from Heaven.

91. While the man is spiritual, the external man does not will to obey and serve the internal, wherefore there is combat; but when he becomes celestial, the external man begins to obey and serve the internal, wherefore combat ceases, and quiet ensues. Sig. 95.

93. The state of the celestial man endowed with the calm of peace, refreshed by the rain, and delivered from servitude to evil and falsity, is described in Ezek.xxxiv. 25, 26, 27, 31.

98. 'The garden in Eden on the east' (ver. 8)=the intelligence of the celestial man which flows in through love from the Lord.

99. The life, or order of life, of the celestial man, is that the Lord flows in through love and the faith of love into his intellectual, rational, and scientific things, and as there is no combat, he perceives that it is so; thus order, which is still inverted with the spiritual man, is restored with the celestial: this order, or man, is called 'the garden in Eden on the east.' 'The garden planted by Jehovah God in Eden on the east' . . . =the Lord's Kingdom, and Heaven, in which the man is placed when he is made celestial; his state then is that he is in Heaven with the Angels, and is as it were one among them . . .

100. With (the prophet Isaiah) there constantly occur two expressions for the same thing, of which one =celestial things, the other spiritual.

110. Such is the celestial man. Sig.

117². In David, where the Lord is treated of, thus the celestial man (lxxii.7,10).

121. The nature of celestial order . . . may be evident from these 'rivers'; namely, from the Lord, Who is 'the east,' (proceeds) wisdom, through wisdom intelligence, through intelligence reason, thus through reason the scientifics are vivified which belong to the memory; this is the order of life; such are celestial men; wherefore, as the elders of Israel represented celestial men, they are called 'wise, intelligent, and knowing' (Deut. i.13,15).

123. The celestial man acknowledges, because he perceives, that each and everything are from the Lord . . .

139. In ancient times, those were said to dwell 'alone' who were led by the Lord as celestial men; because evils, or evil Spirits, no longer infested them. This was represented in the Jewish Church by their dwelling alone after the nations had been driven out. III.

— This posterity of the Most Ancient Church did not want to dwell alone, that is, to be a celestial man, or to be led by the Lord as a celestial man . . .

141. The celestial man acknowledges that the Lord is the life of all, that He gives to think and to act; for he perceives that it is so; nor does he ever desire a proprium, yet although he does not desire a proprium still a proprium is given him by the Lord which is conjoined with all perception of what is good and true, and with all happiness . . . This proprium is the veriest Celestial itself . . .

159. The state of the celestial man is such that the internal man is distinct from the external, and in fact so that he perceives what things are of the internal and what of the external, and how the external is ruled through the internal by the Lord.

162. All the laws of truth and right flow from celestial beginnings, or from the order of life of the celestial man, for the whole Heaven is a celestial man, from the fact that the Lord alone is a celestial man, and is the all in each and all things of Heaven and of the celestial man; hence they are called celestial . . . 197.

184. Then there appears a kind of shadiness of a celestial colour with stars . . .

186. This signifies that the first life (of a resuscitated person) is celestial with what is spiritual.

243. In the most ancient celestial man, the sensual things of the body were of such a character, that they were compliant to and served their internal man, and beyond this they did not care for them . . .

276. The Celestial and Spiritual in Heaven corresponds to bread on earth . . .

310. Their first parents, who constituted the Most Ancient Church, were celestial, thus celestial seeds were inseminated into them; hence their descendants had in them seed from a celestial origin; seed from a celestial origin is of such a nature that love rules the whole mind, and makes it a one. Ex.

318^e. While he was in this anxiety, he was translated among celestial Spirits, who were from the province of the heart . . .

337². The celestial man, who is called 'the king's son' (Ps.lxxii.1).

353. 'Fat'=the Celestial itself, which also is of the Lord. The Celestial is everything which is of love; faith also is celestial when it is from love; charity is celestial; all the good of charity is celestial; all of which were represented by the 'fats' in the sacrifices . . .

—3. As there are celestial things of innumerable genera, and of still more innumerable species, they are described generally in Deut.xxxii.14.

418. In the former verse (Gen.iv.20), celestial things are treated of, which are of love; in this (ver.21), spiritual things, which are of faith.

— The affection of the heart is celestial, the singleness is spiritual.

—². The angelic choirs are of two kinds, celestial and spiritual . . . The most ancient people referred what is celestial to the province of the heart, and what is spiritual to that of the lungs.

[A.] 449. On heavenly joy. Gen. art.

459. Spirits, angelic Spirits, and Angels, are all distinguished into the celestial and the spiritual; the celestial are they who, through love, have received faith from the Lord . . . The spiritual are they who, through Knowledges of faith, have received charity from the Lord, from which, when received, they act. 1525. 1997. 2069.

511. To know truth from good is celestial . . .

530². Remains are like some celestial star . . .

549. The heavenly form . . . 1394^o.

— Hence it is that heavenly happiness is ineffable.

590^e. The Spiritual of the Lord's mercy is wisdom, the Celestial is love.

597. The celestial have perception, the spiritual conscience; the Most Ancient Church was celestial, the Ancient spiritual.

598². 'Mercy' is applied to those who are celestial, but 'grace' to those who are spiritual; for the celestial do not acknowledge anything but mercy, and the spiritual scarcely anything but grace; the celestial do not know what grace is, the spiritual scarcely know what mercy is . . .

633. When men become celestial, it appears as if the will of good and understanding of truth were in them; but they are of the Lord alone, which they also know, acknowledge, and perceive . . . With every man, and with every Angel, even the most celestial, the proprium is nothing but what is false and evil . . .

680. It is plain that what precedes and what follows involves celestial and spiritual things . . . The Word of the Lord is celestial and spiritual.

775². The origin of all things is thus circumstanced; each and all things are from the Lord; what is celestial is from Him; through what is celestial from Him there comes forth what is spiritual; through what is spiritual, what is natural; through what is natural, what is corporeal and sensual . . . 1055. 1096².

776². 'A tree of fruit' (Ps.cxlvi.9)=the celestial man; 'a cedar,' the spiritual man . . .

793. There are expressions peculiar to spiritual things, and others peculiar to celestial things; or what is the same thing, to intellectual things and to voluntary things. Examp.

805². After these times inward breathing ceased, and with it communication with Heaven, thus celestial perception; and outward breathing succeeded; and as communication with Heaven had ceased, the men of the Ancient Church could no longer be celestial men, as the most ancients could, but spiritual.

847². There are many kinds of temptations; in general there are celestial, spiritual, and natural ones; celestial temptations can only exist with those who are in love to the Lord, spiritual ones with those who are in charity towards the neighbour . . . Ex.

865². It is entirely different with the celestial man, who has perception from the Lord; into him particulars, and the singulars of particulars, can be insinuated. Examp.

880². The Natural is the receptacle which receives . . . the Spiritual; and the Spiritual is the receptacle which receives . . . the Celestial; thus through celestial things life from the Lord. Such is the influx. The Celestial is all the good of faith; with the spiritual man it is the good of charity . . . The Spiritual does not live, except from the Celestial, which is from the Lord.

933³. Celestial and corporeal things can never be together with man, for man's will is utterly destroyed . . . Such is the condition of man, that celestial and spiritual things in him cannot be together with his corporeal and worldly ones, but they take their turns. Sig. and Ex.

978². With every man there is a Celestial and a Spiritual, which correspond to the angelic Heaven; a rational, which corresponds to the Heaven of angelic Spirits; and an interior Sensual, which corresponds to the Heaven of Spirits . . . the celestial and spiritual things form the internal man . . .

981². The celestial do not speak of grace, but mercy; but spiritual men do not speak of mercy, but grace; the reason is that the celestial acknowledge that the human race is nothing but filth, and in itself, excrementitious and infernal . . .

1001². The celestial things which the regenerate spiritual man receives from the Lord are celestial spiritual things.

—⁴. With the spiritual man there does not exist what is celestial, because charity is implanted in his intellectual part, but what is celestial spiritual.

1005. In the genuine sense, 'blood' = what is celestial, and, relatively to the regenerate spiritual man, charity, which is his celestial.

1043⁴. With the celestial man the clouds are not so great, because he has love to the Lord, which is implanted in his voluntary part, and therefore he does not receive conscience, as the spiritual man does, but the perception of good and thence of truth from the Lord. When man's Voluntary is of such a nature that it is able to receive the rays of celestial flame, his Intellectual is enlightened, and, from love, he knows and perceives all things which are truths of faith . . .

—^e. This is the reason why the intellectual part can never be enlightened with the spiritual man, as it can with the celestial man . . .

1053². In Heaven there is celestial light, and there is spiritual light; celestial light, to speak comparatively, is like the light of the sun; but spiritual light is like the light of the moon . . . It is the same with the colours.

1071. What is celestial is of the will, what is spiritual is of the understanding . . . 1203.

1073. Spiritual things, relatively to celestial ones, are like the body which clothes the soul, or like the garments which clothe the body . . .

1096². The Celestial is love to the Lord and towards the neighbour; where there is no love, the coupling is broken and the Lord is not present, Who only flows in through what is celestial, that is, through love. When the Celestial does not exist, neither can the Spiritual, because all the Spiritual is through the Celestial, from the Lord . . .

1097. Celestial men are here called 'the priests of Jehovah' (Is. lxi. 6); spiritual ones, 'the ministers of God.'

1118°. As they were celestial men, whatever they thought shone out from their faces and eyes. . . .

1155. 'The sons of Gomer' (Gen. x. 3) relate to the class of spiritual things, and 'the sons of Javan,' to the class of celestial things. . . The class of spiritual things is distinguished from the class of celestial things by this, that the former have regard to truths of faith, and the latter to goods of faith, which are of charity.

1203. 'Heth' (ver. 15) = exterior Knowledge of celestial things. Ex.

— With the Prophets, it is customary for spiritual and celestial things to be conjoined together, that is, when spiritual things are treated of, so also are celestial ones; the reason being that the one is from the other; and there is no perfection unless they are conjoined. 1826°, Refs.

1361°. Sheep and lambs represent celestial things; pigeons and turtledoves, spiritual ones. . . .

1404. 'Abram' . . . specifically, represents the celestial man; 'Isaac,' the spiritual man; 'Jacob,' the natural man. 1409°.

1414°. With Him alone was there a most perfect correspondence of all things of the body with the Divine . . . hence the union of corporeal things with Divine celestial ones, and of sensuous things with Divine spiritual ones . . . 1428.

1416. In the supreme sense, the Lord Himself is 'the great nation,' because He is the Celestial itself. . . .

1434°. This sensuous truth is not insinuated, except with the celestial man; and as the Lord alone was a celestial man, these and the like sensuous truths were insinuated into Him in His earliest childhood; thus was He prepared to receive celestial things.

1435. Wherefore scientifics are the vessels of spiritual things, and affections from the good pleasures of the body are vessels of celestial things.

1438. 'They came into the Land of Canaan' (Gen. xii. 5) = that the Lord arrived at the celestial things of love. . . . The celestial things of love are the essential things themselves; all the rest come therefrom; He was first of all imbued with these, for all things were afterwards thence made fruitful as from their seed; the very seed was the Celestial itself, because He was born from Jehovah; hence He alone had this seed in Him. . . .

1440. The Lord's second state, when the celestial things of love appeared to Him, Sig. . . In celestial things there is the very light of the soul, because in them there is the Divine itself, that is, Jehovah Himself; and as the Lord conjoined the Human essence with the Divine when He arrived at celestial things, it could not be otherwise than that Jehovah Himself should appear to Him.

1441. 'Shechem' (Gen. xii. 6) = the first appearance of celestial things. Ex.

1442. All perception is from celestial things. . . . Everyone receives perception from the Lord when he comes to celestial things. . . . They who become spiritual men, that is, who receive charity from the Lord, have something analogous to perception, or a dictate of conscience, more or less clear, as they are in the celestial things of charity. . . .

1443. The intellectual things of the celestial man are compared to a garden of all kinds of trees; the rational things, to a forest of cedars and similar trees; the scientific things to oakgroves. . . .

1447. That those who would have faith in Him should be endowed with celestial things, Sig.

1450. The celestial things of love are love towards Jehovah, and love towards the neighbour, and, in these, innocence itself. . . . These celestial things are insinuated into man especially in his state of infancy even to childhood, and in fact, without Knowledge, for they flow in from the Lord. . . .

1451. The advancement of the celestial things of love, Sig. 'A mountain' = what is celestial. . . Celestial things are insinuated into man both without Knowledge, and with Knowledge; celestial things without Knowledge from infancy to childhood, but celestial things with Knowledge from childhood afterwards to adult age. . . .

1453. It is one thing to be in celestial things, and another to be in the Knowledge of celestial things. Ex.

— 2. While a man is being regenerated, he is introduced by means of the Knowledge of spiritual and celestial things; but when he is regenerated, he has then been introduced, and is in the celestial and spiritual things of Knowledge.

1458°. Into Knowledge, as into their vessels, celestial things inflow. 1461.

1460. The Lord was born as another man, and instructed as another, but the interiors with Him were celestial, which adapted the vessels to receive Knowledge. . . .

1464. As the Lord was to be instructed in celestial things, before He was instructed in spiritual ones, differently from other men. . . .

1469. The reason it is called truth adjoined to celestial things, is that all truth was with the Lord before, for the Celestial has truth with it. . . . These vessels (that is, scientifics) were to be formed by the Lord, or rather opened, by means of instruction in Knowledge from the Word, not only that celestial things might be insinuated into them, but that they also might become celestial, and thus Divine. . . .

1470. Celestial happiness and delight are of good, spiritual happiness and delight are of truth.

1472. When they see celestial Knowledge. . . .

1474. That they would not care for celestial things, but for mere Knowledge, Sig.

1475. Knowledge is of such a character, that it desires nothing more than to introduce itself into celestial things and investigate them, but this is contrary to order, for thus it does violence to celestial things. The real order is for the Celestial through the Spiritual, to introduce itself into the Rational, and thus into the Scientific, and adapt it to itself.

[A.] 1476. That thus the Celestial might not have violence done to it, Sig. . . The order is for the Celestial to inflow into the Spiritual, the Spiritual into the Rational, and this into the Scientific. When this order exists, the Spiritual is adapted by the Celestial, the Rational by the Spiritual, and the Scientific by this . . . When this order exists, the Celestial cannot have violence done to it; otherwise it has.

1477. That thus the Celestial may be saved, Sig. 'Soul' = the Celestial, for this is the very soul, because it is the very life . . . Celestial or Divine things were not so adjoined to the Lord as to act as one essence, before He had undergone temptations.

1480². Celestial food is all the good of love and of charity from the Lord . . .

1489. For the sake of truth to be adjoined to the Celestial, Sig.

1493. That He ought to have no other truth than that which might be conjoined with the Celestial, Sig.

1495. When the Lord imbibed scientifics as a child, He at first knew no otherwise than that the scientifics were solely on account of the intellectual man, or that He might know truths by their means, but it was afterwards discovered that they were for the sake of arriving at celestial things. This took place lest celestial things should have violence done to them . . . When a man is being instructed, the order of progression is from scientifics to rational truths, then to intellectual truths, and at last to celestial truths, which are here signified by 'a wife.' If we proceed from scientifics and rational truths to celestial truths without intellectual truths as media, the Celestial has violence done to it, because there is no connexion of rational truths, which are from scientifics, with celestial truths, except by means of intellectual truths, which are the media. . . The order is for the Celestial to inflow into the Spiritual and adapt it to itself, for the Spiritual thus to inflow into the Rational and adapt it to itself, for the Rational thus to inflow into the Scientific and adapt it to itself. And there is really such an order when a man is being instructed in his earliest childhood, but it appears otherwise, namely, that he advances from scientifics to rational things, from these to spiritual, and thus at last to celestial things. The reason it so appears, is that the way may be opened for celestial things, which are inmost. All instruction is merely the opening of a way, and as the way is opened . . . so do they inflow, in order; from celestial spiritual things, rational things; into these, celestial spiritual things; and into these, celestial things. 1496².

1496. Regarded in itself, the truth which is learned from childhood is nothing but a fit vessel into which the Celestial can insinuate itself. Truth has no life from itself, but it has life from the Celestial which flows in. The Celestial is love and charity, and all truth is thence derived.

1499. When celestial things are conjoined with intellectual truths, and these become celestial, all unprofitable things are dissipated of themselves. The Celestial has this [power] in it.

1500. Unprofitable things leave celestial ones, as vain things leave wisdom.

1502². Besides the deep arcana concerning the Lord, these things involve arcana concerning the instruction and regeneration of man, in order to his becoming celestial . . .

1525². The celestial are they who are in the love of good, the spiritual are they who are in the love of truth.

1529. In proportion to the Celestial and Spiritual with the Angels they have light, and according to the quality of the Celestial and Spiritual is that of the light; thus the very Celestial and Spiritual of the Lord manifests itself through light before their outward sight.

1530². As the Celestial and Spiritual of the Lord appears before the sight of the Angels as a Sun and Moon, 'the sun,' in the Word, = what is celestial; and 'the moon,' what is spiritual.

1542. There are two things with man which prevent his becoming celestial; one pertaining to the intellectual, the other to the voluntary part; the former is the unprofitable scientifics which he draws in during childhood and youth, the latter is the pleasures and cupidities which he favours. These are what hinder his arriving at celestial things. These are first to be dispersed, and then first can he be admitted into the light of celestial things, and at last into celestial light.

1545. Man has his being from the things he has in him, but the Lord (had His) from celestial things, for He alone was celestial so as to be the Celestial itself; wherefore by 'Abram,' and still more by 'Abraham,' are signified celestial things.

1547. In proportion as a man indulges in the pleasures which originate in cupidities, he is withdrawn from the celestial things which are of love and charity, for there is in them love from self and from the world, with which celestial love cannot agree. But there are other pleasures which entirely agree with celestial things, and which in outward appearance are similar to the former. But the pleasures which originate in cupidities are to be curbed and wiped off, because they close up the approach for celestial things. Sig.

1548. 'Towards the south' (Gen. xiii. 1) = into celestial light. . . There are two states from which there is celestial light; the first is that into which man is introduced from infancy; for it is known that little children are in innocence and the goods of love, which are celestial things . . . The other state is that he is introduced into spiritual and celestial things by means of Knowledge, which ought to be implanted in the celestial things conferred from infancy. With the Lord, these were implanted in His first celestial things; and hence He had the light which is here called 'the south.'

1554. From His earliest infancy, according to all Divine order, the Lord advanced towards celestial things, and into celestial things. Sig.

1555². The will in man is formed by the Lord from infancy to childhood, which is effected by the insinuation of innocence, and of charity towards parents, nurses, little children of a similar age, and by many things of which man is ignorant, all of which are celestial things. Unless these celestial things were first insinuated into man while he is an infant and a child, he could never become man. Thus is formed the first plane.

—³. While he is being regenerated, truths and goods are implanted by the Lord by means of Knowledges in his celestial things with which he had been endowed by the Lord from infancy, so that his intellectual things make one with the celestial things.

1556. [The Lord's advance] to the celestial things which He had before He was imbued with knowledges and Knowledges, Sig.

1557. 'Between Bethel and Ai' (Gen. xiii. 3) = the celestial things of Knowledges and the worldly ones.

—³. The holiness of ignorance . . . especially consists in his making little of scientific and intellectual things relatively to celestial things, or those which are of the understanding relatively to those which are of life . . . The Lord now first arrived at that celestial state, such as He had when a child, in which state worldly things also are present; thence He advanced into a state still more celestial, and at last into the celestial state of infancy, in which He fully conjoined the Human essence with the Divine.

1561. When what is true and good is conjoined by means of Knowledges with the former Celestial, its activity is thus described; worship itself is nothing but a certain activity coming forth from the Celestial which is within; the Celestial itself can never exist without an active, and worship is the first active . . .

1568². With all things that stream out from the love of self and from the love of the world . . . celestial things, which are of love to the Lord and of love towards the neighbour, cannot agree, for these regard the Lord as an end . . .

1572. By celestial things, which are 'the shepherds of Abraham's cattle,' are meant celestial things in worship, which are of the internal man; and by 'the shepherds of Lot's cattle' are meant the sensuous things which are in worship, which are of the external man; and which do not agree with the celestial things of the worship of the internal man.

1577. There are two things in the internal man, namely, the Celestial and the Spiritual, which two constitute one when the Spiritual is from the Celestial . . .

—³. The internal man is said to be united to the external, when the Celestial Spiritual of the internal man inflows into the Natural of the external, and causes them to act as one; hence the Natural also becomes celestial and spiritual, but a lower Celestial and Spiritual; or what is the same thing, the external man also becomes celestial and spiritual, but an exterior Celestial and Spiritual . . .

—⁵. As in the internal man there are two things, namely, the Celestial and the Spiritual, which constitute a one, so also it is in the external man; his Celestial is called natural good, and his Spiritual, natural truth . . .

1613. 'According to its length and according to its breadth' = what is celestial and spiritual, or, what is the same, good and truth.

1616². Conjunction with celestial things gives perception, for in the celestial things which are of love to Jehovah there is the very life of the internal man; or, what is the same thing, in the celestial things which are of love, that is, in celestial love, Jehovah is present . . .

—³. Into the Lord's Knowledges, as into receptacles, celestial things were continually being insinuated, so that the Knowledges were constantly made vessels recipient of celestial things; and they themselves were also made celestial. Thus did He continually advance towards the celestial things of infancy. For celestial things, which are of love, are insinuated from earliest infancy even to childhood, and even to adolescence, as the man, then and afterwards, is being imbued with knowledges and Knowledges. If the man is of such a character that he can be regenerated, these knowledges and Knowledges are infilled with celestial things, which are of love and charity, and so are implanted in the celestial things with which he had been endowed from infancy to childhood, and thus is the external conjoined with the internal man. They are first implanted in the celestial things with which he was endowed during adolescence, then in those with which he was endowed during childhood, and at last in those with which he was endowed during infancy . . . This implantation is effected by the Lord alone, wherefore nothing celestial exists with man, nor can exist, which is not from the Lord, and which is not the Lord's. But the Lord, of His own power, conjoined His external man with the internal, and infilled the Knowledges with celestial things, and implanted them in celestial things, and this according to Divine order; first in the celestial things of childhood, then in the celestial things of the age between childhood and infancy, and at last in the celestial things of His infancy.

—⁵. As the Lord implanted Knowledges in celestial things, so He had perception. Sig.

1624. All the visible colours in the other life represent what is celestial and spiritual. Ex.

1659^e. The Word . . . is heavenly, not earthly.

1702². The Celestial is distinct from the Natural, and still more from the Corporeal, and unless there is a medium through which there is communication, the Celestial can never operate into the Natural, and still less into the Corporeal . . .

1707². The influx from the internal into the interior or middle man, and so into the exterior man, is twofold; being either through celestial things, or through spiritual things; or, what is the same thing, being either through goods, or through truths; through celestial things, or goods, it flows in only with regenerate men, who are endowed either with perception, or with conscience; thus it flows in through either perception or conscience; wherefore influx through celestial things has no existence except with those who are in love to the Lord and in charity towards the neighbour; but through spiritual things, or truths, the Lord flows in with every man . . . When a man is of such a character as to pervert goods and truths, and when he cares nothing for celestial and spiritual things, there is no influx of celestial things, or of goods, but the way for celestial things and goods is closed; but still there is an influx of spiritual things, or of truths . . . 1725.

1725. 'Melchizedek' = the celestial things of the interior man with the Lord.

[A.] 1727. 'Brought forth bread'=celestial things, and the refreshment thence . . . In the Ancient Church, bread was representative of all celestial things . . .

1732^e. When there is a communication of celestial things, the interior man is called 'Melchizedek;' but when there is a communication of spiritual things, it is called 'Abram the Hebrew.' 1741^e.

1759. The speech of celestial Spirits cannot easily inflow into articulate sounds or words with man, for it cannot be applied to any word in which there is any harshness of sound, or in which there is a doubling of the harder consonants, or in which there is any idea from what is scientific; wherefore they rarely inflow into speech otherwise than through affections . . .

1772^e. From an earthly paradise to see a heavenly paradise.

1774^e. Heavenly ornaments . . .

1775. (Necessity of there being) heavenly truths for the instruction of man, because he is born for heavenly things, and after death ought to come among the celestials.

1783^e. He who is in heavenly wisdom . . .

1807². The heavenly things thus represented . . .

1823². Celestial things are signified by animals, and spiritual things by birds.

1824. 'A cow-calf' (Gen.xv.9)=those things which are representative of exterior celestial things; 'a she-goat,' those which are representative of interior celestial things; and 'a ram,' those things which are representative of celestial spiritual things . . . Exterior celestial things are those of the external man, interior celestial things are those of the internal man, celestial spiritual things are those which are thence derived. The Celestial itself is love to the Lord and love towards the neighbour; this Celestial flows in from the Lord, and in fact through the internal man into the external; in the interior man it is called the interior Celestial; in the exterior, the exterior Celestial. The exterior Celestial is every affection of good, nay, it is also every pleasure which is from an affection of good; in proportion as the good of love and of charity is in the affection of good and the pleasure thence derived, it is celestial, and it is happy. But the Celestial Spiritual is every affection of truth in which is affection of good . . .

1831. Parallelism and correspondence as to celestial things, (but not so as to spiritual things). Sig. 1832. (See below, 3514.)

1866. 'To the river of Egypt'=the extension of spiritual things; 'to the river Euphrates'=the extension of celestial things.

1879². I was then introduced into a certain celestial state. Des.

1880. The light of Heaven, or heavenly light . . .

1894. The very being from which man is, is Divine, consequently is celestial and spiritual; without the Divine Celestial and Spiritual there is nothing human with man . . . The Celestial which makes man is that he loves the Lord, and that he loves the neighbour . . .

1898. There is somewhat similar with the celestial man, who receives perception; there is a certain truth adjoined to good which dictates; and afterwards there is good from which or by means of which truth is perceived.

1909^e. If he has for an end the good of the neighbour, the common good, the Lord's Kingdom, especially the Lord Himself, he may know that he is heavenly.

1911⁵. A celestial man has perception from the Lord of what is good and true.

1928. (Truths) first receive life when the form is alike on both sides, or when the little heaven of man is a corresponding image of the grand Heaven; before this, no one can be called a heavenly man.

1937⁶. The Lord wills to communicate to everyone what is His, thus what is celestial, so that it should appear as his . . .

1997². The affection of good can only be predicated of the celestial man, but the affection of truth of the spiritual man . . .

2023^e. They who have love to the Lord are celestial men, but they who have love towards the neighbour, or charity, are spiritual. 2048². 2088².

2027. By self-love . . . they destroy that which is celestial, namely, mutual love . . .

2034⁶. After all the Celestial with man had perished, that is, all love to God . . .

2054^e. The celestial are like the heart, the spiritual are like the lungs.

2069⁵. Divine good can flow in only with the celestial man, because it inflows into his voluntary part . . . But Divine truth inflows with the spiritual man, because solely into his intellectual part, which in him is separated from his voluntary part. Or, what is the same thing, celestial good inflows with the celestial man, and spiritual good with the spiritual man . . .

2078. There are two kinds of men within the Church, namely, the spiritual and the celestial; the spiritual become rational from truth, the celestial from good.

2085. By 'seed' are here signified those who have the faith of love, that is, love to the Lord, thus the celestial, or those who are of the Celestial Church, for the seed of Isaac are treated of.

2088². The celestial are they who are in the affection of good from good, but the spiritual are they who are in the affection of good from truth. In the beginning all were celestial, because in love to the Lord; hence they received perception, by which they perceived what is good, not from truth, but from the affection of good . . .

2094³. The celestial (in Heaven) regard (the things in the internal sense of the Word) from good, that the case is so; but the spiritual (regard them) from truth . . .

2114. 'Those born in the house' (Gen.xvii.27)=the celestial; 'those bought with silver,' the spiritual. . . All who constitute the Church are either celestial or spiritual.

2135⁴. 'Judah'=the celestial; 'Israel,' the spiritual, in Heaven and earth.

2137. That His Human would approach nearer to the Divine by putting on the celestial, treated of.

2144². When man was no longer in celestial ideas, but only in worldly and corporeal ones, perception with him began to perish . . .

2157. They who perceive the Word in the internal sense as to affection . . . form for themselves celestial ideas, which can scarcely be called ideas, but so many lights of affections and perceptions . . .

2162. Celestial and spiritual things are represented by the head . . . By the breast, rational things . . . By the feet, natural things . . . Sig.

—¹⁴. 'Oil' = what is celestial.

2165. See BREAD at this ref.

—³. See BURNT-OFFERING at these refs. 8680.

2173. There is a Divine marriage between celestial things and spiritual things; or, what is the same, between those things which are of love and those which are of faith; or, what is still the same, between the things of the will and of the understanding . . .

2176. The celestial of His love in that state, Sig.

—^e. When man reads the Word, the Angels have therefrom celestial ideas . . .

2180. Animals of the herd = celestial natural things; those of the flock, celestial rational things.

2183. Then the Angels approach nearer, and insinuate into him charity, which is the celestial that comes through the Angels from the Lord.

2184. See BUTTER at these refs. 5620.

2187. The Nazarite represented the celestial man, and the celestial man is of such a character that he is unwilling even to mention spiritual things . . .

—³. 'The tree of life' (Rev. ii. 7) = the Celestial itself; and, in the supreme sense, the Lord Himself, because from Him is everything celestial, that is, all love and charity.

—⁴. 'To recline with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob' (Matt. viii. 11) = that they shall enjoy the celestial goods which are signified by 'Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob'; namely, the inmost celestial things of love, which are 'Abraham'; the lower ones, which are intermediate, as are those of the Rational, which are 'Isaac'; and the still lower ones, which are celestial natural, such as there are in the first Heaven, and which are meant by 'Jacob.'

2189. The life of charity, which is the celestial life itself . . .

2228. Heavenly consociations are according to lives . . . In general, life is twofold, one infernal, the other heavenly. Ex.

2231. Love and charity are a celestial flame, and faith is the spiritual light thence derived . . . In the other life, the Celestial of the Lord manifests itself before the Angels by a flaming beam as of the sun, and the Spiritual of the Lord by the light thence derived . . .

2243. The Most Ancient Church, which was called 'man,' was the most celestial of all . . . The Ancient Church . . . was less celestial . . .

2253. The Lord, when He was in the world, had no other life than the life of love towards the universal human race . . . This life is the veriest Celestial itself, by which He united Himself to the Divine, and the Divine to Himself . . .

2273. The temptations in which man conquers are attended with this, that he believes rather that he is infernal, than that he is celestial . . .

2275. There are two things in the internal sense of the Word, namely, the Spiritual and the Celestial; the Spiritual consists in comprehending things abstractedly from the letter . . . the Celestial consists in perceiving solely the affection of the things contained in the internal sense; in the former are the Spiritual Angels; in the latter are the Celestial Angels. They who are in the latter, or in affection, perceive at once what the letter involves, when it is read by man, from the affection alone, and thence form for themselves celestial ideas, and this with innumerable variety . . .

2301. In general, little children (in the other life) are of either a celestial or a spiritual genius; they who are of a celestial genius are well distinguished from those who are of a spiritual genius; the former think, speak, and act with softness, so that hardly anything else appears except a somewhat flowing from love to the Lord and other little children; but the latter do not think, speak, and act so softly . . . H. 339.

2333. (The ascent of the Word to the Angels) from the correspondence of spiritual with worldly things, and of celestial with corporeal things, which correspondence is most constant . . .

2454. The reason it is said in Luke, 'Let him not return to behind him' (xvii. 31), is that the celestial do not want even to mention anything which is of a doctrinal nature; which is the reason it is not mentioned, but it is merely said, 'to behind him.'

2479. In proportion as the mind can be withdrawn from sensuous and bodily things, it is elevated to spiritual and celestial things.

2503. As with the Lord all truth was from a celestial origin . . .

2504. The spiritual things of faith are all truths which are from good, that is, from a celestial origin; whatever is derived from the celestial is the Spiritual of faith.

2507. That is called celestial which is of good, that is, which is of love to the Lord and of charity towards the neighbour; and that is called spiritual which is of truth, that is, which is of faith thence derived.

2515. There are thoughts from perception, from conscience, and from no conscience; thoughts from perception exist only with the celestial, that is, with those who are in love to the Lord.

2528. When celestial things are being treated of, that is, love and charity, 'Jehovah' is mentioned . . . 2921.

2541. In a man who is a Kingdom of the Lord, there are celestial things, spiritual things, rational things, scientific things, and sensuous things; these are in subordination among each other; celestial and spiritual things hold the first place, and are of the Lord . . .

2552. A celestial man can only think from perception, and a spiritual man only from conscience . . .

2576. (The three veils) represented the exterior celestial and spiritual things in the three Heavens.

[A.] 265⁸⁴. In the Original Language, the former expression involves possession, but the latter, derivation thence, just as is the case with the Celestial in relation to the Spiritual, or with good in relation to truth.

266¹. The Lord did not come into the world in order to save the celestial, but the spiritual . . .

—³. As the Lord's Divine Rational is represented by Isaac, the celestial are signified, who are called 'heirs;' and as the Lord's merely human Rational is represented by Ishmael, the spiritual are also signified, who are called 'sons.'

266⁶. 'Seed,' when predicated of Isaac = the Celestial Rational, or, what is the same, those who are celestial . . .

266⁹. The celestial are they of whom the Lord thus speaks, 'He calls his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out, and when he hath led forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him, because they know his voice.' But the spiritual are they of whom He says, 'And other sheep I have, who are not of this fold, them also I must bring, and they will hear My voice, and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd' (John x. 3, 4, 16).

267¹. The state of (the spiritual) after reformation, relatively to the celestial, is obscure. Sig.

270². 'Water' = the Spiritual of faith; and 'the spirit' = the Celestial of it.

270⁸. By relatively obscure, is meant the state of the Spiritual Church relatively to the state of the Celestial Church, or the state of the spiritual relatively to the state of the celestial; the celestial are in the affection of good, the spiritual in the affection of truth; the celestial have perception, but the spiritual a dictate of conscience; to the celestial the Lord appears as a Sun, but to the spiritual as a Moon; with the former a light as it were visual and also perceptive of good and truth from the Lord is as the light of day from the sun, but with the latter the light from the Lord is as the light of night from the moon; thus with these it is relatively obscure. The reason is that the celestial are in love to the Lord, thus in the Lord's very life, but the spiritual are in charity towards the neighbour and in faith, thus are indeed in the Lord's life, but more obscurely. Hence it is that the celestial never reason about faith and its truths, but being in the perception of truth, from good, they say that it is so; but the spiritual speak and reason about the truths of faith, because they are in the conscience of good, from truth. A further reason is that with the celestial the good of love is implanted in their voluntary part, where is man's principal life; but with the spiritual in their intellectual part, where is man's secondary life. This is the reason why (the state) is relatively obscure with the spiritual. This relative obscurity is here called 'the wilderness' (Gen. xxi. 20). 284⁹.

271⁵. With the celestial, good itself is implanted in their voluntary part, and the light comes thence into their intellectual part; but with the spiritual, the whole Voluntary is destroyed, so that they have nothing of good thence, and therefore good is implanted by the Lord in their intellectual part . . . Hence it is that with the spiritual there is not love to the Lord, as with the celestial, thus neither the humiliation which is essential in all worship . . . Neither with the spiritual is there love towards the neighbour, as with the celestial, for the love of self and of the world continually flows in from their voluntary part, and obscures the good of that love . . . The celestial love the neighbour more than themselves, and never think of a recompense, nor in any way set themselves before others.

—⁴. Hence the spiritual man can acknowledge hardly any pure truth, such as the celestial acknowledge.

—⁶. The spiritual man . . . discusses whether it be so, unless confirmed by much experience; which the celestial never do, for they know and perceive that it is so; whence it is said by the Lord, in Matthew, 'Let your conversation be, Yea, yea, Nay, nay, that which is beyond this is from evil' (v. 37); for the celestial are in the truth itself about which the spiritual dispute whether it is so; and hence the celestial, being in the truth itself, are able to see indefinite things therefrom, which are of that truth; thus from light they can see as it were the whole of Heaven; but the spiritual, because they dispute whether it is so, and so long as they do so, cannot come to the first boundary of the light of the celestial, still less can they see anything from their light. 271⁸.

271⁸. It is celestial to think and act from the affection of good, or from good.

272². Celestial things, which are of love and charity, were represented by those things which are high and lofty, as mountains and hills; and the spiritual things thence derived, by fruitful and leafy things, as gardens and groves.

282⁶. 'The fear of God' . . . = worship from the good of love, when predicated of the celestial regenerate.

283⁰. The celestial man is of such a character, that he is in celestial love, that is, in love to the Lord, and thence in celestial truth; therefore (the Nazarite) was to sacrifice a he-lamb and a she-lamb, by which is signified what is celestial; and also a ram, by which is signified what is spiritual.

284². They who have conscience do not swear; still less they who have perception of good and truth, that is, celestial men; the latter do not even confirm a thing by reasons to themselves and among each other, but only say that it is so, or that it is not so . . .

293⁰. Man, from the beginning, was so created, that the will and understanding in him should make one; so that he should not think anything but what he willed, nor will anything but what he thought; such is the state with the celestial, and was so in the Celestial Church, called 'man,' or 'Adam.'

297¹. The Celestial, or good, which is of love to the Lord and of charity towards the neighbour, is compared to ground, also to a field . . . because the Celestial, or good, is what receives the truths of faith, which are compared to seeds.

297³. The Land of Canaan represented the Lord's Kingdom; 'Zion,' the Celestial of it; and 'Jerusalem,' the Spiritual of it . . . The places round about, even to the boundaries, represented celestial and spiritual things flowing forth and derived thence in order; where the furthest boundaries were, the representatives of celestial and spiritual things ceased . . .

—². In respect to celestial flame and spiritual light, the case is this ; the celestial things which are of innocence and love, and the spiritual things which are of charity and faith, are in a like proportion to that of the heat and light which they have . . . The case is the same in every heavenly Society . . .

2991^o. Natural things represent those things which are of the spiritual things to which they correspond ; nay, even spiritual things represent those things which are of the celestial things from which they are.

2993. The causes of all natural things are from spiritual things, and the beginnings of causes are from celestial things ; or, what is the same, all things in the natural world derive their cause from the truth which is spiritual, and their beginning, from the good which is celestial.

3021^o. 'The head of gold'=the first state of the Church, which was celestial, because one of love to the Lord . . .

3084. The Natural with man is exterior relatively to his Spiritual, and this again is exterior relatively to the Celestial ; or, what is the same, the Scientific, which is of the natural man, is exterior relatively to truth, and truth is exterior relatively to good . . .

3089. 'To drink' . . . is predicated of what is spiritual ; as 'to eat' is of what is celestial.

3122. The celestial never thought about those things which are of faith, or of truth, but of those things which are of love, or of good . . . The celestial men also, while they were being reformed and regenerated, through charity towards the neighbour were introduced into love to the Lord.

3166^o. See Good at this ref.

3235. The Lord appears as a Sun to the celestial, because they are in celestial love, that is, in love to the Lord . . .

—³. In general, the Lord's Kingdom is Celestial, and it is Spiritual ; that is, it consists of the celestial and of the spiritual ; and as the Lord's Divine appears to the celestial as celestial, and to the spiritual as spiritual, hence it is that it is said that Abraham and Sarah represented the Lord as to the Divine Celestial, and Abraham and Keturah, as to the Divine Spiritual. (Refs. to passages on the subject of the difference between the celestial and the spiritual.)

3240. The Celestial Church differs from the Spiritual Church thus ; they who are of the Celestial Church, and are called the celestial, are in love, namely, in the good and truth thereof ; but they who are of the Spiritual Church, and are called the spiritual, are in faith, namely, in the good and truth thereof ; the good with the celestial is of love to the Lord, and the truth with them is of love towards the neighbour ; but the good with the spiritual is of charity towards the neighbour, and the truth with them is of faith, so far as this is doctrine concerning charity. Hence it is evident, that the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, like His Celestial Kingdom, possesses good and truth, but with much difference.

—³. 'Sheba'=those who are in the Knowledges of celestial things, thus who are in the good of faith. . . 'Arabia'=those who are in celestial things, that is, who are in the goods of faith. . . Celestial things, that is, the goods of faith, or, what is the same, the works of charity . . .

3241^o. Concerning the Lord's Divine, Human, and Holy proceeding, the celestial perceive that they are not three, but one ; but the spiritual remain in the idea of three, but will and think that they are one.

3246^o. The celestial, being from the very marriage of good and truth, have good and thence truth, wherefore they never make a search for truth, but from good perceive it, nor does their conversation concerning truth go beyond this, that it is so . . .

—³. In order that both the celestial and the spiritual might be represented in marriages, it was allowed them to have a concubine besides a wife. Ex.

3247. A distinction and a separation of the spiritual from the celestial, Sig.

3301^o. The state of the celestial man is that he is in good, and, from good, knows all truths, and never thinks and speaks from truths concerning good, still less from scientifics concerning good. Moreover, celestial men are such, that before they put off that state, they are in so strong a Natural as to truth, that they can combat with the Hells ; for truth is what combats, never good . . .

3304^o. The Natural, or the natural man, when it is regenerated, has its own conception as to good and truth from the Rational, or through the Rational from the Spiritual, through this from the celestial, and through this from the Divine ; thus succeeds the influx . . .

3374. By the Spiritual, in the genuine sense, is meant the light itself of truth which is from the Lord, as by the Celestial is meant all the flame of good from the Lord.

3375. 'Covenant' is predicated of what is celestial, or of good ; but 'oath,' of what is spiritual, or of truths.

3394^o. With the celestial, however, the case is this ; they perceive Divine good and truth in the Rational, that is, in rational things, which, being enlightened by the Lord's Divine, are appearances of truth, even in what is natural, that is, in scientific and sensuous things ; and as the celestial are in such a state, they can acknowledge that all good and truth flow in from the Lord, and also that there is a Perceptive of good and truth which is communicated and appropriated to them by the Lord, and causes their delight, blessedness, and happiness . . .

3399^o. They who are of the Spiritual Church cannot adulterate good to the extent of profaning it, because they cannot receive good even to the perception of it, as the celestial can . . .

3441. The Lord, by Whom the spiritual man understands the Human ; but the celestial, the Divine itself . . .

3483. For from the Divine are the celestial things which are of good ; from celestial things the spiritual things which are of truth ; from the latter and the former natural things.

[A]. 3502². The celestial man (is regenerated) through Knowledges of good first ; but the spiritual man, through Knowledges of truth first.

3514^e. Parallelism between the Lord and man exists as to the celestial things which are of good ; not according to the spiritual things which are of truth.

3579². 'The vine shall give her fruit' (Zech. viii. 12) = that the Spiritual of the Church, or the truth of faith, will give good ; 'the earth shall give her increase' = that the Celestial of the Church, or the good of charity, will give truth.

—³. 'The dew of nativity' (Ps. cx. 3) = the Celestial of love. —⁵.

3741. The Divine things of the Lord, received with the Angels, are what are called celestial and spiritual things . . .

3880⁴. 'Confession' relates to the Celestial of love . . . 'the voice of singing,' etc., to what is spiritual . . . Ill.

3886. See BEAT at these refs. D. 4136.

3890. The Societies which belong to the province of the heart are celestial Societies, and are in the middle, or in inmost things ; but those which belong to the province of the lungs are spiritual, and are round about, or in exterior things. The influx from the Lord is through the celestial into the spiritual . . .

3921³. In these verses, the regeneration of the spiritual man is treated of, but in the preceding, the regeneration of the celestial man . . . for by 'Judah' is represented the celestial man ; but by 'Joseph,' the spiritual man.

—^e. The advance is from the spiritual man to the celestial. Sig.

3941². See FAT at these refs. 5200.

3952². In the internal man, there is no heavenly marriage between the good and truth there, but between the good of the spiritual man and the truth of the celestial man, for the celestial man is relatively in a higher degree. Nor is there a heavenly marriage between the good and truth (in the celestial man), but between the good of the celestial man, and the truth Divine which proceeds from the Lord.

3969¹⁰. The celestial constitute the third Heaven, which is the inmost ; but the spiritual, the second Heaven, which is interior ; and they are there as one, because one flows into the other, namely, the Celestial into the Spiritual ; the Spiritual Kingdom is as a plane for the Celestial . . . For the Divine Celestial in the third Heaven is love to the Lord, and the Celestial Spiritual there is charity, which is the Principal in the second Heaven . . .

—¹⁴. There are words in the Word which express spiritual things, and words which express celestial things . . .

3994⁷. As innocence is the Celestial itself . . .

4041. The heavenly form, Des.

4052^e. They who, in Heaven, are at the Lord's right, are they who are in good from the will ; but they who are at the Lord's left, are they who are in good from the understanding ; the former are they who are called the celestial, the latter are they who are called the spiritual.

4060². 'The sun' = the Celestial of love, that is, love to the Lord . . . The reason is that in the other life the Lord appears as a Sun to those in Heaven who are in love to Him, and who are called the celestial.

4099². In proportion as man is initiated into heavenly things by the Angels, the Spirits who are in worldly things are removed, and unless they are removed truths are dissipated. For worldly and heavenly things agree with man when heavenly things have dominion over worldly ones ; but they disagree when worldly things have dominion over heavenly ones ; when they agree, truths are multiplied in the Natural of man ; but when they disagree, they are diminished, nay, are consumed, because worldly things darken heavenly things, and thus place them in doubt ; but when heavenly things have the dominion, they enlighten worldly ones, and place them in clearness, and take away doubts ; they have the dominion when they are loved the most.

4117. 'A mountain' = the Celestial of love, that is, good.

4137⁴. All things in the Lord's Kingdom relate either to good, or to truth . . . those things which relate to good, or which are of love, are called celestial things ; and those which relate to truth, or which are of the faith of charity, are called spiritual things . . .

4138². Some musical instruments relate to the class of celestial things, some to the class of spiritual things . . . Stringed instruments signify spiritual things, and wind instruments celestial things. Refs.

4169. Perception of good has no existence with any except the celestial.

4180⁵. As before the Lord came into the world . . . Heaven consisted as to the greatest part of the celestial . . .

4279². The Word . . . in the third Heaven is celestial . . .

4283^e. When the conjunction of the internal with the external man takes place, it is dawn to him, for he then enters a spiritual or a celestial state . . .

4286. 'Israel' = the celestial spiritual man which is in the Natural, thus the Natural ; the celestial man himself which is rational is 'Joseph.' Ex.

—³. In a universal sense, all the good which is of love and charity is called the Celestial, and all the truth which is of faith and intelligence is called the Spiritual.

4327². Those who constitute the general involuntary sense, in ancient times were the most celestial of all, but now are the most wicked of all . . .

4402². The spiritual man is not an interior rational man, but an interior natural man ; the interior rational man is he who is called celestial.

—³. The Divine light from the Lord . . . with the spiritual man, falls into those things which are of faith with him and which he believes to be truths ; but with the celestial man, into the good of love.

4459⁶. He who is spiritual in an interior degree regards intelligence and wisdom as a mediate end, that he may serve as a useful member in the Lord's kingdom ; and he who is a celestial man, that he may serve the Lord. To this latter, corporeal food is a means for the enjoyment of spiritual food, and spiritual food is a means for the enjoyment of celestial food.

4515. 'Simeon and Levi' (Gen. xxxiv. 30) = a representative of spiritual and of celestial things . . . Those things which are of faith are called spiritual things, and those which are of love celestial things.

4570³. Both the Rational and the Natural are called celestial and spiritual, celestial when they receive good, and spiritual when they receive truth from the Lord; for the good which flows in from the Lord into Heaven is called the Celestial, and the truth is called the Spiritual.

4585³. Such people say . . . what are the Spiritual and the Celestial? Is not this a new distinction? We have heard of the Spiritual, but we have not heard that the Celestial is different from it . . .

—⁴. Nevertheless, as the things contained in the internal sense of the Word . . . cannot be explained without adequate terms, and there are no more adequate terms to express exterior things than natural; interior things than rational; those which are of truth than spiritual; and those which are of good than celestial; it is necessary to make use of these words.

—⁵. The spiritual man is from the Natural, but the celestial is from the Rational.

—⁶. In order that anyone from being spiritual may become celestial, he must advance through this intermediate . . .

—⁷. The Spiritual of the Celestial is the intermediate referred to; it is called spiritual from the spiritual man, who, regarded in himself, is interior natural, and [celestial] from the celestial man, who, regarded in himself, is rational . . .

4592³. All men whatsoever are born natural, with power to become either celestial or spiritual; the Lord alone was born spiritual celestial . . . 4594².

4696^e. The Divine good which is from the Lord is what is called the Celestial, and the Divine truth which is from Him is what is called the Spiritual . . .

4715². They who are celestial men, and thus truly rational, perceive interior things; and of them it is said that they are taught from the Lord's Divine Rational. Sig.

4788³. The men of the Church are distinguished into two kinds; namely, into those who are in good, and those who are in truth; those who are in good are called the celestial, but those who are in truth, the spiritual; between the latter and the former there is much difference; they who are in good are in the affection of doing what is good for the sake of good, and this without receiving any reward, their reward is that they are allowed to do what is good, for thence they perceive joy; but they who are in truth are not in the affection of doing what is good for the sake of good, but because it has been so commanded, and for the most part think of reward; this is the source of their joy, and so also is glorying . . .

4823³. Marriage love with the celestial is from the conjunction of good with truth, and marriage love with the spiritual is from the conjunction of truth with good; their marriages also actually correspond to these conjunctions.

4938. Celestial things in the Grand Man constitute the head, spiritual things the body, and natural things the feet; they also follow in this order; celestial things also which are the highest are terminated in spiritual things which are intermediate, and spiritual things in natural things which are ultimate.

4939. (I thus perceived) that the Celestial, which is the good of love and the first of order, inflows into the Spiritual, which is truth thence derived, and is the second of order; and at last into the Natural, which is the third of order.

4947^e. With such, the interiors are opened towards Heaven, and into them are successively insinuated celestial things; namely, justice, uprightness, piety, charity, mercy, and then they are elevated into Heaven.

4980^e. The Celestial, like the Spiritual, is predicated of both the Rational and the Natural; that is, of the internal man, which is the rational man, and of the external, which is the natural man; for the Spiritual in its essence is the Divine truth which proceeds from the Lord, and the Celestial is the Divine good which is in that Divine truth. The Divine truth in which there is Divine good, when received by the rational or internal man, is called the Spiritual in the Rational; and when received by the natural or external man, is called the Spiritual in the Natural. In like manner, the Divine good which is in Divine truth, when received by the rational or internal man, is called the Celestial in the Rational; and when received by the natural or external man, is called the Celestial in the Natural.

5050^e. The loins . . . correspond to genuine marriage love . . . Those who are there are celestial above all others, and above all others live in the delight of peace.

5052. Peace . . . is the Celestial itself in its own origin.

5248^e. Celestial things are not clothed, but spiritual and natural things are.

5323. With celestial men this act (of bending the knees) is spontaneous, but with the spiritual it is voluntary.

5346. The truth in which is what is celestial from the Divine is indefinite, thus without number. Sig.

5433². Then infernal Spirits approach, who cannot be with man in heavenly things; hence heavenly things are of no account to him, and earthly things are everything . . .

5728. That the internal celestial man infilled the medium with spiritual truth from himself, treated of.

5747. That with them interior truth was received from the Celestial, Sig. . . 'Joseph,' here, = the Celestial, because interior truth is treated of, which is the Spiritual, and proceeds from him.

5748. That the Celestial knows hidden things from its own Divine. Sig.

5775^e. Good is what communicates with the Celestial from the Divine. Sig.

5869. 'Joseph' = internal good, thus the internal Celestial ; for by the Celestial is meant the good which proceeds from the Lord.

[A.]5877. That the internal Celestial gives the capacity of perception to truths in the Natural, Sig.

5879. The conjunction of the internal Celestial, which is 'Joseph,' cannot be effected with truths in the Natural, which are 'the sons of Jacob,' except by means of spiritual good from the Natural, which is 'Israel.'

5897^o. That the celestial are entirely unwilling to know anything of the scientifics which are signified by Egypt, for they know all things from the celestial good in which they are . . . Sig.

5915. Continuous influx of spiritual life from the internal Celestial, Sig.

5937. Perception of the Natural from the internal Celestial, Sig.

5962. Removal from the internal Celestial, and thus the hiding of it, Sig.

5994. In this chapter (Gen. xlv), the subject treated of is the conjunction of the internal Celestial, which is 'Joseph,' with spiritual good from the Natural, which is 'Israel.'

6008. That the internal Celestial will vivify, Sig.

6027. The communication of the good of the Church with the internal Celestial, Sig.

6030. Influx from the internal Celestial into spiritual good from the Natural, Sig.

6033. 'The neck' = the conjunction of interior with exterior things, and thence the communication of interior with exterior things, also of celestial with spiritual things.

6035. The perception of spiritual good, from the internal Celestial, Sig.

6060. The subject afterwards treated of is scientifics, how they were reduced into order by the internal Celestial, which is 'Joseph' . . .

6063. The presence of the internal Celestial in the Natural, where scientifics are, and thence influx and perception, Sig.

6082. The influx of the internal Celestial into spiritual good from the Natural, and into the truths of the Church there, Sig.

6083. That the scientifics of the natural mind are under the auspices of the internal Celestial, Sig.

6102. The life of spiritual good, and of the truths of the Church from the internal Celestial, Sig.

6106. That from the internal Celestial there is a continual influx of good into spiritual good and into the truths of the Church in the Natural, whence comes their life, Sig.

6112. That the internal Celestial collected into one every true and adaptable scientific, Sig.

6240. The internal Celestial, which is represented by 'Joseph,' is in the Rational.

—^c. No one is truly rational except he who is called a celestial man, and who has a perception of good, and from good a perception of truth . . . —².

—^c. The spiritual are represented by 'Israel,' and the celestial by 'Joseph.'

6265. That the internal Celestial removed the good of the Voluntary and the truth of the Intellectual from spiritual good, that is, from the affection of the love thereof, Sig. . . The reason is that thus there is an influx of love from the internal Celestial through spiritual good into them ; for this is according to order . . .

6294. That spiritual good, which is 'Israel,' now perceived this, was from the influx of the internal Celestial, which is 'Joseph.'

6295. That truth from good shall also be increased, thus the celestial man, Sig. . . That truth from good is of the celestial man, is evident from what has been so often said about the celestial man ; namely, that the celestial man is he who is in good from the Voluntary, and thence in truth ; and that he is distinguished from the spiritual man in this, that the latter, from the Intellectual, is in truth and thence in good ; and as 'Manasseh' = the good of the Voluntary, by him is represented the celestial man, but the external celestial man, or the man of the external Celestial Church, for 'Manasseh' = the good of the Voluntary in the Natural, thus in the external man ; whereas 'Joseph' = the man of the internal Celestial Church, because he = the good of the Voluntary in the Rational, thus in the internal man.

—². The truth of good which belongs to the celestial man is indeed called truth, but it is good. With the celestial man there is the good of love to the Lord, and there is the good of love towards the neighbour ; the good of love to the Lord is his internal, and the good of love towards the neighbour is his external ; wherefore those of the Celestial Church who are in love to the Lord are in the internal of that Church, and those who are in love towards the neighbour are in the external of that Church ; the good of this latter love, namely, of love towards the neighbour with the celestial man, is what is here called the truth of good, and is represented by 'Manasseh.' For the celestial man is of such a nature, that he does not reason from truth, nor about truth, for he has a perception from good, that is, through good from the Lord, that it is so, or that it is not so. Nevertheless, the good of charity with him is what is called truth, but celestial truth.

6296^e. Hence it is, that there are few with whom there is anything entire in the voluntary part, thus few who [can] become celestial men, but many who can become spiritual men.

6367⁵. That the celestial, who are in power from the good and thence from the truth which are from the Lord, are meant by 'lions,' is evident from Ps. xxxiv. 9, 10.

6366. See CELESTIAL KINGDOM at this ref.

6368. That from the Lord, through the Celestial, there is deliverance of many from Hell. Sig.

6370^e. That he who is in what is celestial is safe among all in the Hells. Sig.

6373². Thus it came to pass that no others could then be saved but the celestial ; and at last scarcely these . . .

6392². Few know that in doing good things without an end of reward there is heavenly happiness . . .

6393³. Heavenly blessedness consists in . . . being in the will of serving others, and in being the least. Sig.

6499². In order that (spiritual good) may exist, there must be an influx from the internal Celestial, which is represented by 'Joseph,' for without influx thence, that good is not good, because it is of no affection.

6553. The life of the internal Celestial, and of the truths of faith in scientifics, Sig.

6643. That the internal Celestial was in the Natural, Sig.

7362. The Spirits of Mars . . . are of a celestial genius . . . 7476.

8495³. This state with the Angels is the heavenly state itself . . .

8733. The reason is, that (the Spirits of Jupiter) are of a genius intermediate between the spiritual and the celestial . . .

—^e. The celestial do not (speak so sonorously), but what is of their will rolls itself by means of somewhat of thought into a kind of wave, which affects and moves the will of another according to the state of the thing.

8794³. The reason is that the spiritual cannot come even to the first threshold of the good in which the celestial are. Refs.

8795. No [extension] at all to the celestial Societies which are in the love of good, Sig.

8797. That whoever of the Spiritual Church infuses himself even to the Celestial will perish, Sig. and Ex.

8802². They who are intermediate between the Celestial Kingdom and the Spiritual Kingdom . . . have extension even into the celestial Societies. Sig. 8803.

8815. A celestial state which was around, Sig. and Ex.

8945. No elevation to the interior things which are celestial, Sig. . . The things in the inmost Heaven are called celestial things; those in the middle one, spiritual things . . .

9407. Divine truth, in its progress through the Heavens, in the inmost Heaven is celestial, in the second is spiritual, in the first is spiritual natural, and in the world is natural and worldly.

9455. By the bread of faces upon the table, and by the candlestick, were represented the celestial things, and by the garments of Aaron, the spiritual things, which are from the Lord in the Heavens.

9466. 'Hyacinthine' = the celestial love of truth . . . The reason is that hyacinthine is of a celestial colour; and by that colour is signified truth from a celestial origin, which is truth from the good of love to the Lord.

9470^e. That there is such a difference between what is celestial and what is spiritual, and that both cannot be together in one subject, Sig. and Ref.

9477. A covering for celestial things external and internal, Sig.

—^e. The celestial things which are of the good of love in Heaven are represented naked . . . 9515.

9527. 'Thou shalt make a table' = a receptacle of celestial things . . .

9538. Everything spiritual ceases in that which is called natural truth, and everything celestial in that which is called natural good, and there they subsist.

9550^e. The truth which is from good is called the Spiritual; and the good from which is truth is called the Celestial.

9568². From the Celestial is all the Spiritual, from the Spiritual is all the Natural, that is, from the Celestial through the Spiritual; the Celestial with man consists of all that is of the good of love; the Spiritual, of all that is of the truth of faith thence; and the Natural, of all that is scientific.

9671³. Those in the Hells who are opposite to the Celestial are called Genii; and those there who are contrary to the spiritual are called Spirits . . .

9683. Influx through the celestial things which are of love, Sig.

9825. The inmost (of the Spiritual Kingdom) communicates with what is celestial, and the external with what is natural, and thus the middle is derived equally from both.

9915. 'The work of the weaver' (Ex.xxviii.32) = from the Celestial . . . 'The weaver' = him who causes a thing to be or exist, thus, the Celestial, for from this and through this exists the Spiritual. . . Whether you say the good of the Celestial Kingdom, or the Celestial, it is the same, for the Celestial is the good of that Kingdom; in like manner with the good of the Spiritual Kingdom, and the Spiritual.

—². In the Heavens there are three things which succeed in order; namely, the Celestial, the Spiritual, and the Natural; the Celestial makes the inmost Heaven, the Spiritual the middle Heaven, and the Natural proceeding from the Spiritual the ultimate Heaven. The same three are in man . . .

9942². That which immediately proceeds from the Celestial, Sig. and Ex.

9992. 'Unleavened bread' (Ex.xxix.2) = the purification of the Celestial in the inmost man. . . The Celestial is the good of love, and the good of love is the inmost. There are three things with man which follow each other in successive order; these three are called the Celestial, the Spiritual, and the Natural; the Celestial is the good of love to the Lord, the Spiritual is the good of charity towards the neighbour, and the Natural thence derived is the good of faith, which, being from the Spiritual, is called the Spiritual Natural. (It is the same in the Heavens.)

9993. 'Cakes of what is unleavened mingled with oil' = the purification of the middle Celestial. Ex.

9994. 'Wafers of what is unleavened anointed with oil' = the Celestial in the external man . . . which proceeds in order from the former ones. Ex.

9995³. With a spiritual man and Angel, the marriage (of good and truth) takes place in the intellectual part; but in a celestial man and Angel in the voluntary part.

10005. There are three things which follow or succeed each other in order; these three things in the Heavens are called the Celestial, the Spiritual, and the Natural thence derived ; the Celestial is the good of love to the Lord, the Spiritual is the good of charity towards the neighbour, and the Natural thence derived is the good of faith ; the Celestial, which is the good of love to the Lord, constitutes the inmost or third Heaven ; the Spiritual, which is the good of charity towards the neighbour, constitutes the middle or second Heaven ; and the Natural thence derived, which is the good of faith, constitutes the ultimate or first Heaven. 10017².

[A.] 10042³. (The purification and regeneration of the external or natural man, of the internal or spiritual man, and of the inmost or celestial man, was represented by the burnt-offerings and sacrifices of various animals here enumerated.)

10099. There are three things which succeed each other in Heaven, and which, in order that they may be distinctly conceived of, are called by their own names, which are the Celestial, the Spiritual, and the Natural ; these three things proceed there in order, one from another, and by influx of the one into the other in succession they are connected together, and thus make one ; the Divine of the Lord in the Heavens, from the difference of the reception, is called by these names.

10574⁴. By the appearance of the Lord is meant all things there which are from the Lord, which are innumerable, and by a general word are called celestial and spiritual things.

10604. Because the Divine interior things of the internal sense appear in Heaven before the Angels, and in light there, they are called celestial and spiritual things ; the celestial things there are those which are of love, and the spiritual things are those which are of faith from love.

H. 2°. They receive a heavenly idea about the Lord.

31. The Divine which flows in from the Lord, and is received in the third or inmost Heaven, is called the Celestial, and thence the Angels who are there are called Celestial Angels ; the Divine which flows in from the Lord and is received in the second or middle Heaven, is called the Spiritual, and thence the Angels who are there are called Spiritual Angels ; but the Divine which flows in from the Lord and is received in the ultimate or first Heaven, is called the Natural ; but as the Natural of that Heaven is not like the Natural of the world, but has in it the Spiritual and the Celestial, that Heaven is called spiritual and celestial natural, and thence the Angels who are there, spiritual and celestial natural ones ; those are called spiritual natural who receive influx from the middle or second Heaven, which is the spiritual Heaven ; and those are called celestial natural who receive influx from the third or inmost Heaven, which is the celestial Heaven. The spiritual natural and celestial natural Angels are distinct from each other, but still they constitute one Heaven, because they are in one degree.

60. That celestial and spiritual things are ordered and conjoined in this form . . . These are the spiritual and celestial things which make man.

241². From the words of the Word in the Hebrew it may to some extent be known whether they belong to the celestial class or to the spiritual class, thus whether they involve good or truth ; those which involve good derive much from U and O, and something also from A ; but those which involve truth, derive from E and I.

333. All little children in the Grand Man, which is Heaven, are in the province of the eyes ; in the province of the left eye those of a spiritual nature, and in the province of the right eye those of a celestial nature . . .

337. Resplendent with celestial colours . . .

S. 6. From the Lord proceed the Celestial, the Spiritual, and the Natural, one after the other. That is called the Celestial which proceeds from His Divine love, and is Divine good ; that is called the Spiritual which proceeds from His Divine wisdom, and is Divine truth ; the Natural is from both, it is their complex in the ultimate. The Angels of the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, of whom is the third or highest Heaven, are in the Divine which proceeds from the Lord which is called the Celestial, for they are in the good of love from the Lord ; the Angels of the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, of whom is the second or middle Heaven, are in the Divine which proceeds from the Lord, which is called the Spiritual, for they are in truths of wisdom from the Lord ; but men of the Church in the world are in the Divine Natural, which also proceeds from the Lord. From this it follows, that the Divine which proceeds from the Lord to its ultimates descends through three degrees, and is named the Celestial, the Spiritual, and the Natural. . . Such is the Word ; in its ultimate sense it is natural, in its interior it is spiritual, and in its inmost it is celestial, and it is Divine in all. T. 195.

18°. By the olive, vine, cedar, poplar, and oak, are meant the good and truth of the Church celestial, spiritual, rational, natural, and sensual.

38°. As to the Word, the Celestial, the Spiritual, and the Natural proceed from the Lord in successive order, and in the ultimate are in simultaneous order . . . 65.

68. The reason the consociation of man with the Angels is by means of the natural or literal sense of the Word, is also that in every man from creation there are three degrees of life, celestial, spiritual, and natural ; but man is in the natural one so long as he is in the world, and at that time is so far in the spiritual one as he is in genuine truths, and so far in the celestial one as he is in a life according to them ; but still he does not come into the spiritual or celestial one itself until after death.

W. 232. These three degrees with the Angels are named celestial, spiritual, and natural, and with them the celestial degree is the degree of love, the spiritual degree is the degree of wisdom, and the natural degree is the degree of uses. The reason these degrees are thus named is that Heaven is distinguished into two Kingdoms, and one Kingdom is named Celestial, and the other Spiritual ; to which there is added a third kingdom in which are men in the world, which is the natural kingdom . . .

237². The third degree, which is called celestial, is opened by the celestial love of use, which love is love to the Lord, and love to the Lord is nothing else than committing to life the precepts of the Word, the sum of which is, to shun evils because they are infernal and diabolical, and to do goods because they are heavenly and Divine.

238. (After death) he comes into the celestial degree with whom the celestial degree has been opened in the world, . . . and he who comes into the celestial degree, thinks, wills, speaks, and acts according to his own degree . . . 345.

239. From which it is evident, that there is with every man a will and understanding natural, spiritual, and celestial, in potency, from birth, and in act when they are opened. In a word, the mind of man, which consists of will and understanding, from creation and thence from birth, is of three degrees, thus man has a natural mind, a spiritual mind, and a celestial mind . . .

261^e. As heavenly things cannot be so conjoined with natural ones as to act as one, they separate, and with merely natural men the heavenly things place themselves outside in a circuit around the natural things which are inside ; hence it is that a merely natural man can speak and preach heavenly things, and also feign them by his acts, although he inwardly thinks against them.

422. Love purified by wisdom in the understanding becomes spiritual and celestial. Gen.art. . . The understanding does not become spiritual and celestial, but the love does ; and when the love does so, it makes its spouse the understanding also spiritual and celestial. The love becomes spiritual and celestial by a life according to the truths of wisdom . . .

—². The reason love purified by wisdom becomes spiritual and celestial, is that man has three degrees of life, which are called natural, spiritual, and celestial, and man can be elevated from one into the other ; but he is not elevated by means of wisdom alone, but by means of a life according to it . . .

P. 32^a. Man comes into the second degree, which is called spiritual, if he lives according to the spiritual laws of order, which are Divine truths ; and he can also come into the third degree, which is called celestial, if he lives according to the celestial laws of order, which are Divine goods . . .

34^a. There are three degrees of wisdom, natural, spiritual, and celestial ; man is in the natural degree of wisdom while he lives in the world . . . After death, man is in the spiritual degree of wisdom, and this degree is also such that it may be perfected to the highest point, but still it cannot enter the celestial degree of wisdom, for this degree is not connected with the spiritual one by continuity, but is conjoined with it by correspondences . . .

57. This capacity of fructification and of multiplication without end . . . exists in natural things with men, in spiritual things with the Spiritual Angels, and in celestial things with the Celestial Angels.

279^a. Man's state, which from birth is infernal, (is to be inverted) into the opposite, which is heavenly.

R. 774². There are three degrees of wisdom and love, and thence three degrees of truth and good ; the first degree is called celestial, the second spiritual, and the third natural . . .

— . Many (of the Babylonians) are able to be spiritual, provided they at heart hold the Word to be holy . . . but they cannot become celestial, because they do not approach the Lord, but they approach men both living and dead. This is the reason why celestial things are mentioned in the second place.

920³. Those in the Church are celestial men who live righteously according to the Commandments because they are Divine laws . . .

M. 64. (Marriage) love, from its origin, and from its correspondence, is celestial, spiritual, holy, pure, and clean, above every love . . . Gen.art.

65. It is also the fundamental love of all loves, celestial, spiritual, and thence natural. Gen.art.

78^e. In the east (marriage love) was celestial, in the south spiritual, in the west natural, and in the north sensual. From experience.

158. The soul, being the inmost of man, from its origin is celestial ; and the mind, being the middle of him, from its origin is spiritual ; and the body, being the ultimate, from its origin is natural ; those things which are from a celestial origin, and those which are from a spiritual origin, are not in space, but are in appearances of space . . .

270^a. We in Heaven call that highest region of the mind celestial, the middle one spiritual, and the lowest natural ; and we perceive them like stories in a house, one above another, and the ascent from one into the other as it were by stairs ; and in each part there are two chambers, one for love and the other for wisdom ; and in front as it were a bed-chamber, where love con-sociates in bed with its own wisdom, or good with its own truth, or, what is the same, the will with its own understanding. Rep.

305. There are in human minds three regions, of which the highest is called celestial, the middle spiritual, and the lowest natural ; into this lowest man is born, and he ascends into his higher region, which is called spiritual, by a life according to the truths of religion, and into the highest by the marriage of love and wisdom ; in the lowest region, which is called natural, reside all the concupiscences of evil, and lasciviousnesses ; but in the higher region, which is called spiritual, there are not any concupiscences of evil and lasciviousnesses, for man is brought into this by the Lord when he is reborn ; but in the highest region, which is called celestial, there is conjugal chastity in its own love ; into this man is elevated by the love of uses, and as the most excellent uses are from marriages, by love truly conjugal.

326^e. It was then said to them from the third Heaven, that there is a wisdom still more interior or higher, which is called celestial, which stands to spiritual wisdom as that does to natural.

268^e. For there is marriage love natural, marriage love spiritual, and marriage love celestial ; the natural and the celestial, and their jealousies, will be spoken of in the two articles which follow.

T. 32⁸. Among the three degrees of height there is advancement to infinity, namely, the first degree which is called natural, cannot be perfected and elevated to the perfection of the second degree, which is called spiritual; nor this to the perfection of the third, which is called celestial.

[T.] 34. The human mind . . . is formed into three regions according to three degrees; in the first degree it is celestial, in which also are the Angels of the highest Heaven; in the second degree it is spiritual, in which also are the Angels of the middle Heaven; and in the third degree it is natural, in which also are the Angels of the ultimate Heaven. The human mind, organized according to these three degrees, is a receptacle of the Divine influx, but still the Divine does not flow in any further than man clears the way or opens the door; if he does this even to the highest or celestial degree, he becomes truly an image of God, and after death an Angel of the highest Heaven; if he clears the way or opens the door only to the middle or second degree, he then also becomes an image of God, but not to the same perfection, and after death becomes an Angel of the middle Heaven; but if he only clears the way or opens the door merely to the natural or ultimate degree, the man, if he acknowledges God, and worships Him with actual piety, becomes an image of God in the ultimate degree, and after death becomes an Angel of the ultimate Heaven. But if he does not acknowledge God, and worship Him with actual piety, he puts off the image of God, and becomes like some animal, except that he enjoys the capacity of understanding and thence of speaking. If he then closes up the higher natural degree, which corresponds to the highest celestial one, he becomes as to love like a beast of the earth; but if he closes up the middle natural degree, which corresponds to the middle spiritual one, he becomes as to love like a fox, and as to the sight of the understanding like a bird of evening; but if he closes up also the ultimate natural degree as to the Spiritual of it, he becomes as to love like a wild beast, and as to the understanding of truth like a fish. 147².

136³. So unacquainted with heavenly things . . .

145. An Angel ponders nothing but heavenly things, a devil nothing but infernal things.

160^e. The inmost things of the cerebellum, which in themselves are celestial, fall in; hence the hollowness.

277. The representations of heavenly things . . .

296^e. With rays of heavenly light . . . 335².

329². The latter love is infernal, the former heavenly.

344. Natural faith, spiritual faith, celestial faith.

412^e. Rulers over a heavenly Society . . .

419. From a heavenly origin . . .

444^e. Not only of civil, but also of heavenly Society . . .

447. Attached to some heavenly Society . . .

478^e. He is introduced into heavenly freedom . . .

499. The blessed state of man in the heavenly aura . . .

593^e. From a single action of a man the Angels perceive . . . whether he is infernal or heavenly . . .

603. The human mind is distinguished into three regions; the lowest is called natural, the middle spiritual, and the highest celestial; by regeneration man is elevated from the lowest region, which is natural, into the higher one which is spiritual, and through this into the celestial one . . .

664. What heavenly thing you were speaking of . . .

759². The heavenly things of Heaven, and the spiritual things of the Church . . .

D. 209. The Spiritual which confers the faculty of reasoning in the natural man is the Spiritual which has not the Celestial in it, for if it had the Celestial in it, it would come forth from the Celestial, thus from a genuine spring, namely, from love, thus from God Messiah; this Spiritual can however be conceived of as being encompassed by the Celestial, for without the Celestial no faculty of reasoning exists.

222^e. In the inmost mind is the Celestial . . .

1112. On the delight of the celestial.

1123. As (the Spirits of Jupiter) are celestial . . . they have as it were an imaginative speech . . .

1125. Those who are of the class of the celestial, are first introduced into a Society of the grave and serious; for immediately after vastation they love nothing more than serious thoughts . . .

1552. I was in the company of Genii, or of celestial Spirits, and I then disappeared from those with whom I had been before, who were spiritual . . .

1645. The celestial love soft words and letters, in fact they pick out vowels and soften certain consonants.

1741^e. The active things of life are called celestial, the passive things of life spiritual; and as celestial things, or love, ought to rule spiritual things, and not spiritual things celestial things, so are things constituted in the body.

3127^e. Celestial states, from which are spiritual ones . . .

3314¹. (Those of the Most Ancient Church) said that they cannot speak about the Lord, because their ideas were celestial, and in the word Lord there is a spiritual idea; it was the same with other ideas by which Lord is expressed, as Jesus, and Christ . . .

3607. The celestial gyres cannot be at all understood, Gen.art.

4719. On the spiritual and the celestial as to marriage love. . . With the celestial, marriage love begins from the internals, thus from a conjunction of souls; and they disregard nudities, as in the hot zones . . . In the other life also, the celestial appear naked, and the spiritual clothed; the latter from their nature in the world are lascivious, but not the former. . . A further reason is, that with the celestial the Voluntary is not so much destroyed as it is with the spiritual; from this, which is the inmost of man, they love, but the spiritual from the intellectual part, which is relatively external; hence there is lasciviousness at the beginning. Hence also it is evident that the states of the spiritual and of the celestial are inverted (in relation to each other).

4783². The Africans . . . are of a celestial nature. 5518.

5102. There are three kinds of speech, celestial, spiritual, and natural; and one inflows into the other and forms it; natural speech is that of men . . . Spiritual speech is such as is proper to the Spirits and Angels in the second Heaven . . . But celestial speech is that of the affections which are of love . . . this speech is incomprehensible, yet is the universal of all; it is also in man, in his inmost principles, when these are opened to the Lord by means of love; these perceive the least of all things of the Word even to the little jots; also each and all the affections of the Word; they are in the inmost sense, which is about the Lord; they perceive in man all things of his affection and love, whether he speaks, sighs, beats his breast, weeps, or rejoices, they perceive the ends; they therefore have ideas in thought and speech which are not from understanding abstracted from will, but conjoined therewith, so that it is as it were from will itself . . .

5116. I was introduced by the Lord among the celestial, where I saw Spirits who were below the higher angelic Heaven; they said nothing, but were continually acting; for they either carried something, or dragged something, or led something, or entered, and went out; they run, they go slowly, they ascended, they descended; thus did they act by a thousand and a thousand methods. He who merely sees these things, and does not see anything from their faces, nor from their gestures in particular, nor perceives their thoughts, wonders greatly that it should be so; but he who sees the motions of their bodies and of the members of their bodies in particular; and still more he who sees their faces, and the changes there; and still more he who perceives their interior affections and their changes; he sees in each singular all things of the body and of its members, from the head to the soles of the feet . . . he perceives innumerable things. . . . They speak with each other by this method, and also by means of intellectual ideas, but not by means of such as the Spiritual Angels have, but by means of those which act as one with the affection in which they are, with ineffable variety. 5587^o.

5117. They are of ineffable beauty, and in speech, gestures, and all external changes, both in general and in particular, they are of ineffable delightfulness.

5119. They see innumerable things around them; they have paradises, fields, palaces, with innumerable things in every part of them . . .

5122. They never think about absent persons, but when they are by themselves, and as it were solitary, they think from the objects which are before their sight, and form for themselves many objects visibly, from the others, with variety according to their affections . . .

5124. They have their wives, but such as are in an entirely similar affection, with this difference, however, that the husband [is good, and the wife the truth of that good]; thus they are one . . . and are unwilling to be called two, but one; they also are one . . . Their marriage love cannot be described; nothing enters into it which is lascivious; they are completely ignorant of what lasciviousness is; but marriage love is their fundamental love; it is their Heaven, that is, the happiness of their life . . .

5126. See BEARD at this ref.

5519^o. The celestial well understand the spiritual, but not contrariwise; because the celestial are more interior . . .

5520. The doctrine of the Church passes immediately into life with those who become celestial; when they know it, they live simply according to it, nor do they think otherwise, and reason whether they ought to do otherwise; but with the spiritual the doctrine of the Church first passes into the memory, and thence into the understanding and life; but they reason whether it is so.

5521. Their speech is not sonorous as with the spiritual; but is like a soft undulatory sound, hardly audible.

5522. They do not know how they imbue or learn . . . truths become as it were infixed in them, for they are not infixed, but are influent or received thus by influx from the Lord.

5547. The internal [Heavens] are those which are called celestial, and the external those which are called spiritual; the internal are distinguished into three, and the external into three . . .

5575. The celestial in general correspond to the heart and the pulse of the Grand Man, and also to the flesh, even to the tendinous things there, the cartilaginous and bony parts; but the spiritual to the lungs, and to the breathing, also to the various fibres, and to the blood and the animal spirits.

5586³. The speech of the celestial is external, for they only speak the things which they see, and not those which they hear.

5587. On the speech of the celestial, and of the spiritual. Gen.art. The celestial do not speak anything from what is interior, because this does not fall into words; all truths inscribed there are according to the order of Heaven, so that the image of Heaven is in them; and as they are thus in truths themselves, they never think about them, and thus not about such things as are of reason, or rational things, nor about moral things, and civil things as to what is just and fair; because they see all these things from the truths in which they are. (From experience.) Such things as are rational, and which they hear, they never utter, nor can they utter them, because they have not a memory of these things other than that they know and perceive when others are speaking about them, and then they say or think, yea, yea, or nay, nay. They said further, that whatever enters through the hearing from such they do not utter, but still they perceive; but what they see with their eyes they know, and this they utter as well as others . . .

5597. When the celestial hear truths from others they see them; thus also when they hear rational things they see them outside themselves, thus from others, but not within themselves, as the spiritual do. Hence also it is that they know that they flow in from others; and if false things are spoken they do not receive or believe them; by this also they are distinguished from the spiritual.

[D.]5730. The instruction of boys and maidens, and also of the simple, takes place by this method. Where those of the Celestial Kingdom are consociated together, who are of such a nature that they see truths, and thence know them, but cannot utter them; when these hear those of the Spiritual Kingdom speaking together, and when truths are spoken, they say that it is so, and praise them. But when truths are not spoken, they say that it is thus, and that we ought to say thus; and where they are polite and can be instructed by means of polite [speeches], they say that they could speak better if they liked, or if they were to think the matter over, and so on; thus they think what has been spoken, and what is to be spoken in order that it may be true. Then they return and say something different, and if they then say what is true they praise them. They are kept in respect for him, and moreover he keeps silent; and he himself also is thus instructed, for the things he hears are insinuated into his sight, and thus he knows what he did not know before. These are as much perfected through the spiritual, as the spiritual are through the celestial; for the latter, if they do not hear truths, and so see them, are stupid, for they do not think.

E. 700²⁷. The man of the Church advances from the Natural to the Spiritual, and through this to the Celestial; the Natural is the good of life, the Spiritual is the good of charity towards the neighbour, and the Celestial is the good of love to the Lord. Sig.

739⁴. The third or inmost degree is opened with those who immediately apply Divine truths to life, and do not first reason from the memory about them, and thus send them into doubt; this degree is called celestial.

D. Wis. xii. 4. There is no proportion between the Spiritual in which are the Angels of the ultimate Heaven and the Celestial in which are the Angels of the highest Heaven, but there is conjunction by correspondences. In like manner there is no proportion between the Celestial in which are the Angels of the highest Heaven and the Divine of the Lord, but still there is conjunction by correspondences.

De Verbo 3. On the difference in general between the Natural, the Spiritual, and the Celestial.

—². The difference between the Natural, the Spiritual, and the Celestial is such that there is no proportion between them; wherefore the Natural cannot by any method of approximation approach the Spiritual; nor the Spiritual the Natural; hence it is that the Heavens are distinct. (From experience.)

—³. There is a like difference between the Spiritual and the Celestial. (Shown by experiment.)

—⁷. Hence it is that the Natural comprehends nothing from spiritual writing, nor the Spiritual from natural writing; nor does the Spiritual comprehend anything from celestial writing, nor the Celestial from spiritual writing, unless it is with the Spiritual.

—⁹. The difference between the Natural, the Spiritual, and the Celestial is such that they do not agree together at all except by means of correspondences. . . . All the Celestial inflows into the Spiritual, and the Spiritual into the Natural, and in the ultimate of this, which is corporeal and material, it ceases, and there subsists . . .

—¹⁰. That there is such a difference between the Natural, the Spiritual, and the Celestial, is not known by any Angel, because an Angel does not change his state . . .

—¹¹. The likeness of the natural, spiritual, and celestial state exists in such things as are objects of sight, taste, smell, and hearing . . .

C. 137. All offices and employments regarded as to goods of use constitute a form which corresponds to the heavenly form. Gen.art.

Inv. 3. There is a still higher or more interior light and heat, called celestial, which is inserted . . . into the former spiritual light and heat; in this are the Angels of the third Heaven, who are called celestial.

Celestial Angel. Angelus Coelestis.

See CELESTIAL KINGDOM and THIRD HEAVEN.

A. 32². The Celestial Angels do not know what faith is, except that which is of love.

34. The Celestial Angels, being in such love from the Lord, from love are in all Knowledges of faith, and from love are in such life and light of intelligence as can be hardly at all described.

87. (In the seventh state of regeneration) good Spirits approach, and also Celestial Angels, and when these are present, evil Spirits can never be present, but flee far away.

170. (During my experimental resuscitation) Celestial Angels were present, who took possession of the province of the heart, so that as to the heart I seemed to be united to them . . . hardly anything being left to me except thought, and thence perception; and this for some hours. 176. H.449. D.1101. 1742.

172. Besides the Celestial Angels who took possession of the province of the heart, there were also two (Celestial) Angels who were sitting at the head; and it was perceived that this takes place with everyone. D.1096.

173. The Angels who were sitting at the head were perfectly silent, only communicating their thoughts with the face; so that I perceived that they induced on me as it were another face, in fact two, because there were two of them. When the Angels perceive that their faces are received, they know that the man is dead. H.449². D.1097.

174. After they had recognized their faces, they induced as it were changes about the province of the mouth, and so communicated their thoughts; for to speak by the province of the mouth is general with the celestial . . .

175. When the Celestial Angels are present, what is cadaverous is perceived as what is aromatic; and when evil Spirits perceive this, they cannot approach. 1518. H.449³. D.1100.

177. The thoughts which the man had at the moment of death are kept on by the Angels; (these are usually thoughts about eternal life). H.449³. D.1102.

178. They are kept a good while in this thought by the Celestial Angels before they recede . . .

180. The Celestial Angels who were sitting at the head, remained with me for some time after I had been as it were resuscitated, but did not speak, except tacitly.

I perceived . . . that they utterly disregarded all falsities and fallacies, not laughing at them as ridiculous, but caring nothing whatever about them. Their speech is cogitative, without sound, and by this they begin to speak with the Souls with whom they at first are.

181. As yet the man who has thus been resuscitated by the celestial is in an obscure life; and when the time has arrived that he is to be handed over to the Spiritual Angels, after some delay the celestial recede, when the spiritual have approached . . .

182. When the Celestial Angels are with a resuscitated person, they do not leave him, for they love everyone; but when the Soul is of such a nature that he can no longer be in the company of the celestial he wishes to depart from them; and when this takes place the Spiritual Angels come, who give him the use of light; for before this he saw nothing, but only thought. H.450.

184. (He still remains, however) in a tranquil state, for he is still guarded by the celestial.

201. The Angels and angelic Spirits who are called celestial are of a similar nature to the regenerated most ancient people who were before the Flood . . .

202. Such also is the life of the Celestial Angels; those of them who are more interiorly celestial do not admit of even the mention of faith, and of anything which derives anything from what is spiritual; and if it is mentioned by others, instead of faith they perceive love with a difference that is Known only to themselves; thus whatever is of faith they derive from love and charity; still less can they endure to hear anything rational, and least of all anything scientific about faith, for they have perception from the Lord, through love, of what is good and true; from perception they know at once whether it is so, or is not so; wherefore when anything is said about faith they make no reply except that it is so, or is not so, because they perceive from the Lord. Sig. This is also signified by not touching anything of the fruit of the tree of knowledge; for if they were to touch it they would be in evil . . . Further, the Celestial Angels speak together about various things, as others do, but with celestial speech, formed by and derived from love, which is more ineffable than the speech of the Spiritual Angels. 880³.

394. They are called 'eunuchs' who are in the heavenly marriage; 'those so born from the womb' (Matt. xix. 12), who are as the Celestial Angels; 'those so made by men,' who are as the Spiritual Angels; 'those who have made themselves so,' who are as angelic Spirits, who are not so much characterized by charity as by obedience.

418². The angelic choirs are of two kinds, celestial and spiritual . . . The Celestial Angels belong to the province of the heart; the Spiritual Angels to that of the lungs.

597². See MOST ANCIENT CHURCH at these refs. 875².

1013⁴. The Celestial Angels are 'likenesses;' the Spiritual Angels are 'images.'

1042. The Spiritual Angels are they who are said to be regenerated 'with water and the spirit;' but the Celestial Angels, with 'fire.'

1384². Perceptions of this kind are of much variety; with the Celestial Angels, who are in love to the Lord, there is a perception of good, and thence of all things which are of truth; and as, from good, they perceive truth, they do not admit of any speech, still less of any reasoning about truth; but say that it is so, or that it is not so.

1470. All truth which is celestial, or which is produced from the Celestial, is happy in the inward man, and delightful in the outward; no otherwise is truth perceived with the Celestial Angels.

1525^e. All the Angels who are in the third Heaven are in general distinguished into the celestial and the spiritual; the celestial are those who are in the love of good; the spiritual are those who are in the love of truth. 1997^e.

1529. The Lord appears in the third Heaven to the Celestial Angels as a Sun, and to the Spiritual Angels as a Moon. 2069^e. 2669². 2776³. E.380².

1647. See SPEAK at these refs. 5253^e. H.241. D.1108. 1109. 1470. 5554.

2069³. Celestial truth is that which there is with the Celestial Angels . . .

2119. As soon as his bodily things grow cold, which takes place after some days, he is resuscitated by the Lord by means of Celestial Angels; who are at first with him; but when he is of such a nature that he cannot be with these, he is received by Spiritual Angels; and in succession afterwards by good Spirits . . .

2157. The Celestial Angels perceive the Word, such as it is in the inward sense, as to affection; but the Spiritual Angels as to the subject; they who perceive the Word . . . as to the affection, do not attend at all to the words which belong to the subject, but form for themselves ideas from the affection and its series . . . Hence it is evident that the perception, thought, and speech of the Celestial Angels is more ineffable and much richer than the perception, thought, and speech of the Spiritual Angels. 2275. 2802.

2215. Thought from perception is the inmost kind which exists with man, and with the Celestial Angels in Heaven.

2813. No idea can be formed of Divine good, except by those who have perception, and are Celestial Angels.

3635. The Celestial Angels there constitute one Kingdom, and the spiritual another . . .

3691⁴. They who are in love itself to the Lord to such a degree that they have a perception of love, are in a higher degree of good and truth, and are in the inmost and third Heaven, thus nearer to the Lord, and are called Celestial Angels.

3702². The Celestial Angels have a perception that all things in the world (are alive).

3735³. The Lord's 'body' = His Divine love, and the reciprocal with man, such as is the love with the Celestial Angels . . .

3839². There are especially two affections which shine forth from the Word before the Angels . . . affections of truth before the Spiritual Angels, and affections of good before the Celestial Angels . . .

[A.] 3886. The conversation of the Celestial Angels is not heard by the Spiritual Angels, but is perceived under the appearance of a beating of the heart ; and this because the conversation of the Celestial Angels is not intelligible to the Spiritual Angels, for it is effected by means of affections which are of love ; but that of the spiritual by means of intellectual ideas.

3928. The Celestial Angels cannot be at all present with a man in his corporeal and worldly delight before this has been reduced to compliance, that is, that it is no longer the end, but is for the use of serving heavenly delight . . .

5145². The first degree constitutes the interior Rational ; in this are the Celestial Angels, or the third Heaven. The second degree constitutes the exterior Rational ; in this are the Spiritual Angels, or the second Heaven. The third degree makes the interior Natural ; in this are good Spirits, or the first Heaven. The fourth degree makes the exterior Natural, or Sensual ; in this is man.

—4. With those who have perceptions of good and truth, as the Celestial Angels, the terminations are from the first degree to the ultimate ; without terminations of each and all the degrees such perceptions would be impossible . . .

5249². These things (concerning the Lord's glorification) are what the Celestial Angels think when these historical things are read by man ; to think such things is to them most delightful, for they are in the sphere of the Lord's Divine, thus as it were in the Lord ; and are in the perception of the inmost joy when they are in thought about the Lord, and about the salvation of mankind by the Lord making the Human in Himself Divine ; and as the Angels are kept in this most celestial joy, and at the same time in wisdom, that Divine process is fully described in the inward sense of the Word.

5342². From his earliest infancy even to his earliest childhood, man is introduced by the Lord into Heaven, and in fact among the Celestial Angels, by whom he is kept in a state of innocence . . .

5895². The Celestial Angels will not even think of truth separated from good, for all truth with them is in good, thus also with them truth is good . . .

5978. The reason there are two Angels with every man, is that there are two kinds of them ; one kind who act into the voluntary things of man, and another who act into his intellectual things ; those who are in the voluntary things of man act into his loves and ends, consequently into his goods ; but those who are in the intellectual things of man act into his faith and principles, consequently into his truths ; they are also most distinct from each other. Those who act into the voluntary things of man are called celestial ones ; and those who act into his intellectual things, spiritual ones. The celestial ones are opposite to the Genii, and the spiritual ones to the Spirits.

5983². The Spirits and Genii with man are nothing but subjects, through whom he has communication with Hell ; and the Celestial and Spiritual Angels are subjects, through whom he has communication with the Heavens.

6365². When anyone from the infernal crew approaches any Angel from the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, he flees away at his mere presence, because he cannot endure it . . . Moreover, a Celestial Angel never fights . . .

6370². In every Hell there is order, and this order is preserved by the Lord, both immediately, and mediately by means of Celestial Angels. Sometimes also the Angels are sent thither, in order to reduce the disordered things there into order ; and while they are there they are in safety ; this is meant by its being said that he who is in the Celestial is safe among all in the Hells.

6600². The affection of truth penetrates to the Societies of the Spiritual Angels, and the affection of good, to the Societies of the Celestial Angels.

6617². He was then taken up still more interiorly, where the Celestial Angels are, and he then said that what he had seen before (in the Word) was hardly anything to what he saw now.

6914². At this day also some who are more deceitful than others, because they betray by a pretence of innocence and charity, are under the view of the celestial, and so long as they are, are withheld from their wicked wives ; they are directly above the head, and the Celestial Angels, under whose view they are, are still higher . . .

7058². When the truth which proceeds immediately from the Lord's Divine is conjoined with the truth which proceeds mediately, there then exists perception ; this conjunction especially exists with the Angels who are in the third or inmost Heaven, and are called Celestial ; these have an exquisite perception of both kinds of truth, and thence of the presence of the Lord ; the reason is that they are in good above others, for with them there is the good of innocence ; therefore they are nearest the Lord, and are in flashing, and as it were in flaming light ; for they see the Lord as a Sun . . .

7193². The infernals who tempt cannot even approach the Celestial Angels, for when they approach, they are seized with horror and anguish, and are as it were deprived of life.

8820. See CELESTIAL LOVE at this ref.

9166². In the internal, truth appears in its own light . . . Hence it is that the Celestial Angels, who are in the inmost or third Heaven, being in the highest degree of light, do not even confirm truths by reasons, still less dispute or reason about them ; but only say, Yea, or Nay ; the reason is that they perceive and see them from the Lord.

9212². They who are in good alone, as are the Angels of the inmost Heaven, who are called celestial, appear naked.

9809. The Celestial Angels are receptions of Divine good from the Lord ; the Spiritual Angels are receptions of the Divine truth thence derived.

9810. The Divine Celestial is the Divine of the Lord in the inmost Heaven, for the Angels there are called Celestial Angels, and are receptions of Divine truth in their voluntary part.

10608². The Celestial Angels dwell upon mountains, and the Spiritual Angels upon rocks . . .

H. 21. Those Angels who receive (the Divine which proceeds from the Lord) more interiorly are called Celestial Angels ; but those who receive it less interiorly are called Spiritual Angels ; hence Heaven is distinguished into two Kingdoms, one of which is called the Celestial Kingdom, and the other the Spiritual Kingdom.

22. As the Angels who constitute the Celestial Kingdom receive the Divine of the Lord more interiorly, they are called interior and also higher Angels; and thence also the Heavens constituted of them are called interior and higher ones.

31. The Divine which flows in from the Lord and is received in the third or inmost Heaven is called the Celestial, and thence the Angels who are there are called Celestial Angels . . .

146°. The Spiritual Angels cannot ascend to the Celestial Angels, nor can the latter descend to the former.

251. The influx of the Celestial Angels is into that part of the head beneath which is the cerebellum . . .

270. See ANGEL at these refs. W. 101. 279. D. 156.

—(d). The Celestial Angels know innumerable things, and are vastly wiser than the Spiritual Angels. Ref.

271. The reason the Angels of the third Heaven are of such a character, is that they are in love to the Lord, and this opens the interiors of their minds to the third degree, and is the receptacle of all things of wisdom. . . The Angels of the inmost Heaven are continually being perfected in wisdom, but in a different way from the Angels of the ultimate Heaven. The Angels of the inmost Heaven do not lay up Divine truths in the memory, thus neither do they make any knowledge from them; but as soon as ever they hear them, they perceive them, and send them into life; hence it is that Divine truths remain as it were permanently inscribed on them.

—². The Angels of the third Heaven are perfected in wisdom through the hearing, but not through the sight; the things they hear from preaching do not enter into their memory, but enter immediately into their perception and will, and become of the life; but the things which these Angels see with their eyes enter into their memory, and concerning these they reason and speak: hence it is evident that the way of hearing is with them the way of wisdom. Sig. 280°. E. 14°.

280. They who are in the inmost or third Heaven are in innocence of the third or inmost degree; these are therefore the innocencies themselves of Heaven, for above all others they love to be led by the Lord, as little children by their father . . . They are therefore nearest to the Lord, from Whom is their innocence; and they are also separated from the proprium, so that they live as it were in the Lord: in outward form they appear simple, and before the eyes of the Angels of the lower Heavens they appear as little children, thus small, and also as those who are not very wise, although they are the wisest of the Angels of Heaven; for they know that they have nothing of wisdom from themselves, and that to be wise is to acknowledge this; and also that what they know is as nothing in comparison with what they do not know; to know, acknowledge and perceive this, they say is the first step to wisdom: these Angels are also naked, for nakedness corresponds to innocence. E. 828°.

282°. As innocence is the inmost in all the good of Heaven, it affects minds so that he who feels it, as takes place when an Angel of the inmost Heaven approaches, seems to himself to be no longer at his own disposal, and to be affected and as it were carried away with such delight that the whole delight of the world appears to be nothing in comparison with it.

288°. Innocence and peace are conjoined together as good and its delight, for good is felt through its delight, and delight is Known from its good. As this is so, it is evident that the Angels of the inmost or third Heaven are in the inmost degree of peace . . .

333. Little children are of different natures, some are of the nature of the Spiritual Angels, some of the nature of the Celestial Angels . . .

N. 4. The Heavens are expanses, one above another; in the highest expanses are those who are called Celestial Angels, of whom the most are from the Most Ancient Church; the Angels who are there are called Celestial Angels from celestial love, which is love to the Lord . . .

S. 63. The Angels of the Celestial Kingdom are in the celestial sense of the Word . . . 64. From experience.

65°. When a man is reading the Word, a Spiritual Angel calls forth what is spiritual, and a Celestial Angel what is celestial . . . 67, Examp.

74. The wisdom of the Celestial Angels surpasses the wisdom of the Spiritual Angels almost as the wisdom of the Spiritual Angels surpasses the wisdom of men, and this because the Celestial Angels are in the good of love from the Lord, and the Spiritual Angels in truths of wisdom from the Lord; and where the good of love is, wisdom resides together with it; but where truths are, no more wisdom resides than there is of the good of love.

R. 231. The Spiritual Angels, being in truths of wisdom from the Lord, are in that bright white light, wherefore they are clothed in white; and the Celestial Angels, being in the goods of love from the Lord, are in that flaming light, wherefore they are clothed in red.

878°. The Celestial Angels, who are the Angels of the highest Heaven, dwell as in an ethereal atmosphere; the Spiritual Angels, who are the Angels of the middle Heaven, dwell as in an aerial atmosphere; and the spiritual natural Angels, who are the Angels of the ultimate Heaven, dwell as in an aqueous atmosphere, which from afar appears like the sea.

896. The Angels of the third Heaven dwell upon the mountains, the Angels of the second Heaven on the hills, and the Angels of the ultimate Heaven in the valleys between the mountains and hills.

M. 64°. Marriage love is called celestial and spiritual, because it exists with the Angels of the Heavens; with the Angels of the highest Heaven it is celestial, because these Angels are called celestial ones; and with the Angels below that Heaven it is spiritual, because these Angels are called spiritual ones. The Angels are so called, because the celestial ones are loves and thence wisdoms, and the spiritual ones are wisdoms and thence loves; it is the same with their marriage principle.

T. 508°. I saw as it were a little child above my head . . . He was an Angel from the third Heaven, where all from afar appear as little children. When he was with me he handed me a paper, but as it was written with curvilinear letters, such as are used in that Heaven, I returned it to him, and asked him to state the meaning of the words in it in expressions adapted to the ideas of my thought; and he replied, This is written there, Henceforth enter into the mysteries of the Word which has heretofore been closed up, for each and all its truths are so many mirrors of the Lord.

[T.] 686. They who have been regenerated through the Divine good of love go dressed in crimson garments, and are called Celestial Angels.

D. 3318. See BREATHE at this ref.

5112. The words of the Celestial Angels have affinity with A, O, and U . . . Wherefore, when a man speaks with them, he is turned from words in which there are E, and I, to words in which there are A, O, and U.

5578. On the writing of the Celestial Angels. (See WRITE at this ref.)

D. Min. 4711. The Celestial Angels or the celestial Heaven, in which are the men of the Most Ancient Church, have a Voluntary in which there is something good, wherefore they could be regenerated also as to it. 4712. (See CELESTIAL CHURCH at A.4328.)

E. 240². There is the will of truth and there is the will of good; the will of truth exists with those who are of the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, and the will of good with those who are of the Lord's Celestial Kingdom; the latter, being in love to the Lord, and thence in mutual love, which with them is charity towards the neighbour, have truths inscribed on their hearts, and thence do them, and that which proceeds from the heart is from the will of good; the heart is the will of good. But those who are in love towards the neighbour, which love is charity, have not truths inscribed on their hearts, but on the memory and thence on the intellectual mind, and what proceeds thence from affection is the will of truth: thus are the Spiritual Angels distinguished from the Celestial Angels. The latter appear naked in Heaven, the former clothed: the reason the Celestial Angels appear naked, is that they have no need to retain truths in the memory, nor thence to comprehend them by the understanding, because they have them inscribed on the heart, that is, on the love and will; but the reason the Spiritual Angels appear clothed, is that they have truths inscribed on the memory and thence on the understanding, and these truths correspond to garments . . .

831². Spiritual love is the love of truth, and in the highest sense, the love of the Divine truth which proceeds from the Lord, thus also is love to the Lord, but in a lower degree than that in which are the Celestial Angels; the latter, namely, the Celestial Angels, are in love to the Lord from the reception of Divine good from Him; the former, namely, the Spiritual Angels, are in love to the Lord from the reception of Divine truth from Him; the difference is like that between love in the will and love in the understanding, or as between flame and its light . . . The life, too, of the Angels of the third Heaven consists of affections of good, and the life of the Angels of the second Heaven of affections of truth . . .

— As the Angels of the third Heaven are perfected in wisdom through the hearing, there are intermediate Angels, who are called celestial spiritual Angels, who preach and teach truths in their temples; which are called houses of God, and are of wood.

831⁰. The higher Heavens, where are the Celestial Angels, constitute the Lord's priesthood . . .

902¹. When the Angels of the third Heaven, who are in the greatest wisdom and happiness, were asked how they became such Angels, they said that it was because while they lived in the world they accounted as wicked filthy thoughts, which to them were even adulteries; in like manner fraud and unlawful gains, which to them were thefts; likewise hatred and revenge, which to them were murders; and also lies and revilings, which to them were false witness; and the same with other things. They were afterwards asked whether they had not done good works; they said that they had loved the chastity in which they were because they accounted adulteries as wicked; that they had loved the sincerity and justice in which they were because they accounted fraud and unlawful gains as wicked; that they had loved the neighbour because they accounted hatred and revenge as wicked; that they had loved truth because they accounted lies and revilings as wicked; and so on; also that they had perceived that on these things being removed, to act from chastity, sincerity, justice, charity, and truth, was not from themselves, but from the Lord, and thus good works were all things which came from these things, although they had done them as of themselves; and hence it was that after death they were carried by the Lord into the third Heaven.

1215. The Angels who are in truths are called Spiritual Angels, and those who are in goods Celestial Angels . . .

D. Wis. i². The Angels of all the Heavens are distinguished into two Kingdoms; those who have received more from the heat which is love than from the light which is wisdom constitute one Kingdom, and are called Celestial Angels; from these are the highest Heavens; but those who have received more from the light which is wisdom than from the heat which is love constitute the other Kingdom, and are called Spiritual Angels; from these are the lower Heavens . . .

De Verbo 3⁶. As to what concerns the Angels of the highest Heaven, they have not thoughts, but they have perceptions of the things which they hear and see; instead of thoughts they have affections, which with them are varied, as thoughts are varied with the Spiritual Angels.

De Conj. 66. The Angels of the Third Heaven are in the heavenly marriage above all the rest . . . hence they are in marriage love above the rest of the Angels, and in innocence and chastity; they walk with a cincture about the loins out of doors, but without it at home; yet there is no lasciviousness excited; they say that to look at a married partner clothed takes away the idea of marriage; in lecto jacent copulati sicut sunt creati, ac ita dormiunt, dicunt quod non possent aliter, quia ipse amor conjugialis, qui perpetuus est, copulat . . . E.992³.

70. The Angels of the Third Heaven dwell on mountains, not rocky, but of soil . . .

Celestial Church. Ecclesia coelestis.

A. 768². When 'Judah' is mentioned in the Prophets, the Celestial Church, or whatever is of that Church is usually signified; when 'Israel' is mentioned, the Spiritual Church, or whatever is of that Church, is usually signified; and when 'Jacob' is mentioned, the external Church is signified. (See JUDAH.)

784. 'Jehovah closed after him' (Gen.vii.16)=that man no longer had such communication with Heaven as the man of the Celestial Church had. Ex.

1069. Hence the Celestial Church was described by a paradisiacal garden, in which were all kinds of trees . . .

1965°. Hence it is that by 'Abram' is also represented the Celestial Church, etc.

1986°. Conjunction with those who were in the truths of faith, namely, as with those who were of the Celestial Church, so with those who were of the Spiritual Church, treated of.

1997°. See MOST ANCIENT CHURCH at these refs. 2048°. 2069°. 4687°.

2001. When the Celestial Church is treated of, 'Jehovah' is mentioned; but when the Spiritual Church, 'God.'

2039°. By 'Zion' is meant the Celestial Church; by 'Jerusalem' the Spiritual Church.

2085. See CELESTIAL at these refs. 2708. 3240. 6295.

2362. The affection of good constitutes the Celestial Church, and is called in the Word 'the daughter of Zion'; and the affection of truth constitutes the Spiritual Church, and is called 'the daughter of Jerusalem.' 3024°.

—4. From the fact that the Celestial Church, from love to the Lord, is in love towards the neighbour, it is especially likened to an unmarried daughter, or virgin. III.

2454°. 'Judea' (Matt.xxiv.16)=the Church, and in fact the Celestial Church.

2661°. After the time of the Most Ancient Church there was no longer a Celestial Church, but a Spiritual Church.

2669°. The good of love is what makes the Celestial Church; but the good of faith is what makes the Spiritual Church.

2709. The man of the Celestial Church is safe, from good, and does not debate concerning truths . . .

2710. In this verse (Gen.xxi.20), is described the state of the Spiritual Church, that relatively to the state of the Celestial Church it is obscure; and that it is in combat, because the man of the Spiritual Church knows truth from no other source than doctrine, not from good itself, as the man of the Celestial Church does. 8819.

2909°. After David removed to Jerusalem and took possession of Zion, then first the Lord's Spiritual Church began to be represented by Jerusalem, and the Celestial Church by Zion.

2928. When Judah and Zion are treated of, 'nation' is mentioned, and by 'nation' is signified the Celestial Church; for by 'Judah' and 'Zion' that Church is meant.

2930. In the Celestial Church called 'Adam,' or 'man' . . .

2954. The redemption or reformation and salvation of the men of the Spiritual Church is effected through truth; but that of the men of the Celestial Church through good . . .

3118°. The man of the Spiritual Church only bends himself before the Lord and invokes grace; but the man of the Celestial Church bows himself before the Lord and implores mercy.

3246°. The Celestial Church was represented by the wife, and the Spiritual Church by the concubine . . .

3301°. The Nazarites represented the Lord as to the Divine Human, and hence the man of the Celestial Church, who is 'a likeness' of the Lord . . .

3325°. The Lord's Divine celestial love is [mentioned] relatively to the Celestial Church, or to those who are of that Church, who are called celestial, from love to the Lord . . .

3432°. In the most ancient time, when there was a Celestial Church, there was not the Word, for the men of that Church had the Word inscribed on their hearts, for the Lord taught them what was good and true immediately through Heaven, and gave to them both to perceive from love and charity, and to know from revelation; their very Word itself was the Lord.

3720. 'The house of God'=the Lord's Celestial Church, and in a more universal sense, the Heaven of the Celestial Angels; in the most universal, the Lord's Celestial Kingdom; and in the supreme sense, the Lord as to Divine good . . .

3727°. As the Jewish Church was instituted to represent the Celestial Church, which acknowledged no other truth than that which is from good, which is called celestial truth . . .

4328. The most ancient people, who constituted the Lord's Celestial Church, had a Voluntary in which there was good, and an Intellectual in which there was truth thence derived, which two with them made one. (See CELESTIAL ANGEL, at D.Min. 4711.)

—2. See BLUE-caeruleus, at this ref.

4333. When the Lord's Celestial Church, which was the most ancient one, perished among the antediluvians, by an inundation of evils and falsities . . .

4434°. In the Celestial Church the husband represents good, and the wife truth; and what is an arcanum, they not only represent them, but actually correspond to them.

4545°. As 'Zion'=the Celestial Church . . . and the Celestial Church is that which is in good from love to the Lord . . . therefore of Zion is predicated 'strength' (Is.lii.1).

4581. The men of the Celestial Church, like the Angels of the inmost or third Heaven, are in the good of love; but the men of the Spiritual Church, like the Angels of the second or middle Heaven, are in the good of faith . . .

4823°. In the Celestial Church the husband was in good, and the wife in the truth of that good; but in the Spiritual Church the man is in truth, and the wife in the good of that truth . . .

[A.] 5113². There are in general two Churches, namely, the Celestial and the Spiritual; the Celestial Church exists with the man who can become regenerated or become the Church as to the voluntary part; but the Spiritual Church with the man who can be regenerated only as to the intellectual part . . .

—³. But the man of the Celestial Church was regenerated as to the voluntary part; from his infancy imbuing the good of charity, and when he had arrived at his perception, he was led into the perception of love to the Lord; hence all the truths of faith appeared to him in his Intellectual as in a mirror: with him the understanding and will made one perfectly united mind; for they perceived in the understanding what was in the will: in these things consisted the integrity of the first man, by whom the Celestial Church is signified.

—¹⁰. 'A vine,' here (Gen. xlix. 11) = the Intellectual of the Spiritual Church; and 'a noble vine' = the Intellectual of the Celestial Church.

—⁸. The man of the Celestial Church is regenerated in a different way from the man of the Spiritual Church; the former by means of seed implanted in the voluntary part; the latter by means of seed implanted in the intellectual part.

5117⁹. Wine is called 'the blood of grapes' (Deut. xxxii. 14), because both signify the holy truth proceeding from the Lord; but 'wine' is predicated of the Spiritual Church, and 'blood' of the Celestial Church; and as this is so, 'wine' is commanded for the Holy Supper.

5120⁵. 'A cup' is mentioned (Matt. xxvi. 27; etc.), and not wine, because 'wine' is predicated of the Spiritual Church, but 'blood' of the Celestial Church; although both signify the holy truth proceeding from the Lord; but in the Spiritual Church the Holy of faith from charity towards the neighbour, and in the Celestial Church the Holy of charity from love to the Lord. The Spiritual Church is distinguished from the Celestial Church thus; the former is in charity towards the neighbour, but the latter in love to the Lord . . .

—¹⁰. By 'Jerusalem' is signified the Spiritual of the Celestial Church.

5733. The truth of good is of the Celestial Church, and the good of truth is of the Spiritual Church; with those who were of the Celestial Church, good was implanted in the voluntary part, which is the proper seat of good; from this good, that is, through this good from the Lord, they had a perception of truth; hence they had the truth of good. But with those who are of the Spiritual Church, good is implanted in the intellectual part by means of truth, for all truth is of the intellectual part, and by means of truth they are led to good; for to do truth is to them good; hence they have the good of truth . . .

5805. 'Joseph' = internal good from the Rational; 'Israel,' internal good from the Natural; the difference between which is like that between celestial good, or the good which is of the Celestial Church, and spiritual good, or the good which is of the Spiritual Church.

5922¹². 'Lebanon' (Is. xxxv. 2) = the Spiritual Church;

'Carmel' and 'Sharon' = the Celestial Church; of the latter is predicated 'the glory of Jehovah,' there being meant the celestial truth which is charity; of the former is predicated 'the honour of the God of Israel,' there being meant spiritual good, which also is charity.

6065. The most ancient people who were of the Celestial Church, were in good from an origin in the will; but the ancient people who were of the Spiritual Church, were in good from an origin in the understanding . . .

6332. The Celestial Church of the Spiritual, which is 'Joseph,' treated of.

6364. 'Thy brethren shall celebrate thee' (Gen. xlix. 8) = that the Celestial Church (here sig. by 'Judah') is pre-eminent above the rest. . . 'Brethren' = the truths of that Church; thus also the Churches which are in these truths . . . E. 433⁴.

6434^e. The good of the man of the Spiritual Church is in the Natural, and goes no further; but the good of the Celestial Church is in the Rational.

6435². Although the good of mutual love, which is the external of the Celestial Church, is more interior, and the good of charity towards the neighbour is more exterior, still the Lord conjoins these goods by a medium. . . In order to distinguish between the external good of the Celestial Church and the internal good of the Spiritual Church, it is allowable . . . to call the former good the good of mutual love, and the latter the good of charity towards the neighbour.

—⁶. 'Zion and Jerusalem' represented the Celestial Church.

6497. That after the Celestial Church perished the Spiritual Church was instituted by the Lord, treated of.

6534⁵. 'Ahola' (Ezek. xxiii) = the perverted Spiritual Church, which is 'Samaria;' and 'Aholibah,' the perverted Celestial Church, which is 'Jerusalem;' for the Israelites who were at Samaria represented the Spiritual Church, but the Jews who were at Jerusalem represented the Celestial Church.

6742. 'Virgin' in the Word = the good which is of the Celestial Church; but 'damsel,' the truth of good, which is of the Spiritual Church. III.

6745⁴. When 'Zion' and 'Jerusalem' are mentioned together, the Celestial Church is signified by them; by 'Zion' its internal, and by 'Jerusalem' its external; but when 'Jerusalem' is mentioned without 'Zion,' it usually signifies the Spiritual Church.

6756. When the Celestial Church is treated of, 'brethren' = goods; but when the Spiritual Church, they signify truths; the reason is that the Celestial Church is in good, but the Spiritual Church in truth . . .

6851^e. They who are of the Celestial Church are in the Word called 'nation.'

7120. By the man who is called 'Adam' is meant the man of the Celestial Church; but by the man who is called 'Enosh,' the man of the Spiritual Church.

7356². 'Zion' = the Celestial Church, thus the good of love which is of that Church . . .

8137². In the other life . . . the falsities from evils of those who have been of the Spiritual Church and have lived evilly appear as waters; but the falsities from evils of those who have been of the Celestial Church, as mists . . .

8337. When the Celestial Church is treated of, women represent truth, and men good . . .

8647. In the Celestial Church the husband represents good, and the wife the truth thence derived . . .

8928³. Those who are of the Spiritual Church cannot arrive at the first threshold of the wisdom or of the light in which are those who are of the Celestial Church. Refs.

8935. Hence 'Adam' was so called from the ground, for by him is signified the man of the Celestial Church, or the Church which is in good.

9144¹. The Divine truth proceeding from the Lord in Heaven is Man; hence Heaven is the Grand Man . . . Hence also the Lord's Celestial Church was called 'man;' this Church was that which the Jews represented.

9277. 'Oliveyard' (Ex.xxiii.11)=the Celestial Church, thus celestial good, which is the good of love to the Lord, for this good makes the Celestial Church. Ill.

— Refs. on the subject of the Celestial Church and its good.

—⁴. 'The olive' (Judg.ix)=the internal good of the Celestial Church; 'the fig,' the external good of that Church; 'the vine,' the good of the Spiritual Church.

9336⁶. By the creation of the heaven and the earth in the first chapter of Genesis is meant the new creation of the Celestial Church, which is called 'man.'

9396⁸. 'The house of Israel' (Jer.xxxi.31)=the Spiritual Church; and 'the house of Judah,' the Celestial Church.

9404². The good which does not come into existence through truths, but through the goods of mutual love, is the good of the Celestial Church . . .

9942³. By 'the man and his wife' (Gen.iii.20) is meant the Celestial Church; by the man himself as a husband, that Church as to good, and by his wife that Church as to truth; this truth and that good were the truth and good of the Celestial Church. But when that Church fell, which came to pass through reasonings from scientifics about Divine truths . . .

—⁴. By the creation of the heaven and the earth in the first chapter of Genesis, is meant and is described in the inward sense the establishment of the Celestial Church; and by the paradise is meant and described the wisdom and intelligence of that Church; and by the eating of the tree of knowledge, the fall of that Church through their reasoning from scientifics about Divine things.

10123². 'The temple' (Rev.xi.1)=the Spiritual Church; and 'the altar,' the Celestial Church.

10199⁴. The daughters of Zion are here treated of (Is.iii.24), by whom is signified the Celestial Church, which Church is in interior truths from the good of love to the Lord . . .

10248⁸. 'Age' is predicated in general of every Church, but specifically of the Celestial Church. Ill.

10609⁶. By 'Jacob and Judah,' here, (Is.lxv.10) is meant the Celestial Church external and internal . . . The internal good of that Church is signified by 'the habitation of a flock,' and the external good by 'the couch of a herd;' 'Sharon'=the internal of the Celestial Church where that good is; and 'the valley of Achor,' the external. Ill.

R. 585. ('Blasphemies against) His tabernacle and those dwelling in heaven' (Rev.xiii.6)=stumblingblocks against the Celestial Church of the Lord and against Heaven. . . By 'the tabernacle' in this sense is signified the Celestial Church, which is in the good of love from the Lord to the Lord; and by 'the temple,' the Spiritual Church, which is in truths of wisdom from the Lord. . . The reason that by 'the tabernacle' is signified the Celestial Church, is that the Most Ancient Church, which was Celestial because in love to the Lord, held holy worship in tabernacles; and the Ancient Church, which was a Spiritual Church, held holy worship in temples. The tabernacles were of wood, and the temples of stone . . .

882. By 'the tabernacle of God' (Rev.xxi.3) is meant the Celestial Church, and in the universal sense the Lord's Celestial Kingdom.

T. 200³. In general by 'Jacob' in the Word is meant the Natural Church; by 'Israel,' the Spiritual Church; and by 'Judah,' the Celestial Church.

E. 154². The internal of the Celestial Church is to do what the Lord enjoins from the affection of the will, thus from the love of good; but the internal of the Spiritual Church is to do what the Lord enjoins from the affection of the understanding, thus from the love of truth. . . The internal of the Celestial Church is what is meant by 'works' (Rev.ii.19); and the internal of the Spiritual Church is what is meant by 'charity.'

313⁴. 'The inhabitant of Zion' (Is.xii.6) has a similar signification to 'the daughter of Zion,' namely, the Celestial Church, or the Church which is in the good of love to the Lord; 'great in the midst of thee is the Holy One of Israel'=that the Lord is everywhere and that He pervades everything therein.

331. These two Kingdoms exist not only in the Heavens, but also on earth, and on earth are called the Celestial Church and the Spiritual Church.

448⁹. By 'Judah,' here, (Ezek.xxxvii.16) is signified the Celestial Church which is in the good of love; and by 'Joseph' and 'Ephraim' is signified the Spiritual Church which is in the good of charity and in truths of faith; that these two Churches with the Lord will be one Church, as good and truth are one, is meant by 'I will make them one [piece of] wood, and they shall be one in Mine hand, and I will make them into one nation in the earth, and there shall be one King for them all for a King, and they shall no longer be two nations, and they shall be no longer divided into two kingdoms.'

555⁷. As by 'Samaria' the metropolis of the Israelites is in the Word signified the Spiritual Church, and by 'Jerusalem' the metropolis of the Jews the Celestial Church, both as to doctrine, they are called 'women' (Ezek.xxiii.2); and as both these Churches act as one, they are called 'the daughters of one mother' . . .

[E.] 650³³. That by 'Nebuchadnezzar' as king of Babylon at the beginning is signified the Celestial Church and its increase even to the summit of wisdom, is evident in Dan.ii.37,38. By 'the head of the statue which was of gold' is signified the Celestial Church which is the primary one of all. The reason this Church is signified by the king of Babylon at the beginning, is that the Church which afterwards becomes Babylon begins from the worship of the Lord and from love to Him . . .

739⁶. The men of the Celestial Church are of such a character that they perceive all the truths and goods of Heaven from the Lord by means of influx into their interiors, whence they see truths and goods within themselves as it were engrafted, and have no need to learn them by a posterior way and enrich the memory with them ; thus neither do they reason about truths as to whether they are so or not so . . .

Celestial good. Bonum coeleste.

See GOOD OF LOVE.

A. 297. Celestial good is that which is not clothed, because it is inmost, and is innocent . . .

425. 'Gold'=celestial good. 6432². 9549.

1171⁵. 'Gold, frankincense, and myrrh'=good celestial, spiritual, and natural.

1422². See BLESS=benedicere, at these refs. 2853.

1551². 'For brass gold'=for natural good celestial good.

1552. 'Gold'=celestial good, or the good of wisdom and of love.

1759. Celestial good in their ideas . . .

1851. That they had celestial and spiritual goods, Sig.

1876^e. Spiritual truths and celestial goods . . .

1963. Remains with the Lord were the acquisitions of the celestial goods by which He united the Human essence to the Divine one.

2069⁵. See CELESTIAL at this ref.

2184². 'Butter' (Is.vii.22)=celestial good . . .

2216. Celestial good and spiritual good do not laugh . . .

2227². There are two goods which are distinct from each other, namely, celestial good and spiritual good ; celestial good is of love to the Lord, spiritual good is of love towards the neighbour ; from the former or celestial good comes the latter or spiritual good, for no one can love the Lord unless he also loves the neighbour . . . and they who are in the Lord cannot but be in His love, which is love towards the human race, thus towards the neighbour ; thus is he in both goods, celestial and spiritual ; the former is the veriest good itself ; the latter is its truth . . . which truth is spiritual good.

2228. They who are endowed with celestial goods and spiritual goods are also endowed with eternal salvation . . .

2280⁷. Celestial good and thence spiritual good are signified by the 'two tenths' of which each of the show-breads was to be made (Lev.xxiv.5).

2340. 'House' (Gen.xix.3)=celestial good.

2347. 'House'=celestial good, which is nothing but the good of love and of charity.

2517. 'Sarah' as a wife=spiritual truth ; and 'Abraham,' celestial good, both Divine.

2540. The light of confirmation from celestial good, Sig.

2554. That thus the celestial things of faith would also perish if they were to think that only spiritual truth could be conjoined with celestial good, Sig. . . Divine good, which is here called celestial good, is united as by a marriage to Divine truth which is here called spiritual truth . . .

—². (Another arcanum contained in these words is) that if they were to have no regard for spiritual truth, celestial good would also thereby perish, for when the former is rejected the latter perishes.

2557. That the Rational is conceived from celestial good as a father, but not from spiritual truth as a mother, Sig.

—². There is something constantly flowing in from within, which receives the things which thus enter, and disposes them into order ; that which flows in, and is received, and disposes, is the Divine celestial good which is from the Lord . . .

2563. That it should be said that rational truth was adjoined to celestial good, Sig.

2575. 'Brother' (Gen.xx.16)=celestial good adjoined to rational truth, as a brother to a sister.

2588. Whether you say spiritual truth and celestial good, or the Lord, it is the same thing . . .

—⁴. Being in utter ignorance that the celestial and spiritual good which is from the Lord is that by means of which every good which is below is vivified, and that thence delight is truly delight.

2712². 'No man' (Jer.xxiii.10)=no celestial good ; 'no inhabitant'=no spiritual good ; 'no beast'=no natural good.

—³. 'To possess' (Is.liv.3) is predicated of celestial good ; 'to dwell,' of spiritual good.

3159. In proportion as a man regards celestial and spiritual good as an end, truth is initiated and conjoined with good . . .

3183. Man is first introduced into a state of innocence . . . afterwards into a state of affection of celestial good, that is, of love towards parents . . . afterwards into a state of affection of spiritual good . . .

3570². It is the celestial good and spiritual truth which are from the Lord that form man . . .

3654⁶. 'Judah,' here, (Ps.cxiv.2)=celestial good, which is of love to the Lord ; and 'Israel'=celestial truth, or spiritual good.

4138. Spiritual good is what is called the good of faith, and is charity ; but celestial good is what is called the good of love, and is love to the Lord.

4145³. In marriage love . . . there at last succeeds union as to celestial good and spiritual truth . . .

4197⁴. 'The two olive-trees' (Rev.xi.4)=celestial good and spiritual good ; celestial good is of love to the Lord, and spiritual good is of charity towards the neighbour.

4239. The first communication with celestial good, Sig. . . 'Esau'=celestial good in the Natural.

4262. Divine things to be initiated into celestial good in the Natural, Sig. . . 'Esau'=the Divine Natural as to good, here as to celestial good, because the Natural was not yet made Divine.

4299. Consequently, none can be tempted but those who are in celestial and spiritual good, for these have conscience . . .

4352². These loves, from which is all celestial and spiritual good . . .

4581⁴. The meat-offering, which consisted of fine flour mingled with oil, signified celestial good, or what is the same, the good of love; the oil, love to the Lord, and the fine flour, charity towards the neighbour; but the drink-offering, which consisted of wine, signified spiritual good, or what is the same, the good of faith. . .

4585². When the Lord made His Human Divine, He advanced in a similar order to that in which man does when he is made new through regeneration, namely, from what is external to more interior things, thus from the truth which is in the ultimate of order to the good which is more interior and is called spiritual good, and thence to celestial good. Ex.

4592². 'Benjamin'=the spiritual truth which is from celestial good, which is 'Joseph.' Both therefore taken together are that intermediate which is between the spiritual man and the celestial man; but this good and this truth are distinct from the celestial (good) which is represented by 'Judah,' and from the spiritual (truth) which is represented by 'Israel;' the former is higher or more interior, and the latter is lower or more exterior, for they are intermediate. Ex.

4696. 'The sun'=celestial good; 'the moon,' spiritual good, or truth.

4823². Hence it is that where celestial good and thence celestial truth are treated of in the Word, 'husband and wife' are mentioned; but when spiritual good and thence spiritual truth are treated of, 'man and wife' are mentioned, or rather 'man and woman.'

4922². 'To clothe in double-dyed' (2 Sam.i.24)=spiritual good; 'to set an ornament of gold on the garment'=celestial good.

—⁵. 'Blue and purple' (Ex.xxviii)=celestial goods and truths; 'scarlet double-dyed and fine linen interwoven'=spiritual goods and truths.

4982. By 'a house' in the Word is signified celestial good, and by 'a field,' spiritual good; celestial good is the good of love to the Lord, and spiritual good is the good of charity towards the neighbour. But when the spiritual man is treated of, by 'a house' is signified the Celestial that is with him, which is the good of charity towards the neighbour, and by 'a field' the Spiritual that is with him, which is the truth of faith. The former and the latter [goods and truths] are signified in Matthew, 'He who is upon the roof of the house let him not come down to take anything that is in his house; and he that is in the field, let him not return back to take his garment' (xxiv.17,18).

5117⁸. 'Wine,' here, (Gen.xlix.11)=spiritual good from Divine love; 'the blood of grapes'=the celestial good thence derived.

—⁹. 'The blood of the grape' (Deut.xxxii.14)=spiritual celestial good; so is called the Divine in Heaven which proceeds from the Lord . . .

5144. Foods=celestial and spiritual goods. —⁶, (the foods enum.).

5147³. Full of celestial good for nourishing the Natural, Sig. 'Meats'=celestial good. . . By this is signified that the inmost of the Voluntary was full of celestial good; for good flows in from the Lord through the inmost of man, and thence by degrees like the steps of a ladder to exteriors . . . As to the influx of celestial good from the Lord . . .

—³. The reason food or meat=celestial good, is that the food of the Angels is nothing but the goods of love and of charity . . .

5353⁹. After evils have been removed, celestial good flows in from the Lord; hence there is a new Voluntary in the Natural, which in the representative sense is 'Manasseh.'

5595. Spiritual good is distinguished from celestial good by this; that celestial good is implanted in the voluntary part itself.

5620³. 'Milk'=spiritual good; 'butter,' celestial good . . .

5805. See CELESTIAL CHURCH at these refs. 9277.

5922². See CELESTIAL KINGDOM at these refs. 10092. 10129. R.920².

6014. All spiritual goods are of charity towards the neighbour, and all celestial goods are of love to the Lord.

6185. See ABRAHAM at this ref.

6367⁷. 'A lion,' and 'a young lion' (Mic.v.8)=celestial good and celestial truth, which are 'the remains of Jacob.'

6369. They who are in celestial good never fight, but are safe through good; for wherever they go the evil flee away, because they cannot endure their presence. These are they who are signified by 'an old lion' (Gen.xlix.9).

6372². 'Judah the lawgiver' (Ps.lx.7; cviii.8)=celestial good and its celestial truth.

6745³. 'To suck the milk of the gentiles' (Is.lx.16)=the insinuation of celestial good; 'to suck the breasts of kings'=the insinuation of celestial truth.

7257. The good which is of love to the Lord is called celestial good, and the good which is of charity towards the neighbour is called spiritual good. N.107.

7258. The doctrine of celestial good . . . is very full and at the same time very deep . . . N.107².

7978. See BREAD at these refs. 8416. 9345. 10077. 10107.

8369. 'The fruit of a tree of honour' (Lev.xxiii.40)=celestial good; 'palms'=spiritual good, or the good of truth.

8487². Such is celestial good at first with those who are being regenerated. In proportion therefore as the delights of the loves of self and of the world arise, the good of celestial love vanishes away . . .

[A. 8487]³. See CONCUISCENCE at this ref.

8682. The reason the flesh of the sacrifices was to be eaten, was to represent the appropriation of celestial good . . .

8758. 'Israel encamped near the mount' (Ex.xix.2)=regular disposition with those who are of the Spiritual Church by Divine celestial good. . . 'The mount'=the good of celestial love. By Divine celestial good is meant Divine good in Heaven; for Divine good in itself is far above Heaven.

8802. Those who have a general perception of celestial good, Sig.

8819. The appearing of celestial good in the greatest obscurity, Sig.

9277. Thus it is with spiritual good and with celestial good, Sig.

9338¹. 'To possess hereditarily' (Ps.lxix.36) is predicated of those who are in celestial good; and 'to inherit,' of those who are in spiritual good; celestial good is the good of love to the Lord, and spiritual good is the good of charity towards the neighbour.

9468³. As external celestial good and its truth is signified by 'scarlet double-dyed,' the Word as to the external sense and what is doctrinal thence derived is expressed thereby. Ex.

9470³. 'The Ancient of Days' (Dan.vii.9)=the Lord as to celestial good, such as there was in the Most Ancient Church.

9472. 'The cedar of Shittah' (Is.xli.19)=spiritual good; 'the wood of oil'=celestial good. 10261⁵. —⁶.

9473³. The internal good in the good of faith is the good of charity, which is spiritual good, and the internal good in the good of charity is the good of mutual love, which is external celestial good; and the internal good in the good of mutual love is the good of love to the Lord, which also is the good of innocence; this good is internal celestial good . . .

9474². The reason anointing was done with oil, was that oil signified celestial good, and celestial good is the good of love from the Lord, and thence the good of love to the Lord; this good is the very essential itself in each and all things of Heaven and eternal life.

9477. 'The ephod'=that which covers celestial good . . .

9496². By the heart is signified celestial good, and by the lungs spiritual good.

9511. 'The two extremities of the mercy-seat' (Ex.xxv.18)=celestial good and spiritual good; for the cherub at one extremity=approach through celestial good, and the cherub at the other extremity=approach through spiritual good. . . Hence all things on the right hand side of man correspond to celestial good, and those on the left hand side to spiritual good.

9523. 'From between the two cherubs' (ver.22)=where celestial good and spiritual good are conjoined together. . . 'The two cherubs'=the celestial good and the spiritual good through which there is an approach to the Lord. The reason it is the approach where celestial good and spiritual good are conjoined together, is that celestial good inflows into spiritual good, and so is communicated.

9539. It is said 'to the houses' (ver.27) because celestial good is treated of, and the power of its receptacle; for that good is signified by the bread of faces, and its receptacle by the table on which was that bread; by 'the houses' also is signified that good in ultimates.

9544. The vessels which are here enumerated (ver.29)=the Knowledges of celestial good and truth; celestial good is the good of love to the Lord, and celestial truth is the good of mutual love; the Knowledges of these goods are signified by these vessels.

9549. (The Spiritual Heaven) from celestial good, Sig. and Ex.

9574. Celestial good, from which comes spiritual good together with its scientifics, Sig.

9615. The external of Heaven, which is from the truths derived from external celestial good, Sig. . . 'The wool of she-goats'=external celestial good.

9670. 'Thou shalt make a veil' (Ex.xxvi.31)=the medium uniting this Heaven and the inmost Heaven, thus spiritual good with celestial good . . .

—⁵. In the relative sense, by the process (of expiation when Aaron entered into the Holy of Holies) is described the regeneration of man even to celestial good, which is the good of the inmost Heaven.

—⁶. (This process) signified the putting on of celestial good with a regenerate man, and the glorification of the Human even to Divine good in the Lord.

9673. 'With cherubs' (Id.)=guardianship to prevent the mingling together of spiritual good and celestial good, thus of the middle Heaven and the inmost Heaven . . . For if these goods were mingled together, both of them would be injured, and that so greatly that the Heavens themselves would perish.

9680. 'And the veil shall distinguish for you between the holy place and the Holy of Holies' (ver.33)=between spiritual good, which is the good of charity towards the neighbour and the good of faith in the Lord, and celestial good, which is the good of love to the Lord and the good of mutual love . . .

9684. The table on which were the breads of faces, and opposite to which was the candlestick=the Lord as to celestial good, thus as to that very good itself from which and through which the Lord inflows into the Spiritual Kingdom, or into the middle Heaven.

9809⁴. 'Jehovah shall send the sceptre of strength out of Zion' (Ps.cx.2)=power at that time from celestial good; 'Zion'=that good . . .

9810. Divine truth proceeding from the Lord, when received into the (voluntary) part, is called celestial good; but when received into the intellectual part, it is called spiritual good.

9812². Divine celestial good, which makes the third or inmost Heaven, is the good of love to the Lord; Divine spiritual good, which makes the middle or second Heaven, is the good of charity towards the neighbour; and Divine natural good, which makes the first or ultimate Heaven, is the good of faith and of obedience . . . These three goods follow each other in order, like end, cause, and effect; and as the end is the soul of the cause, and the cause is everything that is efficient in the effect, so celestial good is the soul of spiritual good, and spiritual good is everything in natural good . . . Hence it is evident . . . that inmostly in natural good there must be celestial good, that is, the good of love to the Lord, which also is the good of innocence.

9817². The good of love is celestial good, through which comes spiritual good; and spiritual good is that which covers celestial good, as a garment the body.

9828³. By the girdles of the loins were represented celestial goods; and by the girdles of the thighs, and also of the breast, spiritual goods and truths in ultimates. Ill.

9874^e. Hence it is evident that celestial good is the good of love to the Lord, for through that love an Angel and a man are conjoined with the Lord, and are thus brought to Him, and enjoy all the good of Heaven . . .

9881. (The conjunction of the whole Heaven in outermost things indissoluble through celestial good), Sig. As it is said 'pure gold' (Ex.xxviii.22) it is celestial good that is meant; for there are celestial good and spiritual good, and each of them is both internal and external; celestial good is the good of love to the Lord, and spiritual good is the good of love towards the neighbour. All these goods are in the Word called 'gold,' and they are distinguished (thus); 'gold from Uphaz'=celestial good; 'gold from Ophir'=spiritual good; 'gold from Sheba'=the good of Knowledges . . .

9891. See BREASTPLATE at this ref.

9995. 'To make them'=that the celestial goods which are signified by 'bread,' 'cakes,' and 'wafers of what is unleavened' (Ex.xxix.2) are from (the truth which is from Divine good). In respect to this matter the case is this; all truths and goods in the Heavens are from the Divine truth which proceeds from the Lord's Divine good; that Divine truth when received by the Angels in the Celestial Kingdom is called celestial good, but when received by the Angels in the Spiritual Kingdom it is there called spiritual good; for however the Divine truth which proceeds from the Lord's Divine good may be called truth, it is nevertheless good; the reason it is called truth is that it appears in the Heavens, before the outward sight of the Angels, as light . . .

10017². The work of the salvation of those who are in celestial good is represented by the priesthood of Aaron; the work of the salvation of those who are in spiritual good is represented by the priesthood of the sons of Aaron; and the work of the salvation of those who are thence in natural good is represented by the priesthood of the Levites . . .

10075². As 'the right shoulder (of the ram)' (ver.22) =inmost or celestial good . . . it is called 'the anointing (of Aaron)' (Lev.vii.35); the breast and shoulder are called 'the anointing,' on account of the representation of spiritual good and of celestial good; for 'the breast'=spiritual good, which is the good of the middle or second Heaven; and 'the right shoulder,' celestial good, which is the good of the inmost or third Heaven; and 'anointing' is the representation of the Lord as to Divine good.

10077. 'One loaf of bread' (ver.23)=inmost celestial good from the Lord. 'Bread'=celestial good; celestial good is the good of love to the Lord; this good is called celestial good because it is the good of the Celestial Kingdom.

10078. 'And one cake of bread of oil' (Id.)=middle celestial good.

10079. 'And one wafer' (Id.)=ultimate celestial good. 'A wafer'=celestial good in the external man. Ex.

—². 'Bread'=all celestial good; and 'wine,' all the truth thereof . . .

10129². The reason celestial good, which is the good of love from the Lord to the Lord, is called 'the Holy of Holies,' is that the Lord, through this good, flows in immediately into the Heavens; but through spiritual good, which is the good of charity towards the neighbour, mediately.

—³. The reason celestial good is 'the Holy of Holies,' and spiritual good 'the Holy,' is that celestial good is the inmost good; and therefore it is the good of the inmost Heaven; but spiritual good is the good which proceeds thence, and therefore is the good of the middle Heaven; and this good is so far good, and thus is so far holy, as it has celestial good in it; for celestial good inflows into spiritual good, and conceives it, and begets it, as a father does his son; by celestial good is meant the good of love from the Lord to the Lord; and by spiritual good is meant the good of charity towards the neighbour from the Lord . . .

10252. By the oil of anointing is signified celestial good, which is the Divine good of the Lord's Divine love in the inmost Heaven . . . The reason why celestial good, or the good of the inmost Heaven, is thus described, is that this good comes into existence by means of these truths here signified, and also subsists by their means.

—². In order that celestial good, which is the inmost good, may be born with man, which takes place by means of regeneration from the Lord, there must be acquired truths from the Word, or from the doctrine of the Church which is from the Word; these truths at first have their seat in the memory of the natural or external man, and are called forth thence into the internal man by the Lord, which takes place when the man lives according to them; and in proportion as the man is affected by them, or loves them, they are elevated still higher or more interiorly by the Lord, and there become celestial good. Celestial good is the good of the love of doing truths from the Word for the sake of good, thus for the Lord's sake . . . This is the generation of this good; from which it is evident that this good comes into existence through truths from the Word, [which are] at first in the most external or sensuous man, afterwards by their elevation are in the Internal, and are at last in the Inmost itself, where they become celestial good; and as this good comes into existence through truths in its own order, so afterwards it subsists in a similar order through the same truths, for subsistence is a perpetual coming into existence . . .

[A.] 10269. See ARK (of the Covenant) at this ref.

10270². There are three kinds of goods, which make the three Heavens; the good of love to the Lord, which is called celestial good, makes the inmost Heaven; the good of charity towards the neighbour, which is called spiritual good, makes the second Heaven; and the good of faith, which is called spiritual natural good, makes the ultimate Heaven. Into celestial good, which is of the inmost Heaven, the Lord inflows from the Divine Human immediately; into the spiritual good, which is of the second Heaven, the Lord inflows from the Divine Human, and also mediately through celestial good; and into spiritual natural good, which is of the ultimate Heaven, the Lord inflows from the Divine Human, again also mediately . . .

10276². All influx and presence of the Lord take place immediately, and in the lower Heavens also mediately through celestial good, which is the good of the inmost Heaven; therefore in proportion as the goods of the lower Heavens contain and store up in themselves celestial good, which is the good of love to the Lord, in the same proportion they are goods.

10329. Celestial good is generated by the doctrine of celestial truth and good.

H. 23. As all good is of love, for that which anyone loves is good to him, the good of one Kingdom is called celestial good, and that of the other spiritual good.

216. By 'righteousness' is signified celestial good; and by 'judgment,' spiritual good.

S. 23³. 'Gold' = celestial good; 'frankincense,' spiritual good; and 'myrrh,' natural good; from which three goods is all worship. E. 324¹⁰.

R. 89^e. It is said the good of love and of charity, because the good of love is celestial good, which is of love to the Lord, and the good of charity is spiritual good, which is of love towards the neighbour.

277. There are two kinds of goods from which all worship takes place, celestial good and spiritual good; celestial good is the good of love to the Lord, and spiritual good is the good of love towards the neighbour; worship by sacrifices was worship from celestial good, and worship by incense was worship from spiritual good. 649^e.

726. By 'crimson and scarlet' (Rev. xvii. 4) are signified celestial good and truth . . . and celestial good and truth, being of love, are in their essence of good; and spiritual good and truth, being of wisdom, are in their essence truth. See 725.

773. 'Fine linen, and crimson, and silk, and scarlet' (Rev. xviii. 12) = celestial goods and truths. For with those who are in Heaven and the Church there are spiritual goods and truths and there are celestial goods and truths; spiritual goods and truths are of wisdom, and celestial goods and truths are of love . . . 'Crimson' = celestial good, and 'scarlet' celestial truth; 'silk' = celestial good and truth in the middle; good from its softness, and truth from its resplendence.

778. 'Wine, and oil, and fine flour, and wheat' (ver. 13) = that they no longer have worship from celestial truths and goods, because they have not within their worship the things which correspond to the things mentioned above.

920². All those who are in celestial good from the Lord have Divine truths inscribed on their life, wherefore they live righteously according to them, and also see them within themselves, as the eye sees objects.

E. 283. Celestial good is good in essence, and spiritual good is good in form, and this because the will, where good resides, is the man himself, or the man in essence; and the understanding, where truth is, which is the form of good, is the man thence, thus the man in form; the latter good is also around the former.

—². See THIRD HEAVEN at this ref.

—³. The reason there were four cherubs, and that each had six wings, is that by 'four' is signified celestial good; and by 'six,' spiritual good; for 'four' = conjunction, and inmost conjunction with the Lord exists through love to Him; but 'six' = communication, and communication with the Lord exists through charity towards the neighbour.

324⁴. As spiritual good derives its origin and existence from celestial good, the altar of incense was not only placed near the veil that was over the ark, but it was also commanded that when Aaron made an atonement for himself and his house, he should carry the incense within the veil, by which is signified the influx, communication, and conjunction of celestial good and spiritual good . . . That he was to take fire from the altar of burnt-offering, and put incense upon it, also signified that spiritual good, which is the good of charity, exists and proceeds from celestial good, which is the good of love to the Lord . . . Unless spiritual good is from celestial good it is not good . . . therefore death was proclaimed against them unless they did this. —⁸.

—⁷. As spiritual good, which is the good of charity towards the neighbour, derives its essence and its soul from celestial good, which is the good of love to the Lord, the incense, by which is signified spiritual good, was placed on the breads of faces, by which was signified celestial good . . . For all worship of the Lord which is truly worship takes place from celestial good through spiritual good; for spiritual good, which is charity towards the neighbour, is the effect of celestial good; for charity towards the neighbour is to perform uses and to live a moral life from a celestial origin. This therefore is spiritual good; and celestial good is to look to the Lord, and [to see] that all good and truth are from Him, and that from man and his proprium there is nothing but evil. —¹², Sig.

—⁹. By 'the gold and incense which they shall bring' (Is. lx. 6) is signified worship from spiritual good which is from celestial good; 'gold' = celestial good; and 'incense,' spiritual good . . .

—¹¹. 'The incense offered to My name, and a clean meat-offering' (Mal. i. 11) = the worship of the Lord from spiritual good, which is the good of charity towards the neighbour; and from celestial good, which is the good of love to the Lord; worship from spiritual good is signified by 'incense,' and from celestial good, by 'a meat-offering.'

—¹⁴. The reason this meat-offering was instituted (Lev. ii. 1, 2), was that 'fine flour' = genuine truth; and as this is from good, namely, from celestial good and thence from spiritual good, there were placed upon it oil and frankincense; 'oil' = the good of celestial love; and 'frankincense,' the good of spiritual love; in the inward sense, the one derived from the other.

—¹⁶. By 'incense' (Deut. xxxiii. 10) is signified worship from spiritual good; and by 'a burnt-offering upon the altar' is signified worship from celestial good.

—²⁵. This gratefulness (to the Lord and the Angels) is solely from spiritual good, or from the good of charity towards the neighbour; for this good is celestial good, which is the good of love to the Lord, in effect; for celestial good, which is the good of love to the Lord, is presented in effect solely through spiritual good, which is the good of charity towards the neighbour; wherefore to be in this latter good, and to exercise it, is to love and worship the Lord.

331². 'Peoples' = those who are of the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom; and 'nations,' those who are of His Celestial Kingdom; thus those who are in spiritual good and those who are in celestial good; spiritual good is the good of charity towards the neighbour and thence the good of faith, and celestial good is the good of love to the Lord and thence the good of mutual love.

821⁴. 'Sons of thunder' (Mark iii. 17) = truths from celestial good... for in the Spiritual World also thunderings are heard, which exist from the truths which are from celestial good...

Celestial Heaven. See THIRD HEAVEN.

Celestial Kingdom. Regnum Coeleste.

See KINGDOM and SPIRITUAL KINGDOM.

A. 48³. The Most Ancient Church represented the Lord's heavenly kingdom also as to the generic and specific differences of perceptions...

1607. 'For all the Land which thou seest, to thee I will give it' (Gen. xiii. 15) = that the heavenly kingdom would be the Lord's...

1608. That to his seed, that is, to those who have faith in Him, would be given the heavenly kingdom, Sig. 1865. 1986.

1612. 'Arise, walk through the Land' (ver. 17) = that He should survey the heavenly kingdom... By 'the Land,' or 'Land of Canaan,' is signified the Kingdom of God in the Heavens, or Heaven, and the Kingdom of God on earth, or the Church. 1613. 1614. 2028.

1778. That the heavenly kingdom would be immensely increased, treated of.

1817. 'To inherit the Land' (Gen. xv. 7), by which is signified to possess the heavenly kingdom, is here predicated of His Human essence.

2360². As the Sons of Israel represented the Lord's heavenly kingdom, that is, the kingdom of love and charity...

2362³. That the Celestial Church, or Celestial Kingdom of the Lord, is called 'the daughter of Zion' from the affection of good, that is, from love to the Lord Himself; and that the Spiritual Church, or the Spiritual Kingdom of the Lord, is called 'the daughter of Jerusalem' from the affection of truth, and thus from charity towards the neighbour, Ill.

2531³. Whatever is in the doctrine of true faith has regard to the Lord, and also has regard to the heavenly kingdom and the Church, and to the things which belong to the heavenly kingdom and the Church...

2608^e. It is necessary that the Word, being Divine, should contain the laws of the heavenly kingdom into which man is to come.

2714⁵. That through the Lord's Divine Human there is the heavenly kingdom for the spiritual, Sig.

2722⁶. Thus they no longer believed in the existence of the heavenly kingdom, or of the life after death...

2830⁵. By the 'new temple,' and 'the New Jerusalem' is specifically signified the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom; and by 'Zion,' the Celestial Kingdom.

3230. That the Spiritual Kingdom is separated from the Celestial Kingdom, treated of.

3235². In general the Lord's Kingdom is Celestial and Spiritual, that is, it consists of the celestial and of the spiritual...

3245. The celestial things of love in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, Sig.

—³. For in the relative sense by 'Isaac' is signified the Celestial Kingdom, since by the sons of Abraham who were by Keturah is signified the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom.

3448⁷. As the twelve tribes of Israel represented the Lord's heavenly kingdom...

3635. The Celestial Angels there constitute one Kingdom, and the spiritual Angels another Kingdom, for the Kingdom of the Lord is celestial and spiritual; the Celestial Kingdom consists of those who are in love to the Lord, the Spiritual Kingdom of those who are in charity towards the neighbour...

3654. By 'Judah,' or the Jewish nation, was represented the Lord's Celestial Kingdom; and by 'Israel,' or the Israelitish people, his Spiritual Kingdom.

3720. See CELESTIAL CHURCH at these refs. R. 882.

3880. 'She said, This time I will confess Jehovah' (Gen. xxix. 35), here = the Divine of love and His Celestial Kingdom...

— By 'Judah,' who was named from the confession of Jehovah, is signified the Divine of love, and the Lord's Celestial Kingdom. 3881. —². —³. 4007².

3887. In Heaven or the Grand Man there are two Kingdoms; one is called celestial, the other spiritual; the Celestial Kingdom is constituted of those Angels who are called celestial, and these are they who have been in love to the Lord, and thence in all wisdom, for they are in the Lord above all others, and therefore above all others are in a state of peace and of innocence; they appear to others as little children, for a state of peace and innocence presents that appearance; whatever is there is as it were alive before them, for that which comes immediately from the Lord is alive; this is the Celestial Kingdom...

—². All who are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom belong to the province of the heart; and all who are in the Spiritual Kingdom belong to the province of the lungs. The influx from the Celestial Kingdom into the Spiritual one is circumstanced as is the influx of the heart into the lungs. Ex.

[A.] 3960². 'The habitation of holiness' (Is. lxiii. 15) = the Celestial Kingdom; and 'the habitation of ornament' = the Spiritual Kingdom.

3969⁴. In the Celestial Kingdom are they who are in love to the Lord, and thence in charity; these constitute the third or inmost Heaven; but the spiritual, the middle or second Heaven.

—⁹. The Lord's Celestial and Spiritual Kingdom is here treated of (Ezek. xxxvii. 16-22); the Celestial Kingdom is 'Judah;' the Spiritual Kingdom is 'Joseph;' and that the Kingdoms shall not be two, but one; for they were made into one by the advent of the Lord into the world . . . This is what is signified by 'the two pieces of wood' which were 'for Judah, and for Joseph,' and which were to be conjoined into one, and were to be one in the Lord's hand; for the celestial constitute the third Heaven . . . and the spiritual the second . . . and there they are one, because the one inflows into the other, that is, the Celestial into the Spiritual; the Spiritual Kingdom is as a plane for the Celestial Kingdom; thus are they firmly established . . . —¹¹. E. 222⁴.

—¹⁶. The Lord's Celestial Kingdom lives from the good which proceeds from the Lord, but the Spiritual Kingdom from the truth thence derived; wherefore in the other life the Lord appears to the celestial as a Sun, but to the spiritual as a Moon. Refs.

4138. There are two Kingdoms of the Lord in the Heavens, one is called His Celestial Kingdom, and in it are those who are in love to the Lord; and the other is called the Spiritual Kingdom, and in it are those who are in charity towards the neighbour; these Kingdoms are most distinct from each other, but still they act as one in the Heavens.

4237. 'Mahanaim' means 'the two camps,' and 'the two camps' = both the Heavens or Kingdoms of the Lord; namely, the Celestial and the Spiritual . . .

4539⁸. Jerusalem was the inmost of the Land, because by it was signified the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom; and the House of God was the inmost of Jerusalem, because by it was signified the Lord's Celestial Kingdom.

4599⁴. Here is described the Lord's Celestial Kingdom (Mic. iv. 7, 8); its inmost by 'Mount Zion,' which = love to the Lord; its derivative by 'the slope of the daughter of Zion,' which = mutual love . . . its interior truths of good by 'the tower of the flock;' that thence is the Spiritual Kingdom of the Celestial is signified by 'the kingdom of the daughter of Jerusalem.'

4750³. By 'Judah' is represented the Lord's Celestial Kingdom; and by 'Israel,' His Spiritual Kingdom.

4815². The reason the tribe of Judah was separated from the rest of the tribes, was in order that that tribe might represent the Lord's Celestial Kingdom; and the rest of the tribes, His Spiritual Kingdom . . .

4931². All these provinces (of the Grand Man) relate to the two Kingdoms, namely, to the Celestial Kingdom and the Spiritual Kingdom; the . . . Celestial Kingdom, is the kingdom of the heart in the Grand Man, and the . . . Spiritual Kingdom is the kingdom of the lungs therein. . . These two Kingdoms are conjoined together in a wonderful manner; this conjunction is also represented in the conjunction of the heart and lungs with man, and in the conjunction of the operations of both into every single member and viscus. D. 499.

5008⁴. They say that the poor . . . will inherit the heavenly kingdom.

5313¹². The Lord's Spiritual Kingdom is where the principal thing is the Divine truth in which there is good; but the Celestial Kingdom is where the principal thing is Divine good from which there is Divine truth.

5406^e. See CANAAN at this ref.

5922². There are two Kingdoms of which Heaven consists, namely, the Celestial Kingdom and the Spiritual Kingdom; the Celestial Kingdom is the inmost or third Heaven, and the Spiritual Kingdom is the middle or second; the good in which the celestial are is called celestial good, and the good in which the spiritual are is called spiritual good; celestial good is the good of love to the Lord, and spiritual good is the good of love towards the neighbour. With the conjunction of these two Kingdoms the case stands thus; it is the good of charity towards the neighbour which conjoins them, for the internal of those who are in the Celestial Kingdom is love to the Lord, and their external is charity towards the neighbour; but the internal of those who are in the Spiritual Kingdom is charity towards the neighbour, and their external is faith thence derived; from which it appears that the conjunction of these two Kingdoms is effected by means of charity towards the neighbour, for in that ceases the Celestial Kingdom, and from that begins the Spiritual Kingdom; thus the ultimate of the one is the prime of the other; thus do they receive of each other.

6304. With the Jewish nation there was a representative of the Celestial Kingdom, and with the Israelitish people a representative of the Spiritual Kingdom . . .

6363. See JUDAH at these refs. 6371.

6366. When the celestial love which is represented by 'Judah' inflows into the spiritual truths which are represented by the sons of Israel, it disposes them into order, and thus submits them to the Lord; for the Celestial has this efficacy through its influx into spiritual things; or good through its influx into truth; wherefore also the Lord's Celestial Kingdom is the inmost or third Heaven, thus nearest to the Lord; and His Spiritual Kingdom is the middle or second Heaven, thus more remote from the Lord. It is on account of this order that the Lord inflows through the Celestial Kingdom into the Spiritual Kingdom mediately, and also immediately; such is the influx, that the Spiritual Kingdom is kept in order through the Celestial Kingdom, and is thus submitted to the Lord. The influx takes place from the Celestial Kingdom through love towards the neighbour, for this is the external of the Celestial Kingdom, and it is the internal of the Spiritual Kingdom. Hence is the conjunction of them both.

6371². That the power would recede from the Celestial Kingdom at the coming of the Lord (is thus). Before the Lord's advent into the world, the influx of life with men and Spirits from Jehovah or the Lord was through the Celestial Kingdom, that is, through the Angels who were in that Kingdom; hence they had the Power. But when the Lord came into the world, by His making the Human in Himself Divine, He put on that which was with the Angels of the Celestial Kingdom, thus that Power; for the Divine transflux through that Heaven was formerly the Divine Human . . . The Angels of that Kingdom have great Power still, but only in so far as they are in the Lord's Divine Human through love to Him.

6372. It is said 'a lawgiver from between his feet' (Gen.xlix.10), to signify the Spiritual of the Celestial, or truth from good; for at that time the Spiritual Kingdom, such as it was after the Lord's Advent, was not distinct from the Celestial Kingdom, but was one with it, being merely its external . . . At that time the Celestial Kingdom exercised its Power through this truth, and therefore this truth is called 'a lawgiver.'

6373. When the Divine was presented through the Celestial Kingdom, there was disquiet, for the things in Heaven and Hell could not thereby be reduced into order, because the Divine which flowed through that Kingdom could not be pure, since Heaven is not pure, and therefore that Kingdom could not be strong enough for all things to be kept in order through it . . .

6417. By 'Joseph,' the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom is here treated of; and above, by 'Judah,' His Celestial Kingdom; for there are two Kingdoms which constitute Heaven, the Celestial and the Spiritual; the Celestial Kingdom constitutes the inmost or third Heaven, the Spiritual the middle or second; to the Spiritual Kingdom the Lord appears as a Moon, but to the Celestial Kingdom as a Sun. Refs. . . That which proceeds from the Lord's Divine good and inflows into Heaven, in His Celestial Kingdom is called the Divine Celestial, and in His Spiritual Kingdom the Divine Spiritual . . .

6435. There are two Kingdoms which constitute Heaven, namely, the Celestial Kingdom and the Spiritual Kingdom. The difference between these two Kingdoms, is that the internal good of the Celestial Kingdom is the good of love to the Lord, and its external is the good of mutual love; they who are of this Kingdom are in the good of love, but not in the truth which is called the truth of faith, for this is in the good of this Kingdom, so that it cannot be seen separately from good, wherefore they who are of this Kingdom cannot even mention faith, for instead of the truth of faith they have the good of mutual love. But as to the Spiritual Kingdom, its internal is the good of charity towards the neighbour, and its external the truth of faith. Hence it is evident what the difference is between these two Kingdoms, and also that they meet together in this, that the external of the Celestial Kingdom coincides with the internal of the Spiritual Kingdom through a medium which is called the Celestial of the Spiritual; for the external of the Celestial Kingdom is the good of mutual love, and the internal of the Spiritual Kingdom is the good of charity towards the neighbour; but the good of mutual love is more interior than the good of charity towards the neighbour, for the former is from the Rational, but the latter from the Natural. Although however the good of mutual love, which is the external of the Celestial Church, is more interior, and the good of charity towards the neighbour is more exterior, still the Lord conjoins these goods together through a medium, and thus He conjoins together these two Kingdoms. . . 'Even to the desire of the hills of an age' (Gen.xlix.26), therefore signifies that the Spiritual Kingdom should come above the good of charity even to the good of mutual love, which is of the Celestial Kingdom, and that thus these two Kingdoms should be inmostly conjoined together.

—⁵. 'The mountain of Jehovah,' which is Zion (Is. ii.2)=the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, thus it=the good of that Kingdom, which is of love to the Lord; and thus in the supreme sense, it=the Lord Himself, for all the love and all the good in the Celestial Kingdom are of the Lord.

6436. The inmost Heaven, where the Lord's Celestial Kingdom is, relates to the head (in the Grand Man); the middle or second Heaven, where the Spiritual Kingdom is, to the body; and the ultimate or first Heaven, to the feet.

6443. 'To divide the spoil' (Gen.xlix.27)=to give a possession in the heavenly kingdom.

6698. The end of creation is the heavenly kingdom, in which the Divine can dwell; for the visible universe is a means for the existence of Earths, and of men upon them, from whom is the heavenly kingdom . . .

8521². The good of truth, which is the good of those who belong to the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, is entirely different from the good of those who belong to the Lord's Celestial Kingdom . . .

—³. The good of those who belong to the Lord's Celestial Kingdom is not implanted in the intellectual part, but in the voluntary part. They who are in this good know whether a thing is true from internal perception, which they have from the Lord.

8625. There are two things which are predicated of the Lord, namely, the priesthood and the royalty; His priesthood corresponds to the Celestial Kingdom, and His royalty to the Spiritual Kingdom; for the Lord is called 'a Priest' from Divine good, and 'a King' from Divine truth.

8705². The simple can have no other idea of the heavenly kingdom than as of an earthly kingdom.

8770³. In Heaven there are two Kingdoms, one which is called the Celestial Kingdom, and another which is called the Spiritual Kingdom; the Celestial Kingdom is what is called the Lord's 'priesthood,' and the Spiritual Kingdom is what is called His 'royalty'; in the latter reigns Divine truth, in the former Divine good; and as the representative of the Celestial Kingdom began to perish when they asked for a king, in order that the representative of the Lord's Kingdom in the Heavens might be continued, the Jews were separated from the Israelites, and by the Jewish kingdom was represented the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, and by the Israelitish kingdom His Spiritual Kingdom.

8796. The Lord's Celestial Kingdom, which is the inmost or third Heaven, is kept distinct from the Spiritual Kingdom, which is the second or middle Heaven, by means of intermediates; through these the Celestial Kingdom inflows into the Spiritual Kingdom, but not contrariwise . . . From which it is evident . . . that those who belong to the Spiritual Kingdom cannot attain even to the first boundaries of the good of the Celestial Kingdom. Sig.

[A.] 879⁷. The case would be the same with those who are in the Celestial Kingdom if they were to endeavour to ascend above to the Divine . . .

880². By those who are in a perception of general celestial good, are meant those who are intermediate between the Lord's Celestial Kingdom and Spiritual Kingdom ; through whom therefore influx, communication, and conjunction are effected ; these have extension even into the celestial Societies, which is signified by 'their ascending into the mountain' (Ex.xix) ; these intermediates are represented by 'Moses,' and also by 'Aaron.'

883⁵. 'The people cannot ascend to Mount Sinai' (ver.23)=that they cannot elevate themselves to the Celestial Kingdom ; as is evident from the signification of 'the people' or the Sons of Israel, which is those of the Spiritual Kingdom . . . 'Mount Sinai'=the Celestial Kingdom.

887⁵. 'The habitation of holiness' (Is.lxiii.15)=the Heaven where are those who belong to the Celestial Kingdom ; and 'the habitation of ornament'=the Heaven where are those who belong to the Spiritual Kingdom. 981⁵.

894⁵. Heaven is distinguished into two Kingdoms, namely, into the Celestial Kingdom and the Spiritual Kingdom ; they who are in the Celestial Kingdom are in the inmost or third Heaven, thus are nearest the Lord ; for they who are there in love to the Lord and in innocence, thus are in wisdom above all others ; but they who are in the Spiritual Kingdom are in the middle or second Heaven, thus are more remote from the Lord ; they who are there are in charity towards the neighbour, and through charity are with the Lord. Refs.

899⁴. In the Celestial Kingdom the husbands are in affection, and the wives in the Knowledges of good and truth ; this is the source of the marriage principle with these.

913⁴. By these words (Is.v.1,2) is fully described the conjunction of the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom with His Celestial Kingdom, that is, the conjunction of the second Heaven with the third, consequently, the conjunction of the good of faith in the Lord, which is of the Spiritual Kingdom, with the good of love to the Lord, which is of the Celestial Kingdom. 'The vineyard'=the Spiritual Kingdom ; 'in the horn'=in power, thus in that Kingdom ; 'a son of oil'=the external good of love of the Celestial Kingdom ; the Celestial Kingdom, which is the Lord's inmost Heaven, is called 'an olive' or 'oliveyard,' because 'oil'=the good of celestial love.

946⁸. There are two Kingdoms into which the angelic Heaven is distinguished, the Celestial Kingdom and the Spiritual Kingdom ; in each there is an internal and an external ; the internal in the Celestial Kingdom is the good of love to the Lord, and the external is the good of mutual love ; this good is what is signified by 'scarlet double dyed' . . . But in the Spiritual Kingdom the internal is the good of charity towards the neighbour, and the external is the good of obedience from faith.

—². The inmost things of the Celestial Kingdom or Church were signified by those things which were upon the table, chiefly by the breads ; but the exterior ones by those things which covered them . . .

947⁷. The celestial things which are of the good of love in Heaven are represented naked, wherefore those who belong to the Lord's Celestial Kingdom appear naked ; but those who belong to the Spiritual Kingdom, who are those who are introduced by the Lord into the good of charity through the truths of faith, appear clothed in garments ; this Kingdom is below the Celestial Kingdom, and that which is below is a covering to what is above it, for what is lower is more exterior. 981⁴.

954³. Very many things which are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom do not fall into an idea of human thought, and scarcely into an idea of thought of the angelic Spirits who are in the ultimate Heaven ; for all things which are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom are founded upon the good which is of love, and not upon the truth which is of faith ; they also speak with each other by means of the goods which are of love, and not by means of the truths which are of faith, as do they who belong to the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom. The Lord's Celestial Kingdom is the inmost or third Heaven, in which it is known that there are things incomprehensible and ineffable . . . wherefore the things which exist in that Heaven are presented before the Spirits below by means of representatives . . . The same were represented in this world by the ark, the propitiatory, the cherubs, the table with the breads of faces upon it, and the candlestick ; by means of these are presented all things which are in that Kingdom ; and by the habitation and the court of the tent, and by the curtains and veils therein, were represented the things which are in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, which is the second or middle Heaven.

957⁰. In the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, which is the inmost or third Heaven, there is a light which immensely transcends the light which is in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, which is the middle or second Heaven ; the light of the Celestial Kingdom, or of the inmost Heaven, does not appear as light, but as flame, the reason is that in that Heaven there reigns the good of love, and in Heaven the good of love is presented to view by a flame. But in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, which is the middle or second Heaven, there is a light which immensely transcends the light of the world, yet still appears white ; the reason is that in this Heaven there reigns the truth of faith from the good of charity, and in Heaven the truth of faith from that good is presented to view by a white light.

967⁰. The Angels who belong to the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, that is, who are in the inmost Heaven, constitute the province of the heart in the Grand Man ; and the Angels who belong to the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom constitute the province of the lungs therein. Refs.

968⁴. The Lord appears to those who are of the Celestial Kingdom as a Sun ; but to those who are of the Spiritual Kingdom as a Moon. The Lord as a Sun appears at a middle altitude opposite the right eye, and as a Moon also at a middle altitude opposite the left eye ; from the Lord as a Sun there is light for those who are in His Celestial Kingdom ; and from the Lord as a Moon there is light for those who are in the Spiritual Kingdom . . .

—⁴. Hence it is evident what is the nature of the difference between the Lord's Celestial Kingdom and Spiritual Kingdom as to the reception of Divine truth, namely, that it is like that between light from the sun and light from the moon ; and therefore that those who are in the Spiritual Kingdom are relatively in obscurity as to the truth of faith and the good of love. Refs.

9685. In the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom good appears by means of truth, and truth is perceived as good when it comes from the understanding into the will ; this good is the good of charity towards the neighbour, and is called spiritual good. It is otherwise in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom ; there good does not appear good by means of truth, but is perceived from the good itself. Hence it is evident why the table was placed on the side towards the north, and the candlestick on the side towards the south.

9741³. Heaven is distinguished into two Kingdoms, into the Celestial Kingdom and the Spiritual Kingdom, and in each Kingdom there is an internal and an external ; in the internal of the Celestial Kingdom are they who are in the good of love to the Lord, and in its external are they who are in the good of mutual love ; but in the internal of the Spiritual Kingdom are they who are in the good of charity towards the neighbour, and in its external are they who are in the good of faith. It is the external of each Heaven that is called the ultimate or first Heaven, and is represented by 'the court ;' hence it is that the court was double around the temple, exterior and interior ; the exterior court = those who are in the externals of the Spiritual Kingdom, and the interior court = those who are in the externals of the Celestial Kingdom . . .

—⁴. Good has the dominion in the Celestial Kingdom, but truth in the Spiritual Kingdom. 9822.

9818. They who are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom know truths, not from knowledge and thence faith, but from inward perception ; for they are in the good of love from the Lord, and in this good all truths are implanted . . .

9835. The Spiritual Kingdom, as to all the truths and goods which are therein, belongs to the intellectual part ; but those which are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom belong to the voluntary part . . . The Celestial Kingdom is for the sake of the reception of good, and the Spiritual Kingdom is for the sake of the reception of truth . . . Before the Lord, Heaven is as one man, who also has the two faculties of will and understanding ; his will is in the Celestial Kingdom, and his understanding in the Spiritual Kingdom . . .

9846. The Intellectual of a regenerate man corresponds to the Spiritual Kingdom in Heaven, and his Voluntary to the Celestial Kingdom there.

9866^e. There are two Kingdoms in the Heavens, the Celestial Kingdom and the Spiritual Kingdom, and in each there is an internal and an external ; the internal and the external of the Celestial Kingdom were represented by the two orders of stones on the right of the breastplate, and the internal and external of the Spiritual Kingdom by the two orders on its left ; for the breastplate was a double square. 9873.

9873³. In a general sense, a sapphire = the external of the Celestial Kingdom, and an onyx, the external of the Spiritual Kingdom . . . The stones of the second order signified the external good of the Celestial Kingdom, which is called the celestial love of truth ; and the stones of the fourth order signified the external good of the Spiritual Kingdom, which is called the spiritual love of truth.

—⁴. The Celestial Kingdom is treated of in this chapter (Is. liv) ; 'the foundations which shall be laid in sapphires' (ver. 11) = the externals there.

9912. 'Wholly of hyacinth' (Ex. xxviii. 31) = through influx from the good of the Celestial Kingdom. 'Hyacinth' = the celestial love of truth, which is the good of mutual love, and the good of mutual love is the external good of the Celestial Kingdom . . . This is the good which inflows into the internal good of the Spiritual Kingdom, which is signified by 'the robe.' From this, its good comes into existence, which is the good of charity towards the neighbour.

9913. The head with man corresponds to the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, and the body to His Spiritual Kingdom, hence the intervening neck, which the mouth of the head of the robe encircles and clothes, corresponds to the intermediation or influx of the Celestial Kingdom into the Spiritual Kingdom. 9914^e.

9942². Every affection . . . in the understanding flows in from its Voluntary. The case is the same in the Heavens, where the Celestial Kingdom corresponds to the Voluntary of man, and the Spiritual Kingdom to his Intellectual ; and as the garments of Aaron represented the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom adjoined to His Celestial Kingdom, the 'coat' represented that which is inmost there, thus that which proximately proceeds from the Celestial Kingdom, for the 'coat' was the inmost garment.

9942¹¹. He who does not know the quality of the state of the Angels in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, cannot at all know what these words of the Lord involve (Matt. v. 34-40), for the state of good and truth with those who are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom is there treated of, with whom all truth is imprinted on the heart ; for, from the good of love to the Lord, they know all truth, so that they never reason about it, as they do in the Spiritual Kingdom ; wherefore when truths are being considered, they only say, Yea, yea, or Nay, nay ; and they cannot so much as mention faith.

9954¹⁴. 'Zion the mountain of holiness' upon which He is said to be anointed as a King (Ps. ii. 6) = the Celestial Kingdom, which is in the good of love ; this Kingdom is the inmost of Heaven and the inmost of the Church.

9993. The Heavens are distinguished into two Kingdoms, of which one is called Spiritual and the other Celestial ; the Spiritual Kingdom in the Heavens corresponds to the Intellectual with man, and the Celestial Kingdom there corresponds to his Voluntary ; in each Kingdom there is an internal and an external . . . It is further to be known, that each Kingdom, namely, the Spiritual and the Celestial, in the Heavens is tripartite; there is its inmost, its middle, and its external; the inmost of the Celestial Kingdom is the good of love to the Lord, the middle there is the good of mutual love, which is the good proceeding thence, and the external is the delight proceeding from that good; the two former are in the internal man with those who are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, but the third is in the external man with them; these three are represented by the bread of what is unleavened, the cakes of what is unleavened mingled with oil, and the wafers of what is unleavened anointed with oil.

[A. 9993]⁵. 'The pure frankincense' which was put on the cakes (Lev.xxiv.7)=truth from celestial good, which is the ultimate or outermost of the Celestial Kingdom.

10005². The 'coat' represented the medium uniting the Spiritual Kingdom with the Celestial Kingdom . . .

10017. The priesthood which is represented by 'Aaron' is the work of the salvation of those who are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, which Kingdom is properly meant in the Word by 'the kingdom of priests;' but the priesthood represented by the sons of Aaron is the work of the salvation of those who are in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom proximately proceeding from His Celestial Kingdom . . .

10061. Specifically, there is here meant what is perceptive in the Celestial Kingdom, for there truth is perceived from good.

10068^e. By the higher Heavens is meant the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, and by the lower Heavens, His Spiritual Kingdom . . . In each Kingdom the Divine of the Lord is alike, but it is unlike as to the reception by the Angels there.

10079. The inmost good of the Celestial Kingdom is signified by 'bread,' the middle good by 'cakes,' and the ultimate good by 'the wafer.'

10090². There are two things which are received (in Heaven and the Church), namely, Divine truth and Divine good, both from the Lord; Divine truth by those who are in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, and Divine good by those who are in the Celestial Kingdom; therefore the breast was given to Moses for a portion, and the shoulder to Aaron; for by the breast is signified Divine truth in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, and by the shoulder, Divine good in the Celestial Kingdom; and also by the breads in the basket, which also were granted to Aaron.

10092. The Divine Celestial is Divine good from the Lord received in the inmost Heaven, which Heaven is also called the Celestial Kingdom; hence the Divine good received in the inmost Heaven is called celestial good.

10093. There are two Kingdoms of which Heaven consists, the Celestial and the Spiritual; Divine truth in the Spiritual Kingdom is acknowledged, but in the Celestial Kingdom is perceived; the cause of this being so is that Divine truth in the Spiritual Kingdom is received in the intellectual part, but in the Celestial Kingdom in the voluntary part . . .

10124. In each Kingdom good is implanted by means of truth, but with those who are in the Spiritual Kingdom good is implanted by means of truth in the intellectual part, while with those who are in the Celestial Kingdom good is implanted by means of truth in the voluntary part. The implantation of good by means of truth with those who are in the Spiritual Kingdom is effected by a different method from that by which it is implanted with those who are in the Celestial Kingdom; with those who are in the Spiritual Kingdom truth is implanted in the external or natural man, and there first becomes knowledge, and in proportion as the man is affected by it, and lives according to it, it is called forth into the Intellectual, and becomes faith and at the same time charity towards the neighbour; this charity constitutes his new Voluntary, and the faith his new Intellectual, and both constitute conscience. But with those who are in the Celestial Kingdom, truth does not become knowledge, nor faith, nor conscience, but it becomes reception in the good of love, and in proportion as the man lives according to it, it becomes perception, which grows and is perfected with them according to love; this takes place from day to day without their knowledge, almost as is the case with little children. The reason it takes place without their knowledge, is that truth does not hang as knowledge in the memory, nor delay as what is intellectual in the thought, but passes straightway into the Voluntary and becomes of the life; wherefore these do not see truth, but they perceive it; and the amount and quality of their perception of it is according to the amount and quality of their being in the good of love from the Lord. Hence the difference between these and the former is very great. As they perceive truth from good, they never confirm it by reasons; but when truth is being considered, they merely say, Yea, yea, Nay, nay. . . Hence it is evident what the difference is between those who are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom and those who are in His Spiritual Kingdom. The cause of the difference is that the former turn the truths of the Church immediately into goods through the life, but the latter remain in truths, and set faith before life. They who turn the truths of the Church immediately into goods through the life, thus they who belong to the Celestial Kingdom, are described by the Lord in Mark iv.26-29.

10129. 'The altar shall be the Holy of Holies' (Ex. xxix.37)=the Celestial Kingdom, where the Lord is present in the good of love . . . The reason it is the Celestial Kingdom which is here signified by 'the altar,' and the good therein which is signified by 'the Holy of Holies,' is that in that Kingdom there is received the good of love from the Lord to the Lord, which is celestial good. For there are two Kingdoms into which the Heavens are distinguished, the Celestial Kingdom and the Spiritual Kingdom; in the Celestial Kingdom there is received the good of love from the Lord to the Lord, and in the Spiritual Kingdom there is received the good of charity towards the neighbour from the Lord; by 'the altar' is represented the Celestial Kingdom, or what is the same thing, there is represented the Lord where He is present in the good of love; and by the tent of the assembly outside the veil there is represented the Spiritual Kingdom, or what is the same thing, there is represented the Lord where He is present in the good of charity towards the neighbour. The good of the Spiritual Kingdom, or spiritual good, is called 'the Holy,' and the good of the Celestial Kingdom, or celestial good, is called 'the Holy of Holies' . . .

—7. The reason the house with the boundary around it is called 'the Holy of Holies' (Ezek.xliii.12), is that by 'the House of God' is signified the Celestial Kingdom, and in the supreme sense, the Lord as to the good of love.

10150. The Heavens are distinguished into two Kingdoms, the Celestial and the Spiritual; the Celestial Kingdom constitutes the higher Heavens, and the Spiritual Kingdom the lower Heavens; the essential good of the Celestial Kingdom is the good of love to the Lord and the good of mutual love; but the essential good of the Spiritual Kingdom is the good of charity towards the neighbour and the good of faith. These Kingdoms differ from each other as do the Intellectual and the Voluntary with a regenerate man, in general as to good and truth . . .

10152. Whether you say celestial good, or the Celestial Kingdom, or the higher Heavens, it is the same thing; and also whether you say spiritual good, or the Spiritual Kingdom, or the lower Heavens, it is the same thing.

10189². To the right in Heaven are they who are in the light of truth, thus they who are in the south, but to the left are they who are in the shade of truth, thus they who are in the north; before the face are they who are in clear perception of good, thus they who are in the east; behind the back are they who are in obscure perception of good, thus they who are in the west; the latter, who are in good, constitute the Lord's Celestial Kingdom; but the former, who are in truth, constitute the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom . . .

10249². As the Lord is meant by 'Aaron' in the representative sense, by 'the seed of Aaron' are specifically meant those who are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, and by 'their generations,' those who are in His Spiritual Kingdom; for thus are born and thus proceed the goods and truths of love and faith in the Heavens from the Lord.

10261⁴. 'An olive-tree'=the Celestial Kingdom, from the perception and affection of good, and 'the berries of olives'=the holy goods there; their truths are signified by 'the sons of the olives'; 'two'=the internal and the external of that Kingdom, and conjunction. (Zech.iv.)

10295². Divine worship from celestial good, such as prevails with those who are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, is not effected by means of confessions, adorations, and prayers, in the way it is with those who are in the Spiritual Kingdom, thus not by means of truths from the memory, but by means of truths from the heart, which make one with the love in which they are . . .

10614². The Word in its inmost sense is celestial, because it is accommodated to the perception of the Angels in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, for the Angels there think superspiritually.

10645. The worship of the Lord is either from faith or from love; worship according to truths is called worship from faith, for truths are of faith; and worship from good is called worship from love, for good is of love; they who are in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom worship

Him from faith; but they who are in His Celestial Kingdom worship Him from love.

10669⁶. They who are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom are in a state of good, but they who are in His Spiritual Kingdom are in a state of truth; they who are in one cannot be in the other. Sig.

10786. (The Spirits of the sixth Earth) said that they do not know what faith is, or what it is to believe, for they perceive in themselves that it is so; for they were of the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, where all know the truths from interior perception, which with us are called the truths of faith; for they are in enlightenment from the Lord, differently from those who are in the Spiritual Kingdom . . .

H. 20. Heaven is distinguished into two Kingdoms, Gen.art. . . Heaven is distinguished in general, in special, and in part; in general into two Kingdoms, in special into three Heavens, and in part into innumerable Societies . . . They are called Kingdoms, because Heaven is called the Kingdom of God.

21. There are Angels who receive more interiorly the Divine which proceeds from the Lord, and there are Angels who receive it less interiorly; they who receive it more interiorly are called Celestial Angels, and they who receive it less interiorly are called Spiritual Angels. Hence Heaven is distinguished into two Kingdoms, one of which is called the Celestial Kingdom, and the other the Spiritual Kingdom.

—(e). The Angels of the Celestial Kingdom receive the Divine of the Lord into the voluntary part, thus more interiorly than the Spiritual Angels, who receive it into the intellectual part. Refs.

22. The Angels who constitute the Celestial Kingdom receive the Divine of the Lord more interiorly; they are called interior and also higher Angels, and hence the Heavens constituted of them are called interior and higher Heavens.

23. The love in which they are who are in the Celestial Kingdom is called celestial love, and the love in which they are who are in the Spiritual Kingdom is called spiritual love; celestial love is love to the Lord, and spiritual love is charity towards the neighbour. And as all good is of love . . . the good of one Kingdom is called celestial, and that of the other, spiritual good. Hence it is evident how these two Kingdoms are distinguished from each other, namely, as are the good of love to the Lord and the good of charity towards the neighbour.

24. The Celestial Kingdom is also called the Lord's Sacerdotal Kingdom, and in the Word, His 'habitation'; and the Spiritual Kingdom is called His Royal Kingdom, and in the Word, His 'throne.'

25. The Angels in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom vastly excel the Angels in the Spiritual Kingdom in wisdom and glory, because they receive the Divine of the Lord more interiorly, for they are in love to Him, and therefore are nearer and more conjoined with Him. The reason they are of such a character, is that they have received and do receive Divine truths immediately into the life . . . They are such as are described in Jer.xxxi. 33,34. And they are called in Isaiah 'the taught of Jehovah' (liv.13). 26,Ex.

[H.] 27. As there is such a difference between the Angels of the Celestial Kingdom and the Angels of the Spiritual Kingdom, they are not together, nor do they have fellowship with each other; communication between them is effected merely by means of intermediate angelic Societies, which are called celestial spiritual; through these the Celestial Kingdom inflows into the Spiritual. Hence it is, that although Heaven is divided into two Kingdoms, it still makes one.

95. The Celestial Kingdom in general corresponds to the heart, and to all things belonging to the heart in the whole of the body; and the Spiritual Kingdom corresponds to the lungs and to all things belonging to them in the whole of the body . . . The Celestial Kingdom is the Voluntary of Heaven, and there reigns the good of love; and the Spiritual Kingdom is the Intellectual of Heaven, and there reigns truth. (See HEART.)

118². To those who receive the Lord in the good of love He appears as a Sun, fiery and flaming according to the reception; these are in His Celestial Kingdom; but to those who receive Him in the good of faith He appears as a Moon, bright and sparkling according to the reception; these are in His Spiritual Kingdom . . .

123. They who are in the Celestial Kingdom turn themselves constantly to the Lord as a Sun; they who are in the Spiritual Kingdom to the Lord as a Moon.

128². The light in the Celestial Kingdom appears flaming, because the Angels who are there receive light from the Lord as a Sun; but the light in the Spiritual Kingdom is bright white, because the Angels who are there receive light from the Lord as a Moon.

133. There are Angels who receive Divine good more than Divine truth, and there are those who receive Divine truth more than Divine good; they who receive Divine good more are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom; they who receive Divine truth more are in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom; the most perfect Angels are those who receive both in the same degree.

134. The heat is more intense and pure in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, because the Angels there receive more of the Divine good; it is less intense and pure in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, because the Angels there receive more of the Divine truth . . .

146. The quarters in the Heavens which constitute the Lord's Celestial Kingdom are different from the quarters in the Heavens which constitute His Spiritual Kingdom, because the Lord appears to the Angels who are in His Celestial Kingdom as a Sun, but to the Angels in His Spiritual Kingdom as a Moon, and the east is where the Lord appears. The distance between the Sun and the Moon there, is thirty degrees; hence there is the same difference in the quarters.

148. All in the Heavens dwell in a distinct manner according to the quarters; in the east and west dwell those who are in the good of love . . . in the south and north dwell those who are in wisdom thence derived . . . The Angels who are in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom dwell in a similar order to that of those in His Celestial Kingdom, yet with a difference according to the good of love and the light of truth from good; for the love in the Celestial Kingdom is love to the Lord, and the light of truth thence derived is wisdom; but in the Spiritual Kingdom it is love towards the neighbour, which is called charity, and the light of truth thence derived is intelligence, which is also called faith.

159. I was shown how the Lord as a Sun appears to the Angels in the Celestial Kingdom in their first, second, and third states. Des. (See SUN at this ref.)

—². Afterwards this whiteness was seen to advance to the left towards the Moon of Heaven, and to add itself to its light, causing the Moon to shine more brilliantly than its wont; it was said that this was the fourth state with those who are in the Celestial Kingdom, and the first with those who are in the Spiritual Kingdom, and that the changes of state in the two Kingdoms thus alternate by turns; but not in the Kingdoms as a whole, but in one Society after another; also that these changes do not take place at stated intervals, but come upon them quicker or slower without their knowledge.

188. The Angels of whom consists the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, for the most part dwell in the more lofty places, which appear like mountains of soil; and the Angels of whom consists the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom dwell in the less lofty places, which appear like hills; but the Angels who are in the lowest parts of Heaven, dwell in places which appear like rocks of stone. E. 405.

214. The government in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom is called 'righteousness,' because all who are there are in the good of love from the Lord to the Lord, and that which is effected from this good is called 'righteous.' The government there is that of the Lord alone, He Himself leads them, and teaches them in matters of life. The truths which are called those of judgment are inscribed on their hearts; everyone of them knows, perceives, and sees them; wherefore matters of judgment never come into debate there, but only matters of righteousness, which are of life; the less wise interrogate the wiser ones about them, and these the Lord, and receive answers. Their Heaven, or the inmost of their joy, is to live righteously from the Lord.

223^e. In the Spiritual Kingdom the temples appear to be of stone, and in the Celestial Kingdom of wood; the reason being that stone corresponds to truth, in which are they who are in the Spiritual Kingdom; and wood corresponds to good, in which are they who are in the Celestial Kingdom. The edifices in this Kingdom are not called temples, but houses of God. In the Celestial Kingdom the edifices are devoid of magnificence; but in the Spiritual Kingdom they are more or less magnificent.

225. All preachers are from the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, and not one from the Celestial Kingdom; the reason they are from the Spiritual Kingdom, is that there they are in truths from good, and all preaching is effected from truths; the reason not one is from the Celestial Kingdom, is that there they are in the good of love, and from it they see and perceive truths, but do not speak about them. Although the Angels who are in the Celestial Kingdom perceive and see truths, still preachings take place there, as they are thereby enlightened in the truths which they have known, and are perfected by many things of which they had not known before; as soon as they hear them they also acknowledge them, and thus perceive them; the truths which they perceive they also love, and by living according to them make them of their life ; to live according to truths they say is to love the Lord.

226. They are called preachers, but not priests ; the reason they are not called priests is that the priesthood of Heaven is the Celestial Kingdom, for the priesthood signifies the good of love to the Lord, in which are they who are in that Kingdom ; but the royalty of Heaven is the Spiritual Kingdom, for royalty signifies truth from good, in which are they who are in that Kingdom.

241. The Angels who belong to the Lord's Celestial Kingdom speak in a similar way to the Angels who belong to the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom ; but the Celestial Angels speak from more interior thought than the Spiritual Angels ; and as the Celestial Angels are in the good of love to the Lord, they speak from wisdom, and as the Spiritual Angels are in the good of charity towards the neighbour, which in its essence is truth, they speak from intelligence ; for wisdom is from good, and intelligence from truth. Des. (See SPEAK at this ref.)

349^o. They who are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, thus they who are in the third or inmost Heaven, are called 'righteous,' from the fact of their attributing nothing of righteousness to themselves, but all to the Lord ; the righteousness of the Lord in Heaven is the good which is from the Lord ; wherefore these are here meant by 'those who justify' (Dan.xii.3). These also are they of whom the Lord says, 'the righteous shall shine as the sun in the Kingdom of My Father' (Matt. xiii.43). The reason they will shine as the sun is that they are in love to the Lord from the Lord, and this love is meant by 'the sun.' The light also with them is flaming, and the ideas of their thought partake of what is flaming, because they receive the good of love immediately from the Lord as a Sun in Heaven.

449. (While I was passing experimentally through the process of resuscitation) there was first given a communication with the Celestial Kingdom as to the pulsation of the heart, for that Kingdom corresponds to the heart with man . . .

520. There are eight ways (by which novitiate Angels are introduced into Heaven), two leading from each place of instruction, one of which ascends towards the east and the other towards the west. They who come into the Lord's Celestial Kingdom are introduced through the eastern way ; but they who come into the Spiritual Kingdom are introduced through the western way. The four ways which lead to the Lord's Celestial Kingdom appear adorned with olives and fruit trees of various kinds ; but those which lead to the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom appear adorned with vines and laurels . . .

596. There are also two Kingdoms into which the Hells are distinguished ; one of these Kingdoms is opposite to the Celestial Kingdom, and the other is opposite to the Spiritual Kingdom ; the one which is opposite to the Celestial Kingdom is in the western quarter, and those who are there are called Genii ; but the one which is opposite to the Spiritual Kingdom is in the northern and southern quarters, and those who are there are called Spirits. All who are in the Celestial Kingdom are in love to the Lord, and all who are in the Hells opposite to that Kingdom are in the love of self ; but all who are in the Spiritual Kingdom are in love towards the neighbour, and all who are in the Hells opposite to that Kingdom are in the love of the world . . . It is constantly provided by the Lord that nothing should flow forth from the Hells opposite to the Lord's Celestial Kingdom towards those who are in the Spiritual Kingdom, for if this were to take place the Spiritual Kingdom would perish. W.273^o. R.387. E.1043^o.

N. 106. Heaven is distinguished into two Kingdoms, of which one is called the Celestial Kingdom, and the other the Spiritual Kingdom ; the love in the Celestial Kingdom is love to the Lord, and is called celestial love ; and the love in the Spiritual Kingdom is love towards the neighbour or charity, and is called spiritual love. Refs. J.39^o.

S. 6. See CELESTIAL at these refs.

34. All the Heavens are distinguished into two Kingdoms, which are called the Celestial Kingdom and the Spiritual Kingdom ; these two Kingdoms are founded upon the Natural Kingdom, in which are men.

63. The Angels of the Spiritual Kingdom are in the spiritual sense of the Word, and the Angels of the Celestial Kingdom are in its celestial sense.

67^o. Ends are actually in the Celestial Kingdom, causes are in the Spiritual Kingdom, and effects are in the Natural Kingdom.

71. The letters (of the alphabet) with the Angels of the Spiritual Kingdom are like the printed letters in our world ; and the letters with the Angels of the Celestial Kingdom, each of which involves a whole meaning, are like the ancient Hebrew letters, being inflected in various ways, and having marks over and within them.

74^o. This is the reason why the Word in the Celestial Kingdom is differently written from the Word in the Spiritual Kingdom ; for in the Word of the Celestial Kingdom there are expressed the goods of love, and the marks are affections ; but in the Word of the Spiritual Kingdom there are expressed the truths of wisdom, and the marks are perceptions.

86^o. 'Nations'=those who are in good . . . and 'peoples,' those who are in truths . . . Wherefore those who belong to the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom are called 'peoples,' and those who belong to the Celestial Kingdom are called 'nations,' for all in the Spiritual Kingdom are in truths, and thence in intelligence, but all in the Celestial Kingdom are in good and thence in love.

Life 32. There are Angels and men who receive more from the Divine truth than from the Divine good, and there are those who receive more from the Divine good than from the Divine truth. Hence it is that the Heavens are distinguished into two Kingdoms, of which one is called the Celestial Kingdom, and the other the Spiritual Kingdom ; the Heavens which receive more from the Divine good constitute the Celestial Kingdom, and those which receive more from the Divine truth constitute the Spiritual Kingdom . . . E.22. 204^o.

W. 101^o. The Angels who turn themselves more to the Lord receive more of the heat and less of the light, and those who turn themselves less to the Lord receive more of the light and less of the heat. Hence it is that the Heavens, which are from the Angels, are distinguished into two Kingdoms, of which one is called the Celestial Kingdom, and the other the Spiritual. The Celestial Angels receive more of the heat, and the Spiritual Angels more of the light. D. Wis. i².

[W.] 232. Thereason (the three degrees) are thus named, is that the Heavens are distinguished into two Kingdoms, and one is named the Celestial Kingdom, and the other the Spiritual, to which there is added a third Kingdom, in which are men in the world, which is the Natural Kingdom. Moreover, the Angels of whom the Celestial Kingdom consists are in love; the Angels of whom the Spiritual Kingdom consists are in wisdom; and men in the world are in uses; and therefore these Kingdoms are conjoined together.

381. The Heavens are distinguished into two Kingdoms, of which one is called the Celestial Kingdom, and the other the Spiritual; in the Celestial Kingdom there reigns love to the Lord, and in the Spiritual Kingdom there reigns wisdom from that love; that Kingdom where love reigns is called the Cardiac of Heaven, and that Kingdom where wisdom reigns is called the Pulmonic of Heaven.

P. 217⁴. The universal Heaven is distinguished into two Kingdoms, of which one is called the Celestial Kingdom, and the other the Spiritual Kingdom, and each Kingdom is distinguished into innumerable Societies, greater or less; all of which and all the Angels in which are regulated according to the differences of love and thence of wisdom; the Societies of the Celestial Kingdom according to the differences of celestial love, which is love to the Lord; and the Societies of the Spiritual Kingdom according to the differences of spiritual love, which is love towards the neighbour. . . The dignities and wealth are spiritual in the Spiritual Kingdom, and celestial in the Celestial Kingdom . . .

R. 3^e. In Heaven all are called the Lord's servants who are in His Spiritual Kingdom, and all are called ministers who are in His Celestial Kingdom; the reason is that they who are in His Spiritual Kingdom are in wisdom from Divine truth, and they who are in the Celestial Kingdom are in love from Divine good; and good ministers, but truth serves.

20^c. There are two Kingdoms into which the universal Heaven is distinguished, the Spiritual Kingdom and the Celestial Kingdom; the Spiritual Kingdom is what is called the Lord's Royalty; and as all who are there are in wisdom from truths they are meant by 'kings,' which the Lord will make those men who are in wisdom from Him; and the Celestial Kingdom is called the Lord's Priesthood; and as all who are there are in love from goods they are meant by 'priests,' which the Lord will make the men who are in love from Him. The Lord's Church on earth is in like manner distinguished into two Kingdoms.

167. The universal Heaven is distinguished into two Kingdoms, the Celestial and the Spiritual, and in the Celestial Kingdom are they who are in the good of love from the Lord, and in the Spiritual Kingdom are they who are in truths of wisdom from the Lord.

232. The Divine sphere which encompasses the Lord is from His Divine love and at the same time from His Divine wisdom; when this sphere is represented in the Heavens, in the Celestial Kingdom it appears flashing red like a ruby, in the Spiritual Kingdom flashing blue like a cyanus, and in the Natural Kingdom flashing green like an emerald; everywhere with ineffable resplendence and radiance.

350^c. The Jewish kingdom represented the Celestial Kingdom, or the Lord's Priesthood; and the Israelitish kingdom the Spiritual Kingdom, or the Lord's Royalty.

353. By 'Asher' is signified the love of doing uses which exists with those who are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, and is there called mutual love.

356. In the two preceding series [of tribes] (Rev. vii) those who are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom are treated of; in this series those who are in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom are treated of . . .

387. There are two Kingdoms into which the universal Heaven is distinguished, the Celestial Kingdom and the Spiritual Kingdom; the Celestial Kingdom consists of those who are in love to the Lord and thence in wisdom, and the Spiritual Kingdom of those who are in love towards the neighbour and thence in intelligence; and as love towards the neighbour is at this day called charity, and intelligence faith, this Kingdom consists of those who are in charity and thence in faith.

—². From Rev. viii to Rev. xvi, those who are in the Spiritual Kingdom and in the satanic kingdom opposite to it are treated of; in Rev. xvii and xviii, those who are in the Celestial Kingdom and in the diabolical kingdom opposite to it are treated of.

647. 'Another Angel went forth from the temple which is in Heaven, he also having a sharp sickle' (Rev. xiv. 17) = the Heavens of the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, and the Divine truth of the Word with them. . . There are two Kingdoms into which all the Heavens are distinguished, the Spiritual Kingdom and the Celestial Kingdom; the Spiritual Kingdom is the Kingdom of the Lord's wisdom, because the Angels there are in wisdom from Divine truths from the Lord; and the Celestial Kingdom is the Kingdom of the Lord's love, because the Angels there are in love from the Lord, and thence in all good.

648. 'Another Angel went forth from the altar, having power over fire' (Rev. xiv. 18) = the Heavens of the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, which are in the good of love from the Lord.

725. There are two Kingdoms into which the universal Heaven of the Lord is distinguished, the Celestial Kingdom, and the Spiritual Kingdom; the Celestial Kingdom consists of Angels who are in love to the Lord, and the Spiritual Kingdom of Angels who are in wisdom from the Lord. In each Kingdom there are good and truth; the good and truth with the Angels of the Celestial Kingdom are signified by 'crimson and scarlet' (Rev. xvii. 4); and the good and truth with the Angels of the Spiritual Kingdom are signified by 'gold and precious stone.'

854. The Lord is Divine love and Divine wisdom, or what is the same thing, Divine good and Divine truth; and from Divine love or Divine good the Lord is called 'a Priest,' and from Divine wisdom or Divine truth He is called 'a King.' Hence it is that there are two Kingdoms into which the Heavens are distinguished, the Celestial and the Spiritual; and the Celestial Kingdom is called the Lord's Sacerdotal Kingdom, for the Angels there are recipient of the Divine love or Divine wisdom from the Lord; and the Spiritual Kingdom is called the Lord's Royal Kingdom, for the Angels there are recipient of Divine wisdom or Divine truth from the Lord . . .

920². All the Heavens are distinguished into two Kingdoms, the Celestial and the Spiritual; the good of the Celestial Kingdom is called celestial good, which is the good of love to the Lord; and the good of the Spiritual Kingdom is called spiritual good, and is the good of wisdom, which in its essence is truth.

959. The Word which was dictated by the Lord passed through the Heavens of His Celestial Kingdom and through the Heavens of His Spiritual Kingdom, and so came to the man through whom it was written; wherefore the Word in its first origin is purely Divine; when this passed through the Heavens of the Lord's Celestial Kingdom it was Divine Celestial, when it passed through the Heavens of the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom it was Divine Spiritual, and when it came to the man it was Divine Natural . . .

T. 195^e. The men of the Church, according to their love, wisdom, and faith, are in one of these three Kingdoms (the Celestial, the Spiritual, or the Natural), and in whichever one they are, they come into that one after death.

212. There are three Heavens, the highest, the middle, and the lowest; the highest Heaven constitutes the Lord's Celestial Kingdom, the middle Heaven constitutes His Spiritual Kingdom, and the lowest Heaven constitutes His Natural Kingdom.

D. 4676. Many of those who are in this middle Celestial Kingdom are from the Gentiles from Asiatic regions, and very many of those who have been converted to the Christian religion by missionaries . . .

5115. On the Celestial Kingdom. Spirits and Spiritual Angels can scarcely apprehend how the case is with those who are in the Celestial Kingdom; how they live, think, and speak, since they do so solely from the affection of love, and not from faith; and as they are thus distinct from the former, so that they cannot meet, they are completely separated, so much so that a Spiritual Angel cannot enter into the sphere of the Celestial Angels, nor vice versa.

5519. On the Celestial Kingdom and the nature of those who are there. There was a certain person with those who belonged to the Lord's Celestial Kingdom; he was a preacher, and was from the Spiritual Kingdom . . . He saw them sitting at a table, and on the table there were various kinds of food. As soon as he saw them, he saw how they were setting food before one another, how they were changing the plates, and various other movements which he supposed to be gestures and gesticulations connected with drinking. He was asked whether he understood what they meant, and he said he did not. There were others with me who were from the same Kingdom, who did not see them acting in that way, but saw that these things were appearances corresponding to their thoughts. They explained what was signified, which was done by means of spiritual ideas, and they said that they could not express the thousandth part by means of spiritual ideas . . . They said that they do indeed speak to each other, but by means of a cogitative speech which enters through an internal way, and thus in a certain manner becomes audible. The ideas of those who belong to the Spiritual Kingdom can only be described by saying that they are variegations of light, and the ideas of those who belong to the Celestial Kingdom, by saying that they are variegations of flame from which there is light; thus they are inexpressible in words of natural speech. (See the subject of the Spirits of the Celestial Kingdom under CELESTIAL, from D. 5116 to D. 5730.)

5524. They who are in the highest Heaven from the Celestial Kingdom are the best and the wisest of all, and are innocences, because they are in the acknowledgment of what self is and in humiliation deeper than all others, and thus are in a state for receiving good from the Lord above all others; they appear naked and like little children.

5941. On those who are in the Celestial Kingdom, and on Genii. Those become of this kind who do not think about anything, but sometimes remain as if they were not thinking, and if they do not reflect about it, they believe that they are thinking about nothing; at such times the affections of their love are varied without their perceiving it, as also appears in the changes of their dispositions, and sometimes in their faces; hence they believe that they are thinking about nothing. With those who are in the love of spiritual truth, which is perceived by their delight in hearing preachings, and in hearing others speak about the truths of the Word and of Heaven and the Church, good affections are varied by the Lord through Heaven while they are thinking, and they are perfected from day to day without their knowledge; they also live according to these good affections. But with those who are in the love of self and of the world, evil affections are varied, many of which are against the neighbour; these become Genii. Both the former and the latter perceive delight in sitting as it were without thought; this is their state of quiet, and is what revives them. They can also think from the understanding if they see anything, but not with sight; and also from the memory of such things as have come before their sight, but not about matters of faith.

—². When they are together they speak but little, and when they want to say anything, they first show it; as if they want to say that they are going anywhere, they first go to a place which looks in that direction and show it, and then they say where they are going. They show many things by means of representatives. Examp.

E. 205³. 'The tents of Judah' (Zech. xii. 7) = the Celestial Kingdom; and 'the house of David,' and 'the inhabitant of Jerusalem' = the Spiritual Kingdom. The Spiritual Kingdom is constituted of those in Heaven and on earth who are in Divine truth, and the Celestial Kingdom of those who are in Divine good. Hence it is evident that by these words is meant that these two Kingdoms will act as one, and that one will not lift itself up above the other.

[E.] 240². The will of truth exists with those who belong to the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, but the will of good with those who belong to the Lord's Celestial Kingdom. . . . Thus are distinguished the Spiritual Angels from the Celestial Angels . . .

283². The Heavens are distinguished into two Kingdoms, of which one is called the Celestial Kingdom, and the other the Spiritual Kingdom; they are distinguished thus; those who are in the Celestial Kingdom are in the good of love to the Lord, and those who are in the Spiritual Kingdom are in the good of charity towards the neighbour. 405. 433³.

331⁴. All who are of the Lord's Church belong either to His Celestial Kingdom or to His Spiritual Kingdom; there are none in the Church besides those who are in these two Kingdoms.

336². They who are in the lower Heavens . . . in like manner as those who are in the higher Heavens . . . are of the two Kingdoms, namely, of the Spiritual Kingdom and of the Celestial Kingdom; they who are in the Spiritual Kingdom are meant by those who are in truths; and they who are of the Celestial Kingdom are meant by those who are in goods . . .

357². By 'Joseph' (Gen. xlix), in the supreme sense, is signified the Lord as to the Spiritual Kingdom. There are two Kingdoms of Heaven, one is called the Celestial Kingdom, and the other the Spiritual Kingdom; the Celestial Kingdom is described by 'Judah' in this prophecy, and the Spiritual Kingdom by 'Joseph.' They who are in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom are in the good of love to Him, which is called celestial good; and they who are in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom are in the good of love towards the neighbour, and thence in truths; and as all truths proceed from the Lord through the Spiritual Kingdom, Joseph is called 'the son of a fruitful one, the son of a fruitful one near a spring' . . .

401¹⁰. That then the truth in the Spiritual Kingdom shall be as the truth was formerly in the Celestial Kingdom, and that then the truth in the Celestial Kingdom shall be the good of love, is meant by 'the light of the moon shall be as the light of the sun, and the light of the sun shall be sevenfold, as the light of seven days' (Is. xxx. 26) . . .

433⁹. All who are in the Celestial Kingdom are in truths of doctrine, for they have truths as it were implanted in them, and written on their hearts. Sig.

448. There are two Kingdoms of which Heaven consists, the Celestial Kingdom, and the Spiritual Kingdom; the Celestial Kingdom consists of those who are in the third or inmost Heaven, and the Spiritual Kingdom of those who are in the second or middle Heaven; the conjunction of those who are in the latter is signified by 'Joseph.' Ex.

—⁵. All in Heaven who receive Divine good more than Divine truth constitute the Lord's Celestial Kingdom; and all who receive Divine truth more than Divine good constitute the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom; wherefore the Divine of the Lord which is received by the Angels in the Celestial Kingdom is called the Divine Celestial, and the Divine of the Lord which is received by the Angels in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom is called the Divine Spiritual . . .

449. They who are in the ultimate Heaven are either spiritual natural or celestial natural; the spiritual natural there belong to the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom, and the celestial natural there belong to the Lord's Celestial Kingdom; wherefore the spiritual natural communicate with the second Heaven, where all are spiritual; and the celestial natural communicate with the third Heaven, where all are celestial.

496³. Divine celestial love makes the Celestial Kingdom, and Divine spiritual love the Spiritual Kingdom . . . But spiritual love comes into existence from celestial love, as an effect from its efficient cause, and as truth from good; for in its essence the good of spiritual love is the truth of the good of celestial love; hence it is that these two Kingdoms are conjoined with each other, and that they are one in the Lord's sight.

617¹⁶. If those who belong to the Celestial Kingdom imbue the natural man and its memory with Knowledge of spiritual truth and good, and want to be wise from them, they become stupid; when yet they are the wisest of all in Heaven.

638². The good in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom is the good of love to the Lord, and the truth of that good is called the good of love towards a brother and companion; and the good in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom is the good of charity towards the neighbour, and the truth of that good is called the good of faith.

971. All the Heavens are distinguished into two Kingdoms, one is called the Spiritual Kingdom, and the other the Celestial Kingdom; the Spiritual Kingdom consists of the Heavens and of the Angels therein who are in Divine truth, and these Heavens are in the southern and northern quarters; but the Celestial Kingdom consists of the Heavens and of the Angels therein who are in Divine good, and these Heavens are in the eastern and western quarters; therefore the Spiritual Kingdom . . . is meant by 'the Angel of the waters;' and the Celestial Kingdom . . . by 'the Angel from the altar' (Rev. xvi. 5, 7).

D. Wis. vii. 2. The Celestial Kingdom is in love to the Lord, and the Spiritual Kingdom is in wisdom from that love . . . The Angels of the Celestial Kingdom, being in love to the Lord, relate to the heart of Heaven; and the spiritual Angels, being in wisdom from that love, relate to the lungs of Heaven . . . The influx of the Celestial Kingdom into the Spiritual Kingdom is like the influx of the heart into the lungs with man . . .

J. (Post.) 312. The three spiritual atmospheres originating from the Sun of Heaven are those in which are the Angels of the three Heavens; in the two higher ones are the Angels in the Lord's Celestial Kingdom; in the third and in the first natural one, which is the pure ether, are the Angels in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom; and in the two following atmospheres, which are the middle ether and the ultimate ether, which is the air, are men while they are in the natural world.

314°. The Angels in the Celestial Kingdom breathe from their own atmosphere, which is purer; and the Angels in the Spiritual Kingdom from their own, which is less pure.

316. In the Natural Kingdom, in which are men while they live in the world; and in the Spiritual Kingdom, where are the Spiritual Angels; and in the Celestial Kingdom, in which are the Celestial Angels, similar things appear, so much so that there is hardly any difference between them, except that things in the Spiritual Kingdom are more perfect than the same things in the Natural Kingdom, and those in the Celestial Kingdom are more perfect than those in the Spiritual Kingdom.

Celestial love. Amor coelestis.

A. 1025°. 'Abraham' represented celestial love; 'Isaac,' spiritual love; these are of the internal man; 'Jacob' represented the same, but those of the external man.

—7. Celestial love was represented by 'Abraham' as the father of spiritual love, which was represented by 'Isaac,' for from the Celestial is born the Spiritual.

1419°. Celestial love consists in not wanting to belong to self, but to all, so that it wants to give all things which are its own to others; in this consists the essence of celestial love . . .

1593. 'Lot journeyed from the east' (Gen.xiii.11)= those things with the external man which recede from celestial love.

1675°. The Lord's Human Essence is celestial love itself; the love of self is opposite to celestial love.

1749. That there is nothing of this kind in celestial love, Sig. . . 'Abram' represented the Lord now a conqueror, thus those things which were of celestial love, which He procured for Himself by means of victories . . .

1937°. In this freedom, when a man compels himself [to be] against what is evil and false, and to do what is good, there is celestial love, which the Lord then insinuates, and through which He creates his proprium . . . —.

1997. The affection of good is from celestial love, but the affection of truth is from spiritual love . . .

2039. The genitals of both sexes represent celestial love . . .

2041°. There are two loves so called, and their cupidities, which hinder the influx of celestial love from the Lord; when these reign in the interior and external man, and take possession of it, they either reject or they suffocate, and also pervert and contaminate the influent celestial love, for they are entirely contrary to celestial love. . . But in proportion as they are removed, the celestial love flowing in from the Lord begins to appear, and even to shine in his interior man, and at last he begins to see that he is in evil and falsity, and afterwards that he is in what is unclean and filthy, and at last that this has been his proprium . . .

—e. Celestial love continually inflows with man from the Lord, and there is nothing else to obstruct, hinder, and make it impossible of reception, except the cupidities of these loves and the falsities thence derived.

2045. Whatever favours anyone's life is believed to be good; hence the Rational also consents, and suggests falsities which confirm, and which blind to such a degree, that they no longer see what celestial love is, and if they do see, they say in their hearts that it is a miserable affair, or a sort of nothing, or something of the nature of a fancy which keeps the mind in a kind of sick state.

2046. From truth a man knows what is pure and impure, and what is holy and profane; before he knows this there are no media into which and through which the celestial love that continually flows in from the Lord can operate, for it can only be received in truths.

2077°. The celestial love in which the Angels are [is such] that for the sake of saving a soul from Hell they entirely disregard death, and if they could they would undergo Hell for that soul . . .

2146. Celestial love and spiritual love are what present genuine heat . . .

2196°. In celestial love there is nothing of self-love.

2441°. It is the Lord's Divine celestial love which appears as a Sun before their eyes, and practically makes the very light of Heaven; in proportion therefore as they are in celestial love, are they elevated into that light which is from the Lord; but in proportion as they are removed from celestial love, they cast themselves away from the light into infernal darkness.

2618. From the Divine marriage of good and truth and of Divine truth and good in the Lord comes all marriage love, and through this all celestial and spiritual love.

2621°. Celestial and spiritual love is the very being of the man who is being regenerated; and the Rational and Sensitive when imbued with that love is his manifesting.

2658°. 'To possess hereditarily' (Ps.lxix.36) is predicated of those who are in celestial love; 'to inherit,' of those who are in spiritual love.

2714. 'From Teman' (Hab.iii.3) is said as to celestial love; and 'from mount Paran,' as to spiritual love.

—'. 'From Seir' (Deut.xxxiii.2) is said as to celestial love; 'from mount Paran,' as to spiritual love.

2830°. See CELESTIAL at these refs. 3235.

2906°. 'The offering of Judah' (Mal.iii.4)=worship from celestial love; and 'the offering of Jerusalem'= worship from spiritual love.

3316°. Instead of 'bread' the Angels perceive celestial love, and what belongs to celestial love, that is to love to the Lord; and instead of 'wine' they perceive spiritual love, and what belongs to that love, that is, to love towards the neighbour. 4211.

3325°. See CELESTIAL CHURCH at this ref.

3759. The first thing (in the ascent of the Church) is the truth which is said to be of faith; then comes the exercise of that truth; afterwards comes charity from it, and at last celestial love. These four degrees are signified by the four sons of Jacob by Leah; namely, Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah.

3875°. Celestial love, and also marriage love, are expressed in the sense of the letter by 'to cleave' (Gen. xxix.34). Ill.

[A.] 3941⁴. 'The wheat' (Joel i.11)=celestial love; 'the barley'=spiritual love.

4262³. 'Gold'=celestial love; 'frankincense,' spiritual love; 'myrrh,' these loves in the Natural.

4277. 'The thigh'=marriage love, and thence all celestial and spiritual love, for these loves are derived from marriage love, as offspring are from their parent.

4280³. Marriage love is the fundamental of all loves; hence it is that those who are in genuine marriage love are also in celestial love, that is, in love to the Lord, and in spiritual love, that is, in charity towards the neighbour; wherefore by marriage love is meant not only that love itself, but also all celestial and spiritual love. These loves are said to be conjoined with natural good when the internal man is conjoined with the external. It is this conjunction which is meant by 'the hollow of the thigh' (Gen. xxii.25).

4288². In a representative Church celestial and spiritual love is the principal thing, but in the representative of a Church bodily and worldly love is the principal thing. Celestial and spiritual love is the internal itself, but where there is no celestial and spiritual love, but only bodily and worldly love, there is an external without an internal.

—³. When they were holding worship on mountains, they were in their holy [state], because they were then at the same time in celestial love.

— In the representative Church, when they were holding Divine worship, they turned their faces to the rising of the sun, because by the rising of the sun is also signified celestial love.

4300. When celestial love manifests itself with a man, that is, when it is perceived, the sun is said 'to arise upon him' (Gen. xxxii.31).

4352². The love which is in good and with good is that which conjoins . . . This love is twofold, celestial and spiritual; celestial love is love to the Lord, and spiritual love is love towards the neighbour, which is called charity . . .

4552³. The olive-tree and thence oil=those things which are of celestial love . . .

4735². From Divine love the Lord made His Human Divine, as through celestial love a man becomes an Angel after death, so that he appears as it were a form of love and charity under a human form.

— See BREAD at these refs. 5360. 5701. 6377².

4750. By 'Judah' are represented those who are in the good of celestial love. Celestial love is love to the Lord, and thence love towards the neighbour; they who are in this love are the most conjoined with the Lord, and therefore are in the inmost Heaven, and are there in a state of innocence, from which they appear to others as little children, and entirely as loves in form . . .

—³. The goods of love are in general two, namely, the good of celestial love and the good of spiritual love; opposite to the good of celestial love is the evil of self-love, and opposite to the good of spiritual love is the evil of the love of the world.

6024³. See JUDAH at this ref.

6135². Even if there is not celestial love with a man, but infernal love, still the inmost of his life is from celestial love, for this love continually flows in from the Lord, and makes the vital heat with him in its beginning, but it is perverted by the man as it advances; hence comes infernal love, which is the source of unclean heat.

6365. (An infernal) cannot endure the sphere of celestial love, which is that of love to the Lord, for that sphere is to him like a burning and torturing fire.

6366. See CELESTIAL KINGDOM at these refs. H.23. P.217⁴.

6367². 'A lion'=the good of celestial love, and thence truth in its power; and also in the opposite sense, the evil of self-love in its power. Ill.

6391². In proportion as a man perceives delight in self-love, he does not perceive delight in celestial love, for they are opposites; for the former delight . . . completely extinguishes the delight which is from celestial love; to such a degree that the man is utterly ignorant what celestial delight is . . .

6435⁶. By 'a hill' is signified the good of mutual love; and by 'a mountain,' the good of celestial love which is that of love to the Lord.

—7. 'Mountains' in these places=celestial love; and 'hills,' spiritual love.

6502⁹. 'The Sanctuary' (Ezek. xlvii.12) = celestial love; in the supreme sense, the Lord's Divine Human, from which this love comes.

7622. What is flaming=celestial love and its affections.

8487. 'The sun'=celestial love. Refs.

8820. The Divine there in celestial love, Sig. . . 'Fire' here=Divine celestial love, that is, Divine love such as it is in the Heaven where the Celestial Angels are.

9244. All who are in celestial love have confidence that they will be saved by the Lord . . .

9434². Heavenly love is love to the Lord and love towards the neighbour; and infernal love is the love of self and the love of the world . . . They with whom heavenly loves reign are in Heaven . . .

9466. 'Hyacinthine' (Ex. xxv.4)=the celestial love of truth.

9467. 'Crimson'=the celestial love of good. . . For a red colour=the good of celestial love. Ex.

9865. 'A ruby, a topaz, a carbuncle' (Ex. xxviii.17)=the celestial love of good, as is evident from the signification of these stones, which is the good of celestial love. Celestial love is love to the Lord from the Lord. Ex.

9868. 'A chrysoprase, a sapphire, and a diamond'=the celestial love of truth . . . First in order comes the celestial love of good, the second is the celestial love of truth, the third is the spiritual love of good, and the fourth is the spiritual love of truth. . . In the inmost Heaven there are the celestial love of good and the celestial love of truth; the celestial love of good is its internal, and the celestial love of truth is its external; but in the second Heaven there are the spiritual love of good, which is its internal, and the spiritual love of truth, which is its external ; for the one inflows into the other in the same order ; and they constitute as it were one [Heaven].

9873. The internal good of the Celestial Kingdom is the good of love to the Lord ; this good is what is meant by the celestial love of good ; but the external good of the Celestial Kingdom is the good of mutual love ; this good is what is meant by the celestial love of truth.

—². By ‘hyacinthine’ is signified the truth of celestial love ; by ‘crimson,’ the good of celestial love ; by ‘scarlet double-dyed,’ the good of spiritual love ; and by ‘fine linen,’ the truth of spiritual love.

9897. ‘With a thread of hyacinthine’ (Ex.xxviii.28) = by means of the celestial love of truth.

9977. Their works are not from heavenly love . . .

10261. ‘The olive’ = celestial love. III.

10606. In the inmost Heaven there reigns celestial love, which is love to the Lord from the Lord ; but in the lower Heavens there reigns spiritual love, which is charity towards the neighbour.

H. 268. Heavenly love is of such a character that it wants what is its own to be another’s . . .

481. That man comes into Heaven in whom there is celestial and spiritual love ; and that man comes into Hell in whom there is bodily and worldly love without celestial and spiritual. Ex.

557. Heavenly love consists in loving uses for the sake of uses, or goods for the sake of goods . . . for this is to love God and to love the neighbour.

558. In proportion as anyone is in heavenly love, which consists in loving uses and goods, and in being affected with delight of heart when he performs them for the sake of the Church, his country, human society, and his fellow-citizen, in the same proportion is he led by the Lord, because this love is the love in which He is, and which is from Him.

—a^e. Self-love makes the head with the man in whom it is, and heavenly love the feet on which he stands ; and if it is not of service to him, he tramples it under his feet.

565. The love of the world is not opposite to heavenly love to so great a degree . . .

W. 427. There are two loves according to which the Heavens are distinguished, celestial love and spiritual love ; celestial love is love to the Lord, and spiritual love is love towards the neighbour. These loves are distinguished thus ; celestial love is the love of good, and spiritual love is the love of truth ; for they who are in celestial love do uses from the love of good, and they who are in spiritual love do uses from the love of truth. The marriage of celestial love is with wisdom, and the marriage of spiritual love is with intelligence ; for it belongs to wisdom to do what is good from good, and it belongs to intelligence to do what is good from truth ; wherefore celestial love does what is good, and spiritual love does what is true. The difference between these two loves can only be described in this way ; they who are in celestial love have wisdom inscribed on their life, and not on their memory, which is the reason they do not speak about Divine truths, but do them ; but they who are in spiritual love have wisdom inscribed on their memory, wherefore they speak about Divine truths, and do them from beginnings in the memory. As they who are in celestial love have wisdom inscribed on their life, they at once perceive whatever they hear to be true or not true, and when they are asked whether it is true, they merely reply that it is so, or that it is not so. Sig. (Further Des.)

P. 106. Loves are manifold, but two of them are like lords and kings, heavenly love and infernal love ; heavenly love is love to the Lord and towards the neighbour, and infernal love is the love of self and of the world ; the latter and the former loves are opposite to each other as are Heaven and Hell . . . These two loves are the loves of man’s life, but with much variety ; heavenly love is the life’s love of those whom the Lord leads, and infernal love is the life’s love of those whom the devil leads . . . The derivations of infernal love are affections of what is evil and false, properly concupiscences ; and the derivations of heavenly love are affections of what is good and true, properly dilections. The affections of infernal love . . . are as many as are evils, and the affections of heavenly love are as many as are goods.

R. 211^e. By the golden age the ancients meant the first time, when there reigned the good of celestial love ; celestial love is love to the Lord from the Lord ; from this love at that time came their wisdom.

213. The members of generation correspond to celestial love, which is the love of the third Heaven.

350. ‘Of the tribe of Judah were sealed twelve thousand’ (Rev.vii.5) = celestial love, which is love to the Lord, and this with all who will be in the Lord’s New Heaven and New Church.

351. Celestial love produces wisdom ; for no love exists without its married partner, which is knowledge, intelligence and wisdom ; the married partner of natural love is knowledge, that of spiritual love is intelligence, and that of celestial love is wisdom.

395. ‘The angel took the censer and filled it with the fire of the altar’ (Rev.viii.5) = spiritual love in which was celestial love . . . Spiritual love, which is charity, derives its essence from celestial love, which is love to the Lord ; without this love there is nothing vital in spiritual love or charity, for there is no spirit and life from any other source than the Lord.

M. 65. Marriage love is the fundamental of all celestial loves, spiritual loves, and thence natural loves. Gen.art.

67. As natural loves flow forth from spiritual loves, and spiritual loves from celestial loves, it is said that marriage love is the fundamental of all celestial loves, and spiritual loves, and thence of natural loves. Natural loves relate to loves of self and of the world, spiritual loves to love towards the neighbour, and celestial loves to love to the Lord ; and as such are the relations of loves, it is evident in what order they follow each other, and in what order they are in a man ; when they are in this order, natural loves live from spiritual loves, and these from celestial loves, and all . . . from the Lord, from Whom they are.

77⁴. (If you cease to be monogamists) all celestial love will flee from you, and with this, inward wisdom.

[M.] 270. In the lowest region of the mind dwells natural love, in the higher one spiritual love, and in the highest celestial love.

T. 439. Total ignorance and want of perception of the delight of celestial love, which is devoid of merit . . .

E. 146. 'To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna' (Rev.ii.17)=for those who overcome in temptations the delight of celestial love from the Lord's Divine Human. . . 'To eat of it,' here=the delight of celestial love, for this is appropriated from the Lord's Divine Human to those who receive Him in love and faith.

154. There are two loves which make Heaven and the Church, love to the Lord, and love towards the neighbour or charity; love to the Lord is what is called celestial love, and love towards the neighbour, which is charity, is what is called spiritual love . . . Celestial love is from the affection of the will of doing the Lord's commandments, and spiritual love is from the affection of the understanding of doing the Lord's commandments.

209³. There are two loves which reign in the Heavens, and which make the Heavens, namely, love to the Lord, and love towards the neighbour; love to the Lord is called celestial love, and love towards the neighbour is called spiritual love; those who are in celestial love, have much power, and those who are in spiritual love have 'some power' (Rev.iii.8).

322. The third or inmost Heaven is where are the Angels who are in celestial love, the second or middle Heaven is where are the Angels who are in spiritual love, the first or ultimate Heaven is where are the Angels who are in spiritual natural love.

433⁴. Celestial love is the Lord's love received in the Celestial Kingdom, and spiritual love is the Lord's love received in the Spiritual Kingdom.

496. 'The Angel took the censer, and filled it with the fire of the altar' (Rev.viii.5)=the conjunction of celestial love and of spiritual love. . . 'The fire of the altar'=celestial love . . .

—e. The Lord's Divine love in the Heavens is called celestial and spiritual from the reception of it by the Angels, and not because it is in itself divided; and Spiritual love exists from celestial love as an effect from its efficient cause, and as truth from good; for the good of spiritual love in its own essence is the truth of the good of celestial love . . .

828^e. These things are said concerning love to the Lord, and concerning love towards the neighbour, thus concerning celestial love: in what follows we shall speak of spiritual love . . . 831².

C. 95. With some there is spiritual love, but not celestial love, and spiritual love is charity . . .

Celestial man. See under CELESTIAL.

Celestial natural. Coelestis naturalis.

Celestial of the Natural. Coeleste naturalis.

A. 2162¹¹. The celestial natural things (of the Church) are 'the fir-tree, the pine-tree, and the box' (Is. lx. 13).

2180. 'He took the son of an ox tender and good' (Gen.xviii.7)=the Celestial Natural which the Rational took to itself in order to conjoin itself with perception from the Divine.

—². The sacrifices which were made from the herd signified celestial natural things, and those from the flock, celestial rational things.

2184³. 'Butter of the herd' (Deut.xxxii.14)=the Celestial Natural; 'milk of the flock'=the Celestial Spiritual of the Rational.

—⁷. The Celestial Natural is the same as natural good, or good in the Natural . . .

2187^e. That they should enjoy . . . the still lower things, which are celestial natural ones, such as are in the first Heaven, which are meant by 'Jacob,' Sig.

2830⁷. See CELESTIAL SPIRITUAL at this ref.

4240. 'The Land of Seir' (Gen.xxxii.3)=celestial natural good . . .

— The ultimate or first Heaven is celestial and spiritual natural, because in simple good, which is the ultimate of order there. . . Esau, also, who dwelt there, represented this good.

4262. 'He took of that which came to his hand a present for Esau his brother' (ver.13)=the Divine things which were to be initiated into celestial natural good.

4279. The Word . . . in the first Heaven is celestial and spiritual natural.

4286². The ultimate or first Heaven is also celestial and spiritual, but not in the same degree as the others: for what is natural adheres to them, wherefore they are called celestial and spiritual natural . . .

4980. 'Jehovah blessed the house of the Egyptian for Joseph's sake' (Gen.xxxix.5)=from the Divine . . . The Celestial Natural. . . The Celestial Natural is the good in the Natural which corresponds to the good in the Rational, that is, which corresponds to the Celestial Spiritual from the Rational, which is 'Joseph.' Ex.

5086. 'The place where Joseph was bound' (Gen.xl.3)=the present state of the Celestial of the Natural as to these things.

5087. 'And the prince of the guards set Joseph over them' (ver.4)=that the Celestial of the Natural taught them from the primary things for interpretation. . . 'Joseph'=the Celestial of the Natural. 5106.

5121. 'Joseph said to them, This is the interpretation of it' (ver.12)=revelation by perception from the Celestial in the Natural. . . 'Joseph'=the Celestial in the Natural. 5150, Ex. 5168.

5169. 'The prince of the butlers did not remember Joseph' (ver.23)=that not as yet was there complete conjunction with the Celestial of the Natural.

H. 31. The Divine which flows into the first Heaven is called natural, but as the Natural of that Heaven is not like the Natural of the world, but has what is spiritual and celestial in it, that Heaven is called spiritual and celestial natural, and hence the Angels who are there are called spiritual and celestial natural Angels; those are called spiritual natural who receive influx from the middle or second Heaven, which is the Spiritual Heaven ; and those are called celestial natural who receive influx from the third or inmost Heaven, which is the Celestial Heaven. The spiritual natural and celestial natural angels are distinct from each other, but still constitute one Heaven, because they are in one degree.

W. 233². Before the assumption of the Human, the Divine influx into the natural degree was mediate through the angelic Heavens, but after its assumption it was immediate from Himself ; which is the reason why all the Churches in the world before His Advent were representative of spiritual and celestial things, but after His Advent were made spiritual and celestial natural ; and representative worship was abolished.

Celestial rational. Coelestis rationalis.

A. 2180². Sacrifices from the flock = celestial rational things.

2184. 'Butter' = the Celestial of the Rational.

Celestial sense. Sensus coelestis.

See INMOST SENSE.

A. 2015³. This is the heavenly sense of the Word . . .

2157⁶. (The celestial sense given.) 4735⁴. 5331. 9198. 10265. R. 882. T. 295. 299. 303, etc.

2311. When these names and expressions are unfolded in their heavenly sense . . . there comes forth the internal sense which is the angelic Word.

4735². By the Lord's Divine Human in the celestial sense is signified Divine love itself . . .

10265. In the inmost Heaven, all things of the Word are applied to the Lord's Divine Human ; for the Angels there think immediately from the Lord, and perceive the Word in its inmost sense, which is the celestial sense.

S. 19. There is a still more interior sense in the Word, which is called celestial . . . but this sense can scarcely be unfolded, for it does not fall so much into the thought of the understanding, as into the affection of the will. The reason there is a still more interior sense in the Word, which is called celestial, is that from the Lord there proceed Divine good and Divine truth ; Divine good from His Divine love, and Divine truth from His Divine wisdom ; both are in the Word, for the Word is the Divine which proceeds.

27. The sense of the letter of the Word is the basis, the containant, and the support of its spiritual and celestial sense. Gen.art.

39. The spiritual sense is the 'spirit' of the Word, and the celestial sense is its 'life.' This is what the Lord said (John vi. 63) . . . The spiritual sense and the celestial sense are not the Word without the natural sense . . .

40. Naked truths themselves . . . are in the spiritual sense of the Word, and naked goods are in its celestial sense.

42. As our Word in its bosom, from its celestial sense, is like a flame which kindles ; and in its intermediate bosom, from its spiritual sense, is like a light which enlighthens ; in its ultimate bosom, or natural sense, in which are the two interior ones, it is like a ruby and a diamond ; from the celestial flame like a ruby, and from the spiritual light like a diamond.

63. The Angels of the Spiritual Kingdom are in the spiritual sense of the Word, and the Angels of the Celestial Kingdom in its celestial sense. These senses are evolved from the natural sense of the Word when a true man is in it. 64.

64. The things which I understood according to the natural sense, the Spiritual Angels understood according to the spiritual sense ; and the Celestial Angels according to the celestial sense ; and this in an instant. 67, Examp.

80. There are two senses in the Word which lie hidden in the sense of its letter, the spiritual and the celestial ; in the spiritual sense the things of the Word relate chiefly to the Church, and in the celestial chiefly to the Lord ; also in the spiritual sense they relate chiefly to Divine truth, and in the celestial to Divine good. Hence it is that in the sense of the letter of the Word there is this marriage. But this does not appear to anyone except to him who from the spiritual and celestial sense of the Word knows the significations of words and names, for some words and names are predicated of good, and some of truth, and some include both.

W. 221. There are three senses according to three degrees in the Word, the celestial sense, the spiritual sense, and the natural sense.

R. 739^e. In each and everything of the Word there is a celestial sense and a spiritual sense, and in the celestial sense is Divine good, and in the spiritual sense Divine truth.

830². Both Divine good and Divine truth are in the Word ; the Divine truth of the Word is in its spiritual sense, which is for the Angels of the middle or second Heaven, who are in intelligence from Divine truths ; and the Divine good of the Word is in its celestial sense, which is for the Angels of the highest or third Heaven, who are in wisdom from Divine goods ; but this sense is very deeply hidden, being perceptible only to those who are in love to the Lord from the Lord.

959. In its first origin the Word is purely Divine ; when this passed through the Heavens of the Lord's Celestial Kingdom it became Divine Celestial, and when it passed through the Heavens of the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom it became Divine Spiritual, and when it came to man it became Divine Natural ; hence it is that the natural sense of the Word contains within it the spiritual sense, and this the celestial sense, and both a sense purely Divine, which is not open to any man, nor even to any Angel.

T. 212. As there are three Heavens, so there are also three senses of the Word, celestial, spiritual, and natural . . . the first being in the middle, and through the middle in the ultimate, just as the end is in the cause, and through the cause in the effect. Hence it is evident what is the nature of the Word, namely, that in the sense of its letter, which is natural, there is an interior sense which is spiritual, and in this an inmost which is celestial . . .

287. In the sense of the letter, the Decalogue contains the general injunctions of doctrine and of life ; and in the spiritual and celestial sense all things universally. Gen.art.

[T.] 289. In each and all things of the sense of its letter, or in general and in every part, the Word keeps stored up two interior senses, one which is called spiritual, and the other celestial, and in these senses Divine truth is in its light, and Divine goodness in its heat. (Hence it is necessary) that the ten commandments of the Decalogue should be unfolded according to these three senses, which are called natural, spiritual, and celestial.

D. 4671. Each and all things therein treat of the Lord ; such a sense cannot be expounded, because it is the celestial itself . . .

E. 630². In the Word there are three distinct senses as there are three Heavens ; the inmost sense which is called the celestial sense is for the inmost or third Heaven, the middle sense which is called the spiritual sense is for the middle or second Heaven, and the ultimate sense which is called the celestial and spiritual natural sense is for the ultimate or first Heaven. These three senses, besides the natural sense which is for the world, are in the Word and in everything therein.

1024². In each of the Commandments there are three interior senses, one sense for each Heaven. . . The first sense is the spiritual moral sense ; this is for the first or ultimate Heaven ; the second sense is the celestial spiritual sense, which is for the second or middle Heaven ; and the third sense is the Divine celestial sense, which is for the third or inmost Heaven. There are these three internal senses in everything of the Word . . .

1066³. As the Divine truth which is the Word was let down into the world by the Lord, it passed through the three Heavens, and thus became accommodated to each Heaven, and at last also to men in the world. Hence it is that there are four senses in the Word, one outside another from the highest Heaven down to the world, or one within another from the world up to the highest Heaven. These four senses are called the celestial, the spiritual, the natural from the celestial and spiritual, and the merely natural. The last is for the world, the one mentioned before it is for the ultimate Heaven, the spiritual sense is for the second Heaven, and the celestial sense is for the third.

Celestial spiritual. Coelestis spiritualis. Celestial of the Spiritual. Coeleste spiritualis.

See ISRAEL, and JOSEPH.

A. 91^e. Rational and scientific things from a celestial spiritual origin, sig.

143^o. The celestial, or the celestial spiritual man, is here treated of.

161. This posterity of the Most Ancient Church was . . . still good, and as they desired to live in the external man, or in proprium, this was granted to them by the Lord, but in mercy what was celestial spiritual was insinuated.

200. The inmost of the celestial man, or of the Most Ancient Church, was 'the tree of lives,' which is love and thence faith ; but the middle of the garden or the inmost of this man, who may be called a celestial spiritual man, or that of this posterity, was faith.

282. The first posterity of the most Ancient Church in which there was celestial spiritual good, treated of.

296^e. Whatever was in the ark, habitation, tent ; nay, whatever was upon Aaron . . . signified what is celestial spiritual.

297. Celestial good is that which is not clothed, because it is inmost, and is innocent ; but celestial spiritual good is that which is first clothed, and also natural good ; for they are more exterior, and are compared to garments, and are also called 'garments.' III.

353². 'Fat' = Celestial spiritual good.

1001². The celestial things which a regenerate spiritual man receives from the Lord are celestial spiritual things.

—4. 'Fat' (Lev.iii.17)=celestial life ; and 'blood,' celestial spiritual life. The Celestial Spiritual is the Spiritual which is from the Celestial ; as with the Most Ancient Church, love to the Lord was their Celestial, because it was implanted in their will ; their Celestial Spiritual was the faith thence derived. But with the spiritual man there does not exist the Celestial, because charity is implanted in his intellectual part, but there exists the Celestial Spiritual.

1042³. 'The splendour of fire round about from the loins downward, like a bow in a cloud' (Ezek.i.27,28)= the Celestial Spiritual . . . Thus the Spiritual Heaven . . . is represented 'from the loins downward.'

1496². All instruction is merely the opening of a way, and as the way is opened . . . so do they inflow, in order ; from celestial spiritual things, rational things ; into these celestial spiritual things, and into these celestial things.

1577³. When the Celestial Spiritual of the internal man inflows into the Natural of the external man, and causes them to act as one, the Natural also thus becomes celestial and spiritual, but a lower celestial and spiritual . . .

1588^e. The Rational of man is compared to 'a garden' from the representative which is presented in Heaven ; it is the Rational of man, when what is celestial spiritual flows into it from the Lord, which so appears ; (the magnificent paradises there) are an effect of the influx of celestial spiritual light from the Lord ; nor is it the paradisiacal beauties which affect [the Angels], but the celestial spiritual things which live in them.

1824. 'A ram' (Gen.xv.9)=those things which are representative of celestial spiritual things . . . Exterior celestial things are those of the external man ; interior celestial things are those of the internal man ; celestial spiritual things are those which are thence derived. . . The Celestial Spiritual is every affection of truth in which there is affection of good, or every affection of truth which is generated from affection of good ; thus it is faith in which there is charity, or faith which is generated from charity.

1950². The case is almost the same with the Celestial Spiritual, that is, with truth from a celestial origin, or with the truth which is from good ; for this truth is truth formed by good, so that it may be called the form of good.

2063°. At last truths do not appear, except in so far as good shines through them; thus truth becomes the Celestial Spiritual . . .

2162¹¹. The celestial spiritual things of the Church are signified by 'the glory of Lebanon,' or of the cedar (Is. lx. 13); but the celestial natural things are 'the fir-tree, the pine-tree, and the box.'

2180. Because the Lord's Rational is treated of, ('the son of an ox') (Gen. xviii. 7) is called 'tender,' from the Celestial Spiritual, or the truth of good.

2184³. 'Milk of the flock' (Deut. xxxii. 14) = the Celestial Spiritual of the Rational. 'Milk' = the Spiritual from the Celestial, or the Celestial Spiritual . . . The reason 'milk' = the Spiritual which is from the Celestial, is that 'water' = what is spiritual, but 'milk,' because it contains fat, the Celestial Spiritual; or what is the same, the truth of good; or what is the same, the faith of love or of charity; or what is also the same, the Intellectual of the good of the will; or still the same, affection of truth containing within it affection of good; or what is still the same, the affection of Knowledges and of knowledges from the affection of charity towards the neighbour, such as it is with those who love the neighbour, and confirm themselves in so doing by Knowledges of faith, and also by scientifics, and therefore love these latter; all these are the same as the Celestial Spiritual.

—³. 'Teeth whiter than milk' (Gen. xlix. 12) = the Celestial Spiritual which is in His Natural.

2830⁷. Spiritual good after regeneration is here treated of, and . . . its Celestial Spiritual is described by 'the mountains which skipped like rams' (Ps. cxiv. 4); and its Celestial Natural by 'the hills like the sons of the flock.'

—⁸. 'Rams the sons of Bashan' (Deut. xxxii. 14) = celestial spiritual things.

3969³. 'Joseph' = the celestial spiritual man; and 'Benjamin,' the spiritual celestial. Ex.

—¹⁰. The Celestial Spiritual in the third Heaven is charity, which is the principal in the second Heaven.

4273. By 'Israel' is represented the celestial spiritual man.

4275. 'Until the ascending of the dawn' (Gen. xxxii. 24) = before the conjunction of the natural good signified by 'Jacob' with the Celestial Spiritual, or Divine good of truth. 'The dawn' . . . here = the Celestial Spiritual; for when the dawn ascended, Jacob was named 'Israel,' by which is signified the celestial spiritual man. 4283.

4277. 'He touched the hollow of his thigh' (ver. 25) = where celestial spiritual good is conjoined with the natural good signified by 'Jacob.' Ex.

4278. 'To be out of joint' (ver. 25) = that truths were not yet arranged in such an order that all together with good could enter celestial spiritual good. 4302, Ex.

4286. 'Thy name shall no more be called Jacob, but Israel' (ver. 28) = the Divine Celestial Spiritual now; and 'Israel' = the celestial spiritual man which is in the Natural, thus the natural man. 4292.

—³. What the Celestial Spiritual is shall be told in a few words. Those are called celestial spiritual who are just above called spiritual, and are in the middle or second Heaven; they are designated celestial from mutual love, and spiritual from the intelligence thence derived; the internal ones there are those who are represented by 'Joseph' . . . and the external ones there are those who are represented by 'Israel' . . . The internal ones who are called 'Joseph' partake of the Rational; and the external ones who are called 'Israel' partake of the Natural; for they are intermediate between the Rational and the Natural; hence it is that it is said that 'Israel' = the celestial spiritual man which is in the Natural, thus the natural man; and that 'Joseph' = the celestial spiritual man himself who is the rational man . . .

4570. 'He called His name Israel' (Gen. xxxv. 10) = the Internal Natural, or the Celestial Spiritual of the Natural.

—³. The Celestial is that which is of good, and the Spiritual is that which is of truth; thus the Celestial Spiritual is that which is of good from truth.

4585°. 'Joseph' = the exterior Rational, wherefore of him is predicated the Celestial of the Spiritual from the Rational.

4598. 'Israel journeyed' (Gen. xxxv. 21) = the Celestial Spiritual of the Natural now. . . The Celestial Spiritual of the Natural . . . is the good of truth, or the good of charity which is procured by means of the truth of faith.

4675. Jacob as 'Israel' = the Divine Spiritual of the Natural, or the Celestial of the Spiritual from the Natural; and 'Joseph' = the Divine Spiritual of the Rational, or the Celestial of the Spiritual from the Rational.

4963. 'Joseph' (Gen. xxxix. 1) = the Celestial of the Spiritual from the Rational; for 'Joseph' = the celestial spiritual man which is from the Rational.

—². The Celestial of the Spiritual from the Rational . . . is above the Celestial of the Spiritual from the Natural, which is represented by 'Israel.'

—^e. The Lord's internal man was not like that of another man; for His inmost was Jehovah; this intermediate therefore is what is called the Celestial of the Spiritual from the Rational.

4992. A third state is now treated of, in which the Celestial of the Spiritual was in the Natural. Ex.

4993°. The third state in which the Celestial of the Spiritual is, is here treated of, when it becomes spiritual in the Natural . . .

5097. 'Joseph came to them in the morning' (Gen. xli. 6) = what is revealed and clear to the Celestial of the Spiritual.

5110. 'The prince of the butlers told his dream to Joseph' (ver. 9) = that the Celestial of the Spiritual perceived the issue concerning the things which were subject to the intellectual part of the Sensual, and which had been heretofore rejected.

—². The Celestial of the Spiritual is mentioned, but the Lord is understood . . .

5191. In this chapter (Gen. xli) the second state of the Celestial of the Spiritual, which is 'Joseph,' is treated of; namely, its exaltation over those things which are of the natural or external man, thus over all the scientifics there, which are 'Egypt.'

[A.] 520². The subject treated of in this chapter (Gen. xli) is the influx of the Celestial of the Spiritual into those things of the Natural which were retained, namely, into those things which were of the intellectual part there. . . This new Voluntary is from the Celestial of the Spiritual. . . The truths which are in the Natural are extirpated by falsities, and thus the Natural is left to the Celestial of the Spiritual; which is signified by the devouring of the good kine by the evil, and the swallowing up of the full ears by the empty ones, and then by Joseph's having the care of the whole of Egypt.

5208. 'Pharaoh awoke' (Gen. xli.4)=a state of enlightenment. . . By a state of enlightenment is here meant general enlightenment by the Celestial of the Spiritual, thus by what is interior.

5244. An inclination to receive the Celestial of the Spiritual is signified by Pharaoh sending for and calling Joseph (ver. 14).

5251. 'Pharaoh said to Joseph' (ver. 15)=a perception of the Celestial of the Spiritual from the Natural. 'Pharaoh'=the Natural; 'Joseph,' the Celestial of the Spiritual. The reason perception of the Celestial of the Spiritual from the Natural is signified, is that the Lord is represented by both 'Pharaoh and Joseph; by Joseph' as to the Celestial of the Spiritual; and by 'Pharaoh,' as to the Natural; hence by 'Pharaoh said to Joseph' is signified the Lord's perception from the Celestial of the Spiritual in the Natural.

5254. 'I have heard upon thee' (Id.)=the capability of the Celestial of the Spiritual; 'that thou hearest a dream to interpret it'=to perceive what is in things foreseen.

5259. 'And Pharaoh spake to Joseph' (ver. 17)=thought of the Celestial of the Spiritual from the Natural.

5262. 'Joseph said to Pharaoh' (ver. 25)=perception of the Natural from the Celestial of the Spiritual.

5272. 'This is the word which I have spoken unto Pharaoh' (ver. 28)=that which the Natural thought from the Celestial of the Spiritual.

5307. 'Shall we find [one] like this, a man in whom is the Spirit of God?' (ver. 38)=concerning the influx of truth in which there is good from the interior, thus the Celestial of the Spiritual.

—². This which 'Joseph' represents is called the Celestial of the Spiritual from the Natural, and it cannot be called by any other name; for the Celestial is good from the Divine, the Spiritual is truth from that good; thus it is the truth of good from His Divine Human; this the Lord was while He lived in the world; but when He had glorified Himself, He mounted above it, and became the Divine good itself or Jehovah as to the Human.

5308. 'Pharaoh said to Joseph' (ver. 39)=perception of the Natural from the Celestial of the Spiritual. 5315.

5309. The reason foresight and providence are attributed to the Celestial of the Spiritual, is that the Lord is here treated of in the internal sense, Who is the Celestial of the Spiritual which is represented by 'Joseph.'

5313. 'Only on the throne will I be greater than thou' (ver. 40)=that it will still appear as if it were from the Natural, because it is from the Celestial of the Spiritual through it. . . The Natural is meant by 'a throne,' when the Celestial of the Spiritual is meant by him who sits on it; for the Natural is like a seat to the Spiritual, here to the Celestial of the Spiritual.

5316. These things took place of the Divine Providence, in order that 'Joseph' might put on the representation of the Celestial of the Spiritual which the Lord was while He was in the world, and through which the Lord set His Natural in order. . .

5317. That the Natural gave up all power to the Celestial of the Spiritual, Sig.

5319. 'He clothed him in garments of fine linen' (ver. 42)=an external significative of the Celestial of the Spiritual. . . namely, of the truth which proceeds from the Celestial of the Spiritual.

5321. By 'Joseph' is represented the Lord as to the Divine Spiritual, thus as to the Divine truth from the Lord's Divine Human, from which Divine truth is the Celestial of the Spiritual.

5326. That the Natural (with a regenerate man) is from the Celestial of the Spiritual. Sig. and Ex.

5327. 'Without thee shall no man lift up his hand' (ver. 44)=that from the Celestial of the Spiritual there is everything of power in the Spiritual. . . 'Or foot'=everything of power in the Natural. 5328.

5331. 'Pharaoh called Joseph's name Zaphnath Paaneah' (that is, 'the revealer of hidden things and the opener of future things') (ver. 45)=the quality of the Celestial of the Spiritual then. . . This quality is the quality of the Celestial of the Spiritual, for the Celestial of the Spiritual is the good of truth in which is the Divine, or which is immediately from the Divine. This, namely, the Celestial of the Spiritual in which is the Divine, was with the Lord alone while He was in the world, and was the human in which His Divine was able to be, and which He could put off when He had made all the Human in Himself Divine.

5332. 'Joseph'=the good of truth in which is the Divine, which is the same as the Celestial of the Spiritual. . . The Celestial of the Spiritual which is in Heaven from the influx of the Divine of the Lord. . .

5333. 'Joseph went out over the land of Egypt' (ver. 45). . . By these words, together with those which go before, is signified the quality of the Celestial of the Spiritual, and the quality of the marriage of good with truth and of truth with good, when the Celestial of the Spiritual, through influx, makes both Naturals its own.

5336. 'In his standing before Pharaoh king of Egypt' (ver. 46)=when it was present in the Natural. . . 'Pharaoh king of Egypt'=the new state of the Natural, or the new natural man; thus the Natural in which there is now the Celestial of the Spiritual, and which the Celestial of the Spiritual has now made its own. 5337.

5345. 'Joseph gathered corn as the sand of the sea, very much' (ver.49)=the multiplication of truth from good... here, from the good of the Celestial of the Spiritual through influx...

5348. 'Unto Joseph were born two sons' (ver.50)=good and truth thence, namely, from the influx of the Celestial of the Spiritual into the Natural.

5367. 'Go ye to Joseph' (ver.55)=that it is from the Celestial of the Spiritual... namely, good instead of truth. 5375.

5375. The Celestial of the Spiritual is the good of truth from the Divine.

5376. That there was desolation everywhere in the Natural... except in the scientifics where the Celestial of the Spiritual was, sig.

5396a. The subject treated of in the former chapter (Gen.xli) is the influx and conjunction of the Celestial of the Spiritual with scientifics in the Natural; the subject now treated of (chap.xlii) is the influx and conjunction of the Celestial of the Spiritual with the truths of faith which are of the Church therein. 5481. 5486. 5970.

5413. That (the Spiritual of the Celestial) would perish without the Celestial of the Spiritual, sig.

5417. 'Joseph was the ruler over the land' (Gen. xlii.6)=that the Celestial of the Spiritual, or truth from the Divine, was reigning in the Natural, where scientifics are... The reason the Celestial of the Spiritual is truth from the Divine, is that the Lord's internal Human, before it was fully glorified, since it was a receptable for His Divine, was the Celestial of the Spiritual... This receptacle or recipient of the Divine is the same as truth from the Divine... 5459. 5510.

5421. 'Joseph saw his brethren, and recognized them' (ver.7)=perception and acknowledgment by the Celestial of the Spiritual.

5427. 'Joseph recognized his brethren' (ver.8)=that these (general) truths of the Church appeared to the Celestial of the Spiritual by its own light.

5428. But the Celestial of the Spiritual, or truth from the Divine, did not appear to the general truths of the Church in natural light not as yet illuminated by celestial light. Sig.

5430. 'Joseph remembered the dreams which he had dreamed of them' (ver.9)=that the Celestial of the Spiritual foresaw what would happen in connexion with the general truths of the Church in the Natural.

5432. The subject treated of in the internal sense, is that the truths of the Church are to be appropriated to the Natural, and that they cannot be appropriated to it, except by means of influx from the Celestial of the Spiritual through a medium.

5458. 'Joseph said to them on the third day' (ver.18) =the perception of the Celestial of the Spiritual concerning these truths separated from itself, when it was full.

5574. The subject is continued of the conjunction of the truths of the Church in the Natural, which are the ten sons of Jacob, with the Celestial of the Spiritual, or truths from the Divine, which is 'Joseph,' through the medium, which is 'Benjamin;' but in this chapter (Gen. xliii) the general influx which precedes conjunction is treated of.

5638. 'They stood before Joseph' (Gen.xliii.15)=the presence of the Celestial of the Spiritual there... That the Celestial of the Spiritual was present in both Naturals, was represented by Joseph's being made lord over the whole of Egypt; this is what is meant by the presence of the Celestial of the Spiritual in the interiors of scientifics, for scientifics are in the Natural; and the truths which are represented by the ten sons of Jacob are truths in the Natural.

5639. 'And Joseph saw Benjamin with them' (ver.16) =perception of a spiritual medium present with truths by the Celestial of the Spiritual.

5642. 'He brought the men to the house of Joseph' (ver.17)=the first introduction into the good which is from the Celestial of the Spiritual. 5645.

5686. Because it is a medium, it comes forth from the Celestial of the Spiritual, which is 'Joseph,' as from a father, and from the Natural as from a mother... And as the Celestial of the Spiritual, which is 'Joseph,' in like manner came forth from the Natural as a mother, but from the Divine as a Father, Benjamin is called 'his brother, the son of his mother,' but presently, 'his son'...

5689². As in the supreme sense, the Lord's internal Human was the Celestial of the Spiritual, and this was truth from the Divine, or the nearest covering of the Divine itself in the Lord; and as the Spiritual of the Celestial, which is the medium, proceeded from it, it follows that the Divine was also with this... 5692.

5805. 'Joseph'=the Celestial of the Spiritual, thus internal good, for this is the same as the Celestial of the Spiritual.

6435. The external of the Celestial Kingdom coincides with the internal of the Spiritual Kingdom through the medium which is called the Celestial of the Spiritual...

6526. 'All the house of Joseph' (Gen.1.8)=celestial things of the Spiritual.

7456⁴. 'Jerusalem' (Ezek.xxiii)=the Celestial Spiritual Church; 'Samaria,' the Spiritual Church.

9671². They who in Heaven relate to the uniting medium, are called Celestial Spiritual (Angels), and Spiritual Celestial (Angels); the former are represented in the Word by 'Joseph,' and the latter by 'Benjamin.'

H. 27. The only communication (between the Angels of the Celestial and of the Spiritual Kingdoms) is through intermediate angelic Societies, which are called celestial spiritual; through these, the Celestial inflows into the Spiritual... The Lord always provides such intermediate Angels... —(n), Refs.

J. 74. The Angels have much hope of a certain nation... which is of such a nature that it can receive spiritual light, and become a celestial spiritual man.

D. 4627³. The interiors of man succeed each other thus; the Sensual, the Natural, the Spiritual Natural; these are of the external man. Then come the Celestial of the Spiritual, the Celestial, and the inmost . . . these are of the internal man. The medium between the external and the internal man is called the Spiritual of the Celestial.

[D.] 5547. There are seven degrees of Heavens. . . The internal are distinguished into three, and the external into three; and between the internal and the external ones there are intermediate ones for the sake of conjunction; these are called celestial spiritual. Hence it is that there are seven degrees.

E. 831². As the Celestial Angels are perfected in wisdom by hearing, there are intermediate Angels, who are called Celestial Spiritual Angels, who preach and teach truths in their temples.

De Verbo 3. In the second Heaven are the spiritual, and in the third Heaven are the Celestial; there are also intermediate (Angels) who are called Celestial Spiritual; many of these are preachers in the highest Heaven.

Celestial Truth. Verum coeleste.

A. 1402. The advance from scientifics to celestial truths is here described (Gen.xii).

1470. 'I know that thou art a woman beautiful in look' (ver.11)=that truth from a celestial origin is delightful. . . For all truth which is celestial, or which is produced from what is celestial, is happy in the internal man, and delightful in the external; no otherwise is truth perceived with the Celestial Angels. It is quite otherwise when it is not from a celestial origin. . . It is known that truth is attended with happiness and delight, but these are essentially so when truth is from what is celestial; thus truth itself also becomes celestial, and is called celestial truth . . .

1475. 'Sister' (ver.13) = intellectual truth, when celestial truth is 'a wife.' 1497.

1495. While a man is being instructed (he advances) from scientifics to rational truths, then onwards to intellectual truths, and at last to celestial truths, which are here signified by 'a wife.' If he advances from scientifics and rational truths to celestial truths without the mediumship of intellectual truths, the Celestial has violence done to it, because there is no connexion of the rational truths which are from scientifics with celestial truths, except through intellectual truths, which are intermediate.

1496. In the other life truths are never regarded from truths, but from the life which is in them, that is, from the celestial things which are of love and charity in the truths; from these, truths become celestial, and are called celestial truths.

1499. That scientifics left the Lord is in this way; when celestial things are conjoined with intellectual truths, and these become celestial truths, all things which are of no account are dissipated of themselves. 1501.

1545. 'He and his wife (went up out of Egypt)' (Gen. xiii.1)=the celestial truths then with the Lord (were left by scientifics). . . That it is celestial truths, or truths which are from celestial things [which are meant], is evident from the fact that 'he' is first mentioned, and 'wife' afterwards. Celestial truth is one thing, and truth celestial another; celestial truth is what derives its origin from the Celestial; truth celestial is what is from truth, and is implanted in the Celestial by means of Knowledges.

2063³. From the Lord's Divine good meant by 'Abraham' all celestial truth must go forth and be, and from the Lord's Divine truth meant by 'Sarah' all spiritual truth must go forth and be; celestial truth is that which exists with the Celestial Angels, and spiritual truth is that which exists with the Spiritual Angels; or what is the same thing, celestial truth was that which existed with the men of the Most Ancient Church . . . and spiritual truth was that which existed with the men of the Ancient Church.

2533. When Abraham is called 'a man-vir' (Gen. xx.7), he signifies celestial truth, which is the same thing as doctrine from a celestial origin.

2830³. The celestial man is such that he is in celestial love . . . and thence in celestial truth.

3654². 'Man of Judah' (Is.v.3)=truth from the good of love to the Lord, which is called celestial truth; that is, (he=) those who are in such truth.

—⁶. 'Israel' (Ps.cxiv.2)=celestial truth, or spiritual good.

3688. 'The sister of Nebaioth' (Gen.xxviii.9)=the affection of celestial truth, which is the same as the affection of spiritual good. . . By these words is signified the conjunction of the good represented by 'Esau' with truth from a Divine origin, thus with the affection of celestial truth more interiorly.

3727⁵. The Celestial Church acknowledged no truth except that which is from good, which is called celestial truth . . .

3812¹. 'Nazarite' (Lam.iv.7,8)=the celestial man; 'whiter than snow, and brighter than milk'=that he is in celestial truth; and as this truth is from the love of good, it is said 'that their bones were more ruddy than gems.'

4487. The good of truth is called celestial truth, (which) is truth that has been made of the life.

5117. 'Clusters' (Gen.xl.10)=the truth of spiritual good; and 'grapes'=the good of celestial truth.

5897⁹. Celestial truth is charity, but spiritual truth is faith. 5922¹².

6295⁸. The good of charity (with the celestial man) is what is called truth, but celestial truth.

6745³. 'To suck the breasts of kings' (Is.lx.16)=the insinuation of celestial truth.

8815. Divine truth itself in Heaven is signified by 'voices' and 'lightnings;' but celestial or angelic truth which is adjoined to what is Divine, and which is beneath or around, is signified by 'the voice of a trumpet.' Ill.

9468. 'Scarlet double-dyed' (Ex.xxv.4)=mutual love; as is evident from the signification of 'scarlet' and of 'double-dyed,' which is celestial truth, and which is the same as the good of mutual love. Ex.

9470⁵. Wool=celestial truth, which relatively is good.

—⁶. Wool=celestial truth, which is the truth of the good of love.

9544. Celestial good is the good of love to the Lord, and celestial truth is the good of mutual love.

Celibacy. Coelebitus.

Celibate, Unmarried. Coelebs.

M. 54³. They who in the world have lived unmarried, and have completely alienated their minds from marriage, if they are spiritual, remain unmarried; but if they are natural, they become whoremongers. It is otherwise with those who in their state of celibacy have longed for marriage, especially if they have solicited it without success; for these, if they are spiritual, blessed marriages are provided; but not until they come into Heaven.

—⁴. They who in the world have been shut up in monasteries, both virgins and men, (if not disposed to marriage) are carried to the celibates at the side of Heaven. 155⁶, Ex.

—⁵. The reason the celibates are at the side of Heaven, is that the sphere of perpetual celibacy infests the sphere of marriage love, which is the very sphere of Heaven.

155. Chastity cannot be predicated of those who have renounced marriage, vowing perpetual celibacy, unless there remain in them the love of a life truly conjugal. Gen.art.

— . Hence it is provided by the Lord that this celibacy should exist only with those who are in outward worship; being in this worship because they do not approach the Lord or read the Word. With such, eternal life is not so much endangered by vows of celibacy together with a solemn engagement of chastity, as it is with those who are in inward worship.

156. A state of marriage is to be preferred to a state of celibacy. Gen.art.

De Conj. 51. They who have lived in celibacy live long in celibacy (after death), but if in the world they had longed for marriage, they at last enter into it.

Cell. Cella.

A. 938⁶. The sordidly avaricious seem to themselves to pass their time in cells, where their money is . . . H.488⁴.

J. 58². The ecclesiastics hid (the treasures) in its cells and subterranean vaults . . .

I. 14⁵. Like an adulterer who hides a harlot below in a cell . . . T.590.

D. 384. The avaricious seem to themselves to be shut up in subterranean cells . . .

Cell. Cellula.

H. 108. Bees know how . . . to build cells . . .

W. 355. (The queen bee) marches from cell to cell . . .

R. 421². Huts which are divided into cells . . .

—³. When they are first sent in they sit in the first cells . . . They then enter cells nearer to the east . . .

D. 5310. They dwelt in cells (which are described, and illustrated by a drawing).

Cellar. Cellarium.

R. 772. (The Babylonians filled cellars with treasures.)

T. 527². Like those who gather jewels of gold and silver into treasure chests, and hide them in cellars.

Censer. Thuribulum.

A. 9424⁴. Worship according to these things is signified by 'a censer in the hand of each, and by the abundance of the cloud of incense' (Ezek.viii.11).

9434⁶. 'To put strange fire in the censers' (Lev.x.1) = to set up worship from some other love than a heavenly one.

10177¹⁰. (Origin of the use of censers, etc. among the Romans.)

10296². From the frankincense—thus, the vessels for the incense were called censers.

R. 392. 'Another Angel came and stood at the altar having a golden censer' (Rev.viii.3)=spiritual worship, which is carried on from the good of charity by means of truths of faith. . . 'The golden censer' which he had in his hand=the worship of the Lord from spiritual love, which worship is from the good of charity by means of truths of faith.

395. 'And the Angel took the censer, and filled it with the fire of the altar, and cast it into the earth' (ver.5)=spiritual worship in which there is celestial love, and its influx into the lower parts where were those who were in faith separated from charity. By 'a censer,' equally as by 'incense,' is signified worship from spiritual love.

E. 491. 'Having a golden censer' (Rev.viii.3)=the conjunction of (celestial) good with spiritual good, and thus the conjunction together of the higher Heavens. 'A censer'=worship from spiritual good . . . and 'a golden censer,' spiritual good from celestial good. . . The censers used by the Jewish and Israelitish nation were of brass, and by the offering of incense from those censers there was represented worship from spiritual good, and at the same time conjunction with natural good, for 'brass'=natural good. Here therefore, by 'the golden censer' is signified the conjunction of celestial good with spiritual good. The reason it also=the conjunction of the two higher Heavens, is that the good of the inmost Heaven is celestial good, and the good of the middle Heaven is spiritual good . . .

496. 'And the Angel took the censer, and filled it with the fire of the altar'=the conjunction of celestial love and of spiritual love. 'A censer'=spiritual good; hence also spiritual love, since all good is of love.

Centre. Centrum.

A. 549. Everyone (in Heaven) is as it were a centre to all the rest.

1582. Wherever the Lord is, there is the centre . . .

2057². The heavenly form is of such a nature, that everyone is a kind of centre, thus a centre of communications, and therefore of happiness from all . . .

2872. 3633⁶.

[A.] 3833. He now proceeds from the good and truth which he believes and perceives as from a centre to the circumferences . . . Thenceforth as from new centres he produces new circumferences, and so on.

4225^e. Everyone (in Heaven) is the centre of all the influxes . . .

4321^e. To the Lord as a Sun and to the Centre there, all things have reference . . .

4482². The Lord is the Centre of all things . . .

5128⁶. (The sensuous things) which agree (with truths) are as it were in the centres, and those which disagree are in the circumferences; those which are in the centres are as it were lifted up towards Heaven, and those which are in the circumferences as it were hang downwards; those which are in the centres receive light through the Rational, and when presented to view in the other life appear like little stars which sparkle and throw out light on every side even to the circumferences . . . But when the Rational is subjected to sensuous things, the contrary happens, for then falsities are in the midst, or in the centre, and truths are in the circumferences; those things which are in the centre are in a sort of lumen there . . .

5134². Evils are then separated, and are cast out from the centre . . . to the circumferences . . . P.79.

6028. The best is in the midst, that is, in the centre, or inmost . . .

6068. Those things which are directly under the sight are in the midst, that is, in the centre . . . 6084².

6451². The inmost thing which flows in keeps the centre there . . .

6468³. The Lord is the Centre of the looking of all (in Heaven).

6952⁶. Elevation by the Lord . . . is like a pressing towards the centre of gravity; the centre is where the Lord is in His Sun; towards this are the heads of the Angels elevated, but the feet of the infernals . . .

H. 86¹⁰. The Lord is the common Centre of Heaven. 124. 142. 430^e. N.307, Refs.

430^e. To look below is to look backwards from the Lord to the opposite centre, to which look and tend all things of Hell.

558. (Love to the neighbour beginning from self as a centre, and from the Lord as a centre, compared.)

C. J. 40. The best of the English nation are in the centre of all Christians. The reason they are in the centre, is that they have an interior intellectual light. T.807.

P. 86. With the evil, evils with falsities are as it were in the centre, and goods with truths in the circumferences; but with the good, goods with truths are in the centre, and evils with falsities in the circumferences; and in both cases, the things which are of the centre spread themselves out to the circumferences; as heat does from fire in the centre, and as cold does from frost in the centre. Thus with the evil, the goods in the circumferences are defiled by the evils of the centre; and with the good, the evils in the circumferences are made mild by the goods of the centre.

M. 380⁷. Whether the centre is from the expanse, or the expanse from the centre. Ex. T.35⁷.

D. 303. That those who are inmost are as it were bases and multiplied centres, like the stars in the heavens to which the rest bear relation as to their centres.

305. That the centres and bases which are like the stars of the heavens are very numerous in every Heaven. . . Thus all Spirits and all Angels are, in particular, the centres of influxes . . . Man, in like manner, is a centre of influxes, corresponding. 3033.

2204. The Society thus manifested itself, when yet there was one who was as the centre to all the rest, and to whom the rest were referred in the order in which they were in the Society.

4090. Everyone (in the Spiritual World) is as it were a certain centre, according to a stupendous form, from the Lord.

6058^e. Every man is in his own reigning love, and thus as it were in the centre . . . Also all Angels and all Spirits are centres, for the heavenly form is from continuous centres.

E. 159³. All the least things of the body turn themselves to the common centre of our world, which is called the centre of gravity . . . But this centre of gravity is only the centre of gravity in nature; but in the Spiritual World the centre of gravity is different, this is determined with a man by the love in which he is, downwards if he has infernal love, and upwards if he has heavenly love . . .

Centripetal. Centripetentia. H.142.

Century. See under AGE-saeculum.

Cerberus. Cerberus.

A. 2743. I saw a great dog, like Cerberus . . . which signifies a guard lest in marriage love a man should pass from heavenly to infernal delight, or the reverse. 5051².

M. 79². Among the ponds there were terrible dogs, some of which were three-headed, like Cerberus, some two-headed . . . Their cupidities were represented by these horrible dogs.

D. 4946. On the worst magicians from Africa; the Cerberuses.

6110²⁶. The apparent similarity of the delights of (marriage love and of adultery) are what is signified by Cerberus, who stands at the door, and prevents the delight of heavenly love from descending into Hell.

De Conj. 104. I saw a great dog, like the one called Cerberus by the ancient writers; the gape of his jaws was horrible; I was told that such a dog signifies a guard lest a man should pass over from heavenly marriage love to the infernal love of adultery. When a man passes from the former love into the latter opposite one, the delight appearing almost the same, then such (a dog) is presented as it were guarding lest the opposite delights should communicate with each other.

Cerebellum. Cerebellum.

See under BRAIN, and INVOLUNTARY SENSE.

A. 1977². It is the angelic Spirits who are at the confines of the paradisiacal places who insinuate such dreams; it is their office also to watch over certain men while they are asleep, lest they should be infested by evil Spirits. This office they undertake with the highest delight . . . and they love to affect the man with the delightful and delicious things which they see in his affection. They are . . . of those who in the bodily life have loved to make the life of others delightful . . . They belong to the province of the cerebellum, because the cerebellum is awake in time of sleep, while the cerebrum is asleep. This was the source of the dreams of the men of the Most Ancient Church. D.3183.

4227³. These Spirits correspond to the vitiations of the purer blood . . . When such act in consort, they are known by . . . their being seated at the back part of the head, beneath the cerebellum to the left.

4326. They were those who relate to the general involuntary sense . . . They can well perceive a man's thoughts, but are not willing to utter them; like the cerebellum, which perceives everything the cerebrum does, but does not publish it . . . D.3860.

—². The influx from the cerebellum insinuates itself especially into the face, as is evident from the fact that the disposition is inscribed on the face, and affections appear in it, for the most part without the man's will, as fear, reverence, shame, etc. . . These come from the cerebellum by means of its fibres when there is no dissimulation within . . .

—³. With the most ancient people . . . all the Involuntary of the cerebellum was manifest in the face . . . But with the ancient people, whose age was called the Silver one . . . the Involuntary of the cerebellum was not manifest on the right side of the face, but only on the left side. Whereas with their descendants . . . the Involuntary was no longer manifest in the face, but betook itself to the region about the left ear. I have been instructed that the fibres of the cerebellum have thus changed their efflux into the face, and that fibres of the cerebrum have been translated thither in their stead, which exercise command over those from the cerebellum; and this from the effort to shape the expression of the face according to the pleasure of man's Own will, which [course of action] is from the cerebrum. 4327. D.3863, Ex.

8593. These Genii belong to the province of the cerebellum, and also to that part of the spinal marrow which sends forth fibres and nerves to the involuntary things.

9670². The Angels of the inmost Heaven correspond to those things with man which belong to the provinces of the heart and cerebellum . . . The things which are of the heart and cerebellum are called involuntary and spontaneous, because they so appear.

9683^o. Hence it is that the motion of the heart, which is involuntary, is altogether taken away from the will; the same with the action of the cerebellum; and the motions of the heart and the forces of the cerebellum rule the voluntary things, lest these should rush beyond bounds and extinguish the life of the body before the time; on which account the beginnings which act from each, namely, from both the involuntary and the voluntary things, in the whole body go conjoined together.

H. 251. The influx of the Celestial Angels is into that part of the head beneath which is the cerebellum, and is called the occiput . . . for that region corresponds to wisdom.

W. 366². This cortical or glandular substance constitutes the surface of the cerebrum, also the surface of the corpora striata . . . and the middle of the cerebellum, and also the middle of the spinal marrow.

T. 160^o. Why the occiputs of those who take delight in doing evil, in the Spiritual World are hollow . . . The reason is . . . that in the cerebellum dwells the love of the will, and in the cerebrum the thought of the understanding, and when the thought of the understanding does not lead the love of the man's will, the inmost parts of the cerebellum, which in themselves are celestial, fall in. Hence the hollowness. 564^o.

D. 1550¹. One of the Spirits of Mars who was with me drew back the upper part of the front of my head towards the occiput, thus signifying the character of their thought, that it was not of their cerebrum or will, but is withdrawn to their nature so as to be at the cerebellum, and so that they do not act from their own will, but from the fear of the Lord.

3183^e. The cerebellum as it were sleeps during the day time, while the cerebrum is awake.

3862. The general operation of the cerebellum, besides being into the face, is also about the loins, where numerous nerves of the cerebellum flow together, for the sake of the propagation of offspring . . . for propagation is taken away from the voluntaries of man in almost all respects.

3868. The fibres of the cerebrum have now worked themselves into the face, and now perform what does not belong to its function, but to that of the cerebellum . . .

4518. They know that in the night-time man is in spontaneous things, and that the cerebellum is the source of what is spontaneous . . .

Cerebrum. See BRAIN.

Ceremony. Cereemonia.

Ceremonial. Cereemonialis.

A. 2342^o. The ceremonial or ritual . . .

T. 55^e. Ceremonies constitute the dress . . . (Their necessity.)

667. (The Sacraments believed to be mere ceremonies.)

Certain. Certus.

Certainty. Certitudo.

Certainly. Certe.

A. 1673¹. He may then be very sure that such Spirits are with him . . .

1818. A temptation against the Lord's love, which wanted to be made certain, sig. 1820.

1820. Certainty concerning the issue precedes victory, and is of victory.

2252. I know for certain . . .

3981. To know for certain that it was from the Divine, sig.

[A.] 4872. What is reciprocal if there is certain, sig. Because a pledge was for the sake of certain . . .

4873. That it was certain, sig. 'A pledge'=certain thence.

5284. 'To hasten' does not signify quickly, but what is certain, and also what is full . . . Thus haste of time (implies) that there are many things working together, whence there results a certain and full issue.

5449. 'Let Pharaoh live' (Gen. xlii. 15)=what is certain . . . 5453. 5454.

6783. A perception that now conjunction was sure. Sig. 'To haste in coming'=sure conjunction.

6981. 'In me, O Lord' (Ex. iv. 10)=what is certain; being a form of asseveration.

9483. 'Thus shall ye make it' (Ex. xxv. 9)=a sure and genuine representative, (because the expression is repeated, and forms the close).

H. 473. Whether you say faith, or the settled thought of man, is the same thing.

R. 4. 'The things which must quickly be done' (Rev. i. 1)=the things which must certainly be, lest the Church should perish.

547. It is certain that the New Church . . . will come into existence . . . and it is also certain that the falsities of the former Church must first be removed . . .

949. 'Behold, I come quickly' (Rev. xxii. 12)=that the Lord will certainly come.

T. 759³. Who speaks more persuedly of the certainty of his phantasy than a naturalistic atheist?

Certificate. Under TOKEN.

Cerulean. See BLUE-cæruleus.

Cesspool. Under LAKE or POOL-stagnum.

Chaff. Palea.

A. 3941⁹. 'Chaff' (Matt. iii. 12)=things in which there is nothing of good.

4884^o. What a man merely thinks, and does not act . . . is dissipated like chaff by a breath of wind . . .

4957^o. Like a husk or chaff relatively to the kernels.

5495. 'Fodder' is the food of asses, and consists of straw and chaff; hence it=all reflection about scientifics . . .

6208^o. Like chaff in the wind . . . 6631^o. 8002^o.

7112. 'Ye shall not add to give chaff to the people' (Ex. v. 7)=the lowest scientifics, and the most general of all. 'Chaff,' or straw=scientific truths; and in fact the lowest scientifics and the most general ones of all; for the lowest of all foods in a spiritual sense is straw or chaff, because it is that of beasts. Ex.

7127. 'I will give you no chaff whatever' (ver. 10)=that there will no longer be the most general scientifics from that source. . . 'Chaff'=the most general scientifics of all. —^o. 7128. 7134. 7144.

R. 961^o. (My former ideas) were separated like chaff from the wheat . . .

T. 347². Which on being pounded yields only chaff . . .

E. 374¹⁴. By 'the chaff which He shall burn up with unquenchable fire' (Matt. iii. 12) is signified falsity of every kind which is from an infernal origin, and which will be destroyed; thus those who are in that falsity.

740¹². As the faith of falsity is like chaff before the wind, it is said that 'Satan hath demanded them, to sift them as wheat' (Luke xxii. 31); 'wheat'=the good of charity separated from the chaff.

Chain. Catena, Catenula.

A. 3091. There is a chain of subordination . . . from the Lord . . .

8869⁶. 'The metal-caster overlayeth it with gold, and casteth chains of silver' (Is. xl. 19)=that by means of reasonings he causes falsities of doctrine to appear true.

8932⁵. 'To cast chains of silver' (id.)=to make them cohere as though they were connected with truths.

9852. 'Two chains of pure gold' (Ex. xxviii. 14)=the coherence with good of the whole Kingdom. 'Chains'=coherence. The reason 'chains' have this signification, is that joinings together are effected by means of them . . .

—^o. That falsities may cohere is signified by 'he casteth chains of silver.'

9855. 'Thou shalt place the chains of cords upon the sockets' (id.)=conjunction with the good from which come truths, and thus the preservation of the Spiritual Kingdom by all work and power.

9879. 'Thou shalt make upon the breastplate chains at the ends' (ver. 22)=the conjunction of the whole Heaven in innermost things. . . 'Chains'=coherence, thus also conjunction.

10406⁴. 'He casteth chains of silver'=by means of coherence.

H. 304^o. Like a chain when the hook is removed . . .

R. 840. 'Having a great chain upon his hand' (Rev. xx. 1)=the endeavour and thence the act of binding and loosing.

926³. In his left hand a chain of pearls.

E. 587⁴. That falsities may cohere and appear as truths, is signified by 'he casteth chains of silver.'

652²⁶. 'To be bound with chains' (Nah. iii. 10)=to be tied up by falsities so that truths cannot come forth.

Chain. Torques.

A. 5320. 'He put a chain of gold upon his neck' (Gen. xli. 42)=a significative of the conjunction of the interiors with the exteriors, which is brought about by good. A 'chain,' as it encircles the neck, is a significative of their conjunction; 'a chain of gold'=conjunction by means of good. Ill.

10540³. 'A chain' (Ezek. xvi. 11)=truth from good as to influx, and thence the conjunction of the interiors with the exteriors. E. 195⁷. 242¹⁵.

Coro. 43. Some (idols) they decorated with necklaces, etc.

Chair. Cathedra, Cathedralis.

M. 315². In that public School in front there was a chair . . . The chair was for the youths who were to give answers . . .

T. 137. He mounted the upper step of the chair . . .
 —⁴. The chair-man. —⁸.

815². The (professors) from their chairs, the clergy from their pulpits . . .

E. 840⁴. 'The chairs of those who sold doves' (Matt. xxi. 12)=those who (did this) from holy goods.

Chaldea. Chaldaea.

Chaldean. Chaldaeus.

A. 1368. 'Ur of the Chaldees' (Gen. xi. 28)=external worship in which there are falsities.

— See BABEL at these refs. —³. —⁵. 1691⁴. 2220. 3419³. 4922⁶. 5044⁹. P. 231⁵. E. 240¹⁰. 514¹³. 653⁵. 687¹¹. 1029¹⁴.

—². 'Chaldea'=the profanation of truth. 8904⁴. N. 172⁵, Refs. Life 79². R. 134³.

—³. The Chaldeans are called 'the sons of Babel' (Ezek. xxiii. 17) to denote truths profaned in worship.
 —⁴.

1613². 'The Chaldeans' (Hab. i. 6)=those who are in falsity; 'to walk in the breadths of the earth'=to destroy truths, for it is predicated of the Chaldeans.

2466³. 'To multiply whoredom even to the Chaldean land' (Ezek. xvi. 29)=to pervert truth even to the profanation of it, which is 'Chaldea.'

3079². 'The Chaldeans'=those who are in Knowledges, but which have been profaned through the falsities which are in them.

3901⁸. By 'the Chaldeans' (Hab. i. 6) are signified those who are in a holy external, but are interiorly in falsity. They, like Babel, are those who vastate the Church.

4335. 'The daughters of the Chaldeans' (Is. xlvii. 1)=those with whom the externals appear to be holy and true, but the interiors are profane and false.

4581⁹. 'The Chaldeans' (Jer. xxxii. 29)=those who are in worship in which there is falsity.

6534⁶. 'The Chaldeans' (Hab. i. 6)=those who are in falsities, but in externals appear to be in truths; thus they=the profanation of truth; but 'Babel'=the profanation of good.

7296. The Egyptians called the knowledges of things wisdom; and so did the Chaldeans (Jer. i. 35).

8185⁷. 'The Chaldeans' (Jer. i. 35)=those who profane truths. Refs. 8226².

9011⁶. Knowledge of the internal sense in Chaldea.

9828⁸. 'The Chaldeans' (Ezek. xxiii. 14)=those who in externals profess truths, but in internals deny them; thus they profane them. 10227⁹.

S. 21. Thus it came to pass that the science of correspondences was . . . cultivated in . . . Chaldea, etc.

102. The ancients with whom the ancient Word is still in use in Heaven were partly from Chaldea, etc., the inhabitants of all which kingdoms were in representative worship, and thence in the knowledge of correspondences . . . They who knew the correspondences of that Word were . . . afterwards called magicians.

P. 251³. When the Sons of Israel profaned the holy things of the Church by filthy idolatries, they were punished by the Assyrians and Chaldeans, for by Assyria and Chaldea is signified the profanation of what is holy.

251⁴. (There are European kingdoms which relate to the Chaldeans and Assyrians.)

328. (Chaldea one of the countries of the Ancient Church.) T. 279.

D. 4842. On Babel and Chaldea; that they are the adulterers treated of in the Revelation. Gen. art. The character of Chaldea was shown by Rudberg and Kalsenius.

4843. Chaldea, which is the 'great harlot,' consists of those who have imbibed certain principles of religion, not for the sake of the salvation of the soul, but merely in order that they may be advanced to riches, and who are not affected by truths for any other end. Such was Rudberg. (His character described.)

—². They also are Chaldeans who have no religion, and stuff the ears of another with whatever pleases him, to catch the good graces of princes and grandees. Such was Kalsenius. (His character described.)

E. 141². 'Chaldea the land of trading' (Ezek. xvi. 29)=the profanation of truth.

304²⁷. 'The land of the Chaldeans' (Is. xxiii. 13)=the profanation and destruction of truth.

355⁴. By 'the Chaldeans' (Hab. i. 6) are meant those who profane truths, and thus vastate the Church. 513¹³. 811⁷.

403¹⁸. See CAPTIVE at this ref.

526¹⁴. 'The daughter of the Chaldeans' (Is. xlvii. 1)=the falsification of truth.

827⁷. As 'the Chaldeans'=the truths of the Word profaned, because applied to the loves of self and of the world, 'the images of the Chaldeans' (Ezek. xxiii. 14)=doctrinal things propitiating these loves.

Chalice. Under CUP.

Chalk. See under LIME.

Chamber. Camera.

A. 817. A certain Spirit came to me from an infernal chamber which is towards the left side . . .

949. To the left in front there is a certain chamber where there is . . . mere darkness, wherefore it is called the dark chamber . . . In that chamber they plot . . . how to take people in; they call the darkness there deliciousness . . .

4528³. Many Heavens, to which correspond the various things which are in the chambers of the eye.

4738³. (The Council which invented the distinction between the Lord's two natures) assembled in a dark chamber.

4951. These seemed to themselves to be sitting in a chamber and consulting together; these too are malicious . . .

5189². Represented by a man and a woman in a chamber . . .

10769. Windows at the sides according to the number of the mansions or chambers . . .

H. 184. In the habitations of the Angels there are cellars, saloons, and bedchambers, in great numbers.

[H.] 488². They who have delighted in . . . deceit are also in these vaults, and enter chambers so dark that they cannot even see each other . . .

S. 26⁵. The modest maidens who were seen in a chamber close by, signified affections of truth. R. 255. T. 277. See D. 3605³.

772³. For this reason everyone in the Spiritual World knows the character of another as soon as he comes into his chamber.

T. 797⁴. (Melancthon) told me that at the back of the house there was a chamber adjoining his own, containing three tables, at which were seated persons of a like character with himself . . .

D. 775 (Index). To the left there is a dark chamber . . .

880. These virgin Spirits . . . began to burn with desire to return into their chambers . . .

909. There appeared a dark chamber . . .

1172. He was represented as dwelling in a long chamber as it were arched over, and of a green colour . . .

1183⁹. Presently they were introduced into a dark chamber . . .

1246. On an infernal crew in a dark chamber. 1257. 1259⁹.

1573. I saw a habitation rather deep down . . . where there was a large room containing utensils . . .

4658. On a dark infernal chamber. 4720.

4692. Such have a chamber (into which they enter when they want to know about anything).

Chamber. Conclave.

See also BEDCHAMBER.

A. 1126. I saw a narrow chamber . . .

3900⁶. Vastated truth is signified by 'the desert' (Matt. xxiv. 26); and vastated good by 'the secret chambers' or inner rooms.

—7. 'The secret chambers' or inner rooms = the Church as to good, and also simply good; the Church which is in good is called 'the House of God;' the 'chambers' and the things in the house = the goods.

—8. All those things are called 'chambers' which are interior; therefore also . . . by 'the secret chambers' is signified the Word of the New Testament, because it teaches interior things . . . So the whole Word is called 'the desert' when it no longer serves for doctrinal things; and human institutions are called 'the secret chambers,' which cause the Word to be 'a desert' because they depart from the injunctions and instructions of the Word . . . This is evident from those who place salvation in faith alone . . . They make all that a 'desert' which the Lord . . . has said about love and charity, and as 'secret chambers' all things which are of faith without works.

4322. The learned discuss in their chambers whether there is a Hell or a Heaven . . .

4627⁴. There is a light in their chambers so strong that the noonday light of the world cannot be compared to it.

5694². 'Every man in the chambers of his image' (Ezek. viii. 12) = inwardly in himself; in his thoughts; the interiors of their thought and affection were represented to the prophet by 'chambers,' and are called 'the chambers of the image.'

—3. 'From the chambers terror' (Deut. xxxii. 25) = the interior things of man.

—4. 'From His chambers' (Ps. civ. 13) = from the interior things of Heaven.

7351⁹. 'The chambers of the kings' (Ps. cv. 30) = interior truths, and in the opposite sense, interior falsities.

7353. 'The bed-chamber' (Ex. viii. 3) = the interiors of the mind . . . because the bed-chambers are in the inner part of the house. 'Chambers' = interior things, and 'bed-chambers,' things still more interior. III.

—e. The ancients compared the mind of man to a house, and the things which are within man to chambers; and the human mind is really like that, for the things therein are distinct from each other almost as a house is divided into chambers . . .

8989. 'The doorpost' = the conjunction of that truth with good, for the post is between two chambers and joins them together.

9213⁵. They who in the other life enter into the house of another, and talk together in one of the chambers, do so communicate their thoughts to all who are there, that they are entirely unaware that they have not had those thoughts from themselves; but if they stand out of doors, their thoughts are indeed perceived, but as coming from another . . . Wherefore they who hold the same opinion appear together in the same house; and that is still more the case if they are in one chamber of the house.

10110³. Man may be compared to a house in which there are many chambers, one of which leads into another; they who are in truths solely as to the understanding are not in any chamber of the house, but are only in the courtyard. But in proportion as truth enters through the understanding into the will, it enters into the chambers and dwells in the house. In the Word also man is compared to a house, and the truth which is solely of the understanding is compared to 'a court;' but the truth which has been made of the will also, and there becomes good, is compared to the 'chamber' where the people live, and to the 'bedchamber' itself.

H. 184. In the habitations of the Angels there are cellars, saloons, and bedchambers, in great numbers.

185. I saw the palaces of Heaven . . . the saloons were furnished with objects so beautiful that there are neither words nor knowledge to describe them.

P. 233⁴. What is only in the courts is removed by the enemy who is in the chambers.

338⁴. (In the Spiritual World) no one can sit anywhere except in his own place in the chamber of another; if he sits anywhere else he becomes like one who is out of his mind, and is dumb; and what is wonderful, everyone knows his own place as soon as he enters the chamber.

M. 11. Assign to each his own saloon with his own bedchamber.

43⁹. The Angel sent down a parchment, which a certain angelic Spirit took, and laid upon the table in a certain chamber, which he at once closed and handed me the key, saying, Write.

270⁴. In each story two chambers, one for love and the other for wisdom, and in front a bedchamber . . . (See CHAMBER-thalamus, at this ref.)

T. 797². In (Melancthon's) chamber in the Spiritual World, all things were the same; there was a similar table, etc.

—³. After some weeks, the things he used in his chamber began to grow dim, and at last to vanish . . . and the wall of his chamber appeared to be plastered with lime, and the pavement to be covered over with yellowish brick-work.

—⁶. When any novitiates from the world entered his chamber to see and converse with him, he summoned one of the magic Spirits . . . who (decorated and furnished his chamber). Des.

D. 878. On the saloons of some good Spirits of the female sex. . . They sit in the saloon on one side of the entrance, so as not to be seen; the walls are formed with great variety, of groups of flowers and similar objects, which are stretched transversely across the wall . . .

879. The saloon is sometimes more full of light than places which are lighted in our day-time, and sometimes darker . . . Then something representing a window appears in the wall, which is more and more dilated . . . and presently there is manifest to them something of Heaven . . . Thus are their saloons changed into pleasanter ones.

1259². (This Spirit begged that he might be permitted to go) into a certain chamber, that he might be alone, and thus safe; he was therefore sent into a long arched chamber . . . The Spirits wanted to thrust him down again into that infernal vault—cameram.

3605. I have observed that when I have been long in one room it has become familiar, so that I could command my ideas better there than in any other room or place. For example, yesterday, when I removed into the room next the one in which I have been accustomed to write, a quiet prevailed among the Spirits, who as it were did not know where I was . . .

3608. When I removed into the next room . . . it immediately seemed to me as if there were solitude. So that the Spirits had as it were withdrawn from me; and yet they were present in the adjoining room, where were the books and other things which they had seen.

6056. On the rooms of the houses. From the position of the rooms it results that the inhabitant and his visitors have not the same disposition in one room as in another. The delights are varied, so that in one room the delight is to study and do the work of their calling, in another there is the delight of going out, in another the delight of conversation, in another the delight of the wife's company, in another the delight of eating, in another they communicate close at hand with those who are outside, in others they communicate with them remotely. Spirits know as of themselves, that if they enter a certain room, this or that is possible . . . Everyone also knows his own place in a room, which accords with his disposition;

he goes to it as soon as he enters, and if another appears in the same place, he goes out.

E. 405²¹. 'He watereth the mountains from His chambers' (Ps.civ.13)=that all goods come through truths from Heaven . . . 'Chambers'=the Heavens whence these things come.

863⁷. 'Out of doors the sword will bereave, and from the chambers terror' (Dent.xxxii.25)=that falsity and evil, which are from Hell, will devastate both the natural and the rational man.

1000³. 'Chambers' (Ps.ev.30)=interior things.

Chambers. Hyperoa.

A. 3391. 'To build the house without justice and the chambers without judgment' (Jer.xxii.13)=to construct a religiosity from what is not good and not true.

985⁷. 'To build the chambers without judgment'=to imbue things not true.

Chamber. Thalamus.

A. 3207². Truth . . . cannot endure the first look of Divine good until it has entered into the bridegroom's chamber . . .

W. 402. Love espouses wisdom to itself by preparing its house or chamber for it.

M. 270⁵. Love truly conjugal dwells in the highest region in the midst of mutual love, in the chamber or chamber-conclavi-of the will, and also in the midst of the perceptions of wisdom in the chamber or chamber-conclavi-of the understanding . . . I asked, Why are there two chambers? He said that the husband is in the chamber of the understanding, and the wife in the chamber of the will . . . Marriage cold also dwells in the highest region, but only in the chamber of the understanding, the chamber of the will there being closed.

T. 73². A bridegroom cannot enter the chamber of a maiden not espoused to him . . .

122^o. He then leads her into the chamber . . .

331². Who enters into the chamber with the bride after the wedding until he has washed himself all over and dressed himself in a wedding garment?

371^o. From its right chamber the heart pours the blood into the lungs, and the lungs pour it back again into the left chamber of the heart.

Chamber. Triclinium.

A. 9433³. 'He joineth together His chambers with beams in the waters' (Ps.civ.3) . . . The 'chambers' which He joineth together with beams in the waters=the heavenly Societies.

R. 24⁵. 'Chambers' (Ps.civ.3)=doctrinal things.

M. 14². (The dining-room of a heavenly palace.)

E. 283⁸. 'To join together His chambers with beams in the waters'=to fill those who are in the ultimate Heaven and those who are in the Church with Knowledge of truth and good.

594¹⁰. 'He joineth together His chambers with beams in the waters'=that the Lord forms the Heavens and the Church by Divine truths . . . 'The chambers' of Jehovah=the Heavens and the Church.

Chamberlain. Cubicularius.

A. 4789. 'To Potiphar the chamberlain of Pharaoh' (Gen. xxxvii. 36) = the interior things of scientifics. Chamberlain' = interior things . . . for the chamberlains were connected with the interior affairs of the king, being the more interior stewards and more eminent governors. The signification is also evident from the meaning of the word in the Original Tongue.

4965. 'Potiphar the chamberlain of Pharaoh bought him' (Gen. xxxix. 1) = that he was with the interior things of scientifics. 'The chamberlain of Pharaoh' = the interior things of scientifics. The interior things of scientifics are those which approach more nearly to spiritual things, and are applications of scientifics to celestial things . . .

Chance. Casus.

See ACCIDENTAL.

A. 5508². Everything . . . ascribed to chance, or to fortune, is of Providence. . . The Divine Providence works so invisibly . . . in order that a man may in freedom ascribe it either to Providence, or to chance.

6484. There was a certain one who had confirmed himself in this, that nothing is of the Divine Providence, but everything is from prudence, also from fortune and chance. (His experience after death.)

6493. See FORTUNE at this ref.

—^c. There is no such thing as chance.

7007. To the Divine they ascribe only a universal government; all the rest they call fortune, or chance.

8478^e. They refer all things to sagacity, and what they do not refer to sagacity they refer to fortune, or to chance.

8717³. They who trust in their own sagacity attribute to themselves all things which turn out well for them, and all the rest they ascribe to fortune, or to chance.

9010. 'And God cause it to come to his hand' (Ex. xxi. 13) = appearing as chance, as is evident from the idea of chance among the ancients, which was that it happened from God, wherefore they expressed chance by saying that 'God caused it to come to the hand' . . .

—^c. That accidents or chances are of Providence, Refs.

D. 1088. There is no chance, that is, no evil happens by chance . . .

1214. The Angels of the interior Heaven do not so fully believe that all things come forth from the Lord . . . wherefore they admit chances; but the Angels of the more interior Heaven admit no chances . . .

4562^e. That there is no chance I have been instructed by many experiences.

Change. *Mutare, Mutatio.Changeable. Mutatorius.

See EARTHQUAKE, STATE, and TRANSMUTE.

A. 1273. See PLACE at these refs. 1275. 1376³. 1377. 1379. 1380. 1463.

1629. The homes (of good Spirits) are changed into more perfect ones as the Spirits are perfected. Des. D. 879.

3642. The good and truth which is with the Angels, by a wonderful conversion, is changed into evil and falsity with the infernals, and this by degrees as it flows down . . .

4067³. The changes of his state are nothing but changes of Societies.

4073. The changes of the state are according to the changes of the Spirits and Angels who are in such good and truth.

4077. 'He hath changed my hire ten times' (Gen. xxxi. 7) . . . 'Ten times' = very much change. 4179.

4545. 'Purify yourselves and change your garments' (Gen. xxxv. 2) = holiness to be put on. . . 'To change the garments' = to put on, here, holy truths . . .

—³. 'To remove the garments and put on changeable garments' (Zech. iii. 4) represented purification from falsities . . . On this account also they had changeable garments, and they were called 'changeable' . . . because by means of them representations were made.

4638⁴. 'A cry' (Matt. xxv. 6) = a change.

4987. A change of state less remarkable is indicated by 'and.'

5248. 'To change' (Gen. xli. 14) = to remove and reject.

5954. 'Changeable garments' (Gen. xlv. 22) = truths which are new, and truths become new when they are initiated into good, for they then receive life. Ill.

7779³. That which belongs to a man cannot be changed into something else by thinking about mediation and salvation; but by a new regeneration . . .

8698. 'The thing which thou doest is not good' (Ex. xviii. 17) = that a change must be made.

8858. The dominant [principle] of man's life . . . is his very will itself, and thus is the very being of his life, which cannot be changed after death. D. 2803. H. 480.

9502. In perpetuity without change, sig.

10603². The external sense was changed . . . on account of that nation. Ex.

10749. Man's life cannot be changed after death . . . 527², N. 239. J. 25. 56.

H. 154. On the changes of state of the Angels in Heaven. Gen. art.

295. The Spirits with man are changed according to the changes of his affections . . .

P. 195^e. Goods and truths are changes and variations of the state of the forms of the mind.

279⁵. There are myriads of concupiscences which enter into and compose each evil, and myriads of affections which enter into and compose each good, and these myriads are in such order and connexion in man's interiors, that one cannot be changed unless all are changed at the same time.

M. 10³. I felt the actual change from a man, although I was not changed . . .

524³. I have heard from the Angels that the life of anyone cannot be changed after death, because it is organized according to his love and thence works; and that if it were changed the organization would be torn to pieces . . . Also that a change of organization is possible only in the material body, and is utterly impossible in the spiritual body, after the former has been cast away.

T. 476. Every man changes his situation in (the World of Spirits) from infancy to old age. Ex.

651. The essence or nature which anyone has appropriated to himself in the world cannot be changed after death.

D. 2803. On the change of the human disposition in the life of the body . . . After the life of the body it is not changed, but the Lord superadds those things which render him able to be in better society . . .

4127. During sleep I was infested by a certain person who was changed into a beast . . .

5172. They said that with them (in the ultimate Heaven) there are men of various kinds, but they are distinguished from each other by this; they who constantly walk in their own clothes, without change, except on stated days, and with whom the house and what is to be seen outside and inside do not vary much, are highly esteemed. The reason is that they act with a fixed purpose, and turn themselves constantly to their loves. But when they see the dress and face of some being changed, they know that it is not well with them; they call those persons phantasmalians who change their garments and faces according to the quarters; they turn themselves without any settled purpose. Such appear there sometimes, but soon vanish.

5174. They said also that when they go out, and see changes in their houses, in their garments, in their gardens, or in the fields, if the changes are for the worse, either that they do not appear, or appear only obscurely, or if other things take the place of the former ones, they know that they have done something evil . . .

5175. They also said that a change also takes place if others come to them . . .

E. 258^a. Lest the former Heavens should suffer injury from the remarkable change about to take place . . .

518². How Divine truth is changed into falsity . . .

668. The state of Heaven and of the Church at its end is here treated of, when it is provided by the Lord that no sudden change should do harm to those who are to be separated, of whom many will come into Heaven, and many will be cast into Hell. Sig.

674³. The variations and changes of the affections in the Spiritual World, Ex.

Change. Vicis.

A. 37. Alternations of spiritual and celestial things exist universally and in the singulars, which are compared to the alternations of days and years . . .

— Life without changes and varieties would be all one thing, thus nothing at all . . .

933³. When he returns into the body, he is again in cold, and when the body is quiescent . . . he is in heat; and so on by turns. For such is man's condition that with him celestial and spiritual things cannot be together with his bodily and worldly things; but there are alternations . . .

—⁶. The last posterity of the Most Ancient Church could not be regenerated, because with them intellectual and voluntary things constituted one mind, wherefore the intellectual things could not be separated from their voluntary things, and so by turns be in celestial and spiritual things, and by turns in bodily and worldly things . . . so that with them there could be no alternation—alternatio.

935. 'Summer and winter' (Gen. viii. 22) = the state of the regenerate man as to his new voluntary things, the changes of which are like those of summer and winter . . . The changes of those who are to be regenerated are likened to cold and heat, but the changes of the regenerate to summer and winter . . . For the man who is to be regenerated begins from cold . . .

—². That there are alternations with the regenerate man, that is, that there is now no charity in him, and now there is some charity, is very evident; the reason being that even with every regenerate man there is nothing but evil, (and therefore) he must necessarily undergo alternations . . . There are such alternations in order that the man may be more and more perfected . . . There are such alternations with a regenerate man not only while he lives in the body, but also when he comes into the other life, for without alternations like those of summer and winter as to voluntary things, and like those of day and night as to intellectual things, he is never perfected and made happier; but in the other life their alternations are like the alternations of summer and winter in the temperate zones, and like the alternations of day and night in spring time. Ill. 936. 1047^c.

1108. Some Spirits are kept in a state intermediate between waking and sleep, and think very little, except that by turns they as it were awake . . . Thus are they devastated.

5097². This may be compared to the changes our sun makes relatively to the inhabitants of the earth . . .

5614. 'These two times' (Gen. xliii. 10) = spiritual life interior and exterior. Ex.

5672. The alternations of enlightenment (in the other life) are like morning, noon, and evening on earth . . . 5962², Ex.

6110⁴. The changes of the day in the natural world, namely, morning, noon, evening, night, and morning again, represent completely the changes in the Spiritual World, with the sole difference that the changes of the Spiritual World inflow into the understanding and will, and present those things which are of life; whereas the changes in the natural world inflow into those things which are of the body, and support them.

—⁶. In Heaven there is no night . . . But in Hell there is night; there also there are changes, but contrary to the changes in Heaven . . . and through all these changes night predominates; it is merely the variations of the shade and darkness of night which present these changes.

—⁷. In the Spiritual World there are not the same changes with one as there are with another; and the changes there are not distinguished into stated times, for it is variations of state which present them.

6494. From that sign they predicted to me the changes of fortune in that game. Thus was it given to know that what is attributed to fortune, even in games, is from the Spiritual World; and still more is this the case with what happens to man in respect to the changes in the course of his life . . .

[A.] 719³. There are changes of states in the other life, as there are changes of times in this world . . . 810⁸.

823². (Changes of government in Hell, Ex.)

8431⁶. The alternations thus succeed each other in order that man may be perfected, especially in order that good may be appropriated to him, which takes place in the state of evening by means of delight. 8487³, Ex.

9286. 'Three times in a year' (Ex.xxiii.14)=a full state even to the end. Ex.

9297. 'Three times in a year' (ver.17)=what is complete and continuous.

9387. The changes of the year, which are spring, summer, autumn, and winter; and also the changes of the day, which are morning, noon, evening, and night, correspond to the same number of states in Heaven . . .

9642⁷. The changes which the Church undergoes when it is about to perish are described by the varying success of that war. (Dan.xi.)

H. 155. These alternations (with the Angels) succeed each other, with variety.

158². By alternations of what is delightful and undelightful the perception and sensation of good become more exquisite.

159². The changes-mutations-of state in the two Kingdoms thus alternate by turns; not in the whole Kingdoms, but in one Society after another; and these alternations are not at stated intervals, but come upon them slower or faster unawares to them.

506³. Such being their character, when they are in this second state (of man after death), they are let back by short alternations into the state of their exteriors . . .

510². Some of the evil in this second state by turns enter the Hells . . .

P. 296⁷. Whether a man is in good or evil he cannot be in both at the same time, nor can he be in them by turns, unless he is lukewarm.

E. 475¹⁸. 'Seven times' (2 Kings v.10)=what is isplenary, and is predicated of holy things.

Change. Vicissitudo.

A. 9213. In Heaven there are changes of heat as to those things which are of the good of love, and of light as to those things which are of the truth of faith; thus changes of love and of faith. In Hell too there are changes, but opposite to the former ones . . . These changes correspond to the changes of the times of the year on earth, which are spring, summer, autumn, and winter, and then spring again, and so on . . . These changes are not the same with one as they are with another, but differ with everyone according to the state of life which he has acquired in this world.

— Concerning these changes see above. Refs.

Channel. Alveus. See DUCT.

E. 405³⁸. 'The channels and the valleys' (Ezek.vi.3)=exterior or natural things.

741²². That all things of the Church as to its truths and as to its goods were overthrown from the foundations, is signified by 'the channels of waters appeared, and the foundations of the world were revealed' (Ps. xviii.15). 'The channels of waters'=truths.

Chanting. Decantatio.

A. 561⁸. 'Take of the chanting of the Land in your vessels' (Gen.xliii.11)=the choice things of the Church in the truths of faith. 'The chanting'=choice things. . . . It is called 'the chanting,' because in the Original Language this word is derived from singing; hence 'the chanting of the Land' means its productions which are chanted and praised; thus in the internal sense, the choice things.

Chaos. Chaos.

A. 842³. Before anything is reduced into order it is very common for it to be first reduced into a confused somewhat, as it were a chaos . . .

2129. It might be called a spiritual chaos . . .

3316. The doctrinal things (in the first state of the man who is being regenerated) may be compared . . . to a kind of chaos; but this to the end that they may be reduced into order . . .

T. 76. The idea concerning a chaos has inhered in our thoughts, that this was like a great egg . . .

79³. Another said, Who does not know that the first origin of all things was chaos, which in size filled a fourth part of the universe, and that in the midst of it there was fire, around that ether, and around this matter, and that this chaos produced fissures, through which the fire burst forth . . . hence the sun . . .

472². The universe would fall into chaos . . .

679. It would not only fall back into the first chaos, but into nothing.

D. 1316. [The World of Spirits now] appears like chaos . . . Thus a spiritual chaos seems to exist.

5805². This is compared to chaos . . .

Chaplet. Corolla.

A. 1774⁶. Adorned with chaplets, etc.

M. 183⁹. Then on the heads of some there appeared chaplets of flowers . . . because they had understood more profoundly.

Character. See MARK-character, and NATURE-indoles.

Charcoal. Carbo, Carbonarius.

A. 1527. When it pleases the Lord, good Spirits appear like stars . . . and evil Spirits like balls of charcoal fire.

1528. The life of cupidities and thence of pleasures sometimes appears with evil Spirits like a charcoal fire . . . 4417.

1666². The life of cupidities may be likened to a charcoal fire; the falsities to the dim lumen from it.

2125. A yellow light as from charcoal . . .

3195². Evil Spirits see . . . from the light of Heaven; but it is a lumen like that from a charcoal fire, for into such a lumen is the light of Heaven turned when it goes to them.

322². Spirits who are only in those things which are of the light of the world, and thus in falsities from evils, do indeed have light from Heaven; but a light of a fatuous character, and such as comes from burning charcoal or a firebrand.

4416. They who are in evil and thence in falsities appear in a lumen as of a charcoal fire . . . 4418.

4531. In Hell there is not indeed darkness, but there is a dim lumen, like that which comes from a charcoal fire . . . 4533. 7870². H.131(m), Refs. 481⁴. 553^e. 584.

5128^e. When the Rational is subjected to sensuous things, falsities are in the centre and truths in the circumference; the things which are in the centre are in a sort of lumen there, but in a fatuous lumen, or like that which arises from a charcoal fire . . . it is this lumen which is called darkness . . .

6000. The infernals are indeed in lumen . . . but it is like the lumen from a dry charcoal fire . . .

W. 254^e. They have no light in their caverns except one resembling the light from live coals or from burning charcoal.

P. 167. The light in Hell is also of three degrees; the light in the lowest Hell is like the light from burning charcoal . . .

R. 153^e. In their own light, which is like the light from burning charcoal, (devils) do not appear as monsters, but as men.

D. 2672^e. They have a life such as that of a dim fire, a charcoal one . . .

2676. The rational things of others, who are still more darkened by falsities, (appear) like charcoal fires . . .

3853. (They presented) flaming fires in a dark chamber where there were coals at one corner . . .

4047. Yesterday I saw the dry fire of a hearth in the coals . . . When it was at the driest it approached a charcoal colour, so that there is hardly anything [to be seen] except black charcoal.

E. 364². A red colour . . . comes into existence from the flame in Hell which is from the fire there, which fire is like a charcoal fire.

386⁴. 'A fire of coal' (Is.xliv.12)=evil from man's Own love.

587⁷. 'To forge iron with the tongs, and to work in the coal' (Id.)=to hatch falsities which favour man's Own loves.

Charge. Arguere, Redarguere.

A. 573. 'My spirit shall not for ever reprove man' (Gen.vi.3)=that man is not thus led any longer . . .

— After the Flood, in place of perception there succeeded conscience, by which he could be convicted; wherefore by 'conviction' by the Spirit of Jehovah' is signified an inward dictate, either perception or conscience . . .

R. 215. 'As many as I love I rebuke and chasten' (Rev.iii.19) . . . 'To rebuke'=temptation as to falsities; and 'to chasten,' temptation as to evils. E.246.

T. 341. (This) is to charge God with unmercifulness . . .

395². He instructs, reproves, etc.

664^e. (This) is to charge the Lord with injustice.

Chariot. Currus.

See RIDE.

A. 1172. 'Garments of freedom for the chariot' (Ezek.xxvii.20)=exterior goods, or those of rituals.

2015³. 'To ride in a chariot and on horses' (Jer.xxii.4)=abundance of intellectual things.

2336⁶. 'Chariots' (Nahum ii.4)=the doctrine of truth. It is said that 'they will rave in the streets' when there is falsity in the place of truth.

2567¹⁰. 'The sons whom (the king) will set for himself for chariots and for horsemen' (1 Sam.viii.11)=the truths of doctrine which will serve principles of falsity; which are 'chariots and horsemen.'

2761². 'Thou dost ride upon Thy horse, Thy chariots of salvation' (Hab.iii.8). Here 'horses'=Divine truths which are in the Word; 'chariots,' doctrine thence derived.

2762². 'The chariot of Israel and the horsemen thereof' (2 Kings ii.12; xiii.14). Elijah and Elisha represented the Lord as to the Word; the doctrine of love and charity from the Word was represented by 'a fiery chariot;' and the doctrine of faith thence derived by 'fiery horses' . . .

—³. That chariots and horses appear in the Heavens, Ill.

— Moreover, in the World of Spirits, where there is an abode of the intelligent and wise, chariots and horses constantly appear; the reason being that by chariots and horses are represented those things which are of wisdom and intelligence. Ill.

—⁴. Hence when (the ancients) described the sun, by which is signified love, they stationed therein the god of their wisdom and intelligence, and attributed to him a chariot and four fiery horses. W.H.4.

3048⁴. 'The chariot of an ass' (Is.xxi.7)=a heap of particular scientifics; 'the chariot of a camel'=a heap of general scientifics, (both of) which are in the natural man; it is the empty reasonings which prevail with those who are signified by 'Babel' which are thus described.

3186^e. 'The chariots of God' (Ps.lxviii.17)=those things which are of the Word and of doctrine thence derived; 'myriads of thousands'=the infinite things which are therein.

3708¹. '(Four) chariots going out between two mountains of brass' (Zech.vi.1)=the doctrinal things of good; 'chariots'=doctrinal things.

4720². By 'the chariots and horsemen, and the great army' which the king of Syria sent (to take Elisha) (2 Kings vi.14) are signified falsities of doctrine; by 'the mountain full of horses and chariots of fire around Elisha,' which were seen by his boy, are signified goods and truths of doctrine from the Word.

5044⁸. 'To ride in a chariot and upon horses' (Jer.xvii.25)=the spiritual intellectual of the Church.

[A. 5044]⁹. 'A sword is against the horses and against the chariots (of the Chaldeans and the inhabitants of Babel)' (Jer. l. 37) . . . 'Horses' = the Intellectual of the Church; 'chariots,' its Doctrinal, the vastation of which is signified by 'a sword against the horses and against the chariots.'

5321. 'He made (Joseph) ride in the secondary chariot' (Gen. xli. 43) = a significative that from Him is all the doctrine of good and truth. 'A chariot' = the doctrine of good and truth; hence 'to make him ride in a chariot' is a significative that doctrine is from Him.

—³. 'Chariots' are mentioned in the Word in many places, and scarcely anyone knows that by them are signified the doctrinal things of good and truth, and also the scientifics which are of doctrinal things . . . when yet by 'horses' in the Word are signified intellectual things, and thence by 'a chariot' doctrinal things and their scientifics.

—⁴. That 'chariots' = the doctrinal things of the Church, and also scientifics, has been made evident to me from the chariots so often seen in the other life. There is also a place on the right hand in the neighbourhood of the Lower Earth where chariots and horses appear, with stables set in order; those walk there and talk who have been learned in this world, and have regarded life as the end of all learning . . .

—⁵. That such things are signified by chariots and horses is very manifest from the fact that Elijah appeared to be carried into Heaven by a chariot of fire and horses of fire, and that he and Elisha were called 'the chariot of Israel and the horsemen thereof.' . . . The reason they were so called, is that by each of them is represented the Lord as to the Word, and the Word in itself is chiefly the doctrine of good and truth, for everything of doctrine is thence derived. It was for the same reason that the boy whose eyes were opened by Jehovah saw around Elisha 'the mountain full of horses and chariots of fire.' W.H. 2^e.

—⁶. That 'a chariot' = what is doctrinal, and 'a horse' what is intellectual, Ill.

—'. 'Ye shall be filled upon My table with horse and with chariot' (Ezek. xxxix. 20; Rev. xix. 18). (This means) that they will be filled with such things as are signified by 'a horse' and 'a chariot,' namely, the intellectual and doctrinal things of good and truth.

—⁹. 'Riding in chariots and on horses' (Jer. xvii. 25) = the intellectual and doctrinal things thence derived.

—¹⁰. In the opposite sense, 'chariots' = the doctrinal things of evil and falsity, also the scientifics which confirm them. Ill.

—¹². By the horses and chariots with which the Egyptians pursued the Sons of Israel, and with which Pharaoh entered the Red Sea, where the wheels of the chariots were taken off; and by the many things concerning horses and chariots which constitute the greatest part of that description (Ex. xiv. 6, 7, 9, 17, 23, 25, 26; and xv. 4, 19) are signified the intellectual, doctrinal, and scientific things of falsity, and the reasonings thence derived, which pervert and extinguish the truths of the Church. The destruction and death of such is there described.

5323². In ancient times when kings were borne in a chariot all knees were bent; the reason being that kings represented the Lord as to Divine truth, and a chariot signified the Word.

5354⁷. 'To cut off the chariot from Ephraim, and the horse from Jerusalem' (Zech. ix. 10) = everything intellectual of the Church. . . 'A chariot' = what is doctrinal. . . . What is doctrinal depends upon what is intellectual, for as this is understood so is it believed . . .

5945. In the Word, when Egypt is treated of, 'chariots' and 'horses' are frequently mentioned; and by 'chariots' there are meant doctrinal things, now false, now true; and by 'horses,' intellectual things also in both senses.

6015⁴. 'The tumult of the chariots' (Jer. xlvii. 3) = doctrinal falsity thence derived; 'the sound of the wheels' = sensuous things and their fallacies which advance it.

6029. 'Joseph harnessed his chariot' (Gen. xli. 29) = doctrine from the internal . . . 'Chariot' = doctrine.

6125⁵. Because these things are signified by 'horses,' and false doctrinal things by 'chariots,' 'horses' and 'chariots' are so frequently mentioned. Ill.

6212². In the morning I saw a chariot with a pair of horses, in which sat a man . . . (This) signified the spiritual sense which was in the prophetic things spoken by the prophets, and which they represented.

6385⁵. 'A chariot with horsemen and with ships' (Dan. xi. 40) = the doctrinal things of falsity.

6533. 'There went up with him chariots' (Gen. l. 9) = doctrinal things.

6978². 'The neighing horses and the jumping chariots' (Nahum iii. 2) = (the defence of what is false) by a perverted Intellectual and a Doctrinal of a like character.

7297³. 'I will cut off thy horses out of the midst of thee, and I will destroy thy chariots' (Mic. v. 10) . . . By 'the horses which will be cut off' are signified intellectual things; by 'the chariots which will be destroyed' are signified the doctrinal things of truth.

7729³. 'The chariot' (Jer. xlvii. 3) = the doctrine of falsity. 'A chariot' = the doctrine both of truth and of falsity. Refs.

8029⁶. 'The horses of fire, and the chariot of fire' which bore away Elijah = the understanding of the Word as to its interiors.

8146. '(Pharaoh) harnessed his chariot' (Ex. xiv. 6) = the doctrine of falsity which belongs to separated faith in general. 'A chariot' = doctrine, here, the doctrine of falsity, because that of separated faith, for it is the chariot of Pharaoh, and by 'Pharaoh' are represented the falsities which are of separated faith . . .

8148. 'And he took six hundred chosen chariots' (ver. 7) = each and all doctrinal things of falsity which belong to separated faith in their order. . . 'Chariots' = the doctrinal things of faith, here of separated faith. By 'chosen chariots' are signified the chief doctrinal things of that faith upon which the rest depend; the things which depend upon them, or which are serviceable to them, are signified by 'the chariots of Egypt' treated of just below. 8149.

8156. 'All the horses of the chariots of Pharaoh, and his horsemen, and his army' (ver. 9) = all things which are of falsity from a perverted intellectual. . . 'Chariots' = doctrinal things.

8188. 'I will be glorified in Pharaoh, and in all his army, and in his chariots, and in his horsemen' (ver. 17) = that they should see the effect of the dissipation of what is false and of reasonings by the Divine good of the Lord's Divine Human. . . 'His chariots' = the doctrinal things of falsity.

8210. 'All the horses of Pharaoh, his chariots, and his horsemen, (pursued) into the midst of the sea' (ver. 23) = the scientifics from a perverted Intellectual, the doctrinal things of what is false, and the reasonings which filled up Hell. . . 'The chariots of Pharaoh' = the doctrinal things of falsity.

8215. 'He took off their chariot wheels' (ver. 25) = the power of bringing falsities forward taken away. . . 'The chariots of Pharaoh' = the doctrinal things of falsity. . . Chariots were of two kinds; there were those in which merchandise was carried, and those used in battle; by the chariots in which merchandise was carried were signified the doctrinal things of truth, and in the opposite sense, the doctrinal things of falsity; but by the chariots used in battle were also signified doctrinal things in both senses, but those which combat, thus truths themselves, and falsities themselves made ready for the fight. Hence it is evident what is meant by 'the wheel of a chariot,' namely, the power of advancing, here of bringing falsities forward, and of fighting against truths. As this power belongs to man's intellectual part, by 'a wheel' is also signified the Intellectual as to those things which are of doctrine.

—2. In the other life there often appear chariots laden with various kinds of merchandise, and which are of varied form and size. By these, when they appear, are signified truths in their complex, or doctrinal things which are as it were the receptacles of truth; and by the merchandise, Knowledges for various uses. These appear when there is a discourse about doctrines going on in Heaven with the Angels; for as their discourse cannot be comprehended by those who are below, it is presented representatively, and to some by chariots in which each and all the things of the discourse are presented in a form and before the eyes, by means of which the things contained in the discourse can be comprehended and seen in a moment, some in the form of the chariot, some in its build, some in its colour, some in its wheels, some in the horses which draw it, some in the merchandise which the chariot conveys. From these representatives it is that 'a chariot,' in the Word = doctrinal things.

8275. 'The chariots of Pharaoh and his army hath He cast into the sea' (Ex.xv.4) = the falsities from evil in special and in general of those who are of the Church, and are in the life of evil. . . 'Chariots' = falsities, here, falsities in special, because an 'army' is also mentioned, by which is signified falsities in general.

8332. 'Because the horse of Pharaoh came in his chariot and in his horsemen' (Ex.xv.19) = all the falsities from a perverted Intellectual with those who are in faith separated and in a life of evil; as is evident from the signification of 'the horses of Pharaoh,' also of his 'chariots,' and of his 'horsemen,' which is all the falsities from a perverted Intellectual.

8906³. 'Chariots' (Joel ii. 5) = doctrinal things of falsity.

9393³. It is said that they shall be filled 'with horse, with chariot, and with every man of war' (Ezek.xxxix. 20) . . . 'Horse' = what is intellectual of truth; 'chariot,' doctrine; and 'man of war,' truth combating against falsity. E. 329¹⁰. 355². 617²⁵. 650⁴⁸.

9396¹⁰. 'I will cut off the chariot from Ephraim' (Zech.ix.10) . . . 'The chariot' = the doctrine of the Church. . . (In this verse) is signified the vastation of truth Divine in the Church as to all the understanding of it. E. 355⁵.

9420². 'The chariots of God are twenty thousand, thousands of peaceful ones, the Lord is in them' (Ps. lxxviii.17) . . . 'Chariot' = doctrine; hence 'the chariots of God' = Divine doctrinal things or truths such as there are in the Heavens. E. 336².

9433³. 'He setteth the clouds for His chariot' (Ps.civ. 3) . . . The clouds which He setteth for His chariot are the truths from which comes doctrine.

10406⁷. 'A sword against his horses, and against his chariots' (Jer.l.37) . . . 'A sword' is falsity combating and destroying truths; 'horses' are the Intellectual which is enlightened; 'chariots' are doctrinal things.

W. H. 3. In the Spiritual World there frequently appear horses and riders on horses, and also chariots, and all there know that they signify intellectual and doctrinal things. . . There is also a place there where many persons meet together who think and speak from the understanding about the truths of doctrine; and when other persons go there they see the whole plain full of chariots and horses; and novitiates, who wonder what the cause of it can be, are instructed that that appearance is caused by their intellectual thought. That place is called the meeting of the intelligent and wise. I have also seen horses of light and chariots of fire when certain persons were taken up into Heaven, which was a sign that they had been instructed in the truths of heavenly doctrine, and had become intelligent, and were therefore taken up. . .

S. 13³. 'The voice of the wings (of the locusts) was as the voice of chariots running into war' (Rev.ix.9) = reasonings as if from truths of doctrine from the Word, for which they were to combat.

Life 30². 'Woe to them that go down to Egypt for help, and stay upon horses, and trust upon the chariot because they are many' (Is.xxxi.1). Thus is described man's Own intelligence. . . 'The chariot' = doctrine thence derived.

P. 326¹². The 'new cart' on which they sent back the ark (1 Sam.vi.7) signified new doctrine, but natural doctrine, for a 'chariot' in the Word = doctrine from spiritual truths. T. 203².

R. 24⁵. 'Jehovah layeth the beams of His chambers in the waters, He setteth a cloud for His chariot' (Ps. civ.3); 'waters' = truths; 'chambers,' doctrinal things; and 'chariot,' doctrine; all of which, being from the sense of the letter of the Word, are called 'clouds.'

298⁴. 'Chariot' (2 Kings ii. 12; xiii. 14; and vi. 17) = doctrine from the Word. E. 504¹³.

[R.] 437. 'The voice of the wings as the voice of the chariots of many horses running into war' = their reasonings as if from truths of doctrine from the Word fully understood, for which they are eagerly to combat. . . That 'a chariot' = doctrine, III. E. 558.

875. I saw two Angels descending from Heaven, one from the south of Heaven, and the other from the east of Heaven; both of them were in chariots to which were harnessed white horses; the chariot in which the Angel from the south of Heaven was borne was resplendent as with silver, and the chariot in which the Angel from the east of Heaven was borne was resplendent as with gold. . . But when they came nearer they did not appear in chariots, but in their own angelic form, which is the human form. T. 386.

M. 42². There then appeared a chariot descending from the third Heaven, in which there was seen one Angel; but as it approached there were seen two in it: at a distance the chariot flashed before my eyes like a diamond, and there were harnessed to it young horses as bright as snow.

—⁵. (When these Angels departed) they again appeared to be borne in a chariot, as before.

76². (When on the way to visit the people who had lived in the silver age) we passed through a valley, and when we entered the plain beyond we saw horses and chariots, horses variously adorned with trappings and variously harnessed, and chariots of various forms, some carved like eagles, some like whales, and some like stags with horns, and like unicorns. . . The Angel said to me, The appearances of horses, chariots, and stables in the distance are appearances of the rational intelligence of the men of that age; for a horse signifies the understanding of truth; a chariot, the doctrine of it; and stables, instructions.

—^e. When he had said this there appeared at a distance a chariot drawn by small white horses, on seeing which the Angel said, That chariot is a sign for us to go away.

103². They said from Heaven, Wait a little, and you will see twenty-seven chariots; three containing Spaniards, three Frenchmen, three Italians, three Germans, three Dutchmen, three Englishmen, three Swedes, three Danes, and three Poles; and in two hours I saw those chariots, drawn by small horses of a light bay colour, with remarkable trappings. . .

266^e. Having thus spoken, the two Angels went away, and at a distance were seen to be borne in a fiery chariot like Elijah, and carried up into their Heaven. T. 661^e.

T. 185². I saw many (of these boreal Spirits) borne in chariots, and some in chariots carved in the form of a dragon, with horns projecting forwards; the chariots were drawn by small horses with their tails cut off. . .

451^e. Such charity. . . is like a chariot to which the horses are attached only by the reins in the hand of the charioteer, so that when they start they drag him from his seat, and leave the chariot behind.

D. 253. Whenever (evil Spirits) hear a carriage, or the sound of a carriage, without thinking about it, as if they are unconscious of what they are doing, they try to drive me towards the carriage. 1043.

297. The greater part (of those who are raised from the Lower Earth) seem to themselves to be borne in chariots or travelling carriages, and to be carried round to various places, to try whether this or that place is suitable for them. . . 308. 2985.

302. I was this day led to an abode (where) there is as it were a broad plain, in which there are many chariots; with arsenals where there are chariots and horses. There are many persons there, who seem to themselves to walk about, and to be carried hither and thither by means of the chariots; and when I inquired who they were. . . I was instructed by the Angels with me that those who live there are those who engage much in studies, but still are men of sound reason, and do not extend mental philosophy into heavenly things.

1318. There was another kind (of tumult of Spirits): it was at the left temple, beneath me, sounding upwards, as of chariots and horses, very many, as when there is heard the like sound of the chariots and horses of an army, or of very many in the streets. I was told that this was the conflict of reasonings about truths, in which they did not want to have faith, for so do reasonings conflict with each other.

2275. In the morning I saw a chariot containing a man, with two horses. . .

2276. I saw the chariot and horses in wakefulness. . . The horses before the chariot were noble ones, but the chariot was not so noble, signifying intellectual faith.

2862. I heard Spirits sounding as with the little bells wherewith it is customary in England to deck horses drawing carriages and loads.

3821. I often noticed that when I was in the street (evil Spirits) wanted to throw me under the wheels of a carriage, so that this became familiar to them. . .

4234. See AURA at this ref.

4707. A certain person longed to see the abodes of the intelligent, because he had heard that horses and chariots appear there; he also went there, and at first saw nothing in the whole tract but chariots with horses, but when his eyes were opened, he saw men walking there; he said that before there had appeared to him chariots with horses; they said that so also it sometimes appears to them, and that the chariots with horses are the doctrinal things of charity about which they are thinking and conversing together. They said that they are the doctrinal things of charity because they had belonged to the ancient Churches, when these were the doctrinal things. While he was meditating about this they saw him as a horse running swiftly and returning, although he was standing still. Those wise ones there said that they saw he was a man of faith alone, because there was a small swift horse, and no chariot.

6009. See ULRICA ELEONORA at this ref.

E. 36². By 'a chariot' is signified the doctrine of truth. 355¹⁴, III. 357. 684¹⁵.

131¹. By 'a chariot' is signified doctrinal things.

175⁵. 'Horses and chariots' (Is. lxvi. 20) = intellectual and doctrinal things.

208⁷. By 'riding upon a chariot and upon horses' (Jer.

xvii.25) is meant that thence they are in the doctrine of truth, and in intelligence. 223⁸.

278⁶. By 'a chariot,' and by 'a pair of horsemen' (Is. xxi.7) is signified the doctrine of truth from the Word.

281¹⁰. By 'a chariot which is as a whirlwind' (Jer.iv.13) is signified the doctrine of falsity.

283⁸. 'To set the clouds for His chariot' = the doctrine of truth from the literal sense of the Word. 594¹⁰.

355⁴. 'Toride upon horses' (Hab.iii.8) = that Jehovah, that is, the Lord, is in the understanding of His Word in its spiritual sense; and because the doctrine of truth, which teaches the way of salvation, is thence, it is added, 'thy chariots of salvation;' 'chariots' = doctrine. 518²⁵.

—¹⁶. That 'chariots' and 'horses' = doctrine and the understanding thereof, may be still further evident from their opposite sense, in which 'chariots' and 'horses' = doctrines of falsity and false scientifics from a perverted Intellectual. III.

357²⁸. That everything of the doctrine of falsity will be destroyed, is signified by 'He burneth the chariot with fire' (Ps.xlvi.9).

405²². By 'the chariots going forth from between the mountains' (Zech.vi.1) is signified doctrine which is to be formed from good through truths; 'chariots' = doctrinal things. 418⁴.

405²⁹. 'The multitude of the chariots (of the king of Assyria)' (Is.xxxvii.24) = reasonings from falsities of doctrine. 654¹⁴.

419¹¹. 'Chariot' (Ps.civ.3) = the truth of doctrine.

539⁷. 'To kindle the chariot in the smoke' (Nahum ii.13) = to pervert all the truths of doctrine into falsities.

652⁵. By 'chariots' (Nahum ii.4) are signified the doctrinal things of truth.

654⁴². Falsities of doctrine confirmed by scientifics in great abundance is signified by 'they trust upon the chariot because they are many' (Is.xxxi.1).

—⁴⁵. By 'the chariots of Pharaoh' (Ex.xiv.xv) are signified doctrinal things of falsity.

700²⁹. The ark being brought upon a new chariot, to which oxen were tied, represented the doctrine of truth from the good of love; the chariot the doctrine of truth, and the oxen the good of love, both in the natural man; for the Divine truth, which is signified by the ark, subsists and is founded upon the doctrine of natural truth which is from good.

863⁸. By 'the chariot and him who is borne in it' (Jer.li.21) are signified falsities of doctrine.

1155. 'Carriages-rhedae' = goods from a rational origin . . . for carriages are a kind of chariot, and by chariots are signified doctrinal things, which when they are borne along by truths, as a chariot is by horses, are goods, for doctrines teach truths and also goods.

Charity. Charitas.

See GOOD OF CHARITY; also under BLOOD, FAITH ALONE, GENTILES, GOOD OF LOVE, HILL, LEVI, LOVE, LOVE TOWARDS THE NEIGHBOUR, and SPIRITUAL KINGDOM.

A. 9. The third state is one of repentance, in which,

from the inward man, he speaks piously and devoutly, and produces goods, as it were works of charity, but which nevertheless are inanimate, because he supposes them to be from himself; and which are called 'the tender herb,' also 'the herb of seed,' and afterwards 'the tree of fruit.' 10.

12. (In the sixth state) his spiritual life is delighted and supported by those things which belong to Knowledge of faith and to works of charity, which are called his 'meats.'

148. With the most ancients the breast signified charity, because the heart and lungs are there.

310². With the postdiluvians, and with those who live at this day, there is no love, thus no will of good, but faith is possible, or the understanding of truth, and from faith or the understanding of truth they can be brought to a certain kind of charity, but by another way, that is, by means of the insinuation of conscience by the Lord from the Knowledge of truth and good.

318⁹. Being again left to himself, he began, from charity, to think how he could return such great kindness, from which it was evident that while he was in the bodily life he had been in the faith of charity, wherefore he was at once taken up into Heaven.

325. Charity, which is love towards the neighbour, was called 'Abel.'

326. The worship . . . of charity is described by 'the offering of Abel.' That worship from charity was grateful, sig. 350.

328. That the quality of faith is known from charity; also that charity wants to be with faith, if faith does not become the chief thing, and be raised above charity, sig. 361. 365.

329. That charity is extinguished with those who have separated faith and set it above charity, is described by Cain killing his brother Abel.

330. Charity extinguished is called 'the voice of bloods.'

335. After faith separated had extinguished charity . . . a new faith was given by the Lord, by means of which charity was implanted, which faith is 'Seth.'

336. The charity implanted by means of faith is called 'Enos,' or another 'man.'

337⁹. At this day faith precedes, and through faith charity is bestowed by the Lord, and then charity becomes the chief thing.

341. The second birth of the Church is charity, which is signified by 'Abel,' and 'brother.' 'A shepherd of the flock' (Gen.iv.2) is he who exercises the good of charity. 'A tiller of the ground' is he who is devoid of charity . . . 342. 343. 345.

351. Charity means love towards the neighbour, and mercy; for he who loves his neighbour as himself feels pity for him when he is suffering as he would for himself.

353. Charity is the Celestial, and all the good of charity is the Celestial.

355. By 'anger' (ver.5) is signified that charity had departed. 357⁹.

[A.] 361. 'If thou doest well, elevation' (ver.7)=if thou wishest well charity is with thee. 'If thou doest not well, sin lieth at the door'=if thou wishest not well there is no charity, but evil. 'To thee is his desire, and thou hast the mastery of him'=that charity wills to be with thee, but cannot, because thou wantest to have dominion over it.

362. The doctrine of faith, called Cain, is here described, which, because it separated faith from love, also separated it from charity, which is the offspring of love.

363. Charity could have been adjoined to faith, yet so that charity should have had the dominion, not faith; wherefore it is first said, 'if thou doest well, elevation,' by which is signified, if thou wishest well charity can be present.

364. 'That sin, when it 'lies at the door'=evil which is at hand and wants to enter, may be evident to everyone, for when there is no charity there is unmercifulness and hatred, thus all evil. 'Sin,' in general, is taken for the devil, who, or his crew, is at hand when man is devoid of charity. The single thing which drives the devil and his crew from the door is love to the Lord and towards the neighbour.

365. So long as faith wants to have the dominion, it is not faith; but when charity has the dominion then there is faith; for the Principal of faith is charity. Charity may be compared to flame, which is the essential of heat and light, for the heat and light come therefrom.

367. That charity is the brother of faith may be evident to everyone from the nature or essence of faith: their brotherhood was also represented by Esau and Jacob, wherefore also there was strife concerning the primogeniture: it was also represented by Pharez and Zarah . . . and also by Ephraim and Manasseh . . . For each, or faith and charity, is the offspring of the Church; faith is called 'the man-vir,' and charity 'the brother' as in Is. xix. 2; Jer. xiii. 14, and elsewhere. The union of faith and charity is called 'the covenant of brethren' (Amos i. 9). 1081. 1091. 3289. 5351².

369. 'Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and killed him' (ver.8)=that when both faith and charity were from the doctrine of faith, faith separated from love could not but make charity of no account, and thus extinguish it; as they are wont to do at this day who have in their mouth that faith alone saves even though they do no work of charity; thus in the very supposition they extinguish charity.

370. 'I know not, am I my brother's keeper?' (ver.9)=that it made charity of no account, and would not wait upon it; thus that it utterly rejected whatever was of charity. Such did their doctrine become.

371. After faith had been separated from love, as in the postdiluvians, and charity was given through faith, conscience succeeded . . .

372. Faith is called the 'keeper' of charity from its having to be of service to it.

373. 'The voice of thy brother's blood' (ver.10)=violence done to charity. 374, 111.

378. 'Receiving thy brother's blood from thy hand' (ver.11)=violence inflicted on charity, which it extinguished.

379. 'Cursed' (id.)=turned away; for iniquities and abominations, or hatreds, are what turn man away, so that he looks downwards only, or to bodily and earthly things, and thus to the things which are of Hell; which takes place when charity is sent into exile and extinguished; for then the bond between the Lord and man is burst asunder. Charity, or love and mercy, are what alone conjoin; never faith without charity . . . The willing is the man himself . . . if he thinks good, the essence of faith, or charity, is in the thought, because the willing of good is in it.

389. 'Everyone finding him would kill him' (ver.14)=that all evil and falsity would destroy it; (for) when a man deprives himself of charity, he separates himself from the Lord; charity, or love towards the neighbour and mercy, are what alone conjoin man to the Lord; without charity there is disjunction, and when there is disjunction he is left to himself or to proprium; and then whatever he thinks is false, and whatever he wills is evil: these are the things which kill man.

393. As it was foreseen that . . . mankind would separate faith from love to the Lord, and would make a separate and distinct doctrine out of faith, it was provided that it should be separated; yet so that through faith, or the Knowledges of faith, they might receive charity from the Lord; so that Knowledge or hearing should come first, and through Knowledge or hearing charity should be bestowed by the Lord, that is, love to the neighbour and mercy; which charity would not only be not separated from faith, but also constitute the Principal of faith.

430. 'A little one,' or 'little child,' in the Word=innocence, and also charity; for there is no such thing as true innocence without charity, or true charity without innocence.

436. By 'her son, whose name she called Seth' (ver. 25) is signified a new faith, through which there is charity.

—e. By the man and his wife is meant that new Church, before called 'Adah and Zillah'; by 'Seth,' the faith by means of which charity is implanted; (and) by 'Enos,' the charity which is implanted by means of faith.

438. By his son, 'whose name was Enos' (ver.26) is signified the Church which had charity as the Principal of faith. Their then 'beginning to call on the name of Jehovah'=the worship of that Church from charity. 440.

440. The Lord can only be worshipped from charity . . .

459^e. The spiritual are they who have received charity from the Lord through the Knowledges of faith, from which they act when they have been received.

553. It is goodness and charity which shape the form and which present their own likeness (in such persons there), and cause the delight and beauty of charity to shine forth from every particle of their faces, so that they are the very forms of charity. Some have seen them, and they were astounded. Such is the form of charity, which is there beheld to the very life; for it is the charity itself which fashions the form and is itself fashioned in it, and in fact so that the whole Angel, especially the face, is as it were charity. This manifestly appears, and is also perceived ; and when this form is looked upon, it is ineffable beauty affecting with charity the very inmost life of the mind. H.414.

576³. That through the remains which are in the inward man comes all man's charity, was represented in the Jewish Church thus, that after they had given tithes they were to give to the Levite, the sojourner, the orphan, and the widow (Deut.xxvi.12).

612. That 'Noah a man just and upright in his generations' (Gen.vi.9)=that he was of such a character that he could be endowed with charity, is evident from the signification of 'just and upright ;' for 'just' has regard to the good of charity ; and 'upright,' to the truth of charity. (It is also evident from) the essential of that Church being charity. 765,Ex.

615. The quality of the man of this Church is here described in general . . . namely, that through the Knowledges of faith he could be endowed with charity, and could thus act from charity, and from the good of charity could know what is true ; wherefore the good of charity, or 'just,' precedes, and the truth of charity, or 'upright,' follows. Charity, as stated before, is love towards the neighbour and mercy ; and is a lower degree of the love which belonged to the Most Ancient Church, which was love to the Lord. Thus did the love come down and become more exterior, and is to be called charity.

653². When the man has been thus prepared (by the dispersion of falsities) to be able to receive the truths of faith, then first can celestial seeds be inseminated into him, which are the seeds of charity: the seeds of charity can never be sown in the soil where falsities reign, but only where truths reign.

654. Acknowledgment can never exist with anyone unless the Principal of faith be with him, which is charity, that is, love towards the neighbour and mercy : when there is charity then there is acknowledgment, or then there is faith . . . When charity is present, which is the goodness of faith, then acknowledgment is present, which is the truth of faith. Wherefore, while man is being regenerated according to scientific, rational, and intellectual things, it is to the end that the ground, or his mind, may be prepared to receive charity, from which, or from the life of which, he afterwards thinks and acts ; he is then reformed or regenerated ; not before.

709. 'Jehovah' is here mentioned because now charity is treated of . . . Jehovah is in love and charity, but not in faith, unless it is the faith of love or charity. 840^o.

798. 'Fifteen eubits upwards did the waters prevail, and cover the mountains' (Gen.vii.20)=that nothing of charity was left.

834. Concerning the second state (after temptation), which is tripartite ; first, when there are no truths of faith ; then when there are truths of faith with charity ; afterwards, when the goods of charity shine forth (Gen. viii.6-14).

840^o. Man is for the first time called regenerate when he acts from charity ; Jehovah is in charity, but not so in faith before it is joined to charity ; charity is man's very being and living in the other life, and the very being and living is Jehovah.

845. Very many of the gentiles (who are in falsities, are nevertheless saved) who have lived in natural charity and in mercy ; and Christians also who have believed (falsities) from simplicity of heart.

847^o. Temptations also exist with those who are in natural charity, thus with the Gentiles, etc. ; but these are straitnesses simulating spiritual temptations.

854. The new or first light of the regenerate never comes forth from the Knowledges of the truths of faith, but from charity ; for the truths of faith are like rays of light, and love or charity is like the flame ; the lumen in one who is to be regenerated is not from the truths of faith, but from charity ; the truths of faith themselves are rays of light therefrom.

862. Charity now begins to appear, which in the Word is compared to 'day,' and is called 'day ;' but the faith which precedes, not having as yet been so conjoined to charity, is called 'night ;' as in Gen. i. 16 ; faith is called 'night' also because it receives its light from charity, as the moon does from the sun, wherefore faith is also called 'the moon,' and love or charity, 'the sun.'

916. By these words the quality of the Church is also indicated, namely, that it was spiritual, and that it was made so, that is, that charity or good was the Principal.

—². The Church is called spiritual when it acts from charity, or from the good of charity, never when it says that it has faith without charity ; then it is not even a Church ; for what is the doctrine of the Church but the doctrine of charity ? and why is there a doctrine of faith except in order to become such as it teaches ? . . . wherefore the Spiritual Church is a Church for the first time when it acts from charity, which is the very doctrine of faith.

—³. They who separate faith from charity, and place salvation in faith without the goods of charity, are Cainites who kill their brother Abel, that is, charity ; and they are like birds which fly round a carcase ; for such faith is the bird, and the carcase is the man who is devoid of charity.

935². The man who is being regenerated begins from cold, that is, from no faith and charity ; but when he is regenerate, he begins from charity. That there are alternations with a regenerate man, namely, that there is now no charity with him, and now some charity, may be manifestly evident for the reason that with everyone, even the regenerate, there is nothing but evil, and that all good is of the Lord alone . . .

981². It is said presence, because the Lord is present solely in charity, and the regenerate spiritual man is here treated of, who acts from charity. The Lord is present with every man, but in proportion as a man is distant from charity, the Lord's presence is, so to speak, more absent.

984^o. Things confirmatory are always coming to hand, both from the Word and from the rational man and scientifics ; thus he confirms himself more and more ; which is the effect of charity ; the Lord alone operating by means of charity.

989. No one can ever say that he is regenerate unless he acknowledges and believes that charity is the Primary of his faith, and unless he is affected with love towards the neighbour, and feels pity for him: his new will is formed from charity, and through charity the Lord operates good and thence truth; but not through faith without charity. There are those who from mere obedience exercise the works of charity, that is, because it has been so commanded by the Lord, and still are not regenerate; these, if they do not place righteousness in the works, are regenerated in the other life.

[A.] 995³. The interior affections, which are alive, all derive their delight from good and truth, and good and truth derive their delight from charity and faith . . .

997. As to use, the case is this; they who are in charity, that is, in love towards the neighbour, from which love comes the delight of pleasures which is alive, do not look to the enjoyment of pleasures except for the sake of use; for there is no charity unless there are works of charity; in the exercise or use does charity consist. He who loves the neighbour as himself never perceives the delight of charity except in exercise or use, wherefore the life of charity is the life of uses . . . therefore all the pleasure which is from charity has its delight from use . . .

1001. 'Blood' (Gen.ix.4)=charity; thus the new Voluntary which the regenerate spiritual man receives from the Lord: this new Voluntary is the same as charity, for the new will is formed from charity; for charity or love is the very essential or life of the will . . .

1005. 'To require your blood to your lives' (Gen. ix.5)=that violence done to charity will punish itself.

1010. 'To shed the blood of man in man' (ver.6)=to extinguish charity . . . The life of the Lord is charity, which is not in man, because man is filthy and profane, but is with man.

—². 'To be angry,' here, (Matt.v.22)=to recede from charity, thus it is hatred; for he who is in hatred not only has no charity, but also inflicts violence on charity, that is, sheds blood.

1011. When charity has been extinguished, the man is left to himself and his own proprium, and is no longer ruled by the Lord through inward bonds, which are those of conscience, but through outward bonds . . .

1012. In the inward sense of the words 'he who sheds the blood of man in man,' it is not the blood of another which is meant, but it is charity with himself, and therefore it is said, 'the blood of man in man.'

1013. 'Because in the image of God made He man' (Gen.ix.6)=charity, which is 'the image of God.' Ex.

—². After the Most Ancient Church had perished, the Lord created . . . a Spiritual Church; this Church was not 'a likeness,' but 'an image' of the Lord; 'an image'=spiritual love, that is, love towards the neighbour or charity. That this Church, from spiritual love or charity, was 'an image' of the Lord, is evident from this verse; and that charity itself is 'an image' of the Lord, is evident from its being said, 'because in the image of God made He man,' that is, that charity itself made him so. That charity is 'the image of God,' is most clearly evident from the very essence of love or of charity; to make a likeness of anyone, and an image of anyone, is what nothing but love and charity can do; the essence of love and charity is, out of two to make as it were one; when the one loves the other as himself, or more than himself, the one sees the other in himself, and himself in the other . . .

—³. Love to the Lord makes man one with the Lord, that is, 'a likeness'; charity or love towards the neighbour also (makes man one with the Lord), but it makes him 'an image' . . .

1016². With the regenerate man, there is nothing multiplied in his external man, that is, nothing of good and truth receives increase, except through the effect of charity; charity is as the heat in the spring or summer time, which makes the grass, plants and trees grow; without charity or spiritual heat nothing grows, wherefore it is here first said, 'Be ye poured forth into the earth' (Gen.ix.7), which is predicated of the goods which are of charity, through which there is a multiplication of good and truth. Ex.

1017. That the multiplication is according to the affection, take as an example the man who adopts as a principle that faith alone saves even though he does no work of charity, that is, even though he has no charity, and who thus separates faith from charity . . . because he supposes that if anyone should say that the works of charity or charity were essential to faith, and should thus live piously, he could not do otherwise than place merit in works, which however is false; thus he rejects charity, and makes the works of charity of no account, and abides solely in the idea of faith, which is nothing without its essential, which is charity. (The consequence.)

1023. 'And I, behold, I set up My covenant' (ver.9)=the presence of the Lord in charity. 1032. 1038. 1039. 1044. 1055. 1059.

—². When the Voluntary of man became utterly corrupt, the Lord miraculously separated his intellectual proprium from that corrupt voluntary proprium, and in his intellectual proprium formed a new will, which is conscience, and in conscience insinuated charity, and in charity innocence, and thus conjoined Himself . . . with man . . .

1025. 'Seed' (id.)=faith; and as there is no faith except where there is charity, it is charity itself which is meant by 'seed' in the inward sense. . . Wherever there is charity, even with the gentiles most remote from the Church, there is 'seed,' for the celestial seed is charity . . . 4259.

1033. They who are being regenerated receive a conscience when they receive charity, for the fundamental of conscience is charity. Ex.

1038. The conjunction of the Lord with man has no existence except in love and charity. Ex.

1043². Because they receive charity, the Lord, through charity, operates into their 'cloud' (that is, into the dim light in which the spiritual are), and thus light arises, as when the sun glances on a cloud . . .

1062. The internal men (of the Church) are they who make charity the Principal of faith; the corrupt internal men are they who make faith without charity the Principal of faith; and the external men are they who think but little about the internal man, but still perform the works of charity, and devoutly observe the rites of the Church. Besides these three kinds of men there are no others who can be called men of the Spiritual Church. (They are represented by Shem, Ham, and Japheth.)

1068. 'The ground' is distinguished from 'the earth' as faith is from charity; for as charity is the containant of faith, so is the earth the containant of the ground.

1071². 'Grapes'=charity and the things which belong to charity; and 'wine'=faith and the things which belong to faith. III.

1072². The Spirits . . . who are in the faith of charity do not reason about the truths of faith . . . These are they who are in charity . . .

1073. The truths of faith are compared to garments, which cover the goods of charity or charity; for charity is the body, and the truths of faith are the garments; or what is the same thing, charity is the soul, and the truths of faith are as the body which is the clothing of the soul.

1074. 'The midst of the tent' (ver.21)=the Principal of faith. . . 'The midst'=the inmost; and 'the tent,' charity, or worship from charity. Charity is the inmost, that is, the Principal of faith and of worship, and thus is 'the midst of the tent.'

1078. 'The father of Canaan' (ver.22)=worship in externals without an internal; no other worship can come forth from faith separated from charity; for the internal man is charity, and never faith without charity . . . 1083^o.

1079². Where there is no charity there is the love of self, thus hatred against all who do not favour self; hence it is that they see in the neighbour nothing but his evil, and if they see anything good, they either perceive it as none, or put a bad interpretation on it. It is quite otherwise with those who are in charity. These two kinds of men are thus distinguished, especially when they come into the other life; with those who are in no charity the disposition of hatred then shines forth from every single particular; they want to examine, nay, to judge everyone, nor do they desire anything more than to find out what is evil, constantly cherishing the disposition to condemn, punish, and torment. But they who are in charity scarcely see the evil of another, but observe all his goods and truths, and put a good interpretation on what is evil and false.

1083⁴. These men, when they have charity and thence conscience, have internal worship in their external; for the Lord with them operates in charity and in conscience, and causes all their worship to partake of what is internal.

1088². They who are in no charity think nothing but evil of the neighbour, and speak nothing but evil; if they speak good, it is for their own sake, or for the sake of him whom they are flattering under a show of friendship: but they who are in charity think nothing but good, and speak nothing but good, and this not for the sake of themselves or of another whom they are flattering, but from the Lord thus operating in charity . . .

1096^o. Hence it follows, that there is all good for those who worship the Lord from internal things, that is, from charity; but there is no good with those who do not worship from charity, but only that which counterfeits good, and in itself is evil . . . 1103.

1100. 'Japheth'=the corresponding external Church . . . thus those who do not know what the internal man is, and the things of the internal man, and still live in charity: with these the Lord is equally present, for the Lord operates through charity, wherever charity is . . .

1101. The man of the external Church is more and more 'enlarged' (ver.27) when he is instructed in the truths and goods of faith; and because he is in charity, he is thus more and more confirmed: the more too that he is instructed, the more is dispelled the cloud of his intellectual part, in which are charity and conscience.

1112. They who have been in the goods and truths of faith, and have thus acquired conscience and the life of charity, are elevated into Heaven by the Lord immediately after death.

1125. The charity (of the Church called 'Enos') was the charity of friendship. (And to some extent also the charity of faith. D.4139b.)

1150. The essential (of worship) is the adoration of the Lord from the heart, which is never possible unless there is charity or love towards the neighbour; in charity or love towards the neighbour the Lord is present, and then He can be adored from the heart . . . Hence it follows, that as is the charity with man such is the adoration, or worship.

1158. By 'the isles of the gentiles' (Gen.x.5) are signified those who are still more remote, properly those who had lived together in charity, yet still in ignorance . . . By 'isles' also (the Angels) perceive those things which are within the Church itself, which are to some extent removed from charity, as are friendship and courtesies: friendship is not charity, still less are courtesies, but they are a degree below charity; the more however that they derive from charity, the more sound they are.

1162². All those are called 'sons of Ham' (ver.6) who have the knowledge of the Knowledges of faith, and have not charity . . .

1171⁴. 'Spice' (Ezek.xxvii.22)=charity.

—^c. Knowledges and adorations, which being devoid of charity, are not grateful. Sig.

1196. In the Ancient Church all those were called 'Philistines' who talk much about faith . . . and yet have no life of faith; wherefore they were pre-eminently called 'the uncircumcised,' that is, devoid of charity.

1226. Everything is called wisdom which is begotten from charity, because it comes through charity from the Lord, from Whom is all wisdom because He is wisdom itself; thence comes true intelligence, and thence true knowledge, all of which are sons of charity, that is, sons of the Lord through charity . . .

1228. That 'Elam' (ver.22)=faith from charity, is evident from the essence of an internal Church; an internal Church is one in which charity is the Principal, and that from which it thinks and acts; the first offspring of charity is nothing but faith, for this is the source of faith, and there is no other.

1249^o. All things of the Church regard charity as their ultimate and end. Sig.

[A.] 1250. 'A mountain of the east' (ver.30)= charity, and in fact charity from the Lord . . .

1251. 'According to their families' (ver.31)= according to the differences as to charity.

1277. (All men) who live in charity are in one angelic society.

1285³. The doctrine is one when all have mutual love, or charity; mutual love and charity cause them to be one although they are various . . . However many they are . . . if they are in charity or mutual love, they have one end, namely, the common good, the Lord's Kingdom, and the Lord Himself: the varieties of doctrinal things and of worships are like the varieties of the senses and of the viscera in man, which contribute to the perfection of the whole; for then the Lord inflows and operates through charity in different ways according to the genius of each . . .

1290. 'When they journeyed from the east' (Gen.xi.2) = when they departed from charity.

1292². In proportion as the Church, or the man of the Church, recedes from charity, its worship recedes from what is holy, and approaches what is unclean and profane. Sig.

1304. Such is the Church, that when charity towards the neighbour departs, and self-love succeeds in its place, the doctrine of faith is nothing, except in so far as it can be turned into the worship of self; nor is anything esteemed holy in worship, unless it is for the sake of self, thus unless it is self-worship. Ex.

1327². The first of these Churches, called 'Noah' . . . had 'one lip,' that is, one doctrine, charity being the essential in all things; but in course of time, it began, as Churches do, to fall away . . .

1337. When this Church ('Arphaxad') began, scarcely any charity was left, thus neither was there any faith, which is solely of charity.

1363². Internal idolaters are known from the life which they have acquired, and in the same proportion as this life recedes from the life of charity are they interior idolaters; (whereas) external idolaters may have the life of charity. 1370.

1408². They who from simplicity of heart believe the Word as they apprehend it in the letter, receive no injury so long as they live in charity; the reason is, that the Word teaches nothing else than that everyone should live with the neighbour in charity, and should love the Lord above all things . . .

1515². All who have lived the life of charity are in Heaven.

1519. The spheres of charity and faith, when perceived as odours, are most delightful. Des.

1555². The will with man is formed by the Lord from infancy to youth, which is effected by the insinuation of innocence, and of charity towards parents, nurses, little children of a similar age . . .

—³. When the Lord has thus conjoined together (man's intellectual and celestial things) he is endowed with charity, from which he begins to act, and which is of conscience; thus does he first receive new life, and this by degrees.

1568. The charity which shines forth from the face is not of the face, but is of the charity which is within, and thus forms the face.

1594³. When a man lives in no charity, it cannot appear to him that the life of the love of self and its cupidities is so contrary to celestial love.

1667. Charity and the things of charity are goods.

1735². This therefore is to live in the Lord, which is never possible, unless one lives in His love, that is, in charity towards the neighbour.

1737. Unless faith is implanted in love, that is, unless by means of the things of faith a man receives the life of faith, that is, charity, there never is conjunction (with the Lord).

1748⁴. Devoid of all natural charity, sig.

1759². Everything sweetly harmonious in the other life is from goodness and charity.

1767. See WORD at these refs. 1776². 1869.

1798². What is doctrinal separated from love or charity never constitutes the internal of the Church . . . but that which is doctrinal which is from charity, or which is of charity, does constitute the internal, for this is of life . . . That this is the faith which is the internal of the Church, may be evident from the mere fact, that he who has the life of charity knows all things of faith. If you like, examine doctrinal things; are they not all of charity, consequently of faith from charity? Take only the commandments of the decalogue, the first of which is to worship the Lord God; he who has the life of love or of charity, worships the Lord God, because this is his life. The second, to observe the Sabbath; he who is in the life of love, or in charity, devoutly observes the Sabbath, for nothing is sweeter to him than to worship the Lord, and to glorify Him every day. The commandment, Kill not, is entirely of charity; he who loves the neighbour as himself shudders at doing anything which injures him, much more at killing him. It is the same with Steal not; for he who has the life of charity rather gives from what is his own to the neighbour, than takes away anything from him. So with Commit not adultery; he who is in the life of charity rather guards the neighbour's wife against anyone doing her such an injury, and regards adultery as a crime against conscience, and as being a thing which destroys marriage love and its duties. To covet what is the neighbour's is also contrary to [the disposition] of those who are in the life of charity; for it is the part of charity to will to others good from one's self and one's own, thus never to covet what belongs to another. Further Ex.

1799⁴. If (Christians) would make love to the Lord and charity towards the neighbour the Principal of faith, all these (sects) would be merely varieties of opinions about the mysteries of faith . . . (See ANCIENT CHURCH at this ref.)

1808². No faith, that is, no charity . . .

1832². Doctrinal things are said to be of faith, although they are not of faith before they are conjoined with charity.

—². These are the things which constitute the 'cloud' of the intellectual part, into which the Lord insinuates charity, and thus makes conscience.

1834². (In the Primitive Church all lived together as brethren), but in the course of time charity grew less and vanished; and then evils followed, and together with evils falsities insinuated themselves; hence came schisms and heresies, which never would be if charity were to reign and live; for then they would not even call schism schism, nor heresy heresy, but a doctrinal matter according to the man's opinion, which they would leave to everyone's conscience; provided only that he did not deny the principles, that is, the Lord, eternal life, the Word; and provided he were not against Divine order, that is, the commandments of the Decalogue. Sig. 1835.

1835². The influx of the Lord with man is through charity into his conscience.

1837. It is called the consummation (of the Church) when there is no longer any charity.

1843. 'Thy seed shall be a sojourner' (Gen.xv.13)=that charity and faith will be rare.

—³. By the faith which will perish in the last times nothing else is meant than charity; no faith ever exists except the faith of charity; he who has no charity cannot have any faith; charity is the very ground in which it is implanted; it is the heart from which it exists and lives; therefore the ancients compared love and charity to the heart, and faith to the lungs, both of which are in the breast . . .

1846⁴. 'To have no root in themselves' (Mark.iv.17)=to have no charity, for in this faith is rooted; they who do not possess this root yield in temptations.

—^e. No charity is signified by 'nation against nation, kingdom against kingdom,' and by the 'sun,' that is, the Lord, love, and charity, being 'darkened.' (Matt. xxiv.7,29).

1850. The Church becomes none at all when there is no charity. Ex.

1860. 'There was thick darkness' (Gen.xv.17)=when there was hatred in the place of charity. . . When there is hatred instead of charity the thick darkness is so great that the man is entirely unaware what evil is . . .

1861³. 'The sun' (Joel ii.31)=charity; 'the moon,' faith. 2120.

—⁵. 'The root' (Mal.iv.1)=charity; 'the branch,' truth, which 'shall not be left.'

—¹⁰. 'Good fruit' (Matt.iii.10)=charity; anyone who deprives himself of this, cuts himself down, and casts himself into such 'fire.'

1862. When hatreds take the place of charity, and evils and falsities the place of goods and truths, there is no conscience of good and truth.

1873. See FRUIT at this ref.

—Charity or love towards the neighbour ought to proceed from love to the Lord.

1950^e. Such life (as that which is represented by the wild-ass) is the life of truth without good, nay, the life of faith without charity; wherefore man's regeneration is indeed effected by means of the truths of faith, yet at the same time by means of the life of charity, which the Lord insinuates according to the increments of the truth of faith.

1992⁴. They who have lived in mutual charity can easily have the goods and truths of faith implanted in them (after death), for charity is the very ground itself.

2009⁴. 'They who are from the north' (Is.xli.25) are they who are outside the Church, and are in ignorance of the name of Jehovah, yet who still 'call upon His name' when they live in mutual charity, and adore a Deity as Creator of the universe . . .

2023. By love, is meant love to the Lord; by charity, love towards the neighbour: love to the Lord can never be separated from love towards the neighbour. Ex.

—^e. They who have love to the Lord are celestial men, but they who have love towards the neighbour or charity, are spiritual men; the Most Ancient Church . . . was in love to the Lord; the Ancient Church . . . was in love towards the neighbour or charity. This distinction between love and charity will be maintained in what follows. 2088².

2027. There is no faith of charity, that is, no charity (in those who place merit in the actions of their life). Ex.

—^e. The case is different with those who in simplicity of heart have supposed that they merited Heaven, and have lived in charity; they . . . easily acknowledge it to be of the Lord's mercy; for the life of charity is attended with this; charity itself loves all truth.

2049². (The gentiles) are purified when they reject filthy loves, and live together in charity, for then they live in truths, for all truths are of charity. Ex.

—⁴. But doctrinal things or the Knowledges of faith are still in the highest degree necessary to form the life of charity, which cannot be formed without them: this is the life which saves after death, and never any life of faith without it, for without charity the life of faith is not possible: they who are in the life of love and of charity are in the life of the Lord; no one can be conjoined with Him by any other. Hence also it follows, that the truths of faith can never be acknowledged as truths . . . except outwardly and with the mouth, unless they are implanted in charity; for [otherwise] they are denied interiorly or with the heart; for all truths have charity for their end, and if this is not within, they are inwardly rejected. . . To receive the life of charity or mutual love in the other life, when men have had none in the life of the body, is never possible . . .

2063³. The Lord meets the truths of faith by good, that is, by charity, and fits it into the Knowledges of faith . . .

2088³. Men were called spiritual men when they were in love towards the neighbour, or in charity; but love towards the neighbour or charity is implanted by means of truth . . . Charity with them appears as if it were the affection of good, but it is the affection of truth; and on account of this appearance charity is called good, but it is the good of their faith.

2115. The gentiles . . . are also saved when they are rational, that is, when they live together in charity or mutual love, and have received something of conscience according to their religion. Refs.

2130³. They who in the world have lived in charity towards the neighbour, are by degrees elevated into Heaven by the Lord.

[A.] 2135². Pref. 'Peter, James, and John,' wherever mentioned in the Gospels, represent faith, charity, and the good of charity. 2760³, Pref. 10087.

2177⁴. 'Fine flour' with 'oil' and 'frankincense' (Lev. vi. 15) represented all things of charity; 'fine flour,' what is spiritual of it; 'oil,' what is celestial; 'frankincense,' that thus it is grateful.

2183³. If the Rational conquers (the Natural), the Angels approach nearer to man, and insinuate charity into him, which is the Celestial that comes through the Angels from the Lord . . .

—^e. The Natural is conformed to the Rational solely by means of charity, and charity is solely from the Lord.

2184⁷. The good of the Natural is the delight which is perceived from charity, or from the friendship which is of charity . . .

2189². (Man's regeneration) takes place through the Knowledges and scientifics which are of truth, which are continually implanted in good, that is, in charity, in order that thus he may receive the life of charity; therefore it is that the affection of truth with man predominates in his Rational; for with regard to the life of charity, which is the celestial life itself, the case is this; with those who are being reformed and regenerated, it is continually being born and is continually maturing and receiving increase, and this through truths; therefore in proportion as more truth is insinuated, so is the life of charity more perfected; wherefore ACCORDING TO THE QUALITY AND QUANTITY OF TRUTH, SO IS charity WITH MAN.

2196⁷. From appearances man supposes that when he does good from charity, he does it from the Voluntary in himself, when yet it is not from his Voluntary, but from his Intellectual, in which latter charity is implanted.

2219⁵. Self-love is not always that which in the outward form appears as conceit and pride; for sometimes such persons can hold the neighbour in charity; for such an external is born with some, and with others is contracted at an early age, but is afterwards subdued, the external still remaining.

2228. 'In Him shall all the nations of the earth be blessed' (Gen. xviii. 18) = that by Him all who are in charity will be saved. . . By 'all the nations of the earth' . . . are signified those who are in charity, that is, who have acquired the life of charity.

—^e. Hence it is evident what faith is, namely, that it is charity, for all things which are said to be of the doctrine of faith lead to this, they are all in it, and they are all derived from it.

2231². Speaking generally, there is only one doctrine, namely, the doctrine of charity; for all things of faith regard charity: between charity and faith there is no other difference than between willing what is good and thinking what is good; he who wills what is good also thinks what is good; thus it is the difference between the will and the understanding. . . Man was so created, that these two parts should constitute one mind, and that there should be no other distinction between them than there is between flame and the light from it; love to the Lord and charity towards the neighbour would be as the flame, and all perception and thought would be as the light thence; thus love and charity would be the whole of the perception and thought, that is, in each and all things thereof: the perception and thought concerning the quality of love and charity is what is called faith. But because mankind began to will what is evil . . . to such an extent, that that part of the mind which is called the will was entirely destroyed, they began to make a distinction between charity and faith, and to refer all doctrinal things to faith . . . and at last they went so far as to say that they could be saved by faith alone . . . Thus was charity separated from faith . . .

2243⁷. The Christian Church was primitively in the good of faith, and its members lived together as brethren in charity . . . but it has now become of such a character that its members do not even know that the fundamental of faith is love to the Lord and charity towards the neighbour.

2261². With those who live in what is contrary to charity, no acknowledgment is ever possible, but only a kind of persuasion, to which there is adjoined the life of the love of self or of the world; thus in that acknowledgment there is not the life of faith, which is of charity.

2280⁶. The life of charity is attended with this; that the falsity and evil of ignorance can be easily bent to truth and good . . .

2284⁴. It has been made known to me by much experience, that there are people saved from every religion, provided that through the life of charity they have received the remains of good and of apparent truth. Sig.

—⁵. The life of charity consists in thinking well concerning others, and in willing well to them, and in perceiving joy in ourselves from the fact that others also are saved: but those have not the life of charity who will that no others should be saved than those who believe as they do, and still less they who are indignant that it should be otherwise.

2303. With infants, immediately after birth, there are Angels from the Heaven of innocence; in the succeeding age, Angels from the Heaven of the tranquillity of peace; afterwards those who are from the Societies of charity . . .

2323. The state of the Church which is called 'evening,' is when there is no longer any charity, and therefore when there begins to be no faith; thus when the Church ceases to be.

2329^e. No others are able to conjoin the idea of Three into one, than they who are in the faith of charity, for the Lord applies the mind of these to Himself.

2343³. That no one can believe in the Lord unless he is in good, that is, that no one can have faith unless he is in charity, is evident from John i. 12, 13.

2371^e. (A long list of references to passages in the Word which teach charity.)

2373². The reason why they who are in evil within the Church reject charity more than they deny the Lord, is that they are thus able to favour their own concupiscences by a kind of religion, and to have external worship with no internal . . .

2388³. As it is here said that those also who are in [mere] truth of faith are saved if they depart from evil, it is to be known that they are those who profess faith, and think nothing about charity, because they have been so taught, and because they do not know what charity is, supposing that it is only giving to others what is one's own, and pitying everyone; also because they do not know what the neighbour is towards whom charity is to be exercised, supposing that he is almost everybody, without distinction; and still these same persons live in the life of charity towards the neighbour, because they live in the life of good: they are not at all injured by professing faith with the rest, for in their faith there is charity, for this means all good of life, both generally and specifically.

2417². Doctrine is twofold, one is that of love and charity, and the other is that of faith; every Church at its beginning... has no doctrine, and does not love any, except that of charity, because this is the doctrine of life: but the Church successively bends itself from this doctrine, even until it begins to hold it cheap, and at last to reject it, and then it acknowledges no doctrine except that which is said to be of faith, and when it separates this from the life of charity, the doctrine conspires with the life of evil. (So it was with the Primitive, Ancient, and Most Ancient Churches. Ex. 2910³).

—⁶. Hence it is evident that doctrine is twofold, one of charity, the other of faith, although essentially both are one, for the doctrine of charity involves all things of faith; but when doctrine is made up solely of those things which are of faith, it is said to be twofold, because faith is separated from charity. That they are separated at this day, may be evident from this, that it is entirely unknown what charity is, and what the neighbour: they who are solely in the doctrine of faith know of nothing being charity towards the neighbour except giving to others, and pitying everyone; for they say that everyone is the neighbour, without distinction; when yet charity is all good whatever with man, in his affection, in his zeal, and thence in his life; and the neighbour is all the good with others whereby he is affected, consequently is all who are in good; and this with every distinction. For example, he is in charity and mercy who exercises justice and judgment, punishing the evil, and rewarding the good: in punishing the evil there is charity, for thus he is carried along by zeal to amend him, and at the same time to protect others, lest evil should come to them from that source; for thus he has regard for and wills well to him who is in evil, or who is an enemy, and thus he has regard for and wills well to others, and to the commonwealth itself, and this from charity towards the neighbour. The case is the same with all other goods of life, for good of life is never possible, unless it is from charity towards the neighbour, for it has regard to this, and it involves this.

—⁸. The doctrine of charity... was the only doctrine which was cultivated in the Ancient Church, and that to such a degree that they referred all the goods which are of charity towards the neighbour, that is, all persons who are in good, into classes, which they carefully distinguished from each other, and to which they also gave names, calling them the poor, the miserable, the oppressed, the sick, the naked, the hungry, the thirsty, the captives or prisoners, the sojourners, the orphans, the widows; and some also the lame, the blind, the deaf, the dumb, the maimed, besides many more... In order, therefore, that the doctrine of charity may be restored, it will, by the Divine mercy of the Lord, be stated in what follows, who they are [that are meant by these names], and what charity is, and what the neighbour, both generally and specifically. 4433. 4844³. —¹⁷. 4955². 6004². 7259.

2435. It has been a subject of controversy from the most ancient times, which is the first-born of the Church, charity or faith, because it is through the truths of faith that man is regenerated and made the Church. But they who gave the preference to faith, and made it the first-born, have all fallen into heresies and falsities, and have at last entirely extinguished charity. (As we read of Cain, and Reuben.) The reason of this controversy was, that they did not know, as now they do not know, that a man has faith in proportion as he has charity; and that when a man is being regenerated charity meets faith, or what is the same, good meets truth, and insinuates and fits itself into each particular of it, and causes faith to be faith; and therefore that charity is the very first-born of the Church, although it appears otherwise to man.

2572². See DOCTRINE at these refs. 3240². 7258. 10764. N.107³.

2590. See GENTILE at these refs. 2594. 4190². 4205^e. H.321.

2596. Thus it was known that (these Chinese Spirits) were endowed with charity. H.325. D.3067.

2636². See REMAINS at this ref.

2669. 'Also the son of the handmaid will I set for a nation' (Gen.xxi.13)=the Spiritual Church which will receive the good of faith, that is, charity. Id.

2776^e. The light of Heaven from the Lord's Divine Human cannot reach any except those who live in the good of faith, that is, in charity; or what is the same, those who have conscience: the very plane itself into which that light can operate, or the receptacle of that light, is the good of faith, or charity, thus conscience.

2839. 'In the mountain shall Jehovah see' (Gen.xxii.14)=the charity by means of which it is provided by the Lord that the spiritual shall be saved. . . 'Mountain' =love and charity. . . Charity is here mentioned, and not love, on account of the difference there is between charity and love; concerning which see above, A.2023.

— That the spiritual are saved by charity, not by faith separated from charity, is evident from many places in the Word. The case in regard to charity and faith is this; charity without faith is not genuine charity, and faith without charity is not faith; in order that charity may exist there must be faith, and in order that faith may exist there must be charity; but the very essential itself is charity, for the seed, which is faith, cannot be implanted in any other ground. The heavenly marriage, that is, the Lord's Kingdom, is from the conjunction of the one with the other mutually and reciprocally. Unless faith is implanted in charity, it is mere knowledge, for it goes no further than the memory, because there is no affection of the heart which receives it. But it becomes intelligence and wisdom when it is implanted in charity, that is, in the life. Charity without faith, such as exists with little children and the good Gentiles, is only ground, in which faith is implanted, if not in the bodily life, still in the other life.

[A.] 2905³. When there is no longer any good and truth, or, as it is now expressed, when there is no longer any faith, that is, no longer any charity, then the Church has arrived at its old age, or at its winter, or at its night, and its time and state are then termed 'the decision,' 'the consummation,' and 'the fulfilment.' 2908.

2910². The case with Churches is this; in the beginning charity is their fundamental principle, everyone then loves another as his brother, and is affected by what is good, not for the sake of himself, but for the sake of the neighbour, the public good, the Lord's Kingdom, and above all, the Lord; but in course of time charity begins to grow cold, and to perish altogether . . . (See CHURCH at this ref.)

—³. There is now not only no charity, but in the place of charity there is hatred . . .

2913. See ANCIENT CHURCH at these refs. 4448². 4680².

2928². 'Bread' and 'waters' (Ezek. xii. 19) = charity and faith; or good and truth.

—⁵. The reason truths are predicated of the spiritual, is that the spiritual are initiated through truths into good; that is, through faith into charity.

2967. All who are being reformed and regenerated are endowed with charity and faith by the Lord, but each according to his own capacity and his own state.

—⁷. 'The beautiful pearl' (Matt. xiii. 45, 46) = charity, or the good of faith.

2975^e. Unless the will and understanding are in concord, so as to make one, the man is not regenerated; that is, unless good and truth, or what is the same, charity and faith, are one; for charity is of the will, and faith of the understanding.

2979². With the regeneration of the spiritual man the case is this; he is first instructed in the truths which are of faith, and is then kept by the Lord in the affection of truth: the good of faith, which is charity towards the neighbour, is at the same time insinuated into him, but so that he hardly knows it, for it lies concealed in the affection of truth; and this to the end that the truth which is of faith may be conjoined with the good which is of charity . . .

3111². Within the Church, they who have not something of innocence and of charity towards the neighbour, however well they may know truth, and profess it with the mouth, still never acknowledge it at heart; and outside the Church, of the Gentiles who are called to the truth of faith, or are in the other life instructed concerning it, no others receive it but those who are in innocence, and live together in mutual charity; for innocence and charity constitute the ground in which the seeds of truth are able to take root and sprout forth.

3120, 1. 'His mercy' (Gen. xxiv. 27) = the influx of love; 'his truth' = the influx of charity thence. . . In the internal sense, truth or faith is the same as charity; for all faith is from charity . . . 3122, Ex.

3122. Celestial men, through charity towards the neighbour, are introduced into love to the Lord . . . but it is different with the spiritual; these think about the things of faith, and, when being reformed and regenerated, are introduced through the things of faith into charity towards the neighbour; wherefore when they are treated of, by 'mercy from the Lord' is meant the influx of charity towards the neighbour; and by 'truth,' the influx of faith; but still this faith, when the spiritual man is regenerate, becomes charity, for then he acts from charity; and this is so much the case, that those of them who do not act from charity are not regenerate, and those who do act from charity are regenerate, and they then care nothing for the things of faith or of truth, because they live from the good of faith, and no longer from the truth of it; for truth has so conjoined itself with good, that it no longer appears, except only as the form of good, that is, faith no longer appears except only as the form of charity. 3157^e, Ex.

3147⁸. To wash the feet was of charity, namely, that they did not reflect upon another's evils.

3187. 'Seed' = those who are called the spiritual . . . as is evident from the signification of 'seed,' which is charity and faith, thus they who are in charity through faith.

3207⁵. Man believes that he is reformed and regenerated through the truth of faith, but this is an appearance; he is reformed and regenerated through the good of faith, that is, through charity towards the neighbour and love to the Lord.

—^e. To man the goods of life appear to be the fruits of faith, but they are the fruits of charity.

3224^e. The interior mind . . . is opened only with those who are in innocence, in love to the Lord, and in charity towards the neighbour; but not with those who are in the truths of faith, unless they are at the same time in the good of life.

3235². To the spiritual the Lord appears as a Moon, because they are in spiritual love, that is, in charity towards the neighbour.

3236². With the spiritual man good is in general that which is called the good of faith, and this is nothing but charity towards the neighbour; but in order that it may be charity it must come from the new will which is conferred upon the spiritual man by the Lord . . . 3240.

3240³. Of charity is the Celestial of the spiritual man.

3241^e. Notwithstanding there being so many varieties and differences of doctrinal things . . . they still form one Church, when all acknowledge charity as the essential of the Church, or, what is the same, when they regard life as the end of doctrine . . . 3451^e, Refs.

3242. The things of faith flow in perceptibly, but not those which are of charity.

3249. The good of faith, which is signified by 'the land of the east' (Gen. xxv. 6) is that which in the Word is called charity towards the neighbour, and charity towards the neighbour is nothing else but a life according to the Lord's commandments.

3267². The Lord's Spiritual Kingdom in the Heavens is one; the reason is, that charity is the principal with all; for charity makes the Spiritual Church, not faith, unless you call charity faith. He who is in charity loves the neighbour, and his dissenting from him in matters of belief he excuses, provided he lives in good and truth; he does not even condemn the upright gentiles, although they are ignorant of the Lord, and know nothing of faith; for he who is in charity, that is, lives in good, receives such truths from the Lord as agree with his good . . . But he who is not in charity, that is, does not live in good, can never receive any truth; he may indeed know truth, but it is not implanted in his life . . . for truth cannot be conjoined with evil . . .

3272³. The 'twelve fruits' (Rev.xxi.22)=all things of charity.

3324. When a man forms a conclusion from natural perception, he believes that faith . . . is prior to charity, because he perceives how the truth which is of doctrine enters, but not how the good which is of life, because the former enters by an external, that is, by a sensuous way, but the latter by an internal way . . .

3325⁴. All are called 'first-born' who are in love to the Lord and in charity towards the neighbour.

—¹. After the Church has been planted . . . the good of charity is the first-born with the external Church, and charity itself is the first-born with the internal Church.

3353. There is no acknowledgment of the Lord or no faith when there is no charity, for faith is never possible except with those who are in charity.

3380². 'In thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed' (Gen.xxvi.4)=that by the good and truth which are from the Lord all will be saved who live in mutual charity, whether within the Church or without it.

3398⁴. At this day there is scarcely any faith, because there is not any charity.

3412³. They who (in the Ancient Church) receded from charity also removed themselves from wisdom and intelligence; for no one can understand what is true unless he is in good, that is, in charity.

3416. They who place the essential of salvation in faith, do not attend to those things which the Lord so often spoke about love and charity; and those who do attend to them call them the fruits of faith, which they thus distinguish, nay, separate from charity.

3419³. Charity is the affection of being of service to others without any end of recompense.

3427². They who are only in knowledge . . . and in no charity towards the neighbour, cannot but deny that there is an internal sense of the Word. Ex.

—³. They maintain . . . that the things which are of love to the Lord and of love towards the neighbour are the fruits of faith; when yet the case really is, that if love to the Lord be compared to the tree in the garden of Eden, charity and its works are the fruits therefrom, and faith and all things of faith are only the leaves.

—⁴. In proportion as anyone is in the good of life, that is, in love to the Lord and charity towards the neighbour, he is in intelligence, that is, in faith from the Lord; hence also it is that . . . he cannot but be in the affirmative in relation to the internal sense of the Word.

3436². He who is in simple good, and simply believes the Word according to its literal sense, is endowed with the capacity of perceiving truths when he is instructed in the other life by the Angels; moreover, the few truths he has are vivified by charity and innocence, and when these are present, the falsities which have also infused themselves in the shade of his ignorance do no harm; for they are not adjoined to the good, and are kept away therefrom as it were in the circumstances, and so can be easily expelled.

3447. These are they who make faith the essential, and do not indeed reject charity, but undervalue it; thus they set doctrine before life. Rep.

3451³. If anyone recognizes as a doctrine that charity is from faith, and yet lives in charity towards the neighbour, he is indeed not in the truth as to doctrine, but still is in the truth as to life.

3452². All doctrinal things whatever, provided they are from the Word, are accepted by the Lord, provided he who is in them is in the life of charity; for with this life all things of the Word can be conjoined; but the interior things of the Word, with the life which is in the interior good of charity.

3463³. They who are only in the doctrinal things of faith, and in a life according to them, are in a kind of conjunction, but remote, because they do not know what charity towards the neighbour is . . . But he who does not act from [mere obedience to] the commandment, but from charity, that is, from affection, acts from the heart, thus from freedom . . . Hence as often as he acts, he starts from the very will of good itself, thus from that which is delightful to him; and as he has his recompense in the delight, he does not think of merit. Hence now it is evident what the difference is between doing what is good from faith, and doing it from charity.

3464². When a man who is in doctrinal things from the literal sense of the Word . . . in the Holy Supper thinks simply of the Lord, from the words 'this is My body,' and 'this is My blood,' the Angels who are with him are in the idea of love to the Lord and of charity towards the neighbour; for to the Lord's body and the bread corresponds love to the Lord; and to His blood and the wine corresponds charity towards the neighbour. 3596². 4217².

3484². Hence it is, that good Spirits and Angels appear as the very forms of charity, but evil and infernal Spirits as forms of hatred.

3488². 'On account of the multiplication of iniquity, the charity of many shall grow cold' (Matt.xxiv.12)=the expiring of charity together with faith . . . for each keeps pace with the other; where there is not faith there is not charity, and where there is not charity there is not faith; but charity is that which receives faith, and no charity is what rejects faith; this is the origin of all falsity and of all evil.

3635. The Spiritual Kingdom consists of those who are in charity towards the neighbour. Refs. 4138.

3652. 'The abomination of desolation' (Matt.xxiv.15)=the vastation of the Church, which is . . . when there is no longer any charity towards the neighbour, and consequently when there is no longer any faith of good and truth.

[A.] 3653. The men within the Church are of three kinds, namely, they who are in love to the Lord, they who are in charity towards the neighbour, and they who are in the affection of truth. Sig.

3691⁴. They who are in charity towards the neighbour, so as to have a perception of charity, and not so much a perception of love to the Lord, are in a lower degree of good and truth, and are in the second Heaven, and thus are further away from the Lord, and are called Spiritual Angels; but they who are in charity towards the neighbour merely from the affection of truth, so as not to have a perception of charity towards the neighbour itself, but only from the truth by which they are affected, are in a still lower degree of good and truth, and are in the first Heaven . . .

—⁵. In charity there is also an image of the Lord, but more remotely, for in charity itself the Lord is present; wherefore they who are in it are called His 'images:' but they who are in the affection of truth, and thence in a certain kind of charity towards the neighbour, are also images of the Lord, but still more remotely.

3759. (This Church) ascends to interior things according to this order; it first has the truth which is said to be of faith, then exercise according to this truth, afterwards charity from it, and at last celestial love; these four degrees are signified by the four sons of Jacob from Leah; Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah.

3768³. All good is from the Lord, and it inflows with man and causes the affection of good, which affection is called charity.

3776. 'My brethren, whence are ye?' (Gen.xxix.4)=charity there, from what origin is it? . . . The charity which in the outward form appears as charity is not always charity in the inward form; from its end is known its quality and its source: the charity which has self or the world for its end is not charity in the inward form, nay, is not to be called charity; but the charity which regards as its end the neighbour, the common good, Heaven, and thus the Lord, is charity itself, and has in it the affection of doing good from the heart, and thence delight of life, which in the other life becomes blessedness.

3868. Faith proceeds from charity, and manifests charity in a kind of form; hence it is evident that . . . the external of charity is faith . . . and that the internal of faith is charity.

—^c. There are few who know that faith is trust and confidence, and among these still fewer who know that trust or confidence is from charity, and is not possible with anyone who has not lived the life of charity.

3875. 'To cleave' (Gen.xxix.34), in the supreme sense =love and mercy; in the internal, charity . . . as is evident from the fact, that charity, or what is the same, mutual love, is spiritual conjunction; for it is a conjunction of the affections which are of the will, and a consequent agreement of the thoughts which are of the understanding; thus a conjunction of minds as to both parts. —³, III.

3876. The Successive which is here signified by the three sons, is that charity now comes; for when man is being regenerated, that is, when he becomes the Church, he must first know and understand what the truth of faith is; secondly, he must will and do it; and thirdly, he must be affected with it; and when man is affected with truth, that is, when he perceives delight and blessedness in acting according to the truth, he is in charity or mutual love. 3877.

3877. The case with charity is, that it contains in itself the willing of truth, and thereby the understanding of truth . . . but before a man comes to charity, he must first be in what is external, that is, in the understanding of truth, then in the willing of truth, and at last in the being affected with truth, which is charity; and when the man is in charity, he has regard to the Lord, Who, in the supreme sense, is signified by 'Judah,' the fourth son of Jacob.

3923. He who only affirms faith, and not the Holy of faith, that is, charity, and unless he affirms this by the good of life, that is, by the works of charity, can no longer relish the essence of faith, for he rejects it.

3934². Unless works correspond to the good of faith, they are not works of charity, nor works of faith . . . but when they correspond they are works of either charity or faith; works of charity are those which flow from charity as their soul, and works of faith are those which flow from faith; the former are with a regenerate man, the latter with one who is not yet regenerated, but is being regenerated. Ex.

—³. Hence it follows, that he who professes faith, and still more he who professes the good of faith, and denies works, and still more if he rejects them, is devoid of faith, and is still more devoid of charity. Since . . . man is never in charity and faith unless he is in works, hence it is that 'works' are so often mentioned in the Word. III. —⁷, Ex.

3938⁵. They who are in the love of self and of the world, and thence in no charity, know the delights of the former loves, but not the delight of the latter one, wherefore they are utterly ignorant of what charity is, and still more that there is any delight in charity; when yet the delight of charity is what fills the universal Heaven, and makes the blessedness and happiness there, and if you will believe it, intelligence and wisdom also with their delights; for into the delights of charity the Lord inflows with the light of truth and the flame of good, hence with intelligence and wisdom.

3941. 'Reuben went in the days of wheat harvest' (Gen.xxx.14)=faith as to its state of love and charity. Ex.

—². That 'wheat'=those things which are of love and charity, III.

—⁶. 'Three measures of wheat for a penny' (Rev.vi.6)=love so rare; 'three measures of barley for a penny'=charity so rare.

3956. Works which are done for the sake of reward are not good in themselves, for they do not spring from the genuine fountain, namely, from charity towards the neighbour. Charity towards the neighbour has in it, that it wills well to him as much as to self, and with the Angels, better to others than themselves. Such also is the affection of charity; wherefore the affection of charity is averse to all merit, and consequently to every good deed which looks to reward; the reward which they who are in charity have, is that they are able to do good, and allowed to do good, and that the good deed is accepted; this is the delight itself, nay, the blessedness, which is with those who are in the affection of charity. Hence it is evident what the 'reward' is which is mentioned in the Word, namely, that it is the delight and blessedness of the affection of charity, or what is the same, the delight and blessedness of mutual love; for the affection of charity, and mutual love, are the same thing.

3957^r. If there be not in man . . . some plane, the influential good and truth cannot be received . . . This plane is acquired by charity towards the neighbour, that is, by mutual love; this plane is what is called conscience . . .

3969^r. There are two things which constitute the spiritual man, namely, charity and faith, or what is the same, good and truth: the charity from which is faith, or the good from which is truth, is what is represented by 'Joseph;' and the faith in which is charity, or the truth in which is good, is what is signified by 'the second son,' and is represented by 'Benjamin.'

—⁴. See Spiritual Kingdom at this ref.

—¹⁰. The Celestial Spiritual in the third Heaven is charity; this is the Principal in the second Heaven, where the spiritual are.

—¹⁷. The Spiritual Kingdom is the good of faith, that is, charity, which inflows from the Lord immediately, and also mediately through the Celestial Kingdom.

3986^r. There are few genuine truths even with the man who is within the Church, and still fewer with the man who is outside the Church; hence the affections of genuine truth are rare; but still they who are in the good of life, or who live in love to God and in charity towards the neighbour, are saved; the reason they can be saved, is that the Divine of the Lord is in the good of love to God and the good of charity towards the neighbour, and where the Divine is present, all things are disposed into order, so that they can be conjoined with the genuine goods and truths which are in the Heavens.

—³. The case is the same with the goods and truths in the Spiritual World, which, although they are various . . . still make one from the Divine through love and charity; for love and charity are spiritual conjunction . . . Moreover, the good of love to the Lord, and the good of charity towards the neighbour, however various truths may be, and however various the affections of truth may be, are still receptive of genuine truth and good; for they are, so to speak, not hard and unyielding, but are as it were soft and yielding; for they suffer themselves to be led by the Lord, and thus to be bent to good, and through good, to Him. 4197.

3994. In all good there must be innocence in order that it may be good; charity without innocence is not charity, still less love to the Lord; wherefore innocence is the very essential of love and charity, thus of good.

—³. 'The fat of lambs' (Deut. xxxii. 14) = the charity of innocence.

—⁴. 'To gather the lambs in His arm, and carry them in His bosom' (Is. xl. 11) = those who are in the charity in which there is innocence.

—⁵. As faith is not faith unless it is from charity towards the neighbour, and thus from love to the Lord; and as charity and love are not charity and love unless they are from innocence; hence it is that the Lord first asked Peter whether he loved Him, that is, whether there is love in faith, and then said, 'Feed My lambs,' that is, those who are in innocence; and afterwards, after the same question, He said, 'Feed My sheep,' that is, those who are in charity.

—⁶. The paschal lamb = that which is the essential of regeneration, namely, innocence; for no one can be regenerated except through the charity in which is innocence.

3995. What the good of truth is, or the charity of faith, shall be told in a few words. When man is being regenerated, the truth which is of faith apparently precedes, and the good which is of charity apparently follows; but when man is regenerate, the good which is of charity manifestly precedes, and the truth which is of faith manifestly follows. . . Hence it is that so many say that the goods of charity are the fruits of faith, for so it appears at the beginning of regeneration. Ex.

—^e. 'She-goats' = the charity of faith.

4046^r. Everyone who is in the life of good from the affection of charity is saved.

4060. 'Immediately after the affliction of those days' (Matt. xxiv. 29) = . . . that after there is no longer faith there will no longer be charity; for faith leads to charity, because it teaches what charity is, and charity receives its quality from the truths which are of faith, and the truths of faith their essence and life from charity. 'The sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give its light' = love to the Lord, which is 'the sun,' and charity towards the neighbour, which is 'the moon.'

4197. Christians who are in mutual charity, and still more they who are in love to the Lord, when they live in the world, are in direct good, because they are in Divine truths, wherefore they enter Heaven without such instruction, if there had not been falsities in their truths, which first have to be dispersed. But Christians who have not lived in charity have closed Heaven against themselves, and very many to such a degree that it cannot be opened; for they know truths and deny them, and also harden themselves against them, if not with the mouth, still in the heart.

—⁴. Celestial good is of love to the Lord, and spiritual good is of charity towards the neighbour.

4269^r. When man is being regenerated, the order is inverted, and good is in the first place, and truth in the second; and when the order is inverted, the Lord so disposes and orders what is in the natural man, that truth is there received by good, and truth submits itself to good, so that the man no longer acts from truth but from good, that is, from charity; he also acts from charity when he lives according to the truths of faith, and loves doctrine for the sake of life.

4274^r. None can be tempted except those who are in the good of faith, that is, in charity towards the neighbour; if those who are not in this charity were to be tempted, they would at once yield . . .

4286^r. The Angels in the second Heaven are called spiritual because they are in charity towards the neighbour, that is, in mutual love, which is of such a nature, that one loves another more than himself; and because they are of such a character they are in intelligence, and are called Intelligences.

[A.] 435². Spiritual love is love towards the neighbour, which is called charity.

436². No one is in the affection of truth but he who is in good, that is, in charity towards the neighbour, or, still more, in love to the Lord.

—⁴. They who are in the affection of truth from the good of genuine charity, if they hear that charity makes the Church, but not faith separated from it, receive this truth with joy; but they who are in the affection of truth from the love of self and of the world do not receive it.

4390. This good which is from truth grows in proportion as a man exercises charity from good will, thus in the proportion and according to the way in which he loves the neighbour.

4403. Those (Spirits) who are at the chest or breast (of the Grand Man) are those who are in charity.

4411. The light which proceeds from the Lord, when it inflows into the third Heaven, is there received as the good which is called charity; and when it inflows into the second Heaven, mediately and immediately, it is received as the truth which is from charity.

4510. 'Their women' (Gen. xxxiv. 29) = charity . . . The affection of spiritual good is the same as charity.

4538⁴. By good is meant spiritual good, which good in the Word is called 'charity,' and this good in general consists in willing and doing good to another from no selfish reason, but from the delight of affection . . .

4552³. In the Ancient Church, the vine and thence wine signified those things which are of charity, and, from this, of faith.

4605. Faith, regarded in itself, is charity; thus the truth of faith, regarded in itself, is the good of faith; because faith is never possible except from charity . . .

4671. The 'brethren' (of Joseph) in this chapter represent the Church which turns aside from charity to faith, and at last to faith separate, and so to falsities.

4672². The Church which commences from charity has good for a director, and in good, the Lord; for the good which is of charity and love comes in between the Lord and faith; without this no spiritual communication is possible, for there is no influx without an intermediate.

4673. Divine truth is said to be rejected to lower things when faith is set before charity, or when it becomes in hearts the antecedent, and when charity is set after faith, and it becomes in hearts the consequent. Sig.

4683. The Church which turns aside from charity to faith . . . when it first commences preaches charity, but only from doctrine . . . not from charity itself . . . In course of time, as charity and affection are obliterated in the heart, they preach faith; and at last, when there is no longer any charity, faith alone . . . then also they no longer call works works of charity, but of faith, and denominate them the fruits of faith . . .

4715. He who teaches faith and not charity, can never perceive the higher or more interior things of the Church; for he has not anything to lead him, and to dictate to him whether a thing is true; but if he teaches charity, he then has good, which is a dictate to him, and leads him; for all truth is from good and treats of good, or what is the same, all faith is from charity, and treats of charity.

4730². (Because men believe that charity consists in giving to the poor) they reject the doctrine of charity . . .

—³. The fundamental of charity is to act rightly and justly in everything which relates to any duty or office; as for example, when a judge punishes an evildoer according to the laws, and that from zeal, he is in charity towards the neighbour, for he wills his amendment, thus his good, and he also wills well to society and his country . . . 8121.

4731^e. They who are in the life of faith, or in charity, adore the Lord as their God and Saviour, and when they are in adoration, think of the Lord's Divine, not separating it from the Human; thus from the heart they acknowledge everything in the Lord to be Divine . . .

4776. He who is in the life of cupidities cannot be in the life of love and charity, for they are complete opposites; the life of cupidities is to love self alone, and not the neighbour except for the sake of self; thus they extinguish charity with themselves, and they who extinguish charity also extinguish love to the Lord, for there exists no other medium of loving the Lord except charity, because the Lord is in charity; the affection of charity is the celestial affection itself which is from the Lord alone . . . the internal of man, and Heaven in man, is charity, that is, to will well to another, to society, to one's country, to the Church, to the Lord's Kingdom, and thus to the Lord Himself.

—². That no one can be saved unless he has lived in the good of charity, and has thus imbued its affections, which are to will well to others, and from good-will to do good to them; also that no one can ever receive the truths of faith, that is, imbue and appropriate them to himself, but he who is in the life of charity, has been made very manifest to me by those with whom it has been given me to speak in Heaven; there all are forms of charity, being of beauty and goodness according to the quality of the charity; their delight, joyousness, and happiness are from the fact that, from good-will, they are able to do good to others. The man who has not lived in charity can never believe that in good-will, and from good-will to do good to others, there is Heaven and its joy . . . —^c.

4783³. If they knew how much peace, joy, and happiness there are in charity, they would know what Heaven is.

—⁴. No one can know what the internal man is and his life after death, except he who is in charity, for charity is of the internal man.

—⁵. They who are in faith separated cannot believe otherwise than that the works of charity consist merely in giving to the poor . . . when yet the works of charity consist in each person in his own office doing what is just and fair from the love of what is just and fair, and of what is good and true.

—⁶. They who are not in the affection of charity are solely in external sight, or in lower intuition . . .

4899. See CHURCH at this ref.

4922°. 'Blood,' from its redness, = spiritual good or charity towards the neighbour; and in the opposite sense, violence done to charity.

4952°. They said that they had not known what charity towards the neighbour is, and what the internal is; but the answer was given them, that they could not know these things, because the love of self and of the world, and external things, had occupied all things of their thought and will.

4956. The essence of charity towards the neighbour is the affection of good and truth, and the acknowledgment of self as being evil and falsity; nay, the neighbour is good and truth themselves, to be affected with these is to have charity; the opposite to the neighbour is evil and falsity, to these he who has charity is averse; he therefore who has charity towards the neighbour is affected with good and truth because they are from the Lord, and is averse to evil and falsity because they are from himself . . . Sig.

4988⁴. They who do what is good from (an hereditary) origin, are carried as by a blind instinct into the exercises of charity; but they who do what is good from (a spiritual) origin, are carried into them by a sense of duty, and as it were seeing.

5117². That 'grapes' = the good of the spiritual man, thus charity, Ill.

5120⁵. See BLOOD at this ref.

—⁵. The Spiritual Church is thus distinguished from the Celestial Church; the former is in charity towards the neighbour, and the latter in love to the Lord.

5122². After (regeneration), charity, which was the end, becomes the beginning, and from it new states commence, which proceed both ways, namely, more towards interior things, and also towards exterior things, towards interior things to love to the Lord, and towards exterior things to the truths of faith, and on to natural truths, and even to sensual truths, which are then successively reduced to correspond with the goods of charity and of love in the rational.

5128⁴. If a man is rational, he speaks from thinking well and he acts from willing well, that is, he speaks from faith and acts from charity.

5132. 'And do mercy, I pray, with me' (Gen. xl. 14) = the reception of charity; (for) 'mercy' = love, here, love towards the neighbour or charity, because the reception of faith is treated of above; for faith and charity make one in the Sensual, when the latter is reborn. The reason 'mercy' = charity, is that all who are in charity are in mercy, or, in other words, they who love the neighbour feel pity for him; wherefore the exercises of charity are described in the Word as works of mercy, as in Matt. xxv. 35, 36.

—². Charity in its essence is to will well to the neighbour, and to be affected with good, and to acknowledge good as the neighbour, consequently, those who are in good, with a difference according to the degree they are in good: hence charity, being affected with good, is affected with mercy towards those who are in miseries;

the good of charity has this in it because it descends from the Lord's love towards the universal human race, which love is mercy, because the whole human race is constituted [so as to be] in miseries. There is sometimes an appearance of mercy with the evil who are in no charity, but it is really grief on account of their own sufferings, for it is manifested towards their friends who make one with themselves, so that when their friends suffer, they suffer; this mercy is not the mercy of charity, but is the mercy of friendship for the sake of self, which, regarded in itself, is unmercifulness, for it despises or hates all except self, thus except the friends who make one with self.

5133°. (There is no correspondence between the internal man and the interior natural) unless the man is imbued with charity, for charity is the uniting medium, because in the good thereof there is life from the Lord, which life disposes truths into order, so that the form of charity, or charity, may come forth in an image: this form appears visibly in the other life, and is the angelic form itself; all the Angels are thence forms of charity; the beauty of that form is from the truths which are of faith, and the life of the beauty is from the good which is of charity.

5160. 'By water and the spirit' = by faith and charity.

5168². That which subordinates the natural and reduces it to correspond, is solely the good in which there is innocence, which good in the Word is called 'charity.'

5200. 'Fat in flesh' (Gen. xli. 2) = the things which are of charity. Ex.

—^e. The things of faith constitute what is formal; and those of charity what is essential.

5204. 'Thin in flesh' (ver. 3) = the things which are not of charity.

5291⁴. 'He who received two talents' = those who in advanced age have adjoined charity to faith; 'he who received one' = those who are in faith alone without charity.

5342². When the state of youth begins, he then by degrees puts off the state of innocence, but is still kept in a state of charity by the affection of mutual charity towards those who are like himself, which state lasts with many up to adolescence; he is then among the Spiritual Angels. Afterwards, because he begins to think from himself, and to act accordingly, he can no longer be kept in charity, as before, for he then calls forth hereditary evils, by which he suffers himself to be led. When this state arrives, the goods of charity and of innocence which he had before received, are exterminated according to the degree in which he thinks evils and confirms them in act; nevertheless they are not exterminated, but are withdrawn by the Lord towards the interiors; and are there stored up. As, however, he has not yet known truths, the goods of innocence and of charity, which he had received in the two former states, have not as yet been qualified, for truths give quality to good, and good gives essence to truths; therefore from this age he is imbued with truths by instruction, and especially by means of his own thoughts and confirmations therefrom . . .

5351³. By faith is in the Church meant all the truth of doctrine, and by charity, all the good of life; they do indeed call charity and its works the fruits of faith, but who believes that any fruit of faith conduces to salvation when he believes that man is saved by faith at the last hour of his life, however he may have lived before; and further, when by doctrine they separate the works which are of charity from faith . . .

[A. 5351³]. All in Hell are they who have been in faith so-called without charity, and all in Heaven are they who have been in charity; for the life remains with everyone, but doctrine only so far as it has derived from life.

5354. The reason so few know what good and evil are, is that they do not know what charity towards the neighbour is; if they knew this they would also know what good is, and, from good, what evil is, for all that is good which comes from genuine charity towards the neighbour.

5354¹². 'Simeon'=faith in act, or the obedience and will of doing the truth, from which and through which comes charity . . .

5482. The truth from the Divine, which is represented by 'Joseph,' inflows through the medium into the good of faith, and through this into the truth thereof; or, what is the same, into the willing of truth, and, through this, into the understanding of truth; or, what is still the same, into charity towards the neighbour, and, through this, into faith. There is no other way of influx with the man who is regenerate, or with the Angels. Ex.

5527². I have seen Spirits who had not been remarkably sharp-sighted when they lived in the world, but had lived the life of charity, elevated into angelic Societies, and then they were in like intelligence and wisdom to that of the Angels there . . .

5608³. As end, cause, and effect are distinct from each other, so in the Spiritual World are love to the Lord, charity, and the works of charity: when these three become one, or exist simultaneously, the first must be in the second, and the second in the third: so with the works of charity, unless there is charity from affection or from the heart in them, they are not works of charity; and unless there is love to the Lord in charity, it is not charity . . . It is the same with innocence, which makes one with love to the Lord; unless it is in charity it is not charity, consequently, unless charity containing innocence within it is in the works of charity, they are not works of charity.

5639³. The reason so many in the Christian world do not know what the Spiritual is, is that they make faith the essential of the Church, and not charity; hence, as the few who are solicitous about faith think little, if anything, about charity, or know what charity is, they have no perception of the affection which is of charity; and he who is not in the affection of charity, cannot at all know what the Spiritual is; especially at this day, when scarcely anyone has any charity, because it is the last time of the Church.

5826¹. Confidence is not possible without charity towards the neighbour . . . 8987^e.

5849². No faith, because no charity. 6000⁴. 8902⁶. 8904². (See below, J. 33.)

5897⁹. Celestial truth is charity, but spiritual truth is faith. 5922¹².

5922². See CELESTIAL KINGDOM at these refs. 6435. 8945. 9468. 9477.

6013. In order for truth to be genuine, it must derive its essence and life from charity, and this from innocence; for the interior things which vivify truth succeed one another in this order; the inmost is innocence, the lower is charity, and the lowest is the work of charity from or according to truth: the reason they thus succeed each other, is that they so succeed each other in the Heavens; for the inmost or third Heaven is the Heaven of innocence, the middle or second Heaven is the Heaven of charity containing within it innocence from the third Heaven; and the ultimate or first Heaven is the Heaven of truth containing within it charity from the second Heaven, and this innocence from the third . . .

6014. All spiritual goods are of charity towards the neighbour, and all celestial goods are of love to the Lord.

6073. Charity itself, regarded in itself, does not become charity until it comes into act, and is made work; for to love anyone and not do good to him when we can is not to love him; but to do good to him when we can, and that from the heart, is to love him; and thus within the deed or work itself are contained all things of charity towards him, for works are the complex of all things of charity and faith with man, and are what are called spiritual goods, and also become goods by exercise, that is, by use . . . 6406⁶.

6077². Charity towards the neighbour vivifies and animates faith, and, through faith, the scientifics which are of the natural mind. Few know that truths and scientifics are distinct from each other; the reason is that few are in truths of faith from charity; and the truths of faith in which there is not charity are nothing but scientifics, for they are in the memory no differently from the other things which are there; but when truths of faith are from charity, or when charity is in them, they perceptibly distinguish themselves from scientifics . . .

6107. The Lord inflows through innocence into charity, and in proportion to the innocence the charity is received, for innocence is the very essential of charity.

6256^e. They who, from doctrine, set faith before charity, and still live the life of charity, are of the Lord's Spiritual Church, and are saved; for they place charity first in life, but truth of faith first in doctrine.

6269². At this day charity has so completely vanished that scarcely anyone knows what it is, consequently so also has faith, for the one cannot exist without the other. If charity were in the first place, and faith in the second, the Church would have a different face, for then none would be called Christians but they who live a life according to the truth of faith, that is, a life of charity . . . And thus the Church would be in enlightenment about the things of the Lord's Kingdom, for charity enlightens, and never faith without charity; and the errors induced by faith without charity would be clearly seen.

6356. 'Anger'=recession from charity, and turning away. Refs.

6388. By 'Issachar' are here meant those who are in a certain appearance of mutual love, that is, of charity towards the neighbour, and who want to be recompensed for the goods which they do; and thus not only defile genuine mutual love or charity, but also pervert it. Ex.

6530. 'Flocks' (Gen.1.8)=charity.

6531. 'Herds' (id.)=the exercises of charity.

6627. On the doctrine of charity. Gen. art. 6703, 6818, etc. N.84.

6628. The doctrine of charity was the doctrine in the Ancient Churches, and that doctrine conjoined all Churches, and thus of many made one; for they acknowledged as men of the Church all who lived in the good of charity, and called them brethren, however greatly they might be at variance in the truths which at this day are called the truths of faith. In these they instructed one another; this being among their works of charity; nor were they indignant if one did not accede to the opinion of another, knowing that everyone receives truth in proportion as he is in good. N.9.

6703. Unless it is known who is the neighbour, charity may be exercised without distinction towards the evil as well as the good; whence charity becomes not charity; for the evil, from the benefits they receive, do evil to the neighbour; but the good do good.

6704. It is the part of Christian prudence well to examine the quality of a man's life, and to exercise charity accordingly.

6705. The ancients reduced the neighbour into classes . . . and taught how charity was to be exercised towards those who were in one class, and how towards those in another . . .

6737. 'She had compassion on him' (Ex.ii.6)=an admonition from the Divine; (for) 'to have compassion'=an influx of charity from the Lord . . .

6777. 'They filled the troughs' (ver.16)=that thence they enriched the doctrine of charity. 'Troughs'=the doctrine of charity. Ex.

6779^e. ('The shepherds')=those who oppose the doctrine of charity.

6806. 'And God knew [the Sons of Israel]' (ver.25)=that He endowed the Church with charity. Ex.

6820. Charity is to be exercised towards a society in the same way as towards an individual man, that is, according to the quality of its good . . .

6822. Charity is exercised when, by the truth of the Church, the neighbour is led to good . . .

6934^e. Unless a man procures for himself the necessities of life, he cannot be in a state to exercise charity towards the neighbour.

7038. To serve the Lord is to perform uses, because true worship consists in the performance of uses, thus in the exercises of charity. Ex.

7131^e. Charity is a spiritual affection which for the most part cannot be expressed in words, except its most general things . . .

7162^e. The essentials of the Spiritual Church which is signified by the Sons of Israel, are charity and faith.

7197². Heaven is given to everyone in the other life according to those things which are of charity and faith with him, for charity and faith make Heaven with everyone; but when it is said that charity and faith make Heaven, it is meant that the life of charity and faith does . . .

7258. Charity is not the same with two persons.

7263. By the externals of charity the simple are initiated into its interiors.

7317². After some time (passed in the other life) they begin to know that none are admitted into Heaven except those who have lived the life of faith, thus who have had charity towards the neighbour, and then they begin to despise the doctrinal things of their faith, and also faith itself . . . and thereupon they cast themselves into falsities contrary to the truths of faith: into this state is turned the life of those who have confessed faith, and have lived a life contrary to faith. These are they who in the other life infest the upright by falsities, thus who are specifically meant by 'Pharaoh.'

7474. They who are in the affection of charity cannot be so infested . . .

7490. In proportion as a man is in the loves of self and of the world, he does not know what charity is, and at last does not know that it exists.

7623. (Good and truth) are what are called in the Church charity and faith. 7753.

7754. For the production of anything there must be two forces, one called active and the other passive . . . Such forces or lives are charity and faith in the man of the Church.

7757. The conjunction of the good of charity with the truth of faith takes place in the interiors of man; the good itself which flows in from the Lord adopts the truth there, and appropriates it to itself, and thus causes that with man good is good and truth truth, or that charity is charity and faith faith; without this conjunction charity is not charity, but only natural goodness, and faith is not faith, but only the knowledge of the things of faith, and sometimes a persuasion that it is so, for the sake of gain or honours.

7758. Faith, when conjoined with charity, is no longer called faith, but charity.

7950². All spiritual light comes through good from the Lord, thus through charity . . .

8013². Before regeneration, the life is according to the precepts of faith, but after regeneration it is according to the precepts of charity. Before regeneration, no one knows what charity is from affection, but only from doctrine.

8033. Charity is an internal affection, which consists in this, that from the heart one wills to do what is good to the neighbour, and that this is the delight of one's life; and this without recompense. 9174¹. Refs.

8035. They who are in the genuine affection of charity and faith believe that they will nothing of good from themselves, and understand nothing of truth from themselves . . .

8037. They who have the love of self or the love of the world as an end cannot be in charity and faith at all; they who are in these loves do not even know what charity and what faith are . . . 8462^e.

[A.] 8043. 'The opening of every womb' (Ex.xiii.2)= the things which are from charity; (for) 'the openings of the womb'=that which is immediately born from a regenerate man, thus from charity.

8094. When (the man who is in the evil of life) thinks about faith and charity, which are the essentials of the Church and of salvation, faith at once presents itself to him, but not charity, because this is opposed to evil of life; hence he removes charity, and chooses only faith.

8120. It is believed that charity towards the neighbour is to give to the poor . . . and to do good to everyone; but genuine charity is to act prudently, and to the end that good may result: whoever renders aid to a poor or needy evil-doer, through him does evil to the neighbour, for by the aid which he renders, he confirms him in evil, and supplies him with the means of doing evil to others: it is otherwise with him who renders assistance to the good.

8121. But charity towards the neighbour extends itself much further than the poor and needy: charity towards the neighbour is to do what is right in every work, and to do our duty in every office. Examps.

8122. He who does his duty because it is his duty, and what is just because it is just, exercises charity.

8124. He who is in charity towards the neighbour from an internal affection, is charity towards the neighbour in every single thing which he thinks and speaks, and which he wills and does . . .

8152. The good of faith or charity is the essential, thus in the first place, with those who are of the genuine Spiritual Church.

— Hence it is evident that the Lord's Church is not here or there, but that it is everywhere . . . where men live according to the precepts of charity . . .

8159⁴. By (temptations) charity becomes the charity of faith, and faith the faith of charity.

8206^o. No one can be withheld from evil, and kept in good, unless, by the exercise of charity in the world, he has received that capacity.

8252. The life of piety without the life of charity is of no avail . . . H.360³. 535^o.

8253. The life of charity is to will well and to do well to the neighbour; in every work to act from what is just and fair, and from what is good and true; in like manner in every employment; in a word, the life of charity consists in the performance of uses.

8254. The very worship of the Lord itself consists in the life of charity, but not in the life of piety without it . . .

8256. A man is also such as is his life of charity, but not such as is his life of piety without it: hence the life of charity remains in man to eternity, but not a life of piety, except in so far as it is in accord with the life of charity. Sig.

8321². None are in the capacity of receiving the truth of good and the good of truth but they who have lived a life of charity; this life gives that capacity . . . Faith without charity is hard and unyielding, and rejects all the influx from the Lord; but charity with faith is yielding and soft, and receives the influx; hence it is that charity gives that capacity, but not faith without charity; and as charity gives that capacity, it is also what saves, for they who saved are not saved by charity from themselves, but by charity from the Lord, consequently, by the capacity of receiving it. 8452.

8330². See SPIRITUAL KINGDOM at these refs. 8945.

8516². Everyone ought to be led to Christian good, which is called charity, by the truth of faith; for the truth of faith ought to teach, not only what charity is, but also what its quality must be. Ex.

8622. Genii . . . do not flow into the things of faith, but into the affections which are of the will, thus into those things which are of charity; and this so secretly that there never appears the slightest sign that it is from them . . .

8700³. It is according to order, that faith and charity be implanted in freedom . . .

8734. The conjunction of minds, which is charity or mutual love (consists in this), that the mind of the one presents itself in the mind of the other with all the good of his thought and will towards him, and thus affects him.

8746^o. The life of faith is charity.

8772². In the interior man there is good which continually flows in from the Lord, and there conjoins itself with truths, and causes them to be faith, and afterwards causes them to be charity.

8856. When a man is being regenerated, charity is implanted through faith, until it becomes dominant, and when charity becomes dominant he has new life, for it is then constantly present in his thought and will . . .

8902. 'Thou shalt not commit murder'=not to take away spiritual life from anyone, also not to extinguish faith and charity, and also not to hate the neighbour . . . for hatred is from evil, and is contrary to charity.

8979². The man of the internal Church acts from charity, thus from the affection which is of love towards the neighbour; but the man of the external Church does not act from the good of charity, but from the truth of faith . . . thus from obedience.

8981³. While they are in anxiety, misfortunes, etc. . . the affection of doing good from charity flows in, but this affection serves only to confirm and inroot more deeply the truths of doctrine; it cannot, however, be conjoined with truth; the reason is, that this affection of charity when flowing in, fills only the Intellectual of the mind, but does not enter into its Voluntary, and that which does not enter the Voluntary is not appropriated . . .

8991^o. They who during their life in the world have done good only from obedience, and not from charity, remain such to eternity; they are indeed perfected as to obedience, but do not attain to anything of charity.

9057². By these words (in the parable of the Samaritan) charity towards the neighbour is described naturally for man in the world, and spiritually for the Angels in Heaven . . .

9103. Interior good is what is called charity in the interior man, and exterior good is charity in the exterior; the latter good lives from the former; for the good of charity in the interior man is the good of spiritual life; and the good of charity in the exterior, is the good of natural life thence derived . . .

9154². By faith is here meant the faith of truth, and by charity, the life of good.

9174³. It is charity to give to the good, and not charity to give to the evil what they ask for. Sig.

9193^o. The life of faith is to do the commandments from obedience, and the life of charity is to do them from love.

9209². They who (do good to all who are in need, especially to beggars) from obedience, because it is so commanded, do well, for by this external they are initiated into the internal of charity and mercy; (which) is clearly to discern who and what they are that are to be done good to, and how it is to be done. They who are at last initiated into the internal of charity and mercy know that the internal itself is to will and do good to the internal man . . . and that the external is to do good to the external man . . . but this always with prudence, so that while they benefit the external man they at the same time benefit the internal. . . The external of charity is what is described in the literal sense of the Word by doing good to the poor and needy; but the internal of charity is what is described in the internal sense of the Word. Ex.

9210. 'Thou shalt not be as a usurer' (Ex.xxii.25)= that he shall do it from charity.

—². To do truth for the sake of truth is to do good . . . To do good thus is Christian charity . . .

9224². (The dispute whether faith or charity is the first-born. Ex.)

9276^o. They constitute the lungs in the Grand Man, who, from the Lord, are in charity towards the neighbour, and thence in faith . . .

9783. Faith is the form of charity, or charity formed.

9870. The spiritual love of good is charity towards the neighbour, and the spiritual love of truth is faith from charity.

10336^o. Hence it is evident that love towards the neighbour, which is called charity, has in it love to the Lord . . .

10485. Whether you say charity towards the neighbour, or truth from good, it is the same, since they who are in charity are in the life of truth, and the life of truth, that is, to live according to Divine truths, is charity.

H. 23. Celestial love is love to the Lord, and spiritual love is charity towards the neighbour.

360². The exercises of charity, and the increase of that life thereby, can be given in proportion as a man is in business, and cannot be given in proportion as he removes himself therefrom. 535^o.

364². Charity is all that is of life, and faith is all that is of doctrine; thus charity is to will and do what is just and right in every work, and faith is to think justly and rightly; and faith and charity conjoin themselves as do doctrine and a life according thereto, or as thought and will; and faith becomes charity when that which a man thinks justly and rightly he also wills and does; and when this takes place, they are not two, but one.

N. 106. (Refs. to passages on the subject of charity.) J. 39⁸.

—². To know truths, to will truths, and to be affected with truths, for the sake of truths, that is, because they are truths, is charity. Refs.

— . Charity consists in the internal affection of doing truth, and not in the external affection without the internal one. Refs.

— . Thus charity consists in performing uses for the sake of uses. Refs.

— . Charity is the spiritual life of man.

—⁶. The Lord with Divine truth inflows into charity, because into the very life of man.

— . Man recedes from wisdom in proportion as he recedes from charity; and they are in ignorance of Divine truths who are not in charity, however wise they may consider themselves. Refs.

—⁷. All spiritual truths look to charity as their beginning and end.

—⁸. Within charity there is love to the Lord, thus the Lord, although man does not know it. Refs.

—⁹. They who are not in charity cannot acknowledge and worship the Lord, except from hypocrisy. Refs.

108. No one can know what faith is in its essence, unless he knows what charity is, for where there is not charity there is not faith, for charity makes one with faith, as good does with truth . . .

109. The union between charity and faith is like that between the will and the understanding. Ex.

110. Charity conjoins itself with faith with man when the man wills that which he knows and perceives; to will is of charity, and to know and perceive of faith.

J. 33. It is the end of the Church when there is no faith because there is no charity. Gen.art.

36^o. Charity or love is to will and to do.

38. Where there is no charity there is no spiritual good, for that good is solely from charity. . . With some there is still good, but it cannot be called spiritual good, but natural good, because Divine truths are in darkness, and Divine truths introduce to charity, for they teach it and regard it as the end in view; hence charity can only come into existence in proportion as there are truths from which it can come into existence.

C. J. 20. In the central region (of the World of Spirits) there are none but those who have lived the life of charity and its faith: there are many Societies of them.

21^o. Spiritual love is implanted solely by the life of charity, and natural love remains natural if the life of charity is neglected; and natural love, if not subjected to spiritual love, is opposite to it.

W. H. 8². The doctrine of charity is rejected in the science which is called moral theology.

Life 108. There are moral men who keep the commandments of the second table of the decalogue . . . these also exercise charity, sincerity, justice, and chastity. But if they do these goods and shun these evils only because they are evils, and not at the same time because they are sins, they are still merely natural . . . wherefore the goods which they do are not goods, because they are from themselves.

[Life] 114. Christian charity exists with everyone as he does his work faithfully ; for thus, if he shuns evils as sins, he does goods daily, and is himself his own use in the common body . . . All other things are not the proper works of charity, but are either its signs, its benefactions, or its debts.

F. 13. That the internal acknowledgment of truth, which is faith, is possible only with those who are in charity. Gen.art.

— Charity in its first origin is the affection of good, and as good loves truth, it produces the affection of truth, and through this, the acknowledgment of truth, which is faith ; through these in their series the affection of truth comes into manifestation and becomes charity. This is the progression of charity from its first origin, which is the affection of good, through faith which is the acknowledgment of truth, to its end which is charity ; the end is act. Hence it is evident how love, which is the affection of good, produces faith, which is the same as the acknowledgment of truth, and through this produces charity, which is the same as the act of love through faith.

14. More clearly ; good is nothing but use, wherefore charity in its first origin is the affection of use, and as use loves means, it produces the affection of the means, from which comes the Knowledge of them, and through these in their series the affection of use comes into manifestation and becomes charity.

15. (Charity and faith are like affection and thought ; neither can exist without the other. Ex.) T.336.

17. From what has been said it is evident that charity, so far as it is the affection of good or of use, produces faith as the means by which it may come into manifestation ; consequently, that charity and faith, in operating uses, act conjointly : also that faith does not produce good or use from itself, but from charity, for faith is mediate charity : therefore it is a fallacy that faith produces good as a tree produces fruit ; the tree is not faith, but is man.

18. Charity and faith make one as the will and understanding do, for charity is of the will and faith is of the understanding. In like manner charity and faith make one as affection and thought do, for affection is of the will and thought is of the understanding. In like manner charity and faith make one as good and truth do, for good is of the affection which is of the will, and truth is of the thought which is of the understanding.

—². In a word, charity and faith make one as essence and form do, for the essence of faith is charity, and the form of charity is faith ; from which it is evident that faith without charity is like form without essence, which is not anything, and that charity without faith is like essence without form, which also is not anything.

19. Charity and faith with man are circumstanced just as is the motion of the heart which is called systole and diastole, and the motion of the lungs which is called breathing . . . from which it is evident that faith is not possible without charity, nor charity without faith, and that faith without charity is like pulmonary breathing without a heart . . . and that charity without faith is like a heart without lungs . . . consequently, that charity through faith operates uses, as the heart through the lungs operates acts. . . In the Spiritual World the quality of everyone as to faith is known from his mere breathing, and his quality as to charity from the pulsation of his heart.

22. Love to the Lord is properly love, and love towards the neighbour is charity : love to the Lord is not possible with man except in charity ; in this the Lord conjoins Himself with man. As faith in its essence is charity, it follows that no one can have faith in the Lord unless he is in charity ; from this, through faith, there is conjunction ; through charity the conjunction of the Lord with man, and through faith the conjunction of man with the Lord.

23. In proportion as anyone shuns evils as sins, and looks to the Lord, he is in charity, thus in the same proportion he is in faith.

25. The Knowledges of truth and good are not of faith before man is in charity, but they are the storehouse, out of which the faith of charity may be formed. Gen.art. 31.

29. Charity cannot come forth where there are mere falsities, for charity and faith make one as good and truth do.

—^e. Such as is the faith from charity with a man, such is the intelligence.

31. In the first state, before charity is perceived, it appears to the man as though faith were in the first place, and charity in the second ; but in the second state, when charity is perceived, faith takes the second place, and charity the first ; the first state is called reformation, and the second, regeneration.

—^e. From this it is evident that everything of faith is from charity, and nothing of it from itself ; also that charity produces faith, and not faith charity . . .

32. How faith is formed from charity. Ex.

43. With him who was in faith not separated from charity, the Angel thus spake. Friend, who art thou ? He answered, I am a Reformed Christian. What is thy doctrine and thence religion ? He answered, Faith and charity. Are these two ? He answered, They cannot be separated. What is faith ? He answered, to believe what the Word teaches. What is charity ? He answered, To do what the Word teaches. Hast thou only believed these things, or hast thou also done them ? He answered, I have also done them. The Angel then looked at him and said, My friend, come with me, and dwell with us. T.391^e.

W. 209^e. Charity and faith, etc. have no existence out of subjects, which are substances ; but are states of the subjects or substances.

214. In a series of the like degrees are charity, faith, and good work ; for charity is of affection, faith is of thought, and good work is of action.

216. Unless charity and faith . . . implant and invest themselves in works or deeds whenever they can, they are no better than airy things which pass away . . . they first abide with a man and become of his life, when he operates and does them. The reason is that the ultimate is the complex, containant, and basis of the prior things. Such an airy nothing . . . is faith separated from good works, and such an airy nothing also are faith and charity without their exercise; with the sole difference, that those who profess faith and charity know what good works are and can will to do them, but not those who are in faith separated from charity.

220^e. Everything of charity and faith is in uses and according to them.

253. The spiritual degree is not opened, but still is not closed, with those who have led some life of charity, and yet have known little of genuine truth. Ex.

—³. Charity is all the work of his calling which a man does from the Lord; he does it from the Lord when he shuns evils as sins. It is exactly as was said; the end is everything of the cause, and the effect is everything of the end through the cause: the end is charity or good, the cause is faith or truth, and the effects are good works or uses. From this it is evident that no more of charity can be carried into works than is conjoined with the truths of faith. Through these truths charity enters into works, and qualifies them.

316². There is a like progression . . . of charity through faith into works . . .

427. It is the same with charity and faith, and with their conjunction, as it is with the will and understanding, and their conjunction. Gen.art.

428. When charity is mentioned, they understand to do the truth.

431. To do uses (with the Angels) is to act sincerely, rightly, justly, and faithfully in the work proper to the calling of each; this they call charity; and acts of adoration in worship they call signs of charity, and the rest they call debts and benefactions . . .

P. 259³. There are three essentials of the Church; the acknowledgment of the Divine of the Lord, the acknowledgment of the holiness of the Word, and the life which is called charity. According to the life which is charity everyone has faith . . .

R. 5^e. Charity through faith operates good, and not charity by itself, nor faith by itself.

32. All are as blood relations through charity, and as connections through faith; for charity conjoins, but not so faith, unless it is from charity: when faith is from charity, then charity conjoins, and faith consociates.

82. 'Thou hast left thy first charity' (Rev.ii.4)=that they have not goods of life in the first place, as they are at the beginning of every Church. E.104.

85. The spiritual mind is opened by means of charity, and when it is opened, there inflows light and the affection of understanding truths out of Heaven from the Lord; hence comes enlightenment.

128. 'And charity and ministry' (ver.19)=the spiritual affection which is called charity, and its operation. The reason charity=spiritual affection, is that charity is love towards the neighbour, and love towards the neighbour is that affection. The reason 'ministry'=its operation, is that those are called 'ministers' in the Word who operate those things which are of charity . . . E.154.

130. 'And the last to be more than the first' (id.)=the increase of these things from the spiritual affection which is of charity. . . These things receive increase when charity is in the first place and faith in the second, for charity is the spiritual affection of doing what is good, and from that it is the spiritual affection of knowing what is true, for good loves truth as meat loves drink, for it wants to be nourished, and it is nourished by truths; hence it is that those who are in genuine charity receive constant increases of truth.

141. 'I will give to everyone according to his works' (ver.23)=that the Lord will give to everyone according to charity and its faith, which are in works. Works are the containants of charity and faith, and charity and faith without works are only like images in the air, which vanish as soon as they have made their appearance.

153¹¹. Such is the lot of those who have removed the life of charity, and thence have not lived it in the world. Fully Des.

224⁵. Charity is to act well with the neighbour, and faith is to think well about God and the essentials of the Church.

278. 'The prayers of the saints' (Rev.v.8)=the thoughts which are of faith from the affections which are of charity with those who worship the Lord from spiritual goods and truths.

306. 'To him who sat (on the red horse) it was given to take peace from the earth' (Rev.vi.4)=charity, spiritual security, and internal rest taken away.

325². All who have led some life of charity are guarded by the Lord, and after the Last Judgment . . . are raised into Heaven.

342. Pref. Those who are in charity and its faith from the Lord, treated of.

356. 'Of the tribe of Simeon were sealed twelve thousand' (Rev.vii.7)=spiritual love, which is love towards the neighbour or charity with those who will be of the New Heaven and New Church of the Lord. By 'Simeon,' in the supreme sense, is signified Providence; in the spiritual sense, love towards the neighbour or charity; and in the natural sense, obedience or hearing. . . In this series (of the tribes) those who are in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom are treated of; the love of these is called spiritual love, which is love towards the neighbour, and is also called charity.

386. I heard as it were the grating of teeth, a beating noise, and a hoarse sound intermingled . . . They were sharply debating about faith and charity; one side maintaining that faith was the Principal of the Church, and the other that charity was. (The former) said, Have we not to do with God by faith, and with men by charity? is not faith therefore heavenly, and charity earthly? are we not saved by what is heavenly, and not by what is earthly? Again; cannot God give faith from Heaven because it is heavenly? and must not man give himself charity because it is earthly? . . . But they who made charity the Principal of the Church . . . said that charity saves and not faith . . . is it not God who enables men to do the things of charity? is it not absurd to say that charity is earthly? charity is heavenly, and because you do not do the good of charity, your faith is earthly. . . . Then arose . . . a syncretist . . . and said, You are all wrong; it is true that faith is spiritual and charity moral, but still they are conjoined . . . without man's knowledge . . . man may receive faith from God which is spiritual, but he cannot be moved by God to charity which is spiritual except as a pillar of salt. . . . The debate heard as the grating of teeth was from those who were in faith alone, that heard as a beating noise was from those who were in charity alone, and the hoarse sound intermingled was from the syncretist. The reason the sound of them was thus heard at a distance, was that in the world they had all spent their time in disputation, and did not shun any evil. . . . Moreover they were all quite ignorant that everything of faith is truth, and everything of charity good, that truth without good is not truth in spirit, and that good without truth is not good in spirit, and that thus the one makes the other. T.460.

[R.] 387. Love towards the neighbour is now called charity, and intelligence is called faith.

405. All are reformed through faith united to charity, thus through the faith of charity, and not anyone through faith alone, for charity is the life of faith.

417. The flock of sheep consisted of those who had believed that charity and faith are one.

—7. They said, You speak falsehoods against them, do they not preach charity and its works, which they call the works of faith? He replied, You do not understand their preaching; only a clergyman attends to and understands it; they think only of moral charity. Fully Ex. T.506.

655⁴. The emissary said, Both you and we make faith and charity the essentials of religion; the only difference is, that you call charity the primary and faith the derivative, and we say that faith is the primary and charity the derivative; what does it matter which is called the primary if only both are believed in? The wise man of the city replied. . . . The difference between them is the same as between prior and posterior, between cause and effect, between the principal and the instrumental, and between the essential and the formal. . . . To speak in plain terms, the difference is the same as between what is above and what is below; nay, as between Heaven and Hell. (For) charity is the affection of the love of doing what is good to our neighbour for the sake of God, salvation, and eternal life; and faith is thought from trust concerning God, salvation, and eternal life. . . . Is not affection the primary and thought the derivative? . . . therefore if you assign to faith the first place you will appear in Heaven like an inverted man. . . . and then what is the quality of your good works, which are charity, except such as a mountebank would perform with his feet? . . . Hence it is that your charity, being inverted, is natural and not spiritual. . . . When faith is taken as the primary it is merely natural, and is mere knowledge devoid of all spiritual life, consequently is not faith; for your charity is nothing but natural affection, and from natural affection no thought proceeds but such as is natural, which is your faith. . . . On hearing this the dragonist went off in a rage. T.388.

662. 'They sang the Song of Moses the servant of God and the Song of the Lamb' (Rev. xv. 3)=confession from charity, thus from life according to the precepts of the decalogue, and from faith concerning the Divinity of the Lord's Human.

832². Love and charity cannot be formed except by truths from the Word. . . .

875³. The novitiate Spirit . . . asked, Is it the same with charity and faith (as with affection and thought)? The Angel replied, It is the very same; faith is nothing but the form of charity, just as speech is the form of sound; faith is also formed by charity as speech is formed by sound. . . . By faith I mean spiritual faith, the spirit and life of which are solely from charity, for this is spiritual, and through it so is faith; wherefore faith without charity is merely natural faith, and this faith is dead faith, for it conjoins itself with merely natural affection, which is nothing but concupiscence. . . . Retain this, and when you come from natural light into spiritual light, as takes place after death, inquire what faith and charity are, and you will clearly see that faith is charity in form, and thus that charity is everything of faith, consequently that it is the soul, the life, and the essence of faith, just as affection is of thought, and sound of speech; and if you desire it you will see the formation of faith from charity like that of speech from sound, because they correspond.

—7. It is the same with charity, faith, and works (as it is with love, wisdom, and use): charity without faith is not anything, neither is faith without charity, neither are charity and faith without works; but in works they become something. . . . I then asked him, Cannot a man have charity and faith, and yet not have works? may he not be in affection and thought about something, and yet not in the doing of it? The angelic Spirit said to me, He cannot, except merely ideally, and not really. . . .

—14. If the mind is charity the action also is charity; but if the mind is faith alone, which also is faith separated from spiritual charity, the action also is that faith, and this faith is meritorious, because its charity is natural and not spiritual; not so the faith of charity, because charity does not want to have merit, and therefore neither does its faith.

—16. The angelic Spirit said to me, If you want to see clearly what faith and charity are, thus what is faith separated from charity, and what is faith conjoined with charity, I will show you before your very eyes. . . . Instead of faith and charity, think of light and heat, and you will see it clearly; for faith in its essence is the truth which is of wisdom, and charity in its essence is the affection which is of love, and the truth of wisdom in Heaven is light, and the affection of love heat. . . . B.115. T.385.

891. 'The fearful' (Rev. xxi. 8)=those who are in no faith; 'the faithless'=those who are in no charity towards the neighbour, for they are insincere and fraudulent, thus faithless.

926. The prelates were teaching. . . . that works are good, but not for salvation, and that still they are to be taught from the Word, in order that the laity. . . . may be forced, as if from religion . . . to exercise moral charity.

M. 10⁷. Charity is love . . .

233². To live well is charity, and to believe well is faith; does not he that lives well also believe well? and consequently is not faith of charity, and charity of faith?

426. The spiritual man is what we are introduced into through the love of doing uses, which love is also called charity; wherefore in proportion as anyone is in this he is spiritual, but in proportion as he is not in this he is natural . . .

—². Whoever is devoid of charity gives the rein to all the lasciviousnesses of scortatory love.

B. 5. (The Council of Trent on charity, etc.)

19. That the Roman Catholics before the Reformation held exactly the same things as the Reformed did after it, in respect to these four articles . . . with the sole difference, that they conjoined that faith with charity or good works.

21. That the leading Reformers retained all these tenets . . . just as they had been among the Roman Catholics, but that they separated charity or good works from that faith . . . in order to be torn asunder from the Roman Catholics as to the very essentials of the Church, which are faith and charity.

47. That the faith of the present Church cannot be conjoined with charity . . .

48. From the conjunction of good and truth comes forth the affection of good, which in its essence is charity, and the affection of truth, which in its essence is faith, and these two united together make a marriage, from which good works are born, as fruits from a tree.

50. The reason charity cannot be conjoined with the faith of the present Church, and thus good work cannot be born from any marriage, is that imputation supplies everything . . . and in this case what is charity . . . but something superfluous and vain . . . Besides, faith founded on the idea of three gods is erroneous, and charity which is really charity cannot be conjoined with erroneous faith. It is believed that there is no bond of that faith with charity for two reasons; the one is that they make faith spiritual and charity natural moral, and suppose that no conjunction is possible of what is spiritual with what is natural; the other is, lest anything of man . . . should inflow into their faith, which alone is saving. Moreover, no bond of charity is possible with that faith, but it is with the new faith.

68. (The Formula Concordiæ on the doctrine that no bond of charity and faith is possible.)

—². It is an actual fact that any bond between charity and that faith is impossible, wherefore it may be said that it was of providence or predestination that the Reformers should cast out charity and good works from their faith so utterly and completely.

79. The exterior things (of the doctrine of faith alone) are precious sayings about charity, good works, acts of repentance, the exercises of the law; but these are accounted by them merely as slaves and drudges, which follow their mistress faith, without being permitted to come near her. But as they know that the laity regard these things as saving together with faith, they diligently subjoin them to their sermons and conversation, and pretend to conjoin and insert them into justification, merely to tickle the ears of the common people, and prevent their oracular sayings from appearing like riddles. T. 518.

108. The third reason (why the Roman Catholics can be introduced into the New Jerusalem more easily than the Reformed) is that with them, charity, good works, repentance, and the study of the new life, are essentials of salvation, and these too are essentials of the New Church; but it is not so with the Reformed who are confirmed in faith alone . . .

I. 20⁹. At last he said, As you have become a theologian, unfold your theology. I replied, These two things are the principles of it, GOD IS ONE, AND THERE IS A CONJUNCTION OF charity AND FAITH. To which he rejoined, Who denies these things? I replied, The theology of the present day when interiorly examined.

T. 38. Hence it is that in the Church there are two essentials which are called charity and faith, from which each and all things of it consist, and which must be in each and all things of it; the reason is that all the goods of the Church are of charity, and are called charity, and all its truths are of faith and are called faith . . . 336.

71². Hence it is a law of order that man must introduce himself into faith by means of truths from the Word, and into charity by means of goods.

74². Thus do man's acts become living and saving charity.

110⁷. This statue represents our faith as a queen, and the other behind it charity as her servant.

142. Faith is nothing but truth, and charity is nothing but goodness.

329. The reason why those things which are directly of love and charity are not commanded, but only that those things which are opposite to them are not to be done, is that in proportion as a man shuns evils as sins, he wills the goods which are of love and charity. —c, III.

336². Faith, by which is also meant truth, is the first as to time; but charity, by which is also meant good, is the first as to end; and that which is the first as to end is actually the first, because it is the primary, thus also the first-born; and that which is the first as to time is not actually the first, but only apparently. Examps.

340. Charity is to live well, and faith is to believe rightly.

— In proportion as man uses the power (given him by God), and at the same time looks to God, God strengthens him to cause all that which is of natural charity to become of spiritual charity, and all that which is of natural faith to become of spiritual faith; thus God makes dead charity and faith living.

355. Faith without charity is not faith, and charity without faith is not charity, and neither of them is alive except from the Lord. Gen.art.

357. That man can acquire charity for himself.

[T.] 358. That man can also acquire for himself the life of faith and of charity.

359. That still nothing of faith, and nothing of charity, and nothing of the life of either, is from man, but from the Lord alone . . . Man of himself can acquire no faith but natural faith, which is a persuasion that it is so because a man of authority has said so; and no charity but natural charity, which is a working for favour for the sake of some reward; in which two there is the proprium of man, and not life from the Lord; but still by both of these man prepares himself to be a receptacle of the Lord, and so far as he prepares himself the Lord enters, and causes his natural faith to become spiritual faith; in like manner his charity; and thus causes both to be alive; and these things take place when a man approaches the Lord as the God of Heaven and earth.

360. As no one has as yet known what the difference is between natural faith and charity and spiritual faith and charity, this great arcanum shall be unfolded. Fully Ex.

361. In proportion as faith and charity become spiritual with a man, he is withdrawn from proprium, and does not regard himself, reward, and recompense . . .

362. The Lord, charity, and faith make one, as the life, will, and understanding in man; and if they are divided, everyone of them perishes, like a pearl ground to powder. Gen.art.

365. That the Lord inflows with every man with the whole essence of faith and of charity.

— The life of the Divine wisdom is the essence of faith, and the life of the Divine love is the essence of charity; wherefore when the Lord is present with those things which are properly His, which are the Divine wisdom and the Divine love, He is also present with all the truths which are of faith, and with all the goods which are of charity; for by faith is meant all the truth which a man perceives, thinks, and speaks from the Lord, and by charity is meant all the good with which he is affected by the Lord, and which he thence wills and does.

367. That the man who divides the Lord, charity, and faith, is not a recipient form, but a destroying form.

— He who acknowledges the Lord, and separates charity, only acknowledges Him with the lips; the acknowledgment and confession of Him are only cold, in which there is not faith, for they lack the spiritual essence; for charity is the essence of faith. On the other hand, he who does charity, and does not acknowledge that the Lord is the God of Heaven and earth, one with the Father, does no charity but merely natural charity, in which there is not eternal life . . .

—². The reason faith separated from charity is not faith, is that faith is the light of man's life, and charity is the heat of his life; wherefore if charity is separated from faith, it is as when heat is separated from light. Real charity and faith can no more be separated than the will and understanding . . . To separate charity and faith is like separating essence from form . . . Charity too is the essence of faith, and faith is the form of charity . . . The separation of charity and faith also coincides with the separation of the blood and the flesh. . . . Charity and faith . . . can no more be separated than food and water, or bread and wine . . .

368. The Lord is charity and faith in man, and man is charity and faith in the Lord. Gen.art.

372. That this reciprocal conjunction of the Lord and man is through charity and faith.

—^e. The Lord is spiritual charity and faith in man's natural charity and faith, and man is natural charity and faith from the Lord's spiritual charity and faith, which when conjoined together, make charity and faith spiritual natural.

373. Charity and faith are together in good works. Gen.art.

374. That charity is to will well, and good works are to do well from willing well.

375. That charity and faith are only mental and vain things, unless, when it is possible, they are determined into works, and coexist in them. 376.

376². Hence it is evident that charity and faith are not charity and faith until they are together in works . . .

377. That charity alone does not produce good works, still less faith alone, but charity and faith together.

—². The conjunction of charity and faith is like the conjunction of husband and wife . . . from charity as a father and from faith as a mother are born all spiritual offspring, which are the Knowledges of good and truth.

— The truths of faith not only illumine charity, but also qualify it, and above all nourish it; wherefore the man who has charity and not the truths of faith, is like one walking in a garden in the night-time, who snatches fruits from the trees, but does not know whether they are for good use or evil use. . . . Charity without the truths of faith is like fruit without juice. (Other comparisons given.)

380. All the good and truth of the Church are propagated from the marriage of the Lord and the Church; thus everything that is essentially charity and everything that is essentially faith are from that marriage; and whatever relating to these two is not from that marriage is not from a lawful bed, thus is from either a polygamic or an adulterous one . . .

392. On charity or love towards the neighbour, and on good works. (A whole chapter on this subject.)

— It is the same with charity and faith as it is with good and truth, for charity is the complex of all the goods which a man does to the neighbour, and faith is the complex of all the truths which a man thinks concerning God and Divine things.

—². Wherefore the human mind in which charity is conjoined with faith, and faith with charity, is in the Word likened to 'a garden.'

393. It is an immovable truth that faith and charity cannot be separated . . .

394^e. Charity has something in common with (the three universal loves, which are the love of Heaven, the love of the world, and the love of self), because, regarded in itself, charity is the love of uses; for charity wills to do what is good to the neighbour, and good is the same as use; and each of these loves regards uses as its ends . . .

407. To love the neighbour is not only to love and do what is good to the neighbour, to a friend, and to a good man, but also to a stranger, an enemy, and an evil man; but charity is exercised towards the former and the latter in different ways, towards a neighbour and a friend by direct benefactions, towards an enemy and an evil man by indirect benefactions, which are effected by exhortations, discipline, and penalties, and thus amendments. Examps.

—^e. The wars which have as an end the protection of our country and the Church are not against charity; the end for which a thing is done declares whether it is charity or not.

408. Since therefore charity in its origin is to will well, and to will well resides in the internal man, it is evident that when anyone who has charity resists an enemy, punishes a guilty person, or chastises the evil, he does this by means of the external man; wherefore after he has effected it he returns into the charity which is in the internal man, and then so far as he is able, or so far as it is expedient, he wills well to him, and from willing well does well. In those in whom there is genuine charity there is zeal for what is good, and this zeal in the external man may seem like anger and flaming fire, but it goes out and is appeased as soon as the adversary repents. It is otherwise with those who have no charity, the zeal of these is anger and hatred. . . .

409. Before the Lord came into the world, scarcely anyone knew what the internal man is, and what charity is, wherefore the Lord in so many passages has taught love, that is, charity, and this makes the difference between the Old Testament or Covenant and the New.

413. As charity consists in willing well and thence in acting well, it follows that it is to be exercised in almost the same way towards a society as towards an individual man; but in a different way towards a society of the good from what it is towards a society of the evil; towards the latter, charity is to be exercised according to natural equity, but towards the former according to spiritual equity.

420. Charity and good works are two things as distinct as willing well and doing well. Gen.art.

421. If works proceed from the spiritual mind they proceed from its willing well, which is charity; but if they proceed from the natural mind they proceed from a willing well which is not charity, although it may appear as charity in the external form. . . . If it be for the sake of self and the world it is spurious charity; but if for the sake of the neighbour it is genuine charity.

422. Charity itself is to act justly and faithfully in the office, business, and work in which a man is, and with those with whom he has anything to do. Gen.art.

423. This is charity itself, because charity may be defined as doing what is good to the neighbour daily and continually, not only to the neighbour individually, but also to the neighbour collectively, and this cannot be done except through what is good and just in the office, business, and work in which a man is, and in his relations with those with whom he has anything to do. . . . The man who thus exercises charity becomes more and more charity in form; for justice and fidelity form his mind, and the exercise of them his body. . . .

—^e. Only he who worships the Lord, and acts from Him at the same time as he acts from himself, attains to spiritual charity and imbues it by exercise.

424. There are many who act justly and faithfully in their employment, who although they thus perform works of charity, still do not possess any charity in themselves; but these are they in whom there predominates the love of self and of the world, and not the love of Heaven. . . .

425. The benefactions of charity are to give to the poor and to render aid to the needy, but with prudence. Gen.art.

— . A distinction is to be made between the duties of charity and its benefactions; by the duties of charity are meant the exercises of charity which proceed immediately from charity itself, and which primarily belong to the employment in which a man is; but by the benefactions are meant those aids which lie beyond it. (See BENEFACTION.) It is a general belief that charity is nothing but giving to the poor, taking care of widows and orphans, building hospitals, etc.; but many of these benefactions are not proper to charity, but are extraneous to it. 459.

—^e. Genuine charity proceeds from those who have imbued it by justice and judgment in the works which they do without any end of recompense; according to the words of the Lord in Luke xiv. 12-14.

426^c. See BEGGAR at this ref.

429. There are obligations of charity; some public, some domestic, and some private. Gen.art.

— . The benefactions of charity and the obligations of charity are as distinct from each other as are those things which take place of free-will, and those which do so of necessity. By the obligations of charity however are not meant the obligations of employments. . . .

430. Public obligations of charity are especially contributions and taxes. . . . the spiritual pay them from good will. . . .

431. The domestic obligations of charity are those of a husband towards his wife, and of a wife towards her husband; of a father and mother towards the children, and of the children towards their father and mother; of a master and mistress towards the servants, and of the latter towards the former. . . .

—³. With parents who are in charity, parental love is conjoined with love towards the neighbour and with love to God; for by these parents the children are loved according to their manners, virtues, studies, and qualifications for serving the public; but with those who are not in charity, there is no conjunction of charity with the love called storge, wherefore many of these love bad, unmannered, and cunning ones better than good, well-mannered, and sagacious ones; thus those who are useless to the public better than those who are useful.

432. The private obligations of charity are also many, as paying wages to workmen, paying the interest of money, observing agreements, keeping pledges. . . .

433. The diversions of charity are dinners, suppers, and social intercourse. Gen.art.

—². There is not as yet any social intercourse of charity, for the Lord says, 'In the consummation of the age . . . iniquity shall be multiplied, and charity shall grow cold' (Matt.xxiv.12); the reason is that the Church has not yet acknowledged the Lord God the Saviour as the God of Heaven and earth, and approached Him immediately from Whom alone genuine charity proceeds and flows in.

[T.] 435. The first of charity is to put away evils, and the second of it is to do goods which are of use to the neighbour. Gen.art.

437. It is now believed that charity is merely to do what is good, and that then one does no evil, consequently that the first of charity is to do what is good, and the second of it is not to do evil ; but it is just the other way about . . .

439. In the exercises of charity a man does not place merit in works so long as he believes that all good is from the Lord. Gen.art.

442. It is to be well known that charity and faith in the Lord are closely conjoined together ; hence such as the faith is such is the charity . . . and such as the faith and charity are together, such are the works.

—². In this state a man does the exercises of charity without fear of merit, and at last he perceives the spiritual delight of charity, and then begins to be averse to merit as hurtful to his life. Merit is easily wiped away by the Lord from those who imbue charity by acting justly and faithfully in the work, business, and office in which they are, and with those with whom they have anything to do ; but merit is with difficulty taken away from those who believe that charity is procured by almsgiving and rendering aid to the needy . . .

443. Moral life, when it is at the same time spiritual, is charity. Gen.art.

444. The exercises of moral life and of charity are the same ; for charity is to will well to the neighbour, and thence to act well with him ; and this too belongs to moral life . . .

445. From outward moral life everyone may comprehend, if he will, what is the nature of charity ; only transcribe outward moral life . . . into the internal man . . . and you will then see charity in its type.

450. There are spurious charity, hypocritical charity, and dead charity. Gen.art.

— . Genuine charity which is alive does not exist unless it makes one with faith, and unless both conjointly look to the Lord ; for these three, the Lord, charity, and faith, are the three essentials of salvation, and when they make one, charity is charity, and faith is faith, and the Lord is in them and they are in the Lord. But when these three are not conjoined together, charity is either spurious, or hypocritical, or dead . . . As concerns charity in particular, it can be adjoined to any heretical faith ; as to the faith of Socinians, to the faith of enthusiasts, to the faith of Jews, yea to the faith of idolaters, and by all of them it may be believed to be charity, because in its outward form it appears like it ; but still it changes its quality according to the faith to which it is adjoined . . . 654.

451. All charity which is not conjoined with faith in one God, in Whom there is the Divine Trinity, is spurious ; as is the charity of the present Church, whose faith is in three persons of the same divinity in successive order . . . thus in three gods ; to which faith charity can be adjoined . . . but never conjoined ; and charity merely adjoined to faith is merely natural and not spiritual, wherefore it is spurious charity. It is the same with the charity of many other heresies, as that of those who deny the Divine Trinity, and therefore approach only God the Father . . . It is called spurious, because it is like offspring from an unlawful bed . . . Such charity is like fruit not growing on a tree, but pinned to it . . . 457.

452. Hypocritical charity exists with those who in churches and at home humble themselves before God almost to the floor . . . and yet in their hearts meditate the worship of self. Ill.

453. Dead charity exists with those who have dead faith, since such as the faith is such is the charity . . .

—^e. But the charity of those who believe there is no God, or have nature for God, is neither spurious, hypocritical, nor dead ; but is none at all . . .

455^a. (The nature of charity shown by its opposite.)

457³. The reason conjunction is effected by charity, is that God loves every man, and as He cannot do good to men immediately, but only mediately through other men, He inspires into them His own love . . .

459. (A discussion in the Spiritual World on the subject of charity, and various opinions as to what it is, fully stated.)

—¹³. I stretched forth my hand . . . and said, My verdict is that charity is to act from the love of justice with judgment in every work and office, but from love derived from no other source than the Lord God the Saviour . . . Charity is spiritual in its origin, and natural in its derivation ; and natural charity, if it is spiritual within, appears before the Angels transparent like a diamond ; but if it is not spiritual within . . . it appears before the Angels like a pearl which resembles the eye of a boiled fish. Examps.

503⁵. We have removed charity from everything spiritual, and have made it merely moral.

518. They can utter many holy things about repentance and charity . . . but by charity they mean only forensic charity.

535. This repentance is done by those who do the works of charity from religion. Gen.art.

—^e. My friend, the Primary of charity is to shun evils . . .

536². The rest, who have not exercised charity from religion have hearts as hard as adamant. Their lot.

537. Those who do the goods of charity from religion . . . before they have received the doctrine of the New Church concerning the Lord, may be likened to trees which bear good fruits although few. Other comparisons given.

568⁴. Saving faith is in the internal man, so also is charity . . .

571. He then acts from charity, and speaks from faith . . .

576. That the new generation or creation is effected by the Lord alone through charity and faith as the two media, the man co-operating. Gen.art.

—². As to charity and faith, the Lord acts and the man acts from the Lord, for there is the active of the Lord in the passive of the man . . .

580². Into the ultimate Heaven come they who only work outward charity, and at the same time acknowledge the Lord as God the Redeemer and Saviour.

592. The internal man is charity, because this is of the will . . .

618. Regeneration is not possible without truths, through which faith is formed, and with which charity conjoins itself. Gen.art.

—². Charity sends a heat forth from itself with which the light of truth conjoins itself.

619⁴. The third sphere is that of the conjunction of faith and charity, which is so strong that it cannot be resisted, but at this day is wicked and infects as with a pestilence whomsoever it breathes on, and bursts asunder the bond between these two means of salvation . . .

647^e. The former Church adjoins charity to faith as an appendix, but not as saving, and thus makes religion; but the New Church conjoins faith in the Lord and charity towards the neighbour as two inseparable things, and thus makes religion.

656. With those who believe in three gods . . . charity conjoins itself with faith alone in the external natural man. Ex.

712. It is known that the essentials of the Church are three, namely, God, charity, and faith, and that all things of it relate to these three as to their universals . . . What is charity but the good which a man does from the Lord, and what is faith but the truth which he believes from the Lord?

722. Those approach the Holy Supper worthily who are in faith in the Lord and in charity towards the neighbour, thus who are regenerate. Gen.art.

—². That after the acknowledgment of God, charity is the second means which causes a man to approach worthily, III.

767. The man who is in faith in the Lord and in charity towards the neighbour is a Church in particular, and the Church in general is composed of such.

796⁵. Before Luther entered on the work of the Reformation, he had imbued the dogma of the pre-eminence of charity; wherefore also in both his writings and sermons he gave such excellent instruction about charity; the consequence was that with him the faith of justification was implanted in his external natural man, but not rooted in his internal spiritual man. But it is otherwise with those who in their youth confirm themselves against the spirituality of charity . . .

797². (When Melancthon entered the Spiritual World he wrote nothing about charity, wherefore the Angels asked him the reason. He answered that in charity there is nothing of the Church. The Angels then departed from him, and all the furniture in his house began to vanish. On asking why, he was told that it was because he had removed charity from the Church, which yet is the heart of it. He afterwards found himself underground in a certain workhouse, which is the lot of those who cast charity and good works out of the Church. But as he had been one of the reformers of the Church, he was released by the Lord's command, and sent back into his former chamber. At last he began to scribble something about charity, but next day could not see what he had written, because it was only from the external man. But after the New Heaven was commenced, he began to think he was wrong. He then consulted the Word, and his eyes were opened, and he saw that it is full of love to God and love towards the neighbour. After this, his writing about charity did not vanish.)

799. All who have lived the life of charity, and still more they who have loved the truth because it is truth, in the Spiritual World suffer themselves to be instructed, and accept the doctrinal things of the New Church . . .

812. There is a twofold theology among the English, one from their doctrine of faith, the other from their doctrine of charity; that from the doctrine of faith exists with those who are initiated into the priesthood, and that from the doctrine of charity with many of the laity, especially with those who dwell in Scotland and its borders . . .

D. 1194. (Index). Good works are from charity, charity is from mercy, mercy is from innocence, thus from the Lord. 1244.

1302. On one who had lived piously, but had performed no works of charity.

3593. On unmerciful mercy, and on charity.

3600. Hence it is evident that love, charity, and mercy have no existence if there is only affection, and unless there are Knowledges of faith . . . and a conscience therefrom.

4263. On charity and conscience.

— . He who is in charity and in true conscience does and knows all the precepts of the decalogue as if from himself . . . also all the precepts of kingdoms . . . Moreover they who are in charity and conscience know as it were from themselves all the Knowledges of faith . . . they can also as it were from themselves write whole books, and, without masters, frame whole doctrines; they can preach also all truths and goods. But they who are not in charity, owe all things to their memory . . . All things are contained in charity. 4264. 4266.

4264. The reason man ought to have Knowledges, is that he knows nothing of spiritual and celestial things . . . and therefore he ought to have Knowledges in order that he may be regenerated through them, and receive charity from the Lord, and afterwards act from charity, and know these things and innumerable other ones.

4271. That good Spirits, and still more Angels, delight themselves with the man who is in charity.

4535. Hence many worships and varieties matter little if there is charity in all.

4654. What a man has believed does not injure him in the other life, provided he has held charity rightly according to its essentials; for such have had the life of good, and inwardly they have had truth agreeing with good . . .

4655. Charity is all that which is of life, or which has regard to life; not only to give to the needy, but also to do what is just and right with the neighbour, and in every employment. 6105.

[D.] 5070. (A class of Spirits at the Last Judgment who were in charity only as to the confession of the mouth . . .

5731. On the vastation of those who were in no charity.

— (The quality of the charity which now prevails in the Christian world, described.)

5881. No man in the Christian world can be at all in the life of charity, unless when he thinks of the Lord he thinks of His Divine . . . but everyone who (does so) is in the life of charity, for the Lord leads him.

—¹. Many have said that charity is the essential of the Church and not faith, believing that thus they would be saved in preference to others; but they who have said so from a mere principle, and not from life, differ not a whit from those who are in faith alone . . . 5948⁴. 5961. E.107². 458². 798^e.

5945. That faith is of charity, and as to its essence is charity.

— I was conversing with some Englishmen, believed to have been bishops . . . who supposed that faith is possible without charity, also that faith is prior to charity . . . Their discourse was very ingenious. Ex. at great length.

D. Min. 4547. Without charity towards the neighbour conscience has no existence. Man is in so obscure a perception and idea that he is not able to know whether he has charity, because he does not feel affection . . . but it is known from his zeal towards what is good and true, and towards what is just and right; if he is in zeal he has charity, namely, in the zeal of punishing the evil to the end that they may become good, and not injure the good . . .

4626. Charity exists without faith, as with little children and Gentiles . . . but faith without charity has no existence. Examps.

— He who believes that all evil is from himself must be in charity, and thus knows how to distinguish between good and evil; but he who is not in charity supposes good to be evil, and evil to be good, wherefore he has no faith.

4632. He who has charity does all the commandments in the internal sense. Enum.

E. 102⁶. 'To give a cup of cold water' (Matt.x.42)= to exercise charity from obedience.

104. The reason 'charity'=life, is that all life according to the Lord's precepts is in the Word called 'charity.'

112¹. They who are in the spiritual affection of truth are also in the life of charity, for thence comes their spiritual affection; charity is the sole source to man of what is spiritual.

154². The internal of the Celestial Church is what is meant by 'works;' and the internal of the Spiritual Church is what is meant by 'charity' (Rev.ii.19).

204². Charity or love towards the neighbour is to love what is true, sincere, and just, and from will to do it.

210. The Lord inflows through charity into faith . . .

213. 'And they shall know that I have loved thee' (Rev.iii.9)=the Knowledge thence that the Lord is present in charity, and not in faith without it.

218. They who are in spiritual love, or in charity and thence faith, are in intelligence; but they who are in celestial love . . . are in wisdom.

232. 'Would thou wert cold or hot' (ver.15)=it would be better that there were no faith, or that there should be charity alone.

—^e. Regarded in itself, charity is spiritual affection; but charity alone is natural affection and not spiritual; for charity itself, which is spiritual affection, is formed through truths from the Word, and in proportion as it is formed through them it is spiritual; but charity alone, which is natural affection, is not formed through any truths from the Word, but it comes forth with man from the hearing of preaching without his attending to truths . . . thus charity alone is devoid of faith . . .

240. All spiritual good is acquired through truths . . . spiritual good is charity.

242⁶. Charity and faith act as one, and enter together into man; thus in proportion as a man is in charity he is in faith, since faith as to its essence is charity.

—⁸. Charity, which is spiritual affection, is never possible with anyone unless he knows truths, explores himself according to them, receives them, and lives a new life in accordance with them; hence it follows that the life of faith is charity, and that there is nothing of life in faith except in proportion as there is charity in it; and also that in proportion as there is charity in faith the man is led by the Lord, and in proportion as there is not charity in it he is led by himself . . .

250^e. Charity is to act well, and faith is to believe well, and to believe well without acting well is impossible, thus there is no faith without charity. Charity also is the being and the soul of faith, wherefore faith alone is faith without a soul . . .

316¹⁶. The he-goat throwing down and stamping on the ram (Dan.viii.7)=that faith alone utterly destroyed charity and thence faith, for when charity is destroyed so also is faith, since the latter is from the former.

324⁷. Spiritual good, which is charity towards the neighbour, is the effect of celestial good, for charity towards the neighbour is to perform uses and lead a moral life from a celestial origin. Refs.

438. 'Of the tribe of Asher were sealed twelve thousand' (Rev.vii.6)=charity towards the neighbour, and that all who are in it are in Heaven and come into Heaven; (for) 'Asher'=spiritual affection, which is charity. . . There are in general three universal essentials which make Heaven and the Church; love to the Lord, charity towards the neighbour, and the faith of obedience . . . Charity towards the neighbour is signified by these three tribes, Asher, Naphtali, and Manasseh . . . by 'the tribe of Asher' is signified charity towards the neighbour; by 'Naphtali,' their regeneration; and by 'Manasseh,' the good of life of those who are in it . . .

—³. Charity towards the neighbour is the spiritual affection of truth.

444. 'Of the tribe of Levi were sealed twelve thousand' (ver.7)=good works; (for) Levi and his tribe=spiritual love, which is called charity towards the neighbour. The reason 'Levi' here=good works, is that spiritual love or charity consists in performing goods which are good works. Charity itself, regarded in itself, is the affection of truth and good, and where this affection is, there is life according to truths and goods . . .

—⁵. The affection of good and truth, which is charity, ministers to the Lord, and teaches those things which are of the Church and of worship, and discriminates falsities from truths and evils from goods. Sig.

445². They who are in goods of life from the spiritual affection of truth and good are in charity, and they who are in goods of life from celestial affection are in love to the Lord.

736^e. There is not any spiritual affection, which is of good and truth, except from the life of faith, which is charity; charity itself is the affection of good, and faith is the affection of truth, and both conjoined into one are the affection of good and truth.

769. 'Who keep the commandments of God' (Rev. xii. 17) = with those who live the life of faith, which is charity . . . The reason the life of faith is charity towards the neighbour, is that by faith is meant the faith of the Word, thus the faith of the truth in the Word and from the Word, and by charity is meant the love of good and truth spiritual, moral, and civil, and as what a man loves he also wills, and what he wills he does, by 'keeping the commandments of God' is signified to live the life of faith, which is charity.

790². In the spiritual mind, instead of charity there is the love of good, and instead of faith the perception of truth.

795. It has been shown that charity produces faith as good produces truth, and as affection produces thought, likewise as fire produces light; wherefore it is speaking entirely against order, and inversely, to say that faith produces charity or its goods, which are called good works. But it is to be known that charity, which in its essence is the affection of knowing, understanding, willing and doing the truth, does not come to any perception of man before it has formed itself in the thought which is from the understanding, for then it presents itself under some form or appearance . . . Hence it is evident that charity is actually prior and faith posterior . . . For charity is from the Lord, and is formed first in the spiritual mind; but as charity does not appear to man before it is faith, it may be said that faith is not with man until it is made charity in form; wherefore concerning the manifestation of charity and faith with man it may be said that they both come forth at the same moment, for although charity produces faith, still as they are one, the one can never be separated from the other, so far as comes to man's perception, either as to degree or as to quality.

834. Something shall now be said concerning the spiritual natural love in which are the Angels of the first or ultimate Heaven; this love is what is properly called charity towards the neighbour. Ex.

918². What charity is, which is the same thing as spiritual good, shall be told in a few words. Charity or spiritual good is to do what is good because it is true, thus it is to do truth, and to do truth is to do those things which have been commanded by the Lord in His Word; hence it is evident that charity is spiritual good; and when man does what is good because it is true, or does truth, charity is moral good. (The difference between this moral good and the prevalent moral good.)

946². Good works in the whole complex are meant by charity.

D. Wis. xi. Love to the Lord from the Lord comes forth in charity, and wisdom in faith. Gen.art.

xi. 1. That the love of uses is charity.

6. That uses do not become the uses of charity with anyone but he who fights against the evils which are from Hell.

7. That these uses are against love to the Lord, and against charity towards the neighbour.

8. That the uses which have one's own good as their first and last end are not uses of charity.

xi. 1 (2nd series). When charity and faith are separated with a man, it is not known what charity and faith are, for charity must give existence to faith, and faith must teach this, and also charity must give enlightenment, and faith must see; wherefore if charity and faith are separated, there is neither the one nor the other with the man, just as when you take away the candle you also take away the light.

6. That faith is to know and think these truths, and charity is to will and do them.

7. Wherefore when the Lord's Divine love comes forth with a man in charity, which is to will and do truths, His Divine wisdom comes forth with the man in faith, which is to know and think truths. Ex.

— The Lord conjoins Himself with man in charity, and from this in faith; but not in faith, and from this in charity; the reason is that the conjunction of the Lord with man is in the love of his will, which constitutes his life, thus in charity, which constitutes his spiritual life; from this the Lord vivifies the truths of thought, which are called the truths of faith, and conjoins them with life.

C. 1. That the first of charity is to look to the Lord and shun evils because they are sins against Him, which is effected through repentance. 27. 199. 208.

6. That good before repentance is spurious good, in like manner charity, because good is of charity. 207.

7. Every good which a man does to the neighbour is of charity or is charity; wherefore the quality of charity is known from the three preceding things, namely,—
1. In proportion as he shuns evils as sins. 2. In proportion as he knows and recognizes sins in their true character. 3. In proportion as he sees them in himself, confesses them, and does repentance. These are the indications to everyone of the quality of his charity.

10. Before repentance there is no charity the good of which is from the Lord, but it is from man; but after repentance it becomes charity the good of which is not from man, but from the Lord. Ex.

13. The Second of charity is to do goods because they are uses. Gen.art.

14. That not to will evil to the neighbour is of charity.

[C.] 17. That to will to do good to the neighbour is of charity.

20. That man can do good which he believes to be of charity, and still not shun evil, and yet all evil is contrary to charity.

54. Real genuine charity is prudent and wise; the other charity is spurious, because it is only voluntary or of good, and not at the same time intellectual or of truth.

60. Real charity looks first of all to the good of a man's soul and loves it, because thereby conjunction is effected; afterwards it looks to his moral good . . . and at last to his civil good.

72. The object of charity is man, society, our country, and the human race. Gen.art.

88. The evil can love each other, even thieves and devils, but not from charity . . .

90. Man is the subject of charity; and such as is the charity with him such is its subject, and such is the charity which he exercises towards the neighbour. Gen.art.

93. That at this day for man to be man he ought to be charity in form.

94. The second Heaven is from a lower love which is called charity, and from a wisdom which is called intelligence; at last now that man has become completely external, his love is called charity and his wisdom faith.

96. By a charity in form is meant that his life is charity, and the form is from the life.

99. The forms of charity are as innumerable as the Angels of the second Heaven; there are as many varieties of it as there are varieties of the affection of truth from good; and this affection is charity.

100. He who is not a form of charity is a form of hatred.

101. As there are genera of affections and species of these genera, so also of charities. There are therefore charities in the plural, and there are degrees of it of two kinds, which degrees are treated of in the D. L. W., part iii.

102. That man ought to be charity in form, not from himself but from the Lord, thus to be a receptacle of charity.

107. That man is such a form of charity as the good of the will is conjoined with the truths of the understanding with him.

109. All the variety of charity is from truths in the understanding . . .

110. There is a twofold form of sound, one of song and the other of speech; in like manner is there of the affection of truth from good, or of charity.

111. Therefore it is said that charity is the affection of truth from good, or the affection of spiritual truth; thence it becomes the affection of rational or moral truth, and the affection of civil or natural truth.

112. Hence it is that those who are in charity are in light, or if they are not in light they love it.

113. But they who are not in charity do not love truth in light, but they can love truth in the shade . . .

114. That whatever proceeds from such a man (as is referred to above, C. 107) derives from his form a likeness to him, thus is charity.

115. The form of charity is principally in his interior perception, which proceeds from spiritual light and heat. There the man himself is the man. From this, charity is produced in the consequent or lower things, and produces itself and effectuates itself almost as a germ and successively a tree does from a seed . . .

116. Further Ex.

122. That the neighbour can be loved from what is not charity, and yet this, regarded in itself, is not to love the neighbour.

124. That he who loves the neighbour from charity in himself, does really love the neighbour.

126. Man is born to become charity, but cannot do so unless he perpetually does the good of use to the neighbour from affection and delight. Gen.art. 154.

149. Charity is nothing but the affection of truth from good, and the affection of truth from good is the affection of use . . .

151. When therefore a man is use, or a good use, he is also a charity.

152. And then the man is called a charity in form; he is also its image; all things in that man are of charity . . .

155. He who makes charity consist in benefactions alone cannot perpetually do it.

156. And unless uses are done perpetually, an interruption takes place, and in this interval the man may be diverted into all sorts of loves and their derivative concupiscences, and thus not only intermit charity, but even be drawn away by these things. Thus perishes charity by its opposites, and the man serves two masters.

157. A man can also do the good of use from the affection of glory, of honour, and of gain . . . then however he is not charity, but concupiscence; thus is not a form of Heaven but a form of Hell . . .

158. Every man who looks to the Lord and shuns evils as sins, if he sincerely, justly, and faithfully does the work which belongs to his office and employment, becomes a form of charity. Gen.art.

— The Second of charity is to do goods, and the goods which the man does are the goods of use which he does every day, and which while he is not doing he is thinking of doing; there is an interior affection which remains inwardly and desires to do them; hence it is that he is perpetually in the good of use . . . Otherwise he cannot become a form of charity, that is, a receptacle of it.

160. On charity with a priest. (See PRIEST.)

161. On charity with magistrates. (See MAGISTRATE.)

162. On charity with the officials under magistrates.

163. On charity with judges. (See JUDGE.)

164. On charity with the general of an army. (See GENERAL.)

165. On charity with the officers under the general of an army.

166. On charity with a common soldier. (See SOLDIER.)
167. On charity with a man of business. (See TRADE.)
168. On charity with workmen. (See WORKMAN.)
169. On charity with husbandmen. (See HUSBANDMAN.)
170. On charity with ship-captains. (See CAPTAIN.)
171. On charity with sailors. (See SAILOR.)
172. On charity with domestics. (See DOMESTIC.)
173. The signs of charity are all things which are of worship. Gen.art.

178. That charity itself is in the internal man, and its sign in the external.

181. If there is charity in the internal man it causes the man to reflect upon the evils in himself, and actually to recognize and know them.

183. If there is charity in the internal man, or in the spirit, and if it does not fight with the external man and its flesh, charity perishes . . .

184. That the benefactions of charity are all the goods which a man who is charity does from freedom outside of his office.

186. They who place charity in these benefactions alone, if they have not charity in themselves, conjoin themselves inwardly with infernals, and outwardly with celestials.

187. The debts of charity are all those things, not included in those mentioned above, which a man ought to do. Gen.art.

189. There are diversions of charity, which are various delights and pleasant things of the bodily senses, useful for the recreation of the mind. Gen.art.

201. That no one can have charity except from the Lord.

— By charity is meant all the good which a man does to others . . . 202.

202. That no one can have charity from the Lord unless he shuns evils as sins.

5 M. 13. In the consummation of the age, the things of charity are not goods, but only deeds of man's own love, which while they go forth in the breath of the mouth do not elevate themselves to Heaven, but as soon as they rise up are bent down and fall to the earth.

Conv. with Angels 7. There are three things which follow in order and make one, charity, faith, and works, and if one be wanting the other two vanish away.

De Conj. 86. They who acknowledge charity and not faith, and still do not live the life of charity, yet read the Word, produce adultery as of a sister with a brother.

Charles XI. Carolus XI. D.6019.

Charles XII. Carolus XII.

D. 4704. Many things which took place between me and Charles XII were recounted, and it was then manifestly shown that the Divine Providence has been in the smallest particulars, and that all those things which happen during life and after death are foreseen and provided for; also that unless the state had been changed from good into anger with Charles XII, one person would have utterly perished . . .

4741. On Charles XII. There was a certain person who was the most obstinate mortal on the face of the Earth (Charles XII); he was so obstinate that he would never desist from his purpose, but would remain in it even if he were to undergo the most cruel death or the most fearful Hell; and when he had determined to do what was evil he could confirm his stubborn purpose by such things as should appear from the end not to be evil for himself; as for example when he wanted to deflower anyone, and that by stealthy force, he found that he wanted to be delivered from that evil, and if it could not be managed in any other way, that he should be sent into another Hell; it appeared as though he wanted this, thus the apparent end was that he wanted to be better, but still he remained pertinaciously in that diabolical purpose. So also while he lived in the world, when he had destroyed his country and all therein by following the counsel of Gjörtz, he said that he wished well to his country, and did not want to see that such was not the case, but that he had remained most obstinately in his purpose, and had never desisted until he had reduced his country to such extremities that there was nothing left. This was shown, and also that his conduct was really diabolical, but he believed that it was all for the glory of his country.

4742. It was shown with what Spirits he was communicating, namely, with two Societies; one of azure Spirits from the planet Jupiter who are good, and who have as an end always to become more perfect; these Spirits are good in the same way as is Charles XII when he is in a good state, for he then wills nothing whatever but the truth. The other Society was in the universe not far from the azure ones, namely, on the right side at a distance; these are the most obstinate of all, and never desist from a purpose which is once formed, whether it is good or evil; these were they with whom he communicated, for such obstinacy does not exist within the limits of this Earth.

4743. These Spirits do not know of any God, but call the light God which they see when they are up above, and the darkness the devil which they see when they are down below; thus they acknowledge truth for God, and falsity for the devil, as also did (Charles XII).

4745. On infernal marriage. There was a certain person who in the world had been the most stubborn and obstinate of all men, so that he would never go back from his purpose even if he were deprived of his life, and only when reduced to extremities would he for the first time be willing to yield. (Charles XII.) He got a wife in the other life who was of a similar nature, and was more stubborn than himself. It was first shown that he held her in deadly hatred . . . This she saw, and then she also was filled with devils and exerted her stubbornness, being more stubborn than himself, caring nothing for her life or any torture, and at last she brought things to such a pass that he began to obey her, tandem . . . quod oscularetur inferiora spurca ejus, ex obsequio; then she praised him, because she was his commander . . . At last he did not dare to oppose her, because she had subjugated him by greater stubbornness. 6010. De Conj. 62.

[D.] 4748. A manifest example of those who have been inwardly in self-love, but outwardly polite and modest, was (Charles XII); of all men in the whole world he was inwardly the proudest, aspiring not only to have the greatest name in his own kingdom, but also in the whole world, all men in which he wanted to command, and in a certain manner supposed himself to be a god inwardly. He was able to think more interiorly than any other man; in every emergency and in every danger his interior thoughts were perfectly clear, he saw everything that was around him at a single glance, he gathered all together inwardly and came to the right conclusion; nor did he want anyone to know this; he pretended outwardly that he was not thinking inwardly, and was displeased if anyone said that he had clear thought inwardly; to act in this way he supposed to be kingly, and he accustomed himself to act thus constantly. This was his interior life, and there he thought about his own dominion over all in each and all things, also that that life was divine, and inwardly in that life he did not believe that there is a God, but that God is in men, especially in himself. Nor did he care for religion; he praised the Mohammedan religion at the expense of the Christian, and said religion was only for the simple, and if he could he would have introduced a natural religion that was adapted to the apprehension of all naturalists. He made kingliness to consist in stubbornness even to the death, and was ferocious and cruel therein, caring nothing for men's lives. He could find excuses which could not be contradicted, and was then in the full persuasion that such was the case and was really right, because it was from his internal thought. These things no one knew in the world, except something by conjecture; he counterfeited what is just and true more perfectly than any other man. But all these things were opened in the other life; he was taken out of a direful Hell, and let into the state of his external man, and then he conducted himself modestly, justly, and truly; but as soon as he came into the internal state of life there came forth such things as are direfully diabolical. He was quicker at seeing many things around him than any others, and was able to dispose them so as to aid him in domineering, and that not only in the Hells, but also in the first and second Heavens, which he attracted to himself by the external man and its just and true characteristics, and at the same time by his persuasive power. . . . Thus did he rage for a week in order that his quality might be shown to the Angels. . . . During punishments and dangers he was more present in that internal diabolical life of his than he was when there were no punishments and dangers. He was told that if there were myriads of myriads of such as he they would not weigh a feather against the Lord, but that he cared nothing about. He wanted to be the devil himself, and the ruler of Hell, and then make a treaty with those who are in Heaven and with the Divine there concerning the sovereignty; but with the intention that he in Hell should rule all things, and that those who are in Heaven should obey him, or if they would not he would subjugate them. Such was his character. Hence was evident the character of the internal life regnant in him, and that he was a greater devil than all others, and also a greater fool than all others. 4884, Ex.

4750. The nature of self-love thus became evident, for Charles XII was inwardly in self-love more than all others, and had imbued it in life and in doctrine. . . .

4751. It was observed that Charles XII possessed the faculty of quick perception above all others, for when he was in interior thought, with almost a single glance of the eye he could go through a hundred things, and examine their quality in relation to the end, which was dominion; also how he could dispose them to work in his own favour. . . . The end of Charles XII was that he most obstinately applied himself to the subjugation of the Divine for the sake of his own dominion, until at last he wanted to die like Samson; wherefore he cast himself by the hinder part into the cloud where are the Anakim or the evil of the Most Ancient Church, and wanted to stir them up and so to prevail; and then he was there devastated by them as to his Intellectual, for to be conjoined with them is to perish as to all the Intellectual; but as he had gone only a little way into the cloud, he advanced further into it in pursuit of the Divine, although he was now stupid, for the resolution or will remained, and he was now over the pool at the right side, which no one can pass without being suffocated. There he lost the rest of his Intellectual or thought, and at last was brought back to a cave in the borders of both places, and there he was sunk, being a greater fool than all the rest in the degree that he lusted to domineer even over the Divine. 4752. 4900. 4901. 4910.

4763. On Charles XII and the love of dominion. He was long with me, at first such as he was in the outward form, which lasted for years, and he then acted moderately enough, but still the wickedness within burst forth from time to time. He was afterwards let into the state of his interiors, in which he had been when in the world. He thought within himself that no one in the world could observe him, and he did not want to be observed. It was also disclosed that for years he had spoken with Spirits. . . . and that he had not only been instructed about the Lord and the things of the Church, but had often been warned, and even chastised; and also warned to go home and make peace; but he would not. He always wanted to become the greatest of all, and when this was denied him, he decided to destroy the name of the Lord by atheistical doctrines; and then began to love atheists from his very heart, and to promise himself that he would have such at hand when he had annihilated religion. Then too he rushed into wicked deeds which are not to be named (canis), but secretly; and this even while he was at peace. 4857.

4764. He continued this in the other life, and waged war against the Lord, and wanted to destroy whatever belonged to Him, and this for a considerable time, first for weeks, then for months; he acted the devil in effigy, and wanted to stir up whatever Hell he could. He was often punished. . . . but still persisted. Hence became evident the nature of the love of dominion, which in him prevailed to the last degree; for although he spoke with Spirits and Angels daily and was instructed by them, he not only did not receive it, but even at last denied the Divine itself, attributing all things to nature.

4768. There was one who was in infernal marriage, (Charles XII) He exercised a certain kind of wickedness against others who were in heavenly marriage, and for a punishment there was communicated to him the love of heavenly marriage, and from the communication of the influx he was so miserably tortured that he was as it were in a flame of fire; he shouted and screamed that he was being thus tortured, and this so long as the communication lasted. Thus it became evident what a great and terrible hell the influx from Heaven causes with those who are in Hell.

4873. I was told that that worst of all devils (Charles XII) was in the midst (of those who had assailed me.)

4886. (He attached to himself the worldly Spirits who were at the entrance to Heaven), and then he appeared like the dragon in the Revelation, whose tail drew down the third part of the stars.

4887. (They made him their king.) 4891. 4892.

4934. (On the worst Hell.) There are degrees of persuasion, he who was in the greatest was Charles XII; he was let down the deepest because he was in a deadly persuasive power, so great that he could kill men by it.

5011. There was one who was devastated until he had nothing left of life from Heaven, (it was Charles XII), and who therefore sat like a fool. They who are Babel, especially the Jesuits, flowed into him, and laboured in every way to revive him . . . By this means he spoke almost as before, although he was almost like an image . . . This they did that he might destroy those who adored the Lord, and did not adore them.

6013. Mentioned. 6015. 6018. 6019. 6020. 6028. 6034². 6087. J.(Post.)237.

Charybdis. Charybdis. T.637.

Chasm. Lacuna.

See also under GULF.

A. 7554. When they who have filled the memory with things of faith from the Word and the doctrine of their Church, and yet have lived contrary to them, are devastated, the things of faith are torn out, together with many things which adhere to them, leaving chasms and trenches deep and foul.

Chaste. Castus.

Chastity. Castitas.

See UNCHASTE.

A. 2362^e. How chaste these things are in the internal sense.

2466. These things hurt chaste ears.

8375. They do not blush at nakedness, for their minds are chaste.

Life 74. So far as anyone shuns adulteries of every kind as sins, so far he loves chastity. Gen.art.

76. No one can know the nature of the chastity of marriage, except he who shuns the lasciviousness of adultery as sin. Ex.

— The lasciviousness of adultery and the chastity of marriage are related to each other precisely as Hell and Heaven are; the lasciviousness of adultery also constitutes Hell with man, and the chastity of marriage constitutes Heaven with him.

108. There are moral men . . . who exercise chastity (and yet the goods they do are not goods). Ex.

M. 22. I conjecture that with you the love of the sex is not chaste; in Heaven we love maidens on account of their beauty and the grace of their manners; and we love them very much, but chastely.

44¹. All novitiates, on ascending into Heaven, are examined as to the quality of their chastity, for they are let into the company of maidens, the beauties of Heaven, who from their tone of voice, their speech, their faces, their eyes, their gestures, and their exhaling sphere, perceive what is their quality in regard to the love of the sex; and if it is unchaste, they instantly quit them, and tell their fellow-angels that they have seen satyrs or priapuses. The new-comers also undergo a change, and in the eyes of the Angels appear rough and hairy, and with feet like those of calves or leopards, and presently they are cast down again, lest by their lust they should defile the heavenly atmosphere. On hearing this, the two novitiates said, So there is no love of the sex in Heaven; what is a chaste love of the sex but a love deprived of the essence of its life? . . . To this the two angelic Spirits indignantly replied, You are entirely ignorant what a chaste love of the sex is, because as yet you are not chaste; this love is the very delight of the mind itself and thence of the heart, and not at the same time of the flesh beneath the heart. Angelic chastity, which is common to both sexes, prevents the passing of that love beyond the enclosure of the heart; but within that and above it the morality of a young man is delighted with the beauty of a maiden in the delights of a chaste love of the sex, which delights are of too interior a nature, and too abundantly pleasant, to be described in words. The Angels have this love of the sex because they have marriage love only; which love cannot exist together with the unchaste love of the sex. True marriage love is chaste love, and has nothing in common with unchaste love, being restricted to one of the sex, and removed from all others; for it is a love of the spirit and thence of the body, and not a love of the body and thence of the spirit, that is, it is not a love which infests the spirit.

—⁷. The Angels grow cold over the whole body at unchaste love, and grow warm over the whole body from chaste love.

55³. We have never yet found the common love of the sex chaste, except with those who from true marriage love are in continual potency, and these are in the highest Heavens. (See LOVE OF THE SEX at this ref.)

138. On what is chaste and what is not chaste. Gen.art.

— What is unchaste appears in a kind of shade when what is chaste is described together with what is not chaste; non-chastity is only the removal of what is unchaste from what is chaste. What is unchaste, however, which is entirely opposite to what is chaste, is treated of in the latter part of this Work.

139. The reason what is chaste and what is not chaste are predicated of marriages, and of such things as belong to marriage, is that true marriage love is chastity itself, and the love opposite to it, which is called scortatory, is unchastity itself; in proportion therefore as the former love is purified from the latter it is chaste . . . from which it is evident that the purity of marriage love is what is called chastity. There exists, however, a marriage love which is not chaste, and yet is not unchastity; as that between married partners who for various external reasons abstain from the effects of lasciviousness so far as not to think about them; yet if that love is not purified in their spirits it is still not chaste; its form is chaste, but it has not a chaste essence in it.

[M.] 141. That what is chaste is predicated only of monogamical marriages, or those of one man with one wife.

142. That the Christian marriage principle alone is chaste.

143. That true marriage love is chastity itself. De Conj. 5.

144. That all the delights of true marriage love, even the ultimate ones, are chaste.

145. That with those who are made spiritual by the Lord, marriage love is more and more purified, and becomes chaste.

146. But it is to be known that marriage love entirely chaste or pure does not exist with either men or Angels; there is still something not chaste or not pure which adjoins and subjoins itself to it; but this is of a different nature from what is unchaste; for with the former what is chaste is above, and what is not chaste is beneath; and there is as it were a door with a hinge which is interposed by the Lord, and which is opened by determination, and is carefully prevented from standing open, lest the one principle should pass into the other . . .

147. That the chastity of marriage comes forth by a total renunciation of whoredoms from religion. The reason is that chastity is the removal of unchastity; for it is a universal rule that in proportion as anyone removes what is evil, there is an opportunity for what is good to succeed in its place . . .

149. The reason the chastity of marriage does not come forth by the renunciation of whoredoms unless it is made from religion, is that without religion man does not become spiritual, but remains natural, and if a natural man renounces whoredoms, still his spirit does not renounce them; and therefore although it seems to himself that he is chaste through that renunciation, still unchastity lies hidden within, like matter in a wound which is only externally healed.

150. That chastity cannot be predicated of little children, nor of boys and girls, nor of youths and maidens before they feel in themselves the love of the sex. The reason is that what is chaste and what is unchaste are only predicated of marriages, and of such things as belong to marriage.

151. That chastity cannot be predicated of eunuchs so born, or of eunuchs so made.

— If they have any inclination it is rendered mute, which is neither chaste nor unchaste . . .

152. That chastity cannot be predicated of those who do not believe adulteries to be evils of religion; and still less of those who do not believe them to be hurtful to society . . . The reason is that they do not know what chastity is, nor even that it exists . . .

153. That chastity cannot be predicated of those who abstain from adulteries merely for various external reasons . . . Many believe that mere abstinence from adulteries in the body is chastity, when yet this is not chastity unless at the same time there is an abstaining in spirit. The spirit of man, by which is here meant his mind as to the affections and thoughts, makes what is chaste and unchaste . . .

154. That chastity cannot be predicated of those who believe marriages to be unchaste.

155. That chastity cannot be predicated of those who have renounced marriages, vowing perpetual celibacy, unless there remain in them the love of a life truly conjugal.

188°. Elevation into higher heat with women is elevation into chaster and purer marriage love . . .

294°. (The relations of a chaste wife with an unchaste husband.)

299°. Consent against the will, or extorted, does not initiate the spirit, but it may the body; and thus it turns the chastity which resides in the spirit into lust; whereby marriage love in its first warmth is vitiated.

302. Marriage love in its descent is such as it is in the height to which it ascends; if it ascends high it descends chaste, if it does not ascend high it descends unchaste; the reason is that the lower things of the mind are unchaste, and its higher things chaste, for the lower things of the mind adhere to the body, but the higher things separate themselves therefrom.

305. In the highest region of the mind which is called celestial, there is conjugal chastity in its own love; into this a man is raised by the love of uses . . . Hence it may be seen that from the first beginnings of its heat, marriage love is to be raised out of the lowest region into a higher region, that it may become chaste, and that thus from what is chaste it may be let down through the middle and lowest regions into the body; and when this is the case, this lowest region is purified from its unchaste things by what is chaste descending; hence the ultimate of that love also becomes chaste.

310°. Consequently, if marriage in the spirit is chaste, and partakes of the sanctity thereof, it is the same when it is in its fulness in the body; and the reverse is the case if the marriage in the spirit is unchaste.

311°. In its progression, marriage love unfolds itself according to the quality of its first heat; if this heat was chaste, its chasteness is strengthened as it proceeds, but if it was unchaste, its unchasteness increases as it advances, until it is bereaved of all that chasteness which from the time of betrothal belonged to it from without, but not from within.

345. Polygamy is lasciviousness . . . and therefore is not marriage love, which alone is chaste.

346. That with polygamists conjugal chastity, purity, and holiness are impossible.

503. That virginity is the crown of chastity . . . Virginity is called the crown of chastity, because it crowns the chastity of marriage ; it is also the badge of chastity, wherefore the bride wears a crown at the wedding.

T. 316. There are various causes which make a man appear chaste, not only to others but also to himself, and yet he is wholly unchaste, for he does not know that when concupiscence is in the will it is a deed, and that it cannot be removed except by the Lord after repentance. Abstinence from doing does not constitute what is chaste, but abstinence from willing, when he is able [to do], because it is a sin.

E. 1002². From what has been adduced it may be concluded what good there results from chastity in marriages, consequently what are the good works of chastity which are done by the man who shuns adulteries as sins against God . . . The good works of chastity which concern the married partners themselves, are spiritual and celestial loves, intelligence and wisdom, innocence and peace, power and protection against the Hells and against the evils and falsities thence derived, and they are manifold joys and happinesses to eternity ; all which are possessed by those who live in chaste marriages. The good works of chastity which concern the offspring and posterity, are that so many and such great evils are not born with families, for the reigning love of the parents is carried over into the offspring, and sometimes into remote posterity, and becomes their hereditary nature ; this is broken and becomes mild with parents who shun adulteries as infernal, and love marriages as heavenly. The good works of chastity which concern the heavenly Societies, are that chaste marriages are the deliciousnesses of Heaven, that they are its seminaries, and that they are its supports . . .

De Conj. 5. Celibacy is not called chastity in the Heavens ; nor is a girl said to be chaste, nor an unmarried woman, nor a virgin ; but a wife who is averse to adultery is called chaste, in like manner a husband who is averse to it, because true marriage love is that which in Heaven is called chastity.

Chastise. Castigare, Castigatio, Castigator.

A. 689. Evil is chastised by the law of equilibrium . . .

1949². Such a man is quick at blaming, chastising . . .

. 4730^o. As a father loves the son he chastises . . .

5056. (The correspondence of chastising Spirits.)

5185. 5381. 5382. D.893.

5173². (The correspondence of the castigations and purifications of the blood.)

5384. (The method of chastising of these Spirits, Des.)

5385. 'Chastisement' as applied to the kidneys. Ex.

6559. The punishing Spirits are at once at hand and chastise them . . . They who are being punished are entirely ignorant how these chastisers know . . .

—². But in Hell the one chastises the other . . .

7801. One class of Spirits from the planet Jupiter appear almost black ; they are rejected by the others and are called chastisers, because they chastise the inhabitants of their own Earth who live evilly ; they have a constant desire to go to Heaven. 7804^o.

7803. (Their method of chastising, Des.) 7808. 7810.

8632. Their Angels do not chastise them . . .

H. 96². They who are in the kidneys are in examining, separating, and chastising truth.

R. 215. 'As many as I love I rebuke and chastise' (Rev.iii.19)= that the Lord loves such of them as do so, and that then they cannot but be let into temptations, in order that they may fight against themselves. . . 'To rebuke'=temptation as to falsities, and 'to chastise'=temptation as to evils. E.246,Ex.

T. 407. Everyone knows that a father who chastises his children when they do evil, loves them, and that he who does not chastise them on that account loves their evils. 459¹⁵. C.163.

D. 4756. (Chastisers there.) 5050,Ex.

E. 365³¹. 'The chastisement of our peace was upon Him' (Is.liiii.5)=the temptations by which the Lord subjugated the Hells . . .

386¹⁶. Temptations are signified by 'him whom God hath chastised' (Job v.17).

750²². 'To admit chastisement' (Jer.vi.8)=to receive discipline.

Cheap. See VILE-vilis.

Check. Refrænare, Refraenatio. A.8700^o. T.588.

Chedorlaomer. Kedorlaomer.

A. 1653. That those evils and falsities against which the Lord fought did not appear sooner than in childhood, and that then they burst forth, is signified by the kings serving Chedorlaomer (Gen.xiv.4).

1661. 'Chedorlaomer' etc. (ver.1)=so many kinds of apparent goods and truths, which in themselves are not goods and truths, in the Lord's external man. 1667.

1667. 'Twelve years they served Chedorlaomer' (ver. 4)=that evils and falsities did not appear during childhood, but that they served apparent goods and truths. . . 'Chedorlaomer' in the complex stands for all the kings who are mentioned in ver.2.

—². Such good and truth as there is with a child before he is instructed is signified by 'Chedorlaomer.'

1671. 'Came Chedorlaomer' (ver.5)=the apparent good in the external man. . . 'Chedorlaomer' here=only good, because it is added 'and the kings who were with him.' 1672^o.

1675². By 'Chedorlaomer' is represented the Lord's good and truth during childhood, thus the Lord's human essence as to good and truth at that time, by which He destroyed the persuasions of falsity, that is, the Hells filled with such a devil's crew, who by persuasions of what is false attempted to destroy the World of Spirits, and consequently the human race.

1685. The reason 'Chedorlaomer king of Elam' here =truths, and 'Tidal king of Goim'=goods, is that these kings are here mentioned in a different order ; here Chedorlaomer is mentioned first, before, he is mentioned fourth . . .

[A.] 1717. By 'Chedorlaomer' and the kings with him are signified the goods and truths of the exterior man.

1722. 'After he had returned from smiting Chedorlaomer and the kings who were with him' (ver.17)= the deliverance and the vindication of apparent goods and truths.

Cheek. Bucca. T.380¹.

Cheek. Gena.

A. 1773. A warmth diffusing itself over the cheeks.

4658³. (A woman who was seen to stroke the cheek of Aristotle.)

5720⁶. (Pain caused in the bones of the cheek.)

R. 363². They who constitute the first class of the tribes (Rev.vii) are they who correspond to the ears and cheeks.

T. 459¹¹. A flaming light tinged his cheeks.

Cheekbone. See JAW.

Cheerful. Hilaris.

Cheerfulness. Hilaritas.

A. 1640⁶. Whether he is cheerful by nature or art . . .

2216. Celestial and spiritual good does not laugh, but expresses its delight and cheerfulness in another way ; for in laughter there are many things, as for the most part something of contempt . . . which are easily distinguished from cheerfulness of disposition, which also produces something like laughter.

5576³. He enjoys his food if at the same time he is cheerful . . . and it nourishes him better.

6616. Whether he is cheerful from what is natural or from what is contingent . . .

7807. The angelic Spirits kept my face cheerful and smiling . . . They said that they induce such an expression on the faces of the inhabitants of their own Earth (Jupiter) when they are present. 8113.

8865². All a man's cheerfulness and content are from (the Spirits and Angels who are with him) even when he is thinking about other things.

H. 288. The peace of Heaven . . . does not come to their manifest perception, except by delight of heart when they are in the good of their life, by pleasure when they hear truth which agrees with their good, and by cheerfulness of mind when they perceive their conjunction.

299. There are Spirits who love things undigested and malignant . . . and who are present where there are such things with man . . . The affection of their speech flows into the man, which affection, if it is contrary to the man's own, becomes in him sadness and melancholy anxiety ; but if it agrees therewith, it becomes in him gladness and cheerfulness.

358. Man has no need to walk with a devout look, a sad and sorrowful face, and a bowed head, but glad and cheerful.

D. 4644. When the Angels who are with a man are in such things as he believes and is affected with in his heart, and when they are conversing together about such things, there then inflows into the man cheerfulness of mind, content, and tranquillity . . .

E. 323². By 'gladnesses' and 'cheerfulnesses' in the Word are signified spiritual gladnesses and cheerfulnesses, which are all from affections of truth and good.

730⁶. 'Upon all the houses of gladness in the joyous city' (Is.xxxii.13)=where the goods and truths of doctrine from the Word are received with affection.

Chemical. Chymicus.

A. 6057. All chemical arcana.

H. 353. By the sciences are meant experimental things of various kinds, physical, astronomical, chemical, etc.

M. 145². This spiritual purification may be compared with the purification of natural spirits, effected by chemists . . .

Chemosh. Kemosch.

A. 2468⁷. The falsities with which they are imbued are signified by 'Chemosh,' etc. (Jer. xlviii).

—¹⁶. The god of Moab was Chemosh.

E. 811¹⁷. By 'the people of Chemosh' (Jer.xlviii.46) are meant those who are in natural truth.

Chequer. Tesselare.

A. 9826. 'A chequered vest' (Ex.xxviii.4) = the Divine truth there which proceeds immediately from the Divine Celestial. . . It is called 'chequered' because it was woven . . .

9942. 'Thou shalt chequer the vest of linen' (Ex. xxviii.39)=the inmost things of the Spiritual Kingdom which proceed from the truths of celestial love. . . Of this vest it is said that it was to be chequered, and by what is chequered is meant the work of the weaver, and by the work of the weaver is signified that which is from the Celestial ; the same word which in the Original Language expresses to chequer, also means to weave.

—¹³. The Lord's vest having been without seam and woven from above throughout has a similar signification to the chequering or weaving of Aaron's vest.

Cherish. Fovere.

P. 31^e. Let no one cherish the error . . .

R. Pref.³. They who have cherished no other idea . . .

T. 520². The opinion heretofore cherished . . .

700. Such ideas of this Sacrament are cherished . . .

Cherub. Cherubus.

A. 285. It was thus provided that they should not profane the holy things of faith, which is signified by their being cast out, and by cherubs being made to dwell with the flame of a sword, to keep the way to the tree of lives, (Gen.iii.24). 3399^e. E.131²⁰.

306. 'To make cherubs dwell on the east' (id.)=to provide against the man's entering into any arcana of faith. . . By 'cherubs' is signified the Providence of the Lord preventing the man from entering into those things which are of faith.

308. 'The cherubs'=the Providence of the Lord preventing the man from madly entering into the mysteries of faith from what is his Own, from what is sensuous and from what is scientific, and profaning them, and thus perishing.

— As the Jews were of such a character that if they had clearly known about the Lord's advent, etc., they would have committed profanation and perished to eternity, this was represented by the cherubs on the mercyseat, on the curtains of the tabernacle, on the veil, and in the temple, and it was signified that the Lord kept guard. . . Hence also it is that the Lord is so often called 'the God of Israel sitting in the cherubs,' and that He spoke with Moses and Aaron between the cherubs, (Ex.xxv.22; Num.vii.89). Further III. E.392^e.

903^e. The cherubs or Angels seen by Ezekiel are called 'four wild animals—ferae.'

2162^e. See ANIMAL at these refs. R.239. 275. E.388²².

2761⁴. 'To ride upon a cherub' (Ps.xviii.10)=the Providence of the Lord preventing man from entering from Himself into the mysteries of faith which are in the Word.

3384⁴. 'Dwelling in the cherubs' (Ps.lxxx.1)=the Lord as to the state of Providence preventing anyone from being let into the holy things of love and faith unless he is prepared by the Lord.

3901⁵. The cherubs, which are represented by 'the animals' in Ezek.=the Providence of the Lord preventing man from entering into the mysteries of faith from himself and from his own Rational.

4162². His Providence preventing man from entering from himself into the mysteries of faith, the ancients called cherubs. —^e.

4391. 'To ride upon a cherub'=that it is so provided.

6367⁴. By 'cherub' is signified the foresight and Providence of the Lord. 6832⁴. 8215⁴. 8369³. 8764³.

8369³. By 'the cherubs' (1 Kings vi) was represented the Providence of the Lord, thus that all things are from Him.

8813³. The Divine Providence of the Lord is here described by the cherubs (Ezek.i), which is the truth Divine proceeding from the Lord's Divine good.

9277⁵. 'The cherubs' and also 'the doors' of the oracle;(1 Kings vi)=the guard and providence of the Lord preventing any approach to Him except through the good of celestial love; therefore they were of the wood of oil. 9391². —³. 9407¹⁰. 9510.

9506². Therefore there were cherubs upon the mercyseat, for by 'cherubs' is signified guard and Providence preventing any approach to the Lord except through the good of love, thus preventing anyone from entering into Heaven except those who are in this good; and also preventing those who are in Heaven from being approached and injured by those who are in Hell.

9509. 'Thou shalt make two cherubs' (Ex.xxv.18)=no intromission and approach to the Lord except through the good of love, (for) 'cherub'=guard and Providence preventing any approach to the Lord except through the good of love. As this was the signification of cherubs, they were placed upon the mercyseat which was upon the ark, and were made of solid gold. —³. III.

—³. 'That 'cherubs'=guard and Providence preventing the Lord from being approached except through the good of love, that is, except by those who are in the good of love, and also preventing the good which is in Heaven and with man from the Lord from being injured. III.

9511. 'At the two extremities of the mercyseat' (id.)=celestial good and spiritual good, (for) the cherub at one extremity=approach through celestial good, and the cherub at the other extremity=approach through spiritual good. 9512. 9513.

9514. By 'the wings of the cherubs stretched forth upwards' (ver.20) is signified the elevation of good to the Lord through the truths of faith, for by 'the cherubs' is signified approach to Him through good.

9515. 'Covering with their wings over the mercyseat' (id.)=covering and protecting spiritual things.

9516. 'And their faces of a man to his brother' (id.)=the conjunction of good and truth.

9517. 'To the mercyseat were the faces of the cherubs' (id.)=interior things constantly having regard to good, thus to the Lord. . . 'The cherubs'=guard and Providence preventing the Lord from being approached except through the good of love.

9523. 'From between the two cherubs' (ver.22)=where celestial good and spiritual good are conjoined together. 'The two cherubs'=celestial good and spiritual good, through which there is approach to the Lord.

9597. 'With cherubs' (Ex.xxvi.1)=the Lord's guard preventing Heaven from being approached and injured by the Hells. 'Cherubs'=guard and Providence to prevent the Lord from being approached except through good, and to prevent the good which is from the Lord in Heaven and man from being injured, consequently, to prevent Heaven from being approached and injured by the Hells.

9673. 'With cherubs' (ver.31)=guard to prevent spiritual good and celestial good from being mixed together, thus the middle Heaven and the inmost Heaven.

10236⁵. By 'cherubs' (1 Kings vii.29) are signified the protection of the Lord (lest a man should enter into those things which are of Heaven and the Church from his own Sensual, thus from the world, for this is contrary to Divine order) . . .

S. 26². Lest therefore anyone should enter into the spiritual sense of the Word, or should pervert the genuine truth which belongs to that sense, guards have been placed by the Lord which in the Word are meant by 'cherubs.'

46^e. By 'the cherubs' on the curtains and veils of the tabernacle are signified the guards of the interiors of the Word.

97. The sense of the letter of the Word is a guard for the genuine truths which lie hidden in it . . . This guard is signified by 'cherubs,' and is also described by them in the Word. III. R.255.

—⁴. 'To ride upon cherubs,' 'to sit upon them,' and 'to sit within them' = upon the ultimate sense of the Word.

R. 48⁴. As by cherubs are signified the guard and Providence of the Lord to prevent the spiritual sense of the Word from being injured, it is said of the four animals which were cherubs that 'they were full of eyes before and behind,' and that 'their wings were also full of eyes' (Rev. iv. 6, 8); and also that the wheels on which the cherubs were borne, were 'full of eyes round about' (Ezek. x. 12).

239². By 'cherubs' is signified the Word and its guard.

614^e. By 'cherubs' is signified the Word, thus Divine truth, from which the Lord speaks.

672. The four animals which are cherubs = the Word in ultimates, and guards, to prevent violence being done to its genuine truths and goods.

875⁵. (A temple of wisdom seen, having as it were cherubs flying beneath the roof.)

926³. (A temple seen with cherubs on the walls.)

T. 73^e. The light formed cherubs flying in the air.

134^e. There appeared cherubs flying in the resplendence of the light.

220. By 'the cherubs' upon the ark were signified guards to prevent violence being done to the holy things of the Word.

508. (An oracle seen in a temple, in which was a cherub of gold, which represented the Word in the sense of the letter.)

691³. Upon the mercyseat were cherubs, to prevent anyone from immediately touching the holiness with his hand or eye.

776². 'Cherubs' = the Word.

D. 238. Vain thoughts cannot rise higher than into the third Heaven, for there are cherubs so called who defend, and who turn those things which are false and evil into what is true and good, and at last into innocences, of which the inmost Heaven consists.

255. On cherubs. . . A cherubic sphere. 256.

E. 152^e. These 'animals' were cherubs; hence so many eyes are ascribed to them, because the Divine Providence of the Lord, which is signified by the cherubs, consists in ruling all things in the Heavens and on earth by Divine wisdom. . . .

179³. 'Cherubs' (Ezek. x. 18) = the Lord as to Providence and as to guard preventing any approach being made except through the good of love. 422¹⁰. —¹⁴. 595⁴. 700³.

277³. It shall now be shown that by 'cherubs' in the Word are signified the guards and Providence of the Lord preventing the higher Heavens from being approached except by the good of love and of charity, so that lower things may be in order. Ill. 283.

280¹⁶. For this reason the four cherubs, by whom is signified the guard and Providence of the Lord preventing any approach being made except through the good of love, were seen as men, although each had four faces (Ezek. i. 5, 6).

282³. 'He rode upon a cherub' = the Divine Providence. 283⁵.

362. By 'cherubs' in the supreme sense is signified the Lord as to Providence and as to protection preventing His being approached except through the good of love; and in the relative sense, the inmost Heaven. The reason the 'cherubs' also = the inmost Heaven, is that this Heaven is in the good of love to the Lord, and the Lord cannot be approached except through the Heavens, and in the inmost or third Heaven nothing is admitted which does not savour of the good of that Heaven.

— The reason there were 'four' animals or cherubs, is that 'four' = conjunction into one, and there is such conjunction with those who are there, for the Lord so conjoins them through love to Himself from Himself.

458³. By 'the cherubs' (carved on the walls of the temple) is signified celestial good, which is the good of the inmost Heaven; by 'the palms,' spiritual good, which is the good of the second Heaven; and by 'the flowers,' spiritual natural good, which is the good of the ultimate Heaven; thus by these three are signified the goods of the three Heavens in their order. But in the supreme sense, by 'the cherubs' is signified the Divine Providence of the Lord, and also guard; by 'the palms,' the Divine wisdom of the Lord; and by 'the flowers,' His Divine intelligence; for the Divine good united to Divine truth proceeding from the Lord in the third Heaven is received as the Divine Providence; in the second Heaven as Divine Wisdom; and in the first Heaven as Divine intelligence.

504². By 'the cherubs' which were seen as 'animals' is meant the Lord as to Divine Providence, and as to guard preventing His being approached except through the good of love; and as the guard itself is in the Heavens, and chiefly in the inmost Heaven, therefore this Heaven is signified by 'the cherubs.' And as the Lord is above the Heavens, He was seen on a throne above the cherubs (Ezek. i. 26). 594¹⁷. 529². 630¹⁰.

717⁹. The sense of the letter of the Word is meant by 'the cherub, the expansion of covering' (Ezek. xxviii. 14).

739^e. That the sense of the letter guards lest the Lord be approached except through appearances of truth, and not through genuine truths by those who are in evils, is signified by the cherubs which with the flame of a sword turning itself were placed in the garden of Eden, to keep the way of the tree of lives.

1088^e. By 'cherubs' in the Word are meant guard and protection preventing the holy things of Heaven from having violence done to them, and preventing the Lord from being approached except through love; hence by them is signified the sense of the letter of the Word, for that guards and protects. Ex.

Chest, Breastplate. Thorax.

A. 1270. I was told that (the Antediluvians) were allowed to inflow into the right part of the head . . . and from the right part of the head into the left side of the chest, but by no means into the left of the head . . . for then they would flow in with their persuasions . . . but when they inflow into the right of the head and thence into the left of the breast-pectoris, they flow in by cupidities; thus stands the case with influx. D. 3362. 3363.

1978. There are other spirits who belong to the province of the left chest . . . D.3184.

4403. The Subjects who appear . . . at the chest or breast are they who are in charity.

6602. There was one Society in the plane of the lower chest.

7643¹⁰. 'Breastplates of iron' (Rev.ix.9)=external things which produce the appearance of truth.

9466^e. 'Breastplates of iron, of jacinth, and of brimstone' (ver.17)=the defence of the falsities which are from the evils of diabolical loves.

9496². The sides of the ark had relation to the pectoral or thoracic part . . . and the sides have a similar signification to that of the pectoral or thoracic part of the body, that is, good, for therein are the heart and lungs, and by the heart is signified celestial good, and by the lungs spiritual good.

S. 13³. Their having 'breastplates as breastplates of iron'=argumentations from fallacies by which they fight and prevail. R.436.

R. 436. By 'breastplates' are signified defences, because they defend the breast; here, the defence of falsities.

450. 'Having breastplates of iron, of jacinth, and of brimstone'=their imaginary and visionary argumentations from infernal love and their Own intelligence, and from the concupiscences thence derived. By 'breastplates' are signified the argumentations by which they fight for faith alone.

T. 119. This Man would have perished . . . as to the chest, when the second Heaven did so.

E. 557. 'They had breastplates as it were breastplates of iron'=the persuasions by which they address themselves to combats . . . 'Breastplates,' or breastplates-loricae=defences against evils and falsities during combats; but here, defences of evils and falsities against goods and truths.

—². Moreover, breastplates cover the pectoral or thoracic part of the body, by which is signified the spiritual affection of truth.

—³. As breastplates were used in the wars, and to put them on meant to gird themselves for war and thus to fight, in the Word they are said to put on breastplates-loricis-who are girded for the fight. III.

576. 'Having breastplates of iron, of jacinth, and of brimstone'=reasonings combating from the cupidities of the loves of self and of the world, and from falsities thence derived; (for) breastplates are armour used in war, specifically, defences in combats.

Chestnut. Castanea. T. 78.

Chew. See EAT-manducare.

Chezib. Kesib.

A. 4827. 'Cezib' (Gen.xxxviii.5)=the state of the idolatrous principal signified by 'Shelah.'

Chicken. See YOUNG-pullus.

Chide. Jurgare.

Chiding. Jurgium.

A. 4164. 'Jacob was wroth and chode with Laban' (Gen.xxxi.36)=the zeal of the Natural. Ex.

8563. 'The people chode with Moses' (Ex.xvii.2)=grievous complaining against Divine truth. 8566.

8588. In the Original Language, 'Meribah' means contention or chiding, and chiding=complaining.

8589. 'On account of the chiding of the Sons of Israel' (ver.7)=complaining from the grievousness of the temptation until they were nearly yielding. 'Chiding'=grievous complaining.

T. 316. For fear of the scoldings of the wife.

Chief. Praecipuus.

See under PRINCIPAL.

A. 2072. Truth is the chief thing in the Rational. 2093². 2623.

7230². The chief things of the Church. Sig.

8314. 'Dukes' (Ex.xv.15)=chiefs, and in a sense abstracted from person, chief things, thus each and all things . . .

—². 'Princes'=primary things, and are predicated of the truths of faith; but 'dukes'=chief things, and are predicated of the good of love.

9376. 'And seventy of the elders of Israel' (Ex.xxiv.1)=the chief truths of the Church or of doctrine which agree with good.

Chief. Primoris.

A. 3424^e. 'The chiefs of the people' (Num.xxi.18)=lower truths such as those in the literal sense.

M. 6³. These chiefs, whom you saw at the head of the tables . . .

—⁵. At the tables of those of the first rank in Heaven.

T. 17³. Thus do the leaders of the Church define the word person.

634². By 'eagles' (Matt.xxiv.28) are here meant the leaders of the Church, like lynxes.

754². That similar loves would burst forth from many of the leaders of the Churches outside Babylon, unless their power was limited . . .

E. 727⁸. By 'the chiefs of the people who dug,' etc. are signified those who are intelligent and wise from the Lord.

Chief captain. See CAPTAIN-chiliarchus.

Child, Boy. *Puer.

Little Child. Puerulus.

Childhood. *Pueritia.

See CHILDREN, also under INFANT, and OFFSPRING-foetus and proles.

A. 406. 'A little one' or 'little child' (Gen.iv.23)=charity.

430. 'A little one' or 'little child' in the Word=
* The Latin words puer and pueritia are usually applied till the seventeenth year, but frequently later. See below, A.10225.

innocence, and also charity, for there is no such thing as true innocence without charity, or true charity without innocence. There are three degrees of innocence, which in the Word are distinguished by the terms 'sucklings,' 'infants,' and 'little children;' and as true innocence is impossible without true love and charity, by the same three terms are signified the three degrees of love, which are, tender love as of a suckling towards its mother or nurse, love as of an infant towards its parents, and charity as of a little child towards his teacher; as in Isaiah . . . 'a little child—puer parvus—shall lead them' (xi.6); where 'a little child'=charity.

[A. 430]². That an infant and a little child=innocence and clarity, is plainly evident from the Lord's words in Luke, 'they brought unto Jesus infants, that He should touch them; He said, Suffer the little ones to come unto Me . . . whosoever doth not receive the Kingdom of God as a child shall not enter therein' (xviii.15,16).

— The Lord Himself is called 'a Little One,' or 'Little Child' (Is.ix.6), because He is innocence itself, and love itself.

820². There are also lads, youths, and young men, who from the silliness of their time of life, and from prurience, have conceived the infamous principles, that wives, especially the young and pretty ones, ought not to be for their husbands, but for them and such as they, the husband only remaining as the head of the family and the bringer up of the offspring. They are distinguished in the other life by the boyish—puerilis—sound of their voices. . . Those of them who have confirmed themselves in these principles and in actual life conformable thereto, are miserably punished in the other life (being twisted and torn until they seem to themselves to be in fragments), and this often, until they are struck with horror at a life of such principles, and desist from so thinking.

1269. A beautiful boy was seen dressed in a bright white garment, then another boy in a green dress . . .

1401. The historical particulars narrated in this chapter (Gen.xii) about Abram, represent the Lord's state from His first childhood up to His adolescence . . . 1433.

1428^e. The Lord's Sensual and Corporeal was represented by Lot, or what is the same, His sensuous and corporeal man, as it was in His state of childhood . . .

1430. 'When he went forth from Haran' (ver.4)=the Lord's dim state, such as that of man's childhood.

1434. 'Lot his brother's son' (ver.5)=sensuous truth, thus the first that was insinuated into the Lord when a child. . . Sensuous truth is the first truth that insinuates itself, for during childhood the judgment goes no deeper. Sensuous truth consists in seeing that all earthly and mundane things have been created by God, and that each and all things have been created for some end, and in seeing in each and all of them some image of the Lord's Kingdom. This sensuous truth is insinuated only with the celestial man; and as the Lord alone was a celestial man, these and similar sensuous truths were insinuated into Him during His first childhood; thus was He prepared to receive celestial things.

1435^e. All these are acquisitions, and in fact in Haran, by which is signified a dim state such as that which prevails from infancy to childhood.

1450. 'He removed from thence to a mountain on the east of Bethel' (ver.8)=the Lord's fourth state when a child. . . First of all the Lord was from His infancy imbued with the celestial things of love. Def. These celestial things are insinuated into man especially during his state of infancy up to childhood, and in fact without Knowledges; for they flow in from the Lord, and affect him before he knows what love and affection are, as may be evident from the state of infants, and afterwards from the state of first childhood. . . As the Lord was born as any other man, He was also introduced into celestial things according to order, and in fact by degrees from infancy to childhood, and afterwards into Knowledges . . .

1451. Celestial things are insinuated into man without Knowledges from his infancy up to his childhood, but celestial things with Knowledges, from childhood up to adult age.

1453. Infants and children are in celestial things more than adults, because they are in love towards their parents, and in mutual love, and also in innocence; but adults are in the Knowledges of celestial things more than infants and children . . . Before a man is instructed in those things which are of love and faith, he is in a dim state, that is, as to Knowledges, which state is here described by 'Bethel being on the sea, that is, on the west, and Ai on the east' (id.)

1460. 'There was a famine in the Land' (ver.10)=the penury of Knowledges which still prevailed with the Lord when a child. . . During childhood the Knowledges with man never come from within, but from the objects of the senses, especially from the hearing . . . So too with the Lord when a child . . . but the interiors with Him were celestial . . . the interiors with Him were Divine from Jehovah His Father . . .

1461. 'Abram went down into Egypt to sojourn' (id.) =instruction in Knowledges from the Word . . . During His childhood the Lord was instructed like any other man, as is evident from Luke i.80; ii.40. . . Hence it may be evident, that during His childhood the Lord did not will to imbue any Knowledges but those of the Word, which was open before Him from Jehovah His Father. 1502.

1462^e. Hence it is evident that by 'the child Israel' (Hos.xi.1) is meant the Lord; and that His instruction when a child is meant by 'Out of Egypt have I called My Son' (id.).

1472. This is also manifested with children when they are first beginning to learn, namely, that the deeper the Knowledges are the more they desire them, and still more when they hear that they are celestial and Divine . . . 1480.

—². To this end the Lord insinuates the delight which childhood and youth perceive in knowledges . . .

1482. 'Egypt' and 'Pharaoh' are here used in the best sense (ver.15), because they are predicated of the knowledge of Knowledges which the Lord in His childhood first laid hold of.

1484. 'Woman'=truth, here the truth which was in the knowledges the delights of which the Lord caught in His childhood.

1487. Scientifics are acquired in childhood for no other end than the end of knowing, but with the Lord, from the delights and the affection of truth. The scientifics which are acquired in childhood are very numerous, but are arranged in order by the Lord that they may serve for use, first that (the child) may be able to think, afterwards that they may be of use through the thought . . .

1489. Unless the scientifics which had been of use in childhood for the man to become rational be destroyed . . .

1495. Hence it is evident that the Lord, as a child, when He imbibed scientifics, first of all knew no otherwise than that scientifics were merely for the sake of the intellectual man . . .

—². While man is being instructed in his first childhood there is indeed a like order, but it appears otherwise, namely, that from scientifics there is an advance to rational things, from these to spiritual things, and so at last to celestial things . . .

—^e. Even with children all their thought and thence speech are completely full (of the arcana of art and analytical knowledge), which could never be so unless the celestial and spiritual things which are within flowed in . . .

1496. Regarded in itself, the truth which is learned from childhood is nothing but a fit vessel into which what is celestial can insinuate itself . . .

—^e. Intellectual truth is conjoined with an internal perception that it is so; this was with the Lord in childhood, and with Him opened the way to celestial things.

1502³. The Lord was inaugurated from childhood.

1536. There is here described (Gen. xiii) the state of the external man such as it was in childhood, when first imbued with scientifics and Knowledges, that it advanced therefrom more and more to conjunction with the internal man.

1542. The things of this chapter (id.) represent the Lord, and are a continuation of His life from childhood.

— There are two things with man which prevent his becoming celestial; one pertaining to the intellectual, the other to the voluntary part; the former is the unprofitable scientifics which he draws in during childhood and youth . . .

1543. 'Abram went up from Egypt' (ver. 1) = from scientifics which left the Lord . . . while yet a child. 1544.

1547. 'And Lot with him' (id.) = the Sensual . . . 'Lot' = the sensuous things, by which is meant the external man and his pleasures which are of sensuous things, thus which are outermost, and are wont to take man captive in his childhood and withdraw him from goods . . .

1555². The will in man is formed by the Lord from infancy to childhood, which is effected by the insinuation of innocence and of charity towards parents, nurses, little children of a similar age, and by many things which man knows nothing about, which are celestial things; unless these celestial things were first insinuated into man while he is an infant and a child, he could never become man. Thus is formed the first plane. But as man is not man unless he is also possessed of understanding . . . and understanding cannot be acquired except through knowledges and Knowledges, he is to be imbued therewith from childhood by degrees. Thus is formed the second plane.

1557. The Lord's state was then childlike-*puerilis. Des. This childlike state is holy because it is innocent . . .

—^e. The Lord now first arrived at that celestial state such as He had when a child, in which state also worldly things are present . . .

1584. Nor can it be doubted that the Lord when a child, as to the external man, was many times in such Divine sight . . .

1616⁴. See ADOLESCENCE at this ref.

—⁵. But the Lord . . . filled the Knowledges with celestial things, and implanted them in celestial things according to Divine order, first in the celestial things of childhood, then in the celestial things of the age between childhood and infancy, and at last in the celestial things of His infancy . . .

—^e. As the Lord implanted the Knowledges of celestial things, so He had perception . . . He had the first perception when He implanted the scientifics of His childhood . . .

1653. That those evils and falsities against which the Lord fought did not appear sooner than in childhood, and that then they burst forth, is signified by the kings serving Chedorlaomer (Gen. xiv. 4). 1667.

1661. It treats concerning the combats of the Lord against evils and falsities, here concerning His first combat, which took place in His childhood and first adolescence . . .

—⁵. As, in His first childhood, the Lord was introduced into most grievous combats against evils and falsities . . .

1667³. So long as there is such good and truth with man, whether in his childhood, or in the rest of his life, evils and falsities can effect nothing . . . as is sufficiently evident with infants, good children, and the simple at heart . . .

1668. 'And in the thirteenth year they rebelled' (ver. 4) = the beginning of temptations in childhood.

1673². Such were the wicked nations against whom the Lord fought in His first childhood . . .

1675. By 'Chedorlaomer' is represented the good and truth of the Lord in His childhood.

1690. Hence it is evident that the whole of the Lord's life in the world from His first childhood was continual temptation and continual victory.

1705. By 'Mamre, Eschool, and Aner' (ver. 13) are represented the Angels who were with the Lord when He fought in His first childhood . . .

1741. In the two preceding chapters, 'Abram' represented the Lord or His state in childhood.

1752. 'Except only what the boys have eaten' (ver. 24) = good Spirits.

—^e. Angelic Spirits are they who are here called 'the boys,' but the Angels themselves, 'the men.'

1776. The Angels understand the internal sense of the Word better and more fully when very young boys and girls read it than when adults do who are not in the faith of charity. The reason is that very young boys and girls are in a state of mutual love and innocence, thus their very tender vessels are almost celestial, and are merely capacities of reception, which can be thus disposed by the Lord, although this does not come to their perception, except by a certain delight conformable to their genius.

[A.] 1778. A continuation concerning the Lord (Gen. xv), after He had in childhood endured the most grievous combats of temptations, and these against the love which He cherished towards the universal human race, specifically, towards the Church . . .

1785. 'After these words the word of Jehovah came to Abram in a vision' (ver. 1)=that after the combats in childhood there was a revelation. . . 'The word of Jehovah to Abram' is nothing but the Lord's word to Himself; but in childhood, and in the combats of temptations, when the Essences had not been united into one, it could appear no otherwise than as revelation.

2125. First there were seen children who were combed by their mothers so cruelly that the blood ran all around, which represented that such is the education of little children at this day. D.3992.

2181. 'He gave it to the boy, and he hastened to make it' (Gen.xviii.7)=the conjunction of this good with rational good. 'The boy'=the natural man, (for) 'boy'=one who ministers and administers.

2309. I was in the street of a great city, and saw little boys fighting; a crowd gathered who watched the spectacle with great pleasure, and I was instructed that the parents themselves excite their little children—puerulos liberos—to such fights. The good Spirits and Angels who saw them through my eyes felt such an aversion for them that I perceived the horror, especially at the fact that the parents incite them to such things; saying, that thus in their first age they extinguish all mutual love and all innocence which little children receive from the Lord, and initiate them into hatreds and revenges, consequently that they deliberately exclude their children from Heaven, where there is nothing but mutual love. H.344.

2348. 'From a boy even to an old man' (Gen.xix.4)=falsities and evils both recent and confirmed. . . 'Boys'=those which have not yet grown up, thus recent ones. Ill.

—. 'Boys playing in the streets' (Zech.viii.5)=recent truths, and 'girls'=recent goods, and their affections, and thence gladnesses.

2504². It indeed appears to man as though the Scientific of faith were first, and that then from it there comes forth the Rational, and at last the Intellectual, and this because man proceeds in this way from childhood; but still the Intellectual continually inflows into the Rational, and this into the Scientific . . . but during childhood obscurely . . .

2588. It treats here concerning the doctrine of faith concerning which the Lord thought in His childhood, namely, whether it would be allowable to enter into it by means of rational things, and thus form for Himself ideas about it.

2677. 'The boy (Ishmael)' (Gen.xxi.14)=what is spiritual. . . For Ishmael here represents the man of the Spiritual Church, and as he here represents him at the beginning, it is said 'the boy.'

2682. 'She cast the boy under one of the shrubs' (ver. 15)=despair at perceiving nothing of truth and good. 'The boy'=spiritual truth.

2687. 'Because she said, Lest I see the death of the boy' (ver. 16)=grief that thus it would perish. . . 'The boy'=spiritual truth.

2689³. During childhood, while he is first being imbued with goods and truths, everyone is kept by the Lord in an affirmative that what is said and taught by parents and masters is true . . .

2691. 'God heard the voice of the boy' (ver. 17)=help then . . . 'The boy'=spiritual truth . . . The reason He is said to have heard the voice of the boy, and not that of Hagar, is that it treats of the state of the spiritual man; by 'the boy,' or Ishmael, is represented the man of the Spiritual Church . . .

2697. 'Lift up the boy' (ver. 18)=the Spiritual as to truth . . . 'The boy'=the Spiritual especially as to truth. 2704.

2706. 'God was with the boy' (ver. 20)=the presence of the Lord with the spiritual . . . 'The boy'=the Spiritual as to truth, here, the spiritual, because he represents the man of the Spiritual Church, also the Spiritual Church itself, and in a universal sense, the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom.

2782. '(Abraham) took the two boys' (Gen.xxii.3)=the former Rational which He adjoined. 'Boys' in the Word have various significations because they are predicated both of the sons of the house and of the sons of a stranger, and also of servants, as here.

2792. 'Abraham said to his boys, Abide ye here with the ass' (ver. 5)=the separation of the former Rational with the Natural then. . . 'The boys'=the former Rational.

2793. 'And I and the boy will go even thither' (id.)=the Divine Rational in a state of truth girded for the most grievous and inmost combats of temptations. 'The boy'=the Divine Rational in such a state, (for) 'Isaac'=the Divine Rational, but here, as it is not said 'Isaac' . . . but 'the boy,' he=the Divine Rational in such a state as is presently treated of. 2795².

2856. 'Abraham returned to his boys' (ver. 19)=conjunction again with the former Rational, (for) 'the boys'=the former or merely human Rational which was to be of service to the Divine Rational. 2858.

3067^e. 'A boy' or 'little boy'=a state in which there is innocence.

3183. Afterwards man is introduced into a state of the affection of spiritual good, or of mutual love, that is, of charity towards his like, which state is signified by children.

3254. Instead of the time of childhood and adolescence (the Angels have an idea) of a state of affection of good and truth.

3308. 'The boys grew up' (Gen.xxv.27)=the first state, namely, of the conjunction of good and truth . . . 'The boys'=good and truth, for good is represented by the boy Esau, and truth by the boy Jacob.

3309. Scientifics are of two kinds, namely, sensuous things and scientific things . . . sensuous things are those in which children are, scientific things are those in which the same children are when they grow up.

3470². The case herein is as with children, who first learn many things, even useless ones, such as games; not to be made wise by such things, but to prepare the way to receive useful things which are of wisdom, on the reception of which they are separated, nay, rejected. 3982².

3518². When a child is first instructed he is affected with the desire of knowing not for any end that is manifest to himself, but by a certain pleasure and connate delight . . .

3665⁵. The Knowledges of external or corporeal truth which are from collateral good and which have what is Divine within them, and so can admit genuine goods, such as are [the Knowledges] with very young children who are afterwards regenerated, are in general such things as the historicals of the Word . . . When these things are known and thought of by a very young child, the Angels who are with him think of the Divine things which they represent and signify, and as the Angels are affected with these things, their affection is communicated, and causes the delight and pleasure which the child has from them, and prepares his mind to receive genuine truths and goods. 3690².

3688³. A man who is such that he can be regenerated . . . at first, like a very young child, does not know what are the works of charity (therefore gives to beggars); these goods are the goods of external truth from which he begins; the truth of good, which is interior, thus infows into them, and operates according to the Knowledges in which the child is . . .

3690². All the historical things of the Word are truths more remote from the Divine doctrinal things themselves, but still they are serviceable to children, in order to introduce them into the interior doctrinal things of truth and good by degrees, and at last to the very Divine ones. . . In order that this first state may exist, that is, the state of infancy and childhood of those who are to be regenerated, the historical things of the Word have been given, and have been so written that everything contains what is Divine.

3701⁶. This is the state of infancy and childhood as to the new life . . .

3778³. In childhood man acknowledges nothing else as good and truth . . .

3843². This is circumstanced as everything else is which is implanted in man from childhood; it does not become his Own until he acts according to it, and that from affection . . .

3982². These arcana are given in the Word in a historical form in order that the Word may be read with delight, even by children and the simple, so that when they are in holy delight from the historical sense, the Angels who are with them may be in the holiness of the internal sense . . .

3986⁵. Such good as this usually exists with very young children before they have received genuine truths.

4551². Man is quite ignorant of these things, but still there is such a removal and rejection of falsities from his first childhood up to his last age . . .

4672. 'The boy (Joseph)' (Gen. xxxvii. 2) = what is first, (for) 'a boy' (or child), when predicated of a new Church, = what is first or its first state, for the Church is like an infant, a child, a man, and at last an old man . . . In the Church which from its age is called 'a child,' and which is of such a character as quickly to turn aside, the Lord is at first present . . . but is afterwards estranged from them (as is here represented).

5126². From his infancy to his childhood man is merely sensuous, for he then receives nothing but earthly, bodily, and worldly things through the sensuals of the body, and from these too at that time are his ideas and thoughts; the communication with the interior man is not as yet open, or only so far as to enable him to apprehend and retain these things. The innocence which he then has is only external . . . Through this the Lord reduces into order the things which enter through the sensuals; without an influx of innocence from the Lord in this first age no foundation could come into existence upon which the Intellectual or Rational which is proper to man could be built. (Continued under ADOLESCENCE at this ref.)

5236. 'There was there with us a Hebrew boy' (Gen. xli. 12) = that on account of temptation the guiltless principle of the Church was rejected thither . . . 'A boy' = what is guiltless. . . The reason 'a boy' (or child) = what is guiltless, is that 'an infant' = what is innocent. For there are mentioned in the Word 'a suckling,' 'an infant,' 'a child,' and by these are signified the three degrees of innocence, the first degree by 'a suckling,' the second by 'an infant,' and the third by 'a child;' but as with a child innocence begins to be put off, by 'a child' is signified that innocent principle which is called guiltless. 9390. 10132². E. 314³.

—³. That the innocent principle which is called guiltless is signified by 'a boy' (or child), is evident in Luke; Jesus said, 'Whoever does not receive the Kingdom of God as a child shall not enter therein' (xviii. 17). To receive the Kingdom of God as a child is to receive charity and faith from innocence. Further III.

5342². From his first infancy to his first childhood man is introduced by the Lord into Heaven, and in fact among the Celestial Angels, by whom he is kept in a state of innocence . . . When the age of childhood begins, he then by degrees puts off the state of innocence, but it is still kept in a state of charity through the affection of mutual charity towards his like, which state lasts with many up to adolescence; he is then among the Spiritual Angels. (His further progress des.)

5376. The man who is born within the Church, from his first childhood learns from the Word and from the doctrinal things of the Church what the truth of faith is and also what the good of charity is . . . The truths therefore which he had imbibed from childhood, could not enter further into his life than to the first entrance, from which they may either be admitted more interiorly or cast out altogether. Ex.

5497. A child who is still in his minority—in ephebis- cannot think any deeper than from the exterior Natural, for he forms his ideas from sensuous things . . .

[A.] 5604. 'Send the boy with me' (Gen.xliii.8)=that (interior truth signified by Benjamin, who is here 'the boy') might be adjoined to the good of the Church which is represented by Judah. It is said 'boy,' because that which is interior is in the Word relatively called 'a boy,' there being more innocence in what is interior than in what is exterior.

5774². Thus does every man advance from childhood as he grows up; when he is a child he thinks and apprehends matters from sensuous things . . .

5812. 'The boy cannot leave his father' (Gen.xliv.22)=that that truth cannot be separated from spiritual good. . . This truth is called 'a boy' because it is born last.

6049. 'Thy servants have been men of cattle from their childhood' (Gen.xlvi.34)=that from the beginning they have had truths from which is good.

6333³. Historical things have therefore been given, in order that infants and children may be initiated through them into the reading of the Word; for they are delightful, and seat themselves in their minds, by which means communication is given them with the Heavens; which communication is grateful because they are in a state of innocence and mutual charity . . .

6680. 'They kept the boys alive' (Ex.i.17)=that truths being of good were preserved. This is evident from the signification of sons, who are here called 'boys,' being truths. The sons are here called 'boys,' because by 'boys' is signified the good of innocence; wherefore 'boys' here=the truths which are of good. 6682.

7661. 'With our children and with our old men' (Ex.x.9)=the simple and the wise. 'Children,' when adjoined to 'old men'=the simple, because 'old men'=the wise.

9212⁸. Peter when 'a boy' (John xxi.18)=the faith of the Church such as it is at its beginning.

9390. 'He sent boys of the Sons of Israel' (Ex.xxiv.5)=those things which are of innocence and charity with those who are of the Church.

9755⁵. Hence truths with man in childhood are truths in knowledge, but in adult age, if he suffers himself to be regenerated, they become truths in faith; for the internal man is successively opened up to that age.

10225. The second state is from the fifth to the twentieth year; this state is a state of instruction and of knowledge, and is called childhood.

—⁴. That the second state is one of instruction and of knowledge is evident; this state is not as yet one of intelligence, because a child does not form any conclusions from himself, nor does he from himself discriminate between truths and truths, nor even between truths and falsities, but from others; he only thinks and speaks matters of the memory, thus from mere knowledge, nor does he see and perceive whether it is so, except from the faith of a master, thus because another has so said.

10557. 'His minister Joshua the son of Nun, a boy' (Ex.xxxiii.11)=Divine truth ministering instead of Moses; he is called 'the son of Nun' from truth, and 'a boy,' from good.

H. 295. In childhood Spirits are present who are in the affection of knowing, thus who communicate with the ultimate or first Heaven.

330. A child enters the other life in the state of a child.

352². But they are not of this kind who in childhood supposed those things to be true which they heard from their masters, if in early manhood, when they think from their own understanding, they do not remain in them . . .

391. There are other Societies who . . . instruct and educate boys and girls who are of a good disposition from their education in the world, and who therefore come into Heaven.

S. 23. Children . . . innocence and charity.

P. 98^e. Infants and children cannot come into freedom itself and rationality itself until they grow to mature age; for the interiors of the mind are opened successively . . .

R. 463. (Boys and girls in the Spiritual World seen distributing presents to their beautiful turtles.) T.462.

611⁵. (Children seen there with their master.)

—⁶. The children said, We have thought of God from person, of our neighbour from form that he is a man, and of Heaven from place; did we therefore when reading the Word appear to anyone like dead horses? No, said the master, you are but children, and could not do otherwise, but I have perceived in you an affection of knowing and understanding, and this being spiritual, you also have thought spiritually.

839⁴. There were two houses at the south side of that place where there were children with their masters.

M. 17³. After noon (in Heaven) games of boys and girls are seen in the streets, which are regulated by their governesses and masters, who sit in the porches of the houses.

—⁴. At the sides of the city in the outermost parts there are various games of boys and youths . . . There are matches among the boys [to show] who is the quickest in speech, action, and perception; and the quicker ones receive some leaves of laurel as a prize; besides many other things designed to call forth the latent abilities of the boys.

176. The care of the instruction of the boys, after childhood, and up to the age of adolescence—ephebatum—, and also after it until they come under their own jurisdiction, is the proper office of the husband.

218². (The difference between boys and girls as seen in their sports.)

293⁶. Instead of the dove there was seen a little boy with a paper in his hand . . . 294⁸.

329. (Some boys followed me home and saw an insect running on my paper.)

—³. The boys then went away to the head master, and asked him to propound this new problem in the school . . .

T. 23². To implant in an infant and a child the idea of three Divine persons, to which there inevitably adheres the idea of three gods, is to take away from them all spiritual milk, and afterwards all spiritual food, and lastly all spiritual reason; and with those who confirm themselves in it, it is to induce spiritual death.

42. The ultimate region of the mind, where life exists in the lowest degree, is opened from infancy to childhood, and this is effected through knowledges; the second region, where life exists in a greater degree, is opened from childhood to adolescence, and this is effected through thoughts from knowledges . . .

426². See BEGGAR at this ref.

443. Moral life with children, up to the first adolescence, is natural, which afterwards becomes more and more rational.

476. Every man changes his position in the World of Spirits as he advances from infancy to old age; an infant is kept in the eastern quarter towards the north; a child, as he learns the rudiments of religion, successively recedes from the north to the south . . .

678^e. Without the Christian sign of baptism, some Mohammedan Spirit, or some one from the idolaters, could apply himself to newly-born Christian infants, and also to children, and breathe into them an inclination for his religion . . .

D. 347. Mohammedan infants come immediately into Heaven, but boys and girls not so [immediately] . . . Their boys and girls under ten years of age, more or less, according to their education, capacity, and nature, are not at once elevated into heaven, but are carried away to their Spirits, and are thus perfected by degrees and raised up. . . The reason why their boys and girls could not be raised up so quickly, is that they are immediately imbued with paganism.

3620. Beholding some boys fighting, I perceived the highest degree of delight flowing in from certain Spirits . . .

3621. Hence it was evident how boys are at once educated into hatreds, becoming of such a character that they can scarcely look at one another with a pleasant countenance. Thus too it is evident of what character boys, even little boys, will be in the other life, where mutual love will reign.

4516. Hence it may be evident of what quality are the ideas taken up in childhood, and how completely they remain . . .

E. 223⁹. By 'boys and girls playing in the streets' are signified affections of truth and of good and their delights. 652¹².

270². In the spiritual sense by 'infants' is meant innocence; by 'children,' charity . . .

365¹⁷. 'Unto us a Child is born' (Is.ix.6) . . . These things are said of the Lord's advent, because by 'a child' in the Word is signified good, here Divine good; and by 'a son,' truth, here Divine truth.

376²⁴. 'To give a boy for a harlot' (Joel iii.3)=to falsify truth, for 'a boy'=the truth of the Church.

412⁶. Jesus said of a child whom He set in the midst of His disciples, 'See that ye despise not any of these little ones; I say unto you that their Angels in the Heavens always see the face of my Father who is in the Heavens' (Matt.xviii.10). It is said that their Angels see, because there are Spirits and Angels with every man, according to the quality of the man; with very young children=infantes pueros=there are Angels from the inmost Heaven; these see the Lord as a Sun . . . But in the purely spiritual sense these words signify that the Lord as to His Divine good is in the good of innocence, for this latter is signified by a very young child in the spiritual sense.

430¹⁵. 'Men' (Matt.xiv.21)=those who are in truths; 'women and children,' those who are in goods.

532³. That all innocence and all wisdom will perish, is signified by 'the children and old men' (Is.xx.4) whom the king of Assyria will lead away.

655⁶. By 'the children who fall with wood' (Lam.v.13) are signified nascent goods perishing by evils.

670^e. This doctrine was taken up into Heaven, lest before the establishment of the New Church it should be injured by the evil, (which is signified by), 'the child was caught up to God, and to His throne' (Rev.xii.5).

695¹⁵. The children who were slain at Bethlehem=truth from a spiritual origin.

780⁶. 'A little child shall lead them'=the state of innocence and of love to the Lord in which they will be; 'a child'=innocence and at the same time love to the Lord, for love to the Lord makes one with innocence, for they who are in that love are also in innocence, as are they who are in the third Heaven, who also on that account appear as infants and children.

863. Natural affections of truth prevail with children and young people.

C. 129. So long as infants and children are under their nurses and masters, they indeed do not do the goods of use, but still they learn to do them, and have them as an end.

Child-bearing. Puerperus. A.3994^e.

Childless. Improles.

A. 1794. 'I walking childless' (Gen.xv.2)=that there was no internal Church.

4835³. To be childless=the deprivation of good and truth, thus that there was no longer a representative of the Church in that house, consequently, that it was out of the communion.

Children. Liberi.

See under BORN=Nasci, and CHILD.

A. 313^e. This everyone may know from the fact that the evil inclinations of parents remain visibly in the children.

494². All actual evil with parents puts on a kind of nature, and when it recurs often becomes natural, and is added to the Hereditary, and transplanted into the children . . .

1272. Wherever the Antediluvians went they had their children going before them in a bent line. But they were told that . . . if they had loved their children, not for the sake of the love and glory of self, but that human society might be enlarged for the common good, and still more so, that Heaven might be multiplied from them, thus if they had loved them for the sake of the Lord's Kingdom, then their love towards infants would have been genuine.

[A.] 1389. Cares about food, children, etc.

1865³. That the Divine love is such may be evident from the love of parents towards their children, which increases according to the degree in which it descends, that is, it becomes greater towards the descendants than towards their children themselves. . . The cause and origin of this can only be from the Lord, from Whom all marriage love and love of parents towards their children flows in . . .

1921³. In proportion as the offspring recede from the father's likeness they recede from the father, thus more and more as they advance in age; hence it is that a father's love towards his children diminishes according to the advance of their age.

2309. See CHILD at this ref.

2731. The descendants of the Most Ancient Church, with whom the Church declined, began to love their children and not their married partners; for children can be loved by the evil, but a married partner only by the good.

2732. They said that they who in the bodily life have lived in such marriage love, are together and dwell together in Heaven as Angels, sometimes also with their children; but very few do so who are from Christendom at this day; but from the Most Ancient Church all did so, and many from the Ancient Church. De Conj. 117.

2742. This kind of marriage love . . . is merely for the sake of the care of the children, etc. H.381. M.284.

2745. It was said that such wives (as do not love their husbands) still love their children, but it was replied that that love is not human . . .

2818². That the Lord was to come into the world and suffer death was known from the most ancient time, as may be manifestly known from the fact that the custom prevailed with the Gentiles of sacrificing their children, they believing that thus they would be expiated and God propitiated . . .

3179³. The fruits of truth from good, or of faith from charity, they called children.

3469³. Everything that parents have contracted by frequent use and habit, or have imbued by actual life until it has become so familiar to them that it appears to be natural, is derived into their children and becomes hereditary. Examps. 4317⁴.

5051². Marriage love is heavenly when a man lives contented in the Lord with his married partner, whom he most tenderly loves, and with his children . . .

8850. Such of (the inhabitants of Jupiter) as have lived happily in marriage love and have taken such care of their children as becomes parents, do not die by diseases, but as in a peaceful sleep.

8851. Their delights are to love their married partners, and to take care of their children.

8986. 'I love my lord, my woman, and my children'

(Ex.xxi.5)=the delight of the recollection of spiritual goods. . . 'Children'=the goods and truths thence derived.

10165. In the (second) Earth the husband has only one wife, and they procreate children to the number of from ten to fifteen.

P. 281^e. Evil would so increase in him that no room for restoration would remain, and hardly in his children, if he should beget any.

M. 405. Spiritual fathers and mothers, after they have sipped the sweetness of innocence in their infants, love their children quite differently from what natural fathers and mothers do. The spiritual love their children from their spiritual intelligence and moral life, thus they love them from the fear of God and from actual piety or that of the life, and at the same time from their affection for and application to uses which are of service to society, thus from the virtues and good manners in them. It is chiefly from the love of these things that they provide for and administer to their necessities; therefore, if they do not see such things in them, they alienate their minds from them, and only do anything for them from a sense of obligation. (The love of natural parents also des.)

406. Most fathers when they come into the other life, recollect their children who have died before them; they are also presented to and recognise each other. Spiritual fathers only look at them, inquire as to their present state, rejoice if it is well with them, and grieve if it is ill; and after some conversation, instruction, and admonition concerning moral heavenly life, they separate themselves from them, before which they teach them that they are no longer to be remembered as fathers, because the Lord is the only Father to all in Heaven, according to His words, Matt.xxiii.9, and that they never remember them as their children. But natural fathers, as soon as they become conscious that they are living after death, and recall their children to memory who have died before them, and when according to their wish they are presented to each other, are at once conjoined with them, and they cohere together like sticks tied up into bundles; and the father is continually delighted to look at them and talk to them. If he is told that some of his children are satans, and that they have done injuries to the good, he nevertheless keeps them in a group around him, or in a troop before him; if he himself sees that they inflict injuries and commit evils, he pays no attention to it, nor does he dissociate any of them from himself. In order therefore to prevent the continuance of such a dangerous company, they are of necessity committed all together to Hell, and there the father is shut up in confinement before his children's eyes, and the children are separated, and each is sent away to the place of his own life.

T. 407. Everyone knows that a father who chastises his children when they do evil, loves them, and that he who does not chastise them on that account loves their evils. 459¹⁵. C.163.

431. The domestic obligations of charity . . . of a father and mother towards their children, are from a love implanted in everyone, called storge; and those of children towards their parents are from and according to another love which closely conjoins itself with obedience from obligation.

—³. With parents who are in charity, parental love is conjoined with love towards the neighbour and with love to God; for by these parents the children are loved according to their manners, virtues, studies, and qualifications for serving the public; but with those who are not in charity, there is no conjunction of charity with the love called storge, wherefore many of these love bad, unmannered, and cunning ones better than good, well-mannered and sagacious ones; thus those who are useless to the public better than those who are useful.

E. 315²¹. 'The father shall betray the children to death' (Mark xii. 12)=that the good of the Church will perish by the falsities of evil; 'the father'=the good of the Church, and 'the children'=the falsities of evil. 'The children rising against their parents and killing them'=that falsities of evil will attack the goods and truths of the Church and will destroy them. 366^e.

555^e. 'To cook children' (Lam. iv. 10)=by falsities to destroy the truths and goods of doctrine from the Word. 'To make them their meat'=to appropriate falsities.

659¹⁸. The truths from that good and the increase of them are signified by 'the children who shall be as the herb of the earth' (Job v. 25), for 'sons' and 'children'=truths from good; in like manner 'the herb of the earth.'

724⁵. 'To hate father, mother, wife, children,' etc. (Matt. xix. 29)=such things as are of the man himself, and which are called his Own . . . The loves of self and of the world are 'the father and mother,' and the cupidities thence originating and their evils and falsities are 'the children' . . .

D. Wis. xi. 5. Rightly to educate children (is one of the general uses of charity).

C. 174. The externals of the body which belong to worship, are . . . with every one to instruct children and servants about (God, Heaven, salvation).

Chimera. Chimera. T. 37³. 57. 181. 379⁴. 525. 657^e.

Chimney, Furnace. Caminus.

A. 1861¹⁰. 'Shall send them into a furnace of fire' (Matt. xiii. 42).

7519⁵. 'A furnace of fire'=the evils of cupidities.

8846. Among the Spirits from Jupiter there are some they call chimney sweepers . . . D. 874.

H. 585. Like soot from a chimney on fire.

R. 49. 'His feet like fine brass burning in a furnace' (Rev. i. 15)=Divine natural good.

T. 61^e. Like a chimney-sweeper sticking in a dusky chimney.

D. 4744. Such appear there like chimney sweepers.

E. 69. It is said, 'as if they burned in a furnace,' in order to express the Divine love in the greatest degree, and in its fullness.

540². By 'a furnace of fire,' or a furnace-fornax—is meant the Hells. 911⁵.

Chin. Mentum.

A. 1773². Ascending towards the chin . . .

4046. Under the left part of the chin . . .

9435. Even to the chin . . .

P. 169^e. Around the mouth and above the chin.

D. 4825^e. These two (persons) inflowed into the chin with me; hence it is evident that the thoughts of such inflow into that part of the face which is scarcely the face, but is below the face where the beard is.

China. China.

Chinese. Chinensis.

A. 2596. One morning there was a choir at a distance from me, and from the representations made by them it was given to know that they were Chinese, for they presented a kind of woolly goat, a cake of millet, and an ebony spoon, and also the idea of a floating city. They desired to come nearer to me, and when they applied themselves, they said they wanted to be alone with me, that they might open their thoughts. But they were told that they were not alone, and that there were others who were indignant at their wanting to be alone, when they were guests. Having perceived their indignation, they fell to thinking whether they had trespassed against the neighbour, and whether they had claimed anything for themselves which belonged to others. I was given to perceive their agitation; it was that of an acknowledgment that perhaps they had injured others, also of shame on that account, and of other good affections at the same time; hence it was known that they were possessed of charity. Presently I spoke with them, and at last about the Lord. When I called Him Christ, a certain repugnance was perceived in them; but the reason was disclosed, that they had brought it from the world, from their having known Christians to live worse than they did themselves, and in no charity. But when I simply mentioned the Lord, they were inwardly moved. H. 325. D. 3066.

10770. Like grains of Chinese wheat.

R. 11^e. They mentioned that they do not suffer foreigners to come among them, except the Chinese, with whom they cultivate peace, because the Chinese emperor is from their country . . . T. 279⁴.

— Seek for the ancient Word in China, and you may perhaps find it there among the Tartars.

D. 6067. On the Indian Chinese. J. (Post.) 132.

6077. On the inhabitants of Tartary near to China. J. (Post.) 133.

Chink. Rima, Rimosus.

A. 2851². Only through chinks . . . does some light from Heaven enter, whereby they can think and reason. 3167². 3679⁴. 4618². 5127^e. 6299^e. 6564. H. 430.

R. 926². Instead of the magnificent temple there was seen a house full of chinks from top to bottom.

M. 268. There was seen a house built of reeds, and consequently full of chinks.

E. 406. (When the spiritual mind is closed, the light of Heaven can only flow into the natural mind through chinks; and the light of Heaven flowing in through chinks into the Natural, is light separated from the heat of Heaven . . .

[E.] 410³. Hence it is evident what is signified by 'figures,' chinks of the rocks. III.

Chittim. Kittim, Kitthaci.

A. 1152. 'The sons of Javan' (Gen.x.4)=others still who had external worship derived from the worship which prevailed with the nation 'Javan'; 'Elishah, Tarshish, Chittim and Dodanim' were so many nations with whom there was such worship, and by which also are signified so many doctrinals, which were rituals, derived from the external worship with 'Javan.' 1156.

1156². 'Chittim' (Jer.ii.x; Is.xxiii.12)=rituals.

—'. 'The beam of a ship from the isles of Chittim' (Ezek.xxvii.6)=externals of worship, thus rituals which relate to the class of celestial things.

1158⁵. ('Chittim' is called 'the isles' from external worship.)

3268⁸. 'The isles of Chittim' (Jer.ii.10)=those who are more remote from worship, that is, the gentiles who are in simple good, and thence in natural truth.

E. 304²⁷. By 'the land of Chittim' (Is.xxiii.1) is meant what is idolatrous.

406¹⁴. 'The land of Chittim'=falsities.

—¹⁴. 'The isles of Chittim'=where they are who ve naturally in truths.

Chocolate. Chocolade.

J. (Post.) 269. (The Londoners in the Spiritual World drink chocolate, tea, ale, etc., the same as they do here.)

Choir. Chorus.

A. 418². That singing and the like=what is spiritual, is evident to me from the angelic choirs, which are of two kinds, celestial and spiritual. Spiritual choirs, from their winged melodious tone, to which the sound of stringed instruments may be likened, are well distinguished from the celestial ones.

1648. The speech of good Spirits and of angelic Spirits is that of many at once, especially in gyres or choirs. . . That in choirs I have often heard; it is a falling one, as it were rhythmical . . .

2290. Little children sent to me in choirs . . . 2294.

2595. I heard a certain resounding gyre, coarser than usual, and from the sound I knew at once that they were gentiles. . . The gyre or choir was heard for several hours, and I perceived that even in that short time they were made more and more perfect. Being surprised thereat, I was told that they can be initiated into choirs, thus into accordance, in a single night, while most Christians can scarcely be so in thirty years. The gyres or choirs are when many are speaking at once, all as one, and each as all.

2596. See CHINA at this ref.

3350. I heard very many Angels of the interior Heaven . . . it was a choir in which there were many who were thinking the same thing all at once, and they spoke the same . . . and this because no one wished to do anything of himself, still less to be over the others and lead the choir. He who does this is of himself dissociated in a moment. But they suffered themselves to be led by one another, thus all individually and generally by the Lord. Into such accordances are all the good led who come into the other life. D.489.

—². There were afterwards heard very many choirs who exhibited various things representatively, and although there were many choirs, and many in each choir, they still acted as one . . . D.492.

3351. They who then formed the choirs were from the province of the lungs . . . But there were distinct choirs; those who pertained to the voluntary breathing, and those who pertained to the spontaneous. D.495.

3893. There were angelic choirs who were celebrating the Lord together . . . The celebration was sometimes heard as that from sweet singing . . . From the variety of the tone I perceived that there were a number of choirs . . . They belonged to the province of the lungs . . .

4627. After a while I noticed some angelic choirs who were sent to me in order to ward off the efforts of some evil Spirits . . . D.4026. 4029.

5396. There was a crowd of many Spirits around me . . . They were complaining, saying that the whole would be lost, for in that crowd nothing appeared to be con-associated together . . . But I perceived in the midst of them a soft tone, angelically sweet, having nothing in it but what was in regular order. Angelic choirs were there within, and the crowd of Spirits devoid of order was outside. This angelic flowing lasted a long time. . . It represented how the Lord regulates the things which are out of connection and order . . .

5975. When many act as one, and also in choirs, one thinks as the other thinks . . .

8115. In order that the Spirits of Jupiter might know that (the Spirits of our Earth become Angels), there came out of Heaven choirs of the Angels of our Earth, one after another. Choirs consist of a number thinking, speaking, and acting together in a continuous series; the celebration of the Lord in the Heavens is for the most part carried on by means of choirs. . . These choirs so much delighted the Spirits of Jupiter who were with me that they seemed to be caught up into Heaven. The glorification by the choirs lasted about an hour. D.553.

8192. The 'pillar of cloud' was an angelic choir.

8195. 'The pillar of cloud' was an angelic choir in which was the Lord.

8340. Among the ancients it was customary in holy worship to sing by choirs, that is, there was one or there were some who answered, by which they represented what is reciprocal, and a response, such as is that of the Church from Heaven, and that of Heaven from the Lord. Such is meant in Hosea, 'I will answer, and I will sing to Him' (xiv.8); and in Moses, 'Then sang Israel this song, Come up O fountain, answer ye thereon' (Num. xxi.17).

H. 343. Many times when some little children have been with me in choirs, being as yet altogether infantile, they were heard as something tender and inordinate, so that they did not as yet act as one . . .

M. 78³. In the middle of the building there was a choir, out of which the head of the tutelary god of that city projected.

D. 492. On angelic choirs, their provinces in the human body, and their offices . . . There are in general three varieties of them ; those who act only by representations ; those who act by representations and at the same time by voices, who seemed to me the most subtle, they sounded like a subtle winged somewhat, and as the least of those who may be called lives ; there are others who act only by voices. 493- 494.

512. Thus are the Mohammedans admitted into angelic choirs . . .

579. On angelic choirs. 608.

1629. There was a certain choir which in its gyres was simulating gyres, and in the gyres the celebrations of the Lord . . .

3040. The angelic forms or choirs have been with me and have been heard so often, that it has become familiar . . . Choirs from the Mohammedans have become so familiar to me, that from the sound alone I could have known that they were from them.

3070. On choirs in general. There are diversities of choirs, and everyone to whom it is given by the Lord may know from the sound, from the ideas, and from the representations, of what quality they are, and also where they are situated in the Grand Man.

3071. Choirs are of such a nature that all speak together, or all have the same idea, and the same representations, so that many constitute one person ; hence their sound, and gyre.

3072. (Choirs contrasted with Subjects.)

Choose, Elect. Eligere.

Choice, Election. Electio.

A. 1416^e. 'That I may see the good of Thy chosen' (Ps. cvi. 5).

2159⁴. 'Behold My Servant . . . Mine Elect' (Is. xlii. 1) . . . This is manifestly said of the Lord, of Whom 'Servant,' and 'Elect,' while He was in the human, are predicated.

2922. 'In the choice of our sepulchres' (Gen. xxiii. 6) = what is well-pleasing as to regeneration. 'To choose,' 'choice,' and 'chosen' = what is of free choice, or of what is well-pleasing.

3755⁴. 'For the elect's sake those days shall be shortened' (Matt. xxiv. 22) = the removal of those who are of the Church from interior goods and truths to exterior ones, in order that those may still be saved who are in the life of good and truth. . . 'The elect' = those who are in the life of good and truth. H. 420.

3805. It treats here concerning the choice of what is good, which choice precedes the marriage of good and truth.

3898^e. The reason the interiors of the Word are now opened, is that the Church at this day is so completely vastated . . . that although they know and understand, they do not acknowledge, still less believe, except a few who are in the life of good and are called 'the elect,' who now can be instructed, and with whom the New Church is to be instituted. But where they are the Lord alone knows ; there will be few within the Church . . .

3900⁴. 'To seduce, if possible, the elect also' (ver. 24) = those who are in the life of good and truth, and thence are with the Lord ; these are they who in the Word are called 'the elect.' These rarely appear in the congregation of those who veil profane worship under what is holy ; or if they do appear they are not recognized, for the Lord hides them, and so guards them. For before they have been confirmed they easily suffer themselves to be led away by external holinesses, but after they have been confirmed they endure. For they are kept by the Lord in the company of Angels, of which they are unaware, and then it is impossible for them to be seduced by that wicked crew.

4058. As there will still endure the truth of faith and the good of charity in the midst, or with some who are called 'the elect' . . .

4060⁹. 'They shall gather together the elect from the four winds, from the end of the heavens even to the end of them' (ver. 31) = the establishment of the New Church ; 'the elect' = those who are in the good of love and faith ; 'the four winds' from which they will be gathered together = all states of good and truth ; 'the end of the heavens to the end of them' = the internal and external things of the Church. E. 418³.

4805^e. They regard others as not the elect . . .

5057². It is wonderful that anyone could ever believe that the Jewish nation was chosen in preference to others. Hence it is that many confirm themselves in this, that the life effects nothing, but that it is election . . .

5058^e. Hence it is evident that election and reception are not of mercy, but that it is the life which makes Heaven. Yet all things of the life of good and of the truth of faith are of mercy with those who receive mercy in the world, and they have the reception of mercy, and are they who are called 'the elect.'

5952^e. The Lord does not openly teach truths to anyone, but through good leads him to think what is true, and also, unknown to the man, inspires the perception and thence the choice that this is true because the Word so declares, and because the latter squares with it.

5993^e. At the beginning man is bent by means of his very delights ; by means of these too he is placed in freedom, thus at last in choice.

6125. The Intellectual . . . is given to man to the end that he may be in freedom and choice, that is, in the freedom of choosing good or evil.

6804⁵. On the Lord's side, 'covenant' is mercy and election.

—¹⁰. They who are endowed with charity and faith are called 'the elect;' thus these things belong to election.

7051. The reason Christians believe that the Jewish nation was chosen in preference to others, is that they believe that the election and salvation of man are of mercy, however he lives . . . not considering that election is universal, that is, of all who live in good . . .

[A.] 8276. 'The choice of the tertian leaders' (Ex. xv. 4) = all with each one . . . It is said 'the choice,' whereby are signified the chief falsities, under which are the rest.

8516². It is the good flowing in from the Lord through the interior sight which chooses and conjoins with itself those truths which agree with it . . .

8596. 'Choose us men' (Ex. xvii. 9) = make ready truths for combat. Ex.

8709. 'Thou shalt see from all the people' (Ex. xviii. 21) = the choice of truths for service. 'To see,' here = to choose.

8725. 'And Moses chose men of activity from all Israel' (ver. 25) = the choice of truths with which good could be conjoined with those who are of the Spiritual Church. Ex.

8773. 'And Moses came and called the elders of the people' (Ex. xix. 7) = the choice of those who primarily are in the intelligence of truth. 'To call to himself' = choice.

8885². From these man can then choose and adjoin to himself those things which are in agreement with the inmost things.

9034³. By choice (the internal man) calls forth (from the memory) the truths which agree with the good which flows in from the Lord by the way of the soul. 9035^e.

9806⁴. 'Servant' is predicated from truths, and 'elect' from good.

10227³. By the faculty of being wise . . . is meant the faculty of clearly seeing what is true and good, of choosing what is suitable, and of applying it to the uses of life. They who ascribe all things to the Lord, clearly see, choose, and apply.

H. 298. Hence it is evident that as thought is not introduced into man through Spirits, but only the affection of good and the affection of evil, man has choice, because he has freedom; thus that he can in thought receive what is good and reject what is evil.

546. Unless man were between both (good and evil), he would not have any thought, nor any will, still less any freedom and any choice; for man has all these from the equilibrium between good and evil. Wherefore if the Lord were to turn Himself away, and man were left to evil alone, he would no longer be man. Hence it is evident that the Lord flows in with good with every man . . .

S. 14². 'To gather together the elect from the four winds, from the end of the heavens to the end of them' = what is new of the Church as to faith and love.

P. 321⁵. The Lord gives man to know and thence to think that he is in Hell if he is in evil, and that he thinks from Hell if he thinks from evil; and He also gives him to think of the means whereby he may go forth from Hell, and not think from it, but may come into Heaven and think there from the Lord; and He also gives man freedom of choice; from which it may be seen that man can think what is evil and false as if from himself, and can also think that this or that is evil and false; thus that it is only an appearance that it is from himself . . .

R. 744. 'And they who are with Him are called, chosen, and faithful' (Rev. xvii. 14) = that those who approach and worship the Lord alone are they who come into Heaven, both they who are in the external things of the Church, and they who are in its internal and inmost things. . . By 'the chosen' is not meant that any are chosen from predestination, but they who are with the Lord are so called. . . They who are in the external things of the Church are called 'the called;' they who are in its external things are called 'the chosen;' and they who are in its inmost things are called 'the faithful;' for so are they called in the Word, where Jacob is said to be 'called,' and Israel, 'chosen,' and by 'Jacob' is there meant those who are in the external things of the Church, and by 'Israel,' those who are in its internal things.

M. 7⁴. Those in the highest positions in Heaven are chosen from those whose heart is in the public weal.

98². A young man is in [a state of] choice.

296. The choice belongs to the man, and not to the woman. Gen. art.

—c. Women have the power of choice among their suitors . . .

498. Without the capacity of elevating the understanding above the love of the will, man would not be man, but a beast . . . consequently he could not choose anything, and from choice do what is good . . . thus he could not be reformed.

B. 66. Election of the mere grace of God . . . T. 486. 629.

T. 134^e. All such are counted among the redeemed, and are called the elect.

137. The justification of the elect . . .

154⁴. It is from this free choice, which every man possesses, that man can be reformed.

185⁵. Oh what a mystery is election! He is one of the elect to whom God imputes this faith . . .

362². By which he can freely choose . . .

371². In order that this conjunction may be reciprocal, there has been given to man free choice, by which he can enter the way to Heaven, or the way to Hell . . .

659. As he is in the capacity of choosing from freedom . . .

664. I noticed some of the elect talking together . . . I said, I saw you at a distance, and saw around you a sphere of heavenly light, from which I knew that you are of those who in the Word are called 'the elect' . . . They replied, Why do you call us the elect? Because in the world, I returned, where I am with the body, they know no otherwise than that by 'the elect' are meant those who before or after they are born, are elected and predestinated to Heaven, and that to them alone is given faith as a badge of election . . . and yet I know that there is no election before birth or after it, but that all are elected and predestinated, because all are called, to Heaven, and that after death the Lord elects those who have lived well and believed rightly, and these after they have been examined . . . and as I saw your heads encircled with a sphere of heavenly light, I perceived that you are of the elect who are being prepared for Heaven . . .

D. 2464. In order that I might know that I effect nothing from myself, it was shown by experience, that in whatever I did there was at the same time insinuated into me a faculty of choosing. This faculty was insinuated, and hence came the reflection that Spirits supposed that I could have done something else . . . It was given to say that I could not do otherwise, although from the faculty of choice it seemed that I could . . .

E. 405¹⁶. By 'the elect who shall possess the mountain' (Is.lxv.9) are signified those who are in good ; and by 'the servants,' those who are in truths from good.

405²⁰. 'The choice of his fir-trees' (Is.xxxvii.24).

409². It is the Divine Human which is meant by 'My Servant on Whom I recline,' and by 'Mine Elect in Whom My soul is well pleased' (Is.xlii.1) ; it is called 'Servant' from Divine truth . . . and 'Elect' from Divine good. E.684²⁰, (Ps.lxxxix.3). 701⁷.

409⁷. 'Servants'=those who receive Divine truth and teach, and 'elect'=those who receive Divine good and lead. III.

433²¹. They who are in charity are called 'the elect,' and they who are in truths from the good of love are called 'servants' (Is.lxv.9).

617⁸. As it is known how to refuse evil and choose good in proportion as Divine spiritual and natural good are appropriated, it is said 'that He may know to refuse the evil and choose the good' (Is.vii.15). 304⁴⁵. 619⁴.

624⁵. By 'the elect' (Matt.xxiv) are signified those who are in spiritual good, that is, who are in the good of charity.

630¹¹. By 'the elect' or 'him whom Thou choosest' (Ps.lxv.4) are signified those who are in love towards the neighbour, or charity.

650³⁶. 'People' (Is.xliii.20) is said of those who are in truths of faith ; and 'elect,' of those who are in the good of charity.

654⁴⁶. Occurs. 850⁸.

1074. 'The chosen' (Rev.xvii.14)=those who are in love towards the neighbour. . . The Angels of the second Heaven, who are in love towards the neighbour, are called 'the chosen.'

1145⁵. This he is said 'to choose' (Is.xl.20) because that which is from the Word persuades . . .

Christ. Christus.

A. 2594². When I called the Lord Christ, a certain repugnance was perceived in (the Chinese Spirits) ; but the reason was . . . their having known Christians to live worse than they did themselves, and in no charity. H.325. D.3068.

2921³. 'A Saviour Who is Christ the Lord' (Luke ii.11) ; 'Christ' stands for the Messiah, the Anointed, the King ; 'the Lord' for Jehovah ; the former as to truth, the latter as to good.

3004⁹. When 'Jesus' is named by a man who is reading the Word, the Angels perceive Divine good ; and when 'Christ' is named they perceive Divine truth ; and by both they perceive the Divine marriage of good and truth, and of truth and good . . . 5502. 8625. E.102³.

3007. 'Christ' is the same as the Messiah, the Anointed, the King ; and these are the same as the Divine truth. 3008, III. 3009.

3010. 'False Christs' (Matt.xxiv.5,23,24)=truths not Divine, but falsities.

— 'One is your Master, Christ' (Matt.xxiii.10)=truth Divine.

3353². 'Christ'=truth itself.

3732⁹. They who call themselves Christians, and say that they worship Christ, and do not live according to His commandments, worship Him idolatrously, because they worship only His name, for it is a false Christ whom they worship, concerning which see Matt.xxiv.

3900. 'Then if anyone shall say unto you, Lo here is Christ, or there, believe not' (Matt.xxiv.23)=exhortation to beware of their doctrine ; 'Christ'=the Lord as to Divine truth, hence as to the Word and as to doctrine from the Word ; but here it is the contrary, namely, Divine truth falsified, or the doctrine of falsity. 'For there shall arise false Christs and false prophets'=the falsities of that doctrine ; 'false Christs'=doctrinal things from the Word falsified, or truths not Divine.

4669⁹. The Divine Spiritual, or Divine truth, is that which is called the Lord's royalty, and is also signified by 'Christ' or 'the Messiah ;' and because this is so, Joseph was made as it were a king in Egypt . . .

4973⁴. 'The Lord's Christ' (Luke ii.26)=the Divine truth of the Divine good ; for 'Christ' is the same as the Messiah, and the Messiah is the Anointed or the King.

5343. When I said that in our Earth He is named Christ Jesus, and that 'Christ' means the Anointed, or the King ; and 'Jesus,' the Saviour, (the Spirits of Jupiter) said that they do not worship Him as a King, because royalty savours of what is worldly, but that they worship Him as the Saviour.

9144¹⁰. 'King'=truth from the Divine ; and the same is signified by 'the Anointed,' which in the Hebrew is 'Messiah,' and in the Greek 'Christ.'

9806². The Lord is called . . . 'Christ,' 'the Anointed,' or 'the Messiah,' when truth is treated of.

9954¹¹. The anointing of the Lord as to the Divine Human was effected by means of the Divine good itself of the Divine love . . . hence it is that He was called 'the Messiah' and 'Christ,' 'the Messiah' in the Hebrew language means the Anointed, in like manner 'Christ' in the Greek. L.19⁹, III. R.520².

H. 24. From the Divine Celestial the Lord in the world was called 'Jesus,' and from the Divine Spiritual, 'Christ.'

508³. Such there call themselves Christ. J.61⁸. D.1083, Gen.art. 4809. 5081. 5207. 5460.

·R. Pref. IIa. (The doctrine of the Reformers concerning Christ.)

294³. They who had confirmed faith separated from charity were told to say Jesus, but they could not, but they could all say Christ, and also God the Father. Ex.

[R.] 520. 'The kingdoms of the world are become those of our Lord and of His Christ' (Rev. xi. 15) = that Heaven and the Church have become the Lord's, as they were from the beginning, and now also they have become of His Divine Human. . . By 'Christ' is meant His Divine Human, which is the Son of God.

—³. The reason why by 'Christ' is meant the Lord's Divine Human, is that 'Christ' is the Messiah, and the Messiah is the Son of God, Whose coming into the world they awaited.

531⁸. After this there was heard as it were thunder, and a voice speaking from Heaven, saying, Believe in Christ and perform repentance, and ye shall be saved.

553. 'The Kingdom of our God and the Power of His Christ' (Rev. xii. 10) = because the Lord alone will reign in Heaven and in the Church; by 'God' is meant the Divine itself . . . and by 'Christ,' His Divine Human which is called 'the Son of God.'

595². By 'Christ' the same is signified as here by 'the Lamb,' namely, the Lord as to the Divine truth of the Word; wherefore their saying, 'Lo, here is Christ' = that they will say that this is the Divine truth of the Word; but that this is falsified is signified by, 'If anyone shall say unto you, Here is Christ, or there, believe not, because there shall arise false Christs and false prophets.'

664. The Lord is called 'the King' in His Divine Human, because this is 'the Messiah,' 'the Anointed,' 'Christ,' 'the Son of God.' 'The Messiah' in the Hebrew language is 'Christ' in the Greek; and 'the Messiah' or 'Christ' is 'the Son of God.'

839². As young men they had learned to confirm . . . the duality of Christ.

—⁶. We in Heaven read the Lord's Prayer daily . . . and then we think of God in His Divine Human . . . and in this He is called Christ by you, but the Lord by us.

—¹². (Argument based on the Church being called the body of Christ.)

849. 'They lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years' (Rev. xx. 4) = who have been already for some time in conjunction with the Lord, and in His Kingdom.

M. 7⁸. 'To reign with Christ' = to be wise and perform uses, for the Kingdom of Christ, which is Heaven, is a kingdom of uses.

T. 85². Nothing but the Divine truth is meant by 'the Messiah,' or 'Christ.'

298^e. By the name 'Jesus Christ' is meant everything of redemption, and everything of His doctrine, and thus everything of salvation; by 'Jesus,' everything of salvation through redemption; and by 'Christ,' everything of salvation through His doctrine.

640. The imputation of the merit and righteousness of Christ is impossible. Gen. art.

—^e. (The effect of this faith is) that its possessor is Christ in another person.

798⁶. (Calvin said), Was not Christ a man, the son of Mary who was married to Joseph? how can a man be adored as God? . . . I asked, Where then is Christ? He said, He is in the lowest parts of Heaven, which He confirmed by His humiliation before the Father, etc.

D. 1083. (Opinion of a pope there concerning the Lord, whom he called Christ; for they are not permitted to call Him the Lord.) 3657.

E. 31⁸. 'The Anointed,' 'the Messiah,' and 'Christ,' in like manner as 'the King' = the Lord as to the Divine truth proceeding from His Divine good . . .

—^e. The two names 'Jesus' and 'Christ' = His Priesthood and His Royalty.

411¹³. 'Thou art the Christ the Son of the Living God' (Matt. xvi. 16) = that He is the Divine truth.

624⁵. 'False Christs and false prophets' = all who pervert the Word and teach falsities . . . for 'Christ' = the Lord as to Divine truth, whence 'false Christs' = Divine truths falsified.

683. The Lord is called 'Lord' from Divine good, and 'Christ' from Divine truth (Rev. xi. 15).

684². 'Christ' = the same as 'God' in the Old Testament, and 'the Son of God' in the New, namely, the Lord as to the Divine Human, and also as to Divine truth; for 'Christ' has a similar signification to 'Anointed,' 'Messiah,' and 'King,' that is, the Lord as to Divine truth, and also as to the Divine Human while He was in the world, for then the Lord as to His Human was Divine truth. III.

695¹¹. 'Christ' = the Lord as to Divine truth, and hence the Divine truth proceeding from the Lord. —¹⁹.

730²². 'Christ' = the Lord as to Divine truth, thus as to the Word and as to doctrine from the Word; and 'false Christs' = falsities of doctrine from the truths of the Word falsified. 734²⁴.

745. 'The Power of His Christ' = the efficacy of Divine truth.

746¹³. 'The Teacher Christ' (Matt. xxiii. 8) = the Divine truth.

960¹². 'To give a cup of water in My name, because ye belong to Christ' (Mark ix. 41) = to teach truth from the love of truth, thus from the Lord; in like manner to do it . . . 'Christ' = the Lord as to Divine truth.

De Just. 56. On the Person of Christ.

59. A memorable questioning concerning the Person of Christ with Calvin . . . He said that Christ is two . . . that he had believed His soul was from Joseph . . . and at last confessed that he had thought Christ was the son of Joseph, but had not dared to write it.

60. (Fifty of Calvin's followers confessed that whenever they had heard Christ named they did not understand the Son of God, but a mere man.)

Inv. 8. How it is to be understood that the Church is the body of Christ.

Christian. Christianus.

Christendom, Christianity. Christianismus.

See CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

A. 2. Of this the Christian world is deeply ignorant.

3. This is known in the Christian world.

410. Vastation . . . such as that of Christians at this day.

816. (The assassin) asked whether I was a Christian, to which I replied that I was, he said he was so likewise . . .

824. Under the heel of the right foot is a Hell where are those who have been delighted with cruelty and at the same time with adulteries . . . at this day this Hell is increasing, especially from those who are from the so-called Christian world . . .

826. There were some of both sexes, from the so-called Christian world, who during their bodily life supposed that adulteries were not only allowable, but even holy . . .

916³. They thus acquire a spurious conscience, that they may live like devils . . . and still be saved, as is very well known in the Christian world. What can be sweeter for a man, than to hear and be persuaded that he can be saved even though he lives like a savage beast? The very Gentiles perceive that this is false, many of whom abhor the doctrine of Christians because they see their life. Thus it is evident that nowhere does there exist a more detestable life than in the Christian world.

932². The gentiles who have lived in charity . . . in the other life, when instructed by the Angels, embrace and receive much more easily than Christians the doctrine of true faith, and the faith of charity.

952. This he called Christian patience . . .

1032³. From the so-called Christian world come the worst of all, having deadly hatred against the neighbour, and against the Lord; they are adulterers above all in the whole world . . .

1033. No one can receive a true conscience who is not in the truths of faith, wherefore not so many in the Christian world . . .

1059². There is not so great a cloud in the intellectual part with the gentiles as there generally is with so-called Christians; for the gentiles are ignorant of the Word . . . wherefore they cannot be against the Lord, and against the truth of faith . . . But the cloud of Christians is against the Lord, and against the truths of faith, a cloud so obscure that it is darkness, and when there is hatred in place of charity it is then thick darkness . . . This is the reason why more are saved from the gentiles than from Christians; as also the Lord said in Luke xiii. 3, 23, 28, 29, 30. 2284⁶.

1673³. At this day also, especially from the Christian world, there are some who have persuasions, but not so direful as were those of the Antediluvians . . .

1799⁴. In the Christian world it is doctrinal things which distinguish Churches, and from them they call themselves Roman Catholics, Lutherans, Calvinists . . . They are so called from mere doctrine, which would never have been if they had made love to the Lord and charity towards the neighbour the Principal of faith, for then these things would have been only varieties of opinion about the mysteries of faith, which true Christians would leave to everyone according to his conscience, and they would have said in their hearts that he is truly Christian who lives as a Christian, or as the Lord teaches . . .

1886, Pref.³. Few believe in the resurrection . . . Hence it is evident of what quality they are in the Christian world at this day. The Sadducees openly denied the resurrection, but did better than do those at this day who say that they do not deny it, because it is from the doctrine of faith, and yet deny it at heart . . . This I can assert, that those who come into the other life from the Christian world are the worst of all, hating the neighbour, hating faith, denying the Lord; for hearts speak in the other life, not lips; besides being adulterers above all others.

2009¹². They who place worship in a name, as the Jews in the name of Jehovah, and Christians in the name of the Lord, are not more worthy on that account . . .

2121. The World of Spirits is at this day full of evil Genii and evil Spirits, mostly from the Christian world; and there reign among them nothing but hatred, revenge, cruelty, obscenity, and deceitful machinations.

2122. As to what concerns Souls recently from the world, those who come from the Christian world think and work for scarcely anything else than to become the greatest, and to possess all things, thus all are devoured with the love of self and of the world . . . and many think of nothing but filthy, obscene, and profane things, and among themselves speak of nothing else. They also make nothing of and utterly despise all things which are of charity and faith, do not acknowledge the Lord Himself, nay, hate all who profess Him; for thoughts and hearts speak in the other life . . .

2156. In the Christian faith which is called the [Athanasian] creed . . .

2284⁶. Those of the gentiles who have thought well concerning the neighbour, and have willed well to him, in the other life receive the truths of faith better than those who are called Christians, and they acknowledge the Lord more than Christians do.

2329⁶. When the Jews perceive the ideas of Christians divided among three [gods] . . .

2343⁶. That those who are in a life of evil can never believe that all salvation is from the Lord, has been evident to me from those who have come into the other life from the Christian world, even from those who in the life of the body have confessed with the lips according to the doctrine of faith, nay, have taught, that without the Lord there is no salvation, and yet have carried on an evil life. When the Lord was only mentioned, they at once filled the sphere with mere scandals, for in the other life what they only think is perceived . . . When love and charity were only mentioned, there was perceived from the same persons a kind of darkness and dirtiness, from a certain filthy love, which was of such a nature as to extinguish, suffocate, and pervert everything perceptive of love to the Lord, and of charity towards the neighbour. Such is faith at this day . . . When the same persons were asked what faith they had . . . they said, for in the other life no one can conceal what he thinks, that they believed in God the Creator of the universe. But they were examined whether it was so, and it was found that they did not believe in any God, but thought that all things were of nature, and that whatever was said about the eternal life was rubbish.

[A.] 2590. Gentiles have not formed any principles against the truths of faith . . . still less scandals against the Lord, as have many Christians who have lived an evil life . . . They wish well to Christians, but the latter despise them, and do violence to them as far as they can . . .

—². As to Christians and Gentiles in the other life the case is this ; Christians who have acknowledged the truths of faith, and at the same time have lived a good life, are received in preference to Gentiles, but at this day such are few ; whereas Gentiles who have lived in obedience and mutual charity are received in preference to Christians who have not lived so good a life.

2592². I manifestly perceived that the interiors of the thought or mind (of this wise Gentile) were open, and then at the same time I perceived that the interiors with some Christians who were present were closed, for with these there reigned envy against him, and also incredulity that the Word is of such a nature ; nay, when I proceeded to read the Word, he said that he could not remain there, because he perceived it to be more holy than he could bear . . . On the other hand, the Christians said with an open voice that they could remain there, the reason being that their interiors were closed, and holy things did not affect them.

—³. (The conversation being next about the Lord) certain evil Christians infused various scandals . . .

2595. I was told that gentiles can be initiated into choirs, and thus into accordance, in a single night, while most Christians can scarcely be so in thirty years.

2596^e. When I called the Lord Christ, a certain repugnance was perceived in (the Chinese Spirits) ; but the reason was . . . their having known Christians to live worse than they did themselves, and in no charity . . . They were afterwards instructed by the Angels that the Christian doctrine prescribes love and charity more than any other in the whole world, but that there are few who live according to it.

2597. There are Gentiles who when they lived in the world had known from intercourse and report that Christians live the worst life, in adulteries, hatred, quarrels, drunkenness, and the like . . . In the other life these are more timid than others at receiving the truths of faith. But they are instructed by the Angels that the Christian doctrine and faith itself teaches quite differently, but that Christians live less according to their doctrines than Gentiles do.

2598³. From this it was evident that Gentiles come more easily into Heaven than Christians at this day who are not so affected.

2605^e. From this it was given to think about many Christians, who are not idolaters outwardly, but inwardly, and at heart deny the Lord, thus also the truths of faith, as to what kind of a lot awaits them in the other life. H. 327.

2702^e. Not that there is regeneration through baptism, but by the life signified in baptism, into which Christians will enter who have the truths of faith because they have the Word.

2732. They said that they who in the bodily life have lived in such marriage love, are together and dwell together in Heaven as Angels, sometimes also with their children ; but very few do so who are from Christendom at this day.

2744^e. Sirens are they who are in the persuasion that it is honourable to commit whoredom and adultery . . . the principal part of them in the other life come from Christendom.

2752. They who have been devoured with adulteries, above all others in the other life want to obsess men, and so through them to return into the world ; but they are detained in Hell by the Lord to prevent their coming among the Spirits who are with men ; there are very many such from the Christian world, rarely from others.

2754. The most deceitful . . . are the modern Antediluvians. They lay an ambush by innocence, by mercy, and by various good affections with persuasion ; when they lived in the world they were adulterers above all others ; wherever there was a beautiful wife, and young, they entered without conscience, and by the above things moved her to dishonour. They are invisible . . . They are also cruel, having studied themselves alone, and would have accounted it nothing if the whole universe had perished for them. At this day there is a great number of such ; it was also said that they are from Christendom ; their Hell is the most grievous of all.

2863². The more moral gentiles from all parts of the earth sometimes speak better about such things than Christians do, and not only speak, but live according to them.

2986². When a new Church is established by the Lord, rarely if ever is this effected with those with whom the old Church was, but . . . with the gentiles . . . It will be similar with this Church which is called Christian.

3010^e. 'Christ'=truth Divine. Hence it is evident what a Christian is, namely, one who is in truth from good.

3242. They who are in the truth of faith, that is, who profess faith, and say that it is the essential, from having so learned, and yet are in the good of life, that is, who are Christians at heart, not with the lips, are in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom.

3246^e. The moment a man is in good and truth, and in internal things, such things cease ; hence it is that it is not allowable for Christians, as it was for the Jews, to adjoin any concubine to the wife, and that this is adultery. H. 379(q).

3432². The Jewish nation . . . accounted the prophetic Word holy because it sounded ancient, and because they heard the name of Jehovah in the sense of the letter . . . Nor does the Christian world think about the Word more holily.

3447. Our Churches at this day are almost all of this character, except that which is in Christian gentilism . . .

3469⁴. They who are in the natural good of the love of evil are flexible and prone to evils of every kind, for they suffer themselves to be easily led astray ; from that good they are compliant, especially to filthy pleasures, to adulteries, also to cruelties; and they who are in the natural good of falsity are prone to falsities of every kind; from that good they seize what is persuasive . . . Into these goods so-called . . . are born very many at this day who are in natural good in the Christian world, for the reason that their parents have contracted the delight of evil and the delight of falsity by actual life, and thus have implanted it in their children.

3472°. The Christian world does indeed acknowledge that the Word is Divine, but that it is Divine in the way stated, it denies, if not with the lips, still with the heart.

3479°. As it was foreseen that Christians would almost reject the Word of the Old Testament, and would also defile its internals with profane things, the Jewish nation has been preserved . . . It would have been otherwise if Christians, knowing internal things, had also lived as internal men . . .

3480°. With Christians (a representative Church) is not possible, because they know the interior things of worship, but do not believe them; thus they cannot be in a holy external separate from the internal.

3488°. 'This gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in the whole inhabited [earth]' (Matt.xxiv.14)=that this shall first be made known in the Christian world. . . . 'In the whole inhabited,' namely, earth = the Christian world; 'the earth' = the tract where the Church is, thus the Christian world.

3489°. How unlike internals are to externals may be evident from those who come into the other life from the Christian world. (Refs.) . . . There it is evident that however peaceable they seemed in the world, they really hated one another and all things of faith, especially the Lord; for when the Lord is merely mentioned there in their presence, a sphere not only of contempt, but also of aversion for and enmity against Him manifestly breathes forth from them, even from those who in appearance had spoken holily of Him . . . In like manner when charity and faith are mentioned. Such are they in the internal form . . . If during their life in the world external considerations had been taken away from them . . . they would have rushed upon one another with intestine hatred . . . and without conscience would have plundered the goods of others, and would have murdered one another, especially the innocent. Such are Christians at this day as to the interiors, except a few whom they do not know.

3667°. Just as in Christian gentilism.

3704°. Almost all from the Christian world have an idea of three gods, although with the lips they say there is only one God . . .

3732°. See CHRIST at this ref.

3900°. They who teach falsities in the Christian world are especially they who have as an end their own pre-eminence, and the wealth of the world . . .

3957. At this day very few in the Christian world know that 'reward' means mutual love, because they do not know what mutual love is . . .

4136°. That at this day few know anything about spiritual good, and about freedom, has been made known to me through experience from those who come into the other life from the Christian world. Examp.

4190°. It has sometimes been given to speak with Christians in the other life concerning the state and lot of the gentiles, that they receive the truths and goods of faith more easily than Christians who have not lived according to the Lord's commandments; and that Christians think cruelly about them . . . Also that Christians are in falsity in believing that they alone have Heaven because they have the book of the Word, written on paper but not in their hearts; and that they know the Lord, and yet do not believe Him to be Divine as to the Human . . . and therefore when they are left to themselves . . . they do not even adore Him; and thus that they are the people who are out of the Lord, for whom there is no salvation.

4197. It is otherwise with Christians; such of them as are in mutual charity, and still more those who are in love to the Lord, while they live in the world are in direct good because in Divine truths, wherefore they enter Heaven without such instruction if in their truths there have not been falsities which must first be dispersed. But Christians who have not lived in charity, have closed Heaven against themselves, and very many of them to such a degree that it cannot be opened; for they know truths and deny them, and also harden themselves against them, if not with the lips still at heart.

4205°. Truths with gentiles who have lived in mutual charity are such that the good flowing in from the Lord can also find a reception in them; but so long as they live in the world, not so much as with Christians who have truths from the Word, and thence live in spiritual charity.

4234°. The most general things of this subject are unknown in the learned world, even the Christian. Enum.

4327°. At this day these are they who for the most part constitute the general involuntary sense, who anciently were the most celestial of all, and now are the most wicked of all, and this chiefly from the Christian world; they are in great numbers . . . They think deceitfully, and devise evils against the neighbour, putting on a friendly countenance . . . and speaking pleasantly, as if pre-eminently endowed with charity, and yet they are the most bitter enemies . . .

4419. Intelligence from proprium so prevails in the Christian world that it is believed that all intelligence is thence . . .

4464°. They who are in mere external things care nothing for what is said about internal ones . . . The greatest part of Christians are in such incredulity, which has been given me to know from those who have come into the other life from the Christian world . . . for there they cannot hide what they have thought . . .

4689°. That they who are in faith separate from charity do not at all adore the Lord's Divine Human, has been evident to me from such who have come into the other life from the Christian world . . . for hearts speak there. . . . Many of those who have even preached the Lord in the world, there utterly deny Him . . . Not a single one from the Christian world knows that His Human is Divine, and scarcely anyone that He alone rules Heaven and the universe, still less that His Divine Human is everything in Heaven; that this is the case could not be openly revealed, because it was foreseen by the Lord that the Christian Church would turn away from charity to faith, thus would separate itself from Him, and would thus not only reject but also profane the Holy which is from His Divine Human, for faith separate from charity cannot do otherwise. That faith is now separated from charity is evident, for Churches separate themselves according to their dogmas, and he who believes otherwise than as dogma teaches is cast out from their communion and defamed; but he who robs, who without mercy deprives others of their goods, if only he does not do it by open methods; he who plots deceitfully against his neighbour, who attaches dishonour to works of charity, and who commits adultery, is still called a Christian, provided he goes regularly to church and speaks from doctrine.

[A.] 4733². They who say that they acknowledge a Supreme Being, of whom they have no idea of perception, for the most part acknowledge no God, but nature in his stead. . . . Very many of the learned among Christians are of this character, and this because they do not believe the Lord's Human to be Divine.

4741². Who does not see that to will well and to do well is the very Christian life itself?

4799⁴. While I was reading in the New Testament about the Lord. . . . there were some Christian Spirits present, and I perceived that they cherished scandals against the Lord within themselves, and also wanted to communicate them tacitly. . . . In the world some of them preached the Lord. . . .

4818³. Such is the origin of evil with some in the Christian world, especially with those who are meant by 'Babylon.'

4944. They who come from the Christian world, and who have led a good moral life, and have had something of charity towards the neighbour, but have cared little for spiritual things, for the most part are sent into places under the feet, and are kept there until they put off the natural things in which they have been, and until they imbue spiritual and celestial things so far as possible according to their life. When they have imbued them they are elevated thence to heavenly Societies.

5006². Spirits were present from the Christian world (while I was thinking about spiritual things), and they were then let into the state in which they had been in the world, and then they were not only affected with sadness at the thought of spiritual good and truth, but were seized with such loathing that they said they felt in themselves like what, in the world, excites vomiting. . . . Hence it was evident what the quality of the Christian world is at this day. The cause in general is that the Christian Church at this day preaches faith alone. . . .

5036. At this day scarcely anyone in the Christian world knows the source of temptations. . . .

5060^e. See ADULTERY at this ref.

5256². They who have been Gentiles, and have been converted to Christianity, in the other life adore the Lord alone. Ex.

5393². They rejoice from the heart. . . . when they see a field of battle covered with slaughtered troops and streams of blood. . . . merely that they may pass for great men and heroes; and yet they call themselves Christians. . . .

5572. At this day there are very many in the Christian world who ascribe all things to nature, and scarcely anything to the Divine; but among these there are more in one nation than in another. (It is the Dutch who are here referred to. See Index to A.)

5639². Most in the Christian world are ignorant what the Spiritual is. . . . It is the affection of charity and faith, that is, of good and truth, and the delight. . . . thence, which are inwardly felt by a man, and which make that man truly Christian, which is the Spiritual. The reason why most in the Christian world are ignorant what the Spiritual is, is that they make faith the essential of the Church. . . .

5702. There appeared Spirits from the Christian world, and they were compelled to hear the interior things of the Word; they were seized with such loathing that they said they felt as it were an itching to vomit; and I was told that at this day the Christian world is of this character almost everywhere. The reason is that they are not in the affection of truth for the sake of truth. . . .

5704. Christian good, that is, the good of charity towards the neighbour. . . .

5804. Man does not know what spiritual good is, or what is the same, Christian good, except through truth. . . .

6269². If charity were in the first place, and faith in the second, the Church would have a different face, for then none would be called Christians but those who live a life according to the truths of faith, that is, a life of charity.

6704. It is the part of Christian prudence to examine well what is the quality of a man's life, and to exercise charity according thereto.

6876^e. Hence the worship of nature is at this day so common, especially in the Christian world.

7051. The reason Christians believe that the Jewish nation was chosen in preference to others, is that they believe that the election and salvation of man are of mercy, however he lives. . . . Hence also it is that most in the Christian world also believe that that nation will be. . . . brought back into Canaan. . . . —⁴.

7197^e. The life of Christian good is what makes Heaven, not the life of natural good.

8257. A life according to the Lord's commandments. . . . is the Christian life, and is called the spiritual life.

8516². Everyone ought to be led by means of the truth of faith to Christian good, which is called charity. . . . From this it is evident that man cannot be led to Christian good except through the truths of faith.

8622^e. They have been like Christians as to speech, and also as to life; but they were hypocrites, and inwardly were deceitful tigers.

8754^e. No good is here meant but Christian good.

8772. All Christian good or spiritual good has in it the truths of faith; for the quality of that good is from the truths of faith; the good which has not its quality from the truths of faith is not Christian good, but is natural good, which does not confer eternal life. Ex.

9020^e. This ardour of domineering and getting gain reigns especially in Christian gentilism, where the idols of canonized men are set up to be adored . . .

9211². This law (of usury) is not binding upon Christians, to whom interior things have been revealed by the Lord.

9239. They who are truly Christians know and do, thus they believe in God; but they who are not truly Christians know and do not.

9256². When gentiles are instructed, they are in a clearer perception, and thus in a more interior perception concerning the heavenly life with man than Christians; the reason is that they have not confirmed themselves against the truths of faith, as very many Christians have . . .

9409¹. The case is almost the same at this day in the Christian world, in which they are in externals without an internal, in consequence of their having no doctrine of love to the Lord and of charity towards the neighbour . . .

—5. As at this day they are of such a character in the Christian world, namely, in externals without an internal, scarcely any are affected with truth for the sake of truth; hence also it is that they do not even know what good is, what charity, and what the neighbour; also what the internal man is, nor what Heaven and Hell are, nor that everyone lives immediately after death. Those of them who remain in the doctrine of their own Church do not care whether it is false or true; they learn and confirm these things . . . merely for the sake of prosperity in the world . . . Hence it is that they have no illumination when they read the Word, and that they will utterly deny that there is anything internal in the Word, except what stands forth in the letter.

9472. The good of merit is the good proceeding from the Lord's Divine Human, which is Christian good, or spiritual good with man; this good is that by which man is saved. (It is signified by 'shittim wood'.)

10112. With Christians, to acknowledge the Lord is the first of the Church, for without acknowledgment there exists no communication, consequently no faith or love; hence the primary of doctrine in the Christian Church is that without the Lord there is no salvation . . .

10409². They who love themselves and the world above all things, worship them as a god; in the Christian world at this day such are very numerous. Des.

10492³. Even in the Christian world the internal is closed with those who know the truths of faith from the Word and do not live according to them. 10500^e.

10737^e. At this day this interior perception has perished in the Christian world, and only remains with the simple who are in faith.

H. 2 (11). Christians have been examined in the other life . . . and it was found that they have an idea of three gods. Refs.

3. They who have denied the Divine of the Lord, and have acknowledged only His Human, as the Socinians, are also outside of Heaven, and are carried forward a little towards the right, and let down into the deep, and are thus completely separated from all the rest from the Christian world.

319. See GENTILE at these refs. 320. 321. 325.

379 (1). Polygamy and concubinage not permitted to Christians, because they can be in internal things, thus in the marriage of good and truth. Refs.

495^e. Such are the most who at this day come into the other life from the Christian world . . .

514². Those Mohammedans who recede from Mohammed . . . are then instructed in the Christian religion.

516. Christians are there instructed from the heavenly doctrine, which agrees completely with the internal sense of the Word.

N. 3. It is thus evident that the New Heaven has been formed from both Christians and gentiles.

8. It is said the Churches in the Christian world, and by them is meant the Churches with the Reformed, or Evangelicals, but not with the Papists, for the Christian Church is not there, for where the Church is the Lord is adored and the Word is read . . .

J. 50². Many of the Mohammedans, when informed, receive faith in the Lord, and acknowledge Him to be one with the Father; communication with the Christian Heaven is also given them through influx from the Lord, but they are not mixed together, because religion separates.

51. Those from the Gentiles who in the world have worshipped God under a human form, and have led a life of charity according to their religion, are conjoined with the Christians in Heaven . . .

L. 55². As the Word is of such a nature in the sense of the letter as to mention a number who yet are one, Christians, who in the beginning were simple, and understood all things according to the words of the sense of the letter, distinguished the Divinity into three persons . . .

S. 24. The knowledge of correspondences, by which is given the spiritual sense of the Word, after those times was not unfolded, because Christians in the primitive Church were very simple . . .

105³. This is the reason why Christians, with whom the Word is read, constitute the breast of that Man; for they are in the midst of all; and around them are the Papists.

Life 64. It is general in the whole Christian world to teach the decalogue, and for little children to be initiated into the Christian religion thereby . . .

77. From these things one may conclude and see not doubtfully whether a man is a Christian or not; he who from faith and life does not make adulteries to be sins is not a Christian . . . but on the other hand, he who shuns adulteries as sins, and still more he who on that account is averse to them, and still more he who on that account abominates them . . . if he is in the Christian Church, is a Christian.

F. 34. The Christian faith in a universal idea. Gen. art.

42. He replied, I am a Reformed Christian. 43. T. 391².

W. 12. The common people in Christendom have an idea of God as a Man, because God is called a Person in the Athanasian doctrine of the Trinity. But those who are more sapient, pronounce God to be invisible . . .

P. 70. In the Christian world the understanding has been closed, in regard to Divine things, from religion. 149.

114³. Hence it is evident that the general religion of all the Churches in the Christian world is that a man is to examine himself, see and acknowledge his sins, and afterwards desist from them . . .

153. I have often wondered that although the whole Christian world has known that evils must be shunned as sins, and that otherwise they are not remitted, and if they are not remitted there is no salvation, yet hardly one in thousands knows this. Inquiry was made in the Spiritual World, and it was found to be so. For everyone in the Christian world is acquainted with this, from the exhortations read before those who go to the Holy Supper, for it is openly declared to them, and yet when they are asked whether they know this, they answer that they do not, and that they have never known it. This is because they have not thought about it, and because the most have thought only about faith, and about salvation by it alone. And I have also wondered that faith alone has so closed their eyes, that when they who have confirmed themselves in it are reading the Word, they see nothing that is there said concerning love, charity, and works. It is as if they had daubed faith over all things of the Word.

239. (An argument against the Divine Providence is) that the whole Christian world has acknowledged three gods . . . Also that they have not known that to shun evils as sins is the Christian religion itself.

251⁴. It is not known in this world what kingdoms in the Christian world relate to the Moabites, Ammonites, and the other nations with whom the Sons of Israel waged war, but there are those which relate to them.

256. The reason the Christian religion is only in the smaller division of the habitable globe called Europe, is that the Christian religion has not been accommodated to the genius of the Orientals . . .

—³. The Christian religion is divided because it is from the Word, and the Word is written by pure correspondences . . . And as the doctrine of the Church must be drawn from the literal sense of the Word . . . there could not but arise disputes . . . but not as to the Word itself, and as to the Divine itself of the Lord; for it is everywhere acknowledged that the Word is holy, and that in the Lord there is the Divine, and these two are the essentials of the Church. Therefore they who deny the Lord's Divine . . . have been excommunicated from the Church; and they who deny the holiness of the Word are not accounted Christians.

257. That in many kingdoms where the Christian religion has been received, they arrogate Divine power to themselves . . .

258. That among those who profess the Christian religion there are some who place salvation in certain words which they think and speak, and not anything in the goods which they do . . .

—². Such are not Christians at heart.

—⁴. Everyone who is born a Christian knows that evils are to be shunned as sins . . .

— In the whole Christian world too the Athanasian Creed has been accepted . . .

259. That there have been and still are so many heresies in the Christian world, as Quakerism, Moravianism . . .

262. A doubt may be suggested against the Divine Providence from the fact that the whole Christian world worships God under three persons, which is to worship three gods; and that hitherto it has not known that God is one in Person and essence, in Whom is the Trinity, and that the Lord is that God. Gen. art. —⁷, Ex.

—⁵. From the idea impressed upon him concerning the Lord's Human, that it was like the human of another man, it has come to pass that a Christian can hardly be led to think of the Divine Human.

—^e. In the Spiritual World, where everyone must speak as he thinks, no one can even name Jesus, except he who has lived in the world as a Christian.

265. (Why it has not been known) that to shun evils as sins is the Christian religion itself. Gen. art. 278².

278a. These are the primary things of the Christian religion on the part of man. Ex.

322⁵. Who when he hears a Christian say, I make no account of this or that evil . . . does not say to himself, Is this man saved? . . . If he says, I was born a Christian . . . is this anything when he does not regard (these things) as sins? . . . These things have been said of a Christian, because a Gentile thinks concerning God from religion in his life more than a Christian.

328⁸. They receive this (instruction) more easily than Christians who have taken with them from the world an idea of the Lord's Human separate from His Divine.

330⁶. They who are outside the Church have an idea of God as a man more than Christians . . .

—⁷. Christians have the precepts of religion from the Word, but there are few who draw from it any precepts of life . . .

338⁸. That the doctrines of the Churches in the Christian world interiorly regarded are against instantaneous salvation from immediate mercy; but still the external men of the Church establish it.

R. 10. 'John to the seven Churches' (Rev. i. 4) = to all who are in the Christian world, where the Word is, and by whom the Lord is known, and who accede to the Church.

40. 'And send it to the Churches, to those in Asia' (ver. 11) = for those in the Christian world who are in the light of truth from the Word.

67³. What is universal of the Christian faith on man's part. Def.

68. To the Churches in the Christian world. (Treated of in this chapter.)

110². Exactly similar to these are those in the Christian world who are in works alone and in no truths of doctrine; wherefore they cannot be called anything but gentiles . . .

238. The New Heaven from Christians, who are in general truths from the sense of the letter of the Word. Sig.

263². The greatest part of the Christian world is occupied by those who have transferred to themselves the Divine Power of the Lord . . .

365. All in the Christian world who are in religion from good, and in truths from doctrine. Sig.

478^e. That the Kingdom will be the Lord's . . . has not been fulfilled by Christians because they have not acknowledged the Lord to be God of Heaven and earth as to the Human also . . . wherefore they do not immediately approach Him.

618. That no others from Christians could understand, and thus from love and faith acknowledge, that the Lord alone is the God of Heaven and earth, but they who have been received into this New Heaven by the Lord. Sig.

675². Enlightenment has been given us from Heaven, and in that enlightenment the perception that at this day in the Christian world there is no longer the Church, nor religion . . . T. 389.

706^e. A man can indeed live as a Christian without truths, but only before men, not before the Angels.

751. That the Roman Catholic religion reigns in the Christian world . . . Sig.

801. That from the religion which is meant by the city Babylon . . . falsity has spread into the whole Christian world. Sig.

876. That a New Heaven has been formed by the Lord from Christians, which at this day is called the Christian Heaven, where are they who had worshipped the Lord, and had lived according to His precepts in the Word . . . in which Heaven also are all little children of Christians. Sig.

877. The Heavens formed, not by the Lord, but by those who came from the Christian world into the Spiritual World, and which were all dissipated at the day of the Last Judgment. Sig.

878. That the external of the Heaven gathered from Christians since the first establishment of the Church was in like manner dissipated, after those who were written in the Lord's book of life had been taken out of it and saved. Sig.

949^e. The Lord Himself is in men according to reception, and not anything Divine separated from Him; the Angels are in this idea when they are in the idea of the Divine omnipresence, and I doubt not that some Christians too can be in the like.

953. Testification by the Lord before the whole Christian world that it is true that the Lord alone has mani-festated the things which are described in this Book, and which are now opened. Sig.

M. 2. (Those reputed wise convoked who were from the kingdoms of the Christian world.)

—². Several . . . have informed us that not a single person in the universal Christian world knows what heavenly joy is . . .

47a^e. In the Spiritual World equally as in the natural world no Christian is permitted to have a plurality of wives, because this infests and profanes religion. 338, Gen.art.

142. The Christian marriage principle alone is chaste. Ex.

339. That if a Christian has more wives than one he commits not only natural adultery, but also spiritual adultery . . .

— . By polygamic marriage in the Christian world the marriage of the Lord and the Church is profaned; in like manner the marriage of good and truth, and above all the Word, and with the Word the Church. Sig.

—². When this perishes the married man is no longer a Christian.

— . The marriages of Christians differ from those of other nations in this respect, that as good loves truth and truth good, and as they are one, so a wife and a husband; therefore if a Christian should adjoin one wife to another he would rend asunder in himself that spiritual marriage, thus he would profane the origin of his marriage, and would thus commit spiritual adultery.

—³. As a Christian man knows the Lord, has the Word, and also has the Church from the Lord through the Word, it is evident that he, more than a man who is not a Christian, has the capacity of being regenerated, and thus of becoming spiritual, and also of attaining to true marriage love . . .

— . It follows that the damnation of Christian polygamists after death is more grievous than that of those who only commit natural adultery . . . Des.

457. The marriage principle of one man with one wife is the . . . storehouse of the Christian religion. Ex.

464. Concubinage conjointly with a wife is unlawful for Christians and detestable. Ex.

— . As soon as anyone without a really serious reason adjoins a concubine to a wife, Heaven is closed against him, and he is no more numbered among Christians by the Angels.

466². Concubinage conjoined with a wife deprives a man of all capacity and inclination to the conjugal life which is in Christians from birth. Ex.

500. I saw thousands gathered together . . . The Angel said . . . Those who are gathered together are of those who believe adulteries not to be sins, and who say that adulterers have an acknowledgment of God equally with those who cleave to their wives; they are all from the Christian world. Visitation has been made by Angels to see how many there are there who believe adulteries to be sins, and out of a thousand they did not find a hundred . . .

B. 30. The universal theology in the Christian world at this day is founded on the idea of three gods, originating from the doctrine of a trinity of persons. Gen.art.

[B.] 37. That the Mohammedans and certain nations in Asia and Africa abhor Christianity, because they believe that there is in it the worship of three gods, is known . . . T. 183. 831.

98. The sole reason why the Christian world has fallen to a faith which has put away from itself all the truths and goods of Heaven and the Church . . . is that they have distinguished God into three, and have not believed the Lord God the Saviour to be one with the Father, and thus have not approached Him immediately.

T. 79. There approached some from the Christian world. (They state their ideas about creation.)

107. After this no one comes into Heaven from Christians, except he who believes in the Lord God the Saviour, and approaches Him alone. Gen. art.

108. Wherefore if after this anyone comes from the Christian world into the Spiritual World . . . and does not believe in the Lord, and approach Him alone, and cannot then receive this, because he has lived evilly, or has confirmed himself in falsities; at his first step to Heaven he is repelled, and his face is turned away from it, and is turned towards the Lower Earth, whither he also departs, and conjoins himself with those there who are meant by 'the dragon' and 'the false prophet' in the Revelation. Every man too in Christian lands who does not believe in the Lord, after this is not listened to, his prayers in Heaven are like bad smelling odours, and like the belchings from diseased lungs . . . His prayer does not rise to Heaven otherwise than as the smoke of a conflagration which is cast back into his eyes by a descending storm . . .

113^e. They who confirm justification by faith alone by the Word are sent forth into a desert, wherein they are carried to the extremity of the Christian world, and mixed with pagans.

120. Without redemption by the Lord, iniquity and wickedness would overrun the Christian world in both worlds, natural and Spiritual . . .

121². At the Lord's second Advent the Hells have grown from Christians so called . . .

134³. On hearing these things the Angel was silent for a long time, being paralyzed with amazement; when he broke silence he thus spake, 'Is it possible that the Christian world is so insane . . .

—⁴. The Christian world, moreover, is ignorant of the existence of order . . .

160⁷. We were amazed to hear such things, and said one to another, Although these men are called Christians, they are neither men nor beasts, but men beasts.

172². That no other trinity but a trinity of gods is meant at this day in Christendom . . .

184. That a trinity of gods is seated in the minds of Christians, although from shame they deny it.

342². From these things follows this conclusion, that everyone who wants to be truly Christian, and to be saved by Christ, must believe that Jesus is the Son of the Living God . . .

— These are they who make the worship of Him like the worship of Mohammed, and do not distinguish between true Christianity, which is the worship of the Lord, and naturalism.

343. What the modern Church delivers concerning faith is generally known in the Christian world . . .

345⁵. A one-eyed faith, which is a faith in some other than the true God, and with Christians, than the Lord God the Saviour.

356^e. Say such things to a pagan . . . Would he not regard Christianity as one would an empty vessel?

384. There is no faith with all those in Christendom who reject the Lord and the Word, although they live morally, and also speak, teach, and write rationally about faith. Ex.

391. The nature of the desolation of truth, and of the theological leanness existing in the Christian world at this day, has been made known to me by conversation with many of the laity, and with many of the clergy in the Spiritual World . . .

—². The Angels who are sometimes sent out by the Lord to visit the Christian Societies which are in the World of Spirits . . . greatly lament, saying that there is such dullness and thence thick darkness in the things of salvation, almost like that of a talking parrot . . .

450. There have been various heresies in Christianity from the time of its foundation, and there are also at this day, in which these three essentials, God, charity, and faith, have been and are acknowledged . . .

459¹. My verdict is that the old Christian brotherhood is charity . . .

483. It is known in the universal Christian world . . .

497. You can reject that absurd heresy, which at this day has induced a lethargy in Christendom . . .

501. Since the Advent of the Lord, all in the Christian world can become spiritual . . .

512. In the Reformed Christian world . . .

521^e. This Hereditary is so augmented with the Jews that they cannot embrace the Christian religion from faith of heart . . .

525. No one in the Christian world can be without the Knowledge of sin . . . The decalogue is the initial book with all in Christendom . . . 530².

—^e. Then for the first time the preaching in the Churches is received with both ears, and is borne into the heart, and the man from a pagan becomes a Christian.

526. What is better known in the whole Christian world than that a man ought to examine himself?

536². The rest, who have not exercised charity from religion, have hearts as hard as adamant . . . and soon adjoin themselves to the Spirits of the dragon, and together with them are driven away into deserts or into caverns which are in the furthest borders of the so-called Christian world . . .

568⁴. Hence come Christian fidelity and morality in the external man . . .

580^e. There have also been given the means (of regeneration and salvation), for Christians in the Word, and for Gentiles in their several religions.

595. He who simulates a moral citizen and a Christian man may be compared to a corpse wrapped up in spices . . .

619. Such is the congregation of people at this day who call themselves Christians . . . as is clearly evident to me from the spheres in the Spiritual World which flow forth from modern Christendom. Des.

628. Unless the error concerning imputation is abolished, atheism will invade the whole of Christendom . . .

632. This faith . . . has been received by the whole Christian world. Ex.

634. Since then the Christian temple has been in ruins.

636². The true Christians of the apostolic Church were called brethren.

637. In those primitive times all in that Christian world acknowledged that the Lord Jesus Christ was God . . .

645. The teachers of the Christian religion have stopped up their ears as with wax . . .

654. Works of charity done by a Christian and by a heathen appear alike in the external form . . .

666. No one in Christendom knows what conscience is. From experience.

677. The first use of baptism is . . . insertion among Christians in the Spiritual world. Gen.art.

— All foreign proselytes are baptized who are converted to the Christian religion, merely from the confession that they want to embrace Christianity . . .

678. Christians are in the middle of the Spiritual World. D.524o.

—². Without the Christian sign, which is baptism, some Mohammedan Spirit, or some one from the idolators, might apply himself to newly born Christian infants, and also to children . . . and alienate them from Christianity . . .

680^c. In the Spiritual World everyone is inserted into Societies and congregations according to the quality of Christianity in him or without him.

681. The second use of baptism is that a Christian may know and acknowledge the Lord Jesus Christ the Redeemer and Saviour, and may follow Him. Gen.art.

— To bear the name of a Christian, that is, that one belongs to Christ, and not to acknowledge and follow Him, that is, to live according to His commandments, is as empty as a shadow . . . 683.

682². The name of a Christian given to anyone means his quality as to faith in Christ, and as to the charity towards the neighbour he has from Christ.

684. A true Christian knows and acknowledges the Lord the Redeemer Jesus Christ . . .

699. What true Christianity does not acknowledge that these two Sacraments are holy, nay, that they are the most holy things of worship in Christendom?

700. The reason this spiritual sense is now first unfolded, is that before there has not been Christianity except in name, and with some a kind of shadow of it; for hitherto they have not immediately approached and worshipped the Saviour Himself as the Only God, in Whom is the Divine Trinity, but only mediately, which is not to approach and worship, but only to venerate Him as the cause for whose sake man has salvation . . . But as now for the first time Christianity itself is arising, a New Church is now being instituted by the Lord . . . in which God the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit are acknowledged as one . . . it has pleased the Lord to reveal the spiritual sense of the Word, in order that this Church may come into the use and enjoyment of the Sacraments . . .

721. By baptism every Christian man is intromitted and introduced into those things which the Lord teaches from the Word concerning the other life . . .

764. As the modern Church in Christendom is the night . . .

777. As Christians have Divine truth from no other source than the Word . . .

821. To such the transition from popery to Christianity is as easy . . .

D. 48o. That the worst of all the Spirits who are in the ultimate Heaven are those who profess themselves Christians, also the Jews. Des.

590. (Character of Christians). 594. 4812. 5518¹. 5525.

1558. On the infidelity of Christians.

2567. The iniquity of those called Christians is consummated, and the Lord's Kingdom is turned to others.

3595. Christendom is full of these insidious adulterers. 4083.

3598. The world called Christian is almost like the antediluvian one. Des. It is worse in that it regards adulteries as nothing.

3613. More obscene things exist in Christian lands than formerly . . .

3934. The character of the Christian world at this day. Des. 5855. 5978. J.(Post.)250. E.825⁴. 902^e.

3994¹. The state of men at this day, especially in Christendom. Rep.

4401. How the gentiles are kept from receiving the truths of faith by the crimes of Christians; yet there are a few who are not such.

4486. Why Christians have to remain longer than others in the World of Spirits.

4772². Christians are now depraved in disposition and nature, so that they wish to have only an invisible God, except some of the simple in heart . . .

4843. Such is the Christian world almost everywhere at this day.

5539. In Christendom at this day adultery is general . . . Hence the quality of Christendom is evident, and that it is its last time.

5731. Quality of the charity which now prevails in the Christian world.

5793. What it is to live as a Christian; and that it is not so difficult to do so in the heavenly doctrine as in the destroyed Babylon.

5807. On the separation of the Christians and gentiles, and that the Lord betook Himself to the gentiles.

5808. Some Christians thought pretty sanely about the Lord; but few.

5832^e. As to adulteries and principles about them,

Hell is as it were open and received in the Christian world ; not so much so out of it.

E. 649⁴. Christians in the other life are found to have no other idea of the Lord than as of a common man.

1008². The reason why adulteries are less abhorred by Christians than by any barbarous nation, is that in the Christian world at this day there is not a marriage of good and truth, but a marriage of evil and falsity . . . From this origin there flows in from Hell the lust and favour of adultery ; hence it is that adulteries are believed to be allowable, and are carried on without shame in the Christian world. De Conj. 77, 80.

C. 20. There are two distinct things ; to shun evils as sins, and to do Christian good ; he who shuns evils as sins does Christian goods ; but they who do good and do not shun evils as sins, do not do any Christian good.

Coro. xxxi. The Lord could not then form a New Heaven and from this a New Church from Christians, for there then were no Christians.

lv. An invitation to the universal Christian world to this New Church . . .

Inv. (x). After this they are not to be called Evangelicals, Reformed, still less Lutherans and Calvinists, but Christians.

38. In order that the true Christian religion might be opened, it was necessary for some one to be introduced into the Spiritual World, and from the Lord's mouth draw genuine truths from the Word.

Christian Church. Ecclesia Christiana.

See CHRISTIAN, and PRIMITIVE CHURCH ; also under CHURCH.

A. 567. Europe, where now is the Christian Church . . .

1083². The internals of the Christian Church are just like the internals of the Ancient Church ; but there are other externals, namely, in place of sacrifices and such things there are symbolic things . . .

1141^e. The Church from those called 'sons of Shem' was almost like our true Christian Church.

2118^e. The last judgment of this Church, which is called the Christian Church, is what is meant by 'the new heaven and new earth' in the Revelation.

2124. At this day, with the men of the Christian Church, intellectual good begins to perish, so much so that there is little of it left. Why.

2125. The quality of the men of the Christian Church at this day. Rep.

2243⁷. He then instituted a new Church which was called the Christian Church, and which at first was in the good of faith, and they lived together as brethren in charity ; but this Church, in process of time, has fallen away in various ways, and has now become of such a character that they do not even know that the fundamental of faith is love to the Lord and charity towards the neighbour ; and although from doctrine they say that the Lord was the Saviour of mankind, will raise them up after death, that there are a Heaven and a Hell ; few believe it ; (therefore) it is not far from its consummation.

3478². Thus it is evident that the rituals of the Jewish Church contained all the arcana of the Christian Church.

3488. Thus the perversion of the Church in Christendom began long ago.

3596^e. The dinners and suppers in the primitive Christian Church involved nothing else.

3755³. As interior things are open and known in the Christian Church, and are profaned, it is said that 'then shall be great affliction, such as was not from the beginning of the world.'

4057^e. The fourth consummation is that of the modern Christian Church, which is foretold by the Lord in the Gospels, and also in the Revelation, and which is now at hand.

4333^e. Specifically and especially (the things said by the Lord in the Gospels concerning the consummation of that age) treat of the consummation of the age which is now at hand, namely, of the end of the Christian Church, which is also treated of in the Revelation ; this will be the fourth last judgment in this globe.

4422². When the Christian Church, established after the Lord's coming, began to vastate itself, that is, to recede from good, then, I. They began not to know what is good and true, but to dispute about it. II. They despised it. III. They did not acknowledge it at heart. IV. They profaned it . . .

4489³. Afterwards the Lord flowed in by means of doctrinal things of good and truth . . . Hence comes the Christian Church ; this Church in its essence is the same as to internal form as the representative Church. . . But between the Most Ancient Church and the Christian Church, the difference is like that between the light of the sun in the day time, and the light of the moon or stars by night. Ex. There was almost the same difference between the Most Ancient and Ancient Churches, only that they who were of the Christian Church could have been in fuller light if they had acknowledged internal things, or had believed and done the truths and goods which were taught by the Lord . . .

4493⁴. When the man of the Jewish Church reads the Word, he apprehends nothing but the sense of the letter . . . In like manner at this day the man of the Christian Church.

4535^e. In this Church which is called Christian scarcely anything of charity and thence of faith survives ; thus the consummation of its age is now at hand.

4689². See CHRISTIAN at these refs. 10112.

4690². The Christian Church, however, calls faith the doctrinal things which are the interiors of the Church . . .

—e. It is also the Christian Church which is here treated of (in the history of Joseph) ; for the Lord's Word is universal . . . and it was equally foreseen by the Lord how the case would be with the Christian Church, as how it would be with the Jewish Church.

4692⁴. The Christian Church does indeed adore the Lord's Human as Divine in external worship, especially in the Holy Snpper . . . but they do not make His Human Divine in doctrine, for they make a distinction between the Divine nature and the human nature ; and this because the Church has turned away from charity to faith . . .

4700². See HOLY SUPPER at this ref.

4706. 'Their father' (Gen. xxxvii. 12) = the Ancient and the primitive Christian Church . . . There are four Churches ; (the fourth) is that which was established after the Lord's coming, and is called the Christian Church ; this is what in its rise is called the primitive Church.

4766³. If the Lord alone is adored, in Whom the Trinity is perfect . . . then there is the Christian Church, and it exists when it abides in this ; 'the first of all the commandments is, Hear O Israel, the Lord our God is one Lord, therefore thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart . . . and thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

4766³. Relatively to the Christian Church, the 'he-goat' in Dan. viii. = those who are in external truths from delights, that is, who are in faith separated . . .

4772. The externals of the Ancient Church were all representative of . . . the things of the Christian Church ; hence when the externals of the Ancient and Jewish Churches are unwashed there is manifest the Christian Church. 4868⁶.

4899². The Christian Church is with those who have the Word, and from doctrine preach the Lord, but still there is nothing of the Church in them unless they are in the marriage of good and truth . . .

5006³. The cause (of the present state of the Christian world) is, in general, that the Christian Church at this day preaches faith alone but not charity, and thus doctrine but not life, and when life is not preached man comes into no affection of good, and when he is in no affection of good he is in no affection of truth either . . .

5256. They who at this day come into the other life from the Christian Church almost all have an idea of the Lord as of another man . . . they say one God but think three . . . hence it is said of Christians in the other life that they worship three gods . . .

5663². That by 'God' and 'Jehovah' is meant the Lord, the Jewish Church did not know, nor does the Christian Church at this day know ; the reason the Christian Church has not known this is that it has distinguished the Divine into three persons.

5979². This is known from the doctrine of faith of Christian Churches.

8972². These 'judgments' do not serve for laws in a Church where internal things are no longer represented by external ones, as in the Christian Church ; the reason is that internal things are revealed to the man of this Church, and therefore communication with Heaven is effected through internal things ; this is the reason why the man of the Christian Church is not bound to observe in the external form those things which are called 'statutes' and 'judgments,' but in the internal form . . .

9198². It is the same in the Church at this day which from Him is called Christian ; in this Church the Lord is indeed received in doctrine, but by few with acknowledgment of heart, and by still fewer from affection of love. Sig.

10355⁵. Then commenced a fourth Church which is called Christian ; in this Church information about heavenly things, or those of eternal life, is given solely through the Word . . .

J. 2. From all mankind, even from the commencement of the Christian Church, a Heaven was gathered, but those therein were not Angels, but Spirits from various religions . . .

46^o. The third Church on this Earth is the Christian ; upon this Church, and at the same time upon all who since the Lord's time had been in the 'first Heaven,' a Last Judgment was effected, which is here treated of.

74. The Angels have slender hope of the men of the Christian Church . . .

L. 65. Not long after its establishment the Church was turned into Babylon, and with others afterwards into Philistia, therefore these things could not be seen from the Word . . . P.262³. 264², Ex.

P. 257³. It is known that without the Lord there is no salvation, and it was therefore necessary that the Lord should be preached from the Word, and thereby the Christian Church be established ; but this could not be done except by leaders who would do it from zeal, and there were none except those who were in a heat like that of zeal from the fire of self-love.

328⁴. The successive vastation of the Christian Church even to the end is described by the Lord in Matt. xxiv, Mark xiii, and Luke xxi ; and its consummation itself in the Revelation. B.73. T.180. E.405³⁴. 684⁴². J.35.

R. 69. By 'the seven Churches' are described all in the Christian Church who have religion, and of whom the New Church which is the New Jerusalem can be formed ; and it is being formed of those who approach the Lord alone and at the same time perform repentance from evil works. The rest, who do not approach the Lord alone, from a confirmed denial that His Human is Divine, and who do not perform repentance from evil works, are indeed in the Church, but have not anything of the Church in them.

88. As in what is written to the 'Seven Churches' is described the state of all in the Christian Church who are able to receive the doctrine of the New Jerusalem, and to live according to it, thus who are able to be reformed through combats against evils and falsities, it is said to each of them, 'He who overcometh.'

107. There are two kinds of men of whom the Christian Church at this day for the most part consists ; one kind who are in works alone and in no truths ; the other who are in worship alone, and neither in works nor truth. (Sig. by 'Pergamos' and 'Sardis'.)

589. 'Slain from the foundation of the world' (Rev. xiii.8)=the Lord's Divine Human not acknowledged from the establishment of the Church . . . both Jewish and Christian.

612. The New Heaven gathered from those in Christian Churches who have acknowledged the Lord alone as the God of Heaven and earth, and have been in truths of doctrine from the good of love from Him through the Word. Sig.

647². 'The vineyard of the earth' (Rev. xiv.18)=the Church in the Christian world.

649. The operation of the Lord from the good of His love through the Divine truth of His Word into the works of charity and faith which are with the men of Christian Churches. Sig.

[R.] 649a. The last state of the Christian Church. Sig.
650. The end of the present Christian Church. Sig.

M. 337. Consequently, true marriage love cannot exist except with those who are of the Christian Church. Ex.

532². The Angels rejoice greatly that it has pleased the Lord to reveal (the knowledge of correspondences); and they said that it is to the end that the Christian Church, which is founded upon the Word, and is now at its end, may again revive, and draw breath through Heaven from the Lord.

B. 63. This light and perception . . . does not flow in with those who cherish an idea of three gods, which has been done from the beginning of the establishment of the Christian Church.

74. Infestation by falsities, and thence the consummation of all truth, or desolation, at this day in Christian Churches, is meant by the 'great affliction, such as was not from the beginning of the world, nor shall be.' Gen.art.

77. That there are no love, faith, or Knowledges of good and truth in the Christian Church at the last time, is meant by 'after the affliction of those days the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken.' (Matt.xxiv.29.) Gen.art.

T. 4. The Christian Church from the Lord's time passed through ages from infancy to old age; its infancy was in the time when the apostles lived and preached in the whole world repentance and faith in the Lord God the Saviour. (Acts xx.21.)

—². (From the worship of three Divine persons) as it were madness has spread into universal theology, and thus into the Church which from the name of the Lord is called Christian.

94². What can result from this but that the universal Christian Church should perish, which is founded solely on the worship of Jehovah in the Human, thus upon God man?

109. After the Lord's coming into the world a Church was instituted by Him which saw, or rather was able to see, Divine truths in light . . .

116⁴. In the Revelation, from beginning to end, there is described the quality of the Christian Church at this day . . .

136³. The Nicene Council introduced three Divine persons from eternity, and thereby turned the Church into a theatre . . .

177. From the Nicene and Athanasian trinity there originated a faith which has perverted the whole Christian Church. Gen.art.

371³. Is unknown in the Christian Church . . .

378. The Christian Church from its cradle began to be infested and torn by schisms and heresies . . . Its sects eum.

—³. The causes of so many divisions in the Church are chiefly three; first, that the Divine Trinity has not been understood; second, that there has been no just Knowledge of the Lord; third, that the passion of the cross has been taken for redemption itself . . .

628. In the universal Christian Church it is held . . .

634. When faith in three gods was introduced into the Christian Churches, which took place from the time of the Nicene Synod, all the good of charity and all the truth of faith went into exile.

636. This was done (by the Nicene Synod) of the Divine Providence of the Lord, for if the Divinity of the Lord is denied the Christian Church perishes . . .

640². The universal Christian Church teaches these same things at this day . . .

644. The leaders of the Christian Churches . . .

— Thus the whole Christian Church would vanish . . .

668^e. The Christian Church, such as it is in itself, is now first commencing; the former Church was Christian in name only. 700.

670². The representative Church with the Jews was such as to prefigure the coming Christian Church: wherefore when the Lord came into the world He abrogated representatives, which were all external things, and instituted a Church of which all things were internal . . . retaining only two; baptism instead of the washings, and the Holy Supper instead of the lamb . . .

674. The worship of the former Churches consisted of external things which represented the internal things of the Christian Church, which was founded by the Lord when He was in the world, and is now for the first time being built by Him.

677. The first use of baptism is introduction into the Christian Church. Gen.art.

685². By the Christian Churches on earth baptism is called the Laver of Regeneration.

729. Infants and children born outside the Christian Church are introduced into the Heaven assigned to their religion by another medium, but are not mixed with those who are in the Christian Heaven.

757. This day is the last time of the Christian Church, which is foretold and described by the Lord in the Gospels and in the Revelation. Gen.art.

758². That the Christian Church, such as it is at this day, is consummated and vastated to so great a degree, cannot be seen by those on earth who have confirmed themselves in its falsities . . . 759.

760. This last time of the Christian Church is the very night in which former Churches have set. Gen.art. 761.

— The fourth Church is the Christian, established by the Lord through the Evangelists and the Apostles; of this Church there have been two epochs; one from the time of the Lord up to the Nicene Council, and the other from that Council to the present day; the latter has been divided into three: the Greek, the Roman Catholic, and the Reformed; all these are called Christian.

762. The fourth Church was as night, winter, and the north.

786². The fourth Church which is called Christian has indeed acknowledged one God orally, but in three persons . . . thus the idea of three gods was fixed in the mind; moreover the teachers of the Church . . . teach that men are to believe in them as invisible . . .

796. These three leaders who were the Reformers of the Christian Church.

E. 369. The state of the Christian Church from beginning to end (is signified by the opening of the seals). 486.

376³. The reason why genuine goods and truths have not been perceived and known in Christian Churches, is that these Churches have been divided . . .

386³⁰. That in the coming Church there would not be genuine truth, but truth mixed with falsities (was signified by the vinegar given to the Lord).

670². (Why the Christian Church at first made such slow progress.) 732^e.

670⁴. This Church which is called Christian has at this day come to its end . . .

684⁴². That these last things in Daniel were foretold concerning the end of the Christian Church, is evident from the Lord's words in Matt.xxiv.15.

928². From its beginning the Christian Church was divided into two, of which one is described by the dragon and his two beasts, and the other by the harlot sitting on the scarlet beast . . . That both Churches are now devastated . . .

Ath. 146. This New Church is the Christian Church itself, and no one is admitted into it except those who think and believe in one God, thus in the Lord alone.

Coro. i. The fourth Church is the Christian. 2. 4.

vii. The periodic changes in the fourth Church which is the Christian, are described in the Word of both Testaments; its rise or morning specifically in the Gospels and in the Acts and writings of the Apostles; its advance to mid-day in the Ecclesiastical Histories of the first three centuries; its decline or evening in those of the centuries immediately following; and its vastation even to consummation, which is its night, in the Revelation.

viii. After these four Churches there will arise a New Church which will be truly Christian . . . xxxv.

xl. The falsities which have hitherto desolated the Christian Church, and at last have consummated it, have been especially the following. Enum.

1. This New Christian Church will not be established by any miracles.

lii. This New Church truly Christian, which is at this day being established by the Lord, will last to eternity . . . 24.

5^e. 'The New Jerusalem,' which is the New Church truly Christian . . .

12^e. Such a Judgment was effected in 1757 upon the men of the present Christian Church.

22. The belief that the passion of the cross was redemption itself is the fundamental error of the present Christian Church . . .

34⁴. These things (Dan.ix.26) are said of the coming Church, in which the worship of the Lord would perish.

Christian Gentilism. Gentilismus Christianus. See CHRISTIAN at A.3667². 9020^e; and CHURCH at 5432².

E. 955^e. Those who are called saints are adored as gods by the common people in Christian Gentilism. 1118³.

Christian Heaven. See NEW HEAVEN.

Christina, Queen. D.6087.

Chronic. Chronicus. T.534. 665³.

Chrysalis. Chrysalis.

A. 2758. The transformation of caterpillars into nymphs or chrysalisses. 3000. H.108². W.354. M.49. M.418.

Chrysolite. Chrysolithus. R.915. E.717⁶.

M. 42⁴. A rosary of chrysolites.

Chrysoprase. Chrysoprasus. A.1232.

A. 868. 'A chrysoprase, a sapphire, and a diamond' (Ex.xxviii.18)=the celestial love of truth . . . The stones of this order derive their colour from the blue which is from red . . . The blue which is from red sparkles inwardly from flamminess.

—³. Whether the chrysoprase . . . was of a blue colour is not evident from its derivation in the Original Language, but that it=the celestial love of truth is evident from Ezek.xxvii.16 . . . for there the chrysoprase is conjoined with 'crimson;' and as 'crimson'=the celestial love of good, it follows that 'the chrysoprase'=the celestial love of truth . . . R.915. E.195³. 717⁷. —¹⁰.

Church. Ecclesia.

See ANCIENT CHURCH, CELESTIAL CHURCH, CHRISTIAN CHURCH, CHURCH OF THE GENTILES, EXTERNAL CHURCH, HEBREW CHURCH, INTERNAL CHURCH, JEWISH CHURCH, MOST ANCIENT CHURCH, NEW CHURCH, OLD CHURCH, PRIMITIVE CHURCH, REPRESENTATIVE CHURCH, and SPIRITUAL CHURCH.

See also under BRIDE, CANAAN, DAUGHTER, EARTH, EARTHQUAKE, ESTABLISH, FIELD, GENTILE, HOMAN, ISRAEL, MOTHER, NATION, VINEYARD, and WOMAN.

A. 29². 'The Kingdom of God' . . . in a less universal sense=the Lord's true Church.

54^e. The Church itself, from the affection of good, was called 'daughter,' 'virgin,' and 'wife.'

59. Hence the Lord's Church is called militant. 1692. 6308.

82^e. Whatever is said of the Church is said of every-one of the Church, who unless he were a Church could not be a part of the Church.

231. (The four Churches enum.) 4706. T.760. 786. Coro.2, Gen.art.

— . The evil of all these Churches was that they did not believe the Lord or the Word, but themselves and their own senses . . .

246^e. The Church or regenerate man is here treated of, but in the first chapter of Genesis the non-Church, or the man who is to be regenerated.

250. 'The woman' (Gen.iii.15)=the Church. 252. 255.

[A.] 253. It is from the heavenly and angelic proprium that in the Word the Church is called 'woman,' 'wife,' 'bride,' 'virgin,' 'daughter.' . . . 'The woman' (Rev.xii.) means the Church.

262. 'The woman' (ver.16)=the Church, here the perverted Church, from proprium, which before was signified by 'the woman.'

267°. 'All the days of thy life' (Gen.iii.17)=even to the end of the Church.

333. A new Church then arose which is meant by 'Adah and Zillah,' and is described by their sons, 'Jabal, Jubal and Tubalcain;' the celestial things of the Church by 'Jabal,' the spiritual things by 'Jubal,' the natural things by 'Tubalcain.'

362. Wherever there is any Church there arise heresies, because while they are thinking about one article of faith they make it the chief thing . . .

393°. In place of the perception which prevailed with the Most Ancient Church, there succeeded conscience, which, being acquired through faith adjoined to charity, dictates not what is the truth, but that it is the truth because the Lord has said so in the Word; such became all the Churches after the Flood, as to the most part; such was the primitive Church.

407. With the state of the Church in general the case is this; that in process of time it recedes from the true faith, and at last ceases in none. . . Thus it was with the Most Ancient Church . . . with the Ancient Church . . . with the Jewish Church . . . with the primitive Church . . . Yet some nucleus of the Church always remains, which they who are devastated as to faith do not acknowledge . . .

408. When the Church is so devastated that there is no longer any faith, it begins anew, or new light shines forth . . . The reason no new light shines forth before it is devastated, is that the things of faith and charity are mixed up with profane things . . .

409°. Rarely, if ever, does the Church remain with those who are in possession of truths when they are devastated, but is transferred to others who know nothing whatever about them . . .

462. The second Church, which was not so celestial as the Most Ancient Church, is called 'Seth' (Gen.v.2).

463. The third Church was called 'Enos' (ver.6). The fourth Church, 'Cainan' (ver.9). The fifth Church, 'Mahalaleel' (ver.12). The sixth Church, 'Jared' (ver.15). The seventh Church, 'Enoch' (ver.18). The eighth Church, 'Methuselah' (ver.21).

465. The ninth Church was called 'Lamech' (ver.25).

466. The tenth Church, parent of three Churches after the Flood, is 'Noah,' which Church is to be called the Ancient Church.

468. With the Church the case is this; that in process of time it decreases, and at last remains with a few; the few with whom it remained at the time of the Flood are called 'Noah.'

—². Unless there were always some with whom there was the Church, the human race would perish. Ex.

471. The reason they dwelt apart, distinguished into houses, families and nations, was that thus the Church might be preserved in its integrity . . . Thus the Church represented to the life the Lord's Kingdom . . .

476. 'Female' (Gen.v.2) also=the Church.

483. The Principal of (these ten) Churches was perception, wherefore the differences of the Churches of that time were especially differences of perceptions . . .

494°. The case with the Church is that it decreases and degenerates . . . chiefly because hereditary evil is augmented. Ex. 497.

501. (The succession of Churches explained by examps.)

502. The three Churches 'Man,' 'Seth,' and 'Enos,' constitute the Most Ancient Church, with a difference of perfection as to perceptions . . . 505.

530. The names in this chapter=Churches, or what is the same, doctrines, for it is from doctrine that the Church exists and is called the Church. . . The case with Churches or doctrines is that they decrease, even until there no longer remains anything of the goods and truths of faith, and then the Church is called 'vastated.' But still there are always remains preserved, or some with whom the good and truth of faith remains, although they are few. Unless this were the case, there would be no conjunction of Heaven with the human race. Ex. 617.

560. The man of the antediluvian Church, in process of time, conceived direful persuasions, and immersed the goods and truths of faith in filthy cupidities . . .

567. All the region is called the tract of the Church where they are who are instructed in the doctrine of true faith . . . The lands or regions outside are not the tract of the Church.

636. That the human race will perish when the Church does. Sig. 637.

637. If the Lord's Church were completely extinguished on the Earth the human race could not exist at all. . . for the Church is like the heart . . . The Lord's Church on this Earth is as the heart; from it the human race, even that which is outside the Church, has life. Further Ex.

709. Intellectual things, or those which are of faith, do not constitute the Church, but the voluntary things which are of love . . .

768. The man of the Church is not only the Church itself, but is the whole of the Church; it is a general term comprehending whatever is of the Church.

—². There exists with every man of the Church the internal of the Church and the external, the internal is where the truths of the Church are, the external is what is thence derived; this is 'Jacob.'

—³. The Lord is the only Man, and is the whole of His Kingdom, and as the Church is the Lord's Kingdom on earth, the Lord alone is the whole of the Church; the whole of the Church is love or charity, wherefore the 'man,' or he who is mentioned by name (as here 'Noah')=love or charity, that is, the whole of the Church, and then 'wife'=simply the Church thence derived.

769. The Church cannot exist without doctrinal things.

770. Noah's 'wife'=the Church itself, and 'the three wives of his sons with them' (Gen.vii.13)=the Churches themselves thence derived; (for) when the man of the Church is mentioned, he=the whole of the Church, or as it is called, the head of the Church, and then the 'wife'=the Church.

809. The Church is never predicated from intellectual things, but from voluntary tones; the Scientific and the Rational of faith never constitute the Church or the man of the Church, but charity which is of the will... Thus neither does what is doctrinal make the Church if in general and specifically it does not regard charity... The Lord's Church... is not unless it is of love and charity.

831. They frequented Churches.

872°. In the universal sense, 'ground'=the Church, and as it=the Church, it also=the man of the Church, for every man of the Church is a Church.

885°. A vastated Church is of such a quality that it knows truth, but does not want to understand it.

916°. The Church is called spiritual when it acts from charity, but never when it says that it has faith without charity; then it is not even the Church... 1249. 1304.

931. The inhabitant first begins to cease to be upon the Earth when there is no longer any Church, for when there is no Church, there is no longer any communication of man with Heaven; on the cessation of which every inhabitant perishes, for the Church is as the heart and lungs in man...

—². There is a last judgment of every Church when it is vastated. Enum.

932. Seed will never cease to be sown in man by the Lord, whether he be within the Church, or without the Church. Sig.

—°. Specifically, this treats of the man who is to be regenerated, namely, that there will always be a Church somewhere in the earth. 933.

1030. 'All that go out of the ark' (Gen.ix.10)=the men of the Church; 'the wild beast of the earth'=the man outside the Church. 1031.

1059. A sign of the Lord's presence in charity, not only with the man of the Church, but also with the man outside the Church. Sig and Ex.

1062. As it is in every Church, so it was in the Ancient; namely, there were intellectual men, corrupt intellectual men, and external men. Sig. and Ex.

1065. The three sons of Noah=these three kinds of doctrines, which are those of Churches in general... There are no more universal kinds; they who do not acknowledge charity or faith, or external worship, are not of any Church.

1076. 'Ham'=a corrupt Church... That is called a corrupt Church which acknowledges the Word, and has worship like that of the true Church, but separates faith from charity...

1083. 'Shem'=the internal Church, and 'Japheth' the external one corresponding to it. Wherever the Church is there must be what is internal and what is external, for the man who is the Church is internal and external; before he becomes the Church, that is, before he is regenerated, he is in externals...

—³. The Church cannot exist unless there is what is internal and what is external. Ex. 1242.

1097. In the Jewish Church the internal things of the Church were represented by 'Judah' and 'Israel'; by 'Judah' the Celestial Church, by 'Israel' the Spiritual Church, by 'Jacob' the external Church.

1151. All Churches, wherever they have been, in course of time have been changed, and in fact into what is opposite. 1241.

1171°. Without knowledges no one can become a man of the Church.

1175. If anyone lives where there is no Church...

1264. The names of the nations in this chapter signify not only all the differences of worship... in the Ancient Church, but also those in every Church.

1316. See ONE at this ref.

1328°. The lot of those who are idolaters outside the Church is much better than that of those who are idolaters within the Church.

1356. Churches are wont to go from their internal things to external things, and at last to cease in mere external things.

1366. The Church cannot come into existence anew with any nation until it is so vastated that nothing of what is evil and false remains in its internal worship. Ex.

1778. The state of the Church towards its end. Treated of. 1861°.

1780. The Lord's complaint that the Church was merely external, and a promise about the internal Church and its multiplication. Treated of.

1781. It was shown Him how the case is with the Church in general, in special, and in particular. Treated of.

1782. The Church on one part and the Lord on the other. Sig. 1830. 1831. 1862, Ex.

1798. 'To me Thou hast not given seed' (Gen.xv.3)=that there is no internal of the Church... Love and thence faith are the internal of the Church... What is doctrinal separated from love and charity never makes the internal of the Church... but what is doctrinal which is from or of charity does make the internal. Ex.

1799°. What is doctrinal itself does not make the external, still less the internal; nor with the Lord does it distinguish Churches, but life according to doctrinal things...

—⁴. In the Christian world it is doctrinal things which distinguish Churches, and from them they call themselves Roman Catholics, Lutherans, Calvinists, besides other names. They are so called from mere doctrine, which would never have been if they had made love to the Lord and charity towards the neighbour the Principal of faith; for then these things would have been only varieties of opinions about the mysteries of faith, which true Christians would leave to everyone according to his conscience, and they would have said in their hearts that he is truly Christian who lives as a Christian, or as the Lord teaches; thus from all the different Churches there would have been one, and all the dissensions which come forth from doctrine alone would have vanished, nay the hatred of one against another would have been dissipated in a moment, and there would have been the Lord's Kingdom on earth. (So it was with the Ancient Church.) 1834². 2385⁴.

[A.] 1825. The last time of the Church is signified by 'the third day,' 'the third week,' 'the third month,' 'the third year,' and 'the third age.' And so is the state of everyone who is a Church, nay of everything that is of the Church.

1834². When a Church is raised up by the Lord, in the beginning it is guiltless, and then the one loves the other as a brother.

1835. When the Church begins to recede from charity, evils and falsities are more easily put to flight . . . but in course of time evils and the falsities thence increase . . .

1837. 'Sunset' (ver. 12)=the last time of the Church, which is called consummation, when there is no longer any charity. The Lord's Church is compared to the times of the day.

1838. 'A deep sleep fell upon Abram' (id.)=that the Church was then in darkness.

1839⁵. 'The day of Jehovah'=the last time and state of the Church.

—7. 'Outer darkness'=the more direful falsities of those who are in the Church, for they darken the light, and bring up falsities against truths, which the gentiles cannot do.

1844. 'In a land not theirs' (ver. 13)=where there is a Church as it were not of those who are in charity and faith. At this day they predicate the Church of the mere doctrinal things of faith, and thereby distinguish the Lord's Churches, not caring what kind of a life they lead, whether they cherish intestine hatred . . . when yet with such there never is the Church, but with those who love the Lord and the neighbour as themselves, have conscience, and are averse to such hatred. The latter are among the former as sojourners . . .

1850. The last judgment=the last time of the Church. 2118, Enum.

—'. 'Heaven and earth perishing'=the Church as to internal and external worship, which becomes no Church when there is no charity.

1857⁴. Visitation does not come upon the Church until evil has been consummated, that is, when there is no longer any good of charity and truth of faith.

1885, Pref.^e. Thus Heaven begins to be removed from those who are within the Church . . .

1986. Thus there would be conjunction (of the Lord) with those both within and without the Church. Sig.

2048. 'The house of God,' in the universal sense=the Lord's Kingdom; in a less universal sense, the Church; and in a particular sense, the man himself in whom is the Kingdom and Church of the Lord.

2049. Those outside the Church. 2051. 2054. 2115.

2051². Purification from these filthy loves is the most necessary within the Church, because they who are within the Church are able to render holy things impure, which they who are without the Church cannot do; hence their danger of damnation is greater. Moreover they who are within the Church are able to form principles of falsity against the very truths of faith, and to become imbued with them, which they who are without the Church cannot do . . . Thus the former can profane holy things, but not the latter.

2052. 'Born in thy house, and the purchase of thy silver' (Gen. xvii. 13)=those who are within the Church, both celestial and spiritual. 2101. 2114.

2053². In every dogma within the Church there are those who are endowed with conscience, which however is better in proportion as their truths approach the genuine truths of faith.

2054. With those who are within the Church the conjunction of the Lord and His Heaven is the closest . . . There is indeed conjunction also with those who are outside the Church, but more remote . . . The Church in the Lord's Kingdom is as the heart and lungs in man . . .

2056². It treats in this verse (14) also of those who are within the Church, and who are not only in falsity, but also in impurity of the loves of self and of the world.

2057. Those within the Church who are in falsity and at the same time in self-love, especially profane holy things; not so much those who are in any other love . . .

2069². The men of the Church are distinguished into celestial and spiritual. 2078. 2114.

2117^e. 'Heaven and earth'=the Lord's Church in general and with each one in particular.

2122^e. The equilibrium will be restored by the rejection of those who are within the Church, and the reception of others who are outside.

2126. How they who are within the Church are at this day against innocence. Rep.

2156^e. Those within the Church who say that they acknowledge a Supreme Being . . . do not acknowledge any God at all, although they sometimes suppose they do. 2343⁸.

2162³. The Church is the Lord's Kingdom on earth. 2177. 2425³.

2243³. (The consummations of the successive Churches on this earth enum.)

2280⁶. The good of ignorance is also predicated of those . . . within the Church who are in the good of charity, but in ignorance of truth.

2310². The union of Heaven and earth is by the Church, and in fact by the Word in the Church.

2313^e. Hence is conceived and born something that is like a Church, the good of which is called 'Moab,' and the truth 'the son of Ammon.' 2465.

2322. 'Sodom' (Gen. xix.)=the evil, especially those within the Church. 2345. 2359.

2323. The states of the Church are in the Word compared both to the times of the year and to the times of the day . . . The state of the Church which is called 'evening' is when there is no longer any charity, thus when there begins to be no faith, thus when the Church ceases to be . . . It is provided by the Lord that when the Church ceases to be, a new one is raised up, and this at the same time, for without a Church somewhere in the globe the human race could not subsist, because there would be no conjunction of it with Heaven.

2324^e. 'To sit in the gate' (ver.1)=to be with the evil, but still separate from them; as are wont to be the men of the Church who are in the good of charity; although these are with the evil they are still separate from them, not as to civil society, but as to spiritual life.

2326. They who are in the good of charity within the Church acknowledge the Lord's Divine Human and Holy proceeding. Sig.

2329^d. They who are truly men of the Church, that is, who are in love to the Lord and charity towards the neighbour, know and acknowledge the Trinity, yet still humble themselves before the Lord, and adore Him alone, because they know that there is no approach to the Divine itself which is called 'the Father' except through 'the Son,' and that all the Holy which is of the Holy Spirit proceeds from Him . . .

2334². It here treats of the first state of the Church which is in the good of charity, but in external worship. Represented by 'Lot.'

2349. Here is described the first state of those within the Church who are against the good of charity, and consequently against the Lord . . .

2351². The falsity from evil which is within the Church is especially the falsity which favours evils of life. Examp.

2354². Here is described the first state of the vastated Church, that is, when there begins to be no faith because there is no charity . . .

2371. Here is described the state of the Church as it is about the last times, when there is no longer any faith because there is no charity. 2444.

2380². These are they who are in the good of charity, whether without the Church or within the Church; those who are within the Church adore the Lord and gladly hear and do what He teaches.

—³. Such within the Church deny the Lord in secret . . .

2383³. With those who are within the Church and know what is true, 'blindness'=falsity; but with those who do not know what is true, as those who are outside the Church, 'blindness'=ignorance of truth.

2400². There are three kinds of men within the Church; first, they who live in the good of charity, and who are represented by 'Lot;' second, they who are altogether in falsity and evil, who reject both truth and good, and are represented by 'the men of Sodom;' third, they who do indeed know truths, but still are in evil, and are signified by 'the sons-in-law;' these are especially they who teach.

2406. When the Church begins to decline from the good of charity, it is more strongly withheld from evil by the Lord than when it is in the good of charity . . . For the second state of this Church is here treated of. 2407. Ex.

2417². Every Church of the Lord in its beginning . . . has no other doctrine than that of charity, but the Church successively bends itself from this doctrine, until it begins to depreciate it, and at last to reject it . . .

2422. Here it treats of the third state of the Church which is represented by 'Lot' in this chapter, and which is that they no longer think and act from the affection of good, but from the affection of truth . . .

2444². Within the Church, the end or judgment of which is here treated of, the evil of self-love is what chiefly acts against good, and the falsity therefrom is what acts against truth.

2449. It treats of the last state of those who within the Church are in falsities and evils.

2454¹. 'The abomination of desolation'=the state of the Church when there is no love and charity, for then abominable things reign.

—⁵. Truth is said to turn itself away from good, and look to doctrinal things, when there is no longer at heart what life makes the man of the Church, but what doctrine; when yet life according to doctrine makes a man of the Church . . .

2455^e. This now is the fourth state of the Church represented by 'Lot,' which is that all truth is vastated as to good.

2459. Here the fifth state of the Church represented by 'Lot' is described, which is, that after there was no longer any affection of truth, a certain impure good, or good of falsity, infused itself.

2520⁶. 'Those who see and hear' (Matt. xiii. 13)=those who are within the Church, who although they see and hear, do not understand.

2566. Those within the Church are called 'a flock' who are truly rational, that is, internal men; those within the Church are called 'a herd' who are natural, that is, external men.

2589. On the nations and peoples who are born outside the Church, and on their state and lot in the other life. Gen.art.

2661^e. With the Lord, when He was in the world, were represented all the states of the Church, and how they would be saved through Him; wherefore the same states of the Church are signified by the same names. (Isaac, Ishmael, etc.)

2702¹⁴. Where the planting of the Church is treated of in the Word . . .

2708⁷. The temptation of the Church. Sig.

2714¹. The journeys of the people in the wilderness=the state of the Church militant, and its temptations.

2760, Pref.². Upon that faith the Church is built . . .

2765. The salvation of the spiritual by the Lord's Divine Human, of those who are in charity and faith within the Church, and of those who are in good without the Church, treated of. 2861.

2832. Both (those who say that they can believe nothing unless they apprehend by means of sensuous and scientific things that it is so, and those who say that they believe although they do not apprehend) are in the Lord's spiritual Church, but are not of the Church; they who are of the Church are in the life of good, and have faith in truths . . .

[A.] 2852². This arcanum is contained in these words (Gen.xxii.18), that through the Church those are saved who are outside the Church . . . No others are in the faith of charity than those who are within the Church . . . The Lord's Church on earth is like the heart and lungs, and they who are outside the Church relate to the parts of the body which are supported by and live from the heart and lungs; hence it is evident that without a Church somewhere on earth the human race could not subsist . . . It is for this reason that whenever any Church is consummated, that is, becomes no Church because there is no longer any charity, of the Lord's Providence a new one is always raised up (Enum.); and this for the reason that there may be conjunction of Heaven with the human race through the Church.

2861. They who are in good within the Church are they who can become truly spiritual, because they have the Word, thus the truths of faith . . .

2904². In the Church no other truth is possible than that which is of the Lord . . .

2905². The fulness of the states and times of the Church. Sig. The Church is circumstanced as the four ages of man: infancy, adolescence, adult age, and old age; the last is called fulness or the end. It is also circumstanced as the times and states of the year . . . winter is the end; and also as the times and states of the day . . . at night there is fulness or end . . . Good and truth with those of the Church are thus wont to decrease, and when there is no longer any good and truth . . . the Church arrives at its old age, or winter, or night; and its time and state then are called 'decision,' 'consummation,' and 'fulfilment' . . .

2906². 'A year'=a whole time of the state of the Church from beginning to end, or a whole period. III.

—⁴. When the Lord recedes from the Church. Sig.

—⁵. 'Seventy years' (Is.xxiii.15)=a whole period, from the time when the Church comes into existence to when it expires.

2908. 'Sarah died' (Gen.xxiii.2)=night as to the truths of faith. 'Dying,' 'dead,' and 'death,' when predicated of the Church,=its last time, when all faith, that is, charity, has expired, which time is called 'night.' 2912.

2909. 'In Kirjath-arba, this is Hebron in the Land of Canaan' (id.)=in the Church; 'Kirjath-arba'=the Church as to truth; and 'Hebron in the Land of Canaan'=the Church as to good.

—³. That in course of time every Church decreases, until it has nothing of faith and charity left, and that it is then destroyed, was represented by Kirjath-arba which is Hebron being possessed by Anakim.

2910. 'Abraham came to mourn for Sarah and to weep for her' (id.)=the Lord's state of grief on account of the night as to goods and as to truths of faith in the Church. . . The end of the Church is treated of in these two verses; its end is when there is no longer any charity . . . The case with Churches is this; in the beginning charity is their fundamental, everyone then loves others as brethren, and is affected by good not for his own sake, but for the sake of the neighbour, the common good, the Lord's Kingdom, and above all the Lord. But in course of time charity begins to grow cold and to become none. Afterwards comes hatred of one against another, which although it does not appear in outward form . . . is cherished within . . . and is of such a character that they want to exercise command over all, and to possess all that belongs to others; and when they are opposed in this they store up contempt in their minds against the neighbour, breathe revenge, feel delight in his ruin, and exercise cruelty towards him so far as they dare. Into such things passes the charity of the Church when its end comes, and then it is said of it that there is no longer any faith; for where there is no charity there is no faith. (The Churches which have thus fallen,enum.)

—¹. Besides these Churches there have been many which have not been so well described, which have in like manner destroyed themselves. The causes of their destruction have been many; one is that parents pile up evils, and by frequent use and habit induce them on nature, and thus transcribe them into their offspring . . .

—^e. But when the Church is consummated and perishes, the Lord always raises up a new one somewhere, but rarely, if ever, from the man of the former Church, but from the gentiles who have been in ignorance. This is treated of in what follows. 2955.

2913³. (Refs. to passages on the subject of the Church.) N.246.

2936. 'At the end of the field' (Gen.xxiii.9)=where there is little of the Church . . .

2959³. The sojourning of the sons of Jacob in Egypt represented the vastation of the Church.

2966². The Divine of the Lord is what makes the Church with man, for nothing is called the Church but what is proper to the Lord; it is the good which is of love and charity, and it is the truth which is of faith, which make that which is called the Church, (all of which are from the Lord).

2982. With the Lord's Churches the case is this . . . when with each and all, love to the Lord and charity towards the neighbour, that is, the good of life, is the essential, however many Churches there may be they make one . . .

—². But it is altogether otherwise with Churches which say that faith is the essential of the Church . . . Many Churches do not then make one, and they are not even Churches. It is the good of faith which makes the Church, that is, the life of love and charity according to those things which are of faith . . .

2984. The Church is predicated from the good which is of charity, thus of the life.

2986². When any Church becomes none, that is, when charity perishes, and a new one is established by the Lord, rarely, if ever, does this take place with those with whom the old Church was, but with those with whom there was no Church before, that is, with the gentiles. Enum.

3021⁸. The successive states of the Church were represented by (Nebuchadnezzar's image). Ex.

3023⁹. The internal and external things of the Church defined.

3024². As 'daughters'=affections of good and of truth, they also=Churches, for Churches are Churches from these affections . . .

3081. 'Virgin'=the Lord's Kingdom, also the Church, and hence everyone who is a Kingdom of the Lord or who is a Church, and this from the marriage love which there is in chaste virgins . . . Ill.

3175. Born within the Church . . .

3236. The Church is compared to a marriage, and also is a marriage of good and truth . . . Truth is in the second place . . . and therefore the Church is called 'a bride,' 'a woman,' 'a wife.'

3241^o. However many varieties and differences of doctrinal things there may be . . . they still all together form one Church when all acknowledge charity as the essential of the Church, or what is the same, when they regard life as the end of doctrine . . . 3268^e.

3267^o. They who know truths . . . and do not live in charity or in good, although they are in the Church, because born there, still are not of the Church, for there is nothing of the Church in them, that is, nothing of good with which the truth may be conjoined.

3270. The externals of the Church are rituals; the internals are doctrinals when these are not of knowledge but of life. Rep.

3305⁷. The Church is the Church from the doctrine of truth and the life of good.

3310. As the Church is not the Church from doctrinal things, except in so far as they regard the good of life as the end, or what is the same, except the doctrinal things are conjoined with the good of life, 'field'=chiefly the good of life. In order for this to be of the Church there must be doctrinal things from the Word, which have been implanted in that good; without doctrinal things there is indeed the good of life, but not as yet the good of the Church . . .

—². (In the parable of the sower) it treats of the four kinds of ground in the field, that is, in the Church.

3322¹. 'The remains of Edom' (Amos ix. 12)=those who are in good within the Church; 'the nations upon whom His name is called'=those who are in good outside the Church.

3325³. As there are more within the Church who are not being regenerated, than there are who are being regenerated . . .

3353. The Last Judgment is nothing but the end of the Church with one nation, and its beginning with another. This end and beginning come about when there is no longer any acknowledgment of the Lord . . . That then there is the end of the Church, and its translation to others, is evident from what the Lord says . . . in Matt. xxiv, Mark xiii, and Luke xxi. Ex.

3354. The first state of the perversion of the Church is here meant (Matt. xxiv), which is when they begin no longer to know what is good and what is true, but debate together about them, whence come falsities.

—The twelve disciples represented all who are of the Church.

3379. Churches are not Churches from being so called and from professing the Lord's name, but from being in the good and truth of faith; it is the good and truth of faith itself which makes the Church, nay, is the Church, for in the good and truth of faith there is the Lord, and where the Lord is there is the Church.

3380. All who are in good both within and without the Church. Sig.

3399². At the last time of the Church they are not able to acknowledge truth, because there then reigns universally with them incredulity concerning the Lord, the life after death, the internal man; and the incredulity which reigns universally causes the truths of faith not to penetrate interiorly (and therefore they cannot profane truth).

3447. Almost all our present Churches are of this character . . .

—². As in every Church of the Lord there are internal and external men . . .

3448³. A prophecy about the vastation of the Church.

3451². The ease with the Lord's Kingdom on earth, that is, with His Church, is that as it has its doctrinals from the literal sense of the Word, it cannot but be various and diverse as to those doctrinals . . . Thus the Lord's Church . . . will differ everywhere, and this not only according to communities, but sometimes according to the individuals in a community; but a disagreement in the doctrinals of faith does not prevent the Church from being one, provided there is unanimity as to willing well and acting well. Examp.

3470. The nation which represents a Church, also represents the truth and good such as is that of the Church, for the Church is the Church from truth and good, therefore when the one is mentioned the other is understood.

3487. By these words is described the second state of the perversion of the Church, which is that good and truth are despised, and also held in aversion . . . 3488.

3489. That the Church is of such a character does not appear to those who are in the Church, namely that they despise and feel aversion for all things which are of good and truth, also that they stir up enmity against them, especially against the Lord Himself; for they frequent places of worship, hear preachings, are in a certain holiness while there, go to the Holy Supper, and sometimes speak becomingly together about these things; thus the evil equally with the good live together in civil charity or friendship . . . but the internal forms of the men of the Church are entirely different . . .

3507^o. Thus there is conjunction of Heaven with the world through man, and in fact through the Word, thus through the Church in which is the Word.

3652. When these things are in the Church, or rather in the tract where the Word is . . . there is 'desolation.'

3653. There are three kinds of men within the Church; they who are in love to the Lord, they who are in charity towards the neighbour, and they who are in the affection of truth. Sig.

3654³. He who is being regenerated or made a Church. 3876. 3913. 3923. 3935^e.

3655. Here now the third state is treated of, which is one of the desolation of the Church as to good and truth.

3660^e. In the supreme sense of the Word, the Lord is treated of; and in the representative sense, the Church and regeneration.

[A.] 3728². Hence the Church is not the Church from truth separated from good, thus not from faith separated from charity, but from the truth which is from good, or from the faith which is from charity.

3754^e. The fourth state of the perversion of the Church is here treated of, which is one of the profanation of good and truth.

3767. 'Flock' in general = all those who are in good, thus who belong to the Church in the whole of the globe.

3770. 'Droves' (Gen.xxi.3) = Churches, and also the doctrinals which are of Churches.

3773². All Churches in their infancy worship the Lord from love, thus love the neighbour from the heart; but in course of time they remove themselves from these two precepts, and turn away from the good of love and of charity to those things which are said to be of faith, thus from life to doctrine, and in proportion as this is done the Word is closed. Sig.

3778. Abram puts on the representation of the genuine Church, such as it is with those who have the Word; and Nahor his brother puts on the representation of the Church such as it is with the gentiles who have not the Word; the Lord's Church is scattered throughout the whole globe, and exists among the gentiles too who live in charity . . . 3993¹².

3786². The case is the same in general with the Church when it is being established; first the doctrinal things of good and truth must be [collected] into one, for these are what it is built on. Ex. Therefore the Word is given to the Church, in which are all the doctrinal things of good and truth. In this respect the case with the Church in general is the same as it is in particular with a man who is being regenerated, for he is a Church in particular . . .

3795. The affection of interior truth is that which teaches, for from this affection the Church is the Church.

3796². If the affections of good and truth . . . have as an end the good of the neighbour . . . and still more if they have as an end the good of the Church . . . they are genuine . . .

3812⁶. The establishment of the Church with the gentiles, treated of.

3857. 'Barren' (Gen.xxix.31) = no doctrines thence, thus no Churches.

3898². The Church at this day is so vastated, that is, devoid of faith and love, that although they know and understand, they do not acknowledge, still less believe, except a few who are in the life of good and are called 'the elect,' and who can now be instructed, and with whom a new Church is to be established; but where they are the Lord alone knows, there will be few within the Church . . .

3899. (The fifth state of the vastation of the Church, treated of.)

3900¹⁰. 'Whosoever the carcase is, there will the eagles be gathered together' (Matt.xxiv.28) = that confirmations of falsities by reasonings will be multiplied in the vastated Church. When the Church is devoid of the good and thence the truth of faith, or when it is vastated, it is said to be 'dead,' for its life is from good and truth; hence when dead it is compared to 'a carcase.' Ill. 3901, Ex.

3901⁴. It is the first state of the Church which is described by 'the lion which had eagles' wings' (Dan.vii.4).

3902. By the first four sons of Jacob from Leah the state of the Church is treated of, or that of the man who becomes a Church, as to the ascent from the truth of faith to the good of love.

3939. When a man perceives this delight or affection he begins to become a Church.

—^e. Here where the birth (of the twelve sons of Jacob) is treated of, they signify the generals of the Church, thus all things of faith and love which make the Church, and this because in those things which precede it treats of the regeneration of man, or of the states of man before he becomes a Church.

3941⁴. The state of the vastated Church is here described.

3963². The Church is from the affection of truth in which there is good, and of good from which there is truth, but not from the affection of truth in which there is not good, nor from the affection of good from which there is not truth; they who say that they are of the Church who are in the affection of truth and not in the good of truth, that is, who do not live according to truths, are much mistaken, for they are outside the Church, although they be within the congregation . . . Neither are they of the Church who are in the affection of good from which there is not truth, although they be within the congregation, for they are in natural good and not in spiritual good, and suffer themselves to be led into every evil and falsity, provided that the evil is invested with an appearance of good, and the falsity with an appearance of truth.

4057. (The consummations of the four Churches enum., and treated of in the Word.)

4060⁴. 'The powers of the heavens shall be shaken' (Matt.xxiv.29) = the foundations of the Church, which are said to be shaken when they perish; for the Church on earth is the foundation of Heaven, for the influx of good and truth through the Heavens from the Lord is ultimately terminated in the goods and truths which are with the man of the Church; wherefore when the man of the Church is in such a perverted state as no longer to admit the influx of good and truth, the powers of the heavens are said to be shaken; wherefore it is always provided by the Lord that something of the Church should remain, and that when the old Church perishes a new one is established.

—⁵. See ADVENT at this ref.

—^e. See HEAVEN at these refs. 8891.

4096³. The quality of the man of the Church at this day. Ex.

4189². The gentiles are said to be in collateral good because they are outside the Church; they who are within the Church are in good and truth, not in a collateral, but in a direct line, for they have the Word, and through the Word direct communication with Heaven, and through Heaven with the Lord.

4199. 'A man from his brother' (Gen.xxxi.49)=(the separation) of those who are within the Church from those who are outside of it.

4206. The good of those within the Church, and that of those outside the Church. Sig.

4211³. The Lord conjoins Himself with those who are outside the Church through their good of charity and of obedience in their gross idea . . .

4217^e. The Lord's Church where the Word is, is like the heart and lungs; and the Lord's Church where the Word is not, is like the rest of the viscera, which live from the heart and lungs.

4229. (The successive steps of the vastation of the Church,enum.) 4422².

4231. Wherefore before a man is in spiritual good, he is not a man of the Church, however much, from connate good, he may appear to be so.

4236³. 'The camp of the saints' (Rev.xx.9)=Heaven; or the Lord's Kingdom on earth, which is the Church.

4257^e. Man utterly perishes when the Church and that which is of the Church with him perishes, that is, when the affection of truth, which is properly signified by 'mother,' and which makes the Church with man, is destroyed.

4288. The heavenly marriage principle was separated from the descendants of Jacob, and therefore no Church could be instituted with them, but only the representative of a Church. (The representative of a Church distinguished from a representative Church.) 4316^e.

4292. The spiritual man is a Church in particular, and a number are the Church in general; if a man in particular were not a Church there would not be any Church in general; it is the congregation in general which in common conversation is called the Church, but each one in the congregation must be of this character in order for there to be any Church; every general thing involves parts like itself.

4302⁴. They who are good and not so much in truths, such as the good gentiles, and also the like within the Church. Sig.

4312. The sun is said 'to rise' with everyone when he becomes a Church.

4314⁵. Apparent zeal for the Church, etc.

4334. That the state of the Church (at its consummation) would not appear as to goods and truths, and that it would not appear to anyone either on earth or in Heaven,sig.

—³. The state of the vastation of those who are of the Church compared with the state of the vastation of the Most Ancient Church.

—⁶. That the men of the Church will not then know that they are inundated with evils and falsities . . . Sig.

—⁸. Those within the Church who are in good, and those within the Church who are in evil; and that the former will be saved, and the latter condemned. Sig.

—⁹. Those within the Church who are in truth, that is, in the affection of it from good, and that they will be saved; and those within the Church who are in truth, that is, in the affection of it from evil, and that they will be condemned. Sig.

4368⁴. If they hear that charity makes the Church, and not faith separated from it, they receive this truth with joy . . .

4422^e. An exhortation to those who are in the Church, to be in the good of faith, and if not that they will perish. Sig.

4423. When the Church is vastated, that is, when it is no longer in any good of faith, it principally perishes as to the states of its interiors, thus as to its states in the other life: Heaven then removes itself from them, and consequently the Lord, and transfers itself to others, who are adopted in their place; for without a Church somewhere in the Earth there is no communication possible of Heaven with man, for the Church is like the heart and lungs of the Grand Man on earth; and then those of the old Church, being removed from Heaven, are in a kind of inundation as to the interiors . . .

4424². They who are within the vastated Church are almost all of this character; for they have external things but no internal ones; hence the inundation of their interiors.

4427^e. The Church is from the affection of truth; so much so, that whether you say the affection of truth, or the Church, it is the same, for man is the Church from the affection of truth.

4433. Unless there are internal things in external ones . . . there is not anything of the Church, for internal things make the Church, because the Lord is in them . . .

4447². As intelligence and wisdom are signified by that 'garden' or paradise, the Church itself is meant thereby, and because the Church, Heaven too . . .

4451. 'To dwell with us' (Gen.xxxiv.10)=to make one Church. 4456.

4468. There are two things which conjoin together the men of the Church; life and doctrine; when life conjoins, doctrine does not separate; but if only doctrine conjoins, as is at this day the case within the Church, they separate from each other, and make as many Churches as there are doctrines.

4497^e. When truth becomes falsity, and good evil in the Church, it is all over with the Church. 4502³.

4527. Above all others they who are within the Church and have the Word, know and believe nothing about the things (which relate to the other life).

4545⁷. The communication of Heaven with man is necessary in order that the human race may subsist, and this through the Church; otherwise they would become like beasts . . .

4575^e. The heavenly marriage is in everyone who is in the Church, if he who is in the Church is in good and at the same time in truth.

4592ⁿ. All things which are of the Church, from the first degree to the last,sig.

4614. What in the internal sense=anything of the Church, in the supreme sense=something of the Lord's Divine, because everything which makes the Church is from the Lord.

[A.] 4638. 'The ten virgins' = all who are in the Church, both those who are in good and truth, and those who are in evil and falsity. . . 'Virgins' = those who are in the Church.

4672. The Church . . . passes through its ages like a man (enum.); the Church also is as a man in general, and is so called. In the Church which is called 'a boy,' and which is of such a nature as to quickly turn aside, the Lord is at first present, both with those who teach and with those who learn, but is afterwards alienated away from them, which is represented by Joseph's being put into the pit and sold. Every Church which commences from faith is of this nature, but it is quite otherwise with the Church which commences from charity. Ex.

4674². The falsities and evils of the Church, that is, of those who are in the Church, do not appear to those who are there, because falsities are not seen from falsities, nor evils from evils. . . But the Church, or those who are in the Church, appear quite differently in Heaven. Des.

4683. When the Church which turns aside from charity to faith first commences, they preach charity, but only from what is doctrinal . . . In course of time, as charity and affection are being obliterated in the heart, they preach faith, and at last when there is no longer any charity, faith alone . . .

4686. In every Church there are those who are in the midst, and they are those who are in charity. 4689.

4689². Because they were born in the Church . . .

—³. See CHRISTIAN at this ref.

4713. 'Flock' = those who learn, thus the Church.

4720². It here treats of the Church which commences from faith, which it thus from the beginning at once separates from charity . . .

—³. Every Church at its beginning knows nothing but the general principles of doctrine . . . in course of time it adds thereto particulars . . .

4723. There are two essentials which constitute the Church, and thence two chief things of doctrine; one that the Lord's Human is Divine, the other that love to the Lord and charity towards the neighbour make the Church, but not faith separated from them.

4731. The Church which commences from faith would cease to be a Church, unless this Divine truth remained in it, namely, that the Lord's Human is Divine, for this is the supreme or inmost truth of the Church. Sig.

4735⁵. The establishment of the Church among the gentiles, treated of.

4736⁶. There are falsities which are received as truths . . . with many within the Church.

4747². They who are within the Church, and who confirm themselves against Divine truths . . . not only in doctrine, but also in life, reduce themselves into such a state as to the interiors, that they can never afterwards be brought to receive them . . . This is the reason why the lot of those who are within the Church, with whom this takes place, is worse than that of those who are outside the Church . . . Hence it is that when any new Church is being established by the Lord, it is not established with those who are within the Church, but with those who are outside . . .

4754. (The Divine truth concerning the Lord's Human being Divine, and that the works of charity must be done in order for man to be saved) is accepted by those in the Church who are in simple good. Sig.

4766. Where now is the Church? Sig. and Ex.

4788³. The men of the Church are distinguished into two kinds; those who are in good, and those who are in truth; the former are called the celestial, the latter the spiritual. Ex.

4811. This chapter (Gen. xxxviii.) treats of the Jewish Church and the genuine Church. The genuine Church is described by 'Tamar.' 4829. 4831. 4874.

4821. The source of the falsity of the Church, sig.

4831. The Church is not the Church from external things, that is, from rituals, but from internal things, for these are the essential, the former only the formal things.

4834. The levirate law represented the preservation and continuation of the Church. 4835.

4835³. Marriage represented the marriage of good and truth, that is, the heavenly marriage, thus also the Church, for the Church is the Church from the marriage of good and truth, and when the Church is in this marriage it makes one with Heaven, which is the heavenly marriage itself . . . Hence to be childless signified the deprivation of good and truth, thus that there was no longer the representative of the Church in that house, consequently that it was outside the communion.

4837³. (The marriage of one husband with a number of wives) presented the image as of the Church not being one, but many, and these distinct from each other according to truths of faith or doctrinal things; when yet it is one when good there is the essential, and this is qualified and as it were modified by truths. The Church is an image of Heaven, for it is the Lord's Kingdom on earth, and Heaven is distinguished into many general Societies. Ex.

4844⁴. Hence it is that Churches disagree so much . . .

4844¹². 'The widow in Zarephath' (1 Kings xvii.) = those outside the Church who long for truth.

4853. Somewhat of elevation to consult for the Church, sig.

4899. There must be a marriage principle for there to be a Church, namely, the marriage principle between truth and good; and there must also be what is internal in what is external; without these two things there is nothing of the Church.

—². The Jewish nation had in itself nothing of the Church, for it was in no charity . . . and in no faith in the Lord; these things, which are the internals of the Church, that nation did not even acknowledge in doctrine, still less in life; from this alone it may be concluded that there was nothing of the Church in that nation. It is one thing for the Church to be with a nation, and another for the Church to be in a nation; as for example, the Christian Church is with those who have the Word, and from doctrine preach the Lord, but still there is nothing of the Church in them unless they are in the marriage of good and truth, that is, unless they are in charity towards the neighbour and thence in faith, thus unless the internals of the Church are in its externals. They who are solely in externals separated from internals, in them is not the Church. They too who are in faith separated from charity, in them is not the Church. They who acknowledge the Lord from doctrine, and not in the life, in them is not the Church.

—⁴. At this day scarcely anyone knows what the internal of the Church is: that it is charity towards the neighbour in will, and from will in act, and thence faith in perception, who knows this? . . . They who do not know that this is the internal and thus the essential of the Church stand at the most remote distance from the first step towards the understanding of (the things here explained), thus from the innumerable and ineffable things which are in Heaven . . .

4901⁴. As in the Spiritual World there is a continuous progression of states from one into another, in the last or end of each state there is a first or beginning, thence what is continuous . . . It is the same in the Church, which is the Spiritual World or the Lord's Kingdom on the Earth; the last of the Church with one nation is always the first of the Church with another.

4912. With the Jewish nation there was the Church, that is, the internal was conjoined with the external; but in that nation there was no Church, that is, the external was not conjoined with the internal; for in order that the Church may be in a nation there must be what is reciprocal.

4918. 'Lo, twins were in her womb' (Gen. xxxviii. 27) = both principles of the Church. 'Twins' = good and truth, and 'the womb' = where good and truth lie conceived, thus where is that which is of the Church. 'The womb' = the inmost of marriage love in which there is innocence . . . and as marriage love derives its origin from the love of good and truth, which is of the heavenly marriage, and this marriage is Heaven itself or the Lord's Kingdom, and the Lord's Kingdom on earth is the Church, by 'the womb' is also signified the Church, for the Church is where there is the marriage of good and truth. Hence 'to open the womb' = to be the source of the doctrines of Churches, and also the capacity of receiving the truths and goods which are of the Church; and 'to go forth from the womb' = to be reborn or regenerated, that is, become a Church. III.

4925. It here treats of the primogeniture with those who are being regenerated, thus of the primogeniture in the Church.

4926³. The Church which is in good, treated of.

—⁴. The Church in which charity and life are the essential, treated of.

5002. It would be the same with the Church, if with it love and charity were its being.

5025². Use and end for the sake of the Church, etc. are spiritual . . .

5033. (The notion) that the Church is only for the sake of the common people, to keep them in a bond.

5081^c. As those who are truly spiritual or internal can only exist within the Church, 'the sons of strangers' = those who are outside the Church, or the gentiles.

5135⁵. 'The face of the whole earth' (Zech. v. 3) = the universal Church.

5136. 'Out of the land of the Hebrews' (Gen. xl. 15) = from the Church. Ex.

5164^c. There are many such within the Church, who deny the Lord's Divine, and say that they acknowledge a Supreme Being.

5168³. At [this day within the Church there is no longer any charity, for it is the last time of the Church, consequently neither is there any affection of knowing such things.

5432³. These truths of the Church, or those who are of such a character in the truths of the Church, are signified by 'spies coming to see the nakedness of the land,' for they do not believe the doctrinal things of their Church from any affection of truth, but from the affection of getting honours and gain, wherefore in themselves they believe scarcely anything . . . considering these doctrinal things as a merchant does his merchandize, and then they appear learned and wise to themselves because they can see that they are not true, and at the same time can persuade the common people that they are true; that very many of the leading men of the Church are of this character is manifestly evident from them in the other life . . . All such, whether they are from the Papists, the Reformed, the Quakers, the Socinians, the Jews, when once they have confirmed with themselves the doctrinal things of their own Church, are nothing but 'spies,' for they ridicule and condemn the veriest truths . . . The reason is that they have no affection of truth for the sake of truth, still less for the sake of life, but for the sake of gain. When such read the Word they examine it only with the end of confirming doctrinal scientifics for the sake of gain, and many of them examine the Word in order 'to see the nakedness of the land,' that is, to see that the truths of the Church are not truths, but only serve to persuade others that they are truths, in order to get gain.

—⁵. But they who are in the affection of truth for the sake of truth and for the sake of life, consequently for the sake of the Lord's Kingdom, do indeed have faith in the doctrinal things of their Church, but still they examine the Word . . . for the truth's sake . . . If anyone says to them that they should remain in the doctrinal things of the Church where they were born, they think that if they had been born in Judaism, in Socinianism, in Quakerism, in Christian Gentilism, or even outside the Church, the same thing would have been said by those who are there, and that everywhere it is said, Here is the Church, Here is the Church, Here are truths and nowhere else; and this being the case, the Word ought to be examined with devout prayer to the Lord for enlightenment. Such do not disturb anyone within the Church, nor do they ever condemn others, knowing that after all everyone who is a Church lives from his own faith.

5469. 'Joseph' and 'Benjamin' = the internal of the Church; and the other ten sons, its external . . . for it treats of the conjunction of the internal of the Church with its external, in general and in particular, for each man must be a Church in particular for him to be a part of the general Church. 5548. 5606.

[A.] 5480°. Jerusalem, over which the Lord wept, was not only the city of Jerusalem, but the Church, whose last day, when there would no longer be charity, and thence no longer faith, is meant.

5536. 'Me ye have bereaved' (Gen.xlii.36)=that thus there is no longer a Church. Jacob, who says this about himself=the good of truth, and as he=the good of truth, he also=the Church, for the essential of the Church is good, wherefore whether you say the good of truth or the Church, it is the same, for the man with whom there is the good of truth, with him is the Church.

—2. The reason 'to bereave'=to deprive the Church of its truths, is that the Church is compared to a marriage; its good to the husband, and its truth to the wife . . . 5632.

5540. 'All these things will be upon me' (id.)=that thus will be destroyed that which is of the Church . . . for when in the Church there is no internal, which is represented by 'Joseph;' nor faith in the will, which is represented by 'Simeon;' and if the conjoining medium be taken away which is represented by 'Benjamin,' that which is of the Church is destroyed. 5542. 5551.

5581. 'And their father said to them' (Gen.xliii.2)=perception from those things which are of the Church. . . 'Israel,' who here is 'father'=the Church. . . It is said 'father,' because 'father' in the Word also=the Church, and also 'mother;' but 'mother'=the Church as to truth, and 'father,' the Church as to good; the reason is, that the Church is a spiritual marriage, which is from good as from a father, and from truth as from a mother. 6075°.

5587. 'If thou send our brother with us' (ver.4)=if the Church is to conjoin its external to its internal there must be a medium.

5607. 'Israel'=the internal of the Church.

5798°. The vastation of the Church, treated of. 8940°. 9295°. 9340°. E.131°.

5806. That truth which Benjamin when with his father represents, and which is called new truth, is what alone makes a man to be a Church, for in this truth there is life from good; that is, the man who is in the truths of faith from good, he is a Church; but not the man who is in the truths of faith and not in the good of charity, for the truths with the latter are dead, although they are the same truths. Hence it is evident . . . that this truth alone is of the Church. Sig.

5813. If this truth be separated, the Church will perish. Sig.

5826°. The spiritual good which 'Israel' represents is the good of truth, that is, truth in will and act; this truth, or this good of truth makes a man to be a Church. When truth is implanted in the will, which is perceived from this, that he is affected with truth for the sake of the end that he may live according to it, good and truth are internal; and when man is in this good and truth, the Lord's Kingdom is in him, consequently he is a Church, and together with those who are like him he makes the Church in general. Hence it is evident that for the Church to be the Church, there must be spiritual good, that is, the good of truth, but by no means truth alone, from which alone at this day the Church is called the Church, and by which one Church is distinguished from another . . .

5832°. The internal of the Church would perish if the truth represented by 'Benjamin' were to perish. Sig. and Ex. 5837.

5837. The reason Israel, who is here 'father'=the Church, is that spiritual good, which he represents, makes the Church with man; so much so, that whether you say spiritual good, or the Church, it is the same . . .

5937°. The Jews (are) outside the Church, although they live within it.

5965. Whether you say natural good, or the external of the Church; or spiritual good, or the internal of the Church, it is the same . . .

6000°. It is the first time of the Church which is meant by 'day,' for then truth is received, because they are in good; and it is the last time which is signified by 'night,' for then nothing of truth is received, because they are not in good . . .

6023°. The Church is more the neighbour than our country.

6024°. 'Dinah his daughter'=the Church.

6047°. If the truths (which a man finds in the Word) disagree with doctrinal matters, let him take heed not to disturb the Church.

6113. By the Church is here meant that which is of the Church with man; man is the Church when he is in good and truth, and the congregation of such men makes the Church in general.

6225°. The external of the Church is confirmed and receives powers from no source but its internal; in the internal of the Church are they who are in the good of charity, which is 'Israel' . . . and in the external are they who are in the truth of faith, and not as yet manifestly in good, but still in whose truth there is good; this is 'Jacob.' 6376.

6269°. If charity were in the first place, and faith in the second, the Church would have a different face, for then none would be called Christians but those who live a life according to the truths of faith, that is, a life of charity . . . They would also then not make many Churches by distinguishing them according to opinions concerning the truths of faith; but they would say that there was one Church, in which are all who are in the good of life, not only those who are within the region where the Church is, but also they who are outside of it. Thus the Church would be in enlightenment concerning such things as are of the Lord's Kingdom, for charity enlightens . . .

6272. Hence it is that Churches clash together, and dispute about truth, and one congregation says that this is the truth, and another that it is falsity, and what is still worse, when once they have placed faith in the first place in the congregation of the Church, they then begin to separate faith from charity, and to make the latter relatively nothing, and thus to care nothing about life . . . Thus perishes the Church, for the life makes it with man, but not doctrine without life . . .

6297². 'Land'=the Church in the special, 'world-orbis,' the Church in the universal sense.

6299³. The affection of charity . . . is the internal of the Church; to will and do it from truth, that is, because it is so commanded in the Word, is the external of the Church . . .

6337. 'I will tell you what shall befall you in the last days' (Gen.xlix.1)=the quality of the state of the Church in the order in which they will be then.

6435⁴. Every Church of the Lord is internal and external.

6440. The Church is the Church from good.

6448. By the sons of Israel or the tribes named from them in this chapter (Gen.xlix), are described all the states of the Church as to goods and truths, thus as to the spiritual life of everyone within the Church.

6481². The Lord leads the evil to do good to the Church, etc., through their very loves. Ex.

6514. That he has the Church at heart. Sig.

6515. 'Lo I die' (Gen.l.5)=that the Church ceased to be.

6516. The Church was to be resuscitated where a former one had been. Sig. and Ex.

6517. The resuscitation of the Church from the internal. Sig. 6519. 6522. 6554. 6557. 6561.

6546. The translation of the Church. Sig.

6554^e. The raising up and establishment of the Church with man takes place through regeneration.

6583. The establishment of the Church as to its Intellectual and its derivatives. Sig. And as to its Voluntary and its derivatives. Sig. 6584.

6587. A prediction that the internal of the Church would cease. Sig. 6593. 6645.

—². The case here is this; in order that the Church may exist it must be internal and external, for there are those who are in the internal of the Church, and there are those who are in its external; the former are few, the latter are many; but still with those with whom the Church is internal it must also be external, for the internal of the Church cannot be separated from its external; and also with those with whom the Church is external it must also be internal, but the internal with the latter is in obscurity. The internal of the Church consists in willing good from the heart, and in being affected with good, and the external of it is to act this out, and this according to the truth of faith which the man knows from good; the external of the Church moreover is to perform ritual matters in a holy manner, and to do works of charity, according to the injunctions of the Church. From these considerations it is evident that the internal of the Church is the good of charity in the will: when therefore this ceases the very external of the Church ceases too, for the good of charity is its essential; outward worship does indeed remain as before, but it is then not worship, but rite, which is preserved because it has been so instituted; but this rite which appears as worship is like a shell without a kernel . . . When the Church is of this character it is at its end. 6592.

6588. This last time is called 'visitation,' and is predicated both of the Church in general, and of those who are within the Church in particular; and of the new Church which is being born, and of the old Church which is expiring; in particular of the man of the Church who is being saved, and of him who is being damned.

6595^e. The interior things of the Church are not revealed until the Church is vastated, because then they are no longer believed, thus they cannot be profaned. Sig.

6628. See CHARITY at this ref.

6634. In this first chapter of Exodus it treats of the state of the Church which has been established, when good acts as the chief, and is made fruitful by the multiplication of the truths of faith. 6639.

6637. 'These are the names of the sons of Israel' (ver.1)=the quality of the Church. . . As 'Israel' represents spiritual good, and his sons spiritual truths in the Natural, the Sons of Israel represent the Church. for the Church is the Church from spiritual good and the truths thence derived. He who is not in spiritual good, that is, in the good of charity, and in spiritual truths, that is, in the truths of faith, is not of the Church, although he has been born within the Church; for the whole heavenly Kingdom of the Lord is in the good of love and of faith, and unless the Church is in the like it cannot be the Church, because it is not conjoined with Heaven, for the Church is the Lord's Kingdom on earth. Its being called the Church is not from the fact that the Word is there, and that there are doctrinal things thence, nor from the fact that the Lord is known there, and that the Sacraments are there; but it is the Church from the fact that one lives according to the Word, or according to doctrine from the Word, and so that doctrine is the rule of life. They who are not of this character are not of the Church, but are outside of it; and they who live in evil, thus they who live contrary to doctrine, are further outside the Church than the Gentiles who know nothing whatever of the Word, the Lord, and the Sacraments; for they who know the goods and truths of the Church extinguish the Church with themselves, which the Gentiles cannot do, because they do not know them.

—^e. Everyone who lives in the good of charity and of faith is a Church, and is a kingdom of the Lord; hence also he is called a temple and a house of God. From those who are Churches in particular, however remote from each other they may be, the Church in general is constituted. This therefore is the Church which is meant by 'the Sons of Israel,' both here and in what follows. N.255³.

6639. As in those chapters of Genesis which treat of the coming of the sons of Jacob and of Jacob himself into Egypt to Joseph, it treats of the initiation of the truths of the Church into scientifics, and as the Church is not the Church until this initiation has been effected, here, according to the series of the things in the internal sense, it treats concerning the Church which has been established, and how that Church is continually being infested by scientifics and falsities. For however well truths have been initiated, and the Church established with man, still scientifics and falsities continually rise up and attack the things of the Church with him. These things are what are represented by Pharaoh and the Egyptians afflicting the Sons of Israel, and wanting to murder their infant boys. . . The man of the Church who comes into the other life must be purified from such things as infest truths and goods, otherwise he cannot be elevated into Heaven. . . In order therefore that a man of the Church who has recently come from the world may be purified, he is kept in a state in which he may be attacked by the scientifics which disagree with truths, and also by falsities, and this until these scientifics become naught and are removed. Rarely does this take place with the man while he lives in the body, but it does in the other life with those who are to be elevated into Heaven; but with much variety. . . These are the things which are described in the internal sense by the Sons of Israel being oppressed by the Egyptians, and afterwards being delivered, and at last, after various states in the wilderness, being introduced into the Land of Canaan.

[A.] 6640. The process of the establishment of the Church, from beginning to end. Sig.

6645. With the Church with man the case is this; it undergoes new states by turns, for as a man is strengthened in the truth of faith and the good of charity he is introduced into other states, the former state then serving as a plane to the one which follows, and so on continually. In this way the man who is a Church or who is being regenerated, is constantly led towards more interior things, thus interiorly into Heaven. . .

6648. The reason the increase of truth from good is referred to, is that now it treats of the Church which has been established, for with the Church with man the case is this; while it is being established the man is in truths, and through them good increases; but when the Church with him has been established, the man is in good and from good in truths, which then increase continually; little while he lives in the world. . . but immensely in the other life, and this to eternity.

6649. To the fulness of the Church. Sig.

6655². Hence it is evident that when men within the Church make prudence consist in cunning. . . they have communication with the Hells. They who are true men of the Church are so far removed from cunning that they utterly abhor it, and those among them who are as the Angels want if possible their mind to be open, so that what they are thinking may be manifest to everybody, for they intend nothing but good towards the neighbour, and if they see evil with anyone they excuse it. . .

6658. Thus the Church will be established. Sig.

—e. The Church is indeed established with a man when he does what is good from affection, but still it is not fully established until he has fought against evils and falsities, thus until after he has undergone temptations; then he becomes truly the Church, and is then introduced into Heaven, which is represented by the Sons of Israel being introduced into the Land of Canaan.

6666³. From such the Hells are at this day being immensely augmented, and what is wonderful, especially from those who are within the Church, on account of the cunning, deceit, hatred, revenge, adulteries, which flourish there more than elsewhere, for there now cunning passes for ingenuity, and adulteries are held to be honourable, those who deem otherwise being laughed at. As this is the case within the Church at this day, it is a sign that its last time is at hand, for unless there were an end 'no flesh should be saved,' for all evil is contagious, and at last infects all.

6670. The intention to subjugate the things of the Church. Sig.

6685. Spiritual life in the things of the Church is signified by 'the Hebrew women being lively.'

6738. 'This is one of the Hebrews' children' (Ex.ii.6) = that it was from the Church itself. 'The Hebrews' = those things which are of the Church. Ex.

6740. 'A woman a nurse from the Hebrews' (ver.7) = that good was to be insinuated into it from the Church itself.

6742. 'The girl went, and called the child's mother' = the truth of good of the Church, [that it adjoined those things which are of the Church].

6764. 'Lo, two Hebrew men quarrelling' (ver.13) = the apprehension that within the Church they were fighting with each other.

6765. 'He that did the wrong' (id.) = him who is not in the truth of faith, but still is within the Church. For within the Church there are those who are in the truth of faith, and there are those who are not in the truth, as is evident from the various heresies; he who is in heresy, or not in the truth of faith, is here meant by 'him who did the wrong.'

6766. 'Who made thee a prince and a judge over us?' (ver.14) = the perception that he had not advanced far enough in the truths of faith to take away the dissensions within the Church.

6767. Faith and the Church are so united that he who destroys faith with anyone destroys the Church with him. Sig.

6775. 'The priest of Midian had seven daughters' (ver.16) = the holy things of the Church. 'The daughters of a priest' = the things of the Church. . . thus the Church as to good. . . Thus 'the seven daughters of the priest of Midian' = the holy things of the Church of those who are in the truths of simple good. Those are said to be in simple good who are in the externals of the Church, and simply believe the Word as to its literal sense, each according to his own apprehension, and who also live according to those things which they believe. . . The internal of the Church flows in with them through good; but as they are not in interior truths, the good which flows in becomes general, thus obscure. . .

6782. Conjunction with the good itself of that Church. Sig. . . The conjunction here signified is that of the truths of the Church with its good.

6786. 'Flock' = both good and the Church, that is, those who are in good and are of the Church, for these two things are so conjoined that they cannot be separated from each other, for he who is in the good of faith is a Church, and he who is a Church is in the good of faith.

6795. The truths in which he was instructed in a Church not his own. Sig. 6796.

6819. In a still prior degree is the Church the neighbour . . .

6822. The Church is the neighbour above our country, for he who consults the good of the Church consults the good of the souls and of the eternal life of the men who are in our country; and he consults the good of the Church when he leads man to good, and he who does this from charity loves the neighbour. . . Good may be insinuated into another by anyone in our country, but not truth, except by those who are teaching ministers; if others do it heresies come forth, and the Church is disturbed and rent to pieces. N.94.

6823. The Lord's Kingdom is the neighbour in a higher degree than the Church where one is born . . .

6827. The internal sense treats of the Lord's Kingdom and of the Church, and of the establishment of the latter; also of the regeneration of the man of the Church by the Lord.

—². 'Flock,' here (Ex.iii.1)=the Church where are they who are in the truth of simple good. . . 'The priest of Midian'=the good of the Church where are they who are in the truth of simple good.

6879. The first of the Church is that there is a God, and that He is to be worshipped.

6882. That the Divine manifesting should be in the Church. Sig.

6871³. The lot of the Gentiles is better than that of those within the Church.

7090³. At this day also they who are of the Church, and who have filled their ideas with worldly and earthly things, and have caused the truths of faith to be adjoined to such things, are let down to the Lower Earth, and are there in combats, until these worldly and earthly things are separated from the truths of faith . . .

7233⁶. The Intellectual cannot be enlightened unless it is believed that love to the Lord and charity towards the neighbour are the principal and essential things of the Church.

7317. 'Pharaoh,' or they who infest, are those within the Church who have professed faith, and have persuaded themselves that faith saves, and yet have lived contrary to the precepts of faith . . . When these come into the other life (they maintain) that they are to be introduced into Heaven because they have been born within the Church . . .

7396². The societies which constitute this order are scattered throughout the whole world, and are they who are in love to the Lord and in charity towards the neighbour; but these scattered societies are gathered together by the Lord, and also represent one man, as do the Societies in Heaven: these societies are not only within the Church, but also outside of it, and taken together are called the Lord's Church scattered and gathered from the good in the whole world, which also is called a communion; this communion, or this Church, is the Lord's Kingdom on earth conjoined with the Lord's Kingdom in the Heavens, and thus is conjoined with the Lord Himself.

7418². They who are within the Church and do not live the life of faith. Sig.

7502². They who infest the upright in the other life are they who, when they lived in the world, were of the Church; for they who have not been of the Church cannot infest others who are of the Church, for it is the falsities which are against the truths of faith of the Church by which they infest. They who have been outside the Church cannot infest any by such things, because they had not known them.

7554. The reason there is no such destruction with others as with those who infest the upright in the other life, is that they who infest, in the world were of the Church; being those who have filled the memory with the things of faith from the Word and from the doctrine of their Church, and yet have lived contrary to them, wherefore when they are devastated the things of faith are torn out, together with very many things which adhere to them, leaving chasms and trenches deep and foul . . . 7633.

7649. From ancient time there was no such falsity in the Church as there was then. Sig. 7686, Ex.

7711. The term by which 'thick darkness' is expressed in this verse (Ex.x.21) means the densest darkness of all, by which are signified such falsities as flow forth from evil; such falsities come into existence with those who have been of the Church, and have lived a life contrary to the precepts of faith which they knew: the evil from which these falsities flow forth is against the Church, Heaven and the Lord, thus diametrically contrary to good and truth.

7753. All things of the Church relate to charity and faith, and what does not relate to them has nothing of the Church in it.

7779⁴. The Egyptians . . . in course of time began to love Knowledges alone, and at that time, as is done at this day, to make everything of the Church consist in the knowledge of such things as are of the Church, and no longer in the life of charity; thus they inverted the whole order of the Church, and then they could not but falsify the truths which are said to be of faith. Examp.

7784³. See DOG at this ref. 9231². —³.

7847¹. 'Temple,' in the representative sense, = His Church.

7893. The representative of a Church was instituted with the descendants of Jacob in order that by it there might be communication of Heaven with man; to this end is the Church. 8588³.

7908. 'In a sojourner and in a native of the Land' (Ex.xii.19)=those who are of the Church, whether not born therein or whether born therein.

7975². They who are of the Church, but not within it, as the Gentiles who live together in obedience and mutual charity . . .

8013. He who when instructed receives the truth and good of the Church and lives according to it, shall be as he who had been instructed before within the Church and had lived a life conformable to the precepts of faith and charity. Sig.

8036. The Church is in those who have charity and faith.

8152. Those with whom faith is separated from its good, both as to doctrine and as to life . . . are not of this Church, for life makes the Church, and not doctrine except in so far as it is of life. Hence it is evident, that the Lord's Church is not here or there, but that it is everywhere, both within those kingdoms where the Church is, and outside of them, where men live according to the commandments of charity. Hence it is that the Lord's Church is scattered through the universal world, and yet is one; for when life makes the Church, and not doctrine separated from life, the Church is one; but when doctrine makes the Church, there are many.

[A.] 8215⁵. 'His throne' = Heaven and the Church.

8311. In falsities and at the same time in good are those within the Church who are in heresies and the life of good; and so are all outside the Church who are in good; but falsities with these do not condemn . . .

8408³. The end of the Church is here treated of, when what is external, thus what is sensuous and corporeal, and together with these what is false and evil have the dominion, for the Lord's Church advances successively to what is external, and then expires.

8625². He acknowledges it to be true because the Church has said so.

8650. 'A sojourner' = those who are born outside the Church, and yet were instructed in the things of the Church.

—^c. The Lord's Church is scattered through the whole world, thus is also with the Gentiles. Refs.

8651. 'Eliezer' (Ex. xviii. 4) = the quality of the good of truth with those who are within the Church. Ex.

8652. The mercy and presence of the Lord in the Church. Sig. and Ex.

8732^c. These things are the essentials of the Church, and cause it to be the Church . . .

8762². With everyone who is of the Church, there must be both . . . what is external and what is internal. Ex.

8788. For there to be a Church there must be with the man of the Church faith in the Lord and also love to Him and love towards the neighbour; these things make the Church.

8813. 'World-orbis' (Ps. lvii. 18) = the Church.

8900. See KINGDOM OF THE LORD at this ref.

8902². The last time of the Church, treated of. —⁶.

—⁸. 8906². 9139⁵. 9141^e. 9348⁹. E. 39. 486.

8904². The Church is at its end . . .

8928³. Therefore they divide the Church into so many Churches . . .

8938^e. The Lord's Church is with everyone who is in a state of reception of charity and faith from the Lord; for the man himself is the Church, and a number with whom the Church is make the Church in general.

8974. Those within the Church who are in truths of doctrine and not in good according thereto. Sig. and Ex.

—^c. The marriage of good and truth is the Church itself, because it is Heaven in man. Refs.

8987². The Church is now predicated and called from faith and not from charity . . .

8988³. Love to the Lord and towards the neighbour is the being itself of Heaven and the Church, and faith is the manifesting thence. 9032.

8998. 'A strange people' (Ex. xxi. 8) = those who are outside the Church, thus those who are not of the faith of the Church.

—^c. They who have been born within the Church, and from infancy have imbuied the principles of the truth of the Church, ought not to contract marriages with those who are outside the Church, and thus imbue such things as are not of the Church. Ex.

9911⁵. The Church is called 'a forest' from Knowledge, 'a garden' from intelligence, and 'a paradise' from wisdom.

9021. Thorough and complete denial of the Lord and His Kingdom by those who are of the Church. Sig.

—^c. They who are within the Church can profane holy things, but not they who are outside the Church. Refs.

9034^e. The good in which truths are thus implanted is the Church with man.

9135. By the prior state (of regeneration) man is introduced into the Church in order to become the Church, and when he has become the Church he is in the latter state.

9166³. The Church is the Lord's Heaven or Kingdom on earth. 10304. 10446.

9182¹⁰. This state is the last state of the Church, the former is its first state.

9188². Many of those who are in the Church cannot be withheld from (profanation). Ex.

9193. To be cast out of the Church. Sig.

9198². 'No prophet is accepted in his own country' (Luke iv. 24) = that the Lord and the Divine truth which is from Him is less received and loved at heart within the Church than without it.

9209². 'The poor and needy' = those who, outside the Church, are in ignorance of truth . . . and within the Church, those who from various causes are ignorant of truth but still from some good yearn for it.

9212⁷. The Church at this day is in internal truths.

9216^e. The Lord always provides that there be a Church with mankind in which Divine truth is revealed, which in our Earth is the Word . . . 9276⁷.

9222³. The first thing of all with the man of the Church is to believe the Word . . .

9223³. Their giving the firstfruits to Jehovah, signified that it was the first of the Church to ascribe all the goods and truths of faith to the Lord, and not to themselves . . .

9224². The two disputes which, from primeval times, have infested the Church. Ex.

—³. The good of charity is the principal of the Church . . .

9231³. 'The rich man' = those within the Church. . . 'The poor man' = those who within the Church are in but little good in consequence of their ignorance of truth, but still yearn to be instructed. 10227²⁰.

9255. Good and truth not genuine with those who are outside the Church. Sig. and Ex. . . In the other life they live separate from those who are of the Church . . .

9256. Good is to be done to those who are outside the Church. Sig.

—⁴. Therefore the Lord's Church is scattered through the whole world ; but the Lord's Church itself on earth is as the Grand Man in the Heavens, whose heart and lungs are where the Word is, and the rest of the members and viscera, which live from the heart and lungs, are where the Word is not. 9400^c. H.305(c)Refs.

9276². These three kinds of men constitute the Church ; they who are in the good of charity constitute the internal of the Church ; they who are in few truths and still want to be instructed, thus who are in the affection of truth from good, constitute the external of the Church ; and they who are in the delights of external truth are the outermost, and make as it were the circumference, and close the Church. Sig.

—⁴. By a man of the Church is meant one who is in the good of charity and thence in the truths of faith from the Lord, for the charity from which is faith is the Church itself with man, because they are from the Lord.

—⁵. The universal Church before the Lord is as a man . . . —⁹, Refs. 9400^c.

—⁶. The man of the Church in particular is Heaven, the Church, and the Lord's Kingdom in the least effigy. —⁹, Refs.

—⁷. Without a Church on earth mankind would perish. Refs.

9281. The state of life of those who are in truths and goods outside the Church. Sig. and Ex.

9295⁵. 'Harvest,' here, (Rev.xiv.15)=the last state of the Church as to the reception of the truths of faith in good.

9303³. They who have been born outside the Church, and have believed in one God, flee from those who are within the Church, saying that they believe in three gods.

9316. Protection against and removal of the evils and falsities which infest the Church. Sig.

9325⁵. Everyone within the Church who has been regenerated through truth and good is a Church.

—⁸. 'The barren'=the nations which are called to the Church, and to which the Church is transferred when the old Church ceases.

9340⁶. The perversion and destruction of the Church after its establishment, treated of.

—⁹. The establishment of the Church, treated of.

9384. Reception in the understanding by those who are truly of the Church. Sig.

9406⁷. The successive states of the Church on this Earth as to the reception of truth Divine proceeding from the Lord, is meant by the image seen by Nebuchadnezzar. Ex. 10030². R.913³. E.176², Ex.

9430^c. As a house rests on its foundations, so does Heaven upon the Church. . . This is why it is always provided by the Lord that there be a Church on earth . . .

9479^e. 'The sanctuary' (Lev.xxvi.31)=the Church ; and 'sanctuaries'=those things which are of the Church.

9517². Heaven and the Church, or the Angels of Heaven and the men of the Church, are guarded by the Lord by the elevation of their interiors towards Himself . . .

9548². The Church is called 'a candlestick' from the Divine truth which is there from the Lord.

9594⁵. 'Habitation' (Ezek.xxxvii.27)=Heaven, and also the Church where the Lord is.

9642³. Those of the Church, but in falsities. Sig.

9642⁶. The Church will perish by faith alone. Sig.

—⁷. The changes to be undergone by the Church. Sig.

9741^e. The six days before the seventh=the former Church even to its end, and the establishment of a new one.

9779. The Church through the Word from the Lord. Sig.

9780⁴. 'The mount of Olives' (Zech.xiv.4)=the good of love and charity, thus the Church, for these goods make the Church.

9807⁴. The Lord's advent is the revelation of truth Divine at the end of the Church. Sig. —⁵.

9808. Heaven and the Church make one, and the Church is the Lord's Heaven on earth.

9921. All things of doctrine and worship from good passing to those who are of the Church. Sig.

9962. The Church which is the Church is in internal things, which are of faith and love . . .

10112. They are said to be out of the Church who do not acknowledge the Lord.

—². They who are born within the Church, yet deny the Lord at heart, however good in moral life . . . cannot be saved. Sig.

10125. Whatever represents the Lord represents Him with the men of the Church, thus represents the Church, since the men in whom the Church is, constitute the Church in general . . . Still the men regarded in themselves do not constitute the Church, but the Lord with them . . . Hence when it is said the Church . . . there is meant the Divine of the Lord with those who are there . . .

10131^e. When Heaven is mentioned, the Church is also meant, for the Lord's Heaven on earth is the Church ; and everyone in whom the Church is, in him also is Heaven . . . The Church also makes one with Heaven, for the one depends upon the other . . .

10134⁷. (The four states of the Church are meant by 'morning,' 'noon,' 'evening,' and 'night.') When the Church is in its night, that is, when it is no longer in love to God and in faith, morning begins with another nation . . . —⁹, Ex.

—¹². The time when 'the cock crew'=the last state of the Church.

10151³. The men in the Church do not make the Church as to their proprium, but as to what is Divine which they receive from the Lord ; for whoever therein does not acknowledge and believe that all good . . . and truth . . . are from the Lord, is not of the Church. . . The Church too is the Lord's Heaven on earth, hence the Lord is all in all things of the Church . . . and He dwells there in what is His own with men . . .

[A.] 10205². He therefore who within the Church does not acknowledge the Lord, has not any conjunction with the Divine . . . It is otherwise with those who are outside the Church . . .

10212. The genuine truths and goods of faith and love exist only with those who are of the Church, because they have the Word.

10227¹⁶. The Church which places everything of the Church in naked Knowledges, and on that account sets itself above others. Sig.

10231. The preservation of the Church and of all things of the Church by the Lord. Sig. 10232, Ex.

10248⁷. The Church on this Earth has been established four times. Enum.

10282. The Divine things which proceed from the Lord make the Church, and nothing whatever of man.

10287. He who does not acknowledge the Lord is not of the Church. Sig.

10310. They alone are of the Church in whom the Church is, and the Church is in those who are in the affection of truth for the sake of truth and in the affection of good for the sake of good, thus who are in love towards the neighbour and in love to God . . . Those not of this character are not of the Church, however much they are in the Church.

10329. Those in the good of love with whom the Church is to be established. Sig.

10335. All who are in the universal Heaven and in the universal Church. Sig.

10356⁶. The essentials of the Church. Enum.

10357. The principal thing by which those of the Church are known in Heaven. Sig.

—. They who are of the Church in whom the Church is, must acknowledge the Lord and the Divine in Him, must acknowledge the conjunction of the Lord with Heaven, and also the conjunction of Heaven with the man of the Church, and in general, the conjunction of good and truth with him, for this conjunction makes the Church with him. Whether you say the Church with man, or Heaven with him, or the Kingdom of God with him, or the Lord with him, it is the same, for the Church is the Lord's Heaven on earth, and the Lord's Kingdom is Heaven and the Church together, and the Lord is their Source, nay, is them.

10361. All the good and truth which make the Church. Sig. . . That these make the Church with man . . . is evident from the fact that love and faith are the essentials of the Church, because they conjoin men and Angels with the Lord . . .

10365. That the Church is not with man, but Hell. Sig.

10367. When man becomes a Church and enters Heaven. Sig. and Ex.

10372. By this are distinguished those who are of the Church from those who are not of the Church. Sig.

10393. That with the Israelitish people the Church could not be instituted, because they were entirely in externals without any internal. Treated of in Ex. xxxii. 10397. 10525.

10436². The Church is not the Church from external worship, but from internal . . . The man of the Church communicates with the Heavens through the interior things of worship, to which what is external serves as a plane . . .

10442. For the sake of Heaven and the Church. Sig.

10446. The Church acts as one with Heaven, for the one comes forth and subsists from the other.

10497. Duration of such worship till the end of the Church. Sig.

10500². The Church on earth was instituted in order that there might be a communication of the world, that is, of mankind, with Heaven, that is, through Heaven with the Lord, for without a Church there would be no communication, and mankind would perish . . . H. 305 (c)Refs.

10505. That the internal of the Church, etc., should not perish. Sig.

10519. By the Holy Supper there is conjunction of the Church with Heaven, thus with the Lord; therefore it is the most holy thing of the Church.

10526. The Church with man is in his internal.

10528. The Divine of the Lord, from which is the Church and its worship. Sig.

10546. To dispose and order the things of the Church and of worship. Sig.

10547. 'The tent of the assembly' = the external of the Church, etc., in which are internal things.

10559³. Where the Word is, there is the Church.

10568. If the Divine be not there, there will not be anything of the Church there. Sig.

10571. The Divine will be in the external of the Church, etc. Sig.

10582⁶. The restoration of the Church. Tr.

10583. To close up the internal of the Church, etc. Sig.

10584. The externals of the Church, etc., would be seen, but not the internals. Sig.

10598. In Ex. xxxiv. it treats of the Church to be instituted with the Israelitish nation; but as it was such that it could not receive the Divine from within, that nation was received in order that there might be with it the representative of the Church, and not the Church. 10602.

10599. The chief things of the Church which are by all means to be observed that they might represent the Church. Tr.

10600. The transparency of the Divine internal of the Church, etc., through their external, but not before that nation. Sig.

10603. 'Hew thee two tables of stone like the former' (ver. 1) = the external of the Church, etc., such as it was for the sake of that nation. . . The Church is from the Word, for all the truth of faith and the good of love which make the Church must be from the Word: hence as in the Word there are an external and an internal, there are also an external and an internal in the Church.

10629. The Church cannot be instituted with any people unless their interiors are open, through which there is communication with Heaven . . .

10630. Still the Church may be there. Sig.

— To become the Church is to receive the life of Heaven through the good of love and of faith from the Lord.

10635¹. The Church where the Word is. Sig.

10645³. The truths which are from good make the Church with man.

10683². They are in the internal of the Church, etc., who love to do truth for the sake of truth from internal affection, thus from spiritual affection; in the external of it in which there is an internal are they who love truth for the sake of truth, but from external affection, thus from natural affection; the latter are men of the external Church, the former are of the internal Church, for in every Church there are both internal and external men. But they who are in external worship without internal, love truth not for the sake of truth, but for the sake of gain in the world . . . these are not within the Church, but outside it.

10685. Temptations before the internal of the Church, etc., is possible. Sig. and Ex.

10689. Influx of the internal into the external of the Church, etc. Sig.

10698. The Church cannot exist with those who are in externals without an internal, because the Church is in what is internal of man, and not in what is external without it . . .

10707^e. Such as is man's understanding of the Word, such is the Church in him.

10730³. The two universals on which all other things of the Church depend. Sig. and Ex.

10760. What makes Heaven with man also makes the Church, for the Church is the Lord's Heaven on earth.

10761. It is called the Church where the Lord is acknowledged, and where the Word is; for the essentials of the Church are love and faith to and in the Lord from the Lord, and the Word teaches how man is to live in order to receive love and faith from the Lord. W.H.6³.

10763. For there to be a Church there must be doctrine from the Word, as without doctrine the Word is not understood; but doctrine alone in man does not make the Church in him, but life according thereto; hence it follows that faith alone does not make the Church, but the life of faith which is charity.

10765. They who are out of the Church, yet acknowledge one God, and live according to their religion in a kind of charity towards the neighbour, are in communion with those who are of the Church . . . Hence it is evident that the Lord's Church is everywhere in the whole world, although specifically it is where the Lord is acknowledged and where the Word is. H. 308(e), Refs.

10766. Everyone with whom the Church is, is saved, but everyone with whom the Church is not is condemned.

10794. Priests must teach men according to the doctrine of their own Church from the Word. N. 315.

10816. Therefore the primary of the Church is to acknowledge God, to believe in God, and to love Him. N. 296.

10817. They who are born within the Church ought to acknowledge the Lord, His Divine and His Human, and to believe in Him and love Him. Sig.

10818. Those within the Church who do not acknowledge the Lord and His Divine cannot be conjoined with God, and thus cannot have any lot with the Angels in Heaven . . .

H. 1. At the end of the Church the Lord will open the Word as to its internal sense, and reveal the arcana of Heaven. Sig.

3. They who within the Church have denied the Lord, and have acknowledged only the Father, and have confirmed themselves in such a faith, are outside Heaven . . .

57. What is said of Heaven may be said of the Church, for the Church is the Lord's Heaven on earth. There are many Churches, yet each is called a Church, and also is the Church in proportion as the good of love and of faith reigns there; therein the Lord makes one thing out of many, thus one Church out of many. What is said of the Church in general may be said of the man of the Church in particular, namely, that the Church is within man, and not without him, and that every man is a Church in whom the Lord is present in the good of love and of faith. A man in whom the Church is . . . is a Church in the least form; and further, a man in whom the Church is . . . is Heaven . . .

— (k). Refs.

— (h). If good were the mark and essential of the Church, and not truth without good, the Church would be one. Refs.

— All Churches make one Church before the Lord from good. Refs.

— (i). The Church is in man, and not outside him; and the Church in general is from the men in whom the Church is. Ref.

183². Such ignorance is chiefly within the Church.

305 (c). The universal Church on earth is before the Lord as one man. Refs. 308. S. 105.

308. There is also conjunction of Heaven through the Word with those outside the Church, where the Word is not, for the Lord's Church is universal, and is with all who acknowledge the Divine and live in charity . . . — (e), Refs. S. 104, Gen. art.

318 (m). The Lord's Church is with all in the whole world who live in good according to their religion, and acknowledge the Divine. Refs.

328. The Lord's Church is scattered through the whole world, thus is universal, and in it are all who have lived in the good of charity according to their religion; and the Church where the Word is . . . is to those outside the Church as the heart and lungs are in man . . .

374. More adulteries committed and also confirmed within the Church than outside of it.

[H.] 390. Wisdom is to love . . . the good of the Church, etc.

556. He who is in self-love does not love the Church, etc. Ex.

557^e. He who is in self-love wants the Church, etc., to serve him . . .

N. 5. It is provided by the Lord that there is always a Church on earth, for through the Church there is conjunction of the Lord with mankind, and of Heaven with the world . . . S. 110.

9. The doctrine of charity then conjoined all Churches, and so made one out of many; for they acknowledged as men of the Church all who had lived in the good of charity . . .

15^e. The conjunction of good and truth makes the Church. Life 32^e. R. 97^e.

60. Love to the Lord and love towards the neighbour make Heaven with man . . . and therefore they make the Church with him.

241. On the Church. Gen.art. (From A. 10760.)
— Love and faith make the Church.

J. 1^e. There is a Church in the Heavens as well as on earth. R. 65.

33. The Last Judgment takes place when it is the end of the Church, and it is the end of the Church when there is no faith because there is no charity. Gen.art.

34. The equilibrium between Heaven and Hell begins to perish at the end of the Church . . .

— As at the end of the Church evil increases over good, all are judged by the Lord . . .

37. Within the Church faith is now so rare that . . .

38^e. Every Church at the beginning is spiritual, for it begins from charity, but in course of time turns aside from charity to faith, and then from an internal Church it becomes an external Church, and then is its end.

40. The spiritual sense treats everywhere . . . of the state of the Church in the Heavens and on earth.

41. The quality of the Church on earth cannot be seen by any man so long as he lives in the world . . . but it appears in Heaven as in clear day . . . P. 251⁴.

46^e. On this Earth there have been two Churches; the first before the Flood, and the other after it.

55^e. The Church is not there, but Babylon; for the Church is where the Lord is worshipped and the Word is read.

73. On the state of the world and of the Church hereafter. Gen.art. C.J.S.Gen.art.

—². The state of the Church will not be similar hereafter; it will indeed be similar as to the outward appearance, but dissimilar as to the inward; as to the outward appearance there will be divided Churches as before, and their doctrines will be taught as before . . . but hereafter the man of the Church will be in a freer state of thinking about the things of faith . . . 74.

C. J. 11. Before the Last Judgment . . . much of the communication between . . . the Lord and the Church was intercepted. Ex.

13. The state of the world and of the Church before the Last Judgment was as evening and night, but after it as morning and day. Ex.

W. H. 6^e. They are not of the Church who are born where the Word is . . . but they who are regenerated by the Lord through truths from the Word. Refs.

8^e. The Church would be one if they were acknowledged as men of the Church from life, thus from charity. Refs.

L. 15^e. The prophets represented the state of the Church and of the Word, for he who represents the one represents the other, for the Church is from the Word, and is according to the reception of it in life and faith.

55⁴. It would have been all over with the Church, for the Church is the Church from the Lord.

S. 6. The men of the Church in the world are in the Divine Natural, which also proceeds from the Lord. See T. 195.

12. The successive states of the Church as to the understanding of the Word. Sig. and Enum.

13. The state of the Church when all the Knowledges of truth from the Word are destroyed. Tr.

76. The Church is from the Word, and is such as is its understanding of the Word. Gen.art.

— It is not the Word which makes the Church, but the understanding of it.

78. In proportion as the Lord is conjoined with man is the Church in man. The Church is in man; the Church which is outside him is the Church with a number in whom is the Church. Sig.

79. There is no Church except where the Word is justly understood.

80. In each thing of the Word there is a marriage of the Lord and the Church. Gen.art.

— The spiritual sense treats chiefly of the Church; the celestial chiefly of the Lord.

83. The understanding is the receptacle of truth . . . the will of good, and these must make one for a man to be a man of the Church.

99. By the Lord's becoming the Word in ultimates the state of the Church was completely changed, for all the Churches before His advent were representative Churches; but after His advent a Church was instituted by Him which saw Divine truth in light . . . The state of the Church before His advent is called 'evening,' and that of the Church after it 'morning.' Ex. (See below, T. 109.)

104. There can be no conjunction with Heaven unless there is somewhere on the Earth a Church where the Word is, and the Lord thereby known . . . It is enough that there be a Church where the Word is, even if it consists of comparatively few . . .

105. The universal Church is as one man before the Lord. . . In that man the Church where the Word is read is as the heart and lungs; the Celestial Kingdom as the heart, and the Spiritual Kingdom as the lungs.

F. 69. Faith separate from charity destroys the Church and all things of it. Gen.art.

W. 24. The spiritual body is the Church, and its head is God Man.

25. It would be the same with the Church scattered through the whole world, which is called the communion . . .

102°. It is the same with the man of the Church, if with him love and wisdom, or charity and faith, make one.

118°. By a man of the Church is meant a man in whom the Church is.

P. 28°. Such also is the conjunction of the Lord with the Church, and of the Church with the Lord, which is called the celestial and spiritual marriage.

30. The Lord's Heaven in the natural world is called the Church, and an angel of this Heaven is a man of the Church who is conjoined with the Lord. . . Hence what is said of the angelic Heaven is understood of the human Heaven, which is called the Church.

215¹⁰. Hatred against the Divine things of the Church.

231. The first kind of profanation is from those who jest from and concerning the Divine things of the Church. Ex.

245. Solomon was permitted to establish idolatrous worship in order to represent the Lord's Kingdom or Church with all religions in the whole world. Ex.

256³. It is everywhere acknowledged that the Word is holy, and that the Lord has what is Divine; and these two things are the essentials of the Church . . .

259². When the Church itself assumed as its essentials such things as are only of the understanding . . . and when the things of life are not essentials of the Church, man is in mere darkness.

—c. There are three essentials of the Church; the acknowledgment of the Lord's Divine, the acknowledgment of the holiness of the Word, and the life which is called charity. . . If these three had been regarded as the essentials of the Church, intellectual differences would not have divided, but would only have varied it . . .

325². Some opine that the Lord's Church is only in the Christian world, because the Lord is known only there, and there only is the Word; yet there are many who believe that the Lord's Church is general, or extended and scattered through the whole world . . . It follows that there are most general principles of the Church which enter into all religions, and make this communion. These are the acknowledgment of God and the good of life.

326¹⁰. All who make these two universals of the Church of their life have a place in Heaven.

328. On this Earth there have been many Churches, one after another, for wherever mankind is, there is the Church; for . . . no one can come into Heaven unless he is in the two universal principles of the Church, which are to acknowledge God and live well. (The successive Churches on this Earth, and their consummations. Enum.)

330⁵. That only those are saved who are born within the Church is an insane heresy. Ex.

338°. The doctrines of all Churches, when regarded interiorly, teach life. Ex.

R. Pref°. Upon a just idea of God is founded . . . the universal Church.

x a. (The doctrine of the Reformed respecting the Church.)

2. Predictions from the Lord concerning His Church, such as it would be at its end and afterwards, both in the Heavens and on earth. E. 5.

— . The Revelation does not treat of the successive states of the Church . . . but from beginning to end, of the last state of the Church in the Heavens and on earth . . . E. 5.

4². Unless the Church were finished before its time it would utterly perish. Sig.

5². As the good of life from charity and its faith makes the Church, the arcana concerning the state of the Church are revealed through the apostle John.

9. 'The time is at hand' = that the state of the Church is such that it can endure no longer, so as to be in conjunction with the Lord.

10. 'John to the seven Churches' = to all who are in the Christian world, where the Word is, and by it the Lord known, and who accede to the Church. 40. 43.

— . These, if they live according to the Lord's commandments in the Word, make the Church itself.

17⁴. The Church is not with man until truth becomes of the life . . . —c.

24. The Lord will reveal Himself in the sense of the letter of the Word, and open its spiritual sense at the end of the Church. Sig.

27. This will be when there are no longer any goods and truths in the Church. Sig.

33. The things in the Church which are infested by evils and falsities, but which will be removed by the Lord at His coming. Sig.

41. All states of the reception of the Lord and His Church are signified by these seven names.

43. The candlesticks were golden, because 'gold' = good, and every Church is a Church from the good which is formed through truths.

44. As the Church is the Church from the Lord through the Word, the Son of Man was seen in the midst of the candlesticks.

49². The Church on earth is in the Divine Natural.

66. 'The seven candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven Churches' (Rev. i. 20) = the New Church on earth . . . The universal New Church with its varieties is described by 'the seven Churches.'

— . The 'seven candlesticks' do not mean seven Churches, but the Church in the whole complex, which in itself is one, but is varied according to reception; these varieties may be compared to the various jewels in a king's crown, and also to the various members and organs in a perfect body . . . Hence it is that the universal New Church with its varieties is described in what follows by the seven Churches. 73. 87.

68. To the Churches in the Christian world (Rev. ii).

69. The 'seven Churches' describe all in the Christian Church who have religion, and from whom the New Church which is the New Jerusalem can be formed . . . The rest are indeed in the Church, but have nothing of the Church in them.

[R.] 82. 'Thou hast left thy first charity' (Rev.ii.4)= that they do not hold goods of life in the first place, which yet has been and is done at the beginning of every Church. E. 104.

— Every Church, when beginning, regards goods of life in the first place and truths of doctrine in the second, but as the Church declines it begins to regard truths of doctrine in the first place and goods of life in the second, and at last at its end it regards faith alone, and then not only separates the goods of charity from faith, but even omits them.

87. 'What the spirit saith to the Churches'=what the Divine truth of the Word teaches those who will be of the New Church, which is the New Jerusalem. . . 'The Churches'=the universal Church in the Christian world.

88. As what is written to the seven Churches describes the state of all in the Christian Church who can receive the doctrine of the New Jerusalem, and live according to it . . .

97¹. The Church is not the Church without doctrine. Ex.

182. They say the Church is with them, when yet there is no Church with them. Sig.

191. Truths from good from the Lord . . . support the Lord's Church in Heaven. Sig.

—³. 'The temple,' here, = the present Church; and its destruction so that there was not one stone upon another = the end of this Church . . .

263². The present state of the Church. Sig. and Des.

282. Those in the Church, or in any religion, who are in truths as to doctrine and in goods as to life, are redeemed by the Lord. Sig.

322. The destruction of all the good of the Church. Sig.

348. The twelve tribes of Israel = the Church from those who are in good and truth from the Lord, and who acknowledge Him as the God of Heaven and earth.

349. 'Sealed from every tribe of Israel' (Rev.vii.4)= Heaven and the Lord's Church from them . . . 'Every tribe' = the Church as to all the good of love and as to all the truth of that good, from which is the good of life; for there are two things which make the Church, the good of love and the truth of doctrine; their marriage is the Church. The twelve tribes of Israel represented the Church as to this marriage . . .

363². The universal Heaven together with the Church on earth before the Lord is as one man, and there are some who constitute the head, some the body . . . T. 119, Ex.

396. The state of the Church with them tottering to destruction. Sig.

441. Lamentations over the devastation of the Church. Sig. 518. E. 531.

444². Three things make the man of the Church; the Spiritual, the Rational, and the Natural . . .

446. Those who are in a perpetual effort to take away light and spiritual life from the men of the Church. Sig.

453. It is by these that the men of the Church perish. Sig.

470. The Lord has under His auspices and dominion the universal Church, both those who are in the externals and those who are in the internals of it. Sig.

—^c. Those who are in the externals of the Church have not so confirmed falsities in themselves as those who are in its internals. Sig.

471. The Lord's grievous lamentation that the Church is taken from Him. Sig.

476. 'There should be time no longer' (Rev.x.6)= there shall not be any state of the Church, or any Church, unless one God is acknowledged, and that the Lord is He.

477. The final investigation and manifestation of the state of the Church, that it will perish unless a New Church is established by the Lord. Sig.

480. A movement of the mind with many in the Church to receive the doctrine. Sig.

485. The power of seeing the state of the Church in Heaven, and in the world, given by the Lord. Sig.

486. These three things make the Church; the truth of doctrine, the good of love, and worship from them. Sig.

—². The state of the Church in Heaven before it was conjoined with the Church in the world, to be seen and known. Sig.

— There is a Church in the Heavens equally as on earth, and they make one as do the internal and external with men; wherefore the Church in the Heavens is first provided by the Lord, and from or through it a Church on earth. Sig.

487. The state of the Church on earth . . . is to be removed, and not known. Sig. E. 630.

488. Because the state of the Church is destroyed and desolated by evils of life. Sig.

492. Where there is no truth there is no Church.

493. Love and intelligence, or charity and faith, make the Church; love and charity its life, and intelligence and faith its doctrine.

519. Investigation and manifestation of the state of the Church after consummation. Sig.

533. The reason the moon was seen under the woman's feet, is that the Church on earth which is not as yet conjoined with the Church in the Heavens, is meant. . . Otherwise, 'the feet' = that Church itself, when it is conjoined.

— There is a Church in the Heavens equally as on earth, for the Word is there, places of worship, preaching in them, and ministries and priesthoods. . . The Church with them is meant by the woman encompassed with the sun, and upon whose head there was a crown of twelve stars; and as the Church in the Heavens does not subsist unless there is also a Church on earth which is in concordant love and wisdom, and this there would be, the moon was seen under the woman's feet . . . The reason the Church in the Heavens does not subsist unless there is conjoined with it a Church on earth, is that Heaven where the Angels are, and the Church where men are, act as one . . .

574². By these four beasts are described the successive states of the Church . . .

601². Every Church appears before the Lord as a man; if in truths from the Word it appears as a beautiful man, but if in truths falsified as a monstrous man; the Church so appears from its doctrine and from life according thereto; from which it follows that the doctrine of the Church is its image.

643. To put an end to the state of the Church, and effect judgment. Sig. 645. 646.

645. The Church on earth is to the angelic Heaven as the foundation on which a house rests, or as the feet on which a man stands and with which he walks; wherefore when the Church on earth is destroyed, the Angels lament, and supplicate the Lord to put an end to the Church and raise up a new one. Sig.

647². The Church in the whole world, and the Church in the Christian world (both consummated). Sig.

656. Pref. Preparation to disclose the last state of the Church. Tr. 656. E.926.

658. The devastation of the Church, and then its end. Sig.

— In course of time every Church decreases . . .

670. Preparation by the Lord for influx from the inmost Heaven into the Church, in order that its evils and falsities may be universally disclosed, and thus the evil be separated from the good. Sig.

674a. More (Divine truth) could not be endured until the end of that Church was seen after its devastation. Sig.

675³. (The argument that the Church is where the Word is, refuted.)

709. Thus it is made manifest by the Lord that all things of the Church are devastated. Sig.

712. That Church as to its doctrine entirely destroyed, likewise all the heresies therefrom. Sig.

712°. Hence 'Jerusalem' = the Church as to doctrine in the universal sense.

716⁴. The bishop nominates a single candidate for the Churches.

798. It is not said the Roman Catholic Church, but the Roman Catholic religiosity, because they do not approach the Lord or read the Word, and because they invoke the dead; and the Church is the Church from the Lord and the Word, and its perfection is according to the acknowledgment of the Lord, and the understanding of the Word. 721.

744². The Lord's Church, like Heaven, is distinguished into three degrees. Sig. and Ex.

797. No conjunction of good and truth, which makes the Church. Sig.

— The Church is the Church from the reception of the Lord's Divine good in the Divine truths which are from Him.

812. Henceforth a full marriage of the Lord with the Church. Sig. and Ex.

816². The Church is always established first in the Heavens by the Lord, and afterwards through the Heavens on earth.

832². The Church itself with man is formed through the truths of the Word; not through these truths in the understanding alone, but through a life according to them . . .

876. The Church on earth descends from the Lord out of the angelic Heaven. Sig. and Ex.

879°. The Church on earth is formed through Heaven by the Lord, in order that they may act and be consoiated as one.

896². The Church is the Church from doctrine and from life according to it.

902. The Church is founded upon doctrine. Sig.

910°. The Church which is a Church from the Word is in consociation with Heaven and in conjunction with the Lord; not so a Church which is not from the Word.

916. The acknowledgment and Knowledge of the Lord introduce into the Church. Sig.

923². The Church is one thing and religion another; the Church is called the Church from doctrine, and religion is called religion from life according to doctrine . . . Yet where there is doctrine and not life, it cannot be said that there is either the Church or religion . . .

947. The Apocalypse must be opened at the end of the Church, that some may be saved. Sig.

953. 'In the Churches' (Rev.xxii.16) = before the whole Christian world, because there are the Churches which are here meant.

955. Heaven and the Church long for the Lord's advent. Sig. 960.

— The Church here called 'the bride' does not mean the Church from those who are in falsities of faith, but the Church from those who are in truths of faith . . .

960. Here, at the end of the Book, the Lord speaks and the Church speaks, as the Bridegroom and the bride.

M. 21. (On the wedding-day the bride represents the Church.)

—². There are two things which make the marriage of the Lord and the Church; love and wisdom; and the Lord is love and the Church is wisdom . . .

— After the wedding, both the husband and the wife together represent the Church. 125, Ex. 126, Ex.

62. The correspondence of marriage love is with the marriage of the Lord and the Church, that is, as the Lord loves the Church, and wills that the Church should love Him, so a husband and wife mutually love each other. Ex.

63. The Church is formed by the Lord with the man, and through the man with the wife, and after it has been formed with both it is a full Church, for then there is a full conjunction of good and truth, and the conjunction of good and truth is the Church. The conjunctive inclination, which is marriage love, is in like degree with the conjunction of good and truth which is the Church. 125.

65. Marriage love . . . is the fundamental of all the loves of Heaven and the Church. Ex.

[M.] 70. None can be in this love but those who approach the Lord, love the truths of the Church, and do its goods. Ex.

72. There are two things which make the Church and thence Heaven with man; the truth of faith and the good of life; the truth of faith causes the Lord's presence, and the good of life according to the truths of faith causes conjunction with Him, and thus the Church and Heaven. Ex.

76³. We saw that the Church with its truths and goods is possible only with those who live in love truly conjugal with one wife, for the marriage of good and truth is the Church with man . . .

79⁹. This love is from the Lord according to the reception of good and truth from Him, thus according to the state of the Church.

80^e. It is now the end of the Church, because there remains no truth which is not falsified . . .

115¹. As the Church, which is formed through the truth of doctrine; and religion, which is formed through the good of life according to the truth of doctrine; with Christians is only from the Holy Scripture, it is evident that the Church in general and in part is the marriage of good and truth.

116. On the marriage of the Lord and the Church, and its correspondence. Gen.art.

117. The conjunction of the Lord with the Church, and the reciprocal conjunction of the Church with the Lord, is called marriage. Ex. and Ill.

121. The spiritual offspring of the marriage of the Lord with the Church are truths and goods. Ex.

122. Thus is the Church formed by the Lord with man. Ex.

129. The Church is from the Lord, and is with those who approach Him, and live according to His commandments. Ex.

130. The reason marriage love is according to the state of the Church, is that it is according to the state of wisdom with man. Ex.

—². Those things which are of the Church, and are called spiritual things, reside in the inmost with man. Ex.

214¹. Husbands grow cold to their wives when they think vain things against the Lord and the Church.

228. Varieties of similitudes can be conjoined . . . especially by conformity in the things of the Church; for by the things of the Church there is effected a conjunction of similitudes which are inwardly apart . . .

240. With those who reject . . . the holy things of the Church, there is no good love . . .

266². He said he was a minister of the Church there.

293⁴. When the Church betroths herself to her Lord (the delights of marriage love will be known).

375. One cause of this kind of jealousy is the captivity and suffocation of the thoughts in the spiritual things of the Church. Ex.

431. Uncleaness and cleanness in the Church (are from scortatory and marriage love respectively.) Ex.

497. (Adulteries) cause men to reject all things of the Church and of religion. Ex.

— . The love of adultery acts as one with those things which are against the Church.

— . The marriage of evil and falsity is the Anti-Church.

B. 45. The modern faith has separated religion from the Church. Gen.art.

101. The Church is the Lord's. Ill.

T. 15. With men who do not acknowledge one God, but several, nothing of the Church coheres together. Ex.

74³. God, from His omnipotence, has established the Church.

84. Redemption was the subjugation of the Hells and the ordination of the Heavens, and after these things the establishment of the Church.

109. All the Churches before the Lord's coming were representative Churches, which could only see Divine truths in the shade . . .

—³. (The difference between the state of the Church before the Lord's coming and after it, described by comparisons.)

116³. When the Church on earth perishes, the lower Heavens also pass away . . .

176. Is not the Church the Lord's body, and He its Head? What is a body without a head? or with three heads?

178. When the primary faith is known . . . the quality of the Church is known. Examps.

195^e. The men of the Church are in one or other of these three Kingdoms, according to their love, wisdom, and faith.

224^e. The Church which is in Divine truths from the Lord will prevail over the Hells. Sig.

243. The Church is from the Word, and is such with man as is his understanding of the Word. Gen.art.

244. The reason the Church is according to the understanding of the Word, is that the Church is according to the truths of faith and the goods of charity . . . These are what essentially make the Church.

245. The Church is according to its doctrine . . . yet doctrine does not establish the Church, but the soundness and purity of doctrine, thus the understanding of the Word; but doctrine does not establish and make the special Church which is with each individual man, but faith and life according to it; in like manner the Word does not establish and make the Church in special with man, but faith according to the truths, and life according to the goods which he draws from it and applies to himself.

342². The Church is not with him who does not confess that the Lord is the Son of God. Ill.

379. Hence the Church is called the body of Christ.

384. They who reject either the Word or the Lord reject the Church, because the Church is from the Lord through the Word; and they who reject the Church are out of Heaven, for the Church introduces into Heaven.

415. The Church is the neighbour which is to be loved in a higher degree. Gen.art.

416. The Lord's Kingdom means the Church in the whole world, which is called the communion of saints ; and also means Heaven.

— The Church in the Heavens and on earth is the Lord's body.

430. The spiritual pay taxes from good-will, because they are for the preservation of their country and the Church, and for administration by the office-bearers and governors, whose salaries and stipends are to be paid out of the public treasury . . .

510. Repentance is the first of the Church with man. Gen.art.

— The communion called the Church consists of all men in whom is the Church ; and the Church enters with man while he is being regenerated . . .

511. That the Church is not with man until sins are removed ; shown by comparisons.

599. After redemption, the Lord established a new Church ; in like manner He also establishes the things of the Church with man, and makes him a Church in particular.

619. Without truths there can be no theology, and where this is not, neither is there the Church.

646. So also is the Church on earth ordered by the Lord.

711. The Holy Supper contains all things of the Church. Gen.art.

712. The essentials of the Church are three ; God, charity, and faith . . .

719. As baptism is introduction into the Church . . .

753. The consummation of the age is the last time or end of the Church. Gen.art.

—^e. When truth is consummated in the Church, good is also consummated there, and then the Church has an end.

756. (Why the Church passes through circles of progress and decay.)

762^e. The Church appears before the Lord as a man, and this Grand Man passes through ages of his own.

763^e. I have heard that the Churches which are in different goods and truths, provided their goods relate to love to the Lord, and their truths to faith in the Lord, are like so many jewels in a king's crown.

767. The man who is in faith in the Lord, and in charity towards the neighbour, is a Church in particular ; the Church in general is composed of such. 775, Ex.

775². In the Church there are general and particular, and also most general things, and hence it is that four Churches have preceded in order, from which progression has originated the most general principle of the Church, and successively what is general and particular of each one.

786. No former Church was in the truth. Ex.

Ad. 681. (On the successive Churches.)

D. 1167. Societies of the true Church, in which all are brethren.

2407. What is said in the Word in relation to the ancient Churches applies also to the present ones.

3030. That the Lord's Church is very greatly promoted by the evil . . .

3107. Both preacher and hearer are in a very different state when they are in Church.

4438. On the influx of the Lord into the Church. . . The Lord's Church is like the heart and lungs. Ex. The Angels dwell with those who are in love to the Lord and towards the neighbour, but when there is no Church the Angels are removed. The consequence of this.

4664. Everyone thinks the doctrines of his own Church true, therefore in whatever Church a man be born, he ought to examine the Word . . .

4777. The Church which now perishes in Europe will be established in Africa.

4936. On the Churches in the other life.

5662a. On the wicked there who want to make one Church out of many.

— How one Church may really be made.

5850. Such distinguish Churches according to mere truths.

D. Min. 4684. How it is that the Church represents the heart and lungs.

E. 20. 'To the seven Churches'=to all those who are in truths from good. Ex. 21. 58. 90. 91. 108.

23². The Church is not the Church from what is proper to man, but from what is Divine of the Lord.

59. The light of intelligence does not make the Church with man, but the reception of the light in heart.

62. 'The seven Churches'=all who are of the Lord's Church, thus the Church in general. 150². 256 Ex. and Enum.

— The good of love and of faith makes the Church with man.

92. As Heaven and the Church make one by correspondence, it is said 'write to the Angel of the Church ;' and also because there must be such a correspondence for the Church to be the Church with man.

96. Everything of the Church is from the Lord, and in fact from His Divine Human. Sig. 151, Ex.

104^e. The Church would be one, and not many as at this day, if all were regarded from charity, although they might differ as to doctrinal and ritual things. Refs.

150². Those with whom the internal man is closed are not men of the Church, for the Church with man is formed through communication with Heaven . . .

159^e. The Church is in man as Heaven is in an Angel ; and every Church is constituted of those who are of the Church.

208². Intrinission into the Church. Sig.

209². The two principal things of the Church are to acknowledge the Divine Human and apply the truths of the Word to life . . .

229. Faith from the Lord as to the appearance is the first of the Church, but charity itself is actually the first of the Church, because this makes the Church with man. There are two things which make the Church ; charity and faith . . .

[E.] 252². The Church in special is where the Word is, and where by the Word the Lord is known. Ex.

256^e. Love makes Heaven, and therefore it makes the Church.

281². The naseent Church. Sig.

292. The conjunction of good and truth makes Heaven with man while he lives on earth . . .

313³. The Lord's Church is diffused through the whole world, but its inmost is where the Lord is known and acknowledged, and where the Word is; from that inmost, light and intelligence are propagated to all who are around and are of the Church, but this propagation of light and intelligence is effected in Heaven.

328⁶. To acknowledge the Divine in the Lord's Human is the primary of the Church, by which there is conjunction; and as it is the primary it is also the first of the Church. Sig.

331⁹. The Lord's Church is universal; it is with all who are in the good of life, and who from their doctrine look to Heaven, and who by it conjoin themselves with the Lord.

351. Manifestation of the states of those who are of the Church where the Word is. Tr.

— . It is said the Church where the Word is, because the Lord's Church is in the whole world, but in special where the Word is . . .

—². The Church in the whole world is before the Lord as one man, for it makes one with the angelic Heaven. . . In this man the Church where the Word is is as the heart and lungs, the Church with those who are in celestial love is as the heart, and with those in spiritual love as the lungs . . . thus all in the whole world who constitute the universal Church, live from the Church where the Word is . . .

361. These successive states of the Church do not appear to anyone in the world . . .

365⁴. This is the origin of all dissensions and heresies in the Church . . . D. Wis.xi.12.

388. It is said the Church with man, because the Church is in man, for the Church is the Church from charity and faith, and these are in man, and if they are not there, the Church is not with him. It is believed that the Church is where the Word is and the Lord is known, but the Church is only from those who at heart acknowledge the Lord's Divine, and who learn truths from the Lord through the Word, and do them; the rest do not constitute the Church.

400³. The Church is in man, and from the men in whom the Church is.

—⁴. The internal of the Church is the good of love and the good of faith, and its external is worship thence.

403²⁰. In the Lord's Church there is an internal and there is an external; the internal of the Church is charity and faith thence; the external of the Church is the good of life . . .

411⁴. The four Churches, from the Most Ancient to the Jewish, were represented by the image seen by Nebuchadnezzar. Enum.

435⁵. The Church regarded in itself is in the internal man, but the external Church is in the external man; which however act as one, as cause and effect.

440². There are two things which make the Church; the truth of doctrine and the good of life; there must be both with man for him to be of the Church. These two are represented by Ephraim and Manasseh.

—⁷. Good is what makes the Church . . .

486². There was then a like state of the Church in the Spiritual World as in the natural world . . .

545². The state of the man of the Church about its end is here described; that from internal or spiritual it would become external or sensuous; yet it would not perish altogether . . .

569². The state of the Church at its very end. Tr. —⁹. Des. 570, Des. 602. 614. 624.

606. 'The place of feet' (Is.lx.13)=the Church; for the Lord's Church is with men in the natural world . . . Hence the Church is also called the Lord's 'footstool.' Ill.

627³. 'Porch' and 'court'=all things outside the Church, but which regard it. . . For the Church itself is in the internal man.

641. These doctrines will be preached about the end of the Church. . . When the end of the Church is at hand, the interiors of the Word, etc., are revealed and taught . . . 644.

—⁴. The successive states of the Churches on our Earth have been like those of a man who is being regenerated. Ex.

649. The end of the Church, when the Lord's Divine is no longer acknowledged, and therefore there is no good and truth. Sig. —³.

654⁴. From the conjunction (of the spiritual and natural minds), man is a man of the Church.

—¹⁶. Thus man founds the Church with himself.

—⁶². The Church is first formed with man through knowledges in the natural man.

662. Anxiety caused by the two witnesses in the devastated Church. Sig.

668. The state of the Church at its end, when it is provided that a sudden change should not do harm to those who are to be separated. Tr.

670². At the end of the Church the interiors of the Word are manifested . . .

674. A remarkable change of the state of the interiors with those who are of the Church. Sig. and Ex. See 670^e.

676³. At the end of the Church, when the Last Judgment is at hand, they who are spiritually good are taken away from those who are only naturally so, and then all truths and good and understanding of truth are also taken away from the latter. Sig. and Ex.

680. 'The third woe' (Rev.xi.14) involves the last state of the Church . . . and the state of separation then of the good and the evil, and at length the Last Judgment.

687⁷. To judge all according to the truths of their own Church. Sig.

721¹². The spiritual captivity in which the faithful are when they remain in a Church where there is no longer any truth or good. Sig.

730³. Quality of the man of the Church at its end.

732³. The Spirits who are with man are from those who have been in the faith of their own Church while on earth, and no Spirits receive the doctrine of the New Church but those who have been in the spiritual affection of truth . . . The number of these increases daily in the World of Spirits . . .

741². The two principles of evil and falsity into which the Church successively falls. 879².

786. When the doctrine disagrees with the Word it is no longer a Church, but a religiosity which counterfeits the Church.

885². In the Churches in which faith alone is received there are many who teach faith conjoined with life. Ex.

926. Revelation about the state of the Church just before the Last Judgment. Sig.

929. A Church merely natural is no Church . . .

948³. (The succession of Churches on our Earth in descending and ascending order.) Enum and Ex.

975². Works done for the sake of Church uses are the best of all.

1003². Hence it is that the Church has been divided into so many Churches.

1029¹⁸. Every Church at its beginning is like a virgin, but in course of time becomes a harlot. Ex.

1069. Why of the Divine Providence some Churches separated from the Babylonish one.

1070². There are two things which make the Church; that the power of saving belongs to the Lord, and that the Word is Divine; and unless these two things are recognized in the Church, it is not a Church.

1222³. The Church on earth is as one man before the Lord, and is distinguished into societies, each of which is as a man. Ex.

C. 27. All are initiated into the Church by knowing what is evil and not doing it because it is against God.

212. There is no Church where there is no truth of faith, and no religion where there is no good of life. Gen.art. The Church and religion make one, like good and truth.

5 M. S. On the end of the Church. Gen.art.

14. This is the Church of God, is cried from every pulpit.

15. Heaven and the Church are together like one house, the Church is the foundation and substructure, and Heaven is the superstructure and roof . . . when therefore the Church falls away below, that house only hangs together by the walls, and the communication with the Angels is intercepted . . . Lest therefore the house should be utterly ruined, the Lord returns into the world, and establishes a new Church . . .

Ecc. Hist. 2. The Church was different before the Council of Nice, as long as the Apostles' Creed was in force. It became changed after the Council of Nice, and still more after the Athanasian Creed was composed.

2 T

The cardinal point of doctrine respecting the Triune God and the Lord was subverted in the Church, especially by the dogma of three Persons from eternity.

Coro. 5. Each of the four Churches has had four successive states or periods. Gen.art.

6. In each Church there have been four successive changes of state. Enum. Gen.art.

8. The Church consists of men, and a man is a Church in particular, and a congregation of these men is what is called the Church; in this congregation or Church they who live according to order are trees of life . . .

10. After the consummation of every Church the Lord Jehovah appears, and executes a judgment. Gen.art.

15. The angelic Heaven and the Church on earth together make one body . . . They also together appear before the Lord as one man.

18. The doctrine descended because the Church is a Church from doctrine and according to it; without doctrine the Church is no more a Church than a man is a man without members . . .

19². The Church cannot exist with man unless its internal be spiritual and its external natural; there being no such thing as a Church purely spiritual, or a Church merely natural.

—4. Therefore Heaven could not subsist without the Church with man, nor the Church without Heaven . . .

—6. Therefore the Angels bitterly lament when the Church on earth is desolated through falsities, and consummated through evils, and liken the state of their life then to sleepiness . . . but when the Church on earth is restored they liken the state of their life to wakefulness.

21⁸. The external from the internal, thus both together with man, is what is called the Church.

39. As every Church is triple; inmost or celestial, middle or spiritual, and external or natural . . .

Inv. 25. If this Work is not added to the former one the Church cannot be healed.

28. How it is to be understood that the Church is the body of Christ.

38. The reason why the Churches after the Apostles fell into so many heresies, and why at this day there are nothing but falsities, is that they did not approach the Lord . . . 40.

53. The Church cannot be any Church at all unless one God is believed in . . . When it is believed that the One God is not only the Creator, but also the Redeemer and Operator, we have one God, and then the Church first exists and subsists . . . This is called the crown of all Churches.

Church of the gentiles. Ecclesia gentium.

A. 1259³. The Church of the gentiles, Tr. —¹, 1416⁵. 1551³. 2383⁶. 5354⁷. E. 52.

1417. The Church of the gentiles defined.

2417³. Such was the primitive Church, or the Church of the gentiles.

4206. 'Nahor' represents the Church of the gentiles.

Chyle. Chylus.

A. 5173. These represent the purification of the chyle, etc.

5174. These Spirits, after some agitations and purifications, become chyle . . . 5181^e.

5180. These Spirits belong to the province of the receptacle and ducts of the chyle . . . D.1127.

— These are they to whom corresponds the subtle chyle, which is carried towards the brain, and is there commingled with new animal spirit . . .

6078. The vessels which receive the chyle are thus opened.

S. 66. When the food becomes chyle . . . T.237.

P. 164⁶. As the chyle is carried through the mesentery and its lacteals into the receptacle. See 2961⁴.

D. 1021. Some come into the blood through the chyle.

1130. These attract the spirituous chyle from the brain . . . that it may be conjoined with the chyle of the body.

Cicero. Cicero.

H. 322. There was one with me . . . it was given to believe that it was Cicero. His views on wisdom, order, the Word, and the Lord. D.4094. 4415.

S. 115³. Source of Cicero's knowledge about spiritual things.

Cinder. See ASHES.Cineritious. Cineritius.

A. 6607. The cineritious substance in the brain. W.316³. T.351³.

Cinnamon. Cinnamomum.

A. 10254. 'Aromatic cinnamon' (Ex.xxx.23) = the perception and affection of natural truth. Ex. 10264². R.777. —^e.

E. 1150. 'Cinnamon' = the good of celestial love. Ex.

Circle. Circulus. See GYRE.

A. 814^e. To distinguish them they have a kind of circle with brass points . . . D.1280.

3869². Such is the circle of things with men. 4247². —³. Ad.970. D.757, Ex.

4658⁴. The radiant circle is the Divine from Him.

5017^e. The circle by what communications take place.

7173. The Lord seen encompassed with a solar circle.

9407¹⁴. The light which is the Divine truth proceeding from the Lord was described by radiant circles . . . W.94.

10057². Such is the circle of things from the world through the natural man into his spiritual man, and from this again into the world. Ex.

—³. As this circle is the circle of man's life . . .

10188². This Divine sphere was likened to radiant circles . . .

P. 29³. Such a circle of the love to the thoughts and from the thoughts to the love from the love is in all things of the human mind ; which circle may be called the circle of life. See D.757.

335³. Comparison with squaring the circle.

M. 249. The mind is thus circumscribed as in a circle . . .

269³. Such a man appears from Heaven . . . with a yellow circle round the head ; such a one . . . with a white circle. The circles round the head represent intelligence. Ex.

—⁴. A devil seen rising up with a lucid white circle round his head . . .

T. 365³. The Sun is the nearest circle . . .

756. This is called the circle of things . . .

D. 3484. Forms which far surpass the circle and the curves which relate to the circle.

E. 242⁴. The circle of man's life is to know, to understand, to will, and to do . . .

543¹². 'Jehovah Who dwells upon the circle of the earth' (Is.xl.22)=that the Lord as to intelligence is in the highest things.

799¹⁵. 'To dwell upon the circle of the earth'=upon Heaven, for Heaven encompasses the earth as a circle does its centre.

D. Love x². All love returns as by a circle to that from which it came.

Ang. Idea 1. The Divine which proceeds was effigied by golden or lucid circles round the head of God.

Circuit. *Circuitus. Circuitio.

A. 2936^e. This outermost is called the circuit.

2973². In the Word are mentioned 'the midst' and 'the circuit.' When Canaan is treated of . . . 'the circuit' was where the surrounding nations were.

—³. 'The circuit'=what is outermost.

—⁴. With man . . . from the inmost the Lord rules those things which are in his circuits ; and when man suffers the Lord to dispose the circuits to correspondence with the inmost things, he is in a state in which he can receive Heaven . . . But when the man does not suffer the Lord to dispose the circuits to correspondence, the man recedes from Heaven in the same proportion.

— The body is in the circuit . . .

6607. Circuits * in the brain.

8870³. Those who are in the circuits of Heaven . . .

D. 2438. On the circuit of evil. 2776.

E. 269. 'A rainbow round about the throne' (Rev. iv.3)=Divine truth round about.

283. 'Six wings about him' (ver.8) = the Divine Spiritual around it.

340¹². 'The circuit' (Ezek.xxxiv.26)=that which is outside or below.

449². 'The circuits of Jerusalem' (Jer.xvii.26)=truths of doctrine in the natural man.

644¹⁴. 'The circuits of the hill of Jehovah' (Ezek. xxxiv.26)=all who are in truths of doctrine and thence in the good of charity.

650⁴⁶. 'Gathered from every side' (Ezek.xxxix.17)=all in whatever state . . .

695²⁹. 'From every side' (Ezek.xvi.33)=from everywhere.

Circulate. Circulare.

Circulation. Circulatio.

A. 6607. Thoughts with affections . . . circulate almost according to the form of the circumvolutions of the cineritious substance in the human brain . . .

6948⁴. The long dispute about the circulation of the blood.

M. 78⁸. It decreased according to the circulation.

T. 577². Thence is the circulation (of the blood).

Circumcise. Circumcidere.

Circumcision. Circumcisio.

See FORESKIN.

A. 1025⁵. Circumcision was the covenant here treated of, by which is meant circumcision of the heart, which is that of those who are in love; circumcision was a representative of regeneration through love. Ill.

— Wherefore wherever 'circumcision' is mentioned, nothing else is meant than love and charity, and thence life.

1038⁷. Why the sabbath and circumcision are called 'signs of the covenant.' Ill.

1986. That man must first remove loves and their filthy cupidities, and thus be purified, is what is represented by circumcision.

2039. 'Every male to be circumcised' (Gen.xvii.10)=purity . . . Circumcision, or the cutting off of the foreskin, signified the removal of those things which hinder and defile heavenly love, and which are evils of cupidities, especially of the cupidities of self-love, and the falsities thence. Ex.

—². That circumcision is only a sign of a covenant or of conjunction, is evident from the fact, that the circumcision of the foreskin is nothing at all without the circumcision of the heart; and that it is the circumcision of the heart, which is purification from those filthy loves, which is signified. Ill. 6804¹¹.

—⁷. When the Angels have the idea of purification from filthy natural things, with extreme rapidity there is represented something like circumcision in the World of Spirits . . . They with whom this rapid circumcision was represented in the World of Spirits were wanting to be admitted into Heaven, and before they were admitted this was represented. Hence it is evident why command was given to Joshua that the people should be circumcised, when having crossed the Jordan, they were entering Canaan. (Josh.v.)

2041. 'Ye shall circumcise the flesh of your foreskin' (ver.11)=the removal of the love of self and of the world. 'Circumcision'=purification from filthy loves. 2042. 2044. 2045.

2051. 'Circumcising shall be circumcised' (ver.13)=that they shall completely remove from themselves the loves of self and of the world. . . 'Circumcision'=purification from the loves of self and of the world.

2057. 'He who is not circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin' (ver.14)=him who is in self-love. Ex.

2102. 'He circumcised the flesh of their foreskin' (ver.23)=their purification and righteousness from the Lord. 'To be circumcised'=to be purified from the loves of self and of the world.

2107. 'In his circumcising the flesh of his foreskin' (ver.24)=when He entirely expelled the evils of the external man. 'To be circumcised'=to be purified from the loves of self and of the world, or what is the same, from evils, for all evils are thence. 2110.

2112. 'Abraham was circumcised, and Ishmael his son' (ver.26)=that when the Lord conjoined His human essence with His Divine essence, He also conjoined with Himself all others who become rational by truth, and saved them. . . 'To be circumcised'=to be purified, and when predicated of the Lord, =to be glorified.

2116. 'They were circumcised by him' (ver.27)=that they were justified by the Lord. 'To be circumcised'=to be purified.

2632. 'Abraham circumcised Isaac his son' (Gen.xxi.4)=the purification of the Rational.

—². 'Circumcision in the Ancient Church represented that man was to be purified from the loves of self and of the world . . . 2634. 2799⁸.

4462. The word circumcision was used to distinguish between those who were of the Church and those who were not, for circumcision=recession from filthy loves . . . and accession to heavenly loves . . . thus accession to the Church.

—². The Most Ancient Church knew nothing of circumcision, but only the Ancient Church; from this Church circumcision emanated to many nations, and was enjoined on Abraham and his descendants not as anything new . . . and became to them a sign that they were of the Church . . . Circumcision, however, was only a sign representative of purification from the love of self and of the world; on being purified from which they are spiritually circumcised, and are said to be circumcised as to the heart. Ill.

4486. 'In the circumcising of every male, as they are circumcised' (Gen.xxxiv.22)=if they were initiated thereby in the representatives of these things as to mere externals. 'To be circumcised'=an external representative, a sign that they were of the Church.

4489⁸. Hamor and Shechem sinned enormously in receiving circumcision. Ex.

4493. 'They circumcised every male, all that went out of the gate of his city' (ver.24)=accession to external things.

4496. The 'pain' after circumcision=cupidity. Ex.

7044. The reason circumcision was done with knives of stone=that purification from filthy loves should be effected through truths of faith. Ex. 9088². E.701²⁵.

7049. 'A bridegroom of bloods for the circumcisions' (Ex.iv.26)=that although the internal was full of violence and hostility to truth and good, still circumcision was to be received as a sign representative of purification from filthy loves. 8000.

8009. 'Let all his males be circumcised' (Ex.xii.48)=that his truth is to be purified from impure loves.

[A.] 9088². Circumcision signified purification from these filthy loves.

9272⁴. Wherefore it is said that they should 'circumcise themselves to Jehovah, and remove the foreskins of the heart' (Jer.iv.4), that is, that they should purify themselves from such things as suffocate or render unfruitful the truths and goods of faith. Refs.

F. 51. By those who are circumcised are meant those who are in spiritual love.

54. That by 'circumcision' was represented purification from the evils which are of merely natural love, is evident from these passages. Ill.

—. 'To circumcise the heart' or 'the foreskin of the heart' (Jer.iv.4; Deut.x.16)=to purify themselves from evils.

T. 674. Baptism was instituted in place of circumcision, because by the circumcision of the foreskin was represented the circumcision of the heart . . . Gen.art.

—. The primary thing which distinguished the Israelitish Church from the other Churches in the Asiatic world, and afterwards from the Christian Church, was circumcision.

—. Circumcision signified the rejection of the concupiscences of the flesh, and thus purification from evils . . . 675³. Ill.

675. That circumcision was instituted as a sign that the men of the Israelitish Church were of the posterity of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Ill.

E. 109⁶. As fruits signified the goods of life with man . . . it was commanded that the fruits of trees . . . should be circumcised (Lev.xix.23,24,25).

709²⁵. The reason a covenant was made by circumcision, was that circumcision represented purification from the loves of self and of the world, which are corporeal and earthly loves, and their removal.

Circumference. Circumferentia.

A. 1624. A very bright light encompassed with a kind of circumference . . .

1625. At the circumference . . .

5291¹⁰. The number of the circumference does not answer geometrically to the diameter, yet spiritually it involves that which is signified by the compass of that vessel.

T. 268°. The nations in Asia and the Indies constitute the last circumference.

Circumference. Peripheria, Peripheries.

A. 2657³. The things which do not agree . . . are rejected as it were to the circumference.

2940. Those things which are not good are presented at the circumference.

3089°. At last falsities and evils are removed, and are cast as it were into the circumference . . .

3436°. Falsities are thus withheld as it were in the circumferences . . . But with those who are not in the good of life . . . truths hold the circuits, or circumferences. 4552².

3833². Man then proceeds from the good and truth which he believes and perceives, as from the centre to the circumferences . . . And then, as from new centres, he brings forth new circumferences.

3993¹². Deceit . . . sets evil in the midst, and rejects good to the circumferences.

—¹³. The evils with which goods are mingled, and the falsities with which truths are mingled, are wonderfully disposed into order by the Lord . . . so that goods with truths are in the midst, and by degrees towards the circuits or circumferences, are such evils and falsities.

4482³. They who are in a like degree of good are also in a like degree of truth, and are thus as it were at a like distance, or, so to speak, at the same circumference. Hence 'breadth' is predicated of truths.

4552². Fallacious truths are at the exterior circumferences . . . The outermost circumferences are the lowest things of the Natural.

4564². Both hereditary and actual evil . . . are only separated, and through disposition by the Lord, rejected into the circumferences. Ex. 5134².

5530. The truths with man are disposed in series . . . Those which do not at all agree with the loves, are rejected to the last circumferences.

6084². What is kept directly before the sight is in the centre . . . the rest are around in the circumferences . . .

6451². Exterior things make the circumferences . . .

6604°. Then the rest of the Societies are, for him, at the circumferences.

7542². In the other life, these things are evolved according to the order in which they have been arranged: first come forth those things which hold the last circumferences . . .

P. 79². These goods . . . remove evils towards the circumferences, further and further, according to the aversion for them . . .

86. Thus the goods in the circumferences with the evil are defiled by the evils of the centre; and the evils in the circumferences with the good are made mild by the goods of the centre.

T. 214. Simultaneous order is like a work cohering with the circumferences from the centre even to the last surface.

D. Wis. xii. 5³. The Sun of Heaven is the common centre of the universe, and all things of it are circumferences and circumferences even to the last one . . .

Circumgyrate. Circumgyrare.

Circumgyration. Circumgyratio.

A. 2602. The universe, which they believe to circumgyrate . . .

5812⁴. The sun of Heaven . . . does not produce these states by any circumgyration. 7381⁴.

W. 270°. An evil Spirit cannot circumgyrate his body from left to right, but from right to left; but a good Spirit can with difficulty circumgyrate his body from right to left, but easily from right to left; the circumgyration follows the flux of the interiors which are of the mind.

D. 155⁴. I have been able to feel such circumgyrations . . . upon me . . .

4298. They were punished by . . . circumgyration. Des.

Circumrotate. Circumrotare.

Circumrotation. Circumrotatio.

A. 829. Their punishment is . . . that they are circumrotated rapidly like a roll, from left to right . . . 5188². D. 1485. 1806. 4309. 4714. De Conj. 127.

6110⁴. The earth, by its circumrotation, turns itself from the sun . . .

D. 1183. They are beautifully circumrotated . . .

1259². There, sitting on a seat, he was circumrotated, which signified that he was versatile.

4087^e. Hence come . . . bodily progressions, circumrotations, etc.

4327. A new kind of punishment by circumrotation.

Circumspection. Circumspectio.

To exercise Circumspection. Circumspicere.

A. 197. 'A serpent,' with the most ancients, signified circumspection . . .

—'. 'The brazen serpent' = the Lord's Sensual . . . Who alone exercises circumspection and provides for all.

3901⁵. The face of an eagle = circumspection, and thence Providence.

6398². The very sagacity and circumspection which comes forth in externals, is signified by 'serpents.'

R. 561. The Divine circumspection for the New Church. Sig.

M. 194. The innate circumspection of wives.

E. 281². 'He placed it circumspectly' (Ezek. xvii. 5) = multiplication. . . 'To place it circumspectly' = to separate from falsities.

Circumstance. Circumstantia.

A. 2481. Describing . . . with many circumstances . . . 2482. 2483^e.

7298^e. According to circumstances.

H. 462⁸. All the circumstances appear together.

M. 166. It does not become me to open these things as to the circumstances.

485. Circumstances . . . vary the case. D. 60 (Index). 2537 (Index).

487^e. They cannot be judged from these circumstances . . .

530. There are various circumstances in the world that mitigate . . . and that aggravate crimes.

D. 622. They permitted him to punish according to the circumstances.

3537. Although circumstances vary truths, they do not take them away. Examps.

4312. On those who inhere in general truth without application to circumstances. Examp.

Circumvolution. Circumvolutio.

A. 4040. There appear in the brain . . . wonderful circumvolutions and gyres . . . 4041. 6607.

7381³. By apparent circumvolutions the sun appears to make day and night . . .

—⁴. But the Sun of Heaven . . . does not make circumgyrations and circumvolutions.

D. 1664. He was revolved . . . 1696. 1763. 1806.

Circus. Circus.

H. 223. In the form of a circus.

R. 484⁷. Lo, there was a circus, and in the middle of it a pulpit.

655. I saw an amphitheatre erected in the form of a circus . . .

—'. I saw as it were bullocks, sheep, etc., let into the area of the circus . . .

961. I saw the Angels standing in the form of a circus . . .

M. 183. In the middle there was a grassy circus.

Cistern. Cisterna.

See Prr.

A. 5180. The latter and the former are they who belong to the province of the cistern and ducts of the chyle.

P. 164⁶. As the chyle is carried through the mesentery and the lacteal vessels there into the receptacle . . .

2961⁴. The chyle conveyed through the thoracic duct from its receptacle in the mesentery . . .

T. 814. Thought is like a water-course, and the speech thence is like a cistern.

E. 617¹³. 'Cisterns dug' (Deut. vi. 11) = the interiors of the natural mind full of the Knowledges of good and truth.

6381⁴. 'Cisterns cut out' (Deut. vi. 11) = all things of intelligence in the natural man, which are Knowledges and knowledges.

Citizen. Cives.

A. 1121^e. Such are received as citizens everywhere in the earth, as they are also in the other life.

1125^e. Like good citizens.

8257^e. This life causes a man to be a citizen of the world; the former, a citizen of Heaven.

Life 12. Through this good, and according to it, is man a citizen in the Spiritual World.

P. 322². The difference is that the latter is not only a good citizen of an earthly kingdom, but is also a good citizen of the heavenly kingdom; whereas the former is a good citizen of an earthly kingdom, but not of the heavenly kingdom.

Citron. Citrus. A. 8603². T. 78. 94².

City. Civitas.

See under CITY—urbs.

A. 402. 'The holy city,' which is also called 'the holy Jerusalem' = the Lord's Kingdom in universal, or in each person in particular. In like manner 'the city,' or 'mount of Zion'; the latter=what is celestial of faith, the former, what is spiritual of faith. What is celestial and spiritual itself is also described by 'cities,' etc. Ill.

[A. 402]³. As the celestial and spiritual things of faith are represented by 'a city,' so all doctrinal things are signified by the cities of Judah and Israel . . .

1530. 'The city has no need of the sun.'

1532. 'The holy city.'

2943². Hence 'the city of God,' and 'the holy city'=faith in the Lord.

— As 'a city-urbs,' or 'city'=faith . . .

3272³. 'The holy city'=the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom. 5044⁸.

4411. When this truth inflows into the first Heaven . . . it appears as a paradise, and elsewhere as a city containing palaces.

4434². 'The holy city,' and 'the New Jerusalem'=the Church.

— 'A city'=the truth of the Church. Refs.

5297. The truths and goods with a man form as it were a city; hence the man himself, in whom is the Church, is called 'the city of God.'

— A house, with its chambers, etc., is a city in the least form.

5321⁹. 'The city which shall be inhabited for ever' (Jer.xvii.25) is not Jerusalem, but is the Lord's Church, which is signified by Jerusalem.

5427². There appeared to me a great city . . .

H. 184. Arranged in the form of a city.

307². 'The city Jerusalem descending from God out of heaven'=its heavenly doctrine revealed by the Lord.

J. 27². As men dwell in cities . . .

— As from a village into a great city . . .

L. 64. 'The holy city'=the doctrine of Divine truth from the Lord.

W. 367^o. As in a city, commonwealth, and kingdom . . .

R. 489. 'The holy city they shall tread under foot forty-two months' (Rev.xi.2)=that it will disperse all the truth of the Word until there is not anything remaining.

— 'The holy city,' or 'city-urbs'=means the holy Jerusalem. . . 'To tread that city under foot'=to disperse the truths of its doctrine.

M. 77². An extensive and spacious city (of the copper age in Heaven). Des.

D. 5792. The ascent is by means of stairs from one city into the other.

E. 223. 'The name of the city of my God' (Rev.iii.12)=the doctrine of the New Church.

— 'The city of my God'=the doctrine of Divine truth. Ex.

City. Urbs.

A. 402. 'The city' built by Cain (Gen.iv.17)=everything doctrinal and heretical thence. Wherever the name of any city occurs in the Word, it never signifies a city, but something doctrinal, or heretical; for the Angels are completely ignorant what a city is, or the name of any city; they never have any idea of a city, nor can have . . . but only perceive what they signify. Ill. 1187. 1191.

793. 'City' belongs to the class of spiritual expressions.

940^o. Cities in the Spiritual World. 941. 942.

1191. 'This city is that great one' (Gen.x.12)=doctrinal things, that they prevailed . . . The reason it is called 'a great city,' is that all falsity of doctrine and of worship thence is derived into falsity of life.

1259⁴. 'Cities'=truths.

1304. 'Let us build us a city and a tower' (Gen.xi.4)=that they invented a doctrine and a worship.

1305. 'A city'=doctrine, or what is doctrinal, both genuine and heretical.

1324. 'They ceased to build the city' (ver.8)=that such doctrine was not received. 'City'=doctrine.

1358. At that time cities were families which dwelt together.

1597. 'Lot dwelt in the cities of the plain' (Gen.xiii.12)=that the external man was in scientifics. 'A city,' or 'cities'=doctrinal things, which in themselves are nothing but scientifics, when predicated of the external man separated from the internal. 'Cities'=doctrinal things, both true and false.

1626. The cities in Heaven described.

1664⁵. 'The city of praise and of joy' (Jer.xlix.25)=the things which are of the Church.

2252. 'Peradventure there be fifty righteous in the midst of the city' (Gen.xviii.24)=that truths may be full of goods. . . 'City'=truth. 2261. 2268.

2268. The human mind as to truths is compared in the Word to 'a city,' and is also called 'a city'; and as to the goods which are in the truths, it is compared to the inhabitants therein. . . Truths in the memory without goods, are like a city without inhabitants. 2712.

2309. I saw little boys fighting in the streets of a great city . . . H.344.

2346. 'The men of the city' (Gen.xix.4)=those who are in falsities. . . 'City'=truths, also falsities or things contrary to truths.

2392. 'Everyone who is in the city' (ver.12)=whatever derives anything from truth. . . 'City'=what is doctrinal, thus truth in its complex.

2408. 'Lest thou be consumed in the iniquity of the city' (ver.15)=lest they perish in evils of falsity. 'City'=what is doctrinal, false as well as true.

2413. 'They set him without the city' (ver.16)=away from falsity.

2417. 'Look not behind thee' (ver.17)=that he should not look to doctrinal things; for the city was behind him, and the mountain before him. 'A city'=what is doctrinal. 2418.

2418^e. The doctrinal things of charity are called 'the cities of the mountain,' and the doctrinal things of faith, 'the cities of the plain' (Jer.xxxiii.13).

2428. 'This city is near to flee to' (Gen.xix.20)=that it was allowable from the truth of faith. 'City'=what is doctrinal, thus the truth of faith. 2429. 2430. 2435.

2449. 'He overthrew those cities' (ver.25)=all truths separated from them, so that they had only falsities. 'Cities'=doctrinal things, thus truths, which are said to be 'overthrown,' when there are falsities instead of truths. . .

2456. 'When God destroyed the cities of the plain' (ver.29)=when they perished through falsities of evil.

2468⁷. They suffer themselves to imbue falsities, wherefore it is said, 'the cities of Moab shall be for a desolation,' and 'they shall leave the cities, and dwell in the rocks' (Jer.xlviii.9,28).

2485. By the interior sight he was led by me through the cities where I had been. . . D.1933.

2547⁸. 'City against city' (Is.ix.2). 'City'=what is doctrinal; here, what is heretical.

2723². Because the doctrine is thus made fit for human apprehension, the well Beersheba . . . is called 'a city.' 'A city'=what is doctrinal in its complex.

2826⁵. 'A city'=doctrinal truth.

2851³. The rational mind, from the goods and truths therein, is in the Word compared to 'a city,' and is called 'a city' . . .

—6. 'A city'=the rational mind, or, what is the same, the goods and truths therein. Refs.

—7. 'The city of emptiness shall be broken' (Is. xxiv.10)=the human mind deprived of truth.

2943. 'To all that went in at the gate of his city' (Gen.xxiii.10)=as to the doctrinal things through which is faith. . . 'City'=the truth which is of faith.

—In the Ancient Church, cities were not such cities as there were afterwards, that is, companies and congregations, but were cohabitations of separate families; the family of one parent constituted a city. Examp. 4478.

—2. As nations and families represented the heavenly Societies, thus those things which are of love and charity, when a city is mentioned instead of the family, there is signified the truth which is of faith. Hence 'the city-civitas' of God, and 'the holy city-civitas,' in the genuine sense, =faith in the Lord; and as 'a city,' or 'a city-civitas' =faith, 'the gate of a city' =doctrinal things, because these introduce to faith.

3052. 'To the city of Nahor' (Gen.xxiv.10)=cognate doctrinal things. 'A city'=what is doctrinal.

3055. 'Outside the city' (ver.11)=removal from doctrinal things.

3066. 'The men of the city' (ver.13)=truths.

—The inhabitants of a city are in the Word sometimes called 'the men of the city,' sometimes 'the inhabitants of the city;' when they are called 'the men of the city,' truths are signified; when 'the inhabitants,' goods are signified.

3077. 'Rebekah came out' (ver.15)=the affection of truth from doctrinal things. . . For she came out of the city, and by 'a city' are signified doctrinal things.

3216. When the Angels are conversing about the doctrinal things of charity and of faith, there sometimes appears in the lower sphere, where there is a corresponding Society of Spirits, the idea of a city, or of cities, with palaces therein. . . Hence it is evident what is signified by the cities seen by the prophets. . .

3322³. 'A city'=what is doctrinal.

3466. 'The name of the city Beersheba' (Gen.xxvi.33) =the quality of the doctrine thence. . . 'City'=doctrine.

3708⁵. Of those who are in ignorance of both good and truth, it is said that 'they found no city of habitation' (Ps.cvii.4).

3730. 'City'=what is doctrinal of truth.

4169². 'The cities of the Samaritans' (Matt.x.5)=those who are in falsities.

4396. 'He encamped at the face of the city' (Gen. xxxiii.18) =application to the goods of that truth. 'City'=truth.

4478. 'The men of the city' (Gen.xxxiv.20)=those who are in truths of doctrine.

4500. 'They came upon the city confidently, and killed every male' (ver.25)=that they extirpated the truths of doctrine of the Church with the ancients. 'City'=the doctrine which is of the Church. 4503.

4507. 'They took whatever was in the city, and whatever was in the field' (ver.28)=all the truth and good of the Church. 'City'=what is doctrinal, thus the truth of the Church.

4555. 'The terror of God was upon the cities that were round about them' (Gen.xxxv.5)=that falsities and evils could not approach. . . 'The cities round about them'=falsities and evils; for in the genuine sense, 'cities'=truths of doctrine; and in the opposite, falsities of doctrine. The reason evils are also signified here by 'city,' is that the inhabitants also are understood.

4581⁹. 'To burn the city' (Jer.xxxii.29)=to destroy and vastate those who are in doctrinal things of falsity.

4926⁵. 'The breaches of the city of David' (Is.xxii.9) =falsities of doctrine.

5117⁷. 'To build the waste cities' (Amos ix.14)=to rectify the falsified doctrinal things of truth.

5135⁹. 'The city through which they are said to run to and fro' (Joel ii.9)=doctrinal things of truth.

5297. 'Food in the cities' (Gen.xli.35)=such things in the interiors of the natural mind. . . 'Cities'=the interiors of the natural mind. In the universal sense, 'cities'=the doctrinal things of the Church (Refs.); but in the singular sense, they=the interiors of man, where doctrinal things are, or rather where truths are conjoined with good. The truths and goods with man form as it were a city-civitem. Ex. and III.

5342. 'He laid up the food in the cities' (ver.48)=in the interiors, namely, truths adjoined to good. 'Cities'=the interiors of the natural mind.

5774. 'They laden every man upon his ass, and returned to the city' (Gen.xliv.13)=that from sensuous things truths were brought back into scientifics. . . 'City'=doctrinal truth.

6015⁴. 'The city, and them that dwell therein' (Jer. xlvii.2)=the truth of the city, and thence good. 6297.

6146. 'He removed that people to cities' (Gen.xlvii.21) =that scientific truths were referred to doctrinal things. . . 'Cities'=doctrinal things.

[A.] 6200°. When I thought of any city . . . the Spirits knew in a moment all things I had seen there . . .

6419. Hence in the Word the things of the Church are compared to 'a city' . . . and by the assaults upon that city are described attacks upon truth by falsities ; wherefore also 'a city'=doctrinal things.

6661. 'He built cities of storehouses for Pharaoh' (Ex.i.11)=doctrines from falsified truths in the natural where were alienated scientifics. 'Cities'=doctrines in both senses.

6693°. 'To destroy the city' (Jer.xlvi.8)=to destroy the doctrine of the Church.

6978°. 'The city of bloods' (Nahum.iii.1)=the doctrine of falsity.

7102°. 'Cities'=falsities by which they defend evils.

7297°. 'The city of bloods'=the falsification of truth.

—°. 'The cities of the land which are to be cut off' (Mic.v.11)=the truths of the Church.

7437°. When evil is compared to 'a city,' falsities are compared to the fortifications around the city.

7595. 'As I go out of the city' (Ex.ix.29)=separation . . . The 'city' where Pharaoh was=the falsity in which are they who infest ; for 'a city'=what is doctrinal, and as it=what is doctrinal, it also=truth, and in the opposite sense, falsity. Refs.

8018°. Heaven is signified by 'the holy city.'

8096°. Their habitation is a kind of city . . .

8902¹⁶. 'City'=the doctrine of truth. Refs. 9594°. 9643⁴.

8906°. 'City'=doctrine itself.

8954. There are no cities in Saturn.

9039°. The 'cities' over which they who had gained pounds should have Power=truths of faith, and thence intelligence and wisdom.

9188°. 'The cities of the land' (Mic.v.11)=the false doctrinal things of their Church.

9193°. 'The cities' which were to be accursed (Deut. xiii.15,16)=false doctrines. —°.

9262°. 'The city' nearest the slain man (Deut.xxi.2) =the truth of doctrine of the Church whose good is extinguished.

9340°. 'The city of God' (Ps.lxxxvii.3)=the doctrine of truth of faith from the Word.

9496°. 'Cities' (Hos.xi.6)=doctrinal things. 9755⁷.

9594°. 'The city which was to be built upon its own heap' (Jer.xxx.18)=the doctrine of truth.

10105⁴. 'The city of bloods' (Ezek.xxiv.6)=the Jewish nation relatively to the truth of doctrine with itself ; thus abstractedly, the doctrine which destroys good.

10199°. 'The city of spice dealers' (Ezek.xvii.4)=where the doctrine of interior truth is.

10813°. When I showed him the city in which I dwelt, he fled away . . . D.5513r, Ex. —t.

N. 1⁴. 'Cities' and 'cities-civitates'=the doctrines which are of the Church and of religion. Refs.

J. 58°. (A great city of the Papists in the south, and another in the north, at the time of the Last Judgment.)

61. (The Judgment upon those who dwelt in these great cities, described.) E.880.

C. J. 42. There are two great cities like London, into which very many of the English come after death. Des. 43.

51. The cities in which the Dutch dwell are guarded in a singular way. Des.

—°. Wives who aspire at command over their husbands dwell at one side of the city . . .

79. In the northern quarter there are two great cities, into which the Jews are brought after death, and which before the Judgment they called Jerusalems, but by another name after it . . . The streets of these cities are full of filth ankle-deep . . . D.750,751. 748. .

R. 194. 'The name of the city of my God, New Jerusalem' (Rev.iii.12)=that the doctrine of the New Church shall be written on hearts.

—°. The reason 'a city'=doctrine, is that 'land,' specifically, 'the Land of Canaan'=the Church in the whole complex ; and hence by the inheritances into which the Land of Canaan was divided, are signified various things of the Church, and by the cities in them, doctrinal things ; it is from this fact that by 'cities,' when mentioned in the Word, nothing else is understood by the Angels.

—°. That 'cities'=doctrinal things. Ill.

—°. 'Have thou authority over ten cities' (Luke xix.17). By 'cities' here also, are signified doctrinal things, or truths of doctrine ; and by 'being over them' is signified to be intelligent and wise ; thus 'to give authority over them'=to give intelligence and wisdom. E.112°. 223²³. 548⁴. 675⁷.

501. 'The street of the great city' (Rev.xi.8)=the falsity of the doctrine of justification by faith alone . . . 'City'=doctrine. It is called 'the great city,' because it is the reigning doctrine with the clergy in the whole of the Reformed Christian world . . .

595. 'The tenth part of the city fell' (Rev.xi.13)=their separation from Heaven and descent into Hell.

—°. The cities in the Spiritual World which are in evils and falsities, after those who dwell in them have been visited . . . are shaken by an earthquake, which opens a gulf into which they descend . . . It so happened with this city.

655⁴. They said . . . this was a sign that one of the Jerusalemite cities, where charity was the primary, was near ; and they said, Let us go and take the city . . . But there was a wall round it, and guardian Angels on the wall. Then they said, Let us take it by stratagem . . .

—°. Then they said . . . Let us lay siege to this city . . . This is what is meant by these words in the Revelation . . . 'They compassed the camp of the saints about, and the beloved city' (xx.9).

712. 'The great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell' (Rev.xvi.19)=that that Church as to its doctrine is utterly destroyed thereby, and in like manner all the heresies which have emanated from it . . . 'A city'=the doctrine of the Church, or, what is the same thing, the Church as to doctrine. Refs. Therefore 'the cities of the nations'= the heretical doctrines, or heresies, which have emanated from it, and which are many. . . 'The great city' means 'the great city' spoken of in chap.xi.8, which is there called 'Sodom and Egypt.'

— The reason 'a city' = doctrine, and thence 'cities,' doctrinal things, is that by 'land,' specifically, by 'the Land of Canaan' is signified the Church; and as the Church is the Church from doctrine and according to it, by 'cities' are signified doctrinal things; these were also taught in cities, because there were the synagogues, and in Jerusalem was the temple. See E.1019. 1020.

751^e. 'The woman whom thou sawest is that great city, which has a kingdom over the Kings of the earth' (Rev.xvii.18)=that the Roman Catholic religion as to doctrine will reign in the Christian world, and partly also with the Reformed. See E.1088.

769. 'Alas, alas, that great city Babylon, that mighty city, for in one hour is thy judgment come' (Rev.xviii.10) =their grievous lamentation that this religiosity, so strongly fortified, could be so suddenly and so utterly overthrown. . . 'That great city Babylon' = that religiosity. . . 'That mighty city' = that religiosity so well fortified. 788. E.1134.

785. 'That great city' (ver.16)=the Roman Catholic religiosity. . .

787. 'What city is like unto this great city' (ver.18) =that they believed their religiosity to be pre-eminent to every religion in the world. E.1174. 1176.

861. 'They compassed the camp of the saints about, and the beloved city' (Rev.xx.9)=that they endeavoured to destroy all things of the New Church, and its very doctrine concerning the Lord, and concerning life. . . 'The beloved city' = the doctrine of the New Church. 862.

879. 'I, John, saw the holy city, New Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven' (Rev.xxi.2)=a New Church to be established by the Lord at the end of the former, which will be consociated with the new Heaven in Divine truths both as to doctrine and as to life. . . It is called 'a city,' and is described as 'a city,' from doctrine and from life according to it.

896. 'He showed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God' (ver.10) =that before him was made manifest the Lord's New Church as to doctrine in the form of a city.

—². The reason it was seen in the form of a city, is that 'a city' = doctrine, and the Church is the Church from doctrine and from life according thereto. It was also seen as a city in order that it might be described as to all its quality. . .

902. 'The wall of the city' (ver.14)=the Word in the sense of the letter.

904. 'The city,' which was the holy Jerusalem, = the Church as to doctrine.

905. 'The city lieth four-square' (ver.16)=righteousness in it.

912. 'The city,' or Jerusalem, (ver.18)=the Lord's New Church as to everything belonging to it interiorly considered, or within the wall.

917^e. 'The street of the city' (ver.21)=the truth of the doctrine of the Church.

919. 'The city had no need of the sun' (ver.23)=that the men of that Church will not be in self-love.

951. 'To enter through the gates into the city' (Rev. xxii.14)=to be in the Lord's New Church through Knowledges concerning Him. . . By 'the city,' or Jerusalem, is signified the New Church with its doctrine.

958². 'To take away their part out of the holy city' (ver.19)=out of the New Church, which is the holy Jerusalem.

M. 9. He introduced them into a little city, in the midst of which was a temple, and all the houses of which were called sacred edifices. . . They said that this city was the court of Heaven.

17². The whole city (in Heaven) is then silent.

76³. At last we saw a city (in the Heaven of the silver age) . . . its houses were all palaces. . .

78³. A valley (in the Heaven of the iron age) in which there were cities and cities. . . We entered one great one; its streets were irregular; so were the houses; the latter were built of brick, with beams between, and plastered over. . .

79⁴. There were here and there cottages, which at last appeared to meet, and to be joined together in the form of a city; we entered this city (of the Spirits of the age of iron mixed with clay), and lo, the houses were built of scorched branches of trees, cemented together with mud, and roofed with black slates; the streets were irregular; all of them at the entrance were narrow, but they widened out as we advanced, and at the end were spacious, where were the places of public resort. . .

D. 843. (On a city with very lofty buildings; a city of phantasy.) D.847. 853.

4052. A splendid city, as white as snow, described, where those live who are in the persuasion that faith saves; but live mercifully from conscience.

4554. On a great city.

4699. On a city where was faith alone.

— The city was preserved by the presence of some good Spirits in it.

4920. A great city seen in Hell.

4926. The cities in which the evil Spirits dwelt before the Last Judgment, and their subsidence. 4927. 4930. 4944. 5034.

4986. The arrangement of the good and evil in the cities there. 4987.

5017. On the Dutch cities. J.(Post.)19.

5092. On the cities in the other life, and on the Lord's Providence in preserving them.

— Cities appear to Spirits like the cities on earth; hence there are London, Amsterdam, Stockholm, and all others; the reason is, that every man has Spirits with him, who possess all the things of his memory; they do not indeed see the world through his eyes, but still they are inwardly in it from his ideas; hence ideas of similar houses, edifices, streets, and cities appear to them ; and so appear as to be as it were them . . . Hence it is that the Spirits who are with the men of one city, have an idea of the same city.

[D.] 5093. There was a conspiracy in a city in which I was. (How it was suppressed.)

5249. Cities there one below another. J.(Post.)19.

5269. On a great city (of Babylon) there, between the north and the west. 5305.

5278. A plan of this city given.

5280. On another great city (Babylon) between the west and the south.

5531. (How it is that in a city there are many who are invisible to the rest.)

5711. On the cities in the other life (Stockholm, London). J.(Post.)12. Des.

E. 63¹¹. 'Cities'=the doctrinal things of the Church. Refs.

13⁹. 'Famine within the city' (Jer.xiv.18)=the lack of all truth in doctrine.

219². 'A fortified city' (Jer.i.18)=the doctrine of truth.

220¹². 'The city' (Is.lxvi.6)=the doctrine of truth.

223². That 'cities=civitates,' or 'cities'=doctrines. III.

—, 'I have given thee for a fortified city' (Jer.i.18)=the doctrine of truth protecting from falsities.

—, 'The cities of the south are shut up' (Jer.xiii.19)=that all the truths of doctrine are, which otherwise would be in light.

—³. The vastation of the Church as to doctrine is meant by 'Thou hast made of the city a heap, of the fortified city a ruin, a palace of strangers of the city ;' and the establishment of a New Church as to doctrine, is meant by 'the strong people shall honour Thee, and the city of the mighty nations shall fear Thee' (Is.xxv.2,3).

—, 'A strong city' (Is.xxvi.1)=the doctrine of genuine truth, which falsities cannot destroy.

—⁴. 'Lucifer . . . made the world as a wilderness, and destroyed the cities thereof' (Is.xiv.17)=that he destroyed the Church and its doctrinal things.

—, The doctrine of falsities of Babylon is what is meant by 'the city being broken into three parts ;' and the doctrine of evils thence, by 'the cities of the nations which fell' (Rev.xvi.19).

—⁵. 'Not to find a city of habitation' (Ps.cvii.4)=no doctrine of truth according to which they could live.

—, 'Cities' (Is.vi.11)=truths of doctrine.

—⁶. 'The city' (Is.xxiv.10,12)=the truth of doctrine.

—⁷. 'To devastate the cities' (Zeph.iii.6)=to devastate doctrines.

—, 'Cities' (Jer.iv.7)=truths of doctrine.

—⁸. 'The city,' which here is Jerusalem, (Jer.xvii.24,25)=the Church as to doctrine.

—⁹. 'Jerusalem'=the celestial Church as to the doctrine of truth ; hence it is that it is called 'the city of truth' (Zech.viii.3).

—¹⁰. As 'Zion'=the celestial Church, and 'Jerusalem,' the Church as to the doctrine of truth, Zion is called 'the city of Jehovah ;' and Jerusalem, 'the holy city,' 'the city of God,' and 'the city of the great King.' III.

—¹². Doctrine which is from the Lord is meant by,

'saying to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be inhabited ; and to the cities of Judah, Ye shall be built' (Is.xliv.26).

—¹³. 'The cities of Judah, and the streets of Jerusalem' (Jer.vii.17)=the truths of doctrine.

—¹⁴. 'City against city, and kingdom against kingdom' (Is.xix.2)=that doctrine will fight against doctrine, and Church against Church.

—, 'Five cities in the Land of Egypt speaking with the lip of Canaan' (ver.18)=the truths of doctrine in abundance which are the genuine truths of the Church.

—¹⁵. 'To loathe the cities' (Is.xxxiii.8)=to loathe the truths of doctrine.

—¹⁶. 'The cities which shall be inhabited' (Is.liv.3)=doctrines derived from goods.

—¹⁷. 'The cities of Judah,' and 'the cities of the mount' (Jer.xxxii.44 ; xxxiii.4)=the truths of doctrine which are with those who are of the Lord's Celestial Kingdom ; 'the cities of the plain,' and 'the cities of the south'=the truths of doctrine which are with those who are in the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom.

—¹⁸. 'A city set on a mountain' (Matt.v.14)=the truth of doctrine from the good of love. 405³².

—¹⁹. 'Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation, and every city and house divided against itself shall not stand' (Matt.xii.25) ; 'kingdom'=the Church ; 'city,' and 'house,' its truth and good of doctrine, which do not stand, but fall to pieces, if they do not unanimously agree.

—²⁰. 'A city of the Samaritans into which they were not to enter' (Matt.x.5)=the false doctrine of those who reject the Lord.

—²¹. 'When they persecute you in one city, flee ye into another' (ver.23) ; 'city,' here also, means the doctrine of falsity from evil ; that where it is, the doctrine of truth is not admitted, is meant by, if they were persecuted in one city, they should flee into another.

—²². 'To go into the streets and lanes of the city' (Luke xiv.21)=that they should inquire where they are who receive the truths of doctrine.

240⁸. 'The city of bloods' (Nahum iii.1)=the doctrine of falsity which does violence to the good of charity. 403²³.

280². 'Until the cities be laid waste' (Is.vi.11)=the truths of doctrine.

304¹¹. 'The multitude of the city which shall be left' (Is.xxxii.14)=where there are truths ; for 'city'=the doctrine of truth.

—¹³. 'The cities which he laid waste' (Ezek.xix.7)=doctrine with its truths. —¹⁴.

324²¹. 'Cities' (Jer.xi.13)=the doctrinal things of falsity.

331². The truth of this good is what is meant by 'the city of the mighty nations' (Is.xxv.3) ; for 'a city'=the doctrine of truth, or the truths of doctrine.

342⁵. 'The cities of Judah which He will build' (Ps.lxix.35), means the celestial Church and its doctrine.

355¹⁸. That thence everything of the Church, and everything of its doctrine will perish, is signified by 'the whole land shall be a waste, and the whole city shall flee for the voice of the horsemen and the bowmen' (Jer.iv.27,29). 357²⁰. 411¹⁹.

376²⁰. That the doctrine of falsity will be destroyed, is signified by, 'the city of emptiness is broken' (Is.xxiv.10).

386²¹. 'That they may erect a city of habitation' (Ps.cvii.36)=to make for themselves the doctrine of life; 'a city'=doctrine; and 'habitation,' life.

388¹¹. 'Such a city dwelleth securely, saying in her heart, I and none beside me' (Zeph.ii.15)=that such intelligence trusts in itself, and undertakes from proptrium; 'the city'=doctrine from such intelligence. 650³⁷.

391¹³. 'Five cities in the land of Egypt speaking with the lips of Canaan'=many truths of doctrine which are genuine truths of the Church... 'Cities'=truths of doctrine... 'Each shall be called Ir Heres'=doctrine sparkling from spiritual truths in the Natural, for 'Ir' means 'city,' and 'city'=doctrine... 654⁷.

392¹⁰. 'As a city which coheres together with itself' (Ps.cxxii.3)=the doctrine in which all things are in order.

410⁷. 'The multitude of the city' (Is.xxxii.14)=all the truths of doctrine.

417¹⁰. 'Fortified cities' (Zeph.i.16)=false doctrinal things which they have confirmed.

431⁸. 'Jerusalem,' here,=the Church as to doctrine, which is said to be 'built as a city which coheres together with itself' when all things of its doctrine are in agreement and are unanimous, and when they mutually regard the Lord and love to Him from Him as the beginning and the end. It is said 'built as a city,' because 'a city'=doctrine.

449⁵. 'The cities of Judah' (Jer.xvii.26)=the truths of good.

518²⁶. 'The city of God' (Ps.xlvi.4)=the Church as to doctrine.

532⁸. As then they who, from spiritual affection, long for truth, will not find any truth in doctrines, wherever they seek for it, it is said, 'two or three cities wandered unto one city to drink water, but they were not satisfied; 'two or three cities'=those who are in the affection of truth from good; 'a city'=the truth of doctrine.

538⁴. 'The cities of Judah' (Is.xliv.26)=the goods and truths of doctrine; the restoration of the Church and of doctrine is signified by their being inhabited and built.

556¹². 'Emptiness of teeth in the cities' (Amos.iv.6)=poverty of truth in doctrines.

600¹². 'The desolate cities which the nations shall cause to be inhabited' (Is.liv.3)=truths from the goods of life; 'desolate cities'=the truths of doctrine where before there were no truths.

601¹². 'His cities are burned so that there is no inhabitant' (Jer.ii.15)=the destruction of the doctrinal things of the Church by evils, until there is no good of the Church remaining.

612³. 'The cities of Judah, to which it is said, Behold your God! the Lord Jehovah will come in strength' (Is.xl.9)=doctrinal things from the Word; 'cities,' doctrinal things; and 'Judah,' the Word.

617¹³. 'The cities great and good which shall be given them' (Deut.vi.10)=doctrinal things from genuine goods and truths.

638¹⁴. 'Cities great and good'=doctrinal things which teach the goods of love and of charity.

650⁴⁴. 'The violence of the land, of the city, and of all that dwell therein' (Hab.ii.17)=force brought to bear by falsities upon the truths and goods of the Church, and on its doctrine from the Word.

652. 'Their bodies shall lie upon the street of the great city' (Rev.xi.8)=the extinction by evils and falsities of doctrine... 'A city'=doctrine.

—2. In the Spiritual World there are cities, and streets in them, as in cities in this world, and the quality of everyone is known... from the part in which he dwells...

—7. 'The city of emptiness' (Is.xxiv.10)=the doctrine in which there is no truth, but falsity.

—8. 'The city of glory' (Jer.xlix.25)=the doctrine of Divine truth; 'the city of joy,' the delight from the affection of good and truth there.

—9. 'City' (Ezek.xi.6)=the doctrine of truth.

—11. 'The cities which will be devastated, so that there is no man, or inhabitant' (Zeph.iii.6)=doctrinal things.

—13. 'According to the number of thy cities were thy gods, O Judah' (Jer.xi.13)=as many falsities as doctrinal things.

655⁹. 'To persecute them from city to city'=that from one false doctrine they will wander into another.

659¹⁵. 'The holy city' was Zion and Jerusalem; but by these was meant Heaven...

675. 'The tenth part of the city fell'=that no truths of doctrine existed any longer with those who remained... 'City'=doctrine, and also the truth of doctrine; for doctrine, in order to be the doctrine of the Church, consists of truths from the Word.

675¹⁴. 'A city'=doctrine. 684³⁹. 750¹².

684³⁴. 'A city'=the doctrine of truth; and 'the city of holiness' (Dan.ix.24), the Divine Truth which is the Word.

697³. 'Cities'=truths of doctrine.

706¹⁸. 'He shall build my city' (Is.xlv.13)=that He will restore the doctrine of truth.

714¹⁶. 'The cities of Judah'=doctrinal things, which are truths from the Word.

724¹⁷. 'The city shall be built upon its own heap' (Jer.xxx.18)=the doctrine from truths which had collapsed through falsities.

730³⁷. 'The city of habitation which they did not find'=the doctrine of life, which makes the Church with man; and as the Church is formed with man through life according to doctrine, when temptations have been passed through, it is said that 'Jehovah will lead them in the way of right, that they may go to a city of habitation' (Ps.cvii).

734²¹. 'The city of glory, and the city of joy of Jehovah'=the doctrine of truth from the Word.

922. 'Outside the city' (Rev.xiv.20)=from Hell; for 'a city'=the doctrine of truth from the Word; but 'outside the city'=the doctrine of falsity from the Word falsified...

[E]. 1088. Metropolitan cities have a similar signification to that of the kingdoms in which they are. . . By the kingdom is signified the Church, and by the metropolitan city, the Church as to doctrine.

Civil. Civilis.

Civility. Civilitas.

See under MORAL.

A. 1150². They lived in friendship, civility, etc.

1158². By 'islands,' they perceive those things within the Church which are a little further removed from charity, as are friendships, and civilities; friendship is not charity, still less is civility, but they are a degree below charity; but the more they derive from charity, the more sound they are.

1273². They are dismissed with civility and charity.

2718. Knowledges . . . are everything scientific . . . with which he can be imbued from civil life, from doctrine, and from the Word.

2831⁴. As to the perception of what is just and fair in civil life . . .

2915. As to civil life, they live in what is just and fair . . .

4366. Man is led by the Lord through almost the same things in spiritual life, as those through which man leads others in civil life . . .

—². They separate spiritual life from civil to such a degree . . .

6598. Perceiving what is honest in moral life, what is just in civil life, and what is good in spiritual life.

8257. Life according to the laws of what is just and honest, without spiritual life, is civil and moral life; this life causes a man to be a citizen of the world, the former, a citizen of Heaven.

8622^o. In externals they appeared modest, civil, etc.

8861². The truths of the civil state, which are of what is just . . .

8972. 'Judgments' = exterior truths, such as there must be in the civil state, where there is a representative Church . . . 'Judgments,' in the plural, = the civil laws . . . Things of life are called 'precepts,' things of the civil state, 'judgments' . . . 9857¹⁰.

9812². To Divine good natural pertains also civil good, which is called what is just among the citizens.

10789. There are two things with men which must be in order, the things of Heaven, and the things of the world; those of Heaven are called ecclesiastical things, those of the world, civil things. N. 311.

H. 388. In the Heavens there are . . . ecclesiastical, civil, and domestic affairs . . .

393². In civil affairs are those (in Heaven) who in this world had loved their country and its common good in preference to their own, and who had done what is just and right from the love of what is just and right . . .

406^o. From civil and pretended friendship . . .

468. Truths are of three kinds: civil, moral, and spiritual. Civil truths relate to those things which are of judgment and of government in kingdoms; in general, to what is just and equitable therein.

—². There are three degrees of life with every man: the Rational is opened to the first degree through civil truths . . . not by merely knowing them, but by living according to them; that is, loving them from spiritual affection. Ex.

481(q). Civil good, which is what is just, is the neighbour.

484. What is just and fair is of civil life.

531. In the four following commandments are delivered the laws of civil life.

N. 311. On ecclesiastical and civil government. Gen. art. (From A. 10789, et seq.)

Life 12. There are civil good, moral good, and spiritual good: civil good is that which man does from the civil law; through this good and according to it is man a citizen in the natural world. . . Civil good is the ultimate.

13. The man who has spiritual good is a moral man and also a civil man; but the man who has not spiritual good appears to be a moral and civil man, but is not. Ex.

P. 322. It is from this that he is able to become a civil and moral man; and he who is a civil and moral man can also become spiritual, for the civil and moral is the receptacle of the Spiritual. He is called a civil man who knows the laws of the kingdom wherein he is a citizen, and lives according to them . . . Live these laws, not only as civil and moral laws, but also as Divine laws, and you will be a spiritual man. . . The civil and moral man keeps these laws, that he may be, or may seem to be, a good citizen; but if he does not at the same time regard these laws as Divine, he is only a natural civil and moral man; whereas, if he also regards them as Divine, he becomes a spiritual civil and moral man. Further Ex.

R. 865. The universal judgment . . . upon those who had been in civil and moral good, and in no spiritual good. Sig.

M. 16^o. He commanded . . . to show them all the honours of civility.

98². The sex is then treated with civil morality.

130². The things which belong to the common weal, and are called civil, hold a place below these spiritual things . . . because they conjoin themselves with the world, for they are of the world; for statutes, laws, and rules are what bind men . . .

164. (Politeness one of the moral virtues.)

228. Varieties of similitudes . . . can be conjoined . . . through civilities, etc.

351. Of these polygamists they are saved who acknowledge God, and, from religion, live according to the civil laws of justice. Ex.

T. 74. I saw many gathered together . . . some . . . of the ecclesiastical order, some . . . of the civil order; all of whom were learned . . .

406. Food, clothing, and many other things which there are in civil life . . .

414. The natural (necessities of our country) regard civil life and order.

415². By his country man is initiated into civil life;

by the Church into spiritual life . . . Civil life is temporary . . .

494. These spiritual things . . . remain with man ; but not in like manner civil and political things . . . because civil and political things, being of the world, reside in the lower parts of the mind . . .

508³. Theological matters . . . then remain only in the understanding in the political things which have relation to his own life . . . in the civil things which belong to his employment, and in the domestic things which are of his house . . .

583. The things of the natural world, which are called civil and moral . . .

601^e. Religion . . . sees beneath itself the civil things which are of the world.

654. The Christian as the heathen . . . does the goods of civility and of morality to his companion.

D. 4107. On the civil state.

— There are some in the other life who live in a so-called civil state . . . When any Spirit comes who is not good, they speak civilly to him . . . hence the Spirit too is reduced into a civil state . . . It is not a pretended state, but is sincere, for they speak through civil things . . .

4233. On civil society in the other life.

— There are a number of Societies which are civil Societies ; so are they to be called ; who show civility to everyone, not so much from the heart as from the lips, though still not entertaining anything evil or false in their hearts ; as when they say to a guest that his coming is grateful and acceptable . . . Not lying with the intention to deceive or do evil, but because they have been accustomed to speak so in the bodily life . . . They are good Spirits . . . It was given me to say that it was all the same so to speak when there was nothing of evil in it . . .

5534. Thus no spiritual life ; but only natural and civil life . . .

5536. They believed they would come into Heaven, because in externals they had lived morally and civilly. . . But now they notice that civil life is a different thing from spiritual life.

E. 948⁴. Spiritual, civil, moral, and natural. Ex.

D. Wis. xi. 5². Civil truths are the civil laws of kingdoms and cities . . .

C. 58. Civil good is the good of life according to civil laws . . . If in this good there is not moral good, and in this spiritual good, it is no other good than the animal good in which are beasts . . .

60. Through civil good a man is a man of the world . . .

Claim. See REVENGE.

Clandestine. Clandestinus.

Clandestinely. Clandestine.

A. 947^e. They infuse their poison so clandestinely . . .

422³. They who act beneath the occiput operate more clandestinely than others.

4951. They clandestinely explore minds with a purpose of doing harm, and clandestinely lay an ambush in order to destroy.

8622². Genii . . . do this so clandestinely . . .

—^e. Such men become Genii . . . who have done evil, but clandestinely, and through others.

8625^e. This they pervert in a moment, so clandestinely . . .

9013². Genii inflow into the affections . . . so clandestinely that it cannot be at all perceived.

H. 488². Those (dwell in vaults) whose delight it has been to lay an ambush clandestinely.

489⁶. They who have not acted clandestinely . . .

— The Spirits whose delight it has been to act clandestinely . . .

506^e. They would clandestinely attempt similar things . . .

507. Thus clandestine things are uncovered . . .

579. Genii . . . turn good affections into evil ones . . . so clandestinely that the other knows nothing about it . . .

Clap. Complodere, Complosio.

T. 381^e. They clap their shoes in the air. Coro. 30.

E. 355³³. 'The clappings-plausus-of the horses which clapped' (Judg.v.22)=falsities . . . and argumentations thence.

405¹¹. 'To clap the hand, etc.' (Is.lv.12)=the goods and truths which cause joy with man.

Class. Classis.

A. 1153⁹. These constitute the second class.

1155. The sons of the one relate to the class of spiritual things, and the sons of the other to the class of celestial things.

2417⁸. They referred into classes all the goods which are of charity towards the neighbour. Enum. 4302². 4844³. 4955². 6004². 6705, Ex. 7259. N.107⁴.

2866. The second class of those who are saved. Sig.

3240². As there are two classes of the spiritual ; those who are more in good, and those who are more in truth . . . 'Sheba and Dedan'=those who constitute the first class.

—³. 'Shem, Ham, and Japheth'=those of the Church called 'Noah,' who were distinguished as to goods and truths into three classes.

4266. 'By themselves'=to everyone according to classes, or according to genera and species.

6390². 'The classes of Reuben' (Judg.v.16)=those who are in the Knowledges of the truth of faith, among whom they are, but in a place below them.

7230. (Various classes of good and truth. Sig.)

7236. 'According to their armies'=that they are to be distinguished . . . into classes according to the qualities of good, in order to represent Heaven . . .

10254³. Aromatics of the celestial class, and of the spiritual class. Ex. 10295.

10291. Truths of the celestial class, and of the spiritual class. Ex.

[A.] 10624. Some numbers belong to the spiritual class, and some to the celestial class. Enum.

R. 351². 'The classes of Reuben'=Knowledges of every kind, which are of wisdom.

352². All the tribes of Israel are here distinguished into four classes . . . and each class contains three tribes.

E. 434¹³. 'The classes of Reuben'=all things both true and good which are in the natural man.

Classification. Classificatio.

A. 4647. (Various classifications of truth and good. Sig.)

Clavichord. Clavichordium. D.4482.

Clay. Argilla, Argillaceus.

A. 1837². The last age is called 'iron and clay.'

2162³. 'The feet' of the statue (Dan.ii.33)=lower things which are natural, of which the truths are signified by 'iron,' and the goods by 'clay,' or 'mire-lutum.'

3021⁸. The feet which were of iron and clay represented the fourth state, which was one of natural truth, which is 'iron,' and also one of no coherence with good, which is 'clay.'

565⁸². To which they added a clay age.

9406⁷. 'Clay' (Dan.ii)=falsity, which does not cohere with truth and good.

10030³. As the last state was the truth which is called of faith, without good, it is said that the feet were partly of iron, and partly of clay.

—4. Such goods as are mentioned above (the good of merit, good for the sake of self and of the world) are signified by 'clay,' or 'mire-lutum.'

M.779. (The Spirits of the age of iron and clay visited).

T. 72. (Argument of the predestinarians from the clay of the potter.)

E. 176². By the feet which were of iron and of clay, is meant the last state of the Church, when there are truth and falsity; truth in the Word and falsity in doctrine. When the truths of the Word are falsified, and doctrine is made from things falsified, the state of the Church is partly iron and partly clay. . . That thus truths are mixed with falsities, but still do not cohere, is meant by, 'thou sawest iron mixed with clay of mire; they shall mingle themselves together by the seed of man, but they shall not cohere one with another, like as iron is not commingled with clay.'

—'. 'The clay of the potter'=the falsities which are in the natural man.

237². 'Clay of mire'=the falsity which is from man's Own intelligence.

411⁴. 'Clay of mire'=natural good; but here, 'clay'=good adulterated.

Clay. Lutum.

A. 954². Some (perceive delight) in mud.

1296. 'To tread the clay' (Nahum iii.14)=falsities.

1299. 'They had bitumen for clay' (Gen.xi.3)=the evil of cupidity for good.

1300. That 'clay'=the good of which the mind or the man of the Church is formed, is evident from the Word. Ill.

—'. 'Clay' (Is.lxiv.8)=the man of the Church himself, who is being formed, thus it=the good of charity, through which is all formation of man, that is, reformation and regeneration.

2162³. See CLAY=argilla, at these refs. 10030⁴. E.176². 237². 411⁴.

6669. 'In clay and in bricks' (Ex.i.14)=on account of the evils which they found out and the falsities which they fashioned. 'Clay'=good, and in the opposite sense, evil.

—'. That 'clay'=the evil from which is falsity, is evident from these passages in the Word. Ill.

—4. 'Clay' (Is.lxiv)=the man of the Church who is being formed, thus it=the good of faith, through which man is formed, that is, reformed.

7519⁶. 'To tread the clay'=evil.

R. 386. Houses woven of rushes stuck together with mud.

T. 393². Like clay in the hand of the potter.

D. 750². In mud over the ankles.

E. 177². 'To enter into the mire and tread the clay'=to confirm falsities by figments and fallacies.

2391⁸. 'The clay' which He made in the soil [with spittle (John ix.6)]=reformation through truths from the sense of the letter of the Word. . . 'Clay'=the ultimate Divine which forms. 304⁶¹.

2751⁷. 'The waters which cast up mire and dirt' (Is. lvii.20)=falsities themselves from which are evils of life and falsities of doctrine.

3551⁴. As Divine truths in their ultimate are there, it is added, 'clay of great waters' (Hab.iii.15); 'clay'=the ultimate from which and in which.

4751⁷. 'Clay from spittle'=sensuous truth, such as there is for such in the Word.

537⁹. 'Snatch me out of the mire lest I sink' (Ps. lxx.14)=out of the evil of falsity lest I perish.

652²⁹. As 'street'=falsity, 'the mire of the streets' (Mic.vii.10)=the falsity of the love of evil.

Clean. Mundus.

Cleanness. Munditio.

Cleanse. Mundare.

Cleansing. Mundatio.

A. 714. 'Every clean beast' (Gen.vii.2)=good affections.

2162¹². Unless the internal be clean and pure . . .

—'. The rites of the Church signified, here, the cleanness of external worship, which is clean when there is what is internal in the external . . .

2526. In the Original Language, 'blamelessness' is expressed by a word which also means cleanness and purity.

2760². 'Clothed in fine linen, white and clean' (Rev. xix.14)=the same in love and thence faith.

2826⁹. 'The fear of Jehovah is clean' (Ps.xix.9)=love.

4161. Such things are removed when man is cleansed, that is, when he is being regenerated.

4449². Cleansings in the Ancient Church.

4545⁶. That 'to be cleansed'=to be sanctified, is evident from the cleansings which have been commanded.

—^e. 'To sprinkle clean waters' (Ezek.xxxvi.25)=the purification of the heart; thus 'to be cleansed'=to be sanctified.

4735¹¹. Blood used in cleansings. Ill.

5954¹⁰. Cleansings from impure things are effected through the truths of faith. Ill and Ex.

6963⁴. Why he who was wholly leprous from head to foot was 'clean' (Lev.xiii.12,13).

7918². As 'hyssop' has this signification, it was used in cleansings, which signified purifications from falsities and evils. Ill.

9209⁴. The Church will be established with such . . . for those are called 'lepers' who are unclean, yet long to be cleansed.

9228². 'To cleanse the land seven months' (Ezek.xxxix.12)=the plenary restoration of good and truth in the Church.

9333². It is according to the appearance . . . that it is said in the Word, that man is clean from sins.

9408. 'As the substance of heaven as to cleanness' (Ex.xxiv.10)=the transluence of the Angelic Heaven.

9468⁹. 'To be cleansed' from truth profaned and falsified is to be withdrawn through the truths and goods of the Word.

9506. 'The mercy-seat'=cleansing from evils, or the remission of sins, consequently, the hearing and reception of all the things of worship. Ex.

9818³. 'A clean heart' (Ps.li.10)=a will averse to evils, which are unclean.

10123. 'Thou shalt cleanse from sin upon the altar' (Ex.xxix.36)=purification from evils in Heaven, and in the Church. 'To cleanse'=to purify.

S. 40^c. 'That the outside may be clean also' (Matt.xxiii.26)=that thus the exteriors are purified.

Life 84^e. These are they who are called 'clean in heart' (Matt.v.8).

P. 33⁵. The conjunction of the Lord with the man with whom evils have been removed is meant by, 'the clean in heart shall see God.'

R. 378. Those who have cleansed their religious principles from the evils of falsity. Sig.

—'. 'To wash'=to cleanse one's self from evils and falsities. Ill.

814. 'Fine linen clean and resplendent' (Rev.xix.14)=shining from good and pure from truths. . . 'Clean'=that which is free from evil, thus that which shines from good.

M. 140^e. To the clean all things are clean, and to the unclean all things are unclean.

430. The uncleanness of Hell is from scortatory love, and the cleanness of Heaven is from marriage love. Ex.

T. 71^e. The air was cleansed.

E. 257. 'To bury them, and cleanse the land' (Ezek.xxxix.12)=to destroy them all, and completely clear the Church of them.

294⁴. 'To create a clean heart' (Ps.li.10)=to reform as to the good of love.

340¹⁰. 'He that hath clean hands' (Ps.xxiv.4)=those who are in truths from faith; and 'pure in heart'=those who are in good from love.

376²⁹. 'The cleansing of the Jews' (John ii.6)=purification from sins, thus all things of the Jewish Church, for the Church regards purification from sins as its all.

475⁷. 'He who is washed'=him who is interiorly clean; 'needeth not save to wash his feet'=that then he is exteriorly cleansed; 'but is clean every whit' (John xiii.10).

950. Divine truth is called 'clean' (Rev.xv.6), from the fact that it is genuine.

1000. All clean things come forth from the truths which are from good.

Cleanse. Purgare, Expurgare.

Cleansing. Expurgatio.

A. 5120⁶. 'The cup'=the truth of faith; and to worship this without its good, is 'to cleanse in the outside of the cup . . .'

8159². Purification is here understood by 'purifying and refining them as gold and silver.'

8882². 'The house swept' (Luke xi.25)=life against truths.

S. 40^c. 'To cleanse the inside of the cup and of the platter' (Matt.xxiii.26)=to purify the interiors, which are of the will and thought, thus of love and faith, through the Word.

E. 475¹⁰. 'The spirit of cleansing' (Is.iv.4)=the affection of spiritual truth, for this cleanses.

654¹⁷. 'To plant it, to cleanse before it, and to cause its roots to take root' (Ps.lxxx.8,9)=instruction according to order, which is; first, the imbuing of knowledges; next, being in the wilderness and being tempted; and afterwards, being introduced into the Land of Canaan, that is, into the Church; which three things are here signified by these words.

Clear. Clarus.

Clearness. Claritas.

Clearly. Clare.

A. 1453. Said to be 'on the east' when they are in what is clear, for the east relatively to the west is what is clear.

2367². When he passes into the other life, he passes from an obscure life into a clearer one . . .

2540. Clear perception. Sig.

3833. When good is conjoined therewith . . . truth becomes clear to him.

4402³. Although these things are clear to those who are in the light of Heaven, they are obscure to those who are in the light of the world.

4489⁴. The good itself is the same to each (Church), but the difference consists in seeing it in what is clear or in what is obscure ; they who see it in what is clear, see innumerable arcana.

[A.] 4493⁴. To the man of the Most Ancient Church . . . the internal sense would have been in what is clear, and the sense of the letter, in what is obscure.

4893^o. These things . . . enter clearly into the light of the understanding of the Angels.

4967^o. Such Spirits and men, like owls, see clearly by night, and obscurely by day ; that is, they see falsities clearly, and truths obscurely ; and thence they see clearly the things of the world, and obscurely, if at all, those of Heaven.

5097. What is revealed and clear to the Celestial of the Spiritual. Sig.

—'. 'Morning' = a state of enlightenment, thus what is revealed and clear.

—'. 'Morning' = what is revealed, and as then what was before obscure becomes clear, it also = what is clear.

5411². In Heaven . . . it appears as in clear day.

6068. Hence the things which are in the middle appear clearly, and those which are at the sides, obscurely.

6214^o. What man has thought and planned inwardly, in the other life is manifest as in clear day.

6333^o. When the Word is understood obscurely by (those who are in a state of innocence and charity), by the Angels it is perceived clearly.

6454. Yet it can become clear. Sig.

—'. Whatever is in the Natural . . . relatively to what is in the interior Natural, and still more to what is in the Rational, is obscure ; but this obscurity may become clear in two ways. Ex.

10200. 'Morning' = when a state of love is in what is clear.

H. 155. When the Angels are in the greatest degree of love . . . they are in what is clear and delightful.

—². Morning corresponds to the state of their love in what is clear ; noon, to the state of their wisdom in what is clear.

157. One is in his clearness and delight when another is in his obscurity and undelight.

T. 155. If the doctrinal things are true, the perception is clear from the light which enlightens ; but if they are false, the perception is obscure, which, however, may appear as clear from confirmations ; but this is from deceptive light, which before the merely natural sight, is of like clearness.

352. Through the abundance of truths, true faith becomes . . . clearer.

356^e. These things will be given in clearer light . . .

Clear. Perspicuus.

Clearly, See. Perspicere.

Clearly. Perspicaciter, Perspicue.

Clear-sighted. Perspicax.

A. 448. Man then passes from an obscure life into a clear one ; and they who are in faith in the Lord, into one more and more clear.

1641. Spirits speak so acutely and clearly . . .

1957. Truth so clear. Sig.

—'. The Lord clearly saw . . .

4409. He who is clear-sighted . . .

4627². The clearness of the perception (of women).

5527. He who is in good is in the capacity of clearly seeing the truths which flow from general principles . . . Spirits who had not been so clear-sighted while they lived in this world . . .

6077^o. After death, man can think and speak . . . much more clearly than in the bodily life.

6921. Material things . . . remove from the Spiritual World, whence comes all clear-sightedness.

9781. What is genuine and clear. Sig.

—'. Good is said to be clear when it becomes truth. . . . The more therefore that good is presented in a better form, the more clearly it appears . . . It is the understanding which forms the Voluntary, and presents it clear.

—^c. 'Bruised and ground' = good clear ; in the opposite, evil clear.

9968². They who are on high can clearly see those who are below . . .

10227². The capacity of being wise . . . is the capacity of clearly seeing what is true and good . . .

Clear. See under TRANSPARENT.

Cleave. Adherere.

A. 160. 'To cleave to his wife' (Gen. ii. 24) = that the internal may be in the external.

1008. Cannot produce a single idea without what is profane adhering . . .

1667². The love of self . . . which inheres and adheres . . .

3875. 'This time will my man cleave to me' (Gen. xxix. 34), in the supreme sense, = love and mercy ; in the internal, charity ; in the external, conjunction ; here, spiritual love. Ex. and III.

—³. The term 'cleave,' from which Levi was named . . .

—⁶. In the Word, celestial love, and also marriage love, are expressed by 'to cleave ;' but this is a different word in the Original Language . . . This Word = a still closer conjunction. III.

4434. 'His soul clave unto Dinah' (Gen. xxiv. 3) = an inclination to conjunction.

7122. Therefore it cannot but be that the filthy things, and also the evils and falsities, from the life in the world, should adhere . . .

10219². So long as a man believes that he does all things from himself . . . so long evils adhere to him ; but so soon as he believes that goods flow in from the Lord, and evils from Hell . . . evils do not adhere to him.

10640. No religious principle whatever is to be adhered to in which there is evil. Sig.

H. 295^e. In proportion as the affection reigns, the evil Spirits adhere and do not recede.

372. 'Shall cleave to his wife' (Matt. xix. 5).

547. As man believes that whatever he does he does from himself, the evil he does adheres to him as his own.

R. 357. Levi was named from 'cleaving,' by which in the Word is signified conjunction through love.

M. 194². 'To cleave (to his wife)' = to devote himself to the love of his wife.

T. 103². The Jews have firmly adhered to their religion.

E. 696⁹. 'To cleave' is a term of the good of love, for he who loves, also cleaves.

Cleave. Findere.

Cleft. Fissura.

A. 1085². 'To cleave all their shoulder' (Ezek.xxix.7) = to deprive of all power, so that they know nothing.

2784. 'He clave the wood of the burnt-offering' (Gen. xxii.3) = the merit of righteousness. . . 'To cleave wood' = to place merit in the goods which are of works . . . Such appear to saw and cleave wood. T.441⁶.

9331⁴. 'The clefts of the rocks' (Is.vii.19) = the truths of faith in obscurity, because removed from the light of Heaven.

10582. 'I will set thee in a cleft of the rock' (Ex. xxxiii.22) = what is obscure and false of faith, such as prevails with those who are in externals without an internal. —⁴. Ill. (See under HOLE.)

—³. Such there dwell in caves, or in fissures.

H. 428. The Hells . . . are open only through holes and clefts as of rocks . . . 584.

R. 338. Their entrances appear like holes in the earth, and like fissures in the mountains . . . Hence it is that 'holes' and 'clefts' = falsities of evil . . . Ill.

E. 410³. Hence it is evident what is signified by 'caves,' 'holes,' 'clefts,' and 'chinks.' Ill.

—⁴. 'To go into the caves of the rocks, and into the clefts of the rocks' (Is.ii.21) = the damnation of those who are in evils and falsities from the loves of self and of the world, and from the pride of their Own intelligence; for their Hells appear like caves in the rocks, and the approaches to them like clefts of the rocks.

410⁶. 'The clefts of the rocks' (Is.vii.19) = where is the faith of falsity.

Clemency. Clementia.

A. 1925⁶. 'In His love and in His pity He redeemed them' (Is.lxiii.9). E.412⁷. T.116.

2258⁸. An unseasonable clemency . . .

2412. 'In the clemency of Jehovah upon him' (Gen. xix.16) = of grace and mercy.

6997. 'The anger of Jehovah was kindled against Moses' = clemency. 'The anger of Jehovah' does not signify anger, but what is opposite to anger; thus mercy; here, clemency . . . because it is said in relation to Moses, by whom is represented the Lord as to Divine truth when He was in the world.

10618. The Divine clemency. Sig.

H. 236³. When in clemency and mercy . . .

2 U

545 (e). The Lord is pure mercy and clemency. Refs. M. 12⁹. We contemplate the Divine omnipotence and clemency in these objects.

T. 132². God, who is mercy and clemency itself . . . 135⁵.

134². A priest said . . . We believe that God the Father . . . excluded mankind from His clemency.

135⁵. Propitiation means the operation of clemency and of grace . . .

642. Clemency cannot be injected into unmercifulness.

651². What would the Lord be, if he were to regard the evil from anger, and the good from clemency?

E. 401³⁶. 'Thou hast had pity on the gourd . . . and should not I have pity on Nineveh?' (Jon.iv.10,11.)

Clergy. Clerus.

Clergyman. Clericus.

See under ELDER—presbyter.

R. Pref. IIIA. The faith of the Reformed clergy (as distinguished from that of the laity). —⁶.

143⁹. Only the clergy know the arcana of that doctrine; not the laity.

294². In the midst (of the assemblage) were the Reformed, and many of the clergy . . . A clergyman said, Who does not think justly about God and about the Lord?

—⁴. None of the clergy could say Divine Human, but some of the laity could.

—⁹. As some of the clergy of England were present . . .

341. I saw some of the clergy of England gathered together . . . (See ENGLAND at this ref.)

398. The Church is internal with the clergy, and external with the laity; or internal with those who have interiorly studied its doctrinal things, and have confirmed them from the Word; and external with those who have not done so. 400.

403. They who are in internal things are called the clergy.

404. They do not know the singulars of that faith, as the clergy do.

417². There were (gathered together) many of the clergy, who gloried in the reputation of learning, because they knew the arcana of justification by faith alone . . .

—⁷. You do not understand their preaching; only a clergyman, who is present, attends to and understands it . . .

—⁹. He then turned to the clergy, and said; Ye ministers of God, seduce not the flock. . . Then some of the clergy said, We have heard what we never heard before; we are pastors, and will not leave the sheep. . .

426². From this it may be seen, that faith alone justifying is the faith of the clergy, and not of the laity, except with those who live carelessly.

463². (The Angels said) the turtles represent those of the clergy there who entirely separate faith from charity and its good works . . . These are the tenets represented by the small head, which they draw into the fore part of the body, and conceal, and also insert into the large head, when they talk to the laity ; for they do not speak with them from the small head, but from the large one . . . They speak with them from the Word about love, charity, good works, the commandments of the decalogue, and repentance ; and they quote from the Word almost all that is said about them ; but then they put the small head into the large one, from which they think within themselves, that these duties are not to be performed for the sake of God, Heaven, and salvation ; but only with a view to the public good and to private advantage. As however they discourse on these subjects . . . in a pleasing and elegant manner, they appear to their hearers to be charming men, surpassing the whole world in wisdom ; wherefore you saw that the boys and girls who sat on the decks of the ships gave them delicacies and costly things . . . In your world they are hardly to be distinguished from others, except by this, that they believe themselves to be the wisest of all, and laugh at others, especially at their companions whom they say are not as wise as themselves . . . They have a mark in their garments, by which they are known to each other. (Their lot in the other life. —¹¹.)

[R.463]⁶. (Their phantasies seen represented by a ship flying in the air. Swedenborg converses with them.)

501. It is called 'a great city,' because it is the doctrine reigning in the whole Reformed Christian world with the clergy ; but not in the same way with the laity.

567. The reason the clergy are signified by 'the beast out of the earth' . . . is that by 'the earth' is signified the internal of the Church . . . and the clergy are in [the] internals of the doctrine of the Church ; wherefore also the beast out of the earth is afterwards called 'the false prophet.' 594.

575^e. When these doctrines prevail with the laity, the clergy have authority, reverence, and a kind of adoration . . .

594. 'I saw another beast coming up out of the earth' = the clergy in the Churches of the Reformed who are in the doctrine and faith of the dragon concerning God and salvation.

607. It is the part of a wise man to see and understand . . . the nature of the doctrine and faith of the clergy concerning God and salvation. Sig.

611^d. It was granted to see more than three hundred of the clergy of the Reformed world, all learned men. (See CALF at this ref.)

677. Influx into those who are in the interior things of the Reformed Churches, and who study the doctrine of justification by faith alone, who are called the clergy. Sig.

—. As those who are in these things are chiefly priests, professors of theology and lecturers in colleges ; in a word, doctors and pastors, the first influx here was made into those who are called the clergy.

716^d. (How the English clergy are kept in subjection by the bishops.)

834. All who professed faith alone, and were interiorly evil, both the laity and the common people, and the clergy and the learned . . . Sig.

875^e. There were not far from us some of the clergy, whom the angelic Spirit called justifiers and sanctifiers of men by faith alone. We said the same things to them, and so demonstrated them that they saw them to be so ; but when we asked them whether they are not so, they turned themselves away, and said, We did not hear. We then cried out to them, saying, Hear us now then. They then placed their hands over their ears, and shouted, We will not hear.

962. (A council of the clergy which was convoked by the Lord, to deliberate about God, the Lord, and the Holy Spirit.) B.120.

B. 81. This doctrine of justification by faith alone is what all the clerical novitiates in the schools greedily learn . . . T.181.

93. The pre-eminence of the clergy to the laity depends on the doctrine of faith alone. T.182.

T. 137. (A council of the solifidian clergy in the World of Spirits which Swedenborg attended, taking part in the discussion.)

146. This Divine virtue and operation, which is meant by the sending of the Holy Spirit, with the clergy in special is enlightenment and instruction. Gen.art.

155. Therefore there are four things which follow in order with the clergy : enlightenment, perception, disposition, and instruction. Ex.

159. On the left were seen the learned of the clergy, and behind them the unlearned, (arguing against the worship of a visible God).

178^e. Heaven and Hell supposed to be a fable invented by the clergy.

391. The desolation of truth and theological leanness now existing in the Christian world, have been made known to me from conversation . . . with many of the clergy in the Spiritual World . . .

—². A conversation of an Angel with two of the Reformed clergy ; one in faith separated, and the other in faith not separated from charity.

405³. The love of dominion is different with the clergy from what it is with the laity ; with the clergy this love, when unchecked, mounts up until they want to be gods ; but with the laity, until they want to be kings.

487. This was done in the Synod of Dort by a great number chosen from the clergy . . .

619². One sphere is concerning the Lord, which breathes forth and diffuses itself from the southern quarter, where are the learned of the clergy, and the erudite of the laity.

665. We will go down, and call together a number of laymen and clergymen of those who are believed to be wise . . .

—⁷. (The clergymen deliver their sentiments concerning conscience.)

667². I appeal to laymen, and also to clergymen . . .

770. When a clergyman or a layman is asked . . .

784. As the falsities of the former Church are removed

... which will take place with the clergy, and thus with the laity.

815². (The German clergy described.)

850. Why did not the Lord reveal these arcana to one of the clergy?

D. 6005⁴. (How the faith of the English clergy differs from that of the laity.)

Can. Holy Spirit. iv. (The Divine called the Holy Spirit) passes through men to men; and in the Church, chiefly through the clergy to the laity.

7. A clergyman, because he is to teach from doctrine about the Lord, and about redemption and salvation by Him, is to be inaugurated through the promise of the Holy Spirit, and through the representation of its transfer; but it is received by a clergyman according to the faith of his life.

8. The Divine which is meant by the Holy Spirit, proceeds from the Lord through a clergyman to a layman, through preachings according to the reception in doctrine of truth thence.

Conv. 13. Understanding in spiritual things is destroyed with those of the clergy who have confirmed the falsities of modern faith: but not with the laity.

Clergyman. Canonicus. R.798⁴. M.262³. 264². T.16⁶. 418. 459². 815².

Cleverness. Ingenium.

Clever. Ingeniosus.

Ingenuity. Ingeniositas.

See under SKILFUL.

A. 2034⁵. Most of those who are clever in the world...

2363³. Let one who enjoys any gift of talent... 2588⁹.

2733⁶. Being a man of talent, he would confirm himself against adulteries more than others.

3748. One who had been subtle in talent to confirm falsities, but very gross in so far as goods and truths are concerned.

4054². In civil life when they were in the world they appeared good, clever, etc.

5432². To confirm those things which are from others, whether true or false, is very easy, for this is a work of cleverness alone.

5567. He was bound by no principles, but was against all in general whom he was able to refute and vituperate dexterously and cleverly. . . I wondered that such a cleverness should exist, namely, that he should be able to refute others cleverly, yet from no knowledge of truth with himself.

5991. One who had been known to me, and was then among the more celebrated on account of the gifts of talent and learning: but these things, which are means of thinking well about Divine things, were to him a means of thinking against them... for he who is eminent in talent and learning has more than others with which to confirm...

6203². He then makes evils allowable and clever...

6222⁵. To confirm dogma is not of the intellectual, but is of ingenuity in the Sensual...

6500. There is nothing that cannot be confirmed; for this is a work of ingenuity; not of intelligence, still less of wisdom.

6666³. Within the Church... cunning is now held to be cleverness...

10409⁶. I have seen cast into that pit those who in the world have been held to be most clever.

J. 58². In the south dwelt those who in the world had excelled others in cleverness, and had confirmed themselves in their religiosity.

—³. In the north dwelt those who had less excelled in cleverness...

C. J. 76. The Africans call ingenious malice stupidity, because there is not life but death in it.

W. 267³. Say to a clever man; Confirm it, and he will confirm it... P.286. 318².

P. 233¹¹. Self-love surpasses other loves in its ingenuity in adulterating goods and falsifying truths. —¹³.

318³. Ability to confirm whatever one pleases is not intelligence, but only ingenuity, which may exist even in the worst of men. Ex.

R. 224¹². Human ingenuity can confirm whatever it wants...

M. 163. (Cleverness one of the things of rational wisdom.)

175. (Women's writings) were found to be works not of judgment and wisdom, but of cleverness and eloquence... They appear sublime and erudite, but only to those who call all ingenuity wisdom.

380⁶. Thy wisdom, which is the ingenuity of writing, has seduced thee.

T. 184. The ingenuity of many in demonstrating that three are one...

186². They have no interior reason of judgment, nor affection for justice; but only ingenuity...

346⁶. The appearance of falsity as truth from ingenious confirmation.

568². To dress it up ingeniously - ingeniose - with reasonings from fallacies.

D. 696. His life was diminished from being clever to being more stolid.

758. Mere outward cleverness is there changed into stupidity.

805. Cleverness in words. Des.

2245. The punishment of those who abuse the gift of cleverness.

Client. See ADHERENT.

Climate. Clima.

A. 7177. Cold on high mountains even in warm climates.

10200². Like the differences of heat and light in the various regions or climates of the Earth. H.157⁶.

I. 7³. Hence are climates...

T. 813. The dwellers in the climates of the globe . . .

835. Of the gentiles there are interior and exterior men ; which they derive partly from climate . . .

Climb. Scandere.

A. 5497°. Thus man climbs with the understanding . . .

R. 484³. To climb to God the Father . . . 566.

T. 405³. With the clergy, this love climbs . . .

Cloak. Amiculum.

A. 2576⁹. 'Cloaks,' and 'broidered garments' (Ezek. xxvi.16)=Knowledge from scientifics; thus lower truths.

—¹³. 'The garments of salvation' (Is.lxi.10)=the truths of faith; 'the robe of righteousness'=the good of charity.

3103³. 'The changeable garments and the mantles' (Is.iii.22)=truth, and its badges.

9688¹. 'Cloaks' (Ezek.xxvi.16)=external truths.

T. 75². Natural heat and light . . . serve as a cloak and aid to spiritual heat and light.

Cloak. Chlamys. M.2. 20°. T.80.

E. 31⁶. 'A cloak,' and 'a robe'=Divine truth in the Spiritual Kingdom.

Cloak. Pallium.

A. 4951. They appear there as it were in cloaks.

9049⁶. 'Coat,' and 'cloak' (Matt.v.40)=truth in the external form.

9825. 'The robe' (Ex.xxviii.4)=Divine truth there in the internal form. 'A robe'=the middle of the Spiritual Kingdom; thus the truth itself which is there . . .

—². As 'a robe' represented the middle in the Spiritual Kingdom, and the middle partakes of both sides, it is representatively taken for that Kingdom itself. Ill.

— The rending of the skirt of Samuel's mantle (1 Sam.xv.27) signified the rending of the kingdom of Israel from Saul; for the kingdom of Israel=the Lord's Spiritual Kingdom.

—³. As 'a robe' represented the Spiritual Kingdom, it represented the truths of that Kingdom in general; which are spiritual truths in man's intellectual part. Ill.

9911. 'The robe' (ver.31)=Divine truth in the internal form in the Spiritual Kingdom. 'The robe,' in general,=the Spiritual Kingdom; specifically, Divine truth in the internal form there. 9917.

9913. 'The robe'=the Spiritual Kingdom; and specifically, its internal.

10005. 'With the robe of the ephod' (Ex.xxix.5)=the middle of that Kingdom. 'The robe'=the Divine Spiritual mediately proceeding from the Divine Celestial; thus the middle of the Spiritual Kingdom. The reason it is called 'the robe of the ephod,' is that the robe belonged to the ephod; and was also distinguished from the coat by the girdle . . .

R. 328. Robes, mantles, cloaks=truths in general, because they were general coverings. Ill. E.395³.

M. 20°. A crimson cloak worn by the bridegroom.

75⁴. The man was dressed in a cloak of a hyacinthine colour.

E. 395⁵. The cloak, equally with the mantle, was a general garment, for it surrounded the coat or interior garment . . .

—¹². 'He covered me with a robe of righteousness' (Is.lxi.10)=to be filled with all truth derived from good. 'A robe'=all truth; because it=all truth in general.

556⁹. 'If anyone . . . will take away thy coat, let him take away thy cloak also'=that if anyone wants to take away the interior truth that is with thee, allow him to take away exterior truth too . . .

Clock. Horologium. T.364.

Close. Arctus.

Closely. Arcte.

Keep away. Arcere.

A. 653. The Spirits who excite cupidities are entirely kept away from the man.

5835. Close conjunction. Sig. (See under CONJOIN.)

8356⁶. When evil begins to keep away the influx of good . . .

8838. Thus they may be kept away from the Divine. Sig.

H. 295^e. In proportion as man cannot be kept from evil by good Spirits . . .

449². Thus are evil Spirits kept away from the spirit of man when he is first being introduced into eternal life.

531². Unless the civil laws . . . restrained him . . .

579². Genii . . . are kept away by the Lord from every man of whose reformation there is any hope.

J. 12. A closer . . . conjunction.

W. 262^e. He successively shuts up the spiritual mind closer and closer . . .

T. 442. Charity and faith in the Lord are closely conjoined.

607. The conjunction . . . between men, and Angels and Spirits, is so close . . .

Close. Claudere.

See CONCLUDE; also under CEASE, and OPEN.

A. 1707³. The way for celestial things is closed.

1880^e. Man has closed Heaven to himself.

2586. 'Closing Jehovah closed every womb' (Gen. xx.18)=barrenness. 2588².

2750. When anyone commits adultery on earth, Heaven is at once closed to him. 8904, Ex. H.384. D.3190.

2760 Pref.². This faith closes Heaven, lest evils and falsities should enter; and opens Heaven for goods and truths. Sig.

28517. 'Every house is shut up' (Is.xxiv.10)=the human mind without good.

2995^e. After the golden age . . . Heaven was closed.

3607³. Their ideas appear closed . . .

4197. Their good is not closed . . .

— . Such have closed Heaven to themselves . . . many so that it cannot be opened.

—⁴. Goods and truths have the Power to close and open Heaven.

5127². With them the communication with interior things is closed.

5135^e. As this evil closes the way . . .

5145⁴. The first degree is closed with them.

—⁶. Affections are what terminate and close.

5427^e. The way towards Heaven is then closed to the interior man.

5651². The internal is closed in proportion as the natural does not become nothing.

5664a². The reason he does not perceive, is that his interiors are closed . . .

5717². Such are now kept shut up in Hell. 5990².

5828². Consequently the interior mind is closed.

5990. Thus have they closed interior things to themselves. 6317.

5991. They have closed interior things to themselves more than others.

6008. The external Sensual shall be closed, and the internal Sensual opened. Sig.

6052^e. Then also the internal man is closed. 6408^e. 6652, Ex. 6949. 8452. 10049². 10201⁴. 10400².

6406. Consequently they cannot so greatly close interior things to themselves.

6564. According to the rejection . . . the interiors are closed.

6620. Those with whom the ideas are closed . . .

—². How an idea appears when it is closed, and when it is open.

6971². With such the passage for the light of Heaven is closed.

7442². In proportion as truths are turned into falsities, the interiors are closed.

7879². Necessity of the Hells being kept closed.

8114. This is perceived from their interiors not being closed. . . But with those who do not live in the order of Heaven, the interiors are closed.

8271. If man exalts himself before the Lord, he closes the interiors of his mind for the reception of good and truth from the Lord.

8456^e. With the unregenerate it is closed.

8513. Everything which is not done according to Divine order is inwardly closed.

8694². Heaven is closed to those who are not in good.

9128^e. Their internal man is closed above, and open below.

9144². The Intellectual is then closed above, and opened below.

—⁹. These falsities close the internal man.

9193⁴. The internal man is closed through evil, and when it is closed truths are turned into falsities.

9198⁴. Heaven is said to be 'shut up' when vastated, or no more.

9256². The internal man of the gentiles is not closed . . . But they who have confirmed themselves against the goods and truths of faith, as do all who live evilly, close the internal man above, and open it below. —⁴.

—⁵. When the old Church has closed Heaven to itself.

9296². Then this initiament of a new will is closed, and below it is formed a Voluntary . . . which is closed above and open below, that is, closed to Heaven, and open to the world.

9594². So far as man recedes from good of life, and accedes to evil of life, these degrees are closed, that is, the Heavens with him are closed; for as the good of life opens them, so does the evil of life close them.

9914. Terminated and closed on every side. Sig.

10049². The internal man is closed . . . 10367.

10156². So long as man is merely natural, his interiors . . . are closed.

10370^e. Wherefore Heaven is closed to those who do not acknowledge the Lord.

10396². When what is external reigns, what is internal is closed.

10411. Hence when the internal is closed, Heaven also is closed.

10420. When his internal is closed, and only the external open . . . 10429², Ex.

10483². Every Hell is closed round about . . .

10492³. With those who deny these things, the internal is completely closed . . . The internal is closed with more of the intelligent than of the simple. Ex.

10551³. Therefore the internal man is closed; which being closed, no light from Heaven can flow in . . .

10609. If this good is described to them, they apprehend nothing whatever, because the internal with them is closed.

H. 83. The interiors, which should receive Heaven, are closed . . . The nearer he comes to Heaven the more completely they are closed.

202. Hence man's internal is closed from his very birth . . .

252^e. Then the interiors which had been open into Heaven were closed . . .

272. It is self-love which closes the interiors to the Lord and to Heaven . . .

313. It was found that their interiors were completely closed, and their exteriors open . . . In proportion as the interiors are closed, and the exteriors open, he looks to Hell.

319². If Heaven is not received at the same time, the interiors are closed.

336. Nothing has closed the ideas of infants, as with adults.

353². Their interiors are closed, and together with them the exteriors which are nearest the interiors. Why.

532². If the higher things of the mind are closed above . . .

S. 26. If anyone wants to open the spiritual sense from himself, Heaven is closed . . .

[S.] 96. When the external of the Word, of which the internal is falsity, communicates with Heaven, Heaven is closed . . .

W. 138^e. Their interiors of both mind and body are closed, and when they are closed the exteriors react against the Lord . . .

162. Wherefore their mind is closed above, and open below . . .

268. When Heaven is closed, man is in Hell.

274. When the natural mind ascends, the lower degrees which tend to Hell are closed; and when it descends, the higher degrees which tend to Heaven are closed. . . These three degrees, higher and lower, are neither opened nor closed in man in early infancy; for he is then in ignorance of good and truth, and of evil and falsity; but as he commits himself to one or the other, so the degrees are opened and closed on the one side or the other.

P. 119^o. So long as the ultimates are kept closed by the man himself, no purification can take place in the interiors . . . 120.

139. Love opens the interiors of the mind, but fear closes them; and when they are closed, man thinks but little . . . When fear seizes the external of thought, the internal of thought is closed; and when this is closed, man can no longer act from freedom according to his reason, and so cannot be reformed. The fear which . . . closes the internal, is especially the fear of the loss of honours or wealth; but the fear of civil punishments, and of external ecclesiastical punishments, does not close the internal of thought . . .

—^o. Fear . . . closes the internal of thought from above against the influx of Heaven: this is said to be closed when it completely makes one with the external . . .

187^o. They so attribute it, because their understanding is closed from above, and open only from below; thus closed towards Heaven and open towards the world . . .

M. 17^o. The windows and doors of the houses are then closed . . .

R. 174. 'He that hath the key of David, and openeth and no one shutteth, and shutteth and no one openeth' (Rev.iii.7)=Who alone is omnipotent to save. . . To open so that no one shuts, and to shut so that no one opens=to bring out of Hell and introduce into Heaven, thus to save.

177. 'And no one can shut it' (ver.8)=that Hell does not prevail against it.

330. So long as they were conjoined with the ultimate Heaven, the internals of their will and love were closed . . .

496. 'To shut heaven, so that it raineth not rain' (Rev.xi.6)=that they cannot receive any truth of the Church from Heaven.

922. 'Its gates shall not be shut by day, for there shall be no night there' (Rev.xxi.25)=that those will be continually received into the New Jerusalem who are in truths from the good of love from the Lord, because there is no falsity of faith there.

T. 402. The interiors of the mind of a sensuous man, which see from the light of Heaven, are closed . . .

720. The Lord does not close Heaven against those who approach (the Holy Supper) unworthily; this He never does to any man up to the end of his life in this world; but the man closes it against himself . . . It is otherwise after death; then Heaven is closed, and cannot be opened to them . . .

D. 740. In this Earth the door is closed towards Heaven.

1629. So closed were they as to the interiors . . .

1630. Their ideas were closed . . .

1639. Hence may appear what is the quality of ideas which are not closed . . . As to the quality of closed ideas . . . 1790.

1923. In the ideas of little children there is nothing as yet closed through falsities . . .

1924. In proportion as man advances in age, and is immersed in worldly and corporeal things, all his ideas are closed towards Heaven; nor are they opened except in those in whom the Lord is pleased to open them.

1940. When evil Spirits intend evil to the good, the communication is at once closed. Ex.

1950^e. (The learned) have closed the way to interior things.

1952. The thoughts of critics were represented before me as closed lines . . .

1953. They thus close more and more the interior sense, or the way to intelligence of truth and good.

1987¹. Their understanding of the Lord's prayer . . . was not so closed as with others.

2558. Whatever is done artificially, closes the way towards the interiors. Ex.

2958. Sometimes the manifest communication with the world of interior Spirits, thus with the angelic Heaven, is closed.

E. 162^o. How the internal man is closed.

— . When once the internal man is closed, there reigns the love of self or the love of the world, or both together, and forms the external man into the complete opposite of the internal man.

206. 'Openeth, and no one shutteth; and shutteth and no one openeth'=intromitting into Heaven all who are in the faith of charity, and removing from Heaven all who are not. Ex.

208. 'Behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no one can shut it'=that they are intromitted into Heaven, and that it is denied to no one of that character.

223^o. 'The cities of the south are shut' (Jer.xiii.19)=that all the truths of doctrine are, which otherwise would have been in light.

298¹. 'The gates shall not be shut' (Is.xlv.1)=that from omniscience all things are manifest to the Lord, and that from omnipotence He has the Power of saving.

376²⁰. 'Every house is shut, that no one may come in' (Is.xxiv.10)=no longer any good and wisdom with man.

644. 'To shut heaven'=not to receive any influx from Heaven.

Close. Clausula. A.804. 899. 1018. 1058. 4667.

Close up. Constipare, Constipatio.

A. 8232. Casting into Hell is nothing but a closing up by mere falsities . . .

W. 340. Packs them with matters from the earth . . .

T. 160². I saw a paved way in the north, so blocked up with Spirits . . .

Close up. Ocludere.

Closing up. Oclusio.

A. 3769. That the Word was closed up. Sig.

—^e. The Word is said to be closed up when it is understood only as to the sense of the letter, and everything therein is taken for doctrine; and it is still more closed up, when those things which favour the cupidities of the love of self and of the world are acknowledged as doctrinal things.

—². What it is for the Word to be closed up, may be very evident from the Jews . . . who are of such a character as to utterly close up, the Word as to interior things.

3773. That meanwhile it was closed up. Sig. and Ex.

—^e. In proportion as this is done, the Word is closed up.

4844^e. So closed up are their minds . . .

5126⁴. In the same proportion he closes up the Rational . . . 5128². —³.

5828³. Hence the influx of good withdraws itself, and so the internal through which the influx comes is closed; and through this closing up there results stupidity in spiritual things . . .

6564³. This closing up penetrates towards the exteriors more and more, according to the life of evil, and thence the persuasion of falsity . . .

7879^e. The Hells are therefore kept tightly closed up by the Lord.

8622³. Genii would also enter into the hereditary evils of the old will . . . which yet are closed up. Refs.

9509⁴. As soon as truths separated from good want to enter, Heaven, thus the way to the Lord, is closed up.

9962. When (the Israelites) were in what is holy, their interiors were closed up . . . It would have been quite different if internal things had not been closed up with them . . . —^e.

10396³. With those who are in corporeal and earthly loves the interiors are closed up; and those with whom the interiors are closed up do not acknowledge anything internal . . .

10420. That into which Heaven should operate is not present, because it is closed up . . .

10490. Closing up as to the influx of good and truth, and of things in affinity with them, lest there be any reception and communication. Sig.

—^e. 'To kill'=to take away spiritual life . . . here, therefore, to close up . . .

—^e. The closing up of what is internal with that nation. Sig. and Ex. 10492².

10492. The plenary closing up of what is internal. Sig.

—². Evils and falsities are what close up the internal man; or, what is the same, worldly, earthly, and corporeal love do so when they reign . . . The reason the internal man is closed up by them, is that these loves are opposite to heavenly loves . . .

—^e. To prevent this (profanation), the internal man with (the Israelites) was plenary closed up: that it was plenary closed up, is very manifest from this . . .

10500². Two things were requisite; one, that the internal with them should be completely closed up . . . For when the internal is completely closed up, the internal of the Church and of worship is neither denied nor acknowledged . . .

—^e. What is negative not only closes up the internal . . .

10583. The closing up of the internal . . . of the Church, of worship, and of the Word, which is over their external. Sig.

10698. When there is no internal, that is, when it is closed up, there is communication with Hell.

10706. Therefore internal things were closed up against them. Sig.

10707². All who do this see nothing from Heaven; their internal, which should be open into Heaven, is closed up . . .

F. 46. By blind faith they have closed up their eyes.

W. 253. The spiritual degree not open, but still not closed up. Ex.

—². The lot of those with whom the spiritual degree is not open, but still is not closed up . . .

254. The character of the natural man with whom the spiritual degree is completely closed up. Ex.

—². This degree is contracted, and by contraction closed up, with those especially . . . who are in the love of dominion from self-love . . . It is also closed up in those who, from the love of the world, are in the insane cupidity of possessing the goods of others; but not to so great an extent.

—^e. The contraction or closing up of this degree is like the retorsion of a spiral into the opposite; which is the reason why, after this degree has been closed up, it turns back the light of Heaven . . . 263².

—³. With these men not only is this degree itself closed up, but also the higher region of the natural degree, which is called the Rational.

261. From this it is evident, that if the spiritual mind is closed up, the natural mind continually acts against those things which are of the spiritual mind . . . From which it follows, that when the spiritual mind is closed up, the natural mind reacts against all things of Heaven . . .

262^e. When a man is such, he successively closes up the spiritual mind closer and closer: confirmations of evil by falsities especially close it up.

268. Hence confirmations of evil and falsity are closings up of Heaven . . .

269². The malignity of evil increases according to the degree of the closing up of the spiritual mind; for thus the natural mind also is closed above.

P. 70². The understanding, being closed up in Divine things, from religion, could advance no further.

M. 233⁵. Everything above the Rational was closed up with this confinner; and only that which is below the Rational was open.

431^e. All these places in Hell are roofed over and closed up . . .

464. As soon as any Christian without a really serious reason adjoins a concubine to a wife, Heaven is closed up against him . . .

—^e. After Heaven has been closed up he becomes a spiritual insanity.

500. Heaven is closed up against adulterers, and Hell is open.

—⁶. As soon as a man actually becomes an adulterer, Heaven is closed up against him; on the closing up of which, God is not acknowledged . . .

T. 12¹⁰. In spiritual light their understanding appeared open below, but closed up above. Why.

13⁴. They close up the higher things of the mind against God, and open the lower things to the devil . . .

14². The man who by a denial of God has excommunicated himself from the Church, and thus from Heaven, has closed up the internal man as to the will . . . But he cannot close up his internal man as to the understanding . . .

34³. If he then closes up the highest natural degree, which corresponds to the highest celestial one, he becomes as to love like a beast of the earth; but if he closes up the middle natural degree, which corresponds to the middle spiritual one, he becomes as to love like a fox, and as to the sight of the understanding like a bird of evening; but if he also closes up the ultimate natural degree as to its Spiritual, he becomes as to love like a wild beast, and as to the understanding of truth like a fish. 40².

—^e. If this degree as to its Spiritual is completely closed up, which takes place when God is denied, and Satan is worshipped, the reception of life from God may be compared to the influx of light into opaque things . . .

77³. The life of evil and the faith of falsity thence has closed up the interiors of your minds . . .

345³. A closed up or blind faith . . . 346².

501³. The higher region of the mind is then closed up . . .

508⁵. Falsities close up the understanding, and truths open it.

E. 152⁴. 'He hath closed your eyes' (Is.xxix.10)=no understanding of truth. 376³². 577⁷.

376³². The perception of good is closed up by a life of evil . . . and the understanding of truth is closed up by principles of falsity . . .

411⁷. 'To shut up' (Dent.xxxii.30)=to be deprived.

Closure. Clausura.

A. 9534. 'Thou shalt make for it a closure (border) of a span round about' (Ex.xxv.25)=conjunction there with truth from the Divine. 'A closure'=the ultimate of termination, because it was outside the border; thus conjunction with truth and with the Divine. Ex.

9535. 'Thou shalt make a border of gold for the closure thereof round about' (id.)=the termination of the sphere of Divine good . . . 'The closure'=conjunction with truth from the Divine.

9539. Over against the closure shall be rings for houses to the staves' (ver.27)=power thence derived. The closure, over against which the rings were to be=conjunction in ultimates with truth from the Divine.

10187. The reason the border was made of gold, was that it represented a closure from good.

M. 44⁵. It prevents the passing of that love beyond the enclosure of the heart.

E. 388⁹. The separation of truth from good through falsity and evil is signified by 'I will rend the closure of their heart' (Hos.xiii.8).

Cloth. See RAG-pannus.

Clothe. Amicire.

Clothing. Amictus.

See GARMENT, CLOAK-amiculum, and PUT ON.

A. 2296. Littlechildren seen most handsomely clothed. H.337.

2576³. Rational truths are like a veil or clothing for spiritual truths. Ex.

— . The interiors of the Angels shine forth from their faces; their exteriors are represented in both their bodies and clothing; so that anyone there can know their quality from their mere clothing . . .

— . With all things mentioned in the Word, the exteriors are as a veil or dress . . .

3957⁴. No cares for clothing, etc., there.

9003. The non-deprivation of the interior life, which is 'food;' or of the exterior life, which is 'clothing,' or 'covering.' Sig.

— . 'Covering,' or 'clothing'=the support of exterior life . . .

9468⁴. To clothe in scarlet' (2 Sam.ii.24)=to instruct concerning the truths which are of the good of mutual love; thus concerning truths from a celestial origin.

9814. They who are in the Spiritual Kingdom appear clothed.

10160. What more do we need, said they, than food and clothing?

10406². 'Covering,' and 'clothing' (Is. xxx. 22)=external appearances which are induced, or with which they are invested.

P. 220⁵. Necessaries; which are food, clothing, and a habitation, are put off at death, and such things are received as are like them as to the outward appearance, but not as to essence.

R. 814. 'To be arrayed' (Rev.xix.8)=to be instructed in truths. E.1222.

M. 15. (The dress of the prince and his councillors. Des.)

75⁴. (The dress of the male and female Angels of the most ancient Heavens. Des.)

78⁴. (The dress of the Spirits of the iron age. Des.)

266. (The dress of a prince, and of a priest of one of the heavenly Societies. Des.)

T. 60². The covering of every muscle . . . clothes the individual motor fibres from itself.

331². Unless he has first . . . clothed himself in a wedding garment.

537^e. In Heaven they are clothed in garments of a red colour ; and after they have been initiated into the goods of the New Church, they are clothed in garments of a crimson colour . . .

E. 1166. 'To be clothed—circumamictiri—' with these things (Rev. xviii. 16)=the appearance in externals.

J. (Post.) 317. (The dress of Spirits. Des.)

Cloud. Nubes.

See under PILLAR.

A. 49. 'Clouds of the heavens' (Matt. xxiv. 30)=the literal sense of the Word. 2135, Pref., III.

488^e. 'Day of cloud' (Ezek. xxx. 3)=falsity.

1042. 'I have given the bow in the cloud' (Gen. ix. 13)=the state of the regenerate spiritual man.

1043. 'A cloud'=the dim light in which is the spiritual man relatively to the celestial . . . The dimness with him, here called 'a cloud,' is falsity, which is the same as his intellectual proprium ; and when innocence, charity, and mercy from the Lord are insinuated into this proprium, this cloud no longer appears as falsity . . .

—². The Lord through charity operates into their cloud, and hence arises light as when the sun strikes on a cloud, which thus becomes brighter and is variegated with colours ; thus also in the cloud comes forth the likeness of a bow ; the thinner therefore the cloud is, that is, the more it is intermingled with truths of faith, the more beautiful is the bow ; but the denser this cloud is, that is, the fewer truths of faith it consists of, the less beautiful is the bow . . .

—³. All appearances of truth are clouds, in which a man is when in the sense of the letter of the Word, for the Word is spoken according to appearances ; but when he simply believes the Word, although he remains in appearances, and has charity, this cloud is comparatively thin ; in this cloud conscience is formed by the Lord with a man within the Church.

— All ignorance of truth is also clouds in which man is when he does not know what is the truth of faith . . . In this cloud conscience is formed by the Lord with the man outside the Church . . .

— All falsities also are clouds, but these clouds are darkness, which prevails with those who have either a false conscience, or none at all.

— These are, in general, the qualities of clouds ; as to their quantities, there are such clouds with man, and so dense, that if he knew of them he would wonder that any rays of light from the Lord could ever pass through them . . . He who supposes that he has the least cloud, sometimes has the most ; and he who believes he has the most cloud, has the least.

—⁴. Such are the clouds with the spiritual man ; but with the celestial man there are not such great clouds. Ex.

1044². All the dimness in his intellectual, or all the density of his cloud, is from (his old will) ; it continually flows in thence, and in proportion as it flows in, the cloud becomes dense in the intellectual part, but in proportion as it is removed, the cloud is attenuated.

1047. 'In beclouding—obnubilando—Me with a cloud upon the earth' (ver. 14)=when on account of man's voluntary proprium the faith of charity does not appear. Ex.

1059². There is not so great a cloud in the intellectual part of the gentiles, as there generally is with those who are called Christians. Why.

1101^e. The more he is instructed, the more is dispelled the cloud of his intellectual part, in which are charity and conscience.

1158². Their ignorance is here expressed by 'clouds and thick darkness' (Ps. xcvi. 2).

1512. The spheres of phantasies, when presented to view, appear as clouds, more or less dense according to the quality of the phantasy.

1524. There appeared a kind of dimness, like an opaque cloud. . . Such is the light of the World of Spirits relatively to that of Heaven.

1764. Speech by rising and falling clouds.

1832². These things are what constitute the cloud of the intellectual part.

2162¹⁵. Natural and corporeal things with man are the source of clouds.

2716. As the sun in dense clouds variegated at dawn.

2761². 'To ride in the clouds' (Ps. lxxviii. 4)=the understanding of the Word as to interior things, or the internal sense ; 'clouds'=the Word in the letter, in which is the internal sense.

3221. Angelic discourse is sometimes represented by clouds, and by the forms, colours, movements, and shifting of the clouds ; affirmatives of truth, by bright and ascending clouds, negatives by dark and descending clouds ; affirmatives of falsity by dusky and black clouds ; agreement and disagreement by various associations and dissociations of clouds . . .

4060³. The sun always shines, but clouds intervene.

—⁷. They shall see the Son of Man coming in the clouds of the heavens with power and great glory' (Matt. xxiv. 30)=that then the Word will be revealed as to its internal sense . . . 'Clouds'=the literal sense. 8427⁴.

4391². 'Clouds of the heavens' (2 Sam. xxii. 12)=the Word in the letter.

—³. 'A cloud by day' (Is. iv. 5)=the literal sense of the Word.

4951. They are often punished, and are then let down more deeply, and veiled over as it were with a cloud, which is the sphere of malice exhaling from them.

5566. He appeared as a black cloud around which were wavering stars. 7803².

5696^e. Evils . . . are like dense clouds before the sun.

5922⁶. The Word as to its external sense is in a cloud, because human minds are in darkness ; wherefore if the Word were not in a cloud it would be understood by scarcely anyone, and the holy things which are of the internal sense would also be profaned by the evil in the world ; therefore the Lord says in Isaiah, 'Jehovah will create upon every dwelling-place of Mount Zion, and upon her assemblies, a cloud by day' . . . (iv.5). Hence also it was that upon the tabernacle there appeared a cloud by day. III.

[A.5922]. In like manner the cloud and glory on Mount Sinai (Ex.xxiv). The reason a cloud was seen, and the glory of Jehovah, when Moses went up into the mount, was that he therein represented the law, that is, the historical Word.

—⁹. The truth itself in the spiritual Heaven appears before the eyes as a bright cloud, and the good in that truth appears there as fire ; thus the cloud variegated by the fire presents marvellous appearances, which are the glory in the external sense . . .

6212². These Spirits appeared like little black clouds . . .

6494. They said that what is fortunate was represented to them by a bright cloud, and what was unfortunate by a dusky cloud ; and that when a dusky cloud appeared with me, it was impossible for me to win.

6534². 'Extol Him Who rideth upon the clouds,' 'Clouds'=the literal sense of the Word.

6609. The thoughts and speech of Societies . . . have sometimes been represented to me by clouds which rose and fell in the azure ; from the forms, colours, tenuity and density of the clouds, it has been given to know what was flowing in . . . Falsities were represented by black clouds.

6614. An abundance of ideas from the angelic Heaven was presented to view as a bright cloud distinguished into molecules ; each molecule, which consisted of innumerable things, produced a single simple idea with the Spirit . . .

6752⁸. It is said 'in the mist of a cloud' (Ex.xix.9), because 'a cloud'=the Word in the letter. Refs.

6832. Because that people was only in external things, when Moses entered to the Lord upon Sinai, it is said that 'he entered into a cloud' . . . 'A cloud'=the external of the Word ; consequently it is also a representative of the Church regarded in the external form.

6849. Lest the Angels should be hurt by the influx of heat from the Lord as a Sun, each of them is veiled over with a certain thin and suitable cloud, by which the influent heat from that Sun is tempered. —³. H.120.

8106. 'By day in a pillar of a cloud' (Ex.xiii.21)=that when there is a state of enlightenment, it is tempered by dimness of truth. . . 'A cloud'=dimness of truth, because a cloud takes away the clearness of the light from the sun, and also tempers it. It is said in the Word that Jehovah appeared in a cloud, that He was encompassed with a cloud, also that clouds were under His feet ; where by 'a cloud' is meant dimness of truth ; specifically, the literal sense of the Word . . . This was what was signified by 'the cloud,' when the Lord appeared to Peter, James, and John in glory, etc. The literal sense of the Word is called 'a cloud,' because the internal sense, which is called 'glory,' cannot be comprehended by man, except by a regenerate one, who also is enlightened. Ex.

8197. 'It was a cloud and darkness' (Ex.xiv.20)=the condensation of falsity from evil on the one side. . . 'Cloud'=falsity.

8242. One of the Angels of Jupiter appeared behind a bright cloud.

8443. 'The glory of Jehovah was seen in the cloud' (Ex.xvi.10)=the presence of the Lord in truth accommodated to perception. . . 'Cloud'=the literal sense of the Word, thus truth accommodated to perception. —².

—³. That 'a cloud'=truth accommodated to perception, is from the representatives in the other life . . . for the speech of the Angels of the lower Heaven appears as a bright cloud, varied in its form, density, and tenuity according to the quality of the truths.

8627. They call the sciences clouds . . .

8628. Like dense clouds before the intellectual sight . . .

8781. 'Behold I come unto thee in the density of a cloud' (Ex.xix.9)=that this shall take place under an appearance which is in the highest degree natural.

—'A cloud'=the Word in the letter. Refs. 9031², Refs. 9372^e. 9405^e.

—^e. In its internal sense there is light comparatively like that of the sun above the clouds . . . wherefore it is said in the Word that Jehovah is borne upon the clouds, that He rides on them, that He flies upon them, that He has His chamber upon them, that the Lord will come in the clouds of heaven ; which would never have been said of Jehovah . . . unless they had signified the light of truth in which He is in Heaven ; and 'a cloud,' the shade of truth, in which are they who are below Heaven.

8814. 'A heavy cloud was on the mountain' (ver.16) =the Divine state relatively to those who were to receive . . . thus the Word in the letter ; here, truth Divine accommodated to the people from Jacob. As they were in great darkness as to truths Divine, it is said 'a heavy cloud ;' and above, 'the density of a cloud' . . . This is the reason Jehovah appeared to them in a dense and heavy cloud ; in like manner as in the other life ; where they who are in falsities from evil are encompassed with a dense and black cloud according to the quality and quantity of the falsities.

8816. The Divine is such as no one can endure except in a kind of cloud, and thus accommodated to reception . . . But those who are in evil are terrified at the presence of the Divine, and therefore flee away, and are then enveloped in their own falsities, as with a dusky cloud, and so are hidden.

8916. In the internal form, Divine truth or the Word is like light and flame ; but in the external form is like a cloud and smoke.

8946^e. Therefore the Angels themselves in Heaven are covered with a cloud ; and all in Hell are veiled over with dense mists.

9405². The literal sense of the Word is called 'a cloud,' because it is in the light of the world.

9406². 'A cloud'=the Word in the letter, or Divine truth in ultimates.

9408². The clouds which are sometimes seen under the sky in the other life are of varied signification according to their colours, transparency, and advancements.

9427. 'A cloud covered the mountain' (Ex.xxiv.15) = the external of the Word . . . covering the internal, and also covering Heaven.

9430. 'The cloud covered it' (ver.16)=the ultimate of the Word, which is thus relatively obscure. 'A cloud'=the ultimate of the Word, or the sense of its letter: the reason this sense is called 'a cloud,' is that relatively to the internal sense, it is in obscurity. 9433.

9433². 'A cloud by day' (Is.iv.5)=the veiling over of truth Divine; thus accommodation according to apprehension.

—³. 'The clouds' which He 'maketh His chariot' (Ps.civ.3)=truths from which is doctrine.

9435. 'Moses entered into the midst of the cloud' (Ex.xxiv.18)=the Word in the external sense.

9582. Near the end of our solar system there first appeared a cloud, bright but dense . . .

9807⁵. 'The clouds of heaven' in which He will come = the literal sense of the Word.

10314. The Spirits of that Earth . . . appear like clouds . . . D.1669.

10551. 'A cloud'=the external of the Word; and also the obscurity of the Word with those who are not in enlightenment; and dense obscurity with those who are in the external of the Word separated from its internal. Refs.

10574¹². 'Clouds' (Matt.xxiv.30)=Divine truth such as it is in the light of the word; thus such as it is with men. . . Therefore the Word as to its external sense is meant by 'a cloud.' 10604¹.

—¹³. Hence it is that in the Word a cloud is also called 'glory.' Ill.

—¹⁴. As the Divine appeared as a cloud, by 'a cloud' is signified the Divine presence; and where the Divine presence is, the Divine truth is; for the Divine does not appear without it, for it is in it, and is it; hence it is that cloud in these passages is called 'glory.'

10614. 'Jehovah descended in a cloud, and stood with him there' (Ex.xxxiv.5)=the external of the Word in which is the Divine.

10810. A dark cloud was seen towards the east descending from some height, which as it descended gradually became lucid and assumed the human form . . . This cloud was an angelic Society, in the midst of which was the Lord. 10811. H.69.

H. 1². 'Clouds' (Matt.xxiv.30)=the sense of the letter of the Word. J.28². S.49². R.24. T.776.

—(k). 'Clouds,' in the Word,=the Word in the letter; or the sense of its letter. Refs.

210. The thoughts which are in the middle Heaven appear as something lucid in the ultimate Heaven, and sometimes as a bright cloud of varied hue: from that cloud; its ascent, descent, and form, it is also in some degree known what they are saying.

549. Evils and the falsities thence are as black clouds, which interpose between the sun and man's eye . . . The black clouds there, are falsities from evil . . . In proportion as anyone in that world is in falsities from evil, he is encompassed by such a cloud; which is black and dense according to the degree of the evil. 585^e.

583. The Heavens do not appear to Spirits . . . except occasionally as mists or bright clouds.

C. J. 11. Before the Last Judgment . . . it was as when the beams of the sun are cut off by a black interposing cloud. 30. R.804. See D.152. 223. 439.

28. The Lord was seen in a bright cloud with Angels, and a sound as of trumpets was heard from it; which was a sign representative of the protection of the Angels by the Lord, and of the gathering together of the good from every quarter.

S. 48. 'The bright cloud' which covered the disciples (Matt.xvii.5)=the Word in the sense of the letter; wherefore a voice was heard from it, which said, 'This is My beloved Son; hear ye Him' . . .

L. 86¹. See BLOCK UP, at this ref.

W. 147. The atmospheres are the recipients of clouds . . .

— According as the interiors . . . are veiled round by such clouds, is he a receptacle of the Divine Proceeding: by clouds are meant spiritual clouds, which are thoughts, which, if they come out of truths, agree with the Divine wisdom, but if out of falsities, disagree; wherefore also, when thoughts from truths in the Spiritual World are presented to sight, they appear as shining white clouds; and thoughts from falsities as black clouds.

R. 24. 'He cometh with the clouds of heaven' (Rev. i.7)=that the Lord will reveal Himself in the sense of the letter of the Word, and will open its spiritual sense at the end of the Church.

—². Clouds appear in the Spiritual World equally as in the natural world; but the clouds in the Spiritual World appear below the Heavens with those who are in the sense of the letter of the Word; darker or brighter according to their understanding and reception of the Word . . . Bright clouds are Divine truth veiled over with appearances of truth, such as is the Word in the letter with those who are in truths; and dark clouds are Divine truth covered with fallacies from confirmed appearances, such as is the Word in the letter with those who are in falsities: I have seen these clouds often, and it was evident whence and what they are.

— As the Lord, after the glorification of His Human, became Divine truth or the Word even in ultimates, He said to the high priest, that hereafter they should see the Son of Man coming in the clouds of heaven.

— But His saying to the disciples, that in the consummation of the age the sign of the Son of Man should appear, and that they should see Him coming in the clouds of heaven with power and glory=that at the end of the Church, when the Last Judgment will take place, He will appear in the Word, and reveal its spiritual sense.

—⁴. In other parts of the Word also 'a cloud' means Divine truth in ultimates, and thence the Word in the letter. Ill. T.776.

— 'To ride upon the clouds'=to be in the wisdom of the Word.

—^e. At His transfiguration, the Lord caused Himself to be seen as the Word; therefore a cloud overshadowed them; and a voice was heard out of the cloud; a voice out of the cloud means out of the Word.

[R.] 341. Then a dusky cloud overshadowed them . . . M.233⁷.

466. Encompassed with a cloud, and a rainbow over his head' (Rev.x.1)=His Divine Natural and Divine Spiritual. 'The cloud' with which he was encompassed =the Divine Natural; wherefore 'a cloud'=the Word in its natural sense, which also is from Him, thus is His and is Himself.

513. 'They ascended into heaven in a cloud' (Rev.xi.12)=raising into Heaven, and conjunction with the Lord there through the Divine truth of the Word in the sense of its letter . . . 'A cloud'=the sense of the letter of the Word, and through this there is conjunction with the Lord, and consociation with the Angels.

642. 'I saw, and behold a white cloud, and upon the cloud One sat like unto the Son of Man' (Rev.xiv.14)=the Lord as to the Word. 'A cloud'=the Word in the sense of the letter; and 'a white cloud,' the Word in the sense of the letter such as it is interiorly; and by 'the Son of Man' is meant the Lord as to the Word, wherefore it is said, 'upon the cloud One sat like unto the Son of Man.' 645.

—². The Lord often said that they should see the Son of Man coming in the clouds of heaven . . . which means that when He comes to judgment, He will appear in the sense of the letter of the Word; and as He is coming now, He appears in the Word by revealing that there is a spiritual sense in every particular of the sense of the letter of the Word, that in this sense He alone is treated of, and that He alone is the God of Heaven and earth; these are the things which are meant by His advent in the clouds of heaven. Ill.

—³. 'A cloud'=the sense of the letter of the Word, because this sense is natural; and Divine truth in natural light appears as a cloud in the sight of the Angels, who are in spiritual light; as a white cloud to those who are in genuine truths from the sense of the letter of the Word, as a dark cloud to those who are not in genuine truths, as a black cloud to those who are in falsities, and as a black cloud mingled with fire to those who are in faith separated from charity, because they are in evils of life.

M. 7^e. The mist receded, and a bright cloud veiled them over, in which there was an aura of wisdom . . .

285². Wives are quick to see the clouds in their husbands' minds.

315. (A cloud seen divided into little clouds—nubeculas, some azure and some opaque, which were in collision with each other . . .)

—^e. The bright cloud then appeared without the combating rays, which, penetrating through the roof, entered and illuminated the walls.

T. 112^e. Then towards the right I saw a cloud of an opaline colour, and towards the left a dusky cloud, and under both the appearance of a falling shower; under the latter as of rain at the end of autumn, and under the former as of dew at the beginning of spring.

134. Suddenly, as they were talking about redemption, a black cloud gathering from the north covered the opening . . . This black cloud was divided in the middle, and through the cleft were seen Angels sent down from Heaven, who dispersed the cloud on each side, so that the temple again became full of light.

136^e. I saw that gymnasium covered over with a dark cloud . . .

619². The second sphere (from modern Christendom), which takes away faith, is like a black cloud in winter time . . .

776². In the Spiritual World there are clouds equally as in the natural world, but from another origin . . . There are sometimes lucid clouds over the angelic Heavens, and dusky clouds over the Hells; and lucid clouds over the angelic Heavens signify obscurity there from the literal sense of the Word, and the dispersion of those clouds signifies that they are then in clearness from its spiritual sense: but the dusky clouds over the Hells signify the falsification and profanation of the Word. The origin of this signification of clouds in the Spiritual World is that the light which proceeds from the Lord as a Sun there signifies Divine truth . . .

821^e. On entering the Spiritual World none of the Roman Catholics see Heaven where the Angels are; there is as it were a dark cloud over them . . .

D. 1233. The Spirits appeared to be expanded like a thin cloud—nubecula . . . which was seen winding itself around, at last into the form of a spiral, and so it went upwards, and passed away.

1676. The better ones of these Spirits are like a black cloud with something bright and human interspersed, devoid of any form, as is wont to be the case with a radiated cloud . . .

1745^e. A Spirit, to whom such a one applied himself like a dark cloud . . .

2274^e. When the Spirits came, there appeared to me little clouds—nubeculae—conglomerated in various forms, partly ending in sharp points . . . The clouds thus conglomerated were black . . . I thought that they were insane Spirits . . . for such were signified by clumps of cloud variously conglomerated together.

2380^e. Such boilings of clouds appear to them.

2632^e. The speech of interior Spirits appears to my view like a little cloud—nubecula, azure and white. Ex.

2633. In the Word, bright white clouds mean truths, and black clouds, falsities . . . But to those who are in falsity, the black clouds appear bright white, and the bright white clouds appear dark; as on Sinai, and elsewhere . . .

3056. They were seen by me behind a cloud . . .

3512. They were represented as a thin, bright cloud . . .

3658^e. He turned him into a cloud . . .

3702^e. The ideas of interior Spirits represented by clouds. Des.

3801. At once there appeared a dark cloud beneath him, into which he plunged, and disappeared.

3996. There appeared black clouds, which were like black devils, and struck horror . . . 3999.

4018. On the representation of angelic speech by clouds. Examps.

4073. A certain one seen as a cloud . . . 4075.

4088. The reasonings of Spirits seen represented by a bright cloud in the azure, which raised, depressed, and bent itself about.

4573. They are there (in Hell) under a dense cloud, through which their artifices cannot penetrate. 4579^e. 4580.

E. 36. 'Behold, He cometh with clouds' (Rev.i.7)=that the Lord will reveal Himself in the Word through the internal sense . . . 'Clouds'=Divine truths in ultimates, thus the Word in the letter . . .

— . The reason 'clouds'=Divine truths in ultimates, is from appearances in the Spiritual World : clouds appear there in varied light ; in the third Heaven in flaming light, in the second in bright white light, and in the first in a denser light ; and everyone there knows that they signify Divine truth from the Lord through the Angels ; for when the Divine truth which proceeds from the Lord . . . passes through the Angels, it appears as a cloud, rarer or denser according to their intelligence.

—². 'To come in the clouds of heaven'=the revelation of the Divine truth concerning Himself in the Word.

—³. Jehovah is in His Divine truth, for this proceeds from Him ; consequently, this is here meant by 'clouds.' III.

64². 'The bright cloud' (at the transfiguration)=the Word in the letter in which is the internal sense.

69^e. 'A cloud'=the external of the Word, or the Word as to the letter ; and as 'a cloud'=the external of the Word, it also=the external of the Church and of worship . . .

80^e. Re-creation, which is effected through accommodation to reception, appears in the Spiritual World as a cloud : with such a cloud are all the Societies there veiled over, denser or thinner according to reception . . .

220¹⁰. 'A cloud'=Divine truth.

272¹⁰. 'A white cloud' (Rev.xiv.14)=the literal sense of the Word. Refs.

273². 'The clouds dropped waters' (Ps.lxxvii.17)=truths from the sense of the letter of the Word.

281¹⁰. 'He shall come up as a cloud' (Jer.iv.13)=falsities.

282⁵. 'To fly as a cloud, and as doves to the windows (Is.lx.8)=searching for and investigation of truth from the sense of the letter of the Word . . . 406¹⁰.

283⁸. 'Who maketh the clouds His chariot' (Ps.civ.3)=the doctrine of truth from the literal sense of the Word.

294¹⁰. The external or literal sense as to truths is meant by 'a cloud by day' (Is.iv.5).

355¹⁸. Falsities are signified by 'a cloud' (Jer.iv.29).

—²⁰. 'Clouds' (Ezek.xxxviii.16)=falsities of evil.

401⁸. 'A faithful witness in the clouds' (Ps.lviii.37)=the Word in the sense of the letter.

403³⁰. 'The clouds' with which Jehovah covers the heavens (Ps.cxlvii.8)=external truths, such as are in the sense of the letter of the Word.

411¹⁹. 'To go into clouds' (Jer.iv.29)=into no acknowledgment of truth.

419²². As the influx of the Divine descends out of the Heavens towards the earths which are below, it becomes denser and appears as clouds, and with the evil, as dense and opaque ones, according to the quantity and quality of their evil : these clouds are appearances of falsity from evil, originating from the spheres of their life . . . When the Divine is sent forth powerfully from the Lord as a Sun, and flows into these dense and opaque clouds, there arises a storm . . .

422¹². 'A morning without clouds' (2 Sam.xxiii.4)=the Divine truth pure.

455⁴. 'The clouds of the heavens' (Dan.vii.13)=the Word in the letter, in which He is said to come, because the Word treats of Him . . .

481⁸. 'He shall repress the heat with the shadow of a cloud' (Is.xxv.5)=that He will protect from the concupiscence of falsity . . .

504¹⁰. 'A cloud by day'=protection lest they should be injured by too much light. —¹¹. 594¹⁵.

594. 'Encompassed with a cloud'=the ultimate of the Word. . . 'A cloud'=Divine truth in ultimates ; thus the Word in the sense of the letter. —². III.

— . In the lowest Heaven the Divine truth which proceeds from the Lord has a thin watery appearance, above which there is a vapour like a cloud . . . There is a similar appearance when the Angels of the higher Heavens are speaking about Divine truths ; their speech being then presented to those who are in the lowest Heaven under the appearance of a cloud, which flies hither and thither ; and from its flight, brightness, and form, the more intelligent Angels there know what the Angels of the higher Heavens are talking about ; hence it is evident whence it is that 'a cloud'=Divine truth in ultimates.

—². The Word in the letter was represented by the cloud which overshadowed the disciples (at the transfiguration), and into which they entered ; for the disciples represented the Church, which at that time and afterwards was in truths from the sense of the letter only ; and as revelations and answers are effected through Divine truth in ultimates . . . a voice was heard out of the cloud, saying, 'This is My beloved Son, hear ye Him ;' that is, He is the Divine truth, or the Word.

—³. Hence it is evident that the advent of the Lord in the clouds of heaven, with glory=His revelation in the sense of the letter of the Word from its spiritual sense.

—⁴. 'Jehovah riding upon a swift cloud' (Is.xix.1)=that the Lord enlightens the understanding with truths . . . 'A swift cloud'=truth.

